Cong. McGregor to Keep County Appointments

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Aug. 17.—Although Congress is expected to remain in session indefinitely, Congressman J. Harry McGregor of Ohio said here today he will attempt to carry on his annual court-house visits in the six counties of the 17th District.

The Congressman's annual tour of the district is scheduled to start in Ashland Monday, Aug. 21, and will end Saturday, Sept. 2, in Coshocton. Since the House of Representatives will probably conduct business during part of that time, Mr. McGregor says he plans to fly back here if important legislation is brought up.

"House leaders have assured me that no vital measures will be considered during those two weeks," said Congressman McGregor, "but the present international situation may demand my return to Washington at any time."

Such an emergency arises, he continued, Mrs. McGregor and one of the Congressman's secretaries will carry on the visits.

"Earlier this year I was told that Congress would adjourn by Aug. 1, but the need for Congressional action during the crisis has extended this 'time limit,'" stated the Congressman.

"I regret that the schedule of visits might have to be interrupted," he said, "but I know the people of the district will agree that my place is here when important matters come up for a vote."

A notice will be printed in the newspaper and broadcast over the radio station if the Congressman is unable to be present in any county.

HAROLD ROSS BUYS TEXACO STATION

Another business transaction occurred in Plymouth this week when Harold Ross, well-known young man, purchased Joe's Texaco service station.

Mr. Ross is a well-known local young man, employed for several years at the Fate-Rook-Health Co., and has resided on a farm north of Plymouth. He has already farmed with his many friends in the field he will operate it along the same lines as in the past. He will continue to handle Firestone products, Texaco gasolines and Havoline oils, as well as a general line of auto accessories.

Mr. Lasch, who is also well-known here, started off the new Texaco station seven months ago, and has enjoyed a splendid patronage during this time.

A deal was closed a few days ago whereby Mr. Lasch and Mr. Ross, Ernsberger, Shroy and others, take over a Gasfield service station midway between Ashland and Mansfield on Route 42. Both men have had service station experience, Mr. Ernsberger being connected with a Sohio station in Shelby.

Congratulations are extended Mr. Ross by his many friends in the purchase of the Texaco station and wish him much success in his new venture.

Applications For Gas Heat Curtailed By The Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. announced today that no further approvals could be granted for the installation of furnaces and convectors.

Persons who have filed with the company after Monday, Aug. 7, notices of intent to install gas-fired space heating equipment, are being notified that the equipment cannot be connected at this time.

The company's action was necessitated by the unexpected large number of applications for gas heat, it was stated by W. N. Grinstead, Vice President and General Manager.

In planning in advance for the 1950-51 heating season, Ohio Fuel estimated that 60,000 additional furnaces and burners would be connected to the gas mains during 1950. With almost five months of the year remaining, the installations and the approvals for furnaces already connected, total 60,000 Mr. Grinstead said.

"Ohio Fuel has spent 50 million dollars in the past four years in installing a gas station system to meet the demands for gas, and has a construction program requiring approximately 20 million more for 1951," Mr. Grinstead said.

"Such a program requires long-range planning, engineering and construction. It involves a great deal of delivery of more gas from the Southwest, construction of transmission and distribution lines and compression stations, and enlargement of storage fields."

"Obviously, it is impossible to accomplish, in the short time being, the heating season arrives, and there would be required a far greater number of heating customers than we anticipated."

"In all fairness to customers already connected, and in view of the regret the action, restriction is the only answer."

"For the past year it has been required that notices of intent be filed with The Gas Company by all persons installing gas-fired space heating equipment. Those notices have been filed and approved. The Gas Company has sent out approvals for the installations. All such approvals received, and will be six months," Mr. Grinstead said. Notices of intent received after August 7th are being registered by the company for future consideration, and their approvals are being granted at this time.

Poles Set at Stadium, To Be Wired Sept. 6

Thirty-five men showed up at Mary Fate Park last Thursday afternoon to assist in raising the eight huge poles which will hold the reflectors that will light up the football field at the park.

The photo, taken by Tom Root, shows the first pole in the northwest section of the field being placed into a ten-foot hole. In the dim background can be seen the partially completed bleachers which will seat 12,000 people.

The day was one of much activity. It had to be to get eleven poles in the ground. All the cross arms had been placed, and hardware and fixtures for mounting the reflectors had been fastened on to the poles. A crane and crew from the Shelby Metal Co., were on hand to do the heavy work, and an air pump furnished by The Richards Construction Co., of Willard, saved many long, hard hours of labor. Supt. Rooks and his crew from the light and water department played a big part in getting the poles into the ground.

The Booster Club sends out another call for help this Thursday afternoon. Any man or boy who can donate an hour or two of labor is asked to come down to the park. There are lots of different kinds of jobs . . . some heavy, some medium and some light. You can choose just about any kind of work you wish. The main thing is to be on hand Thursday afternoon. The schedule for the afternoon is set for 1:00 P. M., but if you can't get down before 3:00 or 4:00 o'clock, it will be fine, if you'll come at that time.

The poles are expected to be wired and hooked up by September 6th, but there remains quite a bit of work to be done before that time.

Those who have seen the stadium are well pleased with progress made and are excited about seeing the first game, which is scheduled for September 15th. Hundreds of visitors at the park last Sunday praised the community, the citizens and the Booster Club for having such a grand lay-out, not only for football, but many other events for which the lights can be used.

High School Industrial Shop Takes Form

It is likely that when school starts September 5th, there will be others besides the seventh graders who will be a bit confused. Doors that were there last year are no longer in existence. Partitions in the Annex have been taken down. Others have come into existence. Out of what were four class rooms for the elementary school have evolved three new rooms. The one that more nearly corresponds to the setup of yesteryears is the one that will be used for music. Adjacent space for music, instruments and band uniforms has been provided.

A little more than half of the annex floor space will be the home for shop program which is being reinstated into the high school curriculum. After a lapse of many years, new power wood working equipment has been purchased and delivered. An assortment of hand tools and drawing equipment has been ordered and delivery is expected soon. The third room is considerably smaller than the other two. It will be used as a dressing room for the athletic teams and the many other sports of the school. Provision has been made for ample storage space for all athletic equipment.

Clarence Murr was the architect and Dan Grabach has the contract to put in the partitions. The walls are laid up with light weight blocks designed to deaden and absorb the sounds coming from both the shop and music room.

Boyd Robinson Leaves Hospital

Boyd Robinson 71, Richland county superintendent of schools, was released Thursday from Mansfield General hospital where he had been a patient since July 14th. Robinson was suffering from a heart ailment and was under an oxygen tent for some time after he was admitted to the hospital.

Attend Centennial

Mr. and Mrs. James St. Clair motored to Fredericktown Saturday where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hoffman. Mr. and Mrs. Walter St. Clair and children were guests in the same home. While there they also attended the Centennial celebration which included floats, band, parade and two distinguished speakers, Gov. Lausche and Senator Taft.

Vacation in Eastern U.S.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan and two daughters returned home Sunday morning from a ten day motor trip which took them through New York State where they visited relatives and up to Pt. Ethel Allen, Vermont. Here they were guests of Mrs. Ryan's brother, Capt. J. Kruger and family.

Enroute home they returned by way of Housatonic, Mass., where they were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cahill. Mrs. Cahill is a sister of Mrs. Ryan.

Never Thought reunions and family gatherings could give impetus to the Plymouth Football Stadium project but last Sunday another $10.00 bond book was sold to a former Plymouthite because he attended a family reunion at the Mary Fate Park and saw for himself. Robert Nixon of Cleveland who returns periodically to Plymouth to see how we are getting along. Came to attend the Union reunion and was so enthused with the progress of the stadium he handed a $10.00 bill to Christy Weber for an interest in the project. Maybe, we should encourage more reunions! Thanks for the lift Mr. Nixon.

JAMES RHINE and JEROY BRUMBACH finished their job of painting the Bevier property on the southwest side of the Square this week. Painting after working hours at the shop and on Saturdays, the boys were beginning to think the weather man was "agin" them. Finishing the frame portion of the building first because it was necessary to have a week of good hot weather for painting cement blocks, it took longer than it ordinarily would, but now that it is finished it certainly adds to that look of a "well kept Public Square" that is becoming so noticeable. The Dress Shop occupies the business room while Mrs. Grover Bevier and father, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cornell reside in the apartments.

SOUNDS LIKE the bookkeeping done by our government: A man had barely paid off the mortgage on his house when he borrowed it again to buy a new car. How will you buy gas for your car? "It seems to me," the man replied with dignity, "that a fellow who owns his own home, car and gas, should be able to get credit for gas."

SWEEP CORN, peppers, cabbages, beans, and all the other good things are now in full bloom down at Honey Locust farm operated by O. J. "Nick" Nickler. And there's also too well until Mr. Nickler brought us in a lot of samples of everything he has. "I'll have corn from now on until you're sick of it," he said. "It's all top quality." He should have, for he has six acres of the finest sweet corn around here. Thanks, Mr. Nickler, for the edibles.

WELL, YOUTH had his fling on Monday night . . . at least four Plymouth youths think so. All they had to do was to see Mr. Mollie Bauer, Sally Dietrich, Larry Schreck and Bobbie Echeberry planned to go to Cleveland Monday night to see the Indians and Tigers do battle. They were to take a train out of Shelby, but their arrival there was a little late and they missed the train. They were out at nine, which was a little late for the ball game. So they decided to take Echeberry's car and drive into town to see the well until they came to the dividing line of the Main street bridge. They made the wrong turn, and in order to get back into the flow of traffic they had to back track out to Edgewater Beach. This time everything was lovely. They even found a parking space for a one hour parking. It was well until a game it was between the Indians and the Tigers it was just one of those games you read about but kids don't read about. Six thousand ball fans were nuts, and the kids were too when they left the stadium and tried to locate their car. It took a long time to get well until they remembered the exact spot where they parked it. While they were looking all around a cop came along and they were well until some of those people who got "took" for a dollar!" and Cop they were. The cop tells them that a guy had been operating the racket of parking cars in a "no parking" for a dollar a throw. "If you want your car go down to the station . . . it was "arrested" during the game. $5.00 more for parking, but wrong . . . the youngsters got home after an exciting evening, but paying the five dollar fine was worth it. The game, wasn't it? Needless to say that Bobbie got a lot of experience in parking just a new driver. (Continued on Page 4)

WHY ARE WE IN THIS MESS?

Five years ago Japan surrendered, ending the biggest war in history, and the world entered upon an era of peace, or so everyone believed. The United Nations had been organized, it would deal promptly with any future aggression and war was to be a thing of the past.

What has happened in five crowded years to bring the world to the brink of another war, one which promises to be more terrible and destructive than the last one and which threatens the very existence of modern civilization? People everywhere are asking themselves this question as they watch the war news from Korea and wonder what will happen next.

The obvious answer is that the United States has lacked the kind of leadership it needed to cope with the ruthless Soviet dictatorship whose objective is to subjugate the world. But there is more to it than that. Even the wisest of leaders would have been hard pressed to find a solution to the problems which arose as a result of decisions made at Tehran, Yalta and other conferences during the war.

The Plain Dealer believes the real explanation for the state in which the world now finds itself goes back to 1940 when Franklin Delano Roosevelt maneuvered himself into another presidential nomination and broke the third-term tradition. For if there had been no third term, there would have been no fourth, no Tehran and no Yalta.

The idolatrous worshippers of Roosevelt will be quick to condemn this conclusion, to denounce it as the desecration of the memory of a dead man. Let those who criticize ask themselves whether they have any regard for the memories of the dead at Pearl Harbor and Bataan, at Kaserine Pass and Mount Casino, Guadalcanal and the Normandy beaches and the hundreds of other battlefields of World War II. What about the memories of those who are presently dying in Korea and those who may be called upon to give their lives on some other far-flung battlefield of World War III.

It may be argued with some plausibility that the world might be in a worse mess than it is today if Roosevelt had not been elected to a third and a fourth term. But another president might not have hit upon the "unconditional surrender" slogan, which prolonged the war and made victory more difficult, or have adopted the program of reducing Germany to an agrarian economy, which multiplied postwar problems. And Communists might not have found the government such a happy hunting ground under some other chief executive.

But it was at Yalta that Roosevelt gave Stalin what he wanted and made the secret agreements that have plagued the post-war world, brushing aside the uneasy forebodings of Winston Churchill. And we know now that Roosevelt was not in good health at the time of the Yalta conference. Some other president might have gone to Yalta, too, but there is a good chance he would not have taken Alger Hiss along as one of his principal advisers. And there is a good chance that a president who was mentally and physically vigorous and alert might have listened to Churchill's warnings.

If there is any point in raking over the dead past, it is this: that the American people must be on their guard against any future leader, be he politician or statesman, whose overweening ambition and conceit beguile him into the belief that he is the Indispensable Man.—The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SHIP AHOY—BREAKERS AHEAD!

"Sail on, O Ship of State."
The great empires of the East and the memorials of their triumph have disappeared, leaving but a shattered monument, a fallen temple, or a buried city—reminders that they once existed.

Today, we see none of the defenders of the Pharaohs; Babylon and Nineveh exist in name only; the Medes and the Persians are no more, nor in the organ grinder or the fruit-vender, do we recognize the noble Roman conqueror. These peoples were once great, but they failed to hearken to the voice of wisdom and were stricken with the palsied desire for ease, wealth and empire—they came to an early and inglorious end.

Our America, from the thirteen small colonies that witnessed its birth, has sprung with gigantic strides, to the glistening sands of the Pacific; from the shores of the Great Lakes to the sunny borders of the Gulf. It has converted the mighty forests into homes and has brought civilization to wastes, over which the "Indians and the buffalo roamed." It has opened the earth and laid bare, treasures that awoke the world.

As a nation, we have attained a pre-eminence in Government, in wealth and strength, such as in the annals of history there is no equal. A rich heritage, either to develop or destroy. A godly heritage, but, there are evils abroad, as destructive as the "breakers" at sea. Their hoarse rumblings can be heard in the distance, and our American bark is in peril, and may be wrecked.

We have attained our success along a rather clear pathway. But, along with our success have come the evils that are historically associated with the fall of empires. Of the many evils that imperil our nation, we mention but one—"the love of money—the root of all evil." A dangerous "breaker."

Our citizens, good or bad, turn their eyes from the throne of domestic tranquility; tyranny supercedes liberty; ambition overcomes discretion; and morality is thrown to the winds when the jingle of coin is heard. Strategy is preferred to truth and honesty. A man is judged not by his worth, but by the clothes he wears.

Our America is being crushed by the heel of a worse tyrant than any king that ever wore a purple robe or carried the scepter of a Caesar.

We forget the past and are blind to the future. We are heading toward a state of servitude, even in this, our land of freedom. Unless the madness of our people can be curbed, America will travel the pathway already strewn with the debris of fallen powers.

"Long may our land be bright,
With freedom's holy light,
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King."

What Do You Know!
A Minute Sermon by Rev. L. E. Smith

At the beginning of the year the Inquiring Camera Girl of the Chicago Tribune asked five men the following questions: "What are some of your personal ambitions for the year 1950?"

Their ambitions and wishes ran along musical, mechanical, and monetary lines. Said one of them: "I hope 1950 keeps me away from the preacher as in previous years. Some things I'd like to accomplish are: Get my home in Connecticut painted; take up where I left off on my vocal lessons; maybe make a record; take up golf; buy a Cadillac convertible." What did he mean about keeping away from the preacher? Did he want to remain unmarried,—or was he thinking of his funeral,—or was he afraid the preacher would call his attention to spiritual responsibilities?

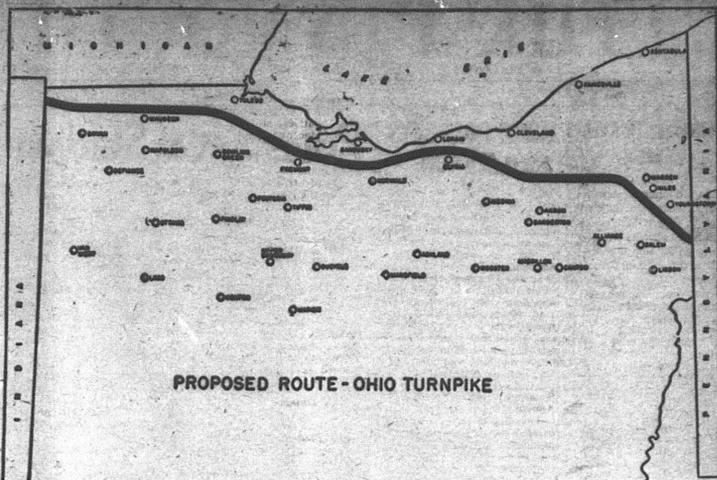

Supposing this year he accomplishes all his goals, even to the securing of a Cadillac convertible, and meets with a fatal accident, of what advantage would these things be if he lacks, "the one thing needful?" A true preacher could tell him "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the THINGS which he possesseth," that there are other values in life besides material successes. There is character, there is integrity, there is honesty, there is kindness, there is compassion, there is faith in God and in Jesus Christ our Lord. The preacher could tell him that "man doth not live by bread alone but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." The preacher and the church deal with the intangible values of life and the person who avoids them does so at his own peril for the life that now is and for that life which is to come.

"TRAVELING PICKEREL" MYSTERY SOLVED
 The mystery about the "traveling pickerel" with Ohio catch caught by Andrew J. Schultz of Youngstown, Ohio, on July 4th some 1500 miles from home in a Canadian lake, has been solved. The pickerel had not traveled at all.

The story is that a Mr. Jim Thompson of Dayton, Ohio, a former employee of the Wildlife Division, was fishing at Kashawakmak Lake near Harlowe, Ontario about last year. He happened to have some old unused fish tag in his pocket that were issued about 1928. Before releasing several undersize pickerel he had caught from the Canadian Lake, he simply "tagged" them. It was one of these that the Youngstown fisherman caught on July 4th.

Tax Delinquencies To Be Advertised

In accordance with the law, all real estate tax delinquencies will be published in two successive weeks in August 24th and 31st. Each year those that are delinquent one year or more are advertised; by the County Auditor's office, based on the records in the County Treasurer's Office. Payments that are made twenty-four hours before publication will be stricken from the advertised list of delinquents.

County Treasurer H. B. Collier, through his efforts has greatly reduced tax delinquencies, based on the advertised list of delinquents. The larger portion are short time delinquencies. Since the large proportion of all tax collections by the County are returned for maintenance of cities, villages, townships and school districts, late payments greatly handicap the area where the taxes are due. Prior to the publication date ninety percent of the delinquencies will have been paid but local areas are required to wait until the next settlement for their tax-money paid after the close of the collection.

MISS JESSIE COLE of Porters Street is thinking about taking course in automobile driving. Left alone for a moment in a car parked on a grade, she moved across the road and came to rest against a telephone pole. She says Miss Cole was out of the car before it started, caring too much for a free ride.

THINGS TO COME—Newest distaff innovation is a cosmetic which "texturizes" the skin, lasts all day without a touch-up. Patented but not yet on the market is a process for impregnating nylon with a bactericide so products near dog will become self-sterilizing. Two potential uses: germ-killing combs and tooth-brushes. Another recent patent—this one definitely the "all things" category—concerns a novel tub-within-a-tub. The idea? So you can take a bath and wash your dog at the same time, it says here. . . . Back to the blind is an amazing RCA-developed electronic tool that permits the sightless to "read" regular print as well as Braille. When pointed at a letter, the instrument translates its shape into a sound which the blind person picks up by means of a hearing aid. . . . Neither beer nor cold will make a new paint fade or peel, says the manufacturer. The product is also claimed to be both fire and water-proof.

Seeing the West by Automobile And Trailer

VACATION TRIP THROUGH THE WEST AS TOLD BY PLYMOUTH GIRLS, RITA AND RUTH KEITH.
FOR our trip to the Western states we started on Monday, June 26, 1950 at 10 a. m. We were already anxious for the first night to come as we had our trailer but had never spent a night in it. The first night found us in a trailer camp in Indianapolis, Indiana. Having been in Indiana and Illinois before, it wasn't as fascinating as the first night in the Mississippi River and crossed the Chain of Rocks Bridge which is a toll bridge connecting the states of Illinois and Missouri.

Mountain Caverns
Our second night of the trip was spent at Cuba, Missouri, in the Ozark mountains, and we visited the Meramec Caverns in the mountains. The first floor of the cavern is a very large and has enough space to park over 500 cars. At one end of the room is a large floor and a room of the square dances are held. The different floors are reached by flights of stairs. The Cathedral Chimes in the cavern are really chimes, for when you knock on them they give out different sounds. They are stalagmites made from water dripping through the earth.

Indian Camp
The largest known stalagmite in the world is in the cave and it is so large that many rooms were found around its edge. The famous Jesse James hide-out is in the cave. The guns that he had in their original place, the different floor where old fashioned square dances are held, and orchestra, and box seat occupied by one lonely visitor, a rock formation.

In this room they had seats where our group of about thirty people rested while the guide through the caverns led us. The famous Jesse James hide-out is in the cave. The guns that he had in their original place, the different floor where old fashioned square dances are held, and orchestra, and box seat occupied by one lonely visitor, a rock formation.

Another very interesting room was the "Wine" room. It had a table in it with several perfect legs, a flat top and wine glasses and bottles, all nature-made. Then there was in the same room a "Grape Vineyard" so realistic you felt as though you wanted to pluck them. This was such a perfect setting that they called it "Nature's Wine in Glass." In Cuba, Missouri, we saw the Will Rogers Monument.

Painted Desert
Before we got into the desert we were anxious to see a cactus and the Grand Canyon. The Painted Desert. Jack Rabbits! Soon all these things are so common as our grandmothers and the milk cows in the fields around here. They are bigger than ours and especially noticeable were their ears. . . . When we finally saw the Painted Desert it was just as the sun was starting down. The colors were purely beautiful. They were caused by volcanic eruptions. The earth the desert is made of is muddy when wet, but very hard when dry. We saw this beautiful scenery in Arizona.

Petrified Forest
We saw the petrified Forest in Arizona, composed of many, many logs with colorful stripes through them. These stripes were made up of volcanic eruptions of the sea, and from volcanic ashes that filled up the cells and petrified the wood. The woods was once covered by the forest and the modern forest the earth broke the logs into pieces. Then over a period of hundreds of years a river later uncovered the forest. For a long time jewelry from the wood, and the people of that part of the country appealed to the government to save the wood and take it into a National Monument, which Pres. Theodore Roosevelt did so in 1906.

The pieces are very heavy, and even a small piece is so very colorful that when you look at it it seems unbelievable to think that the wood was once a living forest. The Indians built homes in the forest many years ago, and there were odd looking Indian writings found in the wood and rock. There are also fossils of ferns found imbedded in the wood. There are still logs buried under the earth for as forests.

On the 3rd of July we arrived at the Lester Bootcher home. What a thrill to be there and see them in their fine home. We never thought we would get to see them in their own home, but there we were! What a good time Janice and Ruth and Carol and I had in our trip. On our trip to the Fourth, Gertrude (Mrs. Boetche) took us in their car to Old Mexico. We saw the Mexican market place, the size of images of Jesus on the Cross and Jesus and the Disciples at the Last Supper. A man in Tucson makes them as a wall painting. The original paintings are still on the wall, but the size images of Jesus on the Cross and Jesus and the Disciples at the Last Supper. A man in Tucson makes them as a wall painting. The original paintings are still on the wall, but the size images of Jesus on the Cross and Jesus and the Disciples at the Last Supper.

We did the laundry at 7 o'clock at night, and it was dark, and it was a block everything was dry. Surely seemed funny to us, but it was natural for the Tucson to have their clothes dry so fast. We had to see Arthur M. and his surely have a beautiful home. We had a very nice visit with them. Before we went to bed we ate a large watermelon.

Off to Again
The next morning we started for the Grand Canyon. We drove to Wickenburg and left our trailer for as we would have no track anyway. We missed its comfort and Mother's cooking so we decided we were very fortunate to have gotten the trailer and a few days before we started West. It looked for a while as if we couldn't find the kind Dad wanted, then a man from Mansfield brought this one over for us to see. We were so excited when we heard Dad say to the man "Park it in your yard!"

All along the way we were told that in Phoenix it would really be hot. Then in Phoenix they said it wasn't so hot that day but to wait till we got to Prescott as that's when we'd get into the desert heat and we'd really have some hot driving.

We stopped at a filling station in the desert, and they didn't think it felt so hot, and the attendant said, "Don't you consider yourself pretty lucky? Why we asked him? He answered: "Yesterday it was 112 degrees, but today it's only 80." We had some rain and it cooled things down quite a bit. After we left there it started to rain and it rained so hard we almost had to stop. Then after it quit there was water standing in the desert. It surely was a funny experience for us. I guess it was. For the natives, too, since that wasn't their rainy season.

Grand Canyon
Before we left Arizona we went to see the Grand Canyon. The day we were there it rained and we couldn't see it so well as there was mist over it. Soon the sun came out and we got a swell look at it. The sun-shining on the beautiful colors.
We looked way down and saw the small streak in the bottom that

Your $10 Needed To Put 'Goal Over the Top'

August 21—first day of football practice—also last day to pay for your $10.00 high school athletic bond received through the mail.
All those who received a $10.00 high school athletic bond book through the mail are kindly requested either to mail a $10.00 loan or to mail back the book to Mr. G. R. Dennis, treasurer, by Monday, August 21.
There are several final bills which must be paid within the next few days. So if you do not or cannot mail a $10.00 loan to the high school athletic association by August 21 for your book then will you please mail the book back at once, so it can be given to some other citizen for a $10.00 loan to raise the money still needed to pay the final bills.

There is still approximately $550.00 needed to pay for this project in full, depending upon the final materials needed. Therefore, if all persons who are still holding bond books would send in a $10.00 loan, and if the few remaining unpaid seat reservations are also paid by August 21, all bills can be paid and Plymouth would have a $20,000 lighted field and stadium entirely paid for when the first kick-off whistle blows on Sept. 15.

The Booster Club does not want to keep any creditors waiting for their money after August 21. Are you going to get on the band wagon and do your part to help raise the $500.00 still needed, or do you want to see your high school start the 1950 season in the new stadium $500.00 in the red?

There are six home games scheduled this year. If the high school team can come out on the field on September 15 with the stadium and lights fully paid the high school athletic association should have a good cash balance at the finish of the 1950 season.

Let's go over the top! Let's carry the ball across the goal line for that final and winning touchdown!

Liming Demonstration To Be Feature At Area Plowing Match
Farmers will have an opportunity at the Area Plowing Match on August 24, at the Humphrey farm, to see the various types of liming spreaders in operation.

In the past few years the trend toward more definite placement of lime has been evident in the county. Lime truckers are trying to help the farmer by controlling the placement of lime rather than spinning it out where the wind can carry it in all directions. This, and other features of the liming program, will be discussed by Earl Jones, Extension Agronomist at Ohio State University.

Contestants in the plowing match, from the seven counties in area 2, will begin their contest at 1:30 p. m. The winner will then compete in the State Match on September 12, at Urbana, Ohio.

Re-Elect Officers To Area Chapter Of Cancer Society

Present officers of the Shelby-Plymouth-Shiloh chapter of the American Cancer Society have been re-elected to another term. They are Noel Smith of Shelby, president; Thor Woodworth, Shelby, vice president; C. L. Plympton, Shelby treasurer, and H. H. Evans, of Shelby secretary.

Dr. E. D. Dawds, representative of the Shelby Medical Society was named the medical adviser. Contributions to the 1950 campaign totaled $3,776.99. Mr. Evans announced recently that that amount, which goes to the state and national societies for research and the other half remains in Shelby for the local chapter's projects.

A man in August, 31, 1951 included the continuation of the free clinic at the Shelby Memorial hospital. The Shelby chapter budgeted and the educational program, with a $200 budget.

Another $174 was received by the local chapter for the year 1950. It was given to the Shelby chapter by Miss Carolyn Wilkinson and her class, sponsored this summer. The revue, earlier by the chapter as a charity performance, was well attended and received.

Cabinets for convenient storing of supplies are being purchased for each of the three towns in the chapter. Shelby Pythian ladies are making pads for the Shelby cabinet.

Area residents are reminded that detection clinics are held the second Thursday and Friday of each month at the Shelby hospital. Free clinics are sponsored by the Shelby-Plymouth-Shiloh chapter from contributions made by the general public. The examination of patients without charge but donations are gratefully accepted. Reservations are made by calling the hospital.

WASHINGTON REPORT

BY SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

The House and Senate conferees are now attempting to reach an agreement on the one-package appropriation bill. The inclusion of all the major appropriations in one bill has been long urged as a necessary reform in the handling of appropriations, but this is the first year that it has actually been done. Apparently, the reform has not been well received in the House of Representatives, and there are indications that unless public opinion is brought to bear, it will not again be adopted.

In the Senate there is a substantial difference of opinion, but all of the Republicans on the committee think it is a great improvement. Undoubtedly, it is not quite so convenient as to handle ten appropriations bills one by one as they come along. I doubt if it takes any longer. The bill was on the floor of the Senate for approximately a month, but this was partly because of the Korean war and the necessity for setting aside consideration of the bill for various emergency matters. I doubt if the time actually consumed was greater than the total which would have been taken by ten separate appropriation bills.

Members of the Appropriations Committee say that this is the best job the committee has ever done because they were able to take an over-all look at the relative importance of appropriations in different fields, and appraise the work of the subcommittees.

THE single-package approach also permitted the consideration of a general amendment reducing non-defense expenditures by 10 per cent which was adopted by the Senate for the first time. An over-all cut in personnel was offered and adopted in the House. On the whole, I think the work of the Appropriations Committee was the best that has been done since I have been in the Senate.

The total sum appropriated is still too high, but that is largely because the committee is bound by various policies adopted by Congress in other laws. Any substantial economy requires a change in those policies. With the military expenditures now before us, it seems essential that many of these committees, it will investigate all the details, consider the executive budget recommended and the legislative budget recommended. While it will not be bound by the legislative budget, undoubtedly that budget will have an effect on its work.

I do not see how Congress can act intelligently without some definite plan to work toward. The one-package approach is not convenient, and they do not fit the customary approach of individual Congressmen and Senators who are more interested in specific appropriations and policies than in the sound financial result.

It seems to me that it is the only way to get any intelligence into government financial planning, and that there is no other way of avoiding deficit spending certainly leading inevitably to inflation, higher prices and economic instability.

Marriage Solemnized At Willard Church

A lovely August wedding was that of Miss Lillian Lillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lillo, and Mr. Orbin Hackworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hackworth of Plymouth, on Saturday morning in the St. Francis Xavier church, in Willard. Rev. J. B. Fralick officiated.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli, palms and candelabra. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and for her wedding gown had chosen white marquisette over white taffeta, with train, and her veil was of finger tip length, white illusion, fastened to a tiara of seed pearls. Her bouquet was composed of white gladioli, and roses, and she also carried her mother's crystal rosary. Her three-strand pearl necklace was the gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor was Miss Carolyn Dalmsandro, who wore pink dotted swiss and carried pink carnations. She wore a 2-strand necklace of pearls. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Josephine Lillo and Miss Helen Quaid, were also gowned in dotted swiss, one dress of blue and the other of yellow, and they carried matching bouquets. All three wore picture hats, the gift of the bride.

Matthew Chatterelli served as best man for the bridegroom, and the ushers were Louis Lillo and Donald Stevens. Little Miss Rosemary Lillo, sister of the bride, was her flower girl.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Rt. 224, near Willard. The bridal table was centered with a 4-tier wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and the table also carried small candelabra, and bouquets of pink roses, and ferns, carrying out the pink and white color scheme.

The young couple will be at home after August 27th in their newly built residence near Willard. The bride graduated from Willard High School in the class of 1950, and Mr. Hackworth attended the Moorehead State College, in Kentucky.

Dana Call Named Defense Director

Dana W. Call, Huron County Common Pleas Court Judge and retired manager of the National City Loan Company has been appointed Director of Civilian Defense for Huron County. His appointment was made last week by the Huron County Board of Commissioners, and he will proceed with the appointment of his staff and aides in the near future to give the County adequate protection in any emergency, local or national, in accordance with the Ohio Law which was passed by the last legislature, causing a civilian defense to be organized on a permanent basis.

At a meeting of Mayors and their civilian defense directors at the County Commissioners' office, it was suggested and moved by the Mayor of Ashland that the staff of the County Director should be from Norwalk and vicinity, where they could best aid in the event of an emergency. Mayor Gilbert pointed out a good working organization could not be developed without frequent meetings and that it would be necessary to assemble frequently if the staff were scattered around the County. All present concurred in this proposal.

The interest of the Mayors of the cities and villages of the county has been commendable, all being present at the two meetings required to which was passed by the law. All have appointed civilian defense directors who are in quest of the best material available, in their locality to develop this most important organization. Many of the local defense directors are experienced men, who know the importance of an efficient and efficient Civilian Defense, as has been directed by the Governor.

The law does not at this time provide for any compensation for those taking part in this necessary preparation for any emergency. In every Community an appeal will be made for the services of patriotic minded people to lend their talents to provide this humanitarian service, so that each individual will be provided for if and when an emergency arises.

Many Huron County Farm Women Enjoy Educational Tour

The 11th educational tour for Huron County women was held Thursday, August 10. Six large buses left the Court House at Norwalk about 7:30 a. m. Over 200 women enjoyed the trip via Toledo and Dearborn, Michigan.

Three hours were spent visiting the exhibits in the Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. Due to the late hour and rainy weather the stop at the Toledo Zoo was dispensed with.

Dinner was served at the Rainbow Inn outside Port Clinton, then the group stopped at the Blue
