

Newlyweds Living Here

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Koser, who were married Labor day in Coalport, Pa. The bride is the former Shirley Bloom.

Miss Kiess Marries Benjamin Kensinger

St. Johns Lutheran church in New Washington was the scene of the marriage of another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Kiess, Shelby route 3, Saturday when Benjamin Kensinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kensinger of Catch, Pa., took the younger Kiess daughter, Miriam, as his bride.

The Rev. Lewis Nichol performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with fall chrysanthemums and a seven-branched candelabra. Mrs. Clayton was organist for pre-nuptial music and Lloyd Weaver, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly", "Oh, Promise Me", "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Kiess was attired in a bridal gown of her own creation. It featured a full tulle skirt over faille with lace insets. The bodice was of lace with a low, rounded neck. A veil trimmed with lace to match the gown was mounted on a tiara of orange blossoms. She wore a pearl choker, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bride carried white chrysanthemums and pompons on a Bible and secreted on her person the same handkerchief carried by her grandmother at her own nuptials.

Mrs. Leon Hord, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a jade green, full-skirted gown fashioned with a low, round neck short sleeves and matching mitts. Mrs. Hord, who lives in Willard, carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums tied with green ribbon.

Mrs. Robert Grove, Jr., of near Tiro, who was herself a bride in the same church at the end of September, was a bridesmaid, together with the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ruth Kensinger. They were attired in toast-colored gowns identical in style to that of the matron of honor.

Linda Kiess, the bride's sister, was flower girl. She was attired in net over green mint faille and carried a basket of chrysanthemums. Leon Hord, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man, and ushers were Robert Grove, Jr., Roger Grove and James Donnemwirth.

The bride's mother chose a royal blue change able taffeta dress for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were black and white, and she wore a corsage of yellow and white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother is ill and was unable to attend.

A reception for guests was held in the church rooms after the ceremony. Mrs. Ronald Cline, Mrs. Donald Berrier, Mrs. Otis Green, Mrs. George Loy and Mrs. E. L. Leonhart served the refreshments. A wedding trip into Michigan followed the reception. The bride chose a tan wool creation with brown and orange accessories with her corsage fashioned from the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Kensinger is employed at Shelby Mutual Insurance Co. and the bridegroom at Wilkins Air Force depot.

Donna Silliman Weds Mr. Cronenwett In Autumnal Setting at Shelby Church

In a chancel decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums in the First Lutheran church at Shelby Oct. 23, Miss Donna Lou Silliman became the bride of Larry Thomas Cronenwett.

Miss Silliman is the daughter of Lawrence B. Silliman, Plymouth route 1. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cronenwett, 23 Morningside drive, Shelby.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length, embroidered net-over-satin gown with a tight fitting bodice, Peter Pan collar and tight sleeves of embroidered net. A finger tip illusion veil was attached to a matching headpiece outlined in ivory seed pearls. Miss Silliman carried a white Bible with white orchid and wore a three-strand pearl choker, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Lucille Kramer of Sandusky was maid of honor and Mrs. Nancy Cronenwett, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. They were dressed in floor-length creations of lace and net over taffeta, with strapless bodice and full skirt finished with a lace yoke. A huge bow of the net and a matching flower completed the ensemble.

The bride's grandmother wore a plum colored crepe dress with a pink carnation corsage and the bridegroom's mother chose an aquamarine dress of taffeta for the wedding. Her flowers were yellow carnations. A reception for 80 guests in the church rooms followed. Miss Mary Moore served the wedding cake and Miss Joan Willet registered guests in the bridal book.

After a wedding trip to the Smokies, the couple is at home at 184 1/2 West street, Shelby. Mrs. Cronenwett is a graduate of Greenwish High School and is employed at Wilkins Air Force depot.

Miss Sloan to Be On Television Program Nancy Sloan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Sloan, 295 West Broadway, will appear on the Charming Children telecast Wednesday at 10:30 a.m., channel 8. She will be accompanied to the Cleveland station by her parents and sister.

Pilgrims Close '54 Season With Defeat by Seville, 49 to 7

Plymouth Loses Fifth As Good First Half Fades Into Poor Last

After a sterling first-half, in which they outcharged, outplayed and outplayed the Barbers, Plymouth's Pilgrims folded miserably in the second half at Seville Friday night and closed their 1954 season on a sour note, 49 to 7.

After losing a chance to leave the first half ahead by a few ticks of the timer's watch, the Pilgrims never were able to make a fight of it. The Barbers scored almost at will, outcharging and outplaying the Pilgrims, stopping their ground attack cold, intercepting their passes and in general throwing all over the Crimson and White.

At the first sign of the contest, it seemed this would be a different Pilgrim eleven. The kickoff squirmed through the fingers of Otis Port, who played well in his last game for Plymouth, and he recovered on his six-inch line. From there, rolling off nine successive first downs with only one pass play, the Pilgrims scored one Port tossed to John Matthews and zone for 28 yards. John Fetters bucked off guard for the extra point.

The Barbers tied it up in the second period as Bob Mathys, a fast halfback who was a tough customer for the Pilgrims to handle, ripped through guard from the Pilgrims three to get standing up. He circled end for the point. The break for Seville which led to the touchdown came on fourth down when Jim Jacobs' pass was unable to punt.

The Pilgrims fired up a return drive from the kickoff. After a Pilgrim punt, the ensuing return went for 73 yards and a score but he called back for a penalty. The yard setback gave the Pilgrims a first down on the Seville 44. Successive first downs brought the ball to the Barbers' eight before time ran out.

In the second half, after one play had failed, Paul Oberly danced off right end for 81 yards and a second Seville score. The extra point was good.

At this point, the Pilgrims fell almost completely apart. Blocks that were going well during the first half failed completely. The Pilgrims had first down on the Seville 41 and Fetters was stopped twice as the Barbers began to outcharge the Pilgrim forwards. Port's fourth down pass was no good and the Barbers took over on downs.

Goetz took off 16 yards off right tackle and Oberly zipped through guard for the score. Mathys made the conversion over.

Mathys came back again later in the period to score another touchdown as easily as the first two. Seville had taken over on downs on the Pilgrim 45 and after pounding to the 24, Mathys went over in one dash. A pass for the extra point was good.

Oberly, Goetz and Mathys combined to put together three scores in the final canto. Two of them came after Mathys had intercepted the return guard from the Barbers and Eysel. The final whistle saved the Pilgrims from further rout. Oberly and Mathys had fielded yards four and two scores respectively.

It was a cold, damp night and the field was a quagmire in at least three places. It was also Seville's Homecoming, and the Seville seniors apparently figured they were entitled to a spree. Plymouth lost only 15 yards on penalties all night, but the Barbers, detected only part of the time by officials who were none too competent, lost 125, including three major fouls.

Score by periods:
Plymouth 7 0 0 0 — 7
Seville 0 7 21 21 — 49

After 32 Games, F-R-H Leads Industrial Loop as —

Gardner's 183 Average Tops Bowlers

Jim Gardner's 183 average leads Plymouth bowlers in Willard bowling leagues and Fate-Root-Heath, with 15 won and nine lost. Bowler with the Eagles share the top position. Harold Dietrich's 184 average leads his squad.

F-R-H's record in the Tuesday industry league puts it at the head of Hess Hardware, a full game behind, and North Fairfield American Legion, four games off the pace.

McQuate's leads the Wednesday Commercial league, a half a game ahead of Sunoco and Jam's Insurance five. Bill Barrone's 172 average leads the furniture outfit.

Other Plymouth entries are heading their own. Lofland Insurance women hold third spot in the Thursday Ladies A loop. Its record of 14 and 13 puts it nine games ahead of the leaders, Pullman Ladies.

F-R-H ladies aren't doing so well in the Ladies B league. They share the bottom rung with Midwest Industries, having won seven and lost 20, and are 12 games out of first.

Koser's Market is in third spot in this competition, with 17 won and 10 lost. This puts them two

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

Me and the boy, The Old Timer has played in, coached or witnessed in a professional capacity over 500 amateur, semi-pro (i.e., college) or professional football games over the years, but never saw such a one for downright unsportsmanlike conduct and foul play as that at Seville Friday.

I recall certain, particularly against Notre Dame, when the pre-Brennan regime delighted in teaching dirty play to the kids forwards, when opposing linemen were nearly butchered, and maneuvers that nobody could see. But there was at least the consolation that the punch in the eyes was carried out during a legitimate block.

The action of the young Seville back after he had been deliberately tripped on several occasions during Friday's game was so bad that we were moved to protest to the game officials and, eventually, to his coach.

The coach, under questioning finally admitted that he had deliberately taught the boy, an honor student of a fine family, to kick his legs when he had been tackled, ostensibly on the grounds that this would avoid injury if he were piled on.

A phony excuse we have never heard. Just how would the kicking of the legs prevent injury if a heavier opponent were to leap on them after their own had been tackled? A doctor tells us the morning after that he considers it would aggravate the possibility of injury.

A Plymouth player suffered an injury because the Seville back deliberately and maliciously kicked him in the face after the tackle was made and both were flat on the ground. And this did not only occur once. Johnny Helbig is witness to the fact that it occurred several times.

Nor did the officials of the game get tough about it. The rules specifically allow an official to disbar a player for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Don't blame the officials. They work the kind of game that the coach wants. He hires them. They please him or they don't get invited back to work another. If the coach is the right kind of fellow, he will enforce sportsmanship in schoolboy games, because that is what they are for. He will tell the officials that the first example of unsportsmanlike conduct outside the rules is expected to be punished by disbarment, regardless of how great a star the player is. It is only in football that the greatest amount of foul can be gotten across to the players.

The felony was compounded by the fact that the Seville team was so far ahead at the time these offenses occurred that you couldn't stop them with an axe. There might possibly be some excuse if the game were a close one. You might say that the player, in his last game, lost his head in a close contest. Not so Friday. It was an open and shut case. Unsportsmanlike conduct by a player that is established, so far as we are concerned, to be the teaching of the coach. We were anxious to get a lesson in it. At Seville, we would be a part. So long as a coach of that fellow's stripe is there, we're stuck with what he does. We would rather he had no head.

Lions Open Season Nov. 24 at Republic

A 20-game schedule for Shiloh High school's Lions will open at Republic Nov. 24 as the Lions field a quietest boasting five letter-men, some height, fast speed, and a hungry offense.

Coach Harold Daup laments the loss of Larry Rader, who made the Richland county second team last season, by graduation, but has a first five that will be able to control the ball on rebounds. The Lions play 14 league games in the Richland county loop. The first contest comes Dec. 3 at Union after two tune-up matches with Republic and Savannah.

Returning lettermen are Fred Rader, five-foot-ten-inch senior, Kermit Noble, also a senior, Tom Lasser, Harmon Sloan and Eugene Hamman, juniors. Lasser is the tallest man at five-feet-eleven.

Other members of the varsity are Otis Hughes, who will play in the important pivot slot — he measures six feet one inch, Jack Hall, Larry Humbert and Bill Patterson, all juniors; Larry Bandy and Jennings Francis, sophomores, and George Poffenbaugh, frosh. Francis is a six-footer and Poffenbaugh only an inch under that.

The Lions have been working out since Oct. 18, and other members of the squad are Adrian Cole, Art Noble, Sam Leaple, Lawrence Wagers, Art Monaster, Larry Hamman, Johnny Hyde, John Lykins and Harrison Howard.

Shiloh will participate in the holiday tournament at Union Dec. 29 and 30.

22 Cagers Turn Out For Opener Nov. 20

Twenty-two candidates for the 1954-55 basketball varsity squad reported to Coach Fred Kretzfeld Monday afternoon to prepare for the season's opener Nov. 20 at North Fairfield, with signs pointing to:

1. A slow squad.
2. No height.
3. Not much experience.
4. No better a season than last year's, when Plymouth won five.

Only three letterman answered the first call. Otis Port, John Fox and Howard Clinton, all seniors. A fourth senior out for the squad is Bud Garrett.

Three juniors, Tom Marvin, Bud Berberick and Ted Ross, are candidates, but it is from the sophomore and freshman classes that Coach Kretzfeld hopes to draw the material from which to build for seasons to come.

Seven sophomores responded to the first whistle, Jim Hunt, Jim Jacobs, John Elliott, Jim and Don Fidler, Herbert Caudill and Franklin Eckstein. Tea frosh were on hand, Ray Eysel, Larry Taylor, Deryl Ream, Jim Root, Grant Robinson, Mickey Hampton, Ted Fox, George Day, Don Barnhouse and Franklin Ousley. There is a possibility that Don McKinney will turn out.

The Pilgrim coach realizes the shortcomings of his squad but will nevertheless emphasize the zone press and floating zone defense in his scheme of play. "Our only chance is to keep the ball moving, keep the opposition pressed," he said yesterday, "and so long as the boys hold up, we'll throw that style of play at our opponents."

The main job, as Kretzfeld sees it, is to find two boys who can handle the assignments as front men in the floating zone defense, which is an ideal technique for most of the floors used by Richland county schools — narrow, short courts without much side or end room.

Nineteen games have been scheduled, and the slate this year brings to Plymouth a strong Margaretta consolidated school quintet from a red-hot basketball town, Castalia. Margaretta furnishes the opposition in the home opener Nov. 23.

Local fans will be looking forward to the Shiloh home-and-home series. The Pilgrims meet the Lions at Shiloh Dec. 10, a Friday, and engage in a return match here Jan. 28. The New Haven Yellow Jackets come here for the only game Jan. 25.

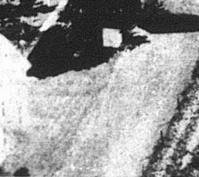

Limited seating capacity at the local court precludes the selling of season tickets. All home contests and county league games, whether at home or on the road, will start promptly at 7 p. m. Admission prices will be 75c for adults and 35c for students.

Armistice Day, 1954

Today is Armistice day. Although it had a special significance to the soldiers, and marines of World War I, because it marked the end of what was, up to then, the most horrible war in which the world had ever become involved, it does not lack significance for us.

There are so many dates of World War II that it is difficult to single out one of them. D - day in June, V - E day in May, V - J day in August, Pearl Harbor day in December are only some of them.

So Armistice Day is as good as any for a special thought of what it means and what we ought to do about it. We shall leave to others to point out what could - and should - be done on a national or state scale. But what can be done locally?

First, we can emphasize once again that the right kind of veteran is the fellow - or woman - who counts the nation first and his or her own particular contribution second. We have never been able to understand why anyone who had the honor to serve his country in time of peril should expect anything special for it. We never got a bonus. We didn't ask for one. We renounced a disability pension. All we asked for was to be left alone, and finally, after a long time, they did just that.

Second, we can by our examples in daily living show the younger generation that the blood we shed was done because we still have some ideals, although we must admit that from time to time the lack thereof shows through.

Third, we can stop for just a minute to show the relatives and friends of those who have gone beyond that we have not forgotten them. Not by pompous ceremonies, not by parades but rather by personal, intimate touch with these people, by speaking a kind word of the departed and by offering a hand to those who remain behind, by helping these people to realize that we appreciate the sacrifice which was made by their loved one.

Finally, by doing those things for which the highest and best of our youth laid down their lives - for the principles of a free people with the God-given right to decide for themselves what they want and how they want it. Up There where the dead soldiers, sailors and marines are, how embittered some of them must have felt on election day when they saw how many of their former neighbors and friends failed to exercise that privilege, for which they gave only their lives!

That, we submit, is what Armistice day should mean to us this year.

The Football Team, 1954

The football season is over. It wasn't much of a season, as seasons go, but we did win two games. That was the best we had since the end of the war.

There is no call for discouragement. On our trips about the state when the team played on the road, we saw, and saw clearly, that our organization is as good as anything anybody else has got, and a good deal better than some. We have a plant, we have equipment and transport, we have a coach and supervision of our players that will take second place to very few.

Nor will we accept the theory that our boys are any poorer athletes than anybody else's boys. We played some that had as small a number of reserves on the bench as we did. All of them except one has more or less the same enrollment, at least in boys.

It would be nice to say that we won five or six games. It would be even nicer to say that we won them all. Unfortunately, we cannot. But we can say that the boys showed good sportsmanship, which is after all what the game is for, and that most of the time they tried hard. Some of the die-hard fans who think victories are more important than character will not agree with this, but to their scoffing we merely direct the boys to what Grantland Rice once wrote:

"It matters not whether you won or lost. But how you played the game."

Author John Gould, Writing from Maine, Comments

Naturalist Says Coons Are Nuisance

Somehow the ferocious raccoon passed me by until this year. I knew about him, but it was mostly from Uncle Remus or Uncle Burgess, who are not always historically accurate. The raccoon never amounted to much up in this northerly climate while I was coming along. I got mixed up with skunks and porcupines and foxes and even bobcats, but in my experience, the coon remained a Dixieland denizen, and it has only been in the past few years that he has waxed in these parts until he is now a pest of the first water.

This year the coon came into my life in a big way. He discovered my patch of Sweet corn just about the time I did. I noticed a thought it was probably a gray squirrel. But the next morning in a wet spot in the roadway I found raccoon tracks. I scouted them expertly and concluded I had 857,369,215 raccoons, all headed into my corn patch. This proved to be a reasonable estimate, as I readily saw when I went among the stalks and tried to find a half dozen ears for my dinner.

What a raccoon will do to a corn patch is something nobody would believe until he saw it. They strip down some husks, clump and chew, and then move on to another ear. Like rats, they waste more than they eat. Then when they're full, they roll all over what they've been able to chomp. Little Sammie, a reasonably accurate estimator, as I readily saw when I went among the stalks and tried to find a half dozen ears for my dinner.

I'm not much of a hunter, and seldom take steps unless some of my woodland friends get destructive. Shoo, no, I thought Mr. Coon was ready, and I took counsel with a friend who owns a coon hound.

It is my understanding that a coon hunt, in the South, is fraught with as many social ramifications as a dinner at Buckingham Palace, more or less. I had an idea folks around here would be more forth-

Political Experts Start 'Figuring' Around the Square

Difficult as it is to analyze the voting habits of the electorate, particularly under the pressure of a deadline, it appears that Richard and Huron counties run true to type and present few difficulties at all.

Sweeping statements generally do no harm to sweep over truths with half-truths, but nonetheless there are some that are wholly accurate:

1. The Lord Himself could run on the Democratic ticket in Huron county, but He would be defeated.

2. The 4th, 5th and 6th wards of Mansfield will pull almost any Democrat's chestnuts out of the fire.

3. Non-urban Richard county is strongly Republican, except in a few places where tried-and-true names are running.

4. Voters generally prefer an older candidate. The average voter is not so desirably as a mediocre older one. Distrust of youth seems embedded in farmer votes.

5. Richard and Huron county voters are less steep, politically, with the state and nation than they think.

Candidates who were expected to win did so, handsily, and the only contests - those between Fred C. Dawson and Raymond L. Brooks and Norman Wolfe and John S. Hamilton - were decided by a mere 1,200 votes. Brooks was beaten in the three crucial wards in Mansfield, where a Republican has a much chancier chance of winning. He did well throughout the county, but faltered against that solid Democratic phalanx.

Mansfield voters might think he was young enough to take a beating, that he could come out again, and that he would likely win their endorsement.

The same was true of Hamilton, who made an excellent race. His youth was against him in many places, and the outcome of the race shows that voters think less of issues than they do of men. Wolfe has been in the courthouse 27 years, and never performed a controversial act in his life. He never charged a cent in extra charges, gambling that in these instances, at least, silence did not give consent. That he was right is borne out by the fact that Hamilton made it close, and there is good timber for another office at another election. Of course, whether Old Guard in his party are willing to run the party a little is a liberal fellow with some leanings that would shock a Taft Republican - is another question, but that is not the point. It is only now realize that young Hamilton is a man to be reckoned with in years to come.

The Republicans won hands down in Huron county. Some voters wonder if this defeat of Clayton C. Lord means that he is through in county politics. He tried once before, and he has not been elected. Harry Broome, Lord is a prosperous businessman who has a conviction that he wants to serve the people, and he is likely that he will be back. It would take a somewhat drastic landslide to put him in, barring the circumstance, of course, that his Republican opponent is a workhorse and unshakable sort.

It was not this election that worried the GOP in Huron county although there was doubtless some pressure upon the organization to produce a thumping majority.

There was no secret that the county organization leaders were working for Bill Sarber. Many Republicans were of the opinion that the party has some deadwood in public office, and are not too keen on supporting some of them in the future. Some of these incumbents are under fire in the southern part of the county, chiefly Sheriff Harry Broome. If Broome runs for reelection next year, many Republicans doubt that the party can hold the office.

The 1955 elections will produce candidates for county commission, when Harry Broome is expected to be re-elected, and Sheriff. Some GOP workers are looking for a man to oppose Broome in the May primaries.

Dodging Responsibilities To dodge responsibilities is easy; the hard part comes in dodging the consequences of dodging them. We cannot escape from ourselves: life has us cornered, and we might as well make the best of it. Many Republicans are of the unhappy Negro recruit who after the armistice was signed, applied to his superior officer for a discharge. "You see, I'm excited, 'Ah jee listed fo' de duration ob de war."

His superior evaded him nimbly and replied, "De war p'int. De war has am ovah, but de duration ob de war is skakky-bezun." - Nurgess, him.

right, and that this friend might solve my distressing problem quietly, and the coon would cease to worry my corn, which usually pays my taxes for me and keeps me supplied at the house. I sawed my own traps that evening, planning to watch the hunt to see how it went.

It turns out that we have a code of ethics around here, too. You don't actually take the coon unless you intend to make use of him. You find him, enjoy the invigorating exercise of the chase, and then leave him for another time. This is known as sportsmanship. You can hold coon hunts with the same coon as long as he enjoys it, and you don't make him a warrier and more difficult to find.

Of course, at the particular time of this coon hunt it was closed season, anyway, and none of the boys had any right to take a coon, although I, as a farmer, could legally protect my crops without getting in trouble. This set up a little bit of interest, since sportsmen resent this out-of-season kowtowing to a farmer - who does he think he is, etc. It came to me, the stunt organized, that my friends looked upon my corn patch merely as a starting point for their outing. I had quite another idea.

Anyways, at 10:30 p.m. E. D. S., about six automobiles deployed in my driveway and the happy hunters descended. They had lanterns and flashlights, warm clothes, hip boots, and heavy lunches. Most of them carried either a bag to put a raccoon in if they chanced to find a little one that would make a pet, or a snaflestick to put him in the bag with. We set out across the meadow toward the corn, like a Tartar horde advancing on the Middle Ages.

The dog was a 15-year-old hound who, his master told me, "hates coons." I felt the dog and I shared this feeling, and I patted him warmly. We unspurred his lead, and he bounded into the corn. Instantly there was a wild whoop

Mrs. Habler tells us that Capt. Eugene Phillips now lives at 209 Franklin drive, Peconic, Albany, Ga., and Pfc. Henry Phillips is in Co. B, Signal Battalion, A. P. O. 164, c/o Postmaster, New York. Incidentally, there are some that are wholly accurate:

Our friend Joe Page in Shiloh tells us that the skill of the experts in determining the sex of young chicks is highly developed, and they're seldom wrong. Comes now British Minister of Works David Eccles, who announces: "The only sure guide to the sex of a peccant is another peccant."

Cmon, Mr. P. Send Mr. E. the lesson book.

Wasn't that a dandy piece about John Armstrong's dad in a recent Cleveland journal? Pity Mrs. Anthony, John's sister, who wrote the yarn, isn't handy to do some regular pieces for us. The lady can write. Gist of the whole thing: back in 1886, a man was considered to be a lawful resident of the place where his wash was done, and George Armstrong sent his by mail carrier to Rome. Ergo, the polling people - all dyed-in-the-wool Republicans - thought they could rule out this young Democrat by holding he was not a resident of Shelby. He was one of the stubborn breed, and he stuck to his guns. Won out, too. Mr. A. was 90 Friday, and passed his birthday with his family, including John, Mrs. John and the little 'A's.

Our Shiloh subscribers have been kind enough to make inquiry about the Shiloh news. First, we did away with the heading "Shiloh Activities" because it took up space we thought might be used to better advantage with news copy. Second, we put a different headline each week on the Shiloh slip. Third, we try to group it in one place, but it is not always possible to do that. Reason: when we run 12 pages, we print four Monday night, four Tuesday, and four Wednesday. Some stuff gets in early and we use it early. Some of it comes from our capable Shiloh correspondent, and some of it we get up ourselves. That which we get up ourselves is usually printed in early press runs.

Occasionally we print a Shiloh correspondent's page treatment-deaths, other news from time to time. We put it there, because not only Shiloh people are interested.

Just in case there's some in Shiloh who would like to earn some extra money, we'll pay a good commission to any group that wants to put on a subscription campaign. And if there're two groups, we'll give a special prize to the winners.

J. A. C. says her hobby is Hobby. Hey, pal, he's married.

Now that the football season is over, how about a banquet for the team?

Chief Coffey, Phin hears tell, made a good speaker, and is welcome to come back, any time. Harry Hills, one of our special friends, struck a good blow for the cause of education. He is a liberal fellow with some leanings that would shock a Taft Republican - is another question, but that is not the point. It is only now realize that young Hamilton is a man to be reckoned with in years to come.

The Republicans won hands down in Huron county. Some voters wonder if this defeat of Clayton C. Lord means that he is through in county politics. He tried once before, and he has not been elected.

Harry Broome, Lord is a prosperous businessman who has a conviction that he wants to serve the people, and he is likely that he will be back. It would take a somewhat drastic landslide to put him in, barring the circumstance, of course, that his Republican opponent is a workhorse and unshakable sort.

It was not this election that worried the GOP in Huron county although there was doubtless some pressure upon the organization to produce a thumping majority.

There was no secret that the county organization leaders were working for Bill Sarber. Many Republicans were of the opinion that the party has some deadwood in public office, and are not too keen on supporting some of them in the future. Some of these incumbents are under fire in the southern part of the county, chiefly Sheriff Harry Broome. If Broome runs for reelection next year, many Republicans doubt that the party can hold the office.

The 1955 elections will produce candidates for county commission, when Harry Broome is expected to be re-elected, and Sheriff. Some GOP workers are looking for a man to oppose Broome in the May primaries.

Dodging Responsibilities To dodge responsibilities is easy; the hard part comes in dodging the consequences of dodging them. We cannot escape from ourselves: life has us cornered, and we might as well make the best of it. Many Republicans are of the unhappy Negro recruit who after the armistice was signed, applied to his superior officer for a discharge. "You see, I'm excited, 'Ah jee listed fo' de duration ob de war."

His superior evaded him nimbly and replied, "De war p'int. De war has am ovah, but de duration ob de war is skakky-bezun." - Nurgess, him.

Fidler Goes from Milk to Beef

Anthony Fidler's hands have rheumatism. So do prevailing milk prices. For those reasons, he's getting rid of his milking Shorthorns and turning to beef animals.

The rheumatism of this veteran farmer's hands merely confirmed a conviction he'd been mulling over in his mind for some time — that with milk prices being what they are, and subject to whimsies and governmental regulation, he'd better go into something a bit more stable, now that he's not so young as he was.

Mr. Fidler lives where the Shiloh-Norwalk road enters Base Line road east of Plymouth. His spread measures 90 acres, of which about five are in permanent woodlot that hasn't produced very much in the way of saleable timber as yet, and he farms an additional 87 acres belonging to the Aller family across the road.

It is a big operation for one man, and Mr. Fidler's sons come in to help him now and again. One of them lives with him in the farmhouse. Mrs. Fidler has been dead since 1936.

When the wheat situation isn't so tough, at least not yet, Mr. Fidler says. On the two places which he owns or manages, he can plant 15 acres of wheat apiece, and he has done just that. If he were the owner of the two places, he'd be cut to 15 acres. Mr. Fidler, who has two brothers living in Plymouth, figures that the wheat regulations are unfair to the man who has three or four integrated farms.

That independence is manifest in his whole outlook on property and ownership. He'd rather own a thing for itself by himself, and not go "divvies" with somebody else.

When he gets ready to dispose of his milking Shorthorns — and he always kept blooded stock — he'll do so when the price is right and to his advantage.

"Those Shorthorns have been good to me over the years," Mr. Fidler allows. "When you go to sell them, there's some meat on them and an old cow will bring you two or three hundred dollars. You couldn't get that much out of some of that lighter dairy stock."

Feeding the stock is the secret to it all, he says. "We feed grain to all but the nursing calves, all year around. For that reason, we grow a lot of corn here," explains Mr. Fidler. The latter part of the statement needs to be repeated a second time: the cribs are bustin' out all over with ears of good corn.

"Matter of fact, those milking Shorthorns give more than enough for one calf, and I might just keep a few around to run a calf-and-a-half on, until the calves are big enough to feed for themselves."

He never kept track of how much grain it takes to put on, say, 300 pounds of beef during the summer, but he ventures the guess that it'll "run to close to four to one" — four pounds of grain for each pound of beef.

There's one point that a good many farmers overlook, Mr. Fidler believes. "Nowadays we put out a lot more stuff per acre than we used to. Why, my stars, I can remember when 22 bushels of wheat an acre was a big thing, and we'd set it in the hardware store window to show it off. That's nothing at all today. Why, man, 32 bushels is just about average for good ground."

The reason for this, he asserts, is that the farmer takes better care of his ground than he used to. How has he learned all this? Growth of education is the main reason, and Anthony Fidler strongly endorses measures designed to increase education and agricultural research.

He looked longingly at the woodlot and allows as how there aren't many squirrels down there this year, but the coon are thick, they run to fat, and that new hound chained behind the barn will be put to work one of these nights. Anthony Fidler is a coon hound fancier, has chased a good many over Richland and Huron counties in his day, and hasn't lost the urge to go over the years.

The crops are in, work has slowed down, he has only a couple of dozen hogs to fatten up for a late market, and so he'll be getting out the tack hammer and a stretcher board. There is some coon hunting, and skinning, to be done.

Richard Weber, Plymouth route 1, was the first to identify the mystery farm last week.

A Change in Method

A new system of receiving identifications for the mystery farm will take effect this week.

Hereafter, subscribers who wish to identify the farm must call between the hours of 10:30 and 11:30 a. m. the Saturday following publication date.

The first subscriber who calls in person with the correct identification will receive the awards listed.

Telephone callers will not be eligible for the awards. Reason for the change? To allow every subscriber to have a fair chance to identify the Mystery farm first. Heretofore, subscribers who receive their newspapers in Thursday morning's mail had an advantage over those who receive theirs later.

Twentieth Century Club Hears Paper On Switzerland

Mrs. Thomas Downie and Mrs. H. H. Fackler were in charge of the program when the Twentieth Century club met Nov. 1 at the home of Mrs. John Armstrong. The club president, Mrs. Edna Dick, held a short business meeting before Mrs. Downie spoke on "Switzerland."

Mrs. Downie gave an account of the world's playground, which Switzerland has been called because of what the country has to offer in sporting activities and beauty. She spoke of the Matterhorn, which has been famed for mountain climbing, and the Jungfrau, which has the highest railroad in the world, reaching almost to its peak. She briefly mentioned some of the other sights that are known throughout the world, such as the castle of Chillon, made famous by Lord Byron's poem, and Lake Lucerne, which is called the most beautiful lake in Europe. The Swiss government has been unique in the history of Europe, which is so often at war. Their constitution was based on the American and the Swiss have been able to maintain a status of neutrality for over a century and a half.

Mrs. Fackler's topic was "Germany." She spoke of the great role Germany has played in the history of the world, and of what Germany is doing today to regain her economic role. There has been a tremendous amount of rebuilding during the post war years, and the country is slowly gaining its prosperity although the average wage and standard of living is still far below the American. Mrs. Fackler pointed out that the average German diet consists of soup, potatoes, cabbage, and bread.
