

Weldon Cornell Buys Smith Hotel Building

Negotiations are expected to be closed this week involving one of Plymouth's old landmarks, the Plymouth Hotel. The new owner is Weldon Cornell, operator of the Black & Gold Soda Grill. Purchase of the building was made from W. C. Mansfield, of Mansfield, who has been proprietor of this well-known building for the past few years.

The structure has several apartments on the second and third floors, and the store rooms are occupied by a beauty shop, the IGA grocery store and the Hitching Post. The purchase price was not revealed, but it runs into several thousand dollars.

In announcing the transaction, Mr. Cornell states that he will take over ownership of the building on the first of September. No changes in tenants are expected other than the Hitching Post. On January 28, Wayne Ross, Robert Lofland and Byron Ream leased the store room which is occupied by the Hitching Post and the fixtures. After the purchase, Mr. Ross took over the entire setup. His lease expires next February. With the change of ownership of the building, Mr. Ross closed the Hitching Post Monday night. He did not reveal his plans for the future.

In the meantime the Hitching Post is being dismantled. The building was erected by the late Frank Smith some forty years ago. It was in that era that the street car line ran through Plymouth from Mansfield to Norwalk. For years it was a popular hotly with all traveling men who stopped over in town. Later, however, with the advent of automobiles the traveling public's demand for hotels diminished, and the building was then arranged for apartments. During the war an following, the apartments have been filled.

Mr. Mansfield made extensive improvements in the building, mainly, the installation of modern heating equipment, and water and electric lines.

During the six months he operated the building, Mr. Cornell made many outstanding improvements, and he was enjoying a very nice trade.

Help Art Stadium Needed Today

The Booster Club needs a lot of help today. If you can come down during the morning hours it will be appreciated. If you can help this afternoon, it will be a big favor.

The big job today at the stadium is raising ten light poles. There will be pole-handling equipment, but there also will be a lot of extra work that should be done as the poles are set.

From now on, every day coming in the field should be ready for the first football game in September. It is the desire of the Booster Club to have the field ready and make plans for the "grand opening" for the first game.

There's plenty of work, and the more you see us, you come down and help the boys. They really need it from now on in.

Anderson, engineer, Division 3, Ashland.

MOST PEOPLE have some sort of religion—at least, they know which church they are staying away from.

SUPT. G. R. DENNIS says that a record of some sort or other was established Monday of this week when twelve envelopes were returned, each with a nice check for Plymouth's new stadium. . . . not a big deal in a hundred years, but what a help they are in finishing up the business end of the deal. There was a check for $2.5 from Dr. D. B. Young, pastor of our neighboring town of Shiloh which is greatly appreciated and our sincere thanks to all who have been so generous in their help. That first football game better be a winner!

AND SPEAKING of the Stadium, have you noticed the late electric light in Cashman's window that will be used for illumination at the stadium? It is one of sixty lights to make the football field light as day.

WEDDING RINGS were heavier and wider in grandma's day because they were made to last a lifetime.

THE BRIGHT LIGHTS come to Plymouth again. The old town really got "lit up" over the weekend. Supt. E. L. Rooks just placed new bulbs in all the reflectors, and the Square will now have that "new look" for several months. The life of the bulbs are estimated at the most as about six months.

DON FOX, former Plymouth resident, but who my resides at Cudahy, Wis., a suburb of Milwaukee, was in town for several days last week visiting friends and relatives. Don was "limping" a little due to a broken bone in his right ankle. While playing ball on May 28, he injured his ankle, which kept him from work since that time. Don "Sk" is the same old "Fox" - always jovial and smiling, and even with his injury, he was cheerful. He returned home last Saturday.

Pole Raising At The Stadium

Today is a memorable event for Plymouth, although only a handful of its citizenry will realize it as such. It is the day that the poles at the stadium will be placed into the deep holes, and set with supports to bear the huge lights that will shine forth on the stadium's ball field.

A fine tribute should be paid to those who have labored so hard to put forth so much effort to give Plymouth and its surrounding communities an illuminated field that will equal those found in towns much larger. Truly, only through co-operation in raising money and the donation of many days of real manual labor could such a project be carried through.

Let us, as a community, segregate the stadium from the school, for the present at least. The Booster club created the idea of a lighted field, and it received cooperation from the Board of Education, village officials, and many, many citizens. It is not an entirely "school-sponsored" project, and there are some who perhaps find it easy to criticize the school and its officials. But, we will say this, that the stadium will prove a real asset to the school and its athletic program.

In fairness to Supt. G. R. Dennis, who came to us last fall, we should make it plain, that while Mr. Dennis is supporting the stadium program, he has been very conservative with his enthusiasm, and sticks to the belief that the fundamentals of education should come first. He has been gracious with his time in accepting the treasurer-ship of the campaign for the stadium; he has been tireless in giving hours of labor at the stadium, and has been cooperative in every way. But all of this does not prove he has placed athletics ahead of book-learning, and it is unfair for some to think that he was the originator and the chief promoter of the stadium.

In the years to come, and if "the thing proves a success," you'll be glad you took part in raising the huge pole today. There's going to be plenty of satisfaction later on in the knowledge that Plymouth can boast of a well lighted athletic field, and we are quite certain that it will be used to the pleasure of hundreds in this area who still believe that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

AT HOME FIRST!

Once there was a young father with four children. They were good children... clean and well mannered, but sometimes they caused the father disturbance. Naturally, the father had his problems quite like any other father, but one trait in his children caused him great concern.

He noticed that while at home, his children were lax about pitching in and helping with the work. They would do it with a minimum of grumbling, but still they refused to take responsibility upon themselves. The youngest of the boys inherited the duty of mowing the grass each week. Instead of cutting, he would put it off until it was long and tough and the father would have to tell him... almost threaten... before he would do it.

One day the father was walking home from work and a sight met his eye that completely baffled him. Across the street, and with bursting speed, was his young son cutting the grass of a neighbor boy friend. The father scratched his head and long into the night thought out the question: "Why for someone else and not at home?"

This same circumstance was born again when his oldest daughter came home from a friend's home with stories of helping the other girl sew a new dress. The father was completely fascinated, for at home the girl would never take the needle in hand no matter to what extent she was urged.

Naturally, the father was worried. Maybe he was raising them wrong. He asked his wife but, although she had noticed it too, she could not give a logical reason for the behavior.

The father took it upon himself to discuss the problem with neighbors who also had children. He found that the same condition existed in other families as well as his own. Still no one could tell him why it is to much easier to do another person's work than your own.

But, when a person ponders a problem to great extent, some conclusion is bound to result and slowly but surely the father devised a plan. It was not a lengthy plan evolving skill and thought, but a plan to show his children once and for all that they must help themselves as well as their neighbors.

One day when all was quiet and the children were away from home, the father took a crayon and a piece of cardboard and made a sign. This sign he hung in the kitchen for all to see and in a position the children couldn't help but glance toward several times a day.

One by one the children came home for the evening meal and one by one they stood staring at the sign. No one asked any questions. The father didn't say a word, and the children, quite certain the sign was placed there for their consumption, ate their dinner in silence and retired early... naturally to study the meaning of the sign.

What did the sign read?
 Quite simple... Just three little words.
 It read, "AT HOME FIRST."

The father was a genius in his own right. He stirred the imagination of his children and after they thought it through, they knew the meaning of the sign. It remained in the kitchen for many days and soon the family was closer than ever before. The sister took needle in hand and the small boy took great pride in keeping the grass mowed.

The father remarked sometime later: "Our family was never a family until we put the sign into practice. All of us do it at home first and we do not do away from home what we wouldn't do on our own property."

This is a lesson all of us should learn. Whether it is a national affair or our own local problems, we should do it at home first before doing it elsewhere. Local buyers should buy in their own communities and help support the town.

On the national scene, we should practice at home first before throwing away our resources to all ends of the earth.

TIME FOR A NEW PITCHER?

There should be no starving here before we worry about other countries.

This father could be any father. His wisdom and his sign could belong to any man.

Let us strive to do our good deeds at home first and when away from home, do nothing we would not do on our own property.

WASHINGTON REPORT

BY SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

DURING the past week I have been working as a member of the Senate Committee on the new tax bill which aims to increase the Government income at the rate of $5 billion a year. No one likes to increase taxes, but today there appears to be no alternative in view of the mess in which we find ourselves throughout the world and the strong position in which our policy has placed the Russian Communists.

The President's budget presented in January contemplated a deficit of $5 billion for the year ending July 1, 1951. I had hoped that we might cut the expenses of the Government a sufficient amount so that there would be only a small deficit this year and a balanced budget next year. I felt convinced that savings of $5 billion could be accomplished in our domestic non-military and foreign aid programs.

But today it is impossible to pay our expenses through savings in domestic expenditures. The President is asking $10 billion more for the Armed Forces; and, in view of the world situation, it looks as if we would have to spend at the rate of at least $25 billion on our own forces for a number of years. Military aid to foreign countries is now requested at the rate of $4 billion, and other expenses incidental to preparedness certainly means a gross increase of $15 billion.

Saving in domestic expenses is not more important now, but it is hard to see how such savings could exceed $5 billion a year. This means that we face a net increase of $10 billion in our government expense, giving us an annual expenditure, when not going, of $59 billion instead of $49 billion.

I HAVE emphasized the vital necessity of paying for this condition as we go. We already have a huge debt. If we ever get into an all-out war, we will have to add to it substantially. During the second World War many people thought we should pay for the war out of current taxes. But we were spending about half the entire national production on war, and we could find no tax system to raise that amount without unbearable hardship and injustice to many. The reliance on borrowing, however, is directly responsible for the 70 per cent inflation in prices over pre-war. No matter what controls are imposed, you can only delay inflation if the government borrows $50 billion a year.

There is no reason at all why a tax system should not be de-

FOLLOWING THE LINCOLN TRAIL

Following the Lincoln Trail, geographically and historically, Miss Laura Fenner and Mrs. Blanche McCulley, of Fredericktown, motored through counties that made an interesting trip for them from Wednesday to Sunday.

Their western destination was Springfield, Illinois, where the tomb and memorial for Abraham Lincoln is located, but there were many interesting side-trips along the way. They visited in southern Indiana, the beautiful Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial park. This is a state park of 1800 acres and one of the most beautiful a tourist may find.

Because of the interest in authors and books, the two friends found the trip through the Limestone Country very worthwhile, and they visited the home of Jean Straton Porter where she wrote some of the earliest of her many stories, "Freckles" and "Girl of the Limestone". They also located in Fort Wayne, Indiana, the grave of Johnny Appleseed, the character out of History that some of our early Plymouth townspeople remembered as he passed through this locality on one of his many trips across what was then wilderness. Sounds like a very nice vacation trip, and perhaps some of our acquaintances might like to follow the Lincoln Trail too.

Tennis School Open To All Local Fans

If you can swing a racket you can learn to play tennis. This is the motto of the local tennis school which is open to all local fans. The school is being held at the Norwalk Tennis School at the Pleasant Streets courts. Instruction will be given by the local tennis instructor, starting August 15 at 6:30 p. m. for young boys and girls with a session for adults at 8:00 on the lights.

The tennis school is open to anyone six to sixty years old who wants to learn to play tennis or improve their present game. Those who do not own rackets and two tennis balls, Jack Kramer and Bobby Riggs, the world's top ranking tennis players, stated recently that it is very important that boys and girls start young with the correct tennis strokes. Many times even persons who have played tennis for a number of years do not improve by practice alone because they formed poor habits when they were first learning the fundamentals.

Players who attend the tennis school will be divided according to their ability and given the best instruction. Individual coaching will be used as much as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Root, who recently returned from a vacation trip into Ontario, Canada, discovered that they had picked up some tips they could pass on to the traveler who was planning a like trip, and Mr. Root was kind enough to make the following suggestions: "A trip via Mackinac City and St. Ignace should be timed for week days; avoid Sundays and holidays. On the way, some cars waited eighteen hours to get on the ferry."

The four ferries in use hold about 110 cars and hold 150 cars. "The best route from this area is 20 thru Sylvania, 223 thru Blissfield and Adrian, 127 thru Jackson, and Lansing, Mich. A Lansing pick up 27, (all wonderful highways) to Cheboygan, then follow the lake westward to Mackinac City. A few services were held Saturday by taking 68 just north of Gaylord, Mich. cutting over to 31. The ferry toll from Mackinac City to St. Ignace, a minute trip is $1.75 for car and two persons. At the Soo, 85c or $1.20 round trip."

Route 17 east in Canada is perfect at least as far as Thessalon. Over night accommodations are plentiful, and the roads are excellent.

BETTER EATING

KEEP MILK AND EGGS COOL
There's a thief at work on your back porch when milk is allowed to stand outside. Sunshine is the villain that steals the B vitamins, riboflavin from milk, so essential to good health. Heat is too even room temperature, shortens the life of milk. So when your milk arrives, whisk it into the refrigerator and keep it cool until it is used.

Care of Eggs
Another dairy food that suffers from the heat is eggs. Just a few hours of exposure will send the quality of a fresh egg down quickly. Look for refrigeration in the store and slip them into the refrigerator as soon as you get them home. Be sure the small end of the egg is pointed downward for storage.

Chocolate Souffle
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
3 cup milk, chocolate, grated
1/4 cup sugar
3 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup heavy cream
3 tablespoons sugar

Uncle Sam Says

School bells are again ringing and thousands of children are back in classrooms all over the country. And many of these little boys and girls are crossing the thresholds of learning for the first time, starting the great adventure of beginning an education in a free land. They can go all the way, and that means college if they learn to save. The School Savings Program teaches them to be thrifty and children who learn to save will certainly be better citizens tomorrow. You parents—be sure there is a School Savings Program at your school and be sure too, that your children are investing in U. S. School Savings Stamps. U. S. Treasury Department

Watermelons Are Plentiful And Prices Are Low - We See Birmingham From 'Vulcan'

TO MARKET WE GO
Leaving the park around 1:30 Tuesday afternoon we decided to drive over to the Country Market where a number of large watermelons. The market is located within the corporation, but on the edge of town. I became somewhat interested in the melons when I saw the huge food center with my eyes were centered on row after row of food shelves piled high with fresh produce. The shelves are several hundred feet long with floor space in the center some 25 feet wide under roof. Beneath these shelves producers bring their wares to sell to those who wholesale. However, any individual can buy hillsides afford cool air during the summer months and almost everywhere suitable spots are being taken for homes. Being a large iron and steel center the area around Birmingham at night, especially at Ensey, Fairfield and Bessemer is a colorful scene caused by the glow from the huge furnaces.

It was rather amusing last week when I read in a Birmingham paper of an account of the Ingalls' family, large industrial holders in Birmingham. It seems that Senator Ingalls and Junior Ingalls have been at out. An offer of almost two million dollars was made to Ingalls, Jr. for his share in the business. Papa Ingalls had the two million bucks wrapped up in a cardboard carton, which was hauled into the office of the junior Ingalls. But the sight of two million dollars in cash didn't appeal to the younger Ingalls. It must be a common way to handle money in Birmingham, as there was no extra heavy guard nor armored car used in the transaction.

Another interesting thing we saw was the house of Smith & Gasson, insurance firm. This firm is owned and operated entirely by negroes, from the president on down. They feature burial insurance among the colored people and in a cardboard carton, which was a million dollar business. The home office is located in downtown Birmingham. The building has a beautiful colonial front, painted white, and lighted at night with floodlights. We toured the residential sections of Birmingham on Thursday afternoon and saw many of the fine and stately homes of which the city is justly proud. Birmingham streets and avenues make traveling easy for the visitor. There's a little rivalry between the two, Atlanta and Birmingham, and we found about the same difference in the towns as that of Cleveland and Columbus.

Friday morning found us saying goodbye to the folks and once more we were late in starting. We were scheduled to pick up Sid in Chattanooga at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, and we were just taking off at 1:15 with 150 miles ahead of us. We chose Route 11 out of Birmingham and we made no mistake. Outside the bounds of the city we rode over the finest stretch of highway we were ever on. Mile after mile the speedometer registered 60, and it was safe driving. No traffic, no hills, no curves—just pleasant motoring. Entering northern Alabama we found farm methods primitive, that is the old mule and plow system. But from what we observed it's about the only way the folks can plant and cultivate the corn and getting to the small, hilly fields is large because of the heavy growth of trees and ravines. However, we found Fort Payne a good town, located topographically perfect. We stopped for a soda and visited a couple of stores. Several of the stores are located here, and there must be a spirit of progressiveness in this area as the town appeared very prosperous and its people happy. We checked in at Chattanooga at 3:20, picked up Sid at the Louisville & Nashville railroad station and continued our trip home.

We followed the same route from Chattanooga back to Plymouth, stopping at Georgeson, Ky., Friday night. We enjoyed a good night's rest, a wholesome breakfast, and got well under way on our last lap of the journey home at 9:30 Saturday morning. As we traveled north, again we saw in reverse the growth of crops which we previously spoke of. Tall corn dwindled down, large tobacco leaves shrank to half size. But all the way to Plymouth all the crops looked fine and as the season goes on, we'll probably have a swell harvest of corn, wheat, tobacco and soy beans.

Our vacation was enjoyed to its fullest. Plenty of rest—good and entertainment. However, we did glad to be back home, and travel the world over, you'll never see a better community or mingle with finer people than those who have in Plymouth.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of our vacation trip. This is the fourth and last. We would welcome any vacation articles turned in by our readers.
