Present Charter To Local Scout Troop Tuesday Evening

It is quite significant that while the nation is observing scout week Plymouth Scouts should receive their charter. The Local Boy Scout organization is sponsored by the Community Club and for the presentation of the charter, the Club invited all local Scouts, and officials of the group, as their guests at a dinner meeting, which was held at Cornell's, Tuesday evening.

A very appetizing dinner, featuring prime rib of beef, baked ham, moolah salad and all the trimmings, and finished off with one made pumpkin pie, was served to 50 Boy Scouts and members of the Scout organization and Community Club.

Following the dinner, President James Root took charge of the meeting, briefly dwelling on the work of the Club as Scout sponsors. He introduced Floyd Dent, area Scout executive, who spoke highly of the Community Club and the work it is doing for the Plymouth Scouts. Dent spoke of the youth today, for the honest, American living, and more understanding than the "boys of yesterday." He stated that the boys of today have more problems and temptations than the youth of 25 years ago; and he also pointed out that the young leaders are capable of meeting the demands thrust upon them due to the work of the Scout organization.

Mr. Dent emphasized the fact that today's Scouts are the citizens of tomorrow, and that time is relatively short for developing character and leadership as necessary in rounding out a healthy young boyhood. He told members of the Community Club that the Boy Scout movement is not an institution but solely a program, and that Plymouth is to be commended for sponsoring the Boy Scouts here.

Mr. Dent has been in Scout work for 31 years, and is widely known throughout this area for the splendid promotion he has done for the Boy Scouts of America.

At the close of Mr. Dent's talk he presented the youth leader to Mr. Fogleson, representative for the Community Club. Mr. Fogleson gave well-chosen remarks in the acceptance of the charter, who in turn presented it to Quentin Ream, chairman of the Scout Troop committee.

W. C. Mead of Mansfield, president of the Area Council of Boy Scouts, was presented by Mr. Dent. Mr. Mead, who has been associated with Scout work for many, many years, spoke very highly of Plymouth and its scouting program. He told the community Club the work it is doing for the young boys of the community through Scouting. He addressed some words to the Boy Scouts presenting, telling them of their responsibilities, and that the game of Scouting should be played at the square, and that they, the Scouts are building the foundation for the house of Character and Truth. He stressed the necessity of a strong foundation, and told the boys he thought they are worthy and capable of doing a good job.

With the presentation of the charter, proper credentials were also issued to trustee committees, who are: Quentin Ream, chairman; James Davis, Glenn Dick, W. H. Redden, Albert E. Marvin, C. V. Marvin, Gordon Brown and Harvey Pagel. Cards were also issued to Scott Master Rev. Paul Mumford, and his assistants, including Joseph Hustwitz, David Sams, James Shutl, Sid Thomas, Robert MacMichael and Donald Smith.

At the close of the meeting President James Root asked for comments and discussions, and several members responded.

The meeting was truly an inspirational one for old and young Scouts and will long be remembered as a most enjoyable event.

The Richland Players, a group of young people from the Christian Endeavor societies of Richland County, has been revived to put on the three act comedy, "Good Gracious Grandma," which is the得意 of Mrs. Carl Hipsher of Shely at the Plymouth high school auditorium on Friday night, Feb. 15.

They find themselves temporarily in a state of financial embarrassment with their landlord, Mr. Dennis, played by Miss Patsy Pugh of Shely. The landlady demands a deposit.

Other roles are portrayed in the play by Miss Margaret Jackson of Shely, as Helen; Miss Marjorie Sams of Shely, as Cecilia Fox of Mansfield, Cleo; Don Morris of Mansfield, Wiggins; and Miss Edna Worman of Shely, Delicia.

January Weather

January was a mild wet month. Beginning with a high of 46 on the 1st and hitting 60 again on the 15th and 17th, the temperature rose above freezing on twenty-one days. Not until the 30th did the thermometer drop to its low of 3 degrees. The average temperature for the month was 32.2 or 4.4 degrees above normal.

Precipitation which occurred on 22 days, totalled 5.31 inches—an excess of 3.19 inches over normal. The greatest in 24 hours was 1.74 inches on the 16th and 2.02 inches on the 25-26th.

The last big rain did the damage. Strong winds, mostly high and fields broken from the first heavy rain, streams overflowed their banks, and highways in many places were closed to traffic.

Snowfall for the month was light and totaled 6 inches with the greatest depth 4.1 inches. At the end of the month wheat and grass still looked green, although some wheat fields were still partly under water.

J. A. R.

P. S.—Since Mr. Groundhog saw his shadow under a cloudless sky for half a day, we must, of course, now brace ourselves for the worst to come.

REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Stuart C. Brinkley was removed Monday morning in the McQuaie ambulance from Shely to the Willard hospital for rest and care.

Pictured above are the eighteen "volunteers" who have spent every Thursday night since last April at the Presbyterian church remodeling the basement.

Ralph Felix, Stephen Sebok, Mrs. Edna Sams, Omar Burkett and Harold Sams.

Seated: Wm. Wechter, Harry Vandervort, Roger Hampton.

When the photo was made, Mr. and Mrs. Sebok served the evening's lunch. Mrs. Sebok had prepared several varieties of Hungarian cup cakes and cookies, which delighted the men with their taste and flavor.

Basement Repairs Almost Completed At Presbytarian Church

Work of remodeling the basement at the Presbyterian church is just about finished, and when completed, it will be a life-long memorial to eighteen talents who did not put their talents under a bushel measure, and who gave many long hours of hard labor.

For months past, beginning last April to be exact, plans were revealed for the improvement of the basement, which houses a kitchen dining room and heating plant. The repairs were needed badly, for there was moisture and dampness to contend with. The paneling was peeling on the walls, ventilation and lighting were poor, and the kitchen was ill-arranged. A few conferences were held, and it was decided to go ahead with the work. And like most churches today, cash was a missing factor. So, the talents were organized, and men with special talents joined those whose talents were a helping hand whenever needed.

The news of her death was received in Plymouth with much regret by a host of friends and acquaintances. The wife of Robert Blackford, she had resided in Plymouth for the past ten years. During the manpower shortage of the war years, Mrs. Blackford, a mere stripling, worked in the trucking business and many times she took over the driving of the big trucks. Her keen wit and humor plus a pleasing personality quickly won the favor of those with whom she came in contact in the business world.

The news was brought to her by Palmer and Wolfe packed the McQuaie funeral home until Monday morning when they were removed to Marietta, her home town, for interment. The large number of floral pieces indicate that Mrs. Blackford was held in high esteem.

The news was brought to her by her husband, Robert Blackford; two step-daughters, Pat and June of Shiloh, her father, Charles Michael of Marietta; one brother, Edgar, also of Marietta, and one half-brother Denver Saver.

RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Florence Barnett was released Thursday from the Shely Memorial Hospital and taken in the McQuaie ambulance to the home of her brother, Russell Ross and wife at 211 Plymouth Street.

Mrs. Barnett was taken in the car of her son, and Shely home for a week after last New Year's Day following a last auto accident. Her condition is somewhat improved and she was permitted to be in a wheelchair this past week on two different occasions.

She is the daughter of Joe Ross Jr. West High Street.

Around THE Square

By Phineas Whittleseed

EDDIE CURPEN tells me this week that he and his wife are leaving on February 17 for a month's stay in Florida. They'll drive through, and will visit a number of Plymouth residents while there, including Dr. and Mrs. G. Searle at Bradenton. Mrs. Searle has a place of her own in the "sunshine state" and they'll visit them. A large portion of their time will be spent at Sarasota. Mr. Curpen will close his jewelry store from Feb. 17 to March 17.

THE POWER OF ADVERTISING goes far and wide. Dave Bachrach related to me Tuesday that his firm, Bachrach Co. livestock dealers, recently placed an advertisement in the Farm Journal. The office got a large number of inquiries, including one from Anchorage, Alaska. Dave says he is about 100 miles from Anchorage, far from the coast. Of course he'll return, but Mr. Bachrach says he'll place advertising in papers that don't have a worldwide coverage. Incidentally, a truck from Rhode Island came into Plymouth Sunday, and ten fine heifers were loaded for shipment to a buyer in that state.

THE TITLE doesn't do justice to the film, "I'd Climb The Highest Mountain", which comes to Plymouth theater for the midnight show, Saturday, Feb. 10-11. And Sunday, Feb. 11-12. It's in the theater weekly, and the story, for it deals mainly with a lot of folk down in Georgia who still follow Southern traditions. Press reviews have highly rated this show, and if you feel like you'd enjoy an evening's entertainment other than television, you'll find it in this picture.

IT'S REMARKABLE how old age doesn't bother some people. Take Fay Rockman, whose birthday was last Saturday. Yep, he was 84 years old, and to celebrate the occasion, he traveled to Toledo by bus Saturday afternoon. He sped along with his wife, Mrs. H. W. Clapp and husband. Fay was born in Plymouth and has made his home here for all these years. He has his own little place back of his son's house (Harold Rockman) on Mulberry Street. Fay has three children, a son, Ray, a daughter, Ruth, and a son, Carl. Ruth, Mrs. Fetters of Plymouth, and Marian Rockman of Mansfield. Fay has plenty of "entertainers" for there are 19 grandchildren and ten great-grandkids. The other day he was spending a few hours in the Harold Rockman home, and some dogs got into his nerves. Fay quietly went to his abode, where he escaped the noise of the kids and dogs. A little late, Fay, but congratulations on your birthday, and we hope you see many more.

MAYOR BRIGGS' court was an interesting one Wednesday evening. Richard Peter of Novia was up for crashing a red light. He received a fine of $10 and cost, totalling $15.80. James Lymp of Mansfield, who was charged with reckless driving on Jan. 22, for having a "rough" on the road, was fined $15. A "pre-indictment party" was held by the court on the 24th, starting at 9 a.m. on the Public Square, wasn't quite so entertaining. Marshal Meier was called around 9:00 a.m., and was told of the "goings-on". He made a quick trip downtown and found Art Jacobs, Jackie Donnenwerth, and Jim Kreutzberg, all of Huron. They were all in a happy frame of mind. The boys denied driving their cars in a reckless manner, but admitted a little barbershop singing. Mayor Briggs instructed them to pick up the empty beer cans thrown on the Public Square and informed them that he didn't want any more complaints.

UNCLE BILL HATCH who has been "hibernating" for the past few weeks, was out Wednesday greeting his friends around the Square. Uncle Bill will be 94 his next birthday.

WITH "SUGAR SNOW" Wednesday I was somewhat reminded of the late John Beelman, who always informed me about this time of year by saying: "Well after a sugar snow we can look forward to Spring."

Complete selection of Candy for Valentine's, including Whitman's and Schrafft's in beautiful one and two pound boxes, priced from $1.15 to $5.50. CORNELL'S.

20th Century Circle Members Learn of Famous Birthdays

The Twentieth Century Circle met at the home of Marian Root Cashman on Monday evening where new members, Mrs. Clara Root and Mrs. Joan Root were welcomed into the group.

The topic for the evening was "Famous Birthdays". Mrs. Ellis on "The Life of Lincoln" told the influence of women in his life. Mrs. Marion Nance Lincoln who encouraged him to learn all he could from books and who taught him his gentleness and kindness. She died while Lincoln was still quite young but it was of her that he said, "All that I am or ever hope to be, I owe to my Angel Mother."

His stepmother, Sarah Lincoln, was a wonderful woman who also encouraged him to study his books and it was from her that he learned his unusual sense of humor. A young girl whom he fell in love with and intended to marry, but who contracted an illness and died, left a lasting influence on him and accounted for the look of sadness which he often had.

He later married Mary Todd Lincoln who was very ambitious for him, and it was through her that he was encouraged and influenced to become one of the greatest men of all time and the President of the United States.

Mrs. Lois Ramsey then told of "The Life of General Washington". He was a very warm and friendly person and fond of children, although he never had any of his own.

He was an aristocrat and a born leader, very active as a child, though he was not tall.

At the age of twenty he had accumulated 1500 acres of land.

Martin the woman whom he married was older than he and had a considerable sum of money.

He was Commander-in-Chief of the Army in the fight against the British and had many trials because of their harsh command today. He was very persevering however, and a successful General.

Later he was chosen President and called "The Father of our Country".

"The Life of Thomas A. Edison" was given by Mrs. Cornelia Johns. In early life he was editor of the paper, "The Grand Trunk Herald". Later a telegraph operator and all his life he worked at his many inventions. "The Remington Typewriter", "The Light Bulb", "Telegraph", "Electric Dynamo", and many things which to him we owe for the convenience and luxury in which we live today.

He died at the age of eighty-four after a life of great service.

After the miscellaneous round a refreshment was served by the hostess, and the group adjourned to meet in two weeks with Mrs. Grace Dick.

Liberary Board for January

Members of the Plymouth Library board met at the home of Mrs. George Hershiser on Thursday evening, January 31st, for their monthly business session. Following the routine reports, books were ordered, and election of officers was called. This resulted in Mrs. Belle Bachrach being re-elected to the position of president, which she so capably handled for several years. Other officers re-elected were Mrs. P. L. Root, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Pitzen, secretary. At the close of business, the hostess served nice refreshments, and the Board adjourned to meet in February with Mrs. Root.

Mrs. Dorothy Aumend presented a program of contests and readings last Friday evening when the Plymouth Grange held their semi-monthly meeting at their hall. There was unusually good attendance, and after the usual routine of business a lunch of cookies, sandwiches and coffee was served.

The Grange ladies would also appreciate it very much if those who are saving Kroger Coffee labels toward the purchase of a coffee urn, would turn in their labels. A few more are necessary before the urn becomes a reality.

Dinner Guests

On Thursday evening the Misses Margaret and Jessie Cole were entertained at dinner in the home of Mrs. Nettie Motley and on Sunday evening in the home of Mrs. Mattie Major and Miss Ethel Major.

At the business meeting it was decided each member should bring a box of cake mix or any ready-mix to the March meeting to be sent to India. To stimulate interest, the Circle and Young Adult Class have chosen a project for the church. The committee Joanne Root, Holly Purdy and Mrs. Smith, will appear to make future plans. After the business meeting the hostess served a tempting lunch by candlelight.

Cold sludge plugs oil screens, piston rings and oil lines, preventing proper oil flow and lubrication. It increases oil consumption. Hurts gasoline mileage. P. S. If you are using new Sohio HOD motor oil, your crankcase won't have sludge that looks like this because HOD prevents sludge-forming acids from interfering with combustion. ## OUR DEMOCRACY — by Met OF THE BOYS, BY THE BOYS, FOR THE BOYS

Boys join the Scouts because they want to — because they like the ideas and ideals the Scouts stand for, and the fun and health and self-reliance that Scout training means.

The Boy Scouts are no "youth movement," but rather an association — free of regimentation or compulsion and relying on self-discipline and a spirit in which boys work and play together with comradeship, self-respect and consideration for others.

SCOUTING ENCOURAGES THE QUALITIES OF INDIVIDUAL INITIATIVE AND RESPONSIBILITY THAT ARE THE ESSENCE OF OUR DEMOCRACY AND FREEDOM EVERYWHERE.

Going to Australia to Reside for Two Years

Miss Harriett Portner of Portner street, has received word that her aunt, Mrs. Kathryn Doty Breckon and husband, L. S. Breckon, expect to leave Salt Lake City, Utah, for British Columbia, where they will sail on Feb. 7th for Australia to make their home for the next two years.

Mr. Breckon is the only living relative of Mrs. Portner and has made a number of visits to Plymouth to visit her aunt. Mrs. Viola Fitch who has cared for Miss Portner the past four years will continue to make her home with her.

The following article taken from a Salt Lake City, Utah, paper will be of interest to many of the friends of Miss Portner, who was born in the same home in which she now resides on the Street which bears her name.

L. S. Breckon, 1107 E. South Temple, western field engineer for Kennecott Copper Corp., has been promoted to the position of district geologist with headquarters in Sydney, Australia.

His successor has not yet been appointed.

Mr. Breckon, who has been associated with Kennecott interests for 28 years, will leave Vancouver B. C., aboard the Aorangi for his new post.

Here Since 1944

His function in his new position will be to keep Kennecott abreast of geological and mineral explorations in the Far East and Australian areas. Heretofore the corporation has depended on roving observers in those regions.

Since 1944, Mr. Breckon has served in his present position.

A son of Mr. Breckon, for many years U. S. Mineral surveyor in Utah and nearby states, Mr. Breckon was graduated from West Side High School in 1912. During World War I, he served as a pilot with the U. S. Air Force. After graduation from the University of Utah, he went to Peru to work for the Cerro de Pasco Copper Co. in 1920.

He was first employed by Kennecott as instrument man in the engineering department at Binghamton, N. Y., and later portions of safety engineer, general mine foreman of sulfide ore and director of geology at Bingham.

While mining in Eureka after World War I, he met and married Katherine Doty, daughter of the late Mr. Doty, superintendent of the famous Eureka Gold Mine. The couple have two children, John Breckon, Salt Lake City, and David Breckon, aboard a destroyer in Korean waters.

REDUCE COUNTY LOAD LIMITS

Richland County commissioners Tuesday put into effect a request by County Engineer Walter Rusk that there be a 50 per cent reduction in the load limit on all Richland county roads. As a result of the order, the load limit per axle is placed at 7,500 pounds.

A heavily-loaded steel truck wandered off the pavement in Shelby last week and got bogged down in the gravel road at the end of North Broadway and had to be pulled out. That road is reported to be nearly impassable for most motor vehicles.

Critics Review Local Author's Book— "The Dams Can Break"

For those of you who have not had the opportunity of reading the book, "The Dams Can Break" by Emeline Fate Christian, of Plymouth, the following reviews by book critics may give you an idea of the content of the book.

Both critics speak exceptionally well of Mrs. Christian's first novel, and while the book's subject, spiritualism, may not always be accepted by the reader, it does give one some good material for thought.

Both reviews are printed in full.

Spiritualism is the theme of this first novel by a writer who has published several short stories and poems under the name of Fate Simmons. "The Dams Can Break" is an inspiring individual venture into fiction, coming prose that often reaches real heights with a narrative style that is as yet not fully developed.

Despite the seemingly overwhelming odds against the success of a book on spiritualism with a faint order of fakery, the occult and incense-filled niches, "The Dams Can Break" is certain to hold the reader to its very end. Off to a slow start, for the reason that Miss Christian's methods of introducing her characters is an uninviting one, it gains impetus, and makes its mark.

The scene of the novel is a beautiful hotel in a pine woods, where Paradise townsfolk laugh and joke at the spiritualist and his followers in their summer camp. Miss Christian's characters are fine, though some are a trifle stereotyped. The Pines Hotel go two doctors, one a psychiatrist; a magazine writer, a minister, and a woman on the verge of a nervous collapse. All of them find friendship and understanding, an interest in spiritualism, and a trysting place from the leader of the spiritualist movement, Findlay Burton.

One doctor is intent on choosing a field for specialization in order that he may make a fortune quickly and enjoy its accompanying accomplishments. Another is a minister who has come to the Pines because of an automobile accident he cannot understand. The minister has read of the camp in a magazine called Psychic Observer and hopes at the Pines to learn why in months passed, he lost the support of his congregation through fear of his career. He is underwritten with an inspired sermon he delivered without realizing afterward, what he had said. The woman is guilt ridden over the death of her baby and crushed by the necessity to live at an altitude so high that she cannot help from the mother who has died.

Each of these persons becomes convinced that the Pines, with its mediums, its quiet and its study into the relationship with God through a scientific approach to religion, is the answer to a particular problem. They believe too, as do the author and the reader, that a power took them to the Pines for the purpose of giving them assistance from those whose bodies had died, whose souls continued to strive toward earth bodies with psychic sensitivity.

The healing of the psychiatrist, who develops blood poisoning after a minor hand injury, is one of the high points of the book, lighting up, as it does, the mystical character of Mr. Barton. Another strong episode is that in which the men of the disabled woman is healed by the camp's pastor as the two doctors stand by in fierce antagonism to move.—F.G.S. Leviaston Journal Magazine Section.

For the reader who is looking for an intriguing, a thought-provoking book about a subject little understood and less frequently considered, "The Dams Can Break" is that book.

Written by Emeline Fate Christian, this is a story of spiritualism. The story is not written as are most books with the obvious intention of trying to prove something. There is no discussion or argument about whether such things can be so, but rather with an insight into the subject which reflects the years of research which Mrs. Christian and her husband have spent with the belief that are the psychic powers latent in every individual the book leads one through an amazing experience.

There are exciting episodes which the reader will not soon forget, one, a boisterous night club scene and another scene with a deceased person guiding his operation, and others. Fantastic? No doubt about it, but though few will believe it to have happened, many will simply shrug it off easily. —R.B.W.

NEW HAVEN RIPS PLYMOUTH

By Dan Eby

The New Haven Yellow Jackets defeated the Plymouth Pilgrims 64-53 on the New Haven floor last Tuesday evening.

The contest was close throughout with the biggest margin being the one that ended the game.

The first quarter was very tight in the beginning, but New Haven blasted their way into the lead at quarter-time 15-8.

During the second period the Pilgrims found new life and got 18 points to the 14 for New Haven, but then, within striking distance of the Yellow Jackets, Wilson contributed eight points during the eight minute session while Meiser was meshing 6 counters for the Pilgrims. The New Haven squad left the floor with a 29-26 lead.

In both the third and fourth quarters the boys from Plymouth were outscored again as they just couldn't seem to get rolling. The Yellow Jackets led at the period 45-39. The final tally read 64-53 in favor of the New Haven Yellow Jackets.

Stanton Holthouse took game honors with 19 points and his teammate Glenn Newmeyer had 16 for his efforts.

Tom Meiser led the Plymouth parade with 10 counters while Duane Wilson scored through 15. Meiser, although a victim of the flu, played almost the entire contest.

Reserve Trounce New Haven

The Plymouth Pilgrim juniors kept with the New Haven Reserves for a quarter and then turned the tables into a rout as they won 51-29.

Coach Poling of Plymouth started substituting early in the fourth period and cleaned the bench in a few minutes. This was the Reserves' 13th win against 5 defeats.

Polio Campaign Reaches $400.00

The end of January winds up the Polio campaign. Plymouth has done a good job in contributing to this fund.

Some outstanding contributions were made by groups in Plymouth. The elementary pupils contributed $100.00.

The Alpha Guild of the First Presbyterian Church organization including the workman contributed over $50. The boxes in the stores of Plymouth yielded over $90. Mrs. Hannum and Mrs. Fetter conducted the Porch Light Campaign which brought in about Sixty-seven dollars. Most of the money was given by the workmen.

In all it was a good drive.

Well over $300 has been contributed up to this time. A few donations are late in coming in. If any other people would like to contribute their money will still be accepted. It is expected that the final sum will be in excess of $400.

7 Thank You Plymouth

Plymouth's porch-light parade

for Polio patients Thursday evening turned out to be quite a surprise to many.

As chairman of the Board of Trustees of the church, Harold Sam devoted many hours in planning and coordinating the entire project. His responsibilities have been great, but he's performed them well.

Service Coffee And Cookies

While the job of remodeling has been a long and laborious project yet it has been one filled with fun and satisfaction. It has proved that men, by and through cooperation can accomplish the almost impossible.

From the start, the women of the church have made the task easier and more enjoyable by serving the workmen coffee and a light lunch each Thursday night after they were through with the evening's work.

Point of Funa

Rev. Ralph Felix, who is modest about taking credit for any part of the program, said the need failed to bring out the best in the members on Thursday nights. He sometimes acts as "paymaster," taking the slugs knocked from electrical fixtures, which are about the size of a quarter, and pays the workman off. One "employee" claims he has never seen all the coins and that some day he'll start dropping them in the collection plate. There has been a lot of jokes and stories told by the men as they labored through the night, little incidents that have occurred which will long be remembered, and best of all the eighteen men have enjoyed a fellowship which is only created by working together for the Lord.

It was a bit amusing to learn that quite a few bricks which had been taken from the Methodist church during the construction of an annex there had been hauled down to the Presbyterian church.

One of the workmen remarked: "The Presbyterians don't have a good church with pillars made of Methodist bricks." Another Presbyterian noted that they also were using the Methodist bricks, they'd hid them with mortar. Anyway the Methodist bricks brought out a lot of comment...but all in fun.

In fact, the Presbyterians were very glad to have them for the purpose they served.

When the basement is finished which will be in April, the Presbyterians will have a fine and modern place for preparing and serving food to the congregation and various church and civic groups and the church can be ever thankful to those who donated, material and labor.

Changes For Auditorium

The Presbyterian Church has completed plans to build a sanctuary within its place of worship. The chancel plans to include the communion rail, which will be the central point of interest when one enters the church. On the left side of the chancel will be the pulpit; on the right side the lectern with a copy of the Holy Bible. The choir will be arranged antiphonally on either side, not facing the congregation if it does. There will be two rows of pews which will all be made over and resurfaced, with a central aisle leading up to the approach to the communion table.

The architectural plans will lend itself to a more fresh and airy atmosphere. Behind the communion table will be a beautiful dozel, which will lend beauty to the place of worship.

The sanctuary will be rich in symbolism. The interior walls will all be freshly re-decorated in pastel colors. Closing off the primary room on the first floor and the balcony, will be four "modern-style" doors. The floors of the entire church building will be covered with tile-flooring. There is some talk of installing "Carillon Tower Bells" in the belfry, which could be heard over the whole community.

BLOOD FOR BROTHERHOOD

By James Kerney, Jr.

Editor, Trenton, N.J. Times

Pick any american along the street and ask him, "Do you hate the people you work with, shop with, live with?"

His quick answer will be, "Don't be silly. Of course not. I get along fine with everybody."

That's part of the American tradition. We get along fine with everybody. The counterman in the grocery, the waitress in the restaurant, the man in the office across the desk, as well as the man across the street and his wife and children they're all alike to us. They're all neighbors.

The idea of getting along with people is old American common sense. Nevertheless, on each of the past few years we announce publicly that we don't care what a man's creed, color or national origin is; he's our neighbor. That's brotherhood week.

In the face of this, somebody is bound to ask, "Why have Brotherhood week? It's what we do all the year."

Well, it doesn't hurt to remind ourselves that this is a great country. It suits us fine. We live in it and love it. Of course, we'd like the rest of the world to feel peaceful toward us, but let's not forget here we're out there to keep peace here and among friends abroad.

In the meanwhile, most of us feel there isn't much we can do to change the world. It's a little too big for any of us to handle by ourselves. The average fellow says, "It's not my job to be big." Yet, it's our job to be small. "But the peace of the world is part of our business today, even if most of us don't know what we can do about it."

This year the National Conference of Christians and Jews has come up with a happy resolution. You can pledge a pint of your blood in Brotherhood Week. There isn't a better way for Americans to show they mean Brotherhood as a working idea. Give a pint of blood for your neighbor who might need it or for a friend who might need it. Never mind his color or his religion, if he needs your blood to live. Or give your blood for a soldier in Korea. He may be one of our American boys, or he may be a Turk or a Greek, a Canadian or a Britisher. Whoever he is, he needs blood so that he'll be fighting right so that there can be peace in the world.

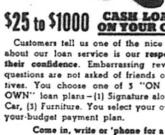

If you want to do something real for Brotherhood Week, if you want to have a light and happy heart, be a good neighbor who means it. Pledge your blood for brotherhood.

BIGNESS IS NO CRIME

At frequent intervals, someone rises up and declares that the oil industry makes too much money and something drastic ought to be done about it.

The best reply to that lies in what the oil industry is and what it does. Considerately, it is "Business" for the plain and simple reason that only big business could supply us with the incredible quantities of oil we and our friends abroad need and want. And it is risky and complex business. For instance, it takes a lot of money to drill a wildcat well in some oil—oil—and only about one in five turns out to be a producer. If the oil people didn't stand a chance to make a profit, they wouldn't venture their capital on such hazard.

ous undertakings. And, if that occurred, a future oil shortage would be imminent.

The American people spend about $7,000,000,000 a year on oil products. And half of that—$3,500,000,000—goes right back to the government, through federal taxes and taxes levied on the oil industry and on oil products. A great deal of oil rest goes to the 2,000,000 well-paid men and women in the oil industry employs.

Then, when current bills are paid, oil companies must pour out millions of dollars in refineries, pipelines, tanks, and all the rest of their vast physical plant—the plant converts the crude into a thousand and one useful products used by consumers, and the rest is profit.

The amount which finally winds up in the pockets of the industry's tens of thousands of owners, as dividends, represents one of the smallest slices of the oil dollar.

SCHOOL NEWS

42 YEARS AGO TODAY

Fourty-two years ago today the Boy Scouts of America was founded. This is an organization that prepares boys to become better citizens. Their motto is "Be Prepared." They are taught service to God, country, and duty to all mankind.

A boy from nine years of age upward may become a member of the Boy Scouts of America in one of the following three divisions: Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting, and Senior Scouting.

To belong to the Cub Scouts a boy has to be from nine to eleven years old. They are organized into Packs and Den. The Packs is led by a Cubmaster, who is a grown man. The Den is led by Den Chief, a Denner, and a Den Mother. This division learns skills and develops hobbies.

When the boys become twelve years old, they are organized into certain skills, the Scout Oath and the Scout law to become a Boy Scout.

The highest rank a boy can get to, at the age of fifteen, is Senior Scout. In this group, there is a choice of three programs, Senior Scouting, Air Scouting, and Sea Scouting.

The most important part of the Scout movement is to help others. The Boy Scout does a good turn daily, such as to help an older person across the street, run an errand, or he may perform other services of public concern.

These boys work together to help the community, and they take part in community services. They collect food and distribute it to needy families on holidays. Another service they do is to help in local emergencies such as floods, hurricanes, earthquakes and fires. During the World Wars I and II, the Boy Scouts were very busy. They sold Liberty Bonds and planted war gardens. Their most important work consisted of collecting needed materials as paper, tin cans, and metal scrap. They also work with the Red Cross and other organizations.
