HOME-FRONT PSYCHOLOGY

A LOT of our home-town soldiers and sailors may be coming home in the next few months. Some will be coming home to stay and others to enjoy a long-coveted thirty-day furlough.

Naturally the people in this town will be eager to hear about their experiences. But we must be careful about prying them with questions. They will want our companionship and attention, but they may not want to talk about war.

We must remember that they are having a vacation from war and help make it a complete vacation unburdened by the countless questions which we would like to ask them. Some will want to "get things off their chest"—and to them we will be eager to listen. But others will want to get as far away from war as they can and will resent constant cross-examination.

Good, common-sense psychology on the home front will mean much to these boys on leave. Let's not urge them to re-live the war unless they want to. It is our duty to help them enjoy a period of complete relaxation and rest.

TOMORROW'S JOBS

WHERE do jobs come from? There may be a lot of different answers to that question. Some people seem to be getting the idea, more and more, that when the war is over jobs will come from the government. Others think it is up to big business to provide jobs for all.

But it seems to us that the majority of new jobs should result, as they always have in this country, from the initiative and ambition of thousands of individuals.

There is still plenty of room in our country for new business, large and small.

A woman in this very town may have a recipe for a delicious food item which, under proper direction, could be developed into a new food business. A local mechanic may have invented a gadget to defrost windshields which could be sold to every motorist in the country and create jobs for hundreds of people.

There is no limit to the number of jobs which could be created by combination of inventiveness, ambition and capital. Big business, today, is merely a monument to the successful promotion of ideas of the past. There is no reason why ideas planted today cannot bloom into the big businesses of tomorrow.

The market is still wide open for the man who builds a better mousetrap.

TINKERING PAYS DIVIDENDS

A FEW years ago a boy in a drugstore in Medford, Wis., was called "fool around." He was the soda jerk and every moment he had free from pushing a soda under the nose of a paying customer, he was in the back part of the store "monkeying" around with the chemicals. The boy could do this without being fired, for the lad's father owned the store. The boy's name was C. Guy Suits.

People said it'd be better off if he quit this foolin' around and thought only of his soda jerkin'. But the boy was doing both; he did not neglect his job; and in addition he was learning something from his ceaseless experimenting.

By the time he went to the University of Wisconsin, he knew what he wanted to do—experiment in physics; so he entered the physics course. He had to help pay his way through the university by playing the clarinet in bands and orchestras. Every free minute he had away from his clarinet tooting, and his classroom work, he was "fooling around" in the chemical laboratory.

He won a scholarship in chemistry and went to Switzerland for a year. This additional knowledge he had picked up while fooling around was beginning to pay dividends.

In ten years he took out 51 patents. In 1937 he was given a national award by an electrical engineering fraternity for being the "outstanding electrical engineer of the day."

He is now devoting his energies to working out problems to help our war effort.

He says that whatever success has come to him as an engineer, and as a scientist in the field of physics, has come to him from the days when he just "fooled around," not knowing what he was trying to do, not trying to prove anything, just experimenting. He says that a boy should be observed by his parents when he is doing the thing that he does most naturally and without prompting. Guy Suits says that many boys are guided away from these early interests; and, as a result, many boys are forced into lines of work they are not suited for and turn in both jobs. He says a boy will make plenty of mistakes in these "fooling around" days, but he will also find what he is best suited for and has the greatest natural inclination for.

When a boy is in this period of his life, watch him and encourage him, says Dr. C. Guy Suits, who is now one of America's most outstanding scientists and who started in just "fooling around."

BUHR MYSTERY, 137 YEARS OLD SOLVED!

Since her disappearance 132 years ago, the fate of Theodora Burr, daughter of Aaron Burr, has puzzled historians. Now comes new evidence she was seized by the pirate Lafitte and sent him over to the American cause. The mystery was solved by the Weekly with this Sunday's (Feb. 12) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Farmers Race Production Material Pinch

MACHINE SUPPLY OUTPUT TO DROP BELOW DEMANDS

Manufacturers Experience Difficulty Meeting 1945 Quotas.

Asserting that "As long as the war continues, farmers will not be able to buy as much new machinery as they will need in order to maintain their facilities at the greatest efficiency," the Office of War Information declared that output of implements and parts for 1945 will fall short of demands.

At the same time, the War Food administration revealed that little improvement in general farm supplies could be expected over last year, with some items in abundance and others relatively scarce.

Although approximating the pre-war peak, scheduled production of implements and parts will hardly meet requirements even if quotas are fully met, it was said, with the government calling for continued record output and the labor situation growing graver with the possible induction of substantial numbers of 18 to 25-year-old workers into the service.

Because of manpower problems of their own, and difficulties in obtaining such important parts as gears, shafts and bearings, machinery manufacturers will be hard pressed to turn out their full quotas. When production fell behind in certain items last year, manufacturers were permitted to make up the deficits in succeeding months.

To illustrate how bottlenecks can develop in production, some manufacturers have had trouble obtaining castings because of expanded military demands have taxed the existing capacities of foundries. They have had to resort to hiring workers for the burdensome work. In some instances, shorter hours have affected the output of implements containing the material.

The industry's difficulty in meeting its 1945 schedule exists even without any increase in its quotas for the year, OWI said, as originally contemplated by the War Food administration to facilitate farm production goals. WPA's supply program has been held back because of the urgent expansion in war production.

In a review of 1944 farm production achievements that sounded the keynote for continued good work in 1945, the OWI said that more intensive use of existing machinery and labor will be substituted for that of last year, which was one-third higher than the 1933-34 level.

Along with the maximum use of older machinery, the hard work of the farmer and the tractor, side delivery rakes, combine or other haying or harvesting machines will be available during the 1945 crop year than were available during the 1944 crop year.

In revealing that general farm supplies will be somewhat tight in 1945, the WFA drew this picture: Gasoline—Probably enough for farm work as in the past year.

Lumber—Critically short, but not causing any serious difficulty. Farmers have little time for construction and maintenance work. Farmers can get better AAA administration certificates for lumber urgently needed for repairs of farm dwellings and for other buildings.

Metal roofing and siding—About as short as public health.

Copper wire—Supply getting tighter, but shortage of transforming wire may continue to limit demand for wire.

Electric motors of fractional horsepower—About the same as in 1944.

Hand tools—About same as last year. Tools and other miscellaneous supplies will continue to move to farms from stocks of surplus war property, but in uncertain quantities.

Fence wire and netting—Manufacturers authorized to produce in greater rate than before the war. Nails, staples, bale ties, and pipe—No shortage expected.

Farm chain—Supply of most types explained to be adequate for essential requirements.

Ammunition—Supplies tighter, but needs of farmers for control of predatory birds and animals will receive special consideration.

Binder twine—Quality will improve, supplies will be adequate.

Rope—Supplies probably still not in demand; quality probably still not as good as in past years.

Milk cans—Probably adequate supply.

Wooden containers—Supplies will continue short. Only hope is to re-use every second-hand container fit for re-use.

Bags and agricultural fabrics—Fabric bags not equal to demand. Same true for tobacco mesh and similar items. Everything possible must be done to conserve and re-use bags now available.

Insecticides and fungicides—Supply of rotenone short, as last year. Supply of DDT material, from U.S. Severe infestations of bugs controlled with nicotine would cause shortage of this material. From use of controls when serious infestations threaten may help prevent loss of crops.

Doings In Congress

By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM LEMKE

IF OUR SENSES had not been dulled by false propaganda by higherups, we would have been shocked as never before, when we learned that so-called surplus material was being sold by the government to grafters, and then bought back by the government at a greatly enhanced price. We would have been even more shocked to learn that the government was selling surplus material to call surplus property at a fraction of the cost, and on the other, the government financed, cost plus factories continue to pour out the so-called surplus.

IT IS ABOUT TIME that someone revise the song "God Bless America," to "God Save America." There never was a time of so much waste and graft in the history of the world, nor so much incompetence and ignorance as at present. Yet, in the midst of this confusion those responsible for foreign battle have asked for power to draft all Americans between the ages of eighteen and forty-five.

BECAUSE OF DECEPTION, the House, by a majority, passed the so-called Work or Fight Bill—the slave bill. Under the provisions of this Bill, as passed by the House, the present incompetent bureaucrats would have control over the liberties of all men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five. They could put them in cost-plus factories—that contribute to political campaigns—to be exploited by grafters. Some of these bureaucrats are not beyond taking a split, or at least being wined and dined.

I CHALLENGE any intelligent person to show me where there is a shortage of manpower, or even a shortage in the armed forces, that has not been caused by bureaucracy. There are still 4,700,000 of the armed forces in the Continental United States. Most of these are able and willing to make up any shortages on the foreign battle front. It has been suggested that many of these are unfit for combat. It that is true, then why are they kept in the armed forces? It costs the government about $200 a month, on an average, to keep a soldier and take care of his family.

IN ADDITION GO INTO any cost-plus factory supervised by the government, and you will find one out of every two, or even more, loafing on the job. I have a letter before me from a war correspondent who says there are 300 men and women in his division and thirty could do a better job.

STRANGE THINGS are happening in a strange world. The Thirteenth Amendment has been kicked out of the window in the House. This was accomplished by the Members of Congress that the PAC and Browder affiliates elected. American labor is beginning to realize that it made a mistake when it followed the pro-labor affiliates. These pro-labor Members got all mixed up with Browder and the daily worker, and voted to enslave not only American labor, but American Freedom!

Third Week in WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. (UNWS)—The "Second Bill of Rights," which is the name of the New Deal's four-point program in its fourth week of legislation. For the recent congressional action on the appointment of Henry Wallace as secretary of commerce made it obvious that home front social programs will probably be dictated by conservative elements rather than a liberal administration.

The final road which our country will try during the next few years is taking shape gradually. The outline is not yet entirely clear, but it is evident that the congress will not support the great social expansion program for which Mr. Wallace is working.

By defeating the George Bill, divorcing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from the department of commerce, congress echoed a resounding "No" to the proposal that Mr. Wallace be permitted to use billions of dollars of RFC funds to carry out his program. Having defeated the department of commerce control over the vast RFC funds, the next step will be to vote on whether to give Mr. Wallace the remaining responsibilities of the department of commerce. If congress approves the appointment, it will indicate a middle-of-the-road course for the future. If congress should reject the Wallace appointment, it would be the death blow to the New Deal philosophy.

The present act still count on a good deal support on war measures but it looks as though he will run into insurmountable obstacles if he ever tries to make plans for our domestic economy. It was interesting to note that the House of Representatives, in a bill set, urged by the President, on the same day that the senate passed the George Bill. The war measures and the other a domestic measure.

It is also interesting to note that both of these bills were passed despite the opposition of organized labor. It is far too indicative, most analysts agree, that labor is losing some of its power over congress and that labor control measures, which were most always slipped in the bud during the last session, may make more progress this year.

Under the terms of the National Service law which provides that men of 18 and 45 can be drafted into war work. The handling of this draft work will be done by local selective service boards which would give definite regulations on eligibility. It would not be necessary for these boards to take any action unless men were needed. It is expected that men would be permitted to work in the Wallace program, which were assigned to a job. The measure may undergo considerable revision in the senate.

While the nation was following the fight over the Wallace appointment, an effort toward medical care for all, which is one of the chief parts of the Wallace program, was being sought from another department. Dr. Thomas Parran, USA, and Dr. Wallace, in support for the United States Public Health service, in which he continues to serve, has urged the local medical service boards which would give definite regulations on eligibility. Dr. Parran's representative figures on the rejection in the First and Second World wars to such that public health was being little progress. He blamed this situation on misadministration of hospitals, physicians and medical services.

TOURIST CLUB MEETING

On Monday evening, the Tourist Club was entertained at a six o'clock dinner at the home of Mrs. Edward Curpen. Mrs. Ramsey chose two subjects from the September Geographic for the lesson. The first, Rhodesia, hobby and hope of Cecil Rhodes, told of his conquest opening up the great riches of diamonds, gold and copper mines in Africa fifty years ago.

Rhodesia, in size, is about that of the states lying south of Washington, D. C., and east of the Mississippi River. There are 26 black natives to one white person. It is still a young pioneer land.

The second article was about Haiti, our Central American neighbor lying south and west of Cuba. The natives live in a most primitive way. A new impetus is under way, created by the United States in 1941, when 70,000 acres were put into production of rubber, lumber, spices and other economic plants.

LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS IN THE SERVICE

CPL. RICHARD MAJOR
MEMBER OF FAMED BN.

Sixth Army Group, France—The 727th Railway Operating Battalion, which covered itself with glory for jobs well done in the Tunisian, Sicilian and Italian campaigns, is now doing an "en-core" in France, helping to rush supplies to the U. S. Seventh and French First Armies.

Commanded by Lt. Col. Fred W. Okie, Somerset, Ky., former division superintendent for the Southern Railway System, the 727th shared recently in a commendation of the Military Railway Service by Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of the Sixth Army Group.

In Sicily the 727th was cited by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. There, with demolition damage tremendous, hundreds of enemy mines planted along the way, and smashed trains blocking the tracks, the Yanks had steam up within four hours after landing, and just as fast as the track was wrested from the Germans it was put to use.

In Italy it was the same story. Railroad parties on the Salerno beach found no Italian engines fit to operate. Undaunted, they placed flanged wheels on GI trucks, put them on the rails and shunted supplies from the docks to the dumps. For that and other achievements, the Military Railway Service won the 5th Army Plaque and Clasp, awarded by Lt. Gen. Mark Clark.

The 727th, oldest unit in the entire Military Railway Service, was organized in 1928 as a reserve unit of the Southern Railway. It was activated March 15, 1942, trained at Camp Shelby, Miss., and sailed for North Africa December, 1942. Members of the battalion include: Cpl. Richard H. Major of Plymouth; Cpl. Paul W. Breen and Pfc. Charles W. Spoon of Crestline; Pfc. Clifford C. Souder, Rt. 5, Mansfield, O.

He is a former student of Plymouth High school.
Pecos Army Air Field, a station of the AAF training command, is located in the historic trans-Pecos area of West Texas. He leaves tomorrow for Las Vegas, Nev., after enjoying the past week with his parents.

News From Huron Co. Ration Board

The Huron county ration board has the following items of interest to report this week.

The gasoline rations of Angelo Leeds were revoked for a 60-day period on account of his misuse of occupational gasoline.

By joint action of the office of price administration and the war production board, a new clothing and textile program becomes effective about February 15, which will put the brakes on an inflationary trend on clothing cost and save consumers about 600 million dollars a year. This should be welcome news to those who have seen foot and rent costs held down while clothing prices have risen and low priced apparel has become increasingly scarce.

Clothing costs have risen about 11 percent in the past 18 months while the overall cost of living has increased less than 1 percent. To halt the upward spiraling of textile and clothing price, the OPA-WPB program proposes to produce and place lower priced clothing on the shelves. There will be a marked decrease in the amount of higher priced merchandise inasmuch as manufacturers of low and medium priced clothing will have a priority claim on almost all available civilian apparel textiles. Also heartening news in this direction is the fact that virtually 70 percent of the garments which will be returned to the low and medium priced cotton clothing racks and shelves will be given specific dollar and cents ceiling price with the price tags plainly marked and attached to the garments.

Limited quantities of men's and women's "odd lot" shoes may be sold to consumers ration-free at specified price reductions during the two-week period February 19 through March 3. Members of the shoe trade will have from February 5 through February 24, to transfer fixed percentages of their odd lot shoes to other dealers.

The sale price for shoes from the retailer's own stock must be at least 25 per cent below his regular price on February 1, 1945. Shoes bought by a retailer ration-free from another dealer, may not sell for more than 33 1-3 per cent above the price the retailer paid. Before the shoe leaves the store one shoe of each pair is to be marked with the words "Release No. 88."

Exemption from rent control of summer seasonal rental units has been extended by the OPA for the season of 1945—June 1 through Sept. 30. Three conditions must be met by a landlord to qualify for the exemption: (1) the accommodations must be located in a resort community, (2) they must have customarily been rented or occupied on a seasonal basis before October 1, 1944, (3) they must not have been rented during any portion of the period beginning November 1, 1943, and ending February 29, 1944.

Shiloh School News

Senior News
The senior class went to DeVito at Shelby, Jan. 23, to get their pictures taken and got the proofs Jan. 30. Some have sent their back and will be getting pictures soon.

Friday night after the game the seniors gave a party at the school house for Joe, who leaves Feb. 13 for the Navy. The class gave him a farewell gift and with it wished him the best of luck. The class and the school will sure miss Joe as he was a swell class member and an outstanding player in athletics. Joe has been with his class since the first grade and we're sure he will miss all of them, too.

Junior News

The Junior class has been making a nice profit on the hot dogs and the cake raffles at the basketball games. Don't forget us at the remaining games.

The Sophomores had a bussed party January 29, and due to the illness of Mrs. Carpenter, our advisor, Mrs. Arnold took her place. We met at the home of Charles Young and from there we went to the show at Plymouth and then to the Black & Gold. Everybody had a grand time and are looking forward to another party.

We wish to thank Mr. Rhodes and Mr. Arnold for the sled and tractor.

We have finished the Shakespeare play, "Merchant of Venice" in literature, which is a great relief to the class and also to our teacher, Mrs. Turner.

Basketball News

The Drummer Boys chalked up another victory last Wednesday night at Tiro with a score of 45 to 42. Swartz and McQuate were high point men making 16 points each.

Friday night Bellville came here and won an essay victory 65-25. The Blue Jays were in the lead from the very start and stayed that way throughout the game. Everyone agreed that the referee decided the Drummer Boys' fate in the first quarter, so they didn't have a chance. Swartz, the only one of the five to stay in the entire game, made 15 points.

Snooper?!

Have you seen those romantic looks that pass between Donald and Sadie?

It seems like Jim and Denver have found new interests at Plymouth. But definitely!

How long has Ted been going to see Lorna and what will become of it?

If you see Marilyn looking off into space you'll know she's wondering how she'll get along without Joe.

Don't you think Betty seems a little lonesome without George?

Who did Ruth Bell come home with last Wednesday night and where was Junior?

Isn't Marilyn the bright one in Commercial Law?

Will Frances or Mabel win out with Bert or is there still another one who wants him?

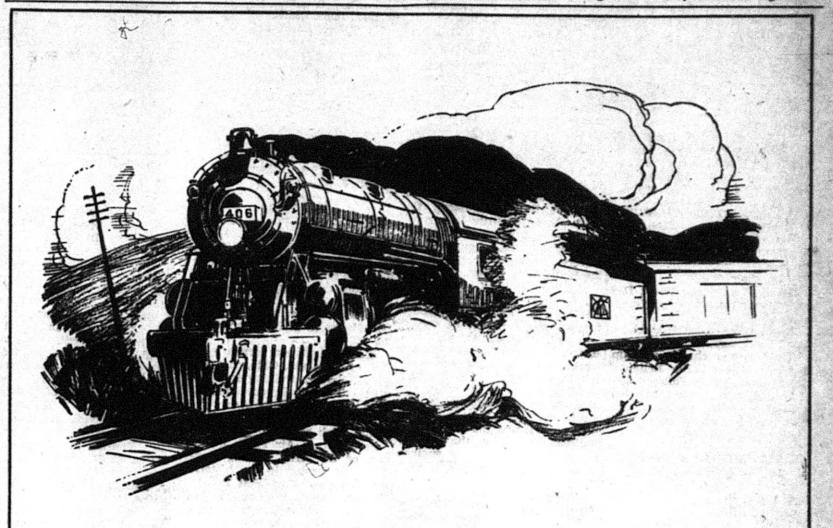

How about that little romance between Bob Heifner and Dorothy Brook?

We wonder if Dick Clark accepted Mary Benedict's invitation last Friday night?

When are Betty Lee and Jeanette Forquer going to get into a fight over a certain Junior boy?

All of us are sorry that Ted and Junior didn't pass for the Navy when Joe did, but maybe they will later on.

Did you see Doris Garrett's handsome Lieutenant boy-friend at the game the other night? And didn't they look nice together?

CONGRATULATIONS this week go to W. H. Fetters who will be 78 years old Saturday. W. H. (Bill) has been in the general repair business here for forty years. He knows how to make old worn out machines run like new, no matter whether it's a washing machine, lawnmower, gas engine or an old vintage of Ford. Despite his years, Bill still keeps working about very actively, and he has done more good for farmers and citizens in the community than any man we know of, because for forty years, Bill has been a "Fix-it" man, and we all know that that means. Well, congratulations Bill (we're saying it for his many friends, too) and may you have a real busy, successful and happy birthday-years to come!
