(By Phineas Whitehead)

AN INTERESTING SPOT now is the swimming pool at the Latus funeral home, where many gold fish, both large and small, swim about and also are large green frogs. All colors of gorgeous water lilies in full bloom are very attractive blooming both day and night.

OTT and ADDIE KINSEL got a touch of Spring fever this week, and as a result, their confectionery room is being repainted. The ceiling is to be a semi-gloss white, while the walls will also be a light colored hue. The Jacobs boys are doing the painting. Jimmie and Robert, and they take some what after their father, Carl Jacobs, who has put on several thousands barrels of paint in his time. So, when Jimmie and Bob get through down at Beckwith's Confectionery, stop in and take a look at their new paint job.

ABOUT THE NICEST piece of sign painting we've seen in a long time appeared this week in the new sign for the new Vending Post. C. Roe of Toledo, who has been connected with Glenn West for the past several months, did the job. The letter design is very keen, and the ease of his stroke in applying the paint was marvelous. Good sign painters, like old time printers, are very scarce. The sign painter who can get his brush has somewhat transformed painters into a "specialist" group as did the Linotype machine to the printers. Remember back in the old days when it was smart to have your car painted, and varnished. Things went swell until it was time to put on the "strips" which they took to the day's place of the chrome strips. Hal Shreffler was an artist in lining autos in those days, and with the advent of the old Shelby Carriage Works, he did the old Shelby Carriage Works. Paigling a car in the early days was a tedious piece of labor. In fact, it took longer to strip a car than it did to paint more than it does to paint a present day model. So you see, times have changed. . . more than we think when we stop to look back a few years.

Industries in nearby Shelby also observe a two-day holiday. The 410 employees of the Shelby Seamless Tube will have the entire week-end. The swimming pools in Willard and Shelby are expected to overflow crowd during the week-end, and local parks in Shelby, Willard and Plymouth have numerous reunions scheduled for the week-end.

PORT CLINTON — Plymouth Shore girls' camp on the Sandusky bay shore, in Danbury-Tp. opened for its nineteenth season yesterday (Wednesday) with young ladies from New York, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Ohio attending. The camp was founded by Col. George E. Wells, who operated it until selling it to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Peters last fall. Mrs. Mildred J. Peters will be the director of the camp. Gordon Conner of Port Clinton will teach the new class in photography. The camp will be in operation until August 25th, will be Plymouth Shore originally was owned by F. B. Loffland and Dr. Holtz who sold their interests to General Mrs. W. W. W. It was named for Plymouth, Ohio.

MR. AND MRS. F. W. MCCORMACK are relaxing at home on Park Avenue and state they are now on the "tired" list. They disposed of their restaurant The Tower over in our neighboring city Shelby this past week to Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens of Plymouth and former owners of the Stevens Restaurant here. Their plans are indefinite as to where they will conduct a vacation and are really tired. The building and equipment complete was included in the transaction.

ANOTHER CHANGE in business blocks took place this week when Fred and Dr. Frank Holtz disposed of their building on the northeast side of the Square now occupied by Robby's Electric Shop. Mr. Chas. Henry of New Haven is the new owner and it is reported he will conduct a dry cleaning establishment. Mr. Robertson will move his stock of electrical equipment, etc. to the room now occupied by Beach Brothers and S. Dealers. They in turn will move to their building just south and east of the Sohio Filling Station near the B. & O. tracks.

THE "HEAD MAN" fish of Huron river is no more. He was seen on Sunday by Dexter Meyers, 1124 Woodlawn Ave., Norwalk. The fish caught was a 52 pound, four-foot long catfish, the largest ever reported caught in the river. (Continued on Page Five)

NYC Double-header Goes Off Track at Shiloh Late Wednesday

New York-St. Louis Train Passengers Escape Death

One of the worst wrecks in years in this vicinity occurred Wednesday night at 7:45 when a fast New York Central double-header 7-car passenger train was derailed a few rods south of the Shiloh station. It was not known at press time Wednesday night how many were killed, but 3 are known dead, and possibly two other members of the train crew might have died in the wreck. An emergency call to New London, Willard, Greenwich, Plymouth and Shiloh brought out all doctors and ambulances. As far as could be ascertained none of the passengers were seriously injured. Either the engineer or fireman of the second engine was buried beneath tons of mangled steel. Wm. Link of North Street, was at the scene of the wreck when it occurred, and he assisted in giving aid to crew members who had been badly seald by escaping steam.

The train, No. 431, was bound from New York to St. Louis, and had been switched over to the west bound track at Greenwich, due to track repairs being made on the westbound track at Shiloh. The death toll could have been much greater, as the train narrowly missed running into a work train which was on a siding containing several hundred logs.

As the fast-train sped onto the crossing, located just south of the station at Shiloh, the front engine leaped into the air, causing the second engine to jackknife. The front engine plunged into a small embankment and was hurled by the impact, leaving only the window of the cab visible. One of the section employees stated the train as it began to switch from the eastbound to the westbound track, and realized in a split second just what was going to happen. He dashed for a wide open space into the field, and as he cleared himself to safety, there was a burst of steam and fire which lasted for several minutes. One woman passenger said she had been lying in the front car, and had just moved to the rear of the second car, when without any warning, the car gave a slight jolt and stopped. She happened so fast until it was hardly possible to believe that the entire train was off the tracks with the exception of the rear Pullman.

An extra engine was rushed to the scene and the lone car which remained on the track, but had not cleared sufficiently to let other train by, was pulled onto a siding.

Rail traffic was resumed on the remaining undamaged single track. Officials and wrecking crews were on the scene shortly after the wreck and crews worked all night to clear up the string of cars and clear the right-of-way.

Thousands of motorists visited Shiloh during the night and early this morning to view the tragedy. For hours there was no parking space within the village, and the town was jammed with sightseers from nearby towns.

PLYMOUTH AMERICAN LEAGION BASEBALL The Plymouth American Legion will play at Loudonville on Friday afternoon at 4 p. m. A double header will be played. On Sunday Plymouth will entertain the Grand Gallon Legion team at the local diamond at 2:30 p. m.

NATHANIEL SPEAR, PITTSBURGH FURNITURE MERCHANT DIES AT 79

Through the courtesy of Mr. Earle Taylor Lorenz of the Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., the Plymouth Advertiser is able to reprint the account of the death of Mr. Nathaniel Spear, a native of Plymouth. In sending the clippings taken from the New York papers, Mr. Lorenz states that he is a nephew of the late Charlotte Root and had a few years ago visited in Plymouth and felt the account would be of interest locally.

With the death of Mrs. Ida Spear Fleming, several years ago the last member of the Spear family to reside here, the name was removed from the community and the family home on Mulberry Street was sold.

We are indebted to Mr. Lorenz for his thoughtfulness in sending us the following account: PITTSBURGH, June 19—Nathaniel Spear, founder and chairman of the Board of Spear & Co., makers of furniture, died here this morning in his home, 5321 Northumberland Street, at the age of 79. ## FOURTH WILL BE QUIET DAY HERE

Employees at the Fate-Root-Heath Co., will have a two-day holiday next week when the plant shuts down Thursday night, Friday being the Fourth of July. The plant will remain closed on that day and also Saturday.

While no formal celebration is being planned for Plymouth, many residents are planning on a picnic, reunion, or a day at Lake Erie. Numerous visitors are expected in Plymouth, as many former residents always make it a point to come home for the day. All stores will remain open on next Thursday afternoon, but will observe the holiday by remaining closed on Friday. The local post office, and the Peoples National Bank will also be closed on Thursday.

With interest, because of continued Spring rains, most of the farmers in this vicinity will spend the day in the fields, and it is very unlikely that many of them will take the holiday off from their work. All in all, it is one day we should meditate, and be proud of our country. The Fourth of July is and should be observed as a Day of Independence, and we, as Americans, should forever strive to keep our nation independent—and this we can do by loving our country, and always honor its principle of democracy.

Industries in nearby Shelby will also observe a two-day holiday. The 410 employees of the Shelby Seamless Tube will have the entire week-end. The swimming pools in Willard and Shelby are expected to overflow crowd during the week-end, and local parks in Shelby, Willard and Plymouth have numerous reunions scheduled for the week-end.

PLYMOUTH IS BEAUTIFUL

Now that the beautiful Weigela, both at home and in the Mary Fate Park, have gladdened the hearts of all flower lovers, it seems fitting to remind the community that the Weigela is our official town flower.

It was in 1939 that after a poll of the garden club members and other interested persons, the Weigela was selected for this honor, and the town council made it official. That year the Garden Club purchased fifty of the shrubs and planted them in the Park. They also planted four at each corporation sign of the city limits, but due to the lack of cooperation with the street department they soon disappeared.

In 1945 many other beautiful shrubs and plants were selected and planted by the Garden Club, but paid for by the Park Board.

The peony collection in the Park is from the collection of the late E. K. Trauger, and was obtained through the efforts of Mr. John Lanius, and planted by him and other Garden Club members.

Mr. Trauger was a peony specialist of note in the community and the best varieties are included in the collection.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Here's to the Women-Folk!

There's a line at the heading of the Woman's Column in my paper that reads:

"Women through the years have stood keepers of the flame..."

Pretty easy to see what it means; whether it's the flame on the hearth, or the candle in the window, or the feeling of warmth that surrounds a home.

It's the women who are guardians of the things we cherish about ourselves—who are tolerant of ashes on the rug; the rings a glass of beer can leave on tables; or the comfortable but too-worn chair that we can't bear to throw away.

From where I sit, those little satisfactions become more and more important in this world of stress and change. Smoke rings curling from a melon pipe; a glass of beer; a comfortable chair before the fire. And I'd like to salute the housewives—"keepers of the flame"—whose tolerance and understanding helps preserve them!

"Five Star Farm"

A FARM ANALYST TAKES AN INDIANA FARM IN HAND AND LAYS OUT A PROFITABLE, LONG TERM SOIL BUILDING PLAN FOR THE OWNER.

Fertility Comes First

Now that the space which has been done, the information is converted into colored maps which show graphically the slope, soil loss, available lime and minerals. A five-year plan is developed for the farm with crop recommendations for every field. The written reasons for each recommendation are given; nothing is done "just because."

The Hen or the Egg

Farm custom generally has been to plan the crops to fit the livestock on the farm. Long feels this is going at the problem backwards. The land-use plan based on soil type and capabilities should first be determined. From this plan the amount of production can be determined and the number of livestock of the kind the owner wants can be determined based on supplying them with grass, hay and grain. If the farmer prefers to buy additional grain the livestock can be adjusted to fit this contingency.

"The most important crop grown on any farm is grass and it should be grown whether or not livestock is kept." Long points out, "But my definition of grass includes not only the real grasses like clover and timothy, but also the legumes as well. Grass supplies organic matter, the keystone to the whole structure of soil conservation. The second most important crop is hay. After that comes the grain. This order of importance is especially applicable to the surplus grain which is sold in sections of the country, for here grain usually can be purchased cheaper than it can be raised, considering the more profitable application of the grain to time to other enterprises. If the grain must be shipped in from long distances then it would be more important to grow grain, if the soil is suited to its production.

"If the soil is flat, lacks aeration and is not properly tilted, a drainage system is recommended. If the land is sloping and of the type that erodes easily, the Soil Conservation Service, which has been making water walk away instead of run away will be brought into the plan. The United States Weather Bureau at Washington has rainfall statistics for practically every community in the United States. From these figures, based on the slope, the type of soil, the amount of water and the size of the farm, the need for mechanical devices such as contour furrows, terraces, dead furrows and grassed waterways can be determined."

Building Fertility Takes Time

Long is emphatic in his statement that successful farming cannot be conducted on a year-by-year basis, for his definition of successful farming requires that the soil fertility must be improved, and that long-term process, "Fertility," he says, "is built just as surely without livestock as with it. In fact, we think that often it is easier to build the fertility of the soil without livestock because we know exactly where and how much fertility is being distributed. Many farmers make such poor use of barnyard manure that they are only "kidding" themselves when they store it in the barn lot, and then spread it months later.

The first requisite of building soil fertility is the growing and proper use of legumes and grasses.

"All grasses add organic matter to the soil, but its greatest benefit is making available great numbers of bacteria and fungi. It contains untold billions of these willing slaves of the farmer whose work is only slightly understood at the present time. For many years the beneficial effect of growing legumes on the soil was known. What we did not know was that there was a symbiotic relationship between the bacteria found in the nodules on the roots of the plant, and the plant itself, which produced the beneficial results.

Fields Are Individuals

"If the most economical use of fertilizers is to be obtained, the fields must be considered individually. Tests have shown that one field may be low in phosphorus. Across the fence the field may be medium in phosphorus and low in potash. One field may require two tons of lime to neutralize the acidity and another three, four or five. Not only has it been found a waste of money to apply more lime or fertilizer than is needed, but heavier applications may depress instead of increase the yield. It is most important to balance the fertility in the soil by the application of fertilizer tailored to fit the fields.

It is to make a heavy application of all-things-to-all-violent fertilizer.

Long's Five Star Plan

Let's look at Long's plan for the Five Star Farm. In his opening statement, Long says, "It is not so critical that, is, until he reaches the subject of trees. Mrs. DeVany's devotion to her soil is well known in the neighborhood, and there is the story about her coming upon the hired man in a pasture cutting down a tree. She talked to him with a stern talking-to on the subject of trees and concluded, "Don't ever cut another tree without my personal approval." He looked up in amazement and asked, "You wouldn't call a willer a tree, would you?"

In his general statement for the Five Star Farm, Long says, "In making the changes suggested herein no criticism of the operator is implied. In fact, she is to be congratulated for the clear condition of the corn fields and the excellent condition of the cattle and hogs."

The initial acreage of this farm makes it necessary, however, that every acre be put into cultivation. If that is to be done it will be well known in the neighborhood of the wooded area and put the part suitable to cultivation into crops and the remainder in permanent pasture.

"About one-third of the cultivated land is so rolling that it should be kept permanently in grass. The remainder of the cultivated land is not of a type well adapted to corn unless heavily reinforced by chemical fertilizer. Even under the best conditions it is not a subject to erosion. It should be put to use, not so seldom as the economic conditions of the farm will permit. All the tillable fields are well adapted to corn, and should be so. With proper land use, the productivity of this farm can be doubled."

Wooded Area

Most of the trees on the farm are old and the livestock pasturing around them have destroyed the leaf mold under trees and the small roots of the trees. They should be taken out. Many of the trees are beech, which have low timber value. There is a hickory grove at Spentzen, Indiana, which should be retained. The manager may be interested in making a few out of the beech trees. The low oak and hickory trees should be retained for lumber at the same time.

The land in permanent pasture has orange trees scattered here and there over the entire area.

"The land in permanent pasture has orange trees scattered here and there over the entire area. These are valuable corner posts. It would not be a difficult matter to double the carrying capacity of this permanent pasture were it not for the trees scattered here. Where these trees are located they use up all the fertilizer intended for the grass and it is not practical to attempt to improve the pasture with the trees in it.

There are only a few trees that cannot be removed quickly and cheaply with a bulldozer.

"Loyal Grams, near Spentzen, has a bulldozer and would do the work."

SECOND CHAPTER

Small Grain in Corn

With Long's Farm Clinic plan the soil does not lie idle. For soil, like water, is restless. There is no such thing as status quo; it is either building up or tearing down its fertility.

A corn field is not allowed to be uncovered the winter following harvest. Long's program for small grain planting in corn fields is as follows: "The first reason for seeding in the corn at the time of the last cultivation. The first is to provide a cover crop during the winter to prevent erosion and leaching. These growing crops take up this material and hold it for the crop growing the second season. The second reason is to add humus which all soils on the Five Star Farm need.

"Rye should be used for the first year of the five-year program, until the old corn, of lime has had time to take effect. While sweet clover is more desirable than rye, it is so susceptible to acid soils that it is not worth while attempting it until the soil has been neutralized. The same is true of barley. If rye is used, newly threshed seed must be used as old rye does not germinate well.

"In addition to this, rye or barley will furnish fall pasture. In case of excessive rainfall these grains may germinate soon after seeding and will joint in the fall and be winter killed, but they will serve their purpose anyway. "The yields of sweet clover in corn the first year or two will be small but do not get discouraged and quit seeding it. It will get better each year. It is most important to balance the fertility in the soil by the application of fertilizer tailored to fit the fields.

It is to make a heavy application of all-things-to-all-violent fertilizer.

used in fertilizers. It costs about fifteen cents per pound. Sweet clover contains about 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton. If there is a yield of as little as 300 pounds per acre in the corn, it would more than return the money expended for clover seed in nitrogen alone, to say nothing of the humus and winter cover value.

How To Seed

"Rye, barley, or sweet clover may be seeded by mounting an engine tractor on a farm wagon. The wheels are high enough not to break the corn.

"It would be possible with a little ingenuity to mount the seeder on the front of the tractor. This seeder will sow about eleven rows at a time. A bushel of rye or barley or twelve pounds of sweet clover seed will cover per acre should be used.

Outs: A Bet on the Weather

"Even with ample fertilization there is no assurance of an increase in yield of oats," says Long "but the Farm Clinic plan suggests that possibility a break. Oats depend on the season, but on the fertilization. If the season for oat production is good, that is, if it is cool and there is an abundance of moisture, almost any field will make a good crop of oats. If the conditions are unfavorable, such as a very hot and dry spring, the oat yield will not be good, regardless of the richness of the soil on which the crop is planted, or the amount of fertilizer applied.

Weisenberger-Fazio Wedding

Solemnized at St. Paul's, Norwalk

Miss Mabel A. Weisenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August J. Weisenberger, R. D. 2, Norwalk, made the bride on June 21st of William Fazio, son of Mrs. Rose Fazio, Plymouth. The marriage was solemnized Saturday at St. Paul's Catholic Church at 9:30 a. m. with Rev. William A. Friemhoff officiating. Sister Mary St. Catherine provided the organ music and members of the eighth grade class presented vocal selections.

Pink and white peonies decorated the altar which the bride and groom entered in a white sedan, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. Miss Weisenberger wore a white mar-

Shirred ruffles were featured on the full skirt and her fingertip veil fell from a seeded pearl headpiece styled like a Dutch bonnet. Her single strand of pearls were a gift from the bridegroom. White roses formed her arm bouquet.

Miss Charlotte Weisenberger, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor in an aqua taffeta gown, with yellow roses in her hair and carrying a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Angelyn Fazio, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Leona Weisenberger, cousin of the bride were bridesmaids. They wore yellow and pink taffeta gowns, respectively, and had pink roses arranged in their hair and in their arm bouquets.

Mrs. Weisenberger chose a light blue crepe afternoon gown with corsage of red roses and white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was also of red roses.

WORK STARTED ON WATER LINE TO BE COMPLETED NEXT WEEK

The one-half mile water line extension will be completed next week, according to R. H. Metz, superintendent of the construction. "The only thing that will delay us is the arrival of fire plugs," said Mr. Metz, and we are expecting to receive them this week. The contract for the 4-inch half-mile extension was let to the Federal Construction Co., Cleveland, by the Board of Public Affairs early this Spring. The project was started back in 1943, but conditions brought on by the war upheld its completion. The new line will bring in several homes on the Plymouth-Shelby road as water customers, and the installation of fire hydrants will give residents in the southern part of town added fire protection.

Work on the water extension was started Monday of this week, and the pipe-laying operation has been completed already to the intersection of State Routes 88 and 81. The pipe for the line arrived last week.

With the extension of the line, several suitable building sites will no doubt become available within the next few years, and the fact that the village offers both, electric and water, makes an attractive set-up for the future home-builder.

Know Your INDIANS

MELVIN LEROY HARDER
"Wimpy" (Pitcher)
Born in Beaman, Nebraska, October 15, 1909. Throws right. Bats right. Height 5 ft. 1 in. Weight: 195. Hair brown. Eyes brown.
For Mel "Wimpy" Harder, 1947 marks the twentieth year of major league service—all with the Indians — and unquestionably qualifies him as the Medicine Man of the Tribe.
Mel, just as he's done for over ten years, headed for spring training wondering whether he could get through the pre-season conditioning program without incurring his usual ticket. But, somehow, he's almost always managed to get through the season without serious mishap and wind up with a winning percentage. Only twice since 1933 has Harder, the winningest pitcher in Cleveland history, failed to top the .500 mark. Oddly enough, although he slipped to .469 in 1933, he still led all other American League hurlers with an earned run average of 2.95.

Among his many outstanding performances was the league leadership in shutouts in 1934 and four stints as a member of the junior circuit All-Star team. During these four appearances his National League opponents have failed to score a single earned run in 13 innings.

Twice a twenty-game winner, Harder stands second only to Red Ruffalo among active hurlers in the matter of lifetime victories. His five triumphs in 1946 boosted his total to 217—34 ahead of his closest competitor, Buck Newsom of Washington.

Throughout his inneteen years, "Wimpy" has managed to hold an edge over all his rivals except Detroit who have nicked him thirty-five times while he was scalping them on twenty-three occasions. Only Bob Feller has a lifetime advantage over every opponent.

Personal Note: Married and has two daughters. Winter residence: Cleveland, Ohio. Descent: Czechoslovak and German. Hobbies: Dogs, hunting and theater.

New Tenderfoot Scouts
Michael Dick and Benny Derion have completed the necessary requirements as a Tenderfoot Scout and will be sworn into Troop One at Summer Camp. Both youths are members of the Pine Tree Patrol.

Paper Pick-Up
Our many thanks for the fine cooperation shown in the paper pick up last Saturday. Over a ton of paper was picked up in less than half of the town. Another collection will be held at an early date.

Summer Camp
The date for summer camp has been set for July 31-36th. Early indications show about fifteen boys will attend. Camp will be under the direct supervision of the Scoutmaster this year assisted by Assistant Scoutmaster Wayne Ross in charge of Camp. The swimming instructor for the period has not been named. A committee is at work on a site for the camp and it is expected that a definite spot will be assured the troop in the next week. The camp is to be held at some spot along Lake Erie.

Troop One attending its first Camporal in seven years gained a white ribbon in inter-troop competition during the event, Points being given for inspections, stunts and contest placings. Seven youths made up the group under the leadership of Senior Patrol James Shurt.

Highlights of the Camporal came when Floyd Dent called twelve Plymouth Scouters to appear before the Area Court of Honor to receive their Five Year Veteran awards. The bad weather and other engagements cut the men present to only four scouters, James Davis, W. J. Briggs, G. E. Hercher and C. M. Lofland. These men were welcomed into the veteran scouters ranks and congratulated on the work being done here in our local troop. Those scheduled to appear before the court but unable to do so included James Kennedy, Quentin Ream, E. L. Bailey, H. W. Ross, E. R. Markey, J. A. Root, P. W. Thomas and W. M. Cornell.

career woman!

Meet the greatest career woman of all! She doesn't manage a business, write novels, or sing over the radio. But her job's big and it's important — she runs a home!

What a job that is! In a year she washes more than 6 tons of dishes, cooks more than 1000 meals, wades through mountains of laundry.

The more Mom depends on electric service, the less work is in her house-work. And how little electricity cost! A penny's worth a day will rescue Mom from the drudgery of dishwashing. A few more pennies daily will cook her meals. Electricity does her laundry for less weekly than the cost of a bar of soap.

And when Mom balances her budget, she's bound to note that electricity is one of its smallest items. Actually, the average family now gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did about 20 years ago. This bargain comes to Mom — and to you, too — through the practical experience of your friends and neighbors in this company, under sound business management.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT Estate of John I. Beelman, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that Larue E. Brumbaugh, 15 Marwin Ave., Shelby, Ohio, has been duly appointed Administratrix of the Estate of John I. Beelman, Huron County, Ohio.

Huron County Youth Meet The Huron County Rural Youth Club met on June 16th at the Olena Community Hall.

Following the social period, consisting of various musical games and square dancing, the business meeting opened with the roll call. The minutes of the previous meeting and financial report were read and approved.

Here are Holstein and Jersey cows, Hampshire hogs, Broad-breasted bronze turkeys, White Rock and White Leghorn chickens, Great Dane and Fox Terrier dogs, yes even New Zealand White rabbits. It's thrilling—all of it—dairy barns, calf barns, hog lots, poultry houses and dog kennels.

Livestock here is no different than any other. The difference one senses is in management. That's the secret. Business guesses are taboo.

The story of a grade Holstein cow gave me quite a jolt. This was one of a car lot bought for experimental purpose—the former owner having sold her because she failed to produce.
