CONTINUED RAINS have not only slowed up corn work, but they have also interfered greatly with Bill Jumps' golfing activities. During the hour, Bill was situated in Panama Canal Zone, and West Coast stations, and he devoted his spare time to "putting" the little white ball. Bill says the only thing he does not like about golf is that if you go to it too seriously it becomes work.

I AM told that my opinion on farm conditions didn't amount to peanuts, or shall I say a tinker's — you know what. 'Tis true that the farmer, had he been able to plant, would have stood a chance to get something off the field. . . and we didn't mention a normal crop. But as the situation stands now we offer the advice of a farmer friend, who suggests that the farmers go in for rice planting this year. There are many fields where rice paddies would be ready, and if the rain doesn't stop soon, there won't be any need of planting rice.

CHARLIE SMITH saw me the other night, and incidentally Charlie happens to be one of my farmer friends, who came right out and stated that we generally can blame all this rain on the Democrats. "Now Charlie is a Democrat. . . we don't say how a party goes, but for fear of hurting his feelings, I'll leave the mouth shut and did a lot of thinking. . .

AND THERE are about forty million Americans that are going to think in 1948 when it comes to voting for the President. Failure to sign the tax reduction bill this week won't do the Democratic party any good as a vote getter for it will have cost the taxpayers four billion dollars. A little extra change at the peak of high prices would help almost everyone a little bit.

MEAT PRICES continue to soar, and they haven't missed Plymouth either. What caused the rise in prices can be pointed to various reasons, but in the end, there is simply a meat shortage. The surrounding country is ideal for such a venture.

The purpose of Mr. Long's visit here was to check over the acres of the late Hoffman farm, which Mr. Burr Knaus is manager. As a farm analyst, Mr. Long takes samples of the soil every 425 feet, plots in field and farm. The soil samples are taken into his laboratory at West Lafayette and analyzed, and then recommendations are made as to what type of fertilizer is needed to build up the soil. Mr. Long states that only two farms in 70,000 acres of ground which he has examined did not need any building up.

In taking up his work as an analyst, Mr. Long states that he was prompted to do so while with the Ohio University extension station for six years. He said that farmers would come in and seek information, but it was not sufficiently common. He thought it could be understood. It had purpose to make the data and information so easy to use until any farmer can follow up the recommendations without any further help.

The Farm Quarterly, one of the country's outstanding magazine was so interested in the work Mr. Long is doing until they prepared an intensive story, using colored maps and charts, as well as many illustrations in their current spring edition. The story of Mr. Long's activities in this area, The Five Star Farm, located in southern Indiana, and owned and operated by a woman. The results of the University extension station in the story, and proves to be so interesting until The Advertiser requested permission to reprint the story. The first installment appears elsewhere in this issue.

In securing the services of Mr. Long, Mr. Knaus and Mr. Hoffman, both believe they have taken the right step in getting the fields of the old LaDow farm into high productivity, and at the same time keeping the land in excellent condition. Results of the LaDow Farm, or rather the Charles Hoffman farm, will probably be available within a year or so, and should prove interesting. The Hoffman Farms consist of thousands of acres, and is one of the largest individual farms in this section.

WITH THE passing of John Beelman last Friday, Plymouth lost one of its best known citizens. As a farmer, he was interested in farming, and as a banker, he always gave the best of his personal attention to his banking activities. Although he did not attend or partake in any of the

J. BEELMAN DIES AT HOME ON FRIDAY

Last rites were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the McQuate funeral home for John I. Beelman, 71, who passed away at his home Friday afternoon, June 13, 1947. Mr. P. Paetzlich, pastor of the Lutheran Church, paid a splendid tribute to one who has been part of the community for more than half a century; and Rev. J. Adams expressed the sentiment of hundreds who had known Mr. Beelman in many floral pieces, and the large attendance were indicative of the many scores of friends who held the highest respect for him. Interment was in the Mausoleum in Greenlawn cemetery, Plymouth.

Born in Richmond township, Hancock County, October 3, 1876, Mr. Beelman moved to Plymouth in his early youth, and here he grew into young manhood. At the age of 19 years he became associated with the old First National Bank, and when the present Peoples National Bank was organized in 1904 he became one of the founders. On June 1, 1934, just thirteen years ago, Mr. Beelman was elected president of the Peoples Bank, to succeed the late Bob Nimmons. During his tenure in office, Mr. Beelman had to chart the course of his bank, following one of the country's best-known depressions. . . . In a few years of normal business activity, and through a four-year war period. His knowledge of farm life was of great benefit to him in this cycle of normal changes, and when he was sought for advice, he was able to give it.

Although he had slowed up somewhat the past two years, Mr. Beelman was not considered in ill health, despite the fact that his heart seemed to be in great trouble. He had been able to get around daily, and continued to make his visits at the bank to his friends, and to the Square. Thursday of last week he remained home all day, and Friday morning he failed to leave the house. This habit was not unusual, but after his morning day meal Friday, he went to his room, and at 1:30 death had come peacefully to him. The news of his passing was quite a shock to the community, and especially to his associates at the bank and to close friends.

Mr. Beelman was preceded in death by his wife, Edith Buck Beelman in 1940. He maintained his home on Sandusky Street since, and on Apr. 15, 1945 he was married to Mrs. Mary E. Beelman of Dayton. Surviving are the widow; a son, Harry E. Beelman of Chicago; three daughters, Mrs. A. E. Brumback, Shelby; Mrs. Webster DeWitt, Mansfield; and Miss Thelma Beelman of Columbus; also three grandchildren, and three sisters, Mrs. Harry Beelman and Mrs. Susan Beelman (Gallon) and Mrs. Edith Brundage of Dayton.

LAST RITES HELD FOR ISAAC ARTZ

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the Dye Funeral Home, Shelby, for Isaac Artz, 76, who died at his home at the Carmean Rest Home, Willard, Dr. D. B. Young, pastor of the Shelby Lutheran Church, officiated, and interment was made in Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

Mr. Artz was born Jan. 2, 1871, and had spent his entire life in the vicinity of Shelby. He was a member of the Lutheran Church, and was well known in this community. He had been ill only a week before his death.

Survivors include his three daughters, Mrs. Glen Myers, and Mrs. Roy Pittenger of Shelby, and Mrs. Yvonne Varchmin of Mansfield, and one son, James Artz of Shelby. Thirteen grandchildren, eight grandchildren, one brother, Charles of Shelby, and one sister, his wife preceded him in death eleven years ago and by one grandson, Howard Artz.

THE WEATHER

Rainfall for this month from June 1 to 8:00 A. M. June 18th amounted to 8.02 inches, compared to a normal of 2.71 inches or an excess of 5.31 inches.

Total rainfall since April 1 and excess is as follows: April . . . . .5.49 Excess 2.67 in. May . . . . .7.55 Excess 4.46 in. To June 18. . . . .8.02 Excess 5.31 in.

Total . . . . .21.06 14.44 in. The total average annual rainfall for this station is 34.27 inches so we now have had more than one-half that amount in a little more than two and one-half months.

There is still time to plant corn, soy beans and potatoes provided we have a week or 10 days of dry weather . . . and also a late fall. Here's hoping.

CAR CHECKING STARTS JULY

President Truman's national safety campaign is set to start on June 22, when newspapers, magazines, radio will start a nationwide campaign for safe driving. Starting next Thursday the Advertiser will publish a series of safety articles prepared by experts of the country, and you'll find figures that will astound you.

Anticipating a main part of the program, Ohio, with its thousands of motorists, expects to join in the campaign going to the motorist in a highway check of motor vehicles. Auto drivers have about two weeks which to put their motor vehicles in good mechanical order in preparation for a police-state highway patrol traffic check. From July 1 through July 31 police and patrol officers will set up road blocks (at unannounced times and places) where vehicles will be checked for mechanical efficiency.

Serious defects will be cause for on-the-spot arrests. Minor defects will result in drivers being warned, but officers will be issued traffic check windshield stickers. Vehicles with no defects will be issued stickers following the inspection.

Will Get Stickers Once a vehicle bears a sticker it will be exempt from further inspection. The stickers will be issued by the Highway Safety.

State highway patrolmen said drivers who ignore orders to have defects repaired will be subject to arrest. Vehicles will be inspected for inadequate brakes, horns, windshield wipers, headlights, taillights, stop lights, tires, steering, rear vision mirrors and other defects.

SOIL ANALYST MAKES SURVEY OF LOCAL FARM

C. M. Long, outstanding farm analyst, of West Lafayette, Indiana, visited the Plymouth county farms of weeks ago visiting at the Burr Knaus home, west of town. Mr. Long, who has just returned from a tour of Missouri, Kansas, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, advised that the farmers in those states are just as late with crops as Ohio. He pointed out that in Indiana the corn crop is generally waiting until May 20th before planting corn to avoid the ravages of the corn borer, but says that corn should be planted by the 25th of May, because after that date the yield falls off one bushel per acre. Late crops will be later unless the rains halt, which is the general opinion.

"Five Star Farm"

A FARM ANALYST TAKES AN INDIANA FARM IN HAND AND LAYS OUT A PROFITABLE LONG TERM SOIL BUILDING PLAN FOR THE OWNER.

Editor's Note: Through special permission of Farm Quarterly, published at 22 East 12th Street, Cincinnati, we take a real pleasure in bringing to our readers a story about a farm which had hit bottom. The story is doubly interesting to us, for we've talked at length with C. M. Long, who supervised the activities on "Five Star Farm," and who greatly enlightened us on soil conservation. As a farmer, you'll no doubt cross your fingers while reading the story, but remember, what science has done for industry . . . rubber . . . oil . . . metals . . . fresh young seeds. . . BEDS! It should be buds.

This is Part One of Five Star Farm. The concluding chapter will be printed next week, and this will be in more detail which covers the average farm.

"When you look through a farm operation plan laid out by an expert like C. M. Long you have the feeling that it is so logical and direct an approach to profitable farming you should have thought of it yourself," Mrs. DeVane said. Mrs. Dorothy Neff DeVane as she thumbed through the charts, tables and facts contained in a fat brief case stamped "Five Star Farm."

A series of unexpected events left her suddenly marooned on the rough, partially cleared farm in Putnam County, Indiana six years ago. An farm analyst, whose problems forced her to turn to her friend, Fred O'Hair, for help and advice. He is the President of the Central National Bank, Greentree, Indiana. She walked into his office with a fistful of debts, a $200 balance in her checking account, a mortgage on one hundred and twenty acres of partially developed land and the increasing financial demands of raising and educating two children. O'Hair took time to listen and talk over her problems, although a doctor's meeting was scheduled.

Fred O'Hair is no ordinary country banker; he believes that prosperity for the farmer and the city man are inseparable. To back up his beliefs his bank has sponsored field days, educational meetings and even airplane rides to the farmers to look at their field lay-outs and erosion problems.

Fred O'Hair did not hesitate to supply Mrs. DeVane with the money she needed to pay her immediate bills and to refinance her farm machinery. He added this suggestion: "We would like you to employ a farm analyst, or a farm management service, and stay with their counsel." This is a new idea in banking, fostered largely by Chester Davis of the 8th Reserve Federal Reserve District Bank. He classes O'Hair as one of the most progressive bankers in the neighboring 7th Federal Reserve District.

"The farm analyst doesn't appeal to some people, but Mrs. DeVane's experience made her ripe for the idea. She was on a rising market; any of her neighbors were making money. . . . But in the back of her mind she was worried. The fertility of her farm wasn't being improved.

"I was driving the tractor thru the east pasture to start plowing the corn field beyond," recalled Mrs. DeVane, with a tone of her head to indicate the general direction. "The creek was swollen and the cross-over was just ahead. I looked twice to make sure that I had the right place. Some of the banks being 12 feet apart they were 20. There had been some cat-tails and water grass growing on the banks, no water was on the banks, but the remains of a grass fire. Then I remembered the hired man having told me that he had burned a dead lamb on the creek bank. . . . There must have been at least 20 tons of soil gone from that unprotected bend. I forgot all about the plowing and headed the tractor down the bank. The farther I went the worse it looked. There were washes and slides starting all along the bank. . . . Some had come from cattle pastures developed because there wasn't any grass left.

"Ground that I thought firmly anchored was slipping into the creek and getting away from me. I was taking the fertility out of the soil and wasn't making more than a modest living doing it. That tractor seat was a firm support and it felt good, but even Harry Ferguson and his hydraulic lift couldn't have raised the load of gloom that settled down over me. . . . Love That Soap "I thought back. The reason that I had bought this place was that I liked the life of the farm and I wanted my children to do the city. Farming made you feel that you were doing something that mattered. Working in the map the slope of the land. He will record all of the slopes and indicate what soil loss has taken place. Up to a 50% loss can be built back with planning. Beyond this it is expensive business, and the final recommendation may be to turn such land back to the Indians.

After the soil types are designated and plotted on his map the technician will know in a basic way the capabilities of the various fields. If he runs into a rare soil type he always has the research files at the state university to fall back upon. Soil types tell what nature has put into the land, what crops it is best suited to growing, or if it should be put into crops at all. The soil type map for the Five Star Farm is shown on page 90.

With the soil type map completed the technician is ready to run his soil tests. These tests will indicate the condition of the soil at the present time, and show clearly what man has done to the soil. They will also give the key to what must be done to get maximum crop yields and build up the soil fertility. The samples are taken with an earth auger, according to soil types and fields. The standard is a sample taken every four hundred and twenty-five feet in each direction.

Next the technician will use a hand level of the Abney type to

From where I sit . . . by Joe Marsh

How to Go to Sleep

We were sitting around Bill Webster's parlor Friday evening and the talk turned to the best way of overcoming sleeplessness. . . . like breathing real slow and deep, suggesting that you weigh a ten, or simply throwing away the pillow.

The consensus favored counting sheep. But right away was the question: what kind of sheep? There were some votes for comin' Merinos, Shropshires, Oxford and Dorseta. Ed Mapes said he had best luck counting crossroads.

Finally, Bert Childers spoke up with his formula: A light snack and a mellow glass of beer at bedtime. Sort of puts you in the mood for quiet thoughts and peace of mind. Let's you relax . . . and "ho hum," off to pleasant dreams!

From where I sit, there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer to smooth away the creases of the day, relax a body, and pave the way for a good night's sleep. Try it, and see if I'm not right.

CONG. LEMKE TELLS ABOUT AGRICULTURE BILL AND REA

The cuts in the agricultural appropriation caused some real heated debate. The bill, as finally passed by the House, cut the Budget estimate twenty-eight percent. It is true that there are duplications, and that some cuts should be made, but not on wealth producing projects such as the REA, soil conservation and others. The cut in school lunches, while we are giving billions to foreign nations, is indefensible.

The bill came within six votes of being recommitted, with instructions that the AAA appropriation be increased to $360,000,000, that the REA appropriation be increased to $270,000,000, and that the school lunch appropriation be increased to $75,000,000.

The slayers of wealth creating projects got a real scare. They had better heed the warning; the middlewest will not be wiped except the eastern dictators. The Appropriation Committee apparently thinks that it is all right to economize on the backs of the American people, and then dish out billions to foreign nations. It has gone about as far in this direction as Congress will stand.

The Committee claimed that the REA has more money than it can spend. It said that the REA co-ops are capable of running their own business without Federal supervision. That may be true in some localities but not in others. In North Dakota, only one farmer out of ten has electricity. These farmers, who help feed the Nation, are entitled to some of the conveniences enjoyed by city people. Modern civilization and full production make it essential that the REA be extended to every farm in this Nation.

The Committee forgot that the REA is still young and growing. It forgot to tell Congress that every dollar the REA gets from the Federal Government, it pays back with interest, and that it has paid back more than it is obligated to under existing contracts.

It overlooked the fact that the REA has a backlog of applications now totaling $240,000,000. This figure will be $270,000,000 by July 1, against which the REA will have only $10,000,000 in unallotted funds. It would take $260,000,000 to break even on July 1 without any money to cover new applications through 1948.

Under the law of 1935, there is a permanent appropriation for agriculture of a sum equal to thirty percent of the custom—duty—receipts. This amounts to $148,000,000 a year. This is used by the Department of Agriculture to steady the market for surplus commodities.

This $148,000,000 the Appropriation Committee attempted to grab. It put over a gag rule preventing a point of order from being made against this grab on the grounds that it is legislation in an appropriation bill. Under fire, the Committee retreated, and asked that the provision, repealing this law, be stricken from the bill.

JUNIOR LEGION TEAM LOSE GAME

Plymouth Legion team lost to Shelby Legion on Saturday afternoon by the score 22-10. The local team showed lots of improvement but the pitching still is weak. Two hundred many walks and a few errors cost the score for Shelby to go up. However our boys hit the ball well and garnered 10 runs for themselves.

On Sunday afternoon at the local diamond, Plymouth beat Crestline Legion 7-6 in 4 innings. With Rennie Trauger on the mound and B. Schreck catching, a neat job of pitching was done. Jacobs scored the winning run in the fifth on Trauger's single. Trauger (Gr.) had 14 strikeouts.

"LADY LUCK" CAN HELP REDSKINS

How often does a team have to come from behind before a smile can be seen on the "Lady Luck" will reward them with a victory? This was the question puzzling Manager Lou Boudreau as the Indians closed their recent disastrous home stand.

While dropping eight out of eleven, the luckless Indians failed to draw even or take the lead in only three. And those were skillfully administered whitewashings.

Three times the Tribesmen jumped into an early advantage and won going away but it's the five heart-breaking losses that have the board of strategy wondering.

In each of these games the Indians bounced back from apparent defeat to overcome deficits ranging up to five runs. Yet not once were they able to wind up on top as everything in the book from balks to homers combined to bring up their hopes.

Naturally, these spine-tingling rallies were crowd pleasers of the first order but the net result was negative as the Tribe skidded below the 400 mark and into the second division for the first time since opening week.

A close perusal of the Indian lineup would confirm any feeling that these misfortunes were only temporary but in the meantime the 475,229 fans who have watched the first 21 contests in the Stadium are impatiently looking forward to greener pastures.

Actually the Redskins move east only four and a half games behind the pace setters but most of the victories that hold them up have been denied the home supporters. Notoriously an unsuccessful road club in the past, the 1947 Indians have won eleven of nineteen on foreign fields and only eight of twenty-one in Cleveland. But it's just those kinds of unpredictable maneuvers that keep baseball in a class by itself.

From Our Subscribers

From Leesburg, Florida, comes a note from Mr. and Mrs. Park Mosier stating they are getting some fine weather and plenty of fresh vegetables out of their own garden. They wish to be remembered to the members of the Plymouth friends and state they enjoy the "comings and goings" of Plymouth through the Advertiser.

From California
That "Plymouth Personality" that draws folks back to the home town year after year, is felt even by those who are not natives of the town but have either visited or spent a portion of their years here.

Recently we received such a nice letter from Miss Neva A. Chappell of Sacramento, California, that we are going to share it with our subscribers. Miss Chappell never lived here but still takes and enjoys the Advertiser after all these years of separation. Her brother Russell formerly operated a grocery store in a portion of what is now the Peoples National Bank, and her mother resided on Sandusky St. near to the city's Garage. The letter follows:

845-35 St. Sacramento, Calif., Dear Editor of "The Plymouth Advertiser":

Each time I read with interest of the different activities in Plymouth—the spirit of the village is quite modern.

When my family moved to Plymouth I was a student taking kindergarten training in Detroit. While I never lived in Plymouth my vacations were spent there over a period of many years. Some of the finest citizens in your community were an inspiration to me. My friends, many of whom, have passed on but their will always be a tie there. Plymouth has a personality all its own. The youth of today are building on substantial foundations of long standing.

I came to Sacramento in August 1925—one certainly files! Our city is one of the most beautiful cities I have known. Capitol Park is filled with trees, shrubs and flowers from all over the world. It is located in the heart of the shopping district.

Wm. Land Park is much larger. Its natural beauty is its rolling fields covered with trees and shrubs; or its sunken gardens with varieties of flowers that grow—scrubbed bridge from which visitors watch children and grown up playing in the lake. The Zoo with all its attractions—Goldfish, and other picnic grounds and club houses for the convenience of guests attract many.

We live a block away from McKinley Park. It is impossible to describe the beauty of its gardens today. There is a club house that includes a branch of the Public Library, an auditorium, a large open air swimming pool, children's play grounds, tennis courts, picnic grounds and a pond with all its amenities. The park and flowers are gone. We have many roses and a large variety of flowers in our garden.

You will find my check for $20 to pay my subscription. With best wishes to you and all our friends in Plymouth.

Yours sincerely
Neva A. Chappell

"ROSS" SELLER SELLS HIS EARLY START AS A NEW LONDON BARBER

Some of our older readers will be interested in the story about R. H. Seller of New London, which appeared in a recent issue of The Mansfield News-Journal. Mr. Seller's parents resided in Plymouth more than forty years ago in the family home on Sandusky Street.

Ross learned his barber trade from one of Plymouth's oldest residents, under the tutelage of the late Louis Derringer in the room which now houses Bob's Barber Shop.

Since opening his shop in New London, Ross has enjoyed good business all through the years, and he takes the high respect of the entire community. The story below gives you the reason why Ross remains about the most popular fellow in his home town.

"A remark overheard forty-four years ago that New London has 'enough barber shops now' made R. H. Seller mad and today he's one of the village's oldest and most respected businessmen.

Seller, known to the villagers as "Ross," opened a barber shop in New London on June 10, 1903. He had $2.40 in his pocket, a lot of second-hand barber shop tools, a good wife and unbounded faith. "Telling of the incident which aroused his ire, Seller said he and Ray Bonney, then a youngster, were unceremonious his few possessions shortly after his arrival in the village.

"I TOLD BONNEY to take the crating to the back room — it would make nice kindling next winter," he said.

"A nearby storekeeper, watching us, overheard the remark and said to Bonney, 'No need of that — we have enough barber shops here now and he won't last that long.'"

"When Seller opened his shop in what is known as the 'Black Block,' he charged ten cents for a shave and a quarter for a hair cut.

"He recalls his first customer, W. M. Messenger, now city treasurer, who was followed by 'Relgie' Rice, a painter and paper hanger here.

"THE WHOLE LENGTH of the street on which the shop now is located was covered with a wooden awning over the curb. Seller recalled that the streets were 'knee deep in mud.'

REP FRANK PIERCE DRAMATIZES HIS OPPOSITION TO PENSION BILL

According to press reports coming out of Columbus Sunday, the closing hours of the Ohio Legislature were filled with many interesting incidents, one of them including an act staged by Hunon county's representative, Frank Pierce. Old man Demosthenes probably turned over in his grave a few times while the debate of bills was going on favoring judges' pensions and the coloring of oleomargarine.

Representative Pierce, had delivered his opposition to the judges' pension bill, dramatizing his speech somewhat. Had he been robed in the toga of a Roman senator, he might have passed for a Cicero or a Cato. At any rate Representative Pierce did such a splendid job of dramatics until Rep. Griffin, who opposed the margarine bill, lent his efforts into the recitation of poetry, portraying the plight of the farmer in verse. Speaking over a public address system, Griffin recited the long poem fervently. Waving his arms, clutching his throat and twisting his face, the smileless Griffin surprised colleagues with his dramatic accomplishments.

Midway in the recitation, the already dramatic scene was climaxed by the appearance of Rep. Paul H. Ballard (R-Jackson) marching down the center aisle of the house carrying a large flag, looking as much as Ballard could like Uncle Sam and the "Spirit of '76" rolled up into one.

Ballard faced the speaker's rostrum, turned and marched out again without a word as Griffin shouted how the farmer rolled out of bed at five in the morning to milk the cows, slop the pigs and do other farm chores.

Both Griffin's and Pierce's dramatic efforts must have been successful. The bills that would have permitted the sale of colored oleomargarine and pensioning of judges both were defeated.

ATTEND CONCERT

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Cramer and grandson Lanny Gooding and Miss Florence Danner attended the concert Monday evening of the Masteringers in Mansfield.

SIXTY HORSES AT LOCAL SHOW

Despite a cold windy day last Sunday, there were sixty horses entered in the Plymouth's Saddle Club's first horse show. There was a good attendance throughout the afternoon, and only one out of the twelve entries scheduled was cancelled.

The continued rains of the past week caused the Club to change its plans for holding the show, and at the last minute a new site had to be selected. The show was held at the Riggie farm east of Plymouth.

Greenwich is planning a show this summer, and Plymouth Saddle Club members expect to participate in this event.

Plymouth Seniors Enjoy Three Full Sightseeing Days In Washington

On the highest point in Washington is located the Franciscan Monastery and Church of Mount St. Sepulchre. In the church are reproductions of several shrines in the Holy Land, and underneath it are excellent copies of the Roman Catacombs. In the valley near the monastery may be seen facsimiles of the Grotto of our Lord's Agony, also of the world famous one at Lourdes, France, and the Tomb of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Our stomachs told us it was time to eat again, so we stopped at a Hot Shopping. These eating places are located all over Washington and vicinity. We had wonderful food and were very well satisfied. They were having their 26th Anniversary and they gave each one of us a menu for a souvenir.

Hoping on the bus, we took off for Annapolis, the home of the United States Naval Academy and the Capital of the State of Maryland, which was about forty miles away. Here we saw the largest indoor swimming pool in the world, the Chapel which has a history in itself, Bancroft Dormitory, and the building that was being decorated in blue and gold for the June graduation exercises. Many of you have heard of the Ring Dance, well, we walked through this huge ring where the girl places the ring on the boy's finger. The Academy Chapel contains the Crypt of John Paul Jones. Surrounding the tomb of Jones, the Father of the Navy, are eight huge marble columns, which makes the total of twelve including those we saw at the Pan-American Union Building.

Returning to an Annapolis, many of us went shopping. We had dinner at the hotel and then our bus took us to the pier where we boarded a cruiser for a Moonlight Ride up the Potomac River. From the boat you could see the Capitol's dome, Wash. Monument and the whole city lighted up. There was dancing to a good orchestra on the boat. Several hours later, we docked at Marshall Hall which is an amusement park. There were high school Seniors from all over the Eastern United States. The South Carolinians were having an awful time trying to understand the Pennsylvanians. We came back to the boat's resting place and headed for the hotel for sleep.

Wednesday morning our schedule gave us time to go shopping right after breakfast until 9:45; that meant about an hour. We walked several blocks to the shopping district only to find the stores did not open until 9:30. We looked in windows up and down the streets wishing the stores would open. Giving up, we hurried back to the hotel to find the bus waiting for us to take us to the National Gallery of Art. This building is the most recent and magnificent addition to the group of treasure treasures in Washington, having been officially opened to the public during March 1941. All masterpieces in canvas, bronze and marble are the originals. Here we met the Director of the Gallery and had lunch at its cafeteria. Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Bates joined us and we were introduced to them. We were all impressed with Mrs. Whitney's zest for living and to us she certainly had plenty of sparkle and I don't mean "Sparkle Plenty" B. O.'s daughter. On the steps of the Gallery we had pictures taken and had a very lovely time. We had a hard time convincing Mrs. Lanus she should be in the group picture too, but we finally won out. Agnes Roberts, Margaret Kemp, and Allen Kirkpatrick stayed and talked with Mrs. Whitney. Agnes and Margaret sang for her.

Back to the hotel we went, this time to check out. We then left for Robert E. Lee's mansion and grounds. Booser were in full bloom and it is truly of beautiful colonial architecture. The first place of interest one comes to after crossing the Potomac from Washington to Virginia is the Arlington National Cemetery. Here more than 30,000 of the nation's soldiers lie sleeping—generals, admirals, bluejackets and privates gathered together awaiting the final reveille. On the brow of a hill overlooking the cemetery, and keeping eternal vigil over the mortal remains of the heroes whose memory it will forever preserve, stands the Arlington Memorial Amphitheatre a white shrine of patriotism. Directly in front of the Amphitheatre is the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A guard, in full dress uniform keeps watch at the Tomb. Every other hour is a ceremony for the change of guards which is very impressive.

A trip to Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington, is a most fitting conclusion to a visit to the National Capital. Standing before the tomb that holds the ashes of this great patriot—to walk through the rooms once occupied by Washington and his noble bride, to see the articles of furniture, the gifts and mementoes, each with a story of its own, is an experience we will never forget. Coming back to Washington we passed the National Airport where the largest radio station is located. Mr. Myers, the guide, told us that if you placed your fingertips on the windows of the bus, you would get a funny sensation when we passed a certain place. Out the door of the bus and said "Now, don't you feel something?" Everyone said "No," they didn't feel anything. He said, "With a smile on his face" "didn't you feel that pane?" "Cute, huh?" In speaking of weather, which had been quite dry in Washington, our driver cunningly remarked that if you weren't worried about getting wet, because every seat of his bus contained a spring. We were hungry again and this time for a change we ate at a Chinese Restaurant. Oh-h-h, such food. For our grand finale we toured the beautiful city of Washington at night. We stopped at the Lincoln Memorial, which was illuminated and also watched the multi-colored fountain, and then on to the National Congressional Library. Personally, this building was the most outstanding of all we had visited. Its 22 karat gold ceilings, its hand-carved marble stairways, its beautiful paintings and the importance of its priceless documents, including the original of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, made you stop and wonder how anything could be so beautiful. In back of the two stairways is another stairway. At the head of this stairway is the shape of an arc is a mosaic. Each piece is about a half inch square. It was put together by hand and took eight years to complete. In the library there are over 4,500,000 volumes and they occupy over fifty miles of shelves, yet a visitor can obtain any book he may wish to consult in as little time as he could perhaps find a book in his own library.

The time when we would have to leave was coming closer. After a final check up and a thorough roll call, the group started on its homeward journey aboard the BLUE RIDGE LIMITED. The train pulled away at exactly 10:15 p.m.

In about fifteen minutes, I was sound asleep and from then on I didn't know what happened or what the kids did. I awoke in time to see us leave Akron and head for Willard. We gave Mrs. Lanus a 2 lb. box of Whitman's Chocolates, which Tony almost forgot to bring along! The porter is still carrying around a pair of white shoes looking for a Cinderella.

We all had a wonderful time, and I think I speak for everyone who went, when I say it is a trip that we shall never forget.

THANK YOU, FOLKS

Just to say "thank you, folks" seems inadequate for the trip of our lives, but twenty-one Seniors and our chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Lanus, are truly grateful for this trip, made possible only through the co-operation and help of our townpeople.

We are also appreciative of the many courtesies extended by Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney who expressed the hope that our trip would set a precedent for future Plymouth Seniors to follow. Our bus driver, Mr. Hutchinson and our guide, Mr. Myers, will long remain in our memories as showing us the meaning of that phrase "Southern Hospitality" and making our trip so enjoyable.

Attend Ohio's 81st Encampment of G.A.R.

Ohio's 81st Encampment and the six affiliated orders of the Grand Army of the Republic was held last week June 8-12 in Columbus, Ohio at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel.

There are but three G.A.R. survivors left in Ohio and two of these "Old Soldiers in Blue" were present, John H. Grate, 101, of Atwater, Ohio and John R. Bennett, 102, of Waynesfield, Ohio. John H. Grate, State Commander and also National Commander, was re-elected as State Commander for next year without one dissenting vote. He was elected by his Civil War buddy, John R. Bennett, and in turn Grate reappointed Bennett as Adjutant and Quartermaster General of the Ohio Department. They then selected Columbus as the site for the 1948 Encampment and both declared, "We'll be here. That's a promise."

They then authorized their white-haired secretary Miss Lida Lucas, who has been with them for 29 years, to dispose of headquarters property as he sees fit in the event that the Department should be disbanded before the next Encampment. In the meantime headquarters will continue its function. The only other G.A.R. member in the state is Oakley H. Bailey of Alliance who was unable to attend. These old veterans are escorted to the Convention from their homes and back, by the State Patrol.

Attending the Encampment and Convention of their affiliated orders of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the United Confederate Veterans of the Civil War and representing Tent No. 87, Shelby, Ohio were: Mrs. Mabel McFadden

FIVE-YEAR OLD BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mumps played havoc with the party idea for Judy Ann Broderick who observed her fifth birthday Monday at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Kit Foraker of Plymouth Street. However, Judy Ann was hostess to Mary Ann Hess, Lois and Patsy Pangel and enjoyed the hours from 2 to 4 playing games and having their refreshments at a small table in the yard.

In the evening some of the grownup relations called and remembered her with gifts. A lovely cake and ice cream was served the following: Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ervin, Mr. Edwin Ervin, Miss Elmer Ervin of Shelby, Bob Rhine, Mr. Eugene Broderick of Shelby, and Mrs. Robert Meiser and children, of Plymouth.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

For the pleasure of their daughter Olive, whose 18th birthday was an event of Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Balis Kennedy entertained a group of friends at their North Street home.

Cards, games and dancing were enjoyed with a lovely lunch served at the close of the evening. Olive was remembered with many pretty gifts. Those present included Sue Hoffman, Agnes Roberts, Ruth Ford, Alma Nissen, Joan Gunduzino, Phyllis Haines, Carolyn and of Ulica, Robert Crow, Tom Henry, Bill Trauger and Bob Hampton. The hostess and her brother, Joe Lee, completed the group.

Mrs. Eva Keller, Miss Florence Danner, Miss Helen Akers, Mrs. Carl Carnahan, Mrs. C. O. Cramer of Plymouth and Mrs. Carrie Albert, Mrs. Ida Kessler and Miss Glenna Rowe of Shelby.

Miss Florence Danner received an elective office being elected to Council. Mrs. Eva Keller was an aid and as such she enjoyed the great privilege of being chosen to escort Commodore Bennett to his place at the "Father's and Daughter's Banquet."

Last year there were 154 G.A.R. members in the United States and to date but 85 are left. Indeed "Our Boys in Blue" will very soon be but a memory and we feel so fortunate each year that a few are still spared to attend the Encampment.

LET'S EXPLORE OHIO

State Parks

Located just north of the Ohio River in Scioto and Adams counties are the 60,000 wild and wooded acres of the Shawnee State Forest and the 6,000-acre Theodore Roosevelt Game Preserve which can be reached over virtually every Federal and Ohio State highway in this part of the state.

Here is the forest primer of Ohio. Once the favorite hunting grounds of the Shawnee Indians, here today upon a mile of almost uncut forest, cut by narrow valleys carved down some 800 feet by erosion through the ages. Game motorist will find the country aside of interest, for romance lives along every rolling mile of Route 23, which follows the ancient "Warrior Path" of the Shawnee Indians in their raids north into Kentucky and north to the fishing in Sandusky Bay, Earthworks of the early days are blending in Scioto Valley and the Serpent Mound is just a half hour's drive west of Shawnee Forest, Route 72.

Shawnee Forest is marked by Copperhead Fire Tower, from which you can get a magnificent view of the surrounding forests and hills. Wild life abounds with deer and other animals.

Leaving National Route 52 at Friendship on State Route 125, you reach the 175-acre park that encircles Roosevelt Lake, one of five "towering" permits in both Shawnee State Forest and Roosevelt Park, after securing permission from the local rangers in charge.

Camping by families and organized groups is permitted in both Shawnee State Forest and Roosevelt Park, after securing permission from the local rangers in charge.

Norwalk Band Reactivated
Decision to reactivate the Norwalk Community Band this summer was made this past week at a meeting of the Norwalk Board of Park Commissioners, sponsors of the organization.
"The Band made such a hit last summer," stated Russell G. Gies, Secretary of the Board, "that it will have to be continued; public demand for more concerts leave no doubt as to their popularity, and requests from nearby communities have been received concerning requirements for participation in the Band."
Gies restated the few requirements for participation in the band: no beginners, no stringed instruments other than string basses, and personnel must be of at least Junior High School age.
"The objective of the organization," Gies continued "is not only to enable the ex-high school musicians in the surrounding area to maintain his skills, but also to prevent the present high school and college bandsman from becoming rusty in technique and familiar in reading through a summer layoff. We expect the Band to be 'young', but certainly we hope that all the older music men will be vicariously represented. We will feel that they're welcome to join the Band and that a cordial invitation awaits them."
Past Laycock, director of the Norwalk High School Band, will again handle the Community Band throughout the summer. His directorship during last year's season drew participation from Clyde, New London, North Fairfield, Monroeville, Bellevue, Willard, Huron Greenwield and Sandusky as well as from Norwalk.
The Band will start rehearsals on Thursday night, June 19th at 7:30 in the Norwalk High School Auditorium. If you play a band instrument - or once did, and would like to get back into shape - remember the date and time. It's entirely free, of course.
