

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whitehead)

FROM RUMORS PICKED up around the Square one more strike would seem to be getting to the point where most manufacturers are welcoming a shut-down period due to inability to secure materials for their finished products. I believe the country would enjoy a six month's strike on everything. It would give us a chance to turn food up on the woods where we could get away from it all...

DO YOU HAVE Spring Fever? If you don't, you should. The weather has been ideal for it, except the warm rain which came Wednesday evening... let's enjoy the weather and not think of Spring housecleaning!

FROM THE TIME the State of Ohio began issuing auto license plates, P. H. Root has made a hobby of saving his old plates each year. He has them tacked up on a wall in his home. He believes it or not, since 1929 he has had the privilege of securing the same number for his automobile...

ON THE SIDELINE we saw Jud Morrison (who sells gas) riding a bicycle Monday afternoon... LeRoy Brumback taking his baby for a walk, and we do mean INFANTS... Earl McKeen and what blacked Romeo had a certain blond cornered in a soda parlor the other day trying to make a comeback?

Board Holds Meeting At its meeting Monday night, the Board of Public Affairs authorized purchases of equipment and material including two automatic photo-electric cell switches, which will be installed onto the street lights around the Square. This new set-up will eliminate the manual control of the time clock system, now being used, as the new type switches will be operated by light rays, turning on the lights when it gets dark and turning them off when not needed. The change-over will be made some time this summer.

CHESTER BOWLES did a good job of selling OPA out in Toledo, Kansas, Tuesday. But he's going to have to learn to talk out of the right side of his mouth before he can be believed what he says about Inflation!

MY THOUGHT for the Week... A loaf of brown bread and thou... out under an apple tree!

LOFLAND'S DAIRY SELLS milk, homogenized milk, chocolate milk, cottage cheese and butter... when they can get the latter. That is good for man or beast was proven last week when a Florence package of butter, a dog's name, was being enjoyed by a dog on the porch of his owner...

IF MRS. D. K. MCGINTY could skip over the streets assigned to her for solicitation of the Red Cross, as quickly as we skipped over the streets assigned to her for the list of volunteers, her work would all be done; but a little footwork will be necessary as she takes in Plymouth, West, High, Mills Avenues and Railroad Sts. Mrs. McGinty has been a faithful solicitor in past years and we regret that we inadvertently passed up her name.

Burkett Is New Supt. of Streets

The two village jobs which have been combined as one unit for a number of years, have again been made into two separate positions by an ordinance passed recently by the village council. As a result, Harley Burkett was appointed street commissioner at Tuesday night's council meeting for a period of one year.

Newly hired, who has been employed in the F-R-H foundry as a core maker for the past seven years, began his new duties a week prior to his appointment. He will take charge of all street repair and sewage work, as well as maintenance of roads and streets within the village. The job pays $1,500 per year. Clay Hulbert, who has had the supervision of the street department for some time, retains his job as municipal engineer. His salary is $1,500 per year.

Discuss Parking In the routine of business on Tuesday night, councilmen took under consideration a time limit on parking on the north side of the Square, leading into Sandusky Street. No definite action has been taken, but due to a congested condition arising from trucks servicing stores during the morning and afternoon hours, there is some probability that no parking will be established during the major portion of the day. This will be for both sides of the street.

Board Holds Meeting At its meeting Monday night, the Board of Public Affairs authorized purchases of equipment and material including two automatic photo-electric cell switches, which will be installed onto the street lights around the Square. This new set-up will eliminate the manual control of the time clock system, now being used, as the new type switches will be operated by light rays, turning on the lights when it gets dark and turning them off when not needed.

PLAIN DEALER COLUMNIST GIVES 'DARK' OUTLOOK ON DARK WHEAT

EDITOR'S NOTE: While a great number of our readers subscribe to Sunday Plain Dealer, it is felt that there is a possibility you may have skipped one of the best stories in a long time, concerning the food situation. The article was written by John C. Davis, Plain Dealer Farm Editor, and we know you'll have a better understanding after reading this story. We are indebted to the Plain Dealer for permission to use Mr. Davis' story, which follows:

FAMOUS ORDER NO. 144 WILL TEACH DUMB FRIENDS FOOD WINS PEACE MAY BE

As of 12:01 March 1, Ohio's grain and feed millers went on a rationed diet as far as use of wheat is concerned. This is the famous Order 144 issued by Agricultural Secretary Clinton B. Anderson, putting the nation's human population on a brown bread diet. In the case of animals and poultry, it was even farther.

Under the order, as explained this week at the annual meeting of the Ohio Grain, Mill and Feed Dealers Association by Fountain H. Thompson, assistant chief of the feed grains division of the United States Department of Agriculture, the cows, chickens and pigs will have to get along in March on 75 per cent of the amount of wheat they consumed in March, 1945; 70 per cent in April; 65 per cent in May, and 60 per cent in June and the following months of 1946. The picture must make the innocent sufferers realize that there is a tough war ahead—and that the war is over.

This last is important, because the animals had plenty of feed until now. Now that their human masters have ceased killing themselves off, diplomats are convinced that the way to demonstrate that the lethal actions were never sound tools for the construction of a lasting and humane peace is to give the late human enemies a square meal. The square meal is to be provided by limiting the amount of food grains which the animals may consume.

The animals, who must know that they, as well as most of the world's human population, were eating quite well before the shooting stopped, must not be censored too sharply if they fail to understand the necessity for this sudden drastic reduction in their diet. After all, there was food for both while the shooting was on. And, despite enormous difficulty in transportation, the food was getting to both animal and human population in life-giving amounts.

REP. E. M. DIRKSEN TO SPEAK AT MCKINLEY BANQUET MARCH 18TH

Huron County Republicans, at the Annual McKinley Banquet on Monday, March 18th, will have a speaker whose middle name is McKinley. As was previously announced, Representative E. M. Dirksen will be the Speaker, but it has been discovered since his selection that his middle name is McKinley. Born in 1886, he was named for the McKinley President.

While Congressman Dirksen has been in Congress since 1932, having been re-elected seven times, he was previous to that time a contractor, manufacturer of washing machines, a proprietor of a wholesale bakery and attorney. This background of experience has provided him with an unusual familiarity with business problems. In addition he took time out from his career to serve seventeen months overseas in World War I.

Many of his speeches have been broadcast over the major net works where he has won the unstinting praise of people of both political parties. Newspapers, columns and magazine feature writers all over the Nation, including farm journals, herald him as among the best Republican brains in the House, and as a progressive in the Republican party.

Farm Group To Meet March 14

What the farmers are thinking in Ohio and other mid-western states will be revealed on Thursday, March 14th, when a state wide gathering of members of the Ohio Producers Association will be held at the John Simpson High School in Mansfield.

H. Fackler, state chairman of the Association, stated that representatives of farm groups in Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri, Mississippi, Illinois, and other mid-western states will be in attendance at this meeting at which time national problems concerning the farmer will be discussed. Milk producers, poultrymen and dirt farmers are not wholly included within the affairs of OPA and other government agencies are conducted, and it is hoped to draw up a definite platform to put before Congress as a result of the meeting Thursday.

Fackler said that the main reason for proposing a farmers' strike is to attempt to end industrial strikes so that much-needed farm machinery can begin moving out to farmers.

"The equipment," said Fackler, "was used steadily during the war and is now just waiting to get new machines soon if they are to continue meeting heavy food quotas."

The Association mailed out thirty thousand questionnaires this week in regard to the present situation, and it is expected a large number of these will have been returned in time for the meeting and which will no doubt present a true picture of what the average farmer is thinking about industrial strikes, governmental control and the continuance of OPA.

Fackler states that every farmer in this section is invited to the meeting Thursday, whether or not he belongs to the Association, and that it is an important time to hear what other farmers in other states are doing and thinking.

The recent wheat order issued by Agriculture Department has jeopardized the egg and poultry market to such an extent that hatcheries over the country are experiencing an undue setback. Coupled along with this is the poultry industry, dairymen are being blamed for the butter shortage over which they have no control. If the order stands farmers will experience a greater feed shortage than at any time during the past few years under war conditions.

"Yes, there's plenty for us farmers to talk about," said Fackler, "and the time has come when we're going to do more than talk." As farmers, we are interested in real emergency action, not a few bureaucrats who would continue to let the nation go down in food production," Fackler stated. "If it takes national action on the part of dirt farmers to straighten out some of the most unsound legislation ever created, we'll endeavor to tell our Congressmen how to do it to the satisfaction of the majority instead of a few," Fackler declared.

The meeting on Thursday will have two sessions, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Farmers are invited to both sessions.

COUNTRY TOWNS SOLVE HOUSING

The housing shortage is general, but the suffering is most severe in cities, the big cities. Apparently city people don't know what to do about it.

The small towns have their housing problem, too, but they know what to do about it. They construct corn cribs into houses in Iowa; they use quonset huts in California; they build with logs in Wisconsin; and they are building homes with stone, plywood, native lumbars, etc.

The cities are helpless largely because of building restrictions which do not allow certain types of construction. Plywood cannot be used, nor can prefabricated houses be set up. Brick, concrete and steel must be used.

'SPIES' OR 'INTELLIGENCE'

Japan and Germany knew most of our plans for battleships, airplane guns and rockets before war began. Likewise, we had blueprints of their implements of war. Now the nations of the world are in a mad scramble for atomic information. Other nations are "spying" on us, while our "intelligence" organization is watchful to learn what others are doing.

Whether it is known as an "spy system" or "intelligence," it is an old habit of nations to find out about its neighbors. Just as all nations have automobiles, airplanes, rockets, bombs and machine guns, so will all of them have the atomic bomb.

Since the days of their simian ancestors, human beings have had a well-developed curiosity, which has led them into spying on others. Since it is a universal trait, it's hard to blame one nation without blaming all of them.

Dale Carnegie Author of HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE PRAISE SECURES RESULTS

IF YOU want to master the art of calling people's attention to their mistakes in a way that makes them want to do as you suggest, you will be interested in this story.

The incident occurred on one of the new Santa Fe streamline trains. My porter, Roy De Vaun, had another porter helping him make up the berths. His helper had put two holsters in my bed one on the head and another on the foot. There should have been only one.

"You are too good a porter to make a mistake like that," De Vaun said.

And he smiled a heart-warming smile as he said it. So what did happen? A smile in return. The second porter had been praised. He felt good.

He had been given a mistake, he never got excited. Struck by this adroit and unusual method of criticizing a man, I asked De Vaun where he learned this.

He replied, "I learned it from W. K. Bixby. I used to be his valet. Mr. Bixby was an awful smart man—one of the biggest business men in St. Louis, a director in several banks and had something to do with the American Car and Foundry company. I often watched the way he handled people. He never raised his voice, never got excited. If you made a mistake, he never told you about it before other people. If he saw you were confused, he would wait until the next day before saying anything. He loved to praise people; and when anybody did anything wrong, he told him about it in such a kind way that he made him want to do better next time. I learned more from being Mr. Bixby's valet than I did by going to high school four years and attending Kansas University two years."

ASK LLOYD a dollar? "I insured my voice" ex- "And what," asked the rival claimed the famous singer, "for have you done with the money two hundred and fifty thousand?"

This Week in WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. (NWSN)—As Canada's investigation of its atomic spy ring progressed and rumors persisted that ramifications of the case extended to the U. S., Secretary of State Byrnes sought to reassure Americans that this country alone still held the all-important secret of manufacturing the A-bomb.

At the same time, Byrnes took pains to deny charges that the state department had interfered with the FBI's probe of an atomic spy ring in the U. S. to avoid giving offense to Russia. Capitol insiders supported Byrnes' public reassurances, scoffing at reports that a Russian agent had been permitted to leave a west coast port with a suitcase loaded with atomic information, since plans for all phases of A-bomb development would weigh many tons.

Insiders also scotched a story that the FBI had been compelled to take another Red operative in New York City, declaring that the G-men lacked sufficient evidence to lock the man.

Meanwhile, close observers anxiously awaited the effect of the Canadian investigation upon the already strained British-Russian relations. Though openly admitting that its military attaches had collected atomic information from Canada in violation of his recall, Russia sought to minimize the incident by accusing the dominion of trying to release attention from Communist championing of the cause of independence for subject people.

Weighted with the delicate international situation and an all-out legislative fight for his liberal domestic program, President Truman was further harassed by the tension within his own party over his stubborn espousal of Edwin W. Pauley's nomination for under-secretary of the navy. Personal loyalty long has been one of Harry Truman's outstanding virtues, but in this case party stalwarts believe that he may have carried his fealty too far. Continuing to back Pauley in the face of former Secretary of the Interior Ickes' charges that the big Californian had proposed raising $300,000 for the 1944 Democratic war chest if the government would drop its efforts to gain title over underwater oil lands, the politicians fear the President is providing the Republicans with damaging campaign ammunition.

Calling upon Pauley himself to quit, Sen. Tom Stewart (Dem. Ky.) declared: "We have had one Teapot Dome experience in this country, and I hope we do not have another one. You cannot mix oil, water and politics..."

With the objection of state rightists met by eliminating the U. S. education commissioner's supervision over administration of the act, the house passed the $50 million dollar school lunch program by a top-heavy vote of 275 to 101 and sent it to the senate.

Elimination of the disputed feature of the bill came after heated debate during which the state rightists declared that U. S. supervision would create a new bureaucracy and open the door to federal control of education.

Why Don't We Have Lumber FOR HOME BUILDING?

THERE ARE PLENTY OF TREES. PLENTY OF LUMBER MILLS. BUT VERY LITTLE LUMBER FOR HOME BUILDING. WHY?

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE FACTS BEHIND THE LUMBER SHORTAGE — THESE FACTS ARE STOPPING HOME BUILDING:

- 1. Over 50 per cent of our lumber was once cut by small mills. Thousands of these mills were put out of business during the war by OPA ceiling prices. OPA still clings to wartime policies and these mills are still out of business.

2. OPA's blind "hold the line" policies, plus lack of enforcement, have led to the development of a huge Black Market in lumber. "Black Market" lumber is lumber that costs the people more money than they would pay if lumber were flowing to them through the normal channels of distribution—the retail lumber dealer.

3. Wartime ceiling prices made it profitable for the lumber manufacturer to cut sizes of lumber suitable for war uses, but not suitable for home construction. As OPA continues this unrealistic policy, manufacturers continue to cut lumber sizes which are unsuitable for home construction. In some cases premium prices granted by OPA encouraged production of lumber not usable for Home Building. Proper peacetime adjustments have not yet been made to encourage production of home construction lumber such as flooring, ceiling, siding, mill work, plywood—all essential items in home construction. This situation affects all lumber production.

4. The manufacturers of lumber have been provided with a hidden premium on export lumber. The OPA has made it more profitable to produce lumber for export to foreign countries than to produce lumber for home construction.

These are merely examples from the lumber field which indicate the type of OPA action that is blocking the production of home building materials in many fields.

The fact remains that homes cannot be built by any industry or Government agency without materials.

Homes cannot be built without lumber—whether that home be wood frame, brick, concrete, or stone.

The lumber and building material dealers, and the contractors of the nation can build all the homes needed—if they have the materials. But the flow of materials must be unblocked. Only increased production of building materials can solve the so-called housing problem and the unrealistic pricing policy of OPA is the biggest present block to increased production!

Any government program that does not FIRST remove the obstacles blocking production of materials will simply add additional difficulties to the problem facing the building industry.

"Dark" Outlook

ating artificial shortages. Probably, in their simple way, they would reason that the proper course would be to eliminate some of the restricting controls, thereby permitting the grains to flow in natural channels.

If, for example, the price relationships between grain and meat were so adjusted that they did not encourage farmers to neglect the grain on the farm, knowing they can get more for it by feeding it to animals than they can get selling it as grain, the chances are that some of the ample supply of wheat now in farmers' bins, would move to market and there would be no need either to ration humans or animals.

How to Make Wheat Move Or, just suppose that farmers were let know that the price of wheat now $1.00 a bushel would go no higher, but that there was a very real possibility that it might go lower if crop prospects, both here and abroad, became hopeless. Would it not be true that what would happen? The chances are that plenty of wheat, now held on farms, would move to market. That there is plenty of wheat on farms is evident from the recent action of the Commodity Credit Corporation in calling loans on $7,000,000 bushels. The loans were not called on wheat which doesn't exist.

Of course, none of that wheat will come to the market as long as farmers figure to get $2 a bushel or as long as they can make the equivalent of that price by feeding the grain to animals and poultry.

Instead of taking either of the simple actions, the diplomats have decided to tinker the controls. Thompson explained at Toledo that the call was out for farmers to reduce their poultry flocks. Largest consumers of wheat. The action presumes that, with less poultry to feed, a surplus of wheat will develop and farmers will be inclined to sell it. I doubt the success of the idea.

In the meantime, while waiting for time to prove that tinkering will not produce wheat, the human population is on a diet—and the animals are being asked to go on one. Since it is true that farmers think more of their animals than they do of themselves, I doubt if wheat restriction order No. 144 sends much grain to market.

Here's a problem for you, Watson. What living cost has DECREASED while nearly all other costs have gone right on rising?
Are there any clues, Holmes?
My dear Watson, the answer is at your fingertips. What else gives you twice as much for your money as it did 20 years ago? What else is ready day or night, winter or summer, to lighten your tasks and make life more comfortable for you? What else gives you so much service for just a few pennies a day? What else, my dear Watson, but Electric Service?

Yes, Holmes—but WHODUNIT?
Elementary, my dear Watson. Electric service—dependable and cheap—is the result of hard work and experience on the part of the men and women of your electric company—under sound business management.

IT'S TRUE
By Theodore Malesch

Some hummingbirds are so tiny that two will not weigh more than a cent. As early as the year 1267, Roger Bacon pointed out possibilities of communicating by electricity. A drop of two inches in barometric pressure removes a load of about 2,000,000 tons from each square mile of the earth's surface. The population of the United States increases by one person every 35 seconds. The first artificial ice plant in America was established in New Orleans in 1869. At the present rate of consumption, there are 600 years of iron reserves hidden in the earth's ores.

CALL TO PRAYER

During the observance of Lent, there will be a call to prayer twice daily by the ringing of the church bell of Mt. Hope Lutheran Church. We should give ourselves to prayer each day, and especially during this Lenten season no matter where you are, or what you may be doing. Do yourself a service in praying to your God and Saviour. He who thinks he needs no prayer, deceives no one half so much as he does himself.
