An Easter Message

By Rev. Frederick Lambertus

Pastor First Evangelical Lutheran Church

"YE SEEK JESUS OF NAZARETH, WHICH WAS CRUCIFIED: HE IS RISEN, HE IS NOT HERE."—Mark 16-4

Easter is the festival of the Resurrection. All the world rejoices to witness the season of Resurrection. In nature, everything that has a germ of life is now coming forth to new life. Millions of blades of grass are coming out of their graves. Millions of flowers of all description are struggling to come forth from the dark, gray and fill the air with fragrance. The shrubs and trees are putting on a new garment and every leaf and bud, every sprout is yielding to the sunlight and the warm air, Nature says it with loud acclaim: "It is Easter, the festival of the Resurrection!"

As Christians we know that Easter means much more than this. The first real Easter was celebrated in the Garden of Joseph of Arimathea, and an angel from heaven was the first messenger to preach the good news of Easter. Only a few women formed the Easter congregation. Since then the Easter message has been brought to all parts of the world and in all tongues it has been spoken to all generations till it also has come to us. Today, we join in spirit with the first group in the garden near the empty tomb to learn many things of Easter. It is but a short Easter sermon, but a sermon rich in content, a message bringing joyous, life-giving news of an inexhaustible character. He, who believes this message and takes it to heart, is blessed indeed. It is the message: "He is not here. He is risen!"

It is a message spoken to seeking hearts. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth," thus the angel speaks to seeking women. Yes, these women had come with seeking and searching hearts. They were looking for the body of Christ in order to anoint the same. It was the last act of honor they could bestow upon the body of Jesus.

Yet, underneath the outward searching, there was a compelling inner force that caused them to seek the Christ. While Jesus lived they had gone to Him and He had meant everything to them. All that their soul needed—peace and joy, comfort and strength, had been granted them. The Christ had been their light in the midst of all spiritual darkness. They had been greedy upon His most beautiful face. His word had been food for their soul. In Him they found their Savior and in faith they embraced Him as such. They had beheld His glory. Happy they were in finding Him, for they had been taken from them and had been buried, all their joy and hope had also been put into the grave. What should they do and could they do with a dead Christ. On the other hand they had been drawn to Him with a thousand bonds of love and devotion. Had they not tasted the blessing of heaven through Christ? His words still burned in their hearts and His personality was such that they were attached to Him more than ever. They now were without counsel and knew not what to do. That is why they came to perform another deed of love for Him and to His body.

These women were mistaken. An angel greets them as they enter the garden and approach the tomb of the Christ. "He is not here, He is risen." This is the angelic message to them. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" Life must not be found in the tomb.

Times change but the human heart never changes. Everywhere, men and women leave their homes and the searching and seeking for the tomb of the Christ. Some seek riches and earthly goods, others seek honor and distinction; still others seek peace and rest. Some are searching for all delivrance from an oppressive burden, still others are looking for something which their heart cannot express. Who can count all the wants and the desires of the heart? Few know exactly what they need. Ever since man lost Paradise, he has been searching for the lost treasures and for a Helper who could bring an end to all trials and miseries. The history of the nations as well as the history of the individuals is nothing but a history of searching. Read the books of the wise and learned of the past and you will find that therein is expressed an insatiable longing for a lost and highly coveted treasure. Millions of air castles are built that never become a reality.

In all such searching man is making a mistake as long as he depends upon his own strength. Who will roll away the stone from the tomb? A woman asks. Humanity is ever meeting with stony obstacles that bar the way to happiness. Man meets with heavy stones of worry and sorrow he cannot lift and underneath lies a grave. It may be a grave upon the cemetery, or a grave of happiness lost in the home. Everywhere you may meet with those in whose hearts have been dug graves. The fondest hopes have been shattered and the best dreams have come true. But

Shut In Ice Box; Little Child Dies

An afternoon of playing and "make-believe" ended tragically Wednesday afternoon for Larry Lee Shaffer, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Emerson Shaffer of Shiloh.

Larry Lee and several playmates were playing with an old refrigerator in storage, when he and one of his little friends climbed into it. The door was shut and Larry Lee was not found until two hours later, about four o'clock. The other child, in some manner, managed to get out.

The child was immediately taken to the Ward hospital, where he died at 10 o'clock. The little boy is survived by his parents, and two brothers, Mr. & Mrs. Eric Davis of New Washington, formerly of Plymouth, are the maternal grandparents. Mrs. Shaffer is the former Miss Doris Davis of Plymouth.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the McQuate funeral home in Shiloh with Rev. Boehm, pastor of Mt. Hope Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be made in Mt. Hope cemetery, Shiloh.

Fined For Not Stopping Car After An Accident

Crashing a red light as he drove in from the west side of the public square, Forrest Junior Row failed to stop his car when the machine he was driving struck a Ford coupe driven by Mrs. Mark Caywood a week ago last Monday.

Several pedestrians saw the accident and the auto license number was reported to local authorities. It took a few days to locate the owner of the car, but last Saturday, young Row appeared in Mayor Wirth's court, after state police had notified him of his violation of the law.

First denying the charges, Row later admitted he was guilty, and as a result Mayor Wirth fined him $30 and costs and allowed thirty days for him to pay for the damages done to the Caywood machine.

Row, who has a 90-day deferment from the army, gave his residence as being near Delhi.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The annual business meeting of the Presbyterian church was held in the church auditorium Thursday, March 22, at 8:00 p. m. Encouraging reports were brought in from all the church organizations. William Wechter and Francis Miller were re-elected as members of the Session; Beryl Miller and Mary Cole were chosen as trustees for three years. Harold Sams continues as church treasurer; Grace Dick as benevolence treasurer, and Clarence Bevier is to head the Every-Member canvass for another year.

The fellowship hour was in charge of Miss Florence Danner, and was in honor of Mrs. Dick, who was entirely unaware of the plans.

The program was largely musical in nature; those participating were Maryvale Weller, Mr. J. E. Brown, Lucille Vandervort, Joy Bethel and the choir, made up of all those who had ever been members, with Mrs. Dick at the piano. They sang Auld Lang Syne, and Mrs. Fetterman presented Mrs. Dick with a bouquet of roses from the choir as a token of appreciation for her long and faithful service at the piano. The church, through the pastor, also presented Mrs. Dick with a present to show the appreciation of the congregation.

All were then invited to the dining room where the Catherine Taylor Class had provided delicious refreshments. Mesdames Lanian and Brown were in charge of the dining room. Mesdames Sams and Hampton presided at the tables.

In France

A letter this past week from Mrs. Florence Hills Jewett of Clyde, Ohio, tells us that Ross Hills is with the Coast Artillery somewhere in France, and that she had been sending him the Advertiser from time to time. He wishes to have the paper sent to him, so this week his subscription will be added to our other boys in service.

The Hills family made Plymouth their home a number of years ago and Ross was employed at the Red Front Market. Mrs. Jewett is a former linotype operator at the Advertiser.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brothers of the Red Front Market, who are T-Sgt. Robert Brothers, will arrive home in time for Easter. A telegram received Monday told them he had arrived at Hamilton Field, Calif., and will get into Plymouth at the earliest possible date.

Before entering military service eight months ago he was employed by the Fate-Root-Heath Co., in Plymouth. He was married five years ago to Miss Mary Garrett of North Fairfield.

Miss Mattie Garrett took him into her home when he was a child after the death of his mother and he was well known to New Haven residents as an industrious and exemplary young man. Pfc. Ramsey also leaves two sisters, Margaree and Blanche, and three brothers, Paul, Ray & James. Their father died and their mother later was burned to death at their home in Shelby when all were young.

Local Boys Meet in France

Sgt. Richard Coe and Pfc. John Coe, sons of Mrs. Florence Coe of Sandusky street, are both in France and hope to soon get together. While they haven't seen each other for three years, they did have an opportunity of talking to each other over the phone and are hoping to arrange a meeting.

Pfc. John Coe wrote that he visited George Hough of Plymouth and had a good time talking over the old home town. This is the first local boy that John has seen or talked to since leaving home.

Hears About Son

Censorship being what it is, real news from the boys at the front is scarce, so when you get first hand news, you count your first lucky. This past week, Mrs. Josie Bachrach heard indirectly from her son, Sgt. Alex Bachrach, who is with an engineers group somewhere in Belgium.

Sgt. Bachrach is stationed in a large oil field in Belgium, formerly owned and operated by a large oil company. It was occupied for five years by the Germans and camouflaged by them. They say it is a wonderful job and that you would never know it was an oil depot. The storage tanks are covered with buildings that look like huge barns.

Sgt. Bachrach and the group with him unload the tankers coming in and pump it into these storage tanks, then later put it in tank cars going to the front lines. They are in no actual danger as there is no fighting there. The only danger is from robot bombs which the Germs shoot over every night; even that seems to be nothing to worry about as the bombs are never directed at the field, but always at the center of the town. The Germans now think more of destroying civilians and their morale than military objectives. Sgt. Bachrach is fine, and except for being somewhat homesick, they have a fine set-up, even better than most of the officers.

The Engineer Battalion to which Sgt. Bachrach is attached, has been chosen as the best engineering group of its kind in Europe and there is talk of giving them a unit citation, although this is not official.

Dear Tommy:
I will try to write a few lines or just give you the old fox hole news. If the shell burst from the artillery still keeps up the loud noise I may not be able to think of much to write about. I am still feeling good and getting along OK. I still have the same job—getting every day practice and attending schools in the States—it has become a routine matter over here. It is better to be a master of one job and not to be good at any. You won't last very long if you are not.

I have enjoyed my experiences and travel, although a lot of it wasn't a pleasure. It would be a lot better to travel through the countries in peace time when destruction wouldn't be the main feature.

I really enjoy receiving the paper and being able to know what the rest of the boys are doing and where they are. We don't get much time to write and when we do get time we are busy answering the mail we have received in the past. We are always looking for more letters from home.

That is about all the time that I have to write tonight, but I'll write again as soon as I can think of more, and have more time to write.

Local Soldier Serves in Veteran Medical Unit, Aiding Wounded WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Pfc. Charles E. Babcock, lab. techn., son of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Babcock, is a member of the Fifth Army's 94th Evacuation hospital, which looks back on a long list of favored locations and a record of highly efficient service since landing in Italy on the beaches of Paestum, Sep. 16, 1943.

Since then, this veteran medical unit has been providing expert treatment for Fifth Army wounded and sick all the way through the Italian campaign to the Po Valley.

Originally activated on June 1, 1941, as the 63rd Surgical Hospital, the unit was redesignated and the 94th Evacuation Hospital on August 25, 1942, at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., where it performed garrison duties.

The 94th arriving in Italy and going into position at Battaglia, the unit personnel once worked 40 hours without sleep and 18 and 20-hour duty became routine as casualties were brought in from the front.

Since Battaglia, the 94th has been in locations at Maddaloni, Riardo, Mignano, Anzio, Rome, Mont Alto, Grosseto, Volterra, Castelfortino, Florence and now in the Gothic Line.

The hospital arrived on the Anzio beachhead March 22, 1944, the nurses following five days later. Working at Anzio under dug-in tents to escape German shellfire and bombings, the 94th stayed on the beachhead after the Fifth Army troops, driving from the South, had linked up with Anzio forces just before the fall of Rome.

So closely did the 94th follow combat troops into Rome that the hospital building it occupied the Germans had left fresh food on the tables as well as valuable equipment. In Rome, the unit handled 50 per cent more patients than its normal capacity.

With a complement of 240 enlisted men, 40 officers and 40 nurses, the 94th is completely equipped to receive and care for any type of casualty. The hospital often has cared for many more patients than it normally is expected to handle. During swift advances last summer, the 94th often closed, packed up, moved and set up again to receive patients in 36 hours.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN SAFE?

FATAL accidents in the home, to American children of pre-school age, have increased 40% since the war began, according to life insurance statisticians. While we have been lamenting over the fate of children in war-torn Europe, we evidently haven't been giving enough attention to the fate of the children in our own land. There seems to be little we can do, for the moment, about the children in foreign cities, but there is no good excuse for this increased mortality here.

The reasons are obvious. Mothers, busy with jobs or war work, are taking too many chances with their children. They are leaving them under the care of neighbors who are already over-busy caring for their own children, or are leaving them with older brothers and sisters who do not have a proper sense of responsibility.

Half of the home accidents are caused by burns and scalds—a lot of them due to children's natural yearning to play with matches. Others are caused by swallowing poisons and by falls.

The increase goes to prove that it isn't safe to leave a small child alone, or without proper supervision. Although women are needed in war work, it isn't safe for a mother of a youngster to be away from home unless she can provide really adequate care for her children.

TIRE SHORTAGE

WATCH your tires!

All studies of the situation point clearly to the fact that this is going to be by far the worst year yet, so far as getting new tires is concerned. And there are millions of tires, right now, worn to the bursting point.

Go along any of our highways for a few miles and the chances are you will see several cars with flats. This summer it is going to be much worse.

There are only two ways we can skin by this summer, so far as tires are concerned. One is to take the best possible care of tires and drive as little as possible. The other is to cut production of tires needed for army trucks and planes. Yes, there are two possibilities—but only one choice which any of us would take.

Doings In Congress

By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM LEMKE

CONGRESSMEN ARE NOW BEING FLOODED with letters asking "Why does Congress not do this, or why does Congress not stop that? Why does it not impeach so and so?" These are proper questions, but may we ask why some of these writers did not use better judgment last November? Why did they elect some new Members to do what the President wants? Why did they vote for a fourth term, or even a third term? They invited dictatorship.

IT IS ASKING A LOT OF A FEW OF US TO CORRECT the mistake made by a majority on last November 7th. They voted for a fourth term. They voted for packed courts and regimentation. Congress has no control over the Executive if it wishes to violate the law. All we can do is protest and arouse public opinion. That is why we passed House Concurrent Resolution 29 to let the public know that the Executive was wrecking agriculture in violation of the Tydings Amendment. Here is the first paragraph of the resolution:

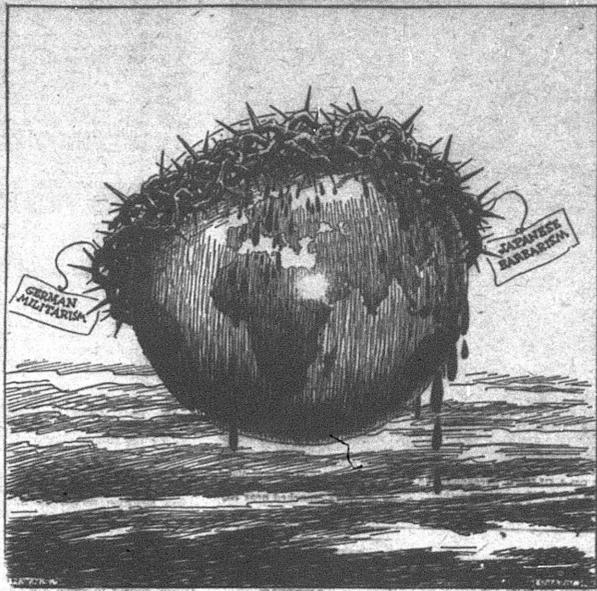

"That in order that there may be no further misinterpretation of the will and the desire of the Congress in enacting subsection K, commonly known as the Tydings Amendment to the Selective Service Act, Congress reaffirms the necessity to our war effort of said subsection K and again expresses its will and desire that the local selective-service board, in classifying the registrant, observe subsection K, and concern itself solely with the registrant's essentiality to an agricultural occupation or endeavor, and to the question of whether or not a satisfactory replacement can be obtained."

THIS RESOLUTION WAS PASSED BY A MAJORITY of four to one. It interprets a national law. It is binding upon the President, General Hershey, the State Directors, and local draft boards. It should be observed and enforced by the President and the Governors and not violated. If high officials can ignore a law with impunity, then how can we expect others to obey it. We have a right to demand submission and obedience to law from the mighty and lowly alike.

WE HAVE A RIGHT TO EXPECT HONESTY from high Government officials. I am sorry that we have not been getting it. A year ago we were told that we had an overproduction of wheat. A little later we were asked to take off the duty and import some from Canada. Just a few weeks ago we imported two million bushels of Australian wheat and dumped it on the ground in California to spoil.

WHILE IN VIOLATION OF LAW, WE DENUDE OUR FARMS of farm workers, millions of foreigners, liberated by our armed forces, sit on benches and denounce the American people for not feeding them better. While our farmers are compelled to go without sufficient farm machinery and equipment, we are exporting sixteen per cent to foreign countries. We are told that every Greek farmer who farms eighty acres is to have an American tractor.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

SUCCESS DEPENDS ON MANY FACTORS

IN HIS later days Walter P. Chrysler was asked why he considered was the most necessary qualification for a man to succeed. He said that success was dependent on many things and that it did not come from just one quality. Then he went ahead to say that in his own organization he considered very high the ability to meet an emergency. He said that if a man could meet an emergency he could usually measure up to the day-by-day routine of ordinary business.

He declared that what success he had obtained in life came—at least the start of it—because when he was a young man he was able to meet an emergency. He was an ordinary mechanic working in the railroad yards in Salt Lake City at 30 cents an hour. At this time there were about 60 other mechanics working there and all were, within the track, doing the same kind of work.

Suddenly something happened. The crack train, which was to run between Salt Lake City and Denver, went out of commission and was not able to leave the yards. This was bad enough, but it also happened that a very important group of Mormon officials had engaged passage and expected to be on the train.

Word was conveyed to the master mechanic that he must get the train ready to leave the yards at 3 o'clock. Frantic, he rushed from one group of workmen to the other wanting to know if any one of them would accept the responsibility of getting the train ready by that hour.

The men hesitated because they knew if they failed they would be marked men and would get the blame of not only the master mechanic himself, but also of the railroad officials.

A young man wearing greasy overalls stepped out from among the others and said, "I'll do it."

Something about the confidence of the young man made an impression on the master mechanic. He said, however, "Have you ever put in a back cylinder head in such a short time?"

"No, sir. But I can do it—if you will give me two helpers." Of course he would give him two helpers. Well, Walter Chrysler actually leaped onto the engine before it stopped rolling, and began raking the fire out of the pit. The cinders were still hot when he crawled down onto them, he and his helpers. He worked like a demon. And five minutes before three that engine was rolling again. And it left the station exactly on time.

Chrysler's reward was to be made foreman with 90 men under him. The master mechanic knew this young fellow could meet an emergency.

That was the real start of Chrysler's rise. So all his life he chose his men because they could meet an emergency, and he was famous for having gathered an outstanding group around him.

Think of this in terms of yourself. Can you meet an emergency? If so, you have one of the qualifications of success.
