YOUNG PEOPLE IN PLYMOUTH

ARE THEY GOOD OR BAD?

Have you heard how thrilled the YOUNG PEOPLE are? Have you heard how the high school people of Plymouth are "carrying on?"

If you are one of those who have been lamenting the deplorable delinquency of today, have you done anything about it but TALK?

There were twenty-one young people on the stage at the front of the Methodist Church auditorium Sunday morning, and they conducted the entire service. They stood in front of the congregation and told how this could be made a better town and world.

WERE YOU THERE TO HEAR THEM?

If you weren't, then do not totally condemn the young people of today as no good. Perhaps you only notice and associate with the ones who you condemn. Go to Church—where you will meet the other kind.

After hearing these young people Sunday morning, I have more faith and hope of living in this world that is with us right now.

Two young men and two young women stood at the pulpit during the time for the sermon and gave both food for thought and food for souls. They might have had a preliminary stage fright, but they were not afraid to say what they thought.

They told us that a bar tender makes more than a teacher in the schools where we send our youngsters to be trained. Which one does more good for your son and daughter—the teacher, or the bar tender? They told us that a head waiter in a New York night club makes more income in one week than our pastor makes in one year. They told us to wake up and think how we use our money, and our talents, that we may not be dealt with as the man in Christ's parable who hid his talent in place of developing it.

They discussed the place of young people in the program of evangelism. Not church attendance, or church architectural understanding, but EVANGELISM. Youth can get the attention of other youth, and can talk about the necessity of a Christian life, and about the state of one's soul, so that there is a very important place in the program of evangelism for young people to work.

In our every day, humorous, common, smalltown lives, they told us, the influence, or "ripples," of an unkind word go on and on, and cause a world damage to another's happiness and morale. The influence of a good and a kind word can go just as far and do a wonderful amount of good—so why not use a kind word, and a good word, and a smile.

A student of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Miss Madeline Meiss gave the fourth, and concluding, sermon, and left us with fine thoughts.

Dick Ross, Senior at Plymouth

High, very capably conducted and announced the order of worship and was a splendid leader for the service. Mary Ellen Thomas read the Scripture lesson for the morning. James Shuts took the choir, composed entirely of young people, was conducted by Mrs. E. R. Haines, and had prepared a special anthem.

Besides the twenty-one young people at the front of the Church, there were a good many in the audience. James Shuts and Gerald Schneider took up the collection for the morning.

Dick Ross, Miriam Johnson, Paul Scott and Willard Ross, Jr. should be commended especially for their preparation and part in the service.

The theme of Youth Sunday in poem, is— "Christ has no hands but our hands, To do his work today, He has no feet but our feet, To lead men in his way."

The next time you shudder at the terrible juvenile delinquency as reported in the papers, take heart and look around for the other kind of young people. You won't find them in the saloons and the pool rooms—you will find them in school, at the discussion and planning table and in Church.

Theater Jobs In March of Dimes

The March of Dimes Campaign throughout the nation will end officially today and the containers placed in the various business houses will be picked up. If you haven't already contributed to this project, don't hesitate. The theatre houses sponsor their own campaign and is not included in the local drive. The Plymouth Theatre reports a total contribution of $50.04 this year, last year $45.50 was donated. This is an unusually good report and the Plymouth Theatre management wishes to thank all who assisted to make such a splendid showing.

A Healthy Citizen Is Usually a Good Citizen

By Dr. J. R. Warren
A good citizen is one who observes the laws of the community, respects the rights of himself and family, and does his share in helping those less fortunate than himself.
But if this good citizen develops an ailment such as ulcer of the stomach, rheumatism, infection, chronic constipation—gradually a change takes place in his disposition, his outlook on life, his work, his family, in fact a change in everything in and about him.

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"
MANY SIDES OF LIFE
I SHALL never forget my first visit to a big city. It was in 1907. I was nineteen years old at the time and had always lived on a farm. Warrensburg State Teachers college at Warrensburg, Mo., had sent me as its official representative to a conference. Naturally I had to pass through the city of St. Louis. A cousin of mine, Newton Alexander, was then working as a stenographer in a hospital conducted by the Frisco railroad. I spent the evening with him in his furnished room. He spoke of going to the park on Sunday. I was amazed at the thought of anyone wanting to spend time merely roaming around out of doors. I thought all the city people went down town on Sunday to see the big buildings. That's the thing I wanted to do. I had lived among trees and open fields all my life. They meant nothing to me. I could hardly believe him when he said that city people took a walk in the country on Sundays.

Today I know nothing which fascinates me more than to take a walk in the country.

Paul Wing should know more about spelling than anyone else in the country. I back this up with information. Paul is the man who has been conducting spelling matches for the National Broadcasting Company. He is the man who conceived the idea and made it popular.

I asked him to give me a list of ten every-day words that he thought were frequently misspelled. Here they are. Try 'em on your friends.

Assassinate. Felicitate. Ferulous. Virulent. Calus (toughened skin). Bouillon. Jodhpurs. Pyrrhus. Avocados. Ecstasy.

These words are used in every-day speech and writing. He has two short catch words which, he says, will send almost anybody down. Here they are:

Whiskey. Wryly.

This gave me start. I've been spelling that last one "wryly" for years.

Judge Carpenter Head of Club

Plans were formulated for the banquet of the Huron Co. McKinley Club at an enthusiastic meeting of the club officers held in the Avalon Hotel, Norwalk, Ohio, on last Wednesday evening. New Dimes Now In Circulation

A limited supply of new dimes bearing the portrait of the late President Roosevelt is being distributed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland at all banks in the Fourth Federal Reserve District which request them.

These new dimes will be made available beginning Wednesday, January 30, 1935.

Distribution of the new coins is being made to the banks on the basis of population to enable the banks to meet the probable initial demands of individuals who desire such coins.

Since the present Liberty-head dime first minted twenty-nine years ago, will continue to be used for trade requirements, Treasury officials said. Only three of the present Liberty-head dimes are being struck.

AROUND THE FARM

It can be done — and here's how, says Successful Farming magazine. Remove the top of a 3-inch can with a can-opener that leaves the top of the can smooth and round, free from any cutting edge. Then center the bottom of the can — on the shaft of a hand-sawer emery wheel in place of the wheel, and stuff the can firmly with steel wool, and usually any adhering dirt is swept off cleanly, without particles of steel wool getting in the finger.

Take the squeak out of door hinges, says Successful Farming magazine, by removing the pins, filing them slightly flat on one side, and packing them with grease as you put them back in.

Successful Farming magazine suggests covering your hammer-mill pulley with a tin can in the winter to keep frost and ice from collecting on it.

If your boot socks roll down around your ankles and under your heels, here is a novel suggestion from one of Successful Farming magazine's readers. Make holes in the sides of sock tops with an awl or an ice-pick.

The going was even rougher because it seemed obvious that the official favored the Madison team. The large crowd which followed the boys to Madison was noisy and highly excited, and continuously "boomed" the referee and on the subject of booping.

It is a subject worth serious consideration, for after all, when the Pilgrims are doing their utmost to win these tough games, it hardly seems fair that those who watch should make it even harder for them by turning officials against them.

Ream was high scorer for Plymouth with seven points, and a dridge of Madison was high point man of the evening with 20.

RESERVES LOSE
Plymouth Reserves lost their game to Madison with a score of 20 to 23, and it was a hard-fought game from beginning to end. The score was tied at the end of the first quarter, and with a lead of six points at the end of the half, looked as if Plymouth would take this game. But Madison came back in the second half to lead by one point in the third quarter, and to win by three points at the end of the game.

LOCALS LOSE TO MADISON

With a final score of 35 to 22, Madison was victorious over the Plymouth Pilgrims Friday in the Madison gym. It was a disappointing game in many respects for the boys were not playing the brand of basketball which they have been playing so excellently for the past few weeks. Although every member of the team was fighting and trying to do his very best the Pilgrims could not set up and carry through the plays which have made them winners so consistently.

The going was even rougher because it seemed obvious that the official favored the Madison team. The large crowd which followed the boys to Madison was noisy and highly excited, and continuously "boomed" the referee and on the subject of booping.

CHURCH NOTES

Feast Days of a People.
Lesson for February, 2; Leviticus 20: 7-8; 23:4-6, 15-16, 24, 27-28, 34, 39-44. Memory Selection: Psalm 126:3. The ritual of the Hebrew religion, in addition to the daily sacrifices, provided for six annual feasts. Most important was the Passover celebrating the birthday of the nation. Similar to our own Fourth of July it had a patriotic significance but was chiefly important because of the religious ideas it conveyed. The blood of the paschal lamb, standing for deliverance from sin, pointed to the work of Jesus and was closely associated with the institution of His supper.

Fifty days after Passover was observed came the feast of Pentecost. It was a feast of thanksgiving for the first fruits of the fields and it may be significant of the full fruits of the spirit. The seventh Hebrew month was regarded as specially sacred and the first day was marked by the blowing of trumpets. This was a reminder to the people of their privileges and may symbolize the joy of religion.

On the tenth day of the seventh month, the great day of atonement, the high priest entered the holy of holies to make atonement for the people. An animal ceremonial, it foreshadowed the final and perfect sacrifice on the cross.

Five days after the day of atonement the full harvest was celebrated in a feast of seven days during which the people dined in booths made of the branches of trees. This commemorated the journeys in the wilderness. It was a season of rejoicing in which men acknowledged God's goodness. We may be reminded of our own Thanksgiving Day in the autumn. Many lessons of value will appear in a close study of the Hebrew festivals. First is that the whole round of our lives should be related to God.

EDUCATION FOR PEACE

"IN PLANNING for permanent peace, the coming generation should be the primary focus of attention." That is the group opinion of 2,000 leading psychologists who recently submitted their plan for world peace to the U. S. congress.

So far as "the coming generation" is concerned, the psychologists said: "Children are plastic; they will readily accept symbols of unity and an international way of thinking in which the evils of imperialism, prejudice, insecurity and ignorance are minimized."

In a democracy we cannot expect the government, or some national education group, to work out a program for educating children in the ways of peace. In the final analysis it will be up to all of us—to teach our own children in our own homes about the evils which lead to war, and to keep in close touch with what they are taught in school along these lines.

Keeping the peace may become the problem of our children, but giving them the right education for peace will be the duty of all of us.

CITY PROBLEMS

WE WONDER if "decentralization" may not be the final answer to a lot of the domestic situations which our country faces.

For most of the major problems—the labor problem, the food problem, the unemployment problem—are chiefly "big city" problems. It would seem as if some cities may be suffering from elephantitis—they have become too large, too clumsy, and too involved to carry on efficiently.

Many students of economics argue that there is no longer any sound reason for millions of people to be concentrated in small areas—that modern transportation makes it advisable for the cities to spread out.

Is this another case where there will have to be a law?

Veterans' Question Box

Ed. Note: This newspaper has arranged with the Washington Bureau of the National Welfare Service, 1616 Eye St. N. W., Washington 6, D. C., to answer questions pertaining to veterans and veterans. These questions will be answered in this column, if addressed in writing. No replies can be made by mail, but this paper will print answers to all questions received.

Q. I am the father of a navy man who served 28 months overseas and who is home on furlough from the Philippines, but not discharged. While he was in the islands he sent home a $300 money order which we have not received. Has he cashed it? It was lost at sea by ship or plane about three months ago. He still has his three months' pay. He went to the Denver postal authorities and filed a claim which he had to put out a blank which they issued to him. How long before he receives any action and will he be reimbursed for the amount lost—A. W., Denver, Colo.

A. An sure you will be reimbursed but it may be several months before you receive a check from the treasury department. The post-office department informs us they are swamped with thousands of such cases. If claim is made for lost money orders within 90 days from date of issue, then the post office department can issue the check, but if more than a year elapses, under the law, the claim is turned over to the treasury department which in turn issues treasury checks for the claim. Ordinarily this requires from three to five weeks. But thousands upon thousands of money orders have been lost or have been stolen, and the department says they are about six months behind now.

Q. If a veteran wishes advantage of schooling under the G.I. bill and lives in the dormitory of the university. Is it possible to buy a home under the G.I. bill, using a small part of the G.I. assistance in permanent residence and resuming the remaining part of the home to a tenant? Do either of these privileges conflict with his receiving other G.I. privileges?—Interested, Denver, Colo.

A. No, there is no conflict. The veterans administration says a veteran may go to school and draw disability checks for the same time borrow under the G.I. bill to build a home.

Q. I have been going to school under the G.I. bill and haven't received my check in the last four months. Why? The new bill increased subsistence from $50 to $60. Will I receive back pay on what checks I have received? If I should re-enlist in the service, would I be entitled to benefits of the G.I. bill after discharge?

A. Answer to the first question is that the veterans administration is so swamped with work they have been unable to keep up with subsistence checks. You will get them eventually. Suggest you contact your regional VA office in Nashville, Tennessee for the additional subsistence that will not be received for approximately 60 days and are retroactive to January 1, 1945. Re-enlistment will not affect G.I. privileges, since the war is not over and you have no privileges good until 10 years after end of the war.

Q. I have a son in Japan. When will he be home? He is with the 328th Infantry medical detachment of the 28th Infantry, Mrs. A. L. F., Mendon, Ohio.

A. The 28th Infantry medical detachment is on permanent occupational duty at Kunagaya, Japan. No word on return.

Doings In Congress

By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM LEMKE

What price war? Recently I pointed out that this war largely depleted the world's natural resources—resources that belong to unborn millions. That it took the lives, by fire, sword and starvation of 100,000,000, many of them women and children. That our own loss was 270,000 killed in battle, another 200,000 died from diseases, and another one million were disabled, physically or mentally, for life. That it plunged our nation $300,000,000,000 into debt and caused the printing of $2,650,000,000 inflationary paper money.

But this is not the entire loss. In addition we taxed ourselves about $90,000,000,000. The million disabled will cost us millions of their productive energy.

Still worse, we are now a militaristic nation. We are spending billions of dollars on more powerful atomic bombs. Our regular Army and Navy will be two million as against about half a million before the war. The wealth that these men would have created will be lost forever. So will their home and family environment. In addition, the GI bill will cost billions before we are thru. We owe it to the discharged veterans to see that they get a new start in life. If we have any sense of justice we will give them the same compensation per month as the "stay at homers" received. We will give them an opportunity to again start where they left off when they were inducted.

Again, the interest on the indebtedness, before it is paid, will amount to another $300,000,000,000. Our indebtedness and obligations assumed in this war will be twice the value of every piece of real estate and personal property in this nation. That information has recently been given to Congress by an institute that prepares statistics. Finally, unless we halt the insanity of the bureaucrats and the Executive Department, in their mad desire to finance the world, we will make loans of billions to foreign nations that will never be paid back.

All this just because ten men were born. So there may be no misunderstanding, I repeat if ten men had never been born, World War II would not have taken place, and another world war might have been permanently avoided. Wars are not made by the people but by their rulers. This is the frightful price we paid and will have to pay. It is so frightful that many of us cannot comprehend the awfulness. There must be some solution. America must lead the way. I shall try to point out the solution—the solution that I have gathered from reading the various suggestions of men and women who are intellectually honest, and who wish to build a better and greater nation, and a better and greater world to live in.
