

Coffey Says Parents Cause Delinquents

Immature parents who lack a well rounded personality and the major cause of juvenile delinquency in today's society, Leroy Coffey, chief of police of Shelby, told the Mothers' club Tuesday evening.

Mr. Coffey stated the child looks to the home as his main resource, but when parents are unable to cope with life, the child is left with a feeling of insecurity and lacks the moral values which he needs to face up to a "keyed-up" society. When parents fail in their duties to their children, it is sometimes possible for the church and the school to give the child the sense of security he needs. These feelings, the child then ends up in the hands of the police department as a "delinquent," Mr. Coffey said.

Figures show that approximately 25 per cent of today's children come from broken homes. The divorce rate "has reached the staggering proportion of one marriage out of every four being dissolved," he said. This situation is one of the major factors in the high rate of juvenile cases reaching the courts.

After Mr. Coffey's talk, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. C. L. Hannum, president of the club. She called on M. J. Coon, superintendent of schools, to give

Juniors to Present Play Nov. 12

The class of 1956, Plymouth High school, will offer its annual play in the auditorium Nov. 12 at 8 p. m., with proceeds to go toward expenses of the class trip in the spring of 1956.

Mrs. Mabel Lamius, for many years principal of the high school, makes her last official appearance as an active member of the faculty as co-director of the cast. She leaves on an indefinite leave of absence Nov. 15.

The play is a comedy in three acts, titled "Rest Assured," centered about what transpires when a girl in a dress costume of a certain position realizes that she has dressed in a costume with a first generation American who father still wears brogue shoes.

The cast includes Mrs. Mabel Lamius, Mrs. Dorion, Luigi Lanconi, and Miss a short background talk about the running of the cafeteria. Mr. Coon said that an average of 210 meals are being served each day. The cafeteria is financed by charging for lunch. Five cents per lunch is given to the school from the State Board of Education through federal aid, and the cafeteria is able to obtain a certain amount of surplus foodstuffs, which vary from month to month. The meals must be planned to fit the requirements set up by the state, which requires certain amounts of butterfat protein, and other added foods used each day to make a balanced diet. He invited any of the parents to visit the cafeteria. An adult lunch costs 30 cents because the school does not receive the five cent aid which is given for a child's meal.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to plans for the Thanksgiving dinner which is to be held Nov. 11. Any mother who wishes to donate a few hours to help with the preparation and serving is urged to call Mrs. Robert MacMichael.

Back to Old Haunts

Son of the man who operated a drug store on the Public Square for two decades, Harry Judson of Ada paid a visit to Plymouth last weekend. Together with his wife, he was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Stambaugh.

Mr. Judson's father operated a drug store in the west side of what is now Cornell's restaurant. The shaving in that building was removed to the Thomas residence and now serves as a shelving for the public library.

W. E. Root Buys Lot From Board for $100

Subject to approval by the mortgagee, the Board of Public Affairs agreed Monday to sell to William E. Root the plot of ground in Birchfield street on which the old power plant is situated.

Mr. Root agreed to remove the shed which is now standing on the property and to grade it satisfactorily. Consideration was $100.

The board has been endeavoring to dispose of the building for several months. Supt. of Light & Power Lincoln Sprowles will remove certain impediments belonging to the board from the building, and Village Solicitor Joseph E. Dush will prepare the title documents.

The board made clear to Mr. Root, at his request, that he is under no immediate pressure to remove the building.

In other action, the board decided to summon representatives of the Worthington Pump Co. to inspect pumps at the village water plant, which have demonstrated a tendency to lose prime. If one pump should be removed, the company will be asked to install another as substitute during the period of repair of the village's pump.

GAS TANK INSTALLED

A third 4,000-gallon capacity gasoline storage tank was installed beneath the surfaceway of Diner's service station Monday.

Ray Diner, proprietor, said the tank was to accommodate demand for his products.

Sewer Issue Defeated, 386 to 69; Dawson, Wolfe, Leech Victorious

As expected, the sewer bond issue took a thumping defeat at the polls Tuesday, 386 against to 69 for.

Voters in Richland county were aligned 199 no and 33 yes on the issue, and in Huron county, 187 no and 36 yes. It was apparent that voters turned out at the polls, despite threatening weather and the absence of state or county issues, to vote against the $125,000 sewer bond issue.

Arranged in the same bank on almost identical voting machines, the first two issues - whether the government's term should be four years, and whether the assemblyman's term should be four years - attracted only 186 voters in Richland county and 181 voters in Huron county, whereas the sewer bond issue brought 232 voters in Richland county and 223 in Huron county.

Total vote for the off-presidential year election was 294 in Richland county and 247 in Huron county, about 20 more than during the last presidential election. The interest in voting against additional charges which would raise the cost of living, despite the generally accepted need for the sanitary sewer system, was given by most observers as the reason for the almost 70 per cent turnout.

For the first time in history, Richland county voters used a voting machine. Poll watchers and clerks had tabulated the vote by 7:10 p. m., whereas in former years they were occupied at the task until nearly midnight.

Republican candidates won in Plymouth's two precincts handsily, after some ran ahead of others. The vote by precincts:

Cider and doughnuts served by Harris Postema capped the evening, which saw prizes awarded as follows:

Ruth Ann Faden and Lynn Fenner, first; Susan Shaver and Kimberly Caywood, second; and Betty Jo and Jane Vanderpool, third, cleverest dressed couple of school age.

Jackie Harpison and Carol Allen, first; Orrin James and Terry Lee Puckett, second; and Roberta Meiser and Dickie Jean Gilger, third, cleverest dressed couple, Pre-school age.

Gingie Burrer and Heather Morrison, first; Chuck Hamline, second; and Nancy Akers, third, best and funniest resemblance to any animal.

In two close contests, incumbents Fred C. Dawson and Norman L. Wolfe were returned to office in Tuesday's election by Richland county voters.

Dawson defeated Raymond L. Brooks by 1,044 votes, 12,762 to 11,098, and Wolfe downed his young opponent, Richard L. Hamilton, by 1,206 ballots, 13,481 to 12,275.

A total of 27,808 voters turned out at the polls over the county, and when they had cast their ballots, there wasn't much doubt that they were voting as predicted.

GOP candidate James A. Rhodes beat Frank J. Lausche, but only by 3,200 ballots. Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Republican incumbent, took George Nye by roughly 3,500 votes.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown won over Robert W. Reider by a margin of 4,500. Reider defeated Joseph T. Ferguson by 3,000. C. William O'Neill, incumbent attorney general, took Paul F. Ward into camp by 4,500.

Congressman George H. Bender defeated Senator Thomas A. Burke who has a daughter and son-in-law in Mansfield, by 3,000 ballots. John W. McGreggor showed many doubters that it is still worth the 17th Ohio District by trouncing Robert W. Levering by almost 8,000 votes. McGreggor was far ahead of the Republican challenger, State Senator Mosher easily defeated Robert K. Rath in his own county, 1 1/2 to 1, and Neil S. Robinson won another term in the Ohio Assembly by downing Willard E. Darling, Lucas banker by 4,000 votes.

On the non-partisan judicial ballot, James F. Bell won out over Henry A. Addleton in Richland county by 2,500 votes. Kingsley A. Taft, upposled, got a good complimentary vote of 15,645. John M. Matthias defeated John H. Lamneck by 1,400 ballots, and Robert B. Putnam took Lewis C. Wiggins for a judgeship in the court of appeals by 7,500.

A complimentary vote for Commissioner Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, first common pleas judge in county history to enter on a third term, amounted to 20,698. Incumbent probate judge Stuart H. Cramer defeated Harold Lutz, former prosecutor, by 4,000.

By THE OLD TIMER

Bob Meiser and Frank Garber have a notion that a wrestling and boxing program would go over well in the schools, and are working toward that end. It's said that the powers-that-be think wrestling (amateur rules) is all right, but they frown on boxing.

This is not surprising, since many high schools throughout the country think schoolboy boxing is hardly the thing, no matter how rigidly it's controlled.

And we think the welcome accorded wrestling speaks for itself. Amateur wrestling differs from the unspeakable trash one sees on television so markedly that you wouldn't know it was the same sport. Indeed, it isn't.

We did some high school and college wrestling, and for a small school, there's nothing like it. Consider the college powers: Lehigh university, at Bethlehem, Pa.; Oklahoma A & M at Stillwater, and Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls. Aside from the character who reads the World Almanac for sport, who ever heard of them? Yet year after year they produce college wrestlers that win the national championships and represent us on the Olympic teams.

High school athletics, we assume, are for the purpose of developing character, muscular coordination and control, especially among younger boys, and only incidentally for the purpose of stimulating that nebulous thing called school spirit. There are few sports like wrestling to do just that. And the size of the school has little or no effect on the quality of the team. It's the boy that counts.

The Old Timer would like to see Plymouth High school commence wrestling, for it would grow rapidly, we think, and it would be yet another way of putting us on the map.

Coach Kreutzfeld has a sound argument when he plumps for single round play in the Richland county basketball schedule. There isn't much sense in playing 14 games with seven schools on a home and home basis, when the same result can be achieved by playing half that many. And Mr. K. speaks wisely when he argues that when wintry roads are slippery, it is equally senseless to go so many miles across the country over icy roads to play a game that doesn't mean very much.

Richland county has certain basketball powers, such as Ontario, where the boys have been shooting at the basket since September. The powers want the present system retained. Mostly because, it appears, some misguided alumni think that victories are what are needed to bolster local prestige.

Pilgrims End Season at Seville Tomorrow

Barbers Said Bigger, Faster Than Locals

Plymouth's Pilgrims sail against the Barbers of Seville tomorrow, hopeful of the same success Sir Francis Drake, another Plymouthite, got when he went against the Spanish Armada.

The signs are that the hopefulness may not be well spoken, because Seville is bigger and faster than Wakeman and showed it with a four touchdown win over the Blue and White. The Barbers, coached by Charles Copko, now in his fourth year, have won two, against Lodi and Wakeman, and lost five, to Peninsula, Buckeye, Brunswick, Wooster reserves and Highland.

The Barbers have eight seniors in the starting lineup, and only 17 men in uniform. So far as total manpower is concerned, the two events should be evenly matched. Jim Ehy, a 148-pound quarterback, leads the Barbers. He is in his third year of varsity football. Tom Goetz, a 185-pound halfback, carries much of the mail from a halfback post. He is the sparkplug of the Seville team.

For Plymouth, the contest will be the last in interscholastic play for four seniors, Co. Carls, Otis Port and John Fox, Dick Goldsmith and Francis Dorion.

Ragged tackling marked the Pilgrims' play in the second half of the Wakeman contest, and Coach Fred Kreutzfeld has been on the boys this week to improve that feature. With the chance of the best season in many years, the Pilgrims will be all out to snare a victory against an eleven that outsize, outreaches and outweighs the Plymouth entry.

The title of Richland county champion is a hollow one unless the winner can tackle and defeat all of the schools in the county, large and small. Plainly, that's not feasible. We'd rather see the high school quintet play only seven games in the county league, and schedule other games up to, say, 19 or 20 games a year with teams that are closer to Plymouth than Lexington, Lucas, and the other down-county schools.

Greenwich and New Haven are neighbors and natural rivals. So also are Wakeman and occasionally New London. Not to mention Shioh and some of the Crawford and Seneca county schools. Let's keep the competition local. It does more for school spirit and it's easier for the community to get whipped no over the team.

Tom Goetz, stalwart 185-pound halfback, is also in his third year of varsity play. He came to Seville from California at the start of his high school career. With a lot of drive, he is a sparkplug on the Seville team.

Jim Ehy, 148-pound quarterback for Seville, is a senior this year. This is his third year of varsity football, despite his light weight. A zealot, he has missed only four practices in four years of high school.

Directions for Fans

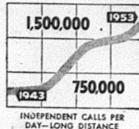

Football fans wishing to follow the Pilgrims should take routes 603 and 96 to Ashland, thence 42 to Lodi. Turn right into route 224 at Lodi and continue to the intersection of route 3, where a right turn will put the fans in Seville. The field is behind the school.

The Plymouth Advertiser Member, Ohio Newspaper Association; Member, National Editorial Association. Published Every Thursday at Plymouth, Ohio A. L. PADDOCK, JR., Editor P. W. THOMAS, Editor Emeritus

Entered at the Post Office at Plymouth, Ohio, as second class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Something for the Senator— Voters of Plymouth have helped to elect two State Senators and two representatives to the General Assembly. They set forth on new terms with this year, and we think there is much for them to do.

The first step, we feel, is one which would help this village - and many others like it - obtain a continuing supply of capable, interested, energetic persons to serve its official boards and councils.

Right now, a businessman or merchant who serves as an elected public official is estopped from trading with the official community. The state examiner comes around every so often, and makes a finding against him. It amounts to a disallowance of payment, and if it is never collected, because the goods and services which are paid for have already been rendered and cannot be repossessed, at least the stigma of having done something that caused a citation or finding by the auditor's office remains on the records.

There is a good way to stop this, and to strike a blow for good government. For who but a businessman is more interested in the welfare of his town? And who will find the time more than he to serve it well?

The state legislature should promptly enact a law which would permit businessmen and merchants serving on official boards to trade with them in the amount of $750 annually without penalty.

Our attorneys have drawn up a suitable bill, and have consulted with the legislative reference service at Columbus as to form and content. We are sending copies to Senators Latza and Mosher and to Representatives Robinson and Weaver, and we urge them to give it serious consideration.

The Junior Class Play—

It is always a pleasure to turn out once again to see what our young people are doing. This year, the junior class of the high school is presenting a comedy, with which it hopes to raise at least part of the cost of its trip to Washington and New York in 1936.

We believe that such trips are laudable in every sense, and the youngsters are to be encouraged in their efforts to raise money in such an honest manner. Representatives of the class are going about now with tickets to the affair, and we urge everyone to buy one.

This season's play is also the swan song of the woman who has so capably served the community and the patrons of the school district for many years. She postponed a leave of absence so that she could discharge her responsibilities to the young people who owe her so much.

It is an additional reason why we should all turn out. Mrs. Lanier deserves the plaudits of the entire community, and this is one way to give them to her.

The Handbills—

There is this to say about the green handbills. Without the accurate and complete coverage given to the whole sewer question by this newspaper, the drafters of the sheet wouldn't have known what was going on. Not one has been at the council chamber in a year.

This newspaper had its opinion, and it kept that opinion from its news columns. And when that opinion was published, it was signed. Which is more than can be said for the green sheet. It violated election laws: the name of the person ordering the matter must appear on it.

We have no complaint, mind you. Only a fool would question such a routing majority. We made our recommendation in good faith and sincere belief. If everybody agreed with what we say or do it would make this a pretty dull town in which to live, wouldn't it?

And we have learned a great lesson: money talks. People are motivated by many things, and the greatest of these is money.

From Shiloh, Mrs. Ruckman Writes— Short Course Opens At School Monday

Farmers in the community are again invited to attend a series of discussions this winter concerning farm problems and conditions. The meetings, which are held in the vocational agriculture room at school, are free, and should be of interest to every farmer.

The speaker Monday night will be Charles Resseger, Willard insurance agent, who will discuss liability insurance. Other meetings, which are held each Monday night at 8 p.m., include wells and drilling problems, conservation and drainage, social security, and job analysis.

Short course officers for this year are Wood Arnold, president; Milton Lynch, vice president; and Raymond Wells, treasurer. G. D. Seymour is adviser for the group.

Bonnie Fry was elected president of the B-Square club which met Wednesday with Mrs. Robert Forsythe. Ann Ballich is the new vice president, Oneta Lake, secretary-treasurer; Irene Baker, assistant secretary-treasurer, and Mary Forsythe, news reporter.

The program was in charge of Ann Ballich. Grace Howard will be hostess on Nov. 17, when the club meets again. Mary Forsythe will be in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Myers of Harrisburg, Pa., are the new tenants in the Dewey Reynolds apartment.

The Halloween parade and festivities sponsored by the P-T-A. Saturday night was a big success, and considering the bad night, well attended.

There was a capacity crowd at the dance, and the games and concessions were well patronized. Mrs. McBride's first grade won the prize for the largest percentage attendance. Patty Barnard and Adrian Kennard were given the prize for the Best Dressed Couple in the adult class.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pittenger won the prize for the Most Original Costumes and in the children division, the judges declared a tie between two robots, David and Rodney Ruckman, and two ducks, Rodney Huston and Billy Gosh.

At the Monday night meeting, the P-T-A. voted to sponsor the Halloween festivities again next year.

Shiloh Merchants donated some $47 to the organization, which was used for the prizes.

Mrs. Marie Killinger and Mrs. Dora Schreffler and son of Mansfield spent the weekend at the Amis Jacobs home. Mrs. Schreffler, the former Dora Noble, has been living in Spokane, Wash., and has returned to Ohio to make her permanent home.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gipe of Lewiston, Mont., are visiting at the homes of R. M. and Chester Bell and other relatives in this locality.

Mrs. Mary Young, in Memphis, Tenn., returning home Sunday. The Young Mothers club is sponsoring a cake-walk and dance in the school auditorium Nov. 12.

The cake walk will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and the dance follows, with Black's orchestra.

Perce Dean is serving in the Midway. That's pretty good duty, and Perce is lucky as all get out because he got a sea berth in that ship. Shed no sad tears for Mister Dean. Last time he was home, which wasn't too long ago, he was courtin', and had few eyes for us. But we saw ya, Perce. Good luck, pal.

Dan Eby, speaking of the Na-vee, came in to do us a good turn the other night. "I was some time since Dan'l had put his hands on the old Betsy Lou, but he showed he hadn't forgotten how. Thanks to you, too, Dan'l."

Our friend Willard Webster brought to some spuds grown in his garden by himself, no less, that'll knock your eye out. One sweet potato weighs just a hair over two and a quarter pounds and two Irish spuds (Mr. W. says they're Sequoias) heavier around 20 ounces each. They're on exhibition in our shop, so come in and see 'em. Make it fast, too, because Mr. W. says we can't 'em home and eat 'em.

The Religion in American Life program, which is being conducted this week, deserves the support of everyone. See your pastor about it. They're easy guys to meet, and you can find 'em crossing the Square almost any time. They'll be on the square with you, too. Object: to increase church attendance and church support.

How come Dept.: a twelve guide which you can pick up across the street lists, as the first man in the Ohio State roster, one Jack Augusten, No. 14, from Dayton, age 20, height so much, etc. We saw a guy answering to those characteristics cavorting for Ashland's Eagles against Bluffton a week ago. How come?

Bill Ellis wants it known he is not sick, but was knocked over by a cow. And what's more, he and Luke are still looking for a black sow. Anybody seen her?

Our small fry constantly keep us in a dither. The other eye, there was a demonstration of wifely ire on the Square. A lady(?) banged her hubby over the head with an umbrella. Our elder saw it. So did one of our business colleagues, who told us about it next day.

"Say, pal, training 'em kind of early, huh?" quoth he, "Whidday mean?" "Chip saw this and said, 'I'm from The Advertiser. What's that lady's name?'"

Digging around upstairs last week we came across five checks, each for $5, drawn in 1933 to this newspaper. Tommy allows as how he lost a lot more than $25, because it was worth more then. The checks, y'see, had never been cashed.

Now that Halloween has come and gone, we will voice our annual gripe. We don't mind washing off the soap and grime when it's all over, but it's the daily washing off of the dirty words and libellous statements (not against us, necessarily, but just plain libellous) that tires us out. Our Old Man used to quote a little rhyme when we were young: "A man's ambition must be small when he writes his name on an outhouse wall." Same goes for the man - or child - who writes dirty words.

H. S. T. (one of two persons with those initials that we just plain admit) is back from the coast (his first trip) after a delightful tour. Glad you could make it. H. S. T. Pity you didn't stop in at the Treasury and pick us up a few samples.

Our George's mother phoned him from Bridgeport when she read in this colyum that he might have the mumps. Which proves two things: the colyum is read, far and wide for one thing, and for another, getting it up on Friday and not publishing it until the following Thursday means that some of the stuff (but only some) is old hat by the time you get to read it.

Bo-kay of the week: to the unknown, and up to now unsung, young lady who greets us every morn with a nice smile and a "hello". Dunno who she is, but she's o. k. in our book. Pub-lease, sis, tell us who you are next time.

It's a good thing to remember that it's 175 years since John Paul Jones uttered those wonderful words, "I have not yet begun to fight." When business is bad, on the little woman is on you, think of old J. P. And one other thing: Jones said them after dark. If your scrap is with the T. w., maybe it's better to say them then, when she can't see to wing you with the skillet.

Funny story we heard at a dinner the other week: Little boy told his mother he had been asked, together with other pupils, where he was born. "Did you tell the teacher you were born in Women's Hospital?" asked mater. "Naw, that's too sissy, I told her I was born in Yankee Stadium."

Missing from our pages this week is the top notch weather report usually filed at this time by J. A. R., who is recovering from surgery at Shelby Memorial hospital. We hope to present J. A. R.'s weather stuff next week, if he's not still under the weather. Get next week, J. A. R.

The ladies at the telephone exchange get a bo-kay every week. They chased us all over beck's half acre to find us, and a wild goose chase it turned out to be. Which just goes to show how seriously they take their jobs. Live nose or wild goose, they do it all the same, as promptly as electronic devices and the human mind will permit. Mrs. Gleason, trot the ladies out and take a bow.

Mrs. George Beck, Shiloh route 2, and Mrs. L. R. Fritters are two who let us know that the plural of monogamy is monogamies. Not that we like it, we do, but we certainly do appreciate their cooperation, especially as they hauled in some voluminous proof to back up what they said. Thanks, ladies! A small expression of our appreciation is in the mails.

Our P-T-A. seems like a live-wire outfit. It deserves the support of everyone who believes in a free and democratic America, whether or not he's parent or has a child in school. Best wishes to Mrs. Root and her staff for the coming season.

Addie Kinsel says there are three things it doesn't do any good argue about: religion, politics, and the virtue of women.

Good definition of football season: when the girls whistle at fellows wearing sweaters.

E. F. Garners Switching to Hogs

The E. Franklin Garners plan to sell out all but a very few of their Holstein and Guernsey milking herd and switch to crossbred Hampshire and Spotted China hogs.

The reason: less work, desire to be less tied down, growth of administrative red tape in the dairying industry, good prices for hogs.

The Garner spread covers 160 acres three-quarter of a mile south of Delphi in New State road. The house is trimmed in scarlet on a white base, and for tidiness, the buildings and the grounds can't be beat.

Franklin Garner spends most of his time doing the work around the place, which is why it is so busy. But he also has time to do some custom combining around at the neighbors' and if the snow doesn't hold him off, he was to finish his harvest of soy beans and corn this week.

The Garners had 36 acres in corn this year, and they got a good crop from it. Such a crop, indeed, that extra storage containers had to be built.

And the soy beans are a bit late, perhaps because they are of the Lincoln rather than Manchu variety.

"My experience is that Manchus mature faster than Lincolns. I would have had my beans all in if it weren't for the fact they weren't ready. Manchus make a better and an easier bean to harvest," says Franklin Garner.

This is the first year the Garners have found a crop that has the characteristics of wheat without the disadvantages. It's barley, and a cautious policy of seeding barley buildings and the grounds can't be beat.

"A farmer can't make out on 80 cent barley," claims Mr. Garner, "but we're trying it anyway. Farmers around here are paying a dollar a bushel for barley, maybe the price'll go up later on."

Mrs. Garner has lived on the place since she was 15, but the Garners as a married couple have been there 22 years. They've watched the neighborhood prosper and "decline, and prosper again.

Today the road is better than it ever was, the mail service is better, they have television and a comfortable house, and all of the machinery that has made farming a business rather than a chore.

Mr. Garner plans to dispose of his milking stock at auction. "The inspectors get so finicky, and the milking ties you down so," he says, but there is no rancor nor bitterness in his voice. He speaks of the switch to hogs as a common sense business transaction.

Nor is he new to the hog business. Two years ago he had a good string of hogs, and it was then he learned that the Hampshire-Spotted cross is a good hog for this region.

Farmers looking for (1) good milking cattle (2) sound farming advice and (3) a handsome colic cup would do well to look up Franklin Garner. He's got all three, and you'll get them with a smile.

Fair Board to Name 12 New Directors

Directors from New Haven, Ripley, and Townsend townships, Greenwich village and Greenwich township will be elected by the Huron County Agricultural society Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the commissioners' room, Huron county courthouse, Norwalk.

Purchasers of membership tickets for the 1954 Huron county fair who reside in Huron county are eligible to vote.

Directors will also be elected from Clarksfield, Bronson, New London and Norwalk townships and from Bellevue, New London, and Norwalk.

Cawrse Elected To County Post

Morris Cawrse, Filchville township, was elected chairman of the Huron County agricultural extension advisory committee at a special meeting Oct. 27.

Other officers elected were Charles Chisholm, vice chairman; Norma Norrow, secretary, and Byron Dalton, delegate to the state advisory committee sessions.

Mr. Dalton reported on the August extension advisory committee meeting held in Columbus, stating that rural people are interested in expanding the extension program. This is to be done by the addition of extension specialists and some agents, who would work primarily with the farm and home development phase of the extension program.

Extension Agents Mabel G. Fernald, Fred Wise and John Wells, reported on activities carried out in the past year and presented the program as planned for the coming year.

Wakeman Rallies, Wins 39-25

Townsend-Wakeman's gridders spotted Plymouth a 19-point lead during the first half at Wakeman Thursday and came back in the gathering dusk to trounce the Pilgrims, 39 to 25, largely on the brilliance of Ted Gry and Carl Gerber.

After the first period, there was every sign that a rout would develop. The Blue and White kicked off to the Pilgrim 40. On the first play, John Fetters fumbled and Wakeman recovered. Otis Port fell on the ensuing Wakeman bobble, and on the first play shot off tackle for 50 yards and the first score. Later in the quarter, after the Pilgrims had marched from their own 20 after a Wakeman punt entered the end zone for a touchdown, Jim Hunt chose a fourth-down pass play to southpaw a heave to Larry Taylor for a second touchdown. Fetters' plunge for the point was good.

The Pilgrims were rapping on the goal line for another touchdown as the period ended. Wakeman held for downs on its own two as the second period began, and after fumbling on its own 17, lost the ball. Port's toss to Fox in the end zone fell from his fingers, and Hunt connected with Taylor for the third touchdown on the next play. Fetters failed in the try for the extra point.

Wakeman roused itself from a shoddy performance and sprang a sustained drive that fizzled out on the Plymouth 10-yard stripe as the half ended. But it was a different Wakeman eleven that returned from the halftime rest.

The Pilgrims fired up another drive, largely on aerial maneuvers and a new brand of razzle dazzle cost them the ball on the Wakeman 26. Ted Gry burst off tackle for the distance, covering 74 yards in the trip. Gerber's placement was a splendid one, and Wakeman was back in the ball game, a fact which it proceeded to assert with some vehemence.

Plymouth elected to punt on fourth down and Fox's punt was poor. It was partially blocked and Wakeman took over 10 yards farther down the field, on its own 36. Gry then shot off tackle, eluded three Pilgrims, and stopped in pay dirt. By this time it was apparent that Wakeman meant business.

The Pilgrims got themselves another touchdown before the roof fell in. Port's dashes off his right end on pichtouch from Hunt twice brought the Pilgrims to within scoring distance before Port passed to Fox to the Wakeman four, and in two plays Port had it over.

From this point the Pilgrims were never in the ball game. Gerber cracked through center, split the secondary, and bowled 71 yards for the third Wakeman touchdown. His attempt to convert by placement failed.

Gry took up the scoring at this point. His effort was a 17-yard trip around end after a pass interception. Dick Jarret intercepted one of Port's tosses and was stopped on the Pilgrim 12, whereupon Gry again slid around end for another touchdown.

The final score came as Jarret nailed another of Hunt's heaves and rambled 55 yards for the final score.
