

19 Churches to Join In Ringing of Bells

Nineteen Christmas churches have responded to the appeal of the publisher of The Advertiser to ring their bells from 7 to 7:45 a.m. Christmas day.

The Rev. T. M. Sheesley, "New Haven church will also cooperate." (The Rev. James McGaw.)

The publisher emphasized that it was not intended that bells should be rung constantly throughout the three-quarter hour period. It is intended to say, "that man-made bells were not designed to stand the strain, and neither, apparently, were the bellringers. What is intended is the maintenance of the peal and echo of the bells rather than the constant clang of the clapper."

Responding to the appeal, pastors have said: "We think the ringing of church bells is a wonderful thing and will cooperate." We have a bell and ringers. (White Hall Church of God, Greenwich route 2).

"Our Tiro E. U. B. church will be pleased to cooperate with your request to ring the church bells for three-quarters of an hour on Christmas morning as a means of heralding the advent of Christmas." (The Rev. E. Ted Wonder, pastor.)

"We think this is a very worthy project and feel you are to be complimented for your public-spirited efforts you are making. We will cooperate to the fullest." (Assembly of God church.)

"We will be pleased to join with other churches in our Christian fellowship to ring the bells on Christmas morning." (The Rev.

400 Witness School Holiday Program Sunday Afternoon

An overflow crowd estimated at 400 persons turned out Sunday to witness the annual elementary school children's Christmas presentation.

Coached by their teachers, the youngsters acquitted themselves well. Harold Moore, James White, Carol Postema, Nina Fitch, Dennis Smith, Benny Root, and Nancy MacMichael sang the principal roles. The children of the first grade were dollmakers; of the second grade, snowflakes; of the third grade, soldiers; of the fourth grade, shoemakers; of the fifth grade, animal makers, and of the sixth, friends.

The first scene was laid in a modern living room, where the third grade chorus sang "Lamb of Jesus" and "Little Pine Tree". At the end of scene 2 and 3 the fourth, fifth and sixth grade chorus sang "Angels We Have Heard, on High" and "Go Tell It on the Mountain".

During the proceedings, the first and second grade chorus sang "Three Little Pigs" and "Redwood Reindeer". Third graders rendered "O Come Little Children" and "Santa's Helpers". Second graders sang "Jingle at the Window", "Snow", and "Merry Christmas Bells".

First graders did "Away in a Manger" and "Old Santa's Coming". The third grade chorus sang "Lamb of Jesus" and "Little Pine Tree". At the end of scene 2 and 3 the fourth, fifth and sixth grade chorus sang "Angels We Have Heard, on High" and "Go Tell It on the Mountain".

Mother of Ralph Moore of New Haven, Mrs. Pheba D. Moore, 80, died Sunday in Willard Municipal Hospital after an illness of several months.

Born at North Baltimore Aug. 24, 1874, and a resident of Willard for 60 years, Mrs. Moore leaves her husband, George, to whom she had been married 62 years, six sons and two daughters. Sons are Ernest, Clyde and Robert, all of Willard; Howard, North Oriole, and Donald, all of Bellbrook. Daughters are Mrs. Lester Heisler and Mrs. O. A. Snyder, both of Willard. There are 21 grandchildren and three brothers, Newton Copus, Arcadia; Walter, Merrill, and Charles, Haskell, Okla.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday by the Rev. C. D. Wright, pastor of the Willard Evangelical United Brethren church, with interment in Willard cemetery.

William Wechters Marks 35 Years of Marriage

Because of her failing health, Mr. and Mrs. William Wechters will observe their 35th wedding anniversary quietly at home Thursday.

But the celebration will be a big one, nonetheless. For Bill and Jessie Wechters have shared life, trials and rewards together since he came from France in March, 1919, a wounded Marine who participated in the St. Mihiel offensive, and as they had no children, theirs has been a particularly important cooperation.

The Wechters were married in the same house at 78 Trux street where they live now on Dec. 29, 1919, by the Rev. Charles B. Phillips, pastor of the Presbyterian church. She was an orphan, albeit a grown-up one. Her parents, John and Jane Ann Monticello, were long since dead. His folks, Jacob and Catherine Wechters of New Washington, have since passed on.

Bill Wechters' employment at Fafe-Ro-Heath Co., where he was for 27 years a molder and three a coremaker. His lungs unable to support the sand utilized in the molding process, Bill retired and went to work in Shelly for five years. He has been virtually retired for seven more.

The Wechters are members of First Presbyterian church, and he is a life member of the Disabled American Veterans. He belongs to the American Legion, and Mrs. Wechters to the auxiliaries of both the D.A.V. and the Legion.

Of Late: Jessie Wechters - she loves Sarah Jane, but every body knows her as Jessie - has had a tilt with ill health, and she gets about with difficulty in a wheel chair. Bill is her constant companion and helpmeet.

In years past, the Wechters were enthusiastic gardeners. This season Bill produced patches of such size they became a statewide item of interest. A report of their size was published by the United Press and found its way into daily newspapers in Cincinnati, Akron, Cleveland and Littleton.

Bill has kept his hand in and his garden, though by functioning as a publisher chief of Etret-Parsel Post No. 447, American Legion, and as such is a frequent caller on the Square.

He hopes he will be able to do so for a good many more years to come, with Jessie in proud support at home.

Rest Room To Be Built After Jan. 1

A teachers' rest room will be installed in the elementary school building after the first of the year, the Board of Education decreed Tuesday night.

Insufficient funds were available during the construction of the addition to the building to provide for a room which would have been required to use the same rooms as provided for children. It is an unsatisfactory situation, the board agreed, and it will be corrected.

A leak in a six-inch stem main in the high school building will probably be corrected during the vacation period, the vacation will be called to estimate the cost of effecting the repair.

The school buses now used by the board to transport pupils living beyond walking distance of the schools are rapidly nearing the end of their economic life, the Board was told. John Newcomer of Lexington will inspect the buses and state funds will be sought to replace them.

Public schools will close for the Christmas holidays at 2 p.m. Thursday and will re-open at the regular hour Monday, Jan. 3, 1955.

The Board will hold its organization meeting on Jan. 3. It will be a routine session, as there are no replacements to be made. Bills amounting to $596.26 were ordered paid.

Biller's Sedan Hit, Demolished by Truck

A late model sedan was ruined, a heavy truck damaged, $500 in property destroyed and two persons narrowly escaped death here Tuesday night in a freak accident.

Howard A. Biller and his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Wynn, 136 Trux street, received minor injuries when the sacred import of Christmas, Bach's Break Forth, O Beausoleil, heavily freighted with gifts, was taken from his Christmas tree, one of his larger works, and displays vividly his power and beauty.

"Lo How a Rose E'er Blooming" is a popular Christmas selection often heard at this time of year. Praetorius' work has often been arranged for both instrumental and vocal presentation.

"Adoramus Te" displays the genius of Palestine in writing vocal music. Its harmony in a major key is a thing of beauty, and features the unique sound of the fierce die pleide, or major chord at the end of a minor cadence.

Members of the chorus who will sing include Linda Bright, Roberta Bachrach, Patricia Chonister, Miss Cornell, Marjory Curren, Miss Mrs. T. M. Shesley of 41 Sandusky street, all first sopranos; the Misses Carol Yon Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and M. R. Guy Cunningham, Sr., 120 Mulberry street; Janet McElroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Postlewait, originally of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cornell of 112 West Broadway, second soprano; and the Misses Ruth Keith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Willard, 112 Franklin street; Jeannine Betz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael M. Chester Bettis of 203 Trux street; Janet McIntire, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. McIntire of 70 Plymouth street, alto; Miss Betty Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter of 31 Bell street, will play the accompaniment.

New Haven Signs Two Badly Injured As Car Hits Tree, Posi

Two Plymouthites are in Shelby Memorial hospital in serious condition and one young boy has a sore nose as a result of separate traffic accidents over last weekend.

John Noble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Noble, 101 Main street and Stanley Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iva Ross of Route 98, have injuries diagnosed as fractures of the leg and scalp and head lacerations.

New Haven township terminated the existing contract in June, 1953, when Willard firemen asked for a raise in fees for responding to alarms in the township. The new contract was signed at precisely the same rate offered by the firemen: $2.25 per hour, per man not to exceed $50 a call.

Pressure applied against the township by the firemen led to the concluding of the contract by them, after their efforts to establish a township fire company through the purchase of a fire-fighting apparatus were enjoined by court action.

The trustees also agreed to pay a share of the cost of new hose acquired by Willard fire department.

IT'S A GIRL!

The fancy get-up isn't entirely necessary, but it helps, says Bill Root. Besides, it's a good excuse for not washing the dishes.

Sauce for Shrimp
Made by Bill Root

Christmas is particularly suitable for those "tween-meal snacks that help to stave off hunger while you're doing your Christmas shopping."

With Bill Root, popular Mulberry street cuisinier, has a favorite recipe for shrimp sauce that he serves with fresh shrimp which has been boiled from eight to 10 minutes. Part of the secret is the preparation of the shrimp: you use a mixture of one tablespoon of good cider vinegar, a teaspoon of salt, some bay leaves and some pickling spices like Grandmother used to use.

Then, to suit your taste, mix a good commercial chili sauce with horse radish (the hotter the better), Worcestershire, lemon juice and pepper.

Mix it in a glass bowl if you prefer, or pour it over a well-boiled bowl which has been ever so slightly touched with garlic adds a definite touch, says Nancy Bancroft.

Fire Protection

It is pleasing to note that New Haven township has finally come to agreement with the Willard fire department to provide for fire protection in the township. Except for that protection which might have been - and the emphasis is on, "might" - furnished on a compassionate basis, New Haven township has had no guaranteed fire protection for some months. What a pity it would have been to erect a new school and not have any pupils for it because they were destroyed by fire!

The township is paying the rates originally asked by Willard firemen, and the township will pay a part of the cost of new hose. There was a considerable period of bickering, about which the less said the better, and an even longer period of complaint by citizens against the action of the trustees, who acted in good faith and with good intent always.

It seems to us, in fire protection as in some other things, that small townships without large, sedentary groups of population will be compelled to combine with others, in the establishment - in this case - of a fire district.

The new contract is on six-month basis only. Perhaps it would be as well for the trustees of New Haven township to investigate the possibilities of establishment of a fire district with either Plymouth, Willard, or Greenwich.

School Report

The report of the state school inspector should make us all proud, but it is not cause for complacency. The job isn't done yet, and the publication of the inspector's report would defeat its purpose if patrons of the school district should get the idea that there is no more to be done.

Our high school is still a first grade school. That speaks for itself. In this respect, it is the equivalent, in facilities and instruction, as the larger schools in the state. You just don't get any better than first grade.

The inspector pointed out that since his last inspection many forward steps have been taken by the Board of Education. He singled out the new elementary building and its addition, and the replacement of outmoded lighting fixtures in the high school building.

Not very many among us need to be reminded that it was private citizens acting in a private capacity, going beyond what their school tax bill requires, who made possible many of the forward steps that the board could not finance because of other commitments.

The library, the inspector says, is standard. Plans for its improvement are in hand. The need for a good reference library in the high school for the use of pupils in investigative study speaks for itself. It requires no amplification.

But the plans do. It is not a situation that can be helped by raiding your bookshelves, unless you're one of those rare citizens who has a spare Britannica. The superintendent, Mr. Coon, will be glad to advise how you can help. Ring him up. It is a situation that we should not allow to continue if we can help it. And the school authorities are to be commended for their foresight and initiative in taking steps to improve matters.

Censure

The Senate has voted overwhelmingly to censure the junior member from Wisconsin on two of the three counts. The vote came as much from members of the senator's own party as from the opposition. Twenty-two Republicans voted for and 22 voted against.

We trust it is not too much to hope that both of these lessons will find their fruit in a better Senate in days to come. This is our last word on the subject. Until Joe acts up again, that is.

Out of Ohio's Colorful Past

Each year, sternwheelers like the Tom Green carry produce and passengers down the Ohio, while modern motor boats are entering the old-fashioned days staged aboard showboats traveling along the river. In contrast to the romance of these boats of yesterday is the tempo of industry along the river banks, the modern era at East Liverpool, steel mills of Steubenville, and automobile factories at Cincinnati. But from either point of view the river is still the "Beautiful Ohio." For further information on scenic, recreational, historical and industrial points of interest in Ohio, write to the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission, 70 W. Broad Street, Columbus 15, Ohio, for the free, illustrated booklet "Ohio Suggests an Auto Tour." 224 Relocation Sets Fire in Three Towns

Ed Note: The announcement by State Highway Director S. O. Linzell of certain road improvements in Plymouth area prompted the editor to inquire about effect of the developments on the local economy. The following is a partial report of what he found.

Ohio's highway budget between now and 1960 includes expenditures of $22 million for improvements to two important arteries affecting Plymouth: U. S. Route 224, carrying traffic east and west, and State Route 61, a north-south service road.

The planners contend that an $8 million widening and relocating of 224 will benefit the state and help to solve, in part, the traffic burden between Fostoria and Akron. The plans call for a 22-mile stretch of relocation that will add a four-lane highway from Summit county line west of Lodi.

It would mean bypassing of Lodi, Wadsworth and possibly Leroy. The idea is that of a Toledo planning firm, Steppert, Linn, McDonnell, Barber & Evans, a technical engineer well reputed in their field. It will, of course, require approval by Director Linzell's office and the state legislature. But it is no secret that the basic motion has the endorsement of the state highway department. SMD&E wouldn't have spent the money on the plans if it hadn't.

Joseph Tomsic, who is in charge of the highway department's group 3 office at Ashtabula, has said his office would supervise construction of at least 20 miles of the stretch and would work in conjunction with the group 4 office in Summit county. But beyond that he's saying nothing.

The good reason is that a large number of taxpayers in Huron, Ashtabula and Medina counties don't like the idea a bit. Some of them have already organized to stop it to such thinking.

The grounds on which they predicate their action are these:

1. They have a large investment in the side-of-the-road businesses which would be adversely affected by the relocation.

2. Itinerant traffic which now affords some of the communities a tidy living would disappear.

3. Valuable farm land, primarily serving the dairying industry in Medina county, would be condemned and lost to production.

A Servile businessman is leading a group of protesters, and the state legislators, halting from the area concerned, have already heard from constituents who seem premature, because until the state highway department approves, and the governor submits the proposal to the legislature, it is not a cause for action by that body.

Some sources close to the Toledo firm point out that relocation and widening of Route 224 means certain disadvantages for the area affected that tend to overcome any disadvantages.

These include:

1. Despite the opening of the Ohio Turnpike, east-west traffic over 224 will increase rather than decrease.

2. This traffic will be of a long-distance, interstate, rather than intrastate, nature.

3. It will primarily be of a

30-75 pound pig will eat about 2.7 pounds of feed daily.

A revised home garden bulletin is now available from county extension offices.

Pilgrims Lose League Hoop Games to Lexington and Shiloh

Minutemen Shoot Down Locals; Compton Gets 18 for Pilgrims

Lexington's taller, more experienced quintet walloped Plymouth's Pilgrims on the local floor Tuesday night in a Highland County league game, 69 to 39.

Bob Stom and Dave Dill, both lettermen, led the Minutemen to their triumph with 16 points each. However, Compton had 18 for the Pilgrims.

It was meeting that smacked of colonial times only insofar as the names of the competing teams went. The Minutemen went through the Pilgrims without much trouble.

While the Minutemen did not enjoy much of a height advantage, they had a lead around the locals. Lexington connected for 28 field goals and 13 of 25 tries at the charity line, while Plymouth dummied in only 14 field goals and scored only 11 times at the free throw line, out of 27 chances.

Otis Port had eight points for the Pilgrims, and John Fox and Bud Berberick four each.

Plymouth plays Union on the local floor tomorrow night, with no better chances of breaking into the win column than previously. The Pilgrims now occupy the cellar rung in the Highland County league.

Lions Trample On Plymouth, 67 to 38, As Hughes Shines

Clyde Caldwell Reports from Shiloh —

Party Time Changed

Behind a 22-point outburst by Otis Hughes, Shiloh's Lions downed Plymouth High school in a Richland County league basketball game at Shiloh Friday night, 67 to 38.

The Pilgrims played better for some time, and inaccuracy from the field cost them any chance of matching the Lions. Only in the third quarter was Plymouth able to outscore Shiloh, 15 to 12.

For the Pilgrims, it was the fourth straight defeat. Shiloh was split evenly in as many contests. Only John Fox, senior Plymouth forward, was able to break into double-figure scoring for the Pilgrims. He had 16 points, put together from a dozen charity tosses and two field goals.

Plymouth made 20 of 33 tries at the gift tape, while the Lions batted 17 of 28.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ralph M. Felix enjoy looking at the photograph of their grandchildren in the parsonage of First Presbyterian church.

Felixes to Entertain On 35th Anniversary

Ralph and Mildred Felix will be married 35 years Thursday, and after all that time, they still think it's a question of "whether you love each other."

The Felixes have been engaged in the Christian ministry for many years, and he was graduated from the College of Wooster with the class of 1917, determined to follow the calling of minister in the Presbyterian faith. Mrs. Felix, Mildred Long of Bellaire, was assistant to the young Mr. Felix. They were working with deprived people, and her skill at the keyboard of piano, organ and his mellifluous voice helped them over many a rough spot.

She was the daughter of a doctor, who died when she was two. Her mother, the late Mrs. Estella Long, for many years a teacher in the Bellaire public schools, and raised the two daughters whose livelihood became hers when her husband died.

Young Felix was the son of a Cincinnati hardware merchant, John Felix, and his wife. They were married by the Rev. John Lawther in the bride's home at Bellaire Dec. 23, 1919.

Over the years, like any other married couple, they've had their ups and downs. It is only recently that a satisfactory wage scale has been accepted for small town preachers.

The Felixes have three children, David, an area supervisor of 40 agencies for a motor car company; Chicago Jean Ann, now a housewife in Syracuse, Ind., and Paul, who has just moved to Grand Rapids, Mich., with his family. There are five grandchildren.

Their first pastorate was at Jacksonville, Ind., where they worked with miner families. For 18 years they were in charge of the Oliver flame plan of the nation to work with it.

In addition to his official duties as pastor, the Felixes are avid gardeners and have beautified the parsonage grounds at 32 East High street with seasonal flowers. But they are proudest of the fruits of their labors as ministers of God in their community. They are most as proud as the second generation fruits of their trials and tribulations as husband and wife for that time and parents for nearly that long.

SERVING IN KOREA

M. Sgt. Thomas G. Mitchell, wife, wife, and son, at 18 Clark avenue, Shelby, is now serving in Korea with I Corp.

An intensive post-truce training program is supervised by I Corp for the UN units Under its control.

Sergeant Mitchell entered the Army in 1938 and holds the Bronze Star Medal, Good Conduct Medal and the Combat Infantryman Badge. His father, Alexander D. Mitchell, lives in Delmont, Pa.

Spreading cattle with 1 to 3 gallons of methoxychlor, rotenone, or lindane will kill lice. Follow directions carefully when mixing.

Still a Carpenter

A veteran railroad carpenter who has punched his time ticket for the last time does not intend to forsake plane, saw and level.

A. R. (Doc) Fackler, a Plymouth native who was graduated from Plymouth High School in 1929, has been a carpenter ever since with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

He joined the line in 1922 as a machinist's helper but transferred to the carpentry department in 1924.

On June 20, 1903, Mr. Fackler married and is the former Ada Joann of Willard. She died July, and on Jan. 29, 1948, he married Mrs. Minnie Sorrentino in New York.

He lives at 213½ Woodland avenue, Willard, and is available for carpentry services there.

End Harrer, New Washington was recently elected a director of Ohio Dairymen's association at the group's annual meeting in Columbus.

Mr. Harrer is well known in Crawford county as a dairyman. He is the county's representative to the association.

Morrows Farm 138-Year Deed

Go back as far as you like, you'll find that Section 33 in the Crawford county plat has the Morrow name on it.

Harry Morrow observes this week his 79th birthday. He was born on the farm, in what is now only a tiny abode, and his wife built on the house half a century ago come next spring. He hopes his survivors will spread his ashes there when it's his time to go.

The Morrows took the quarter-section in 1816, on a direct grant from the federal government, and for 138 years the Morrows have farmed the ground. Today, Mr. Morrow, only son, who lives on an adjoining farm, helps out on the place, which supports a flock of 100 Corriedales, seven Guernsey grade milch cows, some chickens, and Mr. and Mrs. Morrow and their three unmarried daughters.

"We've got the place mostly in grass; right now, with only a field of corn and another of wheat," says the veteran Crawford county farmer. "Years ago we ran chickens, maybe a thousand of them, but we don't have very many now, and we've got no hogs, either."

The Corriedales are a breed of sheep that have thrived well over the years, and they stick by them. Their wool is the principal crop, and with wool prices coming up of late, the Morrows figure to do all right this season.

On a December afternoon when the sun is shining, Harry Morrow rocks in the old splashback rocker (note to antique hunters: Mrs. Morrow won't sell it); it's on a bench, the room is comfortable in and reflects upon the by-gone days when there was no mechanical farming, nor an automobile, and he had to get out and do for himself.

Just how well he did is evidenced by the sturdy, spacious farmhouse that was built with big rooms in a box shape, as was the custom in those days. "We had to do our own work on the farm," says Mrs. Morrow, "but the rooms are so big!" Mrs. Morrow laughs. Her husband says if he had to do it all over again, he'd build a house on one floor plan but Mrs. Morrow disagrees. He claims it's the Bevier influence that prompts her to prefer the two-story style. (Her maiden name was Bevier.)

The ground lies on the west side of Route 47, the old Baker road, seven miles southwest of Plymouth, and it rolls gently to the west. This makes it ideal for the grass crops which the Morrows grow, and additionally suitable for the grain crops which make up the chief stock in trade of the farmer.

Grass crops are ideal for the semi-retired farmer, which is what Harry Morrow is, more or less, but only because he's not so young as he once was. "We've got to give up half the farm to get it farmed," say the Morrows, but there is no bitterness nor rancor in their tone. You can see that the ground has taken good care of them over the years.

"Once we had a debt of $10,000 on this place," says Mr. Morrow, "and we got out of it." The implication is that if you take care of good ground, it will respond in kind.

You don't find so many sheep farmers south of Plymouth as you do north, where Greenfield township has a higher per capita sheep population than any other in Ohio. The land falls differently, so it is rare to see a man of such long experience with sheep.

"Shrubs and Hamps generally have twin lambs, but it's not very often the case among Corriedales," says Mr. Morrow. "We try to time the lambing so the warm weather will break just when they're born, which makes good sense, because it makes less work for us and less work for the sheep."

Winner of the Mystery farm contest two weeks ago was Roscoe Reynolds, Shiloh route 1. Winner this week was Mrs. Arthur Lynch Plymouth route 1.

Sheep Farmers, Wives See, Hear How To Prepare Lambs for Quality Market

Farmers and their wives attended the annual lamb grading meeting at Greenwich, Dec. 9 had an excellent opportunity to see how a lamb is marketed.

Joseph Mills, meat merchandiser for the Kroer company, demonstrated the modern methods of cutting and packaging lamb to meet consumer demand. Mills stated that a consumer buys about twice as much lamb as compared with the past years.

Nine carcasses that had been graded by federal inspectors were exhibited so that sheepmen could see the type of carcasses that will readily be sold to the public. Lamb will be shipped to New York for this reason. Lambs are graded so that farmers will have an opportunity to see how near their lambs meet the required standard.

Karl Kahler, agricultural representative of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, complimented the consignors to the Greenwich
