P. H. S. Class of 1944

Reunion Sunday, Aug. 7th at Local Park

Five years ago the graduating class of 1944 agreed that they would hold their first reunion in 1949. Many things have taken place during this time; every boy in the class served Uncle Sam in some branch, one of the girls still in service in the Air Corps, and quite a few have married and moved away.

However, invitations have been sent out and the group is hoping for a good turnout on Sunday, August 7th at the Mary Fete Park. The time is set for 1:30 and in case of rain, the picnic will be held in the Scout Hut in the same park.

If a class member has acquired a wife, husband and family during the past five years, they are all included in the invitation for the picnic. Five year diaries will also be gotten out of hiding, and questions and answers will be an interesting feature to the reunion.

Checking over the records, it is interesting to note that every one of the twelve boys in the class enlisted in some branch of service in their senior year, many of them leaving before graduation. Most of the boys chose the navy and had completed their boot training before the date of graduation and thus were permitted to return for the exercises.

The navy recruiting officer of Mansfield who has accepted their enlistments came over to attend their commencement. Another interesting fact that Supt. E. L. Bailey who came to Plymouth from Elyria when this class was first graded, was the superintendent when they received their diplomas as seniors. This was Mr. Bailey's last year here, also, as he left this summer to accept a position at the Shelby Air depot. Mr. Bailey was not only superintendent but also a friend, coach and advisor to this group of boys who will long remember his interest in them.

The class consisted of the following boys:

Thomas Moore, Dan Kirkpatrick, Quentin Reim, Junior Marvin, George Shaffer, Swayne Hunter, Robert McGowan, Clarence Mills, James Fetters, James C. Davis, Sid Thomas and James Rhine. The first nine came served in the navy, the next two in the army and Rhine in the merchant marine and also the end of the season.

Another young man who served with the boys was Wilbert Ruckman who received his diploma after returning from service.

The girl members of the class are Evelyn Moore, Eucyrus Phyllis Miller Sherk, Willard, Pfc. Jane Martin, Chanute Field, Irl, Beverly Hunter, Robert McGowan, Arline Stehle, Harrah, Shelby, Beverly Neely, Bignif, Shelby, Shirley Burnett, Wilbur Bryant, Willy Fenner, Mansfield, Louise Guadagnino, Cleveland, Mary Alice Weller, Plymouth, Patricia Pugh, Elyria, and John McDonald, Dickinson, Mt. Vernon and Mildred Harman Evans, Shelby.

Burns Resigns From Council, Park Road; Smith Appointed To Fill Council Vacancy

Marshall Burns, after having served a year and a half as village councilman, has resigned from this office. His resignation was effective at the first meeting of council held this month. His resignation also caused a vacancy on the park board of which he was a member.

At the last meeting of council Mayor Robinson appointed Ben Smith to fill Burns' vacancy, and council approved the appointment. Smith is one of Plymouth's outstanding young citizens who is interested in many civic affairs. He is employed in the office of The Fate-Roote.

Terminating his residence here within a few weeks, he is going to his new home near New Haven on Route 61. Mr. Burns was known to several in the village government. His many friends wish him well in his new home, and hope very much that he will continue as a public official. He will continue his work with the government and better living in Plymouth.

To Equalize All Real Estate Tax

A new bill, which was signed on Tuesday by Gov. Frank J. Lausche, requires the equalization of all real estate taxes in Ohio. The bill becomes effective in 90 days. Individual properties may not be higher than the average of those counties which fail to equalize within 90 days. Those counties which do not have half its school or other taxes withheld.

The farm bloc in the legislature opposed the proposal generally. It is predicted that more repercussions will be felt between counties and other bills passed by the 98th General Assembly.

Last Friday was the closing day of the state Legislature in Columbus, and here are some of the measures approved and what they will do.

P.W. Goes On Shopping Tour; Starts Trip 'Home'

News—This is the third and final article describing the trip of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Thomas to Atlanta, Ga., during the recent holiday over the Fourth.

Atlanta's department stores are among the finest in the nation, and this cannot be easily repeated for recent remodeling of the Davison and Rich stores are especially of outstanding note in the merchandising world. Our party, led by Mr. Waits King, former circulation manager of The Atlanta Journal, made it a visit to the Davison store, and there is every reason to believe that the women were more than thrilled. It fell my lot to spend an afternoon with Mrs. Thomas in the new Rich store, which covers a city block and is eight stories high. The interior is new throughout and all the latest designs of merchandising equipment and lighting coupled with air conditioning make it a real pleasure to shop in the South's largest department store.

Largest Theatre In South
We were amazed at the magnitude of the new Fox theater, located on the corner of Peachtree and Piedmont avenue. In comparison, it can safely be said that the lower auditorium of the Cleveland's Palace theater could easily be placed in the center of the new Fox theater and then taken to the same seating capacity of the Palace on each side. The lobby and foyer of the Fox is beyond question the most beautifully decorated piece of work the writer has ever seen. Many new offices and merchandising buildings are under construction in Atlanta, and two of the newest structures are the new homes of the Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal.

We visited the plant of the Journal office Wednesday morning, going through each department. The interior exterior of this streamlined building is of Georgia marble. Acoustics have been applied in all offices, and the pounding of typewriters, teletype machines are not noticed at any time. You can talk in a natural and normal tone even in the composing room where some forty linotypes are in operation, and the noise of the machines is not at all disturbing.

Sees Huge Rattlesnake
During our visit at the Journal office some "nature boy" came straggling in with a small cage and in it was a rattlesnake which was to be photographed and the picture used in the magazine section. Our party had a special invitation to watch the huge reptile while it was being posed for the picture. The snake, a mountain rattler, was four feet long and had fourteen rattles. It was the largest of its species captured in many years. The gentleman who had a little wire gadget attached to a long hickory stick which measured about five inches in length and which there was a special little arrangement of metal which he slipped over the snake's neck and extracted him from the cage and held him up for the cameraman. I think the entire group of on-lookers was somewhat relieved when the reptile was gently placed back into the cage.

Macy's Started in Georgia
Macy's of New York, we were told, had its original start in a small Georgia town. The story goes back to the outbreak of the Civil war when old man Macy outfitted his regiment and offered them back to the southern confederacy. At that time the men of the South who had money, paid the soldiers and usually voted for the candidate of the party which they supported and out-fitted. When Macy offered his regiment his services, he was not allowed to join with his men.

He drifted up to New York where he became interested in ships, and as a result his ships ran the blockade bringing goods into the South. It is rumored this was very profitable. After the war he returned to Talbotton, Ga. the site of his original general store, and rebuilt it as it was originally before being destroyed. On his way back to New York he stopped over in Atlanta between trains, and saw the old Davison-Faxton-Stokes store. He contacted the owner, and a week later he took over the store. As a result the same ideals and policies of Macy's New York store are being used in Atlanta's modern Division store's—a realization of a man who knows merchandising.

It Pays To Shop
Several incidents happened while in Atlanta that were rather amusing. We were out sight-seeing one afternoon and returning home stopped at a fruit stand near the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. One of the boys got out to pick up a watermelon and the proprietor must have seen our car with an Ohio license. Anyway, he asked $5c for about six peaches in a quart basket. We got three times as many at a market for the same price. So I guess even in Atlanta you have to know where and how to buy the things at the right price for which the state is known.

We Leave For Home
We checked out of the city at 10 p. m. Thursday and took U. S. Route 23 to Gainesville, about fifty miles northeast of Atlanta. This thriving city is the home of several knitting mills, and also the center of the poultry industry in the South. We were told that a large percentage of poultry and eggs come into the southern markets from Wisconsin. The farm folk seem to get their share of fresh butter, milk and poultry, but those who reside in the larger cities are not so lucky. Possibly the low dairy and poultry production in the south is caused by the fact that there are other things which make the farmers more money for less work.

After passing through Gainesville we went through several small towns, and then we lost ourselves into the high densely wooded mountains of northeast Georgia. We took U. S. Route 19 at the foothills, and traversed it along the mountainside for a distance of about one hundred miles or more. A few miles south of the Georgia line, we observed highway signs which told us that the road was under construction and travel was at our own risk. It wasn't bad at all beginning where work had been started, but we came to a point down the road and before us were two huge dozers with dump wagons. They were eating away the side of a hill where the roadway was unusually narrow. Mrs. Thomas had enjoyed the hundreds of miles spent on the highways, but at this juncture she became very, very nervous, and I admit I wasn't too happy, either, for when I stepped out of the car I had only four feet enough to stand and look over the side of a cliff a thousand feet down. We waited an hour for the road to be re-opened, and we all took a slight relief as we passed the narrow trail and again hit paved roads.

White Haze Adds to Beauty
With the Smokies on our left, and the Blue Ridge mountains on the right we thoroughly enjoyed the scenery from our highway which followed about halfway up the mountain sides. In the valley a small mountain stream wound itself a few hundred feet below the highway the full length of the mountain chain. It was along about six o'clock in the evening that we noticed a white haze coming off the river, and I started to become somewhat perturbed as to the effect the fog might have on driving. We were some miles from Bryson City where we intended staying for the night. There were times the mountain peaks to our right became invisible because of the thick haze, but not once did it come onto our road. I think this particular drive was the most beautiful I have ever seen, and it will be long remembered by our party.

Those early July days when Ohio and other northern states were suffering immensely from the heat, I checked the thermometer Friday morning at Bryson City and it was 72 degrees; 10 a. m. This little town is located ten miles south of the entrance over New Found gap, and is strictly a tourist town. It is clean, pleasing to the eye and prices are very reasonable. From Bryson City we came to Lexington and spend Saturday night and then we headed for Cincinnati Saturday morning, arriving in Plymouth Saturday night.

I think most all of you will agree that no matter where we roam, and how much we enjoy ourselves, when on the return trip home it seems awfully nice to see the miles dwindle which bring you into Plymouth, and back to friends. So with our vacation behind us, we hope to set the back down to newspapering with renewed ambition and energy, bringing to you The Advertiser each week, which we have found to be our greatest pleasure and enjoyment.

August First Date of Potato Field Day

Some of the newest practices in growing potatoes will be displayed on the 1949 Ohio Potato Field Day, August 1, according to Alvin Mott, extension horticulturist at Ohio State University. Potato field day will be held this year in northeastern Ohio, with a tour starting at 10 a. m. (E.D.T.) on the Agnew Farms on Route 7, just south of Youngstown.

At noon, the group will move to the Firestone Farms, on Route 14 east of Columbiana. During the afternoon, short tours will originate at Firestone Farms and visit nearby potato growers. On the Agnew Farms, visitors will inspect the fertilizer, cover crop, cultivation and dusting methods used on 60 acres of Sebago, Katahdin are being grown with irrigation at Firestone Farms. Chemical weed control was used on most of the crop, which is planted on terraces and contours.

More than 30 lots of different potato varieties and sources are planted at Firestone Farms under the sponsorship of Columbiana and Mahoning county growers. Latest potato machinery will be on display.

ABUSE OF VILLAGE DUMP

Psychologists often say that unless a man has pride, he has nothing. Whether it be the pride of a job well done, of his country, his home or his city, each man must have a certain amount of it.

Unfortunately, a few seem to have lost some of the pride that goes with keeping our city clean and presentable. Ben Chromister, caretaker of Plymouth's dumping grounds, reports flagrant violation of one of the rules of common sense—the throwing of rubbish from the road over the fence—caring not where it may land.

Much effort and expense has been and is still being put forth to keep the dumping grounds as presentable and as sanitary as possible. Let's not make this wasted effort, and money, by indiscriminately discarding refuse about the dump.

By observing the rules and regulations regarding the use of the dumping grounds, the people of Plymouth can be justly proud of the city dump.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

During the fourteen years that I have been a Member of Congress, the farmer has been made the shock absorber. About all that he got was lip service, and occasionally subsistence help. No permanent farm legislation has been passed. We gave him so-called parity. We started in with sixty-five percent and finally reached ninety percent parity-support prices. During the depression and the recession, farm prices were far below cost of production.

There never was any reason why we should not have given the farmer cost of production. This as a floor, not as a ceiling. If that kind of a law had been passed, then wheat would be selling for $2.70 a bushel today. That would allow the farmer and his family 57c an hour for labor performed, which is the average wage that the workers in industry get.

In place of giving the farmer cost of production, we have wrangled with the brain trust ideas of the Department of Agriculture from Wallace on down to Brannan. Now we have before us the Brannan baby. No one knows who is its mother or its father.

I am and always have been for one hundred percent real parity cost of production. The manipulated Brannan one hundred percent parity on basic commodities is 7c per bushel less on wheat than the present ninety percent parity, and is 29c less than one hundred percent parity under the present law.

The concealed purpose of the Brannan program is to compel the farmer to sell his products on the world market in competition with peon, coolie and slave labor. I know the Secretary says he will pay the farmer the difference between the world market and his one hundred percent parity.

The farmer is not fooled. He knows that in order to do this, the Secretary will have to get the money by appropriations. It will have to be raised by taxation. The farmers as a group pay a large part of the taxes. I have yet to find a farmer, who understands it, who is for that part of the Brannan program. If carried to its logical conclusion that program would require an appropriation each year for agriculture of $8,000,000,000.

Mr. Brannan wants authority to experiment on hogs. Suppose we gave him that authority. Then the farmer would be compelled to market his hogs on the world market, which would shortly go down to 6c or 7c a pound. How would that affect beef, lamb, mutton and poultry? Would it not bring the price of all these products down to the world market?

The farmer knows that because of our large indebtedness appropriations will be hard to get even though they come out of his and the consumer's tax dollar. He knows that he is already being blamed for the high cost of living. He wants permanent legislation—one hundred percent real parity—cost of production.

—Congressman Wm. Lemke

Open Air Bible Starts Aug. 1st.

Under the auspices of St. Joseph's church, Plymouth, a series of open air Bible services will be held each evening beginning on Monday, August 1st and continuing through August 6th. Reverend Anthony Wortmann of St. Joseph's has secured the assistance of Dr. John Vogel, Ph. D., who will have general charge of the services and who will talk each night.

Father Vogel preached in Plymouth during Holy Week 1940 the Parish Mission at St. Joseph's church.

The program will consist of sacred music, prayer, scripture readings and evangelistic talks. The talks will cover such subjects as "Prayer," "The Life Worth Living," "The Story of the Bible," "Meet the Mother of Jesus," "Why the Old Time Religion is Good Enough for Me," etc. Points of Catholic doctrine will be explained.

A special feature of the program will be a question-and-answer period. A large question box will stand on a street near the speaking location during the entire week. Anyone who has a question to ask about God, salvation, the Bible, or any part of Catholic doctrine or practice, is invited to write out the question and drop it into the question box. These questions will be answered each evening. Questions may also be asked orally by anyone in the audience.

The musical part of the program will start at 7:30 p. m. E. S. T. and the preaching at 8:00 p. m.

Dr. Vogel says, "There will be no controversy but just simple explanations of the things of God, things of interest to ordinary people, with honest respect towards everyone's sincere religious belief. The program should appeal to all men of good will regardless of what they believe or do not believe. Millions of people in America are unchurched. They are found everywhere. I have a special message for them. I shall also be available for private conference or consultation with anyone during the entire week."

All citizens of Plymouth and the surrounding area regardless of their religious belief are welcome to attend these revival services. Dr. Vogel extends a special invitation to those who have no religious affiliation.

National Air Races in Cleveland Over Labor Day; $110,000 in Prizes

Prize money totaling over $110,000 will draw to Cleveland a record-breaking entry for the 1940 renewals of National Air Races over the Labor Day week-end. An expanded schedule of racing events, which may reach twenty by opening day, points to the greatest program in the history of the aviation classic.

Commemorating the fortieth anniversary of the international aviation competition, the 1940 schedule will be thrown wide open to foreign participation. All trophy races for men pilots will accept foreign built entries provided they are powered with American made engines.

Adding further to the international flavor, the Federation Aéronautique Internationale will convene in Cleveland on September 1 for an eight day session which will include in its program attendance at National Air Races by delegates of thirty or more foreign nations attending the world wide annual conference.

The national defense situation in the presence of foreign dignitaries in the F. A. I. delegation indicate that the service branches will step up to an all time peak in their participation in the 1940 program. It is expected that the U.S. Air Force and the Navy will put on an unprecedented show which will include their biggest, fastest and most powerful new trophy races for men pilots will be completed or under way. The ship to ship racing program for the $25,000 cross-country Bendix Trophy Race opening the competitive program on Saturday, September 3, looks like a sure thing, two west coast ships are now being surveyed at Lake-Ed points.

New participation rules for the Soho Trophy Race on Saturday and the Tinnerman Trophy Race on Sunday, September 4, put these two events strictly in the major classification. Out of the field of qualifiers for unlimited closed course competition, the fastest twenty will be eligible for these two big time trophy races. The odd numbers, over through nineteen, will form the Soho field and the even numbers, two through twenty, will go into the Tinnerman. As the distance for these $7,500 trophy events is only 105 miles, some very close and bitter competition will develop with speed rivaling the Thompson Trophy Race.

The Goodyear Trophy Race will again spread throughout the entire three days of competition. The Goodyear trophy race, a large contingent of new entries built during the off months, will include in its program the event will again be staged entirely within the airport, and goodwin has again posted $25,000 for the field to shoot at.

The bitterly contested all women's race at seventy-five miles for $5,000 in prize money will pair up with the Tinnerman Trophy Race to high-spot the Sunday racing schedule.

The classic Thompson Trophy Race moves in to close out the expanded racing program in its usual spot on Labor Day. New interest in the Thompson centers around the sensational entry of J. D. Reed, Houston aviation enthusiast. Plagued by tough luck in the past three years, Reed and his associates have poured $100,000 into a radically modified F-51 which Reed claims will be the ship to beat and says a new Thompson record will be put on the books on Labor Day.

Uniform Standards for Elementary Schools Start in September

For the first time in the state's history Ohio elementary schools will have uniform standards by next fall, according to Dr. Clyde Hisong, state director of education.

Although high schools have had standards since 1917 this has not been true of elementary schools except for the state standard set by their own standards. Dr. Hisong pointed out that members of the Ohio Elementary Principals' Association had been consulted and a committee representing that group helped in drafting the standards.

In the elementary brochure now being printed by the Department of Education 18 standards are listed to cover administration, supervision and organization of elementary education. A second section deals with various subject matter areas.

Dr. Hisong said that the standards require, first of all, that each school form a statement of its philosophy and objectives and organize its elementary work to meet the needs of the pupils and the communities. Administrative procedures and Board of Education policies are covered as well as the duties of the principal and his professional qualifications.

Forms are given for transportation, safety facilities, grouping and promotion of pupils, records, accounting, etc. Another standard outlines principles for in-service education of teachers. Study groups are recommended as well as professional reading, visits to other schools, workshops and other media of keeping in touch with the latest ideas in the teaching field.

Admission of pupils is covered in the sixth standard. The seventh deals with the educational program and gives such details as an outlined daily schedule and rules for related activities.

Final inclusion in the first section, which schools will be urged to use when they receive the new book, is a chart for self-evaluation by each school. Schools will grade themselves on each of the 18 standards by using a superior, average, inferior or very inferior.

R. M. Garrison school supervisor and his associates have poured $100,000 into a radically modified F-51 which Reed claims will be the ship to beat and says a new Thompson record will be put on the books on Labor Day.

The Telephone—Cupid's not-so-secret weapon

Spring brings a sudden avalanche of extra telephone calls—mostly on the romantic side. Parents of young people report a constant ringing in their ears—caused, we suppose, by increased telephone activity at home. The telephone as Cupid's messenger means, of course, that we're busier than ever; but we don't mind. It is just another way of proving that there's no end to the usefulness of a telephone.

Ohio farm and other rural folks will be taking a prominent part in the 30th American Country Life Conference to be held on the Ohio State University Campus, September 7-9.

C. M. Ferguson, Director of the Agricultural Extension Service in Ohio, says the theme for the conference will be "The Place of the Rural Community in 'Formulating Farm Policy.'"

Every phase of rural life will be explored in work shops during the three day session. Topics to be studied are the rural home, the rural church, education, rural health, rural recreation, and rural utilities including transportation, communication and electric power.

Those attending will also take up such subjects as farmers' organizations, private merchandising services, government agencies and the relationship between labor and the rural community.

Prominent speakers and leaders are being invited to address general assembly meetings. Bishop William C. Martin, of the Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas area, organizer of the National Methodist Rural Life Conference, has agreed to speak. So also has Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara, Kansas City, Mo., founder of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference.

Cooperating to make the meeting a huge success are the Ohio Farm Bureau, Ohio State Grant, Ohio Council of Churches, Ohio Council of Farm Cooperatives, Rural Youth of U.S.A., Ohio Catholic Rural Life Conference, the Agricultural Extension Service, and the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University.

Pay this bill for me, will you?

Suppose a stranger asked you to pay his electric light bill every month...

Far-fetched idea? Not so—because you do help pay a lot of other people's electric bills every month!

Every time you buy cigarettes, matches, gasoline, a lipstick or a watch, or hundreds of other things, part of what you pay is a federal tax. And that same federal tax money helps pay those strangers' electric bills.

Here's why: the federal government is in the electric business in some parts of the country. It sells electric service to some people and to certain industries—below the real cost.

Who makes up the difference? You do—the government uses some of your taxes for that purpose.

The more of this below-cost electricity the government sells, the more taxes the government must collect to make up the difference between selling price and cost.

We are against extending the amount of government-in-the-electric-business in America. Because it threatens all self-supporting electric companies. And because it will lead to Socialization of one business, a long first step toward Socialization of all business.

Most Americans don't want that... Do you?
