THE FOLKS who contributed a couple of years or so ago for the Boy Scout Hut will never realize what their contributions have done for the rest of the hut. It certainly is one of the finest assets the community can boast and too much praise can't be given those who donated cash. They just gave their time and effort to see it built. Incidentally, Elmer Markley sends out a call for help Saturday to do some interior decorating. Mr. Markley wants to help do a good job, come down any time Saturday morning or in the afternoon.

JUST BEFORE leaving this week, Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens, who operated a restaurant here for some months, asked that they be remembered to Miss and Mrs. E. J. Messinger. During their short stay here they made many acquaintances who regret to see them go. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens stored their furniture in front of the store. During a visit to the West Coast, they will stop at Los Angeles and spend some time with Mrs. Stevens's sister.

JUST IN case you overlook the ads this week, we'll give you some tips here that are worth while. Buy your tires at the store of Atlas Tires. You can get any size you wish down at Jud's Sohio Station, also some of that early Spring tires that Tommy Webber has just received large shipments of cosmetics, and he has all the popular brands out on display... better stop in this week-end and what you need for your Easter. Mr. McQuate was really thrilled this week when a furniture van drove up and just about crowded him out of his store with the new living room and bedroom suits in the latest styles are now being shown... Bill Jump just stopped in to say that if there is a man in town who is selling a suit for Easter, that he has quite a selection to choose from at Jump's Store...

AND IN April, Cushman's Shoe Store will be having a big sale for men; watch these store displays when you need shoes this Spring. Jim Root is slowly recuperating from an attack of blood poisoning, but he's getting on his feet. He worked full time... Lash presided with all councilmen present, including William Root, Luther Fetters, Robert Fogleson, Whitney Briggs, Harry Truener and Jud Morrison. Mr. Blair stated that his company was ready to furnish a road roller, scraper and snow plow, all moderately priced. Decision on the purchase of any equipment was tabled until more information is secured on a tar heater. It was the general impression of the entire council that such equipment is badly needed to start the Spring repair work on streets and alleys within the village.

Both men were rushed to the Willard hospital in McQuate's ambulance where they received aid.

F-R-H Shop Talk

James Kennedy is helping out in the shipping room this summer. He succeeds Martha Lofland as assistant shipping clerk. Kennedy graduated from High School in Tennessee, entered service as paratrooper, and was stationed in Japan for ten months after hostilities ceased. He was discharged from the army in November, 1946. Jim, as he is known to all of his friends, expects to enter Tennessee Polytechnic Institute at Cookeville this Fall. He hopes to be a coach . . . he's big enough.

Martha Lofland took a slight up in her duties at FRH. She's in Phil Moore's service department getting a little training under Carol Diehl, who has been with the company for quite a while. There are two stories about Carol. One is that she is resigning to take another position involving civil service exams, and another that she's thinking about "making up her mind" or getting married. Well, in this particular case, we congratulate the two girls at the same time. Marjorie, we know, will continue her duties to an excellent degree. And Carol, whether it's a business profession or housemaking, will do likewise.

Agnes Roberts, who has been working after school in the Grinder Division, has resigned her position in the office. She'll take up "the theater." She's in the class play at Plymouth High, and it was impossible for her to be at both places at the same time. However, we might some day send flowers down to her at the stage of a Broadway theater.

Over in Sam Fenner's sheet metal department I have found a genius. Sincerely I use the genius, because it takes one to do the things that Ivan Entler has done. Entler has been with the company since 1933, and during this time he has been busy at his work on the various bending and cutting machines. Some months ago, F. Root, designer of the Grinder division, wanted a change in the sub-base of the Ideal Grinder. Entler heard about the details and after some opposition and setbacks he determined to design a sub-base made entirely from sheet metal. As a surprise to all concerned a short time ago he displayed a base which requires only spot welding on the corners. The new design is said to be a great improvement over the old style in appearance and cuts the cost over the old angle iron base considerably. Lack of sheet metal will no doubt hold up production on the new base, but those who have seen it admire it for the new trim lines it adds to the Ideal Grinder.

After his success with the grinder base, Entler decided to try a harder problem, that of making a midmill pulley. It seems that the shop has been buying a huge size pulley for the big clay machines. This was not only an expensive item, but delivery dates were somewhat uncertain, plus handling charges. So expertly does Entler know his machines that some measurements the radius of a pulley five feet in diameter, and 18 inches wide. He bends two huge pieces of heavy sheet metal, and when he gets through the two come together within one thirty-second of an inch. This new way of making the pulley requires only the welding of the two pieces to a minimum amount of machining and finishing.

Ivan Entler didn't have to create a new method in these two particular cases. He could have kept on performing his work in the usual routine. But his desire to do something different . . . to see if the thing would work . . . he thought . . . urged him on to do the unusual. Success was his, and not only has he displayed an interest in his work, but his effort will enable the products we make to meet the more competitive markets of the future. So, congratulations, Mr. Entler, and we hope the best of luck with you in any of your future undertakings.

Ginsberg, the Cat, doesn't want any interference when the whistle blows at noon. The boys upstairs in the carpenter and pattern shops have been curious as to why Ginsberg goes on the run at noon. Not so long ago they followed Ginsberg to find he beats it down stairs when the whistle blows to participate in a noonday feast. All morning Ginsberg likes to lounge around in the pattern shop, but when the sound of the whistle reaches his ears . . . he really gets on the ball. He's found that Sam Fenner's crew, including Jud Keller, Ivan Entler, Charlie Davis, Alton Becker, John Dindinger and Sam himself, have quite a variety of food, and he can get a square meal if he's on time. So Ginsberg makes certain when the whistle blows "he's there."

Friends were shocked Monday morning to learn of the death of Perrin Brenstul, which occurred suddenly at his home in New London at noon Saturday. He was 57 years of age, and had been employed at FRH for the past five years. Recently he had been working on a vertical boring mill in the East in machine room. Before his employment at FRH he worked at the old Harrison Printing Co., at New London, which is now the Rotary Printing Co.

Mr. Brenstul seemed in good health, although he had complained recently of pains in his chest. He and Mrs. Brenstul had been downtown Saturday morning to do their shopping, and on their return home, she prepared a noon day lunch. Mr. Brenstul remarked that he didn't feel very good and refused to eat, but instead he retired to a day bed, and within a few short minutes he passed away. He was a member of the Baptist Church, and was interested in many civic events of New London.

Harry Garbath of Willard had "vertical boring mill" on his vertical boring mill. Harry started out on a BIG job, but after he got set up, it was an easy one, for forty-five minutes. It so happens Garbath started the day off with a pulley which was fifty-three inches in diameter and a 21 inch face. The first cut took forty-five minutes, and the second one took forty-five minutes. We're not saying how easy the wind-up will be, for he's got to do some real brain-work to get the machine set up, and it's a little inside. But if you know Harry, he's got the "pep" and the "know-how." Don't know how long he's been around, but one thing is sure of his pleasing personality.

Glenn Mackey and his welders have been cutting up lately. By that I do not mean they've been pulling funny antics, but in all seriousness a swell job of cutting. Take a look at your cigarette, and then just imagine how a little flame about half the size can cut smoothly and accurately steel plate two and one-half inches in thickness. Yes, it's being done every week over in the welding department. In fact, the boys are cutting out nine 20-ton locomotive side frames which are a part of the French government order. It's a little difficult to go into detail, but briefly the cutting flame or torch is mounted on tracks above the piece of steel to be cut. The torch travels the same direction over the steel slab, cutting at the rate of about two feet per minute. While the tracks on which the torch is mounted can travel only a straight line, both sideways and forward, a perfect circle can be cut at any time. There are numerous other "tricks in the trade" which are employed almost daily, but the most outstanding of all is the cutting of the thick steel slabs into any size and shape required.

The welding department is somewhat divided over its political policies. Some of the men are out and out Democrats, while the other half claims the elephants as their emblem. No serious clashes have been encountered as yet, but with the forthcoming national election the sparks will no doubt fly among the welders . . . they usually do. We'd like for you to meet the bunch of clean-cut chaps who really do things fast. There's Al Fry of Mansfield, cutting machine operator; Clarence Williams, who used to build toys as a side-line; Russell Barber, Ross Fallon, Granville Graves, and Jim Ryan. Ryan gives Brooklyn as his former home, and he's under the G. I. plan on the job here. Glenn Mackey is superintendent, and it's high fifteen years for him on this job. Glenn still lives in Mansfield, but one of these days he is going to move to Plymouth (we hope). Well, so long, boys. "Bless be the weld that binds."

Now for a grand finish to this column. The girls won one game last Thursday night at the bowling alley. Try as they may, they can't win 'em all, but they are putting up a good fight. Here are the scores for last week: Fate Root-Heath Co.

That's a lot of piggy banks . . . one for every person in the United States. They hold lot of pennies - but they wouldn't hold enough pennies to pay the federal tax bills of business-managed electric companies for the year 1946. Statistics are dull, but $600,000,000 in pennies - or any other currency - is an interesting sum. We're proud to know our industry contributes so heavily to our national economy. BUT - while we're doing this, government-owned electric operations go virtually tax-free. They enjoy other financial advantages, too - little or no interest on loans, government absorption of losses - thus avoiding responsibilities that every other business must assume. Government was established to govern. It should not engage in any business. But, public government has used its privileges to enter into the world of business, we believe it should operate as other businesses do. It should bear its fair share of taxes, pay interest on loans, compete fairly. In other words, if government is in business, it should be businesslike.

At that time, the County Commissioners will review all applications and determine the greatest need, and make allocation to the veterans who are selected. All that the veteran has to do to make his original application is to write a letter or a post card to the Huron County Veterans Service Commission, Postoffice Box 256, Norwalk, Ohio and an application blank will be forwarded to him at once. After March 20th, applications will be accepted for future reference, but only those who have made application prior to March 20th will be considered in the original allocation.

The veteran will be required to provide the location space for his trailer and the necessary utilities. The Commissioners feel that in many instances it will be possible for the veterans to arrange to place his trailer in the yard or on property owned by his parents or a member of his family and also to be able to make arrangements for electricity an other necessary utilities. A very small and reasonable amount of rent will be charged in order to enable the Commissioners to maintain these trailers in first-class condition at all times. The trailers that have been purchased will accommodate two adults and one or two small children.

Some do not see at all, at all. The beauties of the winter snow. It's not a dreary, dread old thing. But Spring does come so slow.

Yes, when you next look out the window.

Just try to see it all. It's there in every snowflake. Although they're very small.

Winter makes us love much more. The time when Spring comes dancing in. We hold each sunny day so close. They hold no malice, and never sin.

NEW FREIGHT SERVICE STARTED

An innovation in the handling of carload fast freight that will insure dependable siding-to-siding service was introduced by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today, it was announced by President Roy B. White.

This new service will be known as "Sentinel Service," since it will be constantly supervised by a "Sentinel" who will be in direct touch with all fast freight in transit by means of direct company-owned teletype lines. Shippers will be told the time their "Sentinel Service" shipments will take from their sidings to sidings of the consignees rather than the scheduled time of trains operating between terminals as heretofore.

Sentinel Service will be available at regular tariff rates for all types of carload freight except certain bulk commodities. It is immediately affective between thirty of the principle cities located on the B&O and also will include the B&O's Central States Dispatch Route to and from the northeastern states and New England.

As rapidly as communications facilities can be expanded and new schedules can be established, other cities along the Baltimore and Ohio will be added to the service.

The cities at which the new service was inaugurated are: Akron, Ohio; Baltimore, Md.; Buffalo, N.Y.; Central States Dispatch Points; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Columbus, Ohio; Connersville, Ind.; Dayton, Ohio; Decatur, Ill.; Fairmont, W. Va.; Hamilton, Ohio; Indianapolis, Ind.; Lima, Ohio; Louisville, Ky.; Newark, Ohio; Parkersburg, W. Va.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Potomac Yard, Va.; Rochester, N.Y.; St. Louis-East St. Louis, Mo.; Toledo, Ohio; Washington, D.C.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Wilmington, Del.; Youngstown, Ohio.

Know Your INDIANS

Plymouth ball fans have been enthusiastic the past year over the performance of the Cleveland Indians, and especially since Bill Veck took over the tribe. Veck is putting a lot of new blood into the Medicine Men, and the tonic prescribed will no doubt show results during the 1947 season.

It's a lot of fun to watch any ball game, but if you know something of the players you seem to have just a little more interest in the game. So through the courtesy of the Cleveland Baseball Company, we are happy to present a couple of sketches each week concerning the players of the Cleveland Indians. We hope by the time the season gets in full swing local fans will have a complete history of each member of the tribe. This week we introduce Wayne Blackburn and Heinz F. Becker, two newcomers to the team.

WAYNE BLACKBURN "Blackie" (Outfielder)

Born in Indianapolis, Ind., January 9, 1917. Throws left. Bats left. Height: 5 ft. 10 in. Weight: 165 lbs. Hair, black. Eyes, brown.

Wayne Blackburn gambled a three cent stand on a chance with the Indians and won. In 1946 he was the hustling little Indian Bill Veck a letter requesting a chance with the Cleveland club—at least on a "look-see" basis. He later became the 48th medicine man on the spring roster.

This was no blind move or hasty decision on Veck's part, however, for he'd been acquainted with "Blackie's" baseball abilities. Not many years ago this same scrappy youngster had been billed Milwaukee Brewers unmercifully he had been braggad, poked, and ran until it seemed as though he were on the bases constantly.

It's a matter of record that the 29 year old speedster had never, in ten years of minor league ball, fallen below .300 until 1946. But there was a good reason for that drop and Veck knew it. After a late discharge from the army Blackburn, with characteristic zeal, had broken into the lineup too soon and pulled a leg muscle. He continued playing but his average suffered until the injury healed about mid-August. From that point on he again became the scourge of the American Association as he boosted his average sixty points in six weeks, including an unbroken string of 18 games in which he hit safely.

In the eleven playoff games he topped all other performers and drove opposing pitchers crazy as he compiled a .450 average and added a dozen bases on balls for good measure.

This, together with the knowledge that the kid had led his team in every department except homers before entering the big time, was enough for Veck. A telephone call to Donie Bush completed the deal and the little double for Mortimer Snerd was set for the major league trial. He almost had once before. After that 1944 campaign when, as leadoff man, he'd even topped the club man batting, he was purchased by the Boston Braves but the deal was cancelled when he was called into the service.

HEINZ F. BECKER "Dutch" (First Base)

Born in Berlin, Germany, August 28, 1917. Bats left and right. Throws right. Height: 6 ft. 3 in. Weight: 200. Hair, brown. Eyes grey.

One of the first moves made by President Bill Veck when he purchased the Indian franchise last summer was to reach into Nashville and come up with Heinz Becker, a confirmed slugger who had previously served with him in Chicago and Milwaukee. At the time the deal was made the husky first baseman was pounding the ball at a .379 clip for the Vol-

Once in a Cleveland uniform he divided the initial sack guard duty with Frank Gering, but showing no recurrence of the ankle weakness which had cut short his earlier venture in the majors. Although slipping a bit from his sensational Nashville pace, he finished with a .289 average—just two points behind Hank Edwards, the Indians top hitter.

For the 1947 campaign Lou Boudreau is counting heavily on Becker as valuable first base insurance and a dangerous pinch hitter.

Postoffice Warns Calendar Makers On Mailing Nudes

WASHINGTON—The postoffice department took a stand today on calendars that show pictures of nude women.

It's again 'em.

Too many "naked ladies" slipped through the mails on 1947 calendars. So the department issues special warnings to the postmaster and calendar makers not to let it happen on next year's crop.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," said the department's solicitor, Frank J. Delaney. "Officially, we don't like nudes."

Delaney figured this was a good time to issue the warning so calendar makers could slap a little more clothing on calendar ladies who want to ride through the mails.

He said there couldn't be any "hard and fast rule as to the number of square inches of epidermis that may be exposed." Any postmaster who has a doubtful calendar must send it to a three-man board in Washington to pass judgment on the "general impression."

Delaney, poor fellow, will have to pass the borderline cases.

Labor-Saving Devices Will Be Seen At Norwalk

For the dairyman who probably walks many miles in the course of a year in feeding his cows, the home-made feed cart which Charles Knoll, Norwalk Township, will show at the Labor-Saving Caravan will be a well come idea. On Monday, March 10, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. farm people will have the opportunity to see them and order over 100 labor saving ideas. The cart that Charles has built is designed primarily for ensilage feeding but it could be adapted for the feeding of grain.

From Sherman township, Albert Hauck will bring his grass seeder attachment for his tractor. For anyone who has sown a considerable quantity of meadow seeding the opportunity to do the job more quickly and easily will be greatly appreciated.

Poultrymen will be interested in the poultry feeder which Fern Buckingham will exhibit from his farm in New Haven township. Clayton Albright, of Peru, will exhibit one of his poultry water stands.

W. F. Porter, Fitchville, has a commercial brush saw which he has been using to clear his pasture of thorn apple bushes. He will exhibit this for the benefit of farmers who have a similar pasture problem.

From Greenfield township, Lewis D. Conger will bring his labor saving hay rack. Mr. Conger has mounted his 18-foot rack on a dual wheel tractor. Because it is built on 2-wheels, Mr. Conger is able to back it around most easily. He also has a moveable hay rack so that one man can handle the hay coming up from the loader.

In the past few years farm fence building has been curtailed because of wire shortages. Roy Smith and sons of Greenfield township, have designed a post hole digger on their farm tractor. This labor saver takes a lot of backaches out of the job of setting fence posts. Needless to say it saves a good many hours of time in the total job of fence construction.

Any farmer who has a labor-saving device which he is willing to exhibit should contact Clayton Albright, phone Norwalk 1548, or the Agricultural Extension office. Farm labor promises to be short in supply for several years. Any equipment which farm people can use to save labor will be important in agricultural production in the coming years.

Miss Martha Jane Brown Becomes Bride of Keith S. McPherson

Miss Martha Jane Brown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of near Tiro and Keith S. McPherson of Mansfield, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23 at 2:30 in Trinity Lutheran church at Crestline with Rev. Dennis T. VanSoest officiating for the double ring service. Vases of white gladioli added to the beauty of the church altar for the occasion.

Harshar of Shelby, a cousin of the bride, was Maid of Honor, and Dale McPherson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Malcolm McPherson, William Day and Joseph Fazio.

The bride was lovely in a dress of winter white wool crepe. She had a white Bible topped with a cluster of gardenias. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace with ear rings to match. Her attendants wore aqua rayon crepe dresses with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the bride chose a dress of medium blue rayon crepe and wore a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a suit of grey wool and her corsage was of red roses.

Miss Louise Wiest was the vocalist singing. Through the years, "I Love Thee and I Love You Truly."

A reception was held in the church dining room following the ceremony, with Mrs. Hugh Peters and Mrs. Forrest Lehr of Tiro, serving. The table was beautifully decorated with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom; candles added to the beauty also.

The new Mrs. McPherson has made her home in Shelby and has been employed at the Fossil Dept. and Laubies Ford Garage since her graduation from Tiro High School three years ago. Mr. McPherson has been associated in business with his brother in a Body & Fender repair shop in Plymouth, since his return from three years in service with the army.

Upon their return from a wedding trip of undisclosed destination, the couple will occupy an apartment at 137 1/2 West Main St. in Shelby.

On Wednesday they start on a comprehensive sightseeing tour of the city, often called the Paris of the New World. Thursday, they leave Mexico City for a trip out to San Juan Teotihuacan where the Ancient Pyramids of the Sun and the Moon are located. They visit the National Shrine of our Lady of the Guadalupe and at San Augustin Acocman will be taken en route.

Friday the 14th is scheduled a two days trip to Zochimilco, the world famed Floating Gardens of Mexico and on to Taxco, Mexico's Silver City where they stay over night.

Other trips include the summer resort of Cuicatlan, the City of Maximilian and Carlotta and in modern times, of the Morrow's where Lindberg courted Ann.

After a day into the warm valleys and looking over the coffee, banana and sugar plantations, the group spends another night at the luxurious hotel at Guadalupe. Bert Solves the Labor Problem

You hear a lot about capital and labor nowadays, as if the two could never get together. But look at Bert Childers—who has 420 acres of producing land, a fat-headed head of cattle, and two farm hands working for him.

If anyone has a head—whether it's about wages or hours or equipment—they talk it over at those friendly evening sessions.

I don't say all labor problems can be solved as Bert's. But from where I sit, the basic principle applies to any farm or factory or business: A principle of confidence and mutual respect, of daily talks together in a friendly and congenial atmosphere.
