WHEN LEADERS ORDER . . .

PAGE'S HI-PRO-BRED CHICKS

they don't guess - they know - and you should know

Hi-PRO-Bred Chicks are not accidental—they are an achievement, that George Page has built up this high standard of production, by conscientious work. By scientific mating and culling of breeders for 30 years; by studious attention to laying records; by adding just that "right amount" of new blood from time to time to hold vigor and strength in the chicks without sacrificing any gain in production; by blood-testing for 15 years, religiously, to control pullorum disease. These are the vital factors, guarded carefully up through the years, that make PAGE'S HI-PRODUCTION-BRED CHICKS remarkably GOOD CHICKS. Chicks that have the qualities to make every day a pay-day if you will handle and feed them properly. Keep this in mind, too. We, here at Page's, stand ready and anxious to help when poultry problems stump you, regardless of where you buy your chicks. We may not always have the answer but we know where to get it. Whether you are a customer or not we want to help if you have trouble. There is no charge for this service, we do it because we are interested in the welfare of every poultry raiser in this community. So use the phone, 2781, when necessary.

Large Type WHITE LEGHORNS

For 30 years Page's have bred, improved and developed this outstanding breed that is far the most popular today. 30 years of trap-necked blood lines for high egg production; 30 years of scientific mating and culling by the owner plus 15 years of rigid blood testing by the house himself. Think for a moment what such a background of breeding means to you! Think what you could do with the hogs you have today if you spent nearly a third of a century improving their weak points! For a few cents per chick you cash-in on the best results of nearly a third of a century of hard, conscientious effort—development or improvement, if you please. Here, bred in for generations, are the peak qualities that assure profit-making flocks. WE HAVE BUILT PROFIT INTO THEM just as you would build special conveniences into a house or car. And well we know you would pay twice as much for chicks if this had been done from some other source. Our chicks are a real bargain. In fact a low price renews a red bilious light oil railroad crossing where you can't see what's coming—maybe a fast Express you see in a hurry, or a long slow freight that delays you indefinitely. Both bring the same results if you get hit. Some one has said "only rich people can afford to keep poor chickens," so don't be misled by a price tag.

In building up our HI-PRODUCTION-Bred White Leghorns we have been extremely careful NOT to get them TOO BIG. Why? Because it has been proven over and over again that smaller chickens mean higher egg production. On the other hand small strains lay far too many little eggs that won't get sold. We have proved, showing these facts we have taken the middle course and record medium-size large birds that lay 24 to 28 ounce eggs. Below are the figures and records of one of our customers who got started with HI-PRODUCTION-Bred White Leghorns two or three years ago. It's the proof of the pudding.

Here's Mr. H. C. Pease's unbroken record: 240 HI-PRODUCTION-Bred White Leghorns Pease had in April 1944 started laying September 15. On September 15th, 1944 this flock had laid 3,682 eggs. This is an average of 15.3 eggs per bird and were still laying about 40% in late November. In fact, it was along in December before they went off into a complete molt. The flock average was 181 eggs per hen. He lost four or five which, of course, cut the overall average down somewhat. With such a record it's obvious that many of these hens went well over the 200 mark. And mind you the flock was never culled out to keep only the best layers.

BIG, RUGGED, MEATY . . .

WHITE PLYMOUTH ROCKS

White Rocks rank next to Leghorns in popularity. At a table level this large meaty bird stands second to none, exactly the kind Uncle Sam wants this year. For broilers and fryers this section of the country goes overwhelmingly in favor of White Rocks. As producers of large brown eggs they have time and time again demonstrated their laying ability by running neck and neck with the winners in many laying contests.

All of our HI-PRODUCTION-Bred White Rocks are of the Silver Quill strain, if that means anything to you. To us it means this: 25 years or more of trap-necked blood lines to build high egg production plus the right type. We offer you a uniformity of type; 25 years' of scientific mating and rigid culling to improve standard qualifications plus 15 years' of blood testing to control pullorum. When you own chicks with a background of breeding like these rest assured there are few, anywhere, any better, regardless of what you may pay for them. Standard weights of White Rocks are Cocks 9 lbs., Hens 7½, Cockerals 8 and Pullets 6½. Many customers report weights considerably above these which makes them ideal market fowl.

F. F. A. Boys like these HI-PRODUCTION-Bred White Rocks, too, for their school poultry projects because they have show-room characteristics bred into them for many generations and the lads usually come away from the Fairs with their share of the ribbons. Being bred for high egg production along with excellent marketing qualities makes them ideal for school and a dual purpose chicken.

A fine flock of these big, beautiful White Rocks will make you the envy of all in your community; and they will really feel sorry for themselves when they hear what you get for your roosters when you sell them on the market. For instance, one customer reports, "just sold 9 roosters for $18.56." And by the way, they were less than 6 months old.

NEW HAMPSHIRE REDS

Comparatively, these grand birds are a new breed. Originating within the last 30 years they have marched to the front in great strides and today rank third in popularity. Clasped as a dual purpose fowl they make excellent meat birds and have finished in the upper brackets in many egg-laying contests. As broilers they are less desirable than White Rocks because the red coloring pigment of the feathers stains the skin until the feathers are fully plucked. However, the meat is very good and the skin is good. That being the case, however, the carcass doesn't look as nice as the White Rock carcass. There is also some question about their resistance to disease. Some poultrymen who have been unsuccessful with them claim they are not as disease-resistant as older breeds but this is debatable and hard to prove, especially in view of their meteoric rise in popularity. Standard weights are Cock 8½ lbs., Hen 6½, Cockeral 7½ and Pullet 5½—a smaller breed than the Rocks and a lighter red than Rhode Island Red.

This is the first year we have offered New Hampshires to our customers.

And we tell you frankly we are not hatching these chicks in our machines. Because of conditions beyond our control we were unable to establish top quality flocks such as we demand. We have, however, been able to line up a supply of which we know the back-ground. And we have enough of these birds to start a flock. We will not be able to get them to you until after we have built them up.

As far as we are concerned, however, we will not be able to get them to you until after we have built them up.

WORLD'S LARGEST PLANE TO AIR CARGO TO ALL OUTPOSTS

WRIGHT FIELDS Having provided the Army Air Forces with important engineering and flight data which helped achieve the pasting of Tokyo by B-29s, the famous B-19, more recently, after changes called the XB-19A, is out to win new laurels. On March 11, it was announced here today at headquarters of the Air Technical Service Command.

Built by Douglas Aircraft, the huge warplane has never dropped a bomb on enemy territory or fired a gun in combat. Nonetheless, she has performed more to the war effort than any other single modern airplane. It is quartered at Fairfield ATSC near Dayton, Ohio, where engineers are stripping it of experimental equipment and fitting up into a giant cargo carrier.

"Experience we have gained with the B-19 and XB-19A and the questions they have enabled us to answer, have considerably accelerated our program for long-range transport aircraft," said Gen. F. O. Corrall, chief of ATSC's Engineering Division. "It is typical of the contributions of this airplane for it to continue to serve by speeding supplies to the front whenever they are needed," he added.

Still the largest airplane in the world, the XB-19A has a wingspan of 212 feet and a fuselage 132 feet long. From the ground to the top of its tail is 142 feet. The main wheel is eight feet in diameter. Now powered with four liquid-cooled Allison V3420 in-line engines, each developing 2,600 horsepower, the plane has been equipped with eighteen-foot two-inch propellers.

An outstanding characteristic of the XB-19A is the ease of landing. Test pilots have found it continuously for the past three years point to such factors as its "boost" control system and supplementary system of "flying brakes." The big propellers are automatically synchronized by a mechanism which relieves the pilot of the necessity of tuning each engine individually. The in-board propeller can be put in reverse to utilize the propeller as a brake for braking the plane during landings. This alone is almost as effective as a brake themselves. Consequently the big planes can land at any ordinary municipal airport.

As a cargo carrier the plane will have tie-down racks, a new reinforced floor, a large cargo door and a loading ramp. Engineers estimate 25,000 pounds pay load can be carried, utilizing varying types of flights. In its runs as a flying test stand with the new in-line engines the XB-19A achieved speeds in excess of 250 miles per hour, and chalked up satisfactory performance at altitudes up to 25,000 feet.

This plane will be invaluable in rushing materials to our military airports and in transporting emergency merchandise from different suppliers, as well as standard supplies, to the 831st AAA at Shelby, Ohio, to points of utilization and distribution. This leviathan of the air will be used to return to heavy freight transportation in the post-war. Far from being a war casualty at the cessation of hostilities, this mammoth plane will be a boon to the air transit of heavy freight in the post-war era.

FOUR RICHLAND COUNTY MEN FEATURED IN CAPPER'S FARMER

Four Richland county farmers—C. N. Kuhn, Richard Gramley and Oliver Gramley, who live near Mansfield, and Aaron Lockhart, who lives near Lexington—are featured in stories in the March issue of Capper's Farmer.

Kuhn is cited in a story entitled "Extra Battery Handy," which tells how he keeps an extra 6-volt battery in case of trouble in starting a car or truck on a cold morning. When a short circuit occurs, he clamps the "spare" battery to the starter, grounds it and gets the motor going.

Richard Gramley is quoted in a story entitled "Mellowing Potato Soil." He tells how he and other Ohio potato growers are using rye and oats, plus fertilizer to keep soil in condition for continuous tuber production.

Lockhart has planted potatoes 12 successive years on one 40-acre field. Last year he planted 90 acres. He uses rye to supply nutrients and makes his own fertilizer application. Immediately after digging potatoes in early September, he seeds 2 bushels of rye per acre, applying also 100 to 200 pounds of commercial fertilizer per acre, and then is holding up. Potatoes need soil that is mellow and porous enough to hold moisture. Lockhart's system insures these features.

The tractor's disk wheels simplified the task of making the weights. Each rear wheel was removed, placed on its side, and a layer of canvas was spread over concrete. Then the disk was lowered onto the side of the wheel. Before the concrete was placed, lengths of pipe were bolted to the tractor wheels to serve as bolt holes after the concrete had set around them.

Mr. Lockhart is featured in a story entitled "Mellowing Potato Soil." He tells how he and other Ohio potato growers are using rye and oats, plus fertilizer to keep soil in condition for continuous tuber production.

The story in which Oliver J. Gramley & Sons are featured is headed "Snug Wheel Weights," and describes the snug-fitting concrete wheel weights which give extra traction to the family's farm.

SET-UP MADE OF COMMITTEES

Organization of the Huron county veteran's agricultural loan certifying committee has been completed according to a statement made by Russell H. Knoop, FSA supervisor, Norwalk. This committee will certify to the state administration all applications for agricultural loan guarantees under Title III of the servicemen's readjustment act—the so-called G.I. Bill.

This four-man committee will operate under the supervision of the farm security administration and FSA supervisor, Russell H. Knoop, has been designated to act as secretary of the committee. Members of this certifying committee have been instructed that their committee is to serve only as a "recommending body" and that the actual administration of the G.I. Bill will be left to the veterans' administration.

The first and most important step which a veteran must take is to locate the property which he desires to purchase and find a lender who can supply him with credit. The county agricultural advisory committee, sponsored by the extension service and now being organized locally by the county agricultural agent, will know of available farms and will be able to suggest credit sources and give the veteran much other valuable information.

The lender and the veteran both sign an application for a loan guarantee, and send it to the veteran's administration to determine the amount of the loan. The act says that a veteran must have received a discharge other than dishonorable, have served a minimum of 90 days in the armed forces of the United States between June 16, 1940 or have been given a discharge as a result of service-in-disability regardless of the period served.

If the loan guarantee is for the purchase of real estate it must be appraised by an approved appraiser. After this appraisal, or immediately in the case of chattel loans, guarantees, the application is forwarded to our certifying committee.

Mr. Knoop explained that this committee certified to VA that in their opinion the loan would be used for the purpose planned; the proposed farming venture has a reasonable chance of success; and that they believed the veteran would be capable because of training or experience to carry out the proposed farming program. This committee's recommendation, and VA made the final decision as to whether or not the loan would be guaranteed.

IN GERMANY

Word received this week from Pvt. Peyton S. Thomas, states he is now in Germany. Since leaving the States in January, this is the fifth country he has been in. Previously he has been in England, France, Belgium, Netherlands and now Germany.

Word from Eugene Phillips, Who Is a Prisoner of War.

Mrs. Edward J. Phillips of Plymouth, R. 1 has received a short letter from her son, Gene, who is a prisoner of war in Germany. It was dated Nov. 5, 1944, and received Jan. 13, 1945.

Gene says he has received several letters from his mother, plus a very good parcel, containing the much needed supplies, needless. He also received the parcel with the Christmas gift (Miller's gift to him) and that all the fellows in the room commented on Mrs. Phillips' thoughtfulness as cooking utensils are very scarce. This was the first time he mentioned that "so far, I am in good health and hope you will now that we're this far."

The chief operator and myself put out a daily newspaper.

I paint signs, draw the cartoons and draw the cartoons.

Another son of Mrs. Phillips, James E. Phillips, is now in France.

Pete Ruckman Writes "Much Ado About Nothing"

Concerning regulations on mail coming in from the States, Pete Ruckman writes the following poem which he says he got from one of the fellows aboard:

I can't write a thing, the censor to blame.

So I'll just say I am well and singing fine.

Can't tell where we sail from, Can't mention the date, Can't even say how many meals I ate.

Can't tell where we're going, Don't know where we'll land; And couldn't inform ya if met by a band.

I can't have a flash light to guide me at night,

Nor start any matches except out of sight.

I can't keep a diary—for that would be sin;

Can't even keep envelopes your letters come in.

Can't tell for who, folks, just what I can write.

So I'll call this my letter and close with "good night."

He also enclosed a certificate from the Imperial Domain of the Golden Rose, which certifies that "Harold" Wilbert Ruckman was duly inducted into the Silent Mysteries of the Far East, having crossed the 180th meridian on Feb. 1945.

Encouraging News

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ross received indirect news Monday regarding their son Pfc. Willard Ross, Jr., who has been missing in action since Dec. 18, 1944.

A card from Mrs. A. Green, Fayette, Mo., whose son was also reported missing at the same time and in the same division advises that she received word from her son that he states "I am well and wasn't injured."

He gave no place to live. Outgoing mail is limited but can receive all you write, including home paper.

Check the Red Cross and boxes of food. No Xmas-no boxes. Don't worry. Am not alone. Write often. Hope to see you soon."

A note added to the card states he is a prisoner of war in Germany.

The Ross family has received no such news, but inasmuch as the boys were both missing the same day and in the same division, gives hope that Willard Jr. will also be a prisoner of war.

WE WILL PUT SOME "CHARACTER" IN THAT SICK FACE . . .

Tires looking mopey . . . with a deadpan glaze?

We'll correct it and give those tires a treat as handsons as any that ever rolled out of a factory!

All joking aside—it's not safe to ride on smooth rubber — so re-treading's a precaution you dare not overlook. Have it done before your tire's worn too thin—or we'll have to refuse the job. We use only the best material!

HURON RATION BOARD REPORT

The food panel wishes to tell the country bee-keepers that the same arrangements for feeding sugar to bees, that were in effect in the past will hold for this year. There is no change in allotment nor in the period which is a calendar year. The amount of sugar may apply at the ration board office in person or by mail.

The price panel through its personal visits is checking ceiling prices and finding very minor in amount. The scarcity of violations is in great part due to the effort of the Huron county customers who always check prices before buying. The alertness of the customers is the greatest effort in helping to keep prices down. We can help ourselves by continuing this practice. It is our own advantage to make sure that we look for the best price, no more than posted ceiling prices. This is little for us to do as our part in the all-out war effort.

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD FOR SGT. ELLWOOD KUHN

Final tribute was paid Sgt. Ellwood Kuhn, who paid the supreme sacrifice Feb. 1, 1945, while serving with the armed forces in Germany, when memorial services were held at the Lutheran Church.

Basing his thoughts on the words of the apostle Paul when he says: "and we know that all things work together for the good of them that love God, to them are all things made according to his purpose."

Rev. Roy F. Stine, pastor, gave comfort and thought to the family when he interpreted these words.

The purpose which may be detected in all things is good purpose.

A moral aim is discernible in the universe, and emphatically in human life. All things work together, not of pleasure, but for moral good, the highest and greatest of all aims. The conviction is the key to many difficulties by the observant and reflecting mind."

Rev. Lambertus also pointed out that God is good, the essential quality that makes life happy and blessed. Love to God sweetens every bitter cup and lightens every burden. If we love him, we must know him, trust him, and abide in him. There is the three-fold cord that binds the Christian to God and that keeps him safe in all the changes of life.

Such love will experience the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit.

The American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, members of the family and relatives and friends were present for the service.

LETTERS FROM OUR SERVICE MEN

Jan. 12, 1945

Dear Rev. Boehm:

I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks for the nice box that was sent to me by the church. I enjoyed it very much as well as many others.

Earl E. Fidler

Feb. 14, 1945

Dear Rev. Today I received a letter from you, and glad to hear from you. Also a letter from Mom, too. Today, I was at a Red Cross show, and it sure was a good show. I am still here, but I am getting out of things. Well, I'm getting along fine and out walking again. But it is hard for me to write sometimes, but I'm doing my best. Thanks so much for the Xmas box and the church sent me. It is very nice.

You said something in your letter about coming home. Well, keep up the good work for me, and I will keep it up over here. I hope that the snow is a little deep in spots. Well, I wish I could see some snow.

I'm glad to hear from you, and hope to hear from you again. My ribs are starting to hurt so I will have to go to the doctor. I will make sure I like the Xmas box and mark this for it.

Yours truly, Clyde Myers.

Feb. 20, 1945

Dear Rev. Eddie Wash:

Dear Rev. Eddie Wash, I have written to you today, so thought I would answer it while I had the time. I find it hard the last few months to write a letter. At least you and the rest of my good friends will know that I tried to write.

I think you'll all instantly know what I mean by this. I am asking you to come to the Xmas box and mark this for it. Yours truly, Clyde Myers.

Your
Faces the Greatest Task
in its long history

After three years of war the work of your Red Cross is greater than ever. It must serve millions of our fighting men abroad.
Lonely men. Homesick men. Wounded men. The Red Cross, always at their side, helps to bring them aid . . . cheer and comfort
wherever they may be.

It lends a helping hand to the thousands of returning service men — sick, wounded —
desperately in need of friendly guidance.

remember YOU...and you alone keep the Red Cross alive!

For without your help there could be no Red Cross. There are no "special" funds to keep up its great humanitarian work. The money must come, as always, from the heart of America—YOU!
