The Fate-Root-Heath Co., Plymouth, has been sent a ceramic plate from The Netherlands, a gift of two ceramic experts, the Economic Cooperation Administration announced recently.

All, as members of a Dutch ceramics team, Dr. M. J. Singer, director of the Ceramics Institute, and A. Goedeveen representing a leading Dutch company, spent two months in the U. S. visiting brick plants and other organizations in the ceramics field, to find ways of increasing brick production in The Netherlands.

To show appreciation to the Americans who made their trip successful, each is being presented with a plate, specially designed by the two Dutch experts. Only thirty were made. The plates are being distributed through ECA.

On the plate are depicted the American flag, the Dutch lion, clasped hands, and a tongue of flame, the symbol of the ceramic industry.

The visit was sponsored under ECA's technical assistance program to assist the Dutch brick industry in adopting American production techniques as a step in increasing output.

One of the important differences between the American and Dutch brick industries, observed by the visitors, is that U. S. plants operate the year-round, while production in The Netherlands is limited to six months. Artificial drying of bricks has made continuous operation possible in the U. S.

Last year brick production in The Netherlands met only one-fifth the demand for bricks for the construction of homes, schools, and factories. If the plants can be operated on a year-round basis and existing equipment more efficiently used, Dr. Singer and Goedeveen believe that brick production can be raised without large investments.

Both believe the approximately 4,000 workers employed in the making of bricks in The Netherlands can get greater security, better working conditions, and higher wages through adoption of the American recommendations. If plants can be operated twelve months of the year, brick-making will no longer be a seasonal occupation, they pointed out.

Warning To Parents

Parents are requested to keep their children away from the Athletic Field and Stadium while it is under construction. It is quite possible for a child—and even an adult—to get seriously hurt on the cement blocks or by falling into one of the large holes and some of these holes are full of water. They are kept covered but sometimes a child becomes quite curious.

First Night Game Less Than Two Months Away

The first night football game is scheduled with Norwalk St. Paul on Sept. 15th. A big pep session (with the band and a bonfire) is planned under the new lights before this game.

There is still a lot of work to do on the Stadium and Field before Sept. 15th. There is usually some one at the park every night and Thursday and Saturday afternoons. Anyone wishing to help is more than welcome to come down.

$1200.00 is still needed to pay for all the electrical equipment and lumber yet to be delivered. Two shipments of electrical equipment have been received and paid for. There are still $800.00 to be collected on seat reservations and in order to have season tickets printed and mailed before Sept. 1st all un-paid reservations should be paid at an early date to G. R. Dennis, Treasurer.

The money is also really needed at this time to pay for the rest of the lighting equipment and lumber which may be delivered yet this week.

If 120 people will each loan the High School $10.00 this week by buying a $10.00 bond book, and if all seat reservations are also paid in full this week, Plymouth will have a lighted Athletic Field and a (1200 seat) Stadium entirely paid for.

Why not loan $10.00 to your High School athletic association this week and help finance the balance needed to complete this project? "SUPPORT YOUR OWN HIGH SCHOOL IS WORTHY OF A $10.00 LOAN FOR TWO YEARS." Bonds can also be exchanged for reserved seats.

Do the Town a Favor

There are a lot of people who remain indifferent toward the efforts being put forth by the Plymouth Booster Club in raising sufficient funds to complete the stadium at Mary Fate Park.

Perhaps you don't like football or athletics. Perhaps you don't have any children in school. But you do live in Plymouth. So on the basis of having our town go forward, giving children who do like athletics the opportunity to enjoy them, and to afford our youngsters and sports fans a field of which we can be justly proud, we cannot afford to remain indifferent.

The Booster Club isn't asking an outright donation. They simply want you to lend them $10 for a short time. For your ten dollars you'll receive a book of coupons, which you may use as tickets or if you choose you may redeem them at face value. Buy purchasing a book of coupons you will not earn one cent interest, but you will be making it possible for our schools and town to earn an asset of which we all can be proud.

Won't you do it now? Sit down and mail your check to Supt. G. R. Dennis. You will receive your $10 coupon book at once, and we believe later on, you'll be glad you did so. P. W. T.

Rains Delay Wheat Harvest; Elevator Set For Heavy Demand

Rains last Sunday and Monday materially slowed up the harvesting of wheat in this vicinity. According to John Ganzhorn, manager of the Plymouth Elevator who has talked to many farmers in this area, states that the quality of wheat may be greatly impaired due to excessive rains. Mr. Ganzhorn pointed in distance to other towns, as a result stores in Plymouth materially benefit from the local elevator.

The present staff at the elevator is made up of Mr. Ganzhorn, Arnold Howard, Thomas Lash, Charlie Weaver, who look after handling the grain and outside work, and Mrs. Jessie Bogner, bookkeeper. They appreciate the splendid patronage shown the elevator, and you'll find them courteous and understanding when you drive down to the Plymouth Elevator.

Death Takes Mrs. Ed Phillips

The McQuate funeral home was filled to capacity Sunday p. m. with relatives and friends who gathered to pay their last respects to Mrs. Jessie M. Phillips, 70, who passed away the preceding Thursday of the Shelby Memorial hospital where she had been a patient two weeks following an extended illness.

The deceased was a native of Butler but had been Plymouth her home the past thirty-five years. She was a member of the Methodist church and served as organist for over twenty-five years. She was a member of the Daughters of Union Veterans, Shelby Tent, Daughters of America, the Pythian Sisters, and the O. E. S. Wadsworth chapter.

Survivors include her husband, Edward; two sons, Ernest of Mansfield and Herbert of Cleveland; four sisters, Mrs. J. D. McArdle, Mrs. Ethel McFarlane and Mrs. Charles Taylor of Butler; also Mrs. Otto Shoup of Shelby. Seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive.

Last rites were conducted by Rev. L. E. Smith, pastor of the Methodist church with Memorial services held Friday evening by Dr. U. V. Shelby. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Although her health had been impaired for years, one of the highlights of her life was the golden wedding anniversary which she celebrated last Wednesday night, a month ago, June 17th. During her residence in Plymouth Mrs. Phillips gained for herself a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, and the loss of her dear ones will greatly miss her. The unusual number of floral tributes spoke highly of the esteem in which she was held by all.

Buildings Are Painted

The buildings at the elevator look shiny and new with their coat of aluminum paint. The work was done by Enzor and Caskey of Shelby. The main portion of the elevator is covered with metal sheeting and the other buildings have been given a new coat of gray paint which adds very much to the appearance of the entire group of buildings. The elevator has been given a general cleaning up and all stocks of material has been neatly arranged, and all equipment "shined and polished" and is ready for the next season.

The elevator has a long list of satisfied customers throughout this section, some residing as far as 15 miles distant. Custom grinding is one service which many a farmer enjoy at the local plant. Here, a farmer can have his feed ground and mixed according to his own liking and if special formulas and concentrates are wanted, the elevator has a complete line on hand at all times.

Enjoys Splendid Growth

Last year the Plymouth Elevator enjoyed its biggest year since it began operation here. Both in dollar volume and in bushels of wheat delivered through this firm, proved that the elevator is well accepted by farmers throughout the community. The elevator's continued growth is due mainly to the effort of Geo. Rogers of Mansfield, who owns

THE SQUARE

By Phineas Whittiesood

THE 1960 CENSUS ought to show up considerably better for Plymouth than the 1950 one did, if the present rate of births keep up. For the first six months of 1950 there were 29 births, 15 boys and 14 girls, with 12 births in June six boys and six girls. Deaths of Plymouth and rural residents were five men and five women for the first half of the year.

HUNDREDS OF RESIDENTS of Ohio river towns in Meigs-co. watched what appeared to be strange objects in the sky Sunday evening near the Mason-co. line in West Virginia. No one claimed they were "flying saucers" but the objects, never more than three in number, gave off a "yellowish glow" for several minutes before moving at a very high rate of speed. Several local residents also reported seeing unusual sights in the heavens but stated they resembled the preceding Thursday of the Shelby Memorial hospital where she had been a patient two weeks following an extended illness.

MRS. JOSEPH HUZOVICH of Bell street has received a clipping from the Baltimore News-Post sent by her mother, Mrs. Walter C. LeGore of LeGore, Md., regarding the Xmas Seal collection of Miss Harriet Portner. Under an (INS) release the items stated "Eighty year old Plymouth, Ohio, woman, who has the most complete Christmas Seal collections in the United States. The first seal was issued in 1907 and since 1908, when they were sold in this country for the first time, Miss Harriet Portner has added on stamp to her collection."

AND SPEAKING OF Miss Portner, her health continues to decline, but she greatly enjoys the visits of neighbors and friends and would be glad to see any of her old friends.

THE OATS BUGS have taken over... not only the fields but everything and everybody in sight. If you've never seen a field of oats brushing off the minute little black specks, you could get a good many laughs watching how uncomfortable the people are. A scratch here... a brush-off there, your hair creeps—that is those of us who still have hair; Bill Ellis says he made a mistake making his hair trimmed, ought to have it as hard as possible to find his head; his picketers have been having a terrible time, but at least as you munch your sandwich, you don't choke on the bones.

Lower Insurance Rates In View For Plymouth's Business District

D. F. McDougal, Plymouth's Fire Chief, has received a communication from the Ohio Inspection Bureau of Columbus, that due to the protective facilities furnished the village, the business district inside the fire limit will be eligible to go to the 7th class. It is now predicated on an eighth class basis. The residential section, however, will still remain in 8th class.

Action on this classification as far as rates are concerned will be taken when a new map is received from the Sanborn Co. Company, which will probably be within the next few months.

With Plymouth's new fire truck and other added fire fighting facilities, lowered rates can be hoped for within the business district.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC SLOWS US UP ON OUR TRIP SOUTH; WE VISIT A KENTUCKY CAVE

Friday, June 30th proved a busy day for us as we had a thousand and one things to do before we started on our vacation. You know how it is trying to get ready for a week-end on Lake Erie. We were happy to see John Hough about 9:30 Friday morning. Met him in front of Beckwith's Confectionery. He had just come in from Florida and told me he had a nice trip up from Florida.

We had planned on leaving Plymouth around 10 a. m. Friday, but various things delayed our departure until noon, and we decided to take a bite to eat at The Black & Gold where Gertrude and Weldon Cornell bade us a happy farewell. At 1:15 we headed the old Ford south, not overly enthusiastic about going South because of the heat, days. . . from inches in height to feet. As we rolled along over Route 4 we enjoyed the fields of corn, soy beans and hay. Remembering the old adage we've often heard in and around Plymouth that corn should be knee high by the Fourth, we observed that the fields around home on the average would have to show up a little better to make knee high by holiday time. However, as we passed down toward the southern part of Ohio, we noticed that corn was getting higher all the time. And strange as it seems, we saw corn grow the fastest in two days. . . for inches in height to fessels. . . For when we arrived in Georgia Saturday morning, large ears had appeared on the stalks, and we had "fried corn" for dinner Sunday.

We stopped over in Fairborn, where Wright and Patterson airfields are located, to say "Hello" to Mrs. Thomas's sister and brother. We found her brother, Dr. C. W. Siddall, and his family, all packed and ready to go to a fishing spot in Canada. They planned to drive all night. After a few minutes we said "Goodbye" and we were on our way to the "Sunny South" while the Siddalls were going into the "cool north."

It was while at dinner with the family in Fairborn that we learned something new about airplanes, or rather "jets." People in and around Dayton had become disturbed over several bombings or explosions which had occurred on the air base during the week. . . In fact some of the base personnel were worried, too. You no doubt read of the accident in the daily papers. But the extra loud noises coming "from nowhere" were made by jet bombers which "traveled faster than sound. When the jets would go up 30 to 40 thousand feet, and start in a dive, they would straighten out, causing the sound waves to crash against the earth, making the noises. And they didn't sound like fire works, either.

A Golden Sunset
Traffic on U. S. 42 became heavier as we neared Cincinnati. We came to the outskirts of the Queen City around 7:45 p. m. Friday. As we entered the city on Reading Road the flow of traffic increased and we were an hour or more getting through town.

"A thin gray curtain lay over behind the city and the sinking sun had gone down below the horizon causing the great mass of gray to turn to a rich gold. It was like a backdrop to a huge amphitheater. The outline of the city's buildings jutted up into the gold heavens, and in the foreground the Ohio River looked as though it were a stream of molten silver gliding its way through the green valleys. Certainly the scene was one which any artist could admire and hope to imitate and to me it was a revelation that no artist could depict truly a small portion of such a picture which God had created in only a few minutes and which disappeared just as quickly. The phenomenon was one that we'll long remember.

Thinking perhaps after crossing the bridge over the Ohio we'd lose some of the traffic, we continued on U. S. 42 for quite a few miles. Entering Covington we found the cause of traffic equally as heavy as in Cincinnati. It was somewhat amused just as we were leaving the city of Covington. Ahead of us was a large dump truck filled with cans of naturally sweetened Kentucky's famous liquid, and I wondered if they were going to boil the corn or feed it to the horses.

On past Covington duck settled as the moon, which I could get a glimpse of the rays over the moon, which shortly proved to be a big one of the "harvest type." After a somewhat hot drive during the night, the night air was so refreshing and restful and we decided to drive on. For after all we were late three hours in getting started at Plymouth, our visit at Fairborn ran over schedule and heavy traffic had slowed us down in Cincinnati. So onward we drove, not fast, but at least moving. Mile after mile we passed gas, oil, and food stands, cabins, etc., and for miles behind and miles ahead autos were guided by people going somewhere.

We came into Bardstown shortly after midnight, and felt the pangs of hunger. Bardstown is a village of some three thousand souls, well-known for its distilleries, tobacco and the home of Stephen Foster. We stopped around for a place to eat, but to no avail. We finally entered a "greasy spoon" where there was sold and a little after midnight, too, if you wanted I don't know how Mrs. T. mustered up sufficient courage to enter such a place, but I was so hungry for a meal, that I half dozed myself into a half doze, and she kept me up. I paid 35c for a slice of boiled ham which had more fat on it than lean, even if it was pressed by one of those "premium" packers. Well, it was good anyway. I was somewhat amused by a sign over the kitchen door. The kitchen was a 12x12 spot in the corner with plain fly catcher around it, but with a few tables, utensils, stove, etc. "The sign read like this: 'Stay out of the kitchen. We prepare the food we serve.'"

Shortly after one o'clock Saturday morning we left Bardstown and headed for Elizabethtown, where we hoped to get a bed and breakfast. The corporation line of Bardstown was held up by an accident. There was a large wrecker ahead of us and a couple of cars were on the highway. I got out and walked to the scene where I found a new car had become a total wreck as it struck a huge wall of rock along the road. The entire top of the car had been smashed down to the driver's seat, and the front end of the machine pushed back to the middle of the car. Inquiring of the state patrolmen, we learned that the driver had been instantly killed. . . a broken neck being the main reason. The car bore a Georgia license, but the young man who was driving alone, had been drinking and had failed to make a curve in the highway. This was our first and only accident we saw on our trip down.

We arrived in Elizabethtown a little after 2 a. m. Saturday and checked in at the Joplin hotel. We were greeted by the porter, "Uncle Joe" Bethel. Uncle Joe was truly a model for a magazine ad. You've seen 'em tall and straight, very dignified with gray hair which added to his dignity. A more modest and polite person I have never met. We were just a little too worn out to "dig into his history," so off to bed I went, telling the clerk to call me at 8 a. m.

I never got the clerk's call, but we did awake at 9, and I went over to Sid's room and found it empty. Entering the lobby I observed S'd reading a paper, and asked him who he arose ahead of us. He replied, "He called me, and I told you would be ready to go." He didn't disturb us, so we slept an extra hour.

After a hearty breakfast in the Coffee Shop at the hotel, we visited a couple of stores. During breakfast, however, we managed to write a few cards and then we were off to Mammoth Cave, Ky.

There are several caves located in the same area of Kentucky, all of them being some 25 miles north and west of Bowling Green, Ky., where I resided for a couple of years. While working on the newspaper in Bowling Green I remember that the Great Mammoth Cave was then privately owned. And Horse Cave and a couple more had been discovered years ago, but were opened in 1921. I was living in Bowling Green when Floyd Collins, trying to discover a new entrance to a cave he found in 1917, became wedged between rocks and there he died. Rescue workers tried for days to free him from a fallen rock which held him fast in the cave, but their effort and work proved fruitless. The old Mammoth Cave people finally convinced the government to take over the surrounding land on which the cave was located and make it into a national park. The government has done a splendid job. Being only a few miles away the owner of the Great Onyx, Horse Cave, and the Floyd Collins cave rigged up lights, built an administration building and other conveniences, and then posted signs to attract travelers in competition with the old and original Mammoth Cave. We went through the Great Onyx Cave, because of the fact that the cars were naturally lit and the walk ways were maintained, and only one hour and fifteen minutes required for the trip.

It's remarkable work the Creator can do with one drop of water and a lot of time. The guide told us that the formations which we were about to see required more than one thousand years per cubic inch to form. We thoroughly enjoyed the trip and the formations were very beautiful. No smoking was allowed on the expedition due to the fact that there was no draft to withdraw smoke and the air was completely dead, although cool. The temperature, we were told, remains constant the year rounder. If you're wanting to plan an interesting week-end you'll find any of the caves an ideal attraction.

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series covering our recent vacation trip to Atlanta, Ga., and our visit to Birmingham, Ala. We hope you enjoy it as much as we did the trip. PWT

APPRAISAL FIRMS CONSULT COUNTY

Representatives of three appraisal companies have contacted County Officials in regard to making the general re-appraisal ordered by the Board of Taxation at the Last week. James Clemmishaw of the J. M. Clemmishaw Co. of Cleveland, who made the 1943 appraisal for the county, E. T. Wilkins and Associates, Cleveland, and Harold F. Loyer, Vice President of Cole, Loyer & Trumbull of Dayton, called to look over the order from the state as to details and appraisal companies could prepare proposals as to cost. These are the only Ohio appraising engineer firms. Cole, Loyer and Trumbull have completed a number of Counties nearby including Ashland and Wayne. J. M. Clemmishaw has completed Medina County and is nearing completion of Sandusky County. Due to the many Counties that have been ordered to make re-appraisals, it will not be possible to secure the services of any of these companies for several months. This will give local officials an opportunity to make a careful study of the work as done by the varied companies in other Counties, with the objective of engaging the best company.

Contrary to general public opinion a re-appraisal is not intended on rates equivalent to a point where the re-appraisal will pay for itself. The law requires a re-appraisal to equalize values each six years, and its purpose is to set a high standard of equalization, so that each taxpayer will pay no more or no less than their just share of the tax burden. The 1941 replacement cost, less depreciation will be used in Huron County as it has been used in all other Counties in Ohio. The reason for the 1941 cost, rather than any other year, is because that year is regarded as the last stable year in our present day economy.

It is impossible to tell how much if any raise will come as a result of the re-appraisal, when it is completed. Only thru a complete re-appraisal will every new building or improvement made in the last eight years be located, to be placed on the duplicate, the same as those who understood it was a legal requirement to report new buildings to the County Auditor as soon as completed. The expectation is to have every parcel of land and the buildings on the land, valued on the 1941 standard just as exists, by unbiased appraisers.

In the meantime the County appraisers in team will continue to make temporary appraisals of new buildings to be entered on the 1950 duplicate, as the re-appraisal cannot be made until the 1951 tax year. Outside of the incorporated cities and villages that require building permits, and those land owners who comply with the law in reporting their new buildings, appraisers team will continue to hunt and find method of locating new buildings.

We Had a Wonderful Time Folks, Thanks!
After spending a wonderful vacation in Cleveland and this area, Mr. and Mrs. Park Mosier left Saturday morning for their home in Leesburg, Florida. Former Plymouth residents, they left here about four years ago for Florida on account of the health of Mrs. Mosier. Both have grown to enjoy the sunny south, but still consider Plymouth "home" and keep in touch with their many local friends through the Advertiser.

They came to Plymouth last Tuesday evening and were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thorr E. Woodworth, while many other friends extended courtesies to them. They greatly appreciate the lovely time here and regret they were unable to see every one they formerly knew.
