

Bells That Won't Ring As Important as Others

Quite as important as the bells that will ring out Christmas morning hereabouts are those that won't ring because they can't.

Workers are rushing the completion of their installation, made possible through the generosity of parishioners of the churches where they are being mounted.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wiers of Celeryville have donated a carillon, comprising 12 Dutch-cast bells, to the Christian Reformed church in their community. The carillon was ordered from Petit & Fritsen, Ltd., a firm which since 1660 has been casting liturgical bells at Rixtel, in the Netherlands. It may be operated from the keyboard, which will be installed next to the church organ, or from punched rolls.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiers' parents, the Henry Wierses and the Frank Burmans, are charter members of the church. Mrs. Wiers is the former Miss Anna Burman.

A simple plaque will be reading in the church vestibule, installing "The bells are to the Glory of God, Ed. Wiers family." It is in keeping with the simple, Christian simplicity of the community life in Celeryville.

Contractors are rushing completion of the steeple of First Evangelical Lutheran church, Plymouth, so that the historic old bell of that church may soon ring out from the steeple reconstructed to what it was when it was built. When the church council undertook certain repairs some months ago, one parishioner came forward with the offer to pay the difference between

Pilgrims Come Close But Fail at Foul Line - So Butler Wins, 50-45

Failure to convert at the charity stripe cost Plymouth's Pilgrims a chance to break into the win column for the first time this season at Butler Tuesday night.

The Bulldogs went to 46, after trailing at the half, 19 to 17. Cochran led the Bulldogs in scoring from his guard post with 15 markers, followed by Stan Gleason with 13. Otis Porter had 16 points for the Pilgrims and John Fox dumped in 14.

Mary Hampton played his second contest for the Plymouth since sustaining an incomplete fracture of a neck vertebra in the opening football game at Brunswick against Buckeye local in September.

Plymouth converted only six of 15 tries at the free throw line, while Butler dumped in exactly half of its 24 shots.

E. B. Loflands Mark 50th Anniversary

Marriage, like murder and swindle, will out, and despite their efforts to keep it a secret, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Lofland had callers at their home at 92 Sandusky street Sunday.

The occasion was their 50th wedding anniversary, which they had observed in Florida, but for the illness of their son, Paul.

Frank Britt Lofland, an up-and-coming baseball player, and Blanche Topping, a telephone operator, were married in the Methodist church parsonage at Norwalk Dec. 19, 1904. Over the half-century they have lived in Plymouth — most always in Sandusky street — the Loflands have seen folks come and go, and they allow as how "the first 50 years are the best, they couldn't be much better."

Mrs. Lofland is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Topping. Her father worked in various establishments in Plymouth for many years. Her husband was Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lofland. Both are now dead.

"I've gone around to ball games and I'm blue in the face," laughs Mrs. Lofland. "I've seen cars and as benches so much they've like

That parishioner was Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney of Old Westbury, L. I., N. Y., the former Miss Eleanor S. Whitney. She, who has many times been a soloist in the church choir.

Through the efforts of the publishers of The Advertiser, three other churches in the vicinity are receiving bells from retired railway locomotives to be mounted in simple hangings as a means of calling the faithful to Sunday services. Elmer E. Markley, veteran patternmaker and carpenter, has agreed to design the mounts, and lumber and materials have been donated.

Board Decides to Act Against Unpaid Bill of Clarence Riggle

In a special meeting suggested by the village council, the Board of Public Affairs voted Wednesday morning to instruct Village Solicitor Joseph E. Dush of Willard to move against Clarence Riggle to recover an unpaid water bill.

The bill, amounting to slightly over $96, was accumulated from usage of water on property occupied by Riggle and owned by the Brumbach family. The total bill was something over $11, and a previous Board of Public Affairs credited Riggle with $40 for the rent of wagons used to haul trimmings from trees. The balance has since not been collected.

Solicitor Dush will utilize the legal means as are necessary to recover the funds. The Board understands Mr. Riggle is now a resident of Cass township. If no justice of the peace has been appointed there, the case may be held, under state law, before a justice in an adjoining, i. e., Plymouth, township.

The Board understands also that Mr. Riggle has a certain claim deriving from damages allegedly caused by the Board's employees when a pig was struck, to a silo on the farm. The silo was struck by lightning, which the Board understands Mr. Riggle concludes to be the fault of the guy wire.

The purpose of the legal action is to ascertain whether there is any substance to the counter-claim, and if not, to recover the amount of the unpaid bill.

Clerk Carl V. Ellis reported deposits of $600 to the Board, part of which is the nearly $100 in Mr. Riggle's account, and another $50 in a local account which is unpaid because of a dispute.

The New Phone Book

Plymouth and Willard listings will be combined in one telephone directory for 1955, the Northern Ohio Telephone Co. announces.

$7,000 Collected

A total of $7,000 has been collected from the efforts of soliciting by the Huron County Yuletide & Health association through its Christmas seal campaign, officials have announced.

Response to 10,000 letters sent out Nov. 22 has been such, they said, as to assure a continuing program of the association in fields of case finding and health education.

second nature to me." Britt was an infielder, and he played in organized and semi-professional baseball with the late Ed (Flop) Fromme.

Of late years, Loflands have passed the winter in Florida, taking in some winter training of the baseball team now and again, and making it back to Indiana territory for the spring and the opening of the season. Britt is a Cleveland fan and seldom misses a broadcast or telecast of the Cleveland entry in the American league. He figures the Indians can repeat, too.

Britt Lofland for many years was engaged in the grocery business, part of the time with the late John Curpen, oldest brother of E. B. Curpen, as his partner. They were located where The Advertiser is now at 3 East Main street. Later he moved across the Square to where Harry Sutt now operates a grocery, and subsequently he operated a billiard parlor where Robert Wechter now operates a tavern.

Mrs. Lofland was for many years night telephone operator. They built the home where they now live at the corner of North and Sandusky street and their son, in Sandusky street, a basketball player, lives with them.

The PLYMOUTH ADVERTISER

And a Merry Christmas to You, too, Mr. Summerfield . . . Township Asks Fire Contract with P.F.D.

It wasn't the editor's intention to run this picture here, and you can blame Mr. Summerfield, the postmaster-general, for it. Why it should take from 4 p. m. on Tuesday afternoon until the Lord knows when (still isn't here at 5:30 a. m. Thursday) for a special delivery parcel posted in Cleveland to reach Plymouth is beyond the editor's ability to comprehend.

And so he resorts to a n old ruse — get something from the morgue, which is the newspaperman's name for the files. At 5:30 a. m. there isn't much choice, for a hole is a hole and must be filled exactly. But in all seriousness, from all of us to all of you, on this our first Christmas in Plymouth, a very Merry Christmas, and our thanks for your friendly support.

Candlelight Service Tomorrow

The traditional Christmas Eve candlelight service in First Evangelical Lutheran church will begin tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. as parishioners bearing lighted candles file into the darkened church.

Although the service was originated by and for Lutherans, over the years members of all churches have come to the church for the observance of Christmas in such a hallowed atmosphere.

The Rev. Dr. Nathan Harter, supply pastor of the church, is in charge of the liturgical portion of the service. Music will be under the direction of Mrs. Francis Guthrie, church organist, and Clarence Mack, choir director. Mrs. Guthrie will perform on the organ and Mr. Mack at the piano.

Roy Johnson, Jr., a student at Capital University who has returned for the Christmas holidays, will sing.

Traditional sacred Christmas music and usual Yuletide airs of the selections to be played and sung.

"As the village readies for its 139th Christmas recede today at 2:30 p. m. Classes will reconvene Jan. 3.

Donald J. Ford, Edward Ramsey and Supt. M. J. Cohn have been appointed to judge the annual Community club Christmas home decorations contest.

The contest, whose winner will be awarded $15, is open to all residents of Plymouth local school districts.

Second prize will be $10 and third prize $5.

"Please keep all your Christmas lights burning," the committee says, "in celebration of the birth of the baby Jesus through the week following Christmas."

Roman Catholics in St. Joseph's parish will usher in the Christmas season tomorrow afternoon. Concessions will be heard in the church from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

The Rev. William Cooney, pastor of St. Joseph's, will be celebrant at a high mass to be sung at midnight tomorrow. Christmas masses will be sung at 6:30 and 8 a. m. Saturday.

If your copy of The Advertiser is late this week, blame Mr. Summerfield, the postmaster-general. His minions in blue somewhere between here and Cleveland mistook or just plain forgot a special delivery parcel containing engravings for the front page.

School Lights

Electric Christmas lighting for the high school was donated by the student council from funds accumulated from students projects, Supt. M. J. Cohn announces.

It is the hope that subsequent donations each Christmas will enlarge the display.

Corn Crop Acreage To Be Allotted Again, Guy Taylor Predicts

Acreage allotments for the 1955 corn crop will be released on the national and county level not later than Feb. 1 unless allotments are dispersed with under emergency regulations.

Guy L. Taylor, office manager of the Richland County Agricultural Stabilization committee, says it is unlikely allotments will be eliminated in 1955 in spite of the drought conditions in many areas of the nation.

"The Department of Agriculture sees the apparent corn supply for the coming market year so plentiful that acreage allotments will be needed to maintain a balance between production and consumption," he said.

In 1954 the commercial corn area included 834 counties (including Richland) in 22 states as compared to the 805 counties in 21 states for 1953. Five counties have been added to the list and 34 have been removed.

Taylor says counties to be included in the commercial corn producing area must average 450 bushels of corn production per farm and four bushels or more per acre of farmland over a period of 10 years. Corn used for silage is excluded. Allowances are made for years in which production is diminished by drought or other harmful influences.

Counties with other farm allotments is one of the conditions of eligibility for price supports in the commercial corn area. These acreage allotments are effective. Corn farmers in non-commercial corn areas are exempt from acreage allotments, but loan and purchase programs are available. About 72 per cent of the rates in the commercial areas, Taylor says.

W. J. Skinner, 78, Dies in Hospital

A lifelong resident of New Haven, William John Skinner, 78, died Friday night in Willard Municipal hospital, after an attack of angina pectoris, says before.

He was born in New Haven June 14, 1876, and always lived there. His wife, Clara; three sons, Jesse of Bellevue, Vernon of Cleveland and Duane of St. Petersburg, Fla.; and two daughters, Mrs. Mable Corry of Willard and Mrs. Wilma Curtiss of Novelty, survive.

Cheesmans Married 35 Years

Christmas is just another holiday for Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cheesman of 252 West Broadway, particularly this year when they celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary.

George and Marie Ross Cheesman were married at her parents' home in the country southwest of Plymouth Dec. 25, 1919, by the Rev. Walter E. Hollett, pastor of the Methodist church, of which the Cheesmans have been communicants ever since.

They lived on various farms, engaging in farming, until 1943, when they moved to Plymouth. Mr. Cheesman is presently serving as a member of the village's Board of Public Affairs and as custodian of the elementary school.

There are three Cheesman children, Dorothy, now Mrs. Herschel Fried, Haldon, and Marilyn, now Mrs. Dale McPherson. The Cheesmans have five grandchildren, two Francis and three Cheesens. All of them will be at the Cheesman home for Christmas, and so will Mrs. Cheesman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross, who were married 55 years Nov. 29.

The wedding took place at noon, Mrs. Cheesman recalls, and she

An offer by New Haven township to contract for fire protection with Plymouth volunteer fire department was received by village council Tuesday and referred to its safety committee for consultation and report.

Township trustees William Link and Charles Willoughby and clerk Dale V. Stearns appeared at the meeting and requested consideration be given to the offer. Protection for the entire township is desired, the trustees said, on a contract basis, with the understanding that such protection was would normally be supplied by Plymouth fire company, would be sold those properties serviced by Plymouth telephone exchange.

The council agreed to study the offer and to investigate the feasibility of furnishing the protection with Fire Chief Paulton F. McDougall and eventually with Willard fire department. A report will be given at the next council meeting.

The alternative to contracting with both Willard and Plymouth fire companies is the establishing of fire districts, which the trustees wish to avoid because of a special taxation arrangement.

In other action, the council instructed Police Chief Robert L. Meiser to consult a property holder at West High and Railroad streets to ascertain if an evergreen tree which obstructs the view at that intersection may not be removed.

Councilman J. Ben Smith brought up the question of a road which had been raised because a number of traffic mishaps had either been caused or nearly caused by the obstruction.

Police Chief Mayor Royal W. Eckstein brought the question of the supply of water to the house owned by Roscoe Hutchinson and occupied by Albert Bessinger in West of south of the cemetery. The Board of Public Affairs has so far refused to connect the water supply because of an unpaid bill outstanding against previous occupants.

It was the consensus that the present occupant should not be required to sustain the indentities and lack of service made necessary by the failures of a previous tenant. The council recalled that March 1953, a certification of the outstanding bill had been made to the Richland county auditor, who properly refused to assign the amount to the tax bill because the debtor was a tenant rather than a landowner. The council advised the Richland county auditor to take steps against the debtor.

An ordinance to make special appropriations of a supplementary character was passed on first reading, title only, and the rules suspended to allow of passage by emergency. This is a book-balancing measure to which the council annually resorts because it is almost impossible to draw a budget to be accurately planned to the exact dollar.

Street Supervisor William Moors showed the council certain reports which he has made in the council rooms and he was authorized to select paint in his judgment to finish the job.

"My advice to a young girl today is if her young man chews tobacco, she's better break him off it before she marries him. Because she certainly won't do it afterwards."

The lump in George Cheesman's chest as he smiles in evidence of the truth of her conclusion. He doesn't figure he can change either habit after this long.

"She'll just have to get along with it - I'm too old to change," he says.

Ed Note: So George and Marie Cheesman will not forget other duties, we publish below two communications received by the editor too late to publish elsewhere.

Band, Chorus Concert Is 'Pure Delight,' --- Watts

BY BROOKS WATTS

One would go far, at much greater expense, to hear a concert less well presented than that presented by the Plymouth High school band and mixed chorus in the high school auditorium Sunday afternoon before, regrettably, a less than full house.

It is always pleasant to witness the performance of eager young people capably trained and coordinated by a man who, they hope, and such was obviously the case Sunday, Robert L. Dubbert has made his influence felt musically in the school system, and at no time more effectively than in the selection and presentation of the Christmas concert, a custom which he originated and has brought to full flower.

Unfortunately, the size of the stage in the auditorium and the width of the access ways are such that it is not possible to plan a concert with alternative presentations by the members of the band, a system which would serve to highlight individual performance among the singers and musicians. Additionally, some of the singers are musicians as well.

So Mr. Dubbert seized the initiative and programmed the chorus first. It was a fortuitous choice. The girls' ensemble, consisting of the Misses Marilyn Fisher, Janet Smith, Patricia Young, Carol Jo Cunningham, Jean Ann Cornell, Joan Postema, Jeannette Bettac, Ruth Keith and Janet McIntire, sang Cain's "Carillon," a hauntingly beautiful number, and the entire chorus presented a portion of Bach's Christmas oratorio, "Break Forth O Beauty from thy Heavenly Light," which showed the chorus true mettle. For this reviewer, however, the climax of the chorus powers was shown in Adornamus Te, Palestrina's Christmas chant wherein Mr. Dubbert had the full volume of the basses under control against the sheer veil of the soprano and alto sections.

The chorus obviously enjoyed singing "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen," and the ex cathedra number, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," a rondo which is both amusing for its lyrics and catching in its melody.

Because of the pressure of other Christmas activities, Mr. Dubbert wisely planned a concert of 75 minutes, and because of the difficulty in changing and scene and costume, there was precious little left for the band music proper. What there was was a pure delight, and left this reviewer thoroughly overcome by the power and appeal of the sacred message. Especially was this true in The Holy City, where the trumpet and brass sections particularly showed through with a fine, assertive tone, punctuating the music while simultaneously supporting the melody.

Mr. Dubbert himself arranged the saxophone quarter's number, "O How Joyfully the Beautiful Savior," which presented four young musicians in a traditional Christmas number. The tone of the alto saxophones was genuine. It sang forth clearly without shrillness, and there was no particular readiness of tone, while the careful support of the tenor saxophone showed that Miss Cornell has achieved a very high level of perfection with that instrument and will one day become a very fine musician.

In the "Jingle Bells Fantasy," Mr. Dubbert brought back a delightful tradition, if only three years' standing may be called such. He presented a number from last year's program, one which showed all the sections of the band in a delightful, semi-comic burlesque of the traditional Jingle Bells music.

During the intermission, the band president, Miss Postema, presented on behalf of her colleagues in the band and chorus a Christmas remembrance to the director. It is such performances as this one that reassure the parent that money well and wisely spent will give emphasis to cultural movements in the public schools and at the same time afford a joyful and pleasant means to combat those influences seeking to destroy our youth.

Mrs. Bruce Installed As Worthy Matron

Mrs. Lavina Bruce was installed as worthy matron of Plymouth Chapter No. 231, Order of Eastern Star, in impressive ceremonies in the lodge rooms Dec. 15.

George Ellis was installed as Mrs. Bruce's worthy patron. The hall was decorated in the Christmas motif and bouquets were presented to the new worthy matron and other officers.

Other officers installed were Mrs. Pauline Condon, associate matron, and Carl V. Ellis, associate patron; Mr. Carl V. Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Velma Vanderpool, treasurer; Mrs. Lincoln Sprowles, conductress; Mrs. James Ryan, associate conductress; Mrs. Theora Kennedy, chaplain.

Also, Mrs. Lather R. Fetters, organist; Mrs. Hugh Washburn, Adah; Mrs. H. James Root, Esther; Mrs. Mary Day, Martha; Mrs. Robert Fogelson, Electa; Mrs. Edith Kessler, warder; Mrs. Donald Fetters, singing; and Mrs. Maybelle Stewart, prompter.

Mrs. Zella Carter was introductory officer, Mrs. Stewart installing officer, and Mrs. Floss Hollenbaugh, Ritznah Chanter No. 153, and Mrs. Martha McBeth, were installing marshals.

Other installing officials were Mrs. Edith Rose, chaplain; Mrs. R. Earl McQuate, conductress; Mrs. Myrtle Davison, organist, and Mrs. George Ellis, warder.

Santa Sees 200 Kiddies

Some 200 children were entertained by Santa Claus (Dominick Dorion) and Plymouth volunteer firemen, Order of Mechanics and Elmer Parsel Post No. 447, American Legion, in Legion hall Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Santa made two or three tours around the Square in the fire apparatus with sirens screaming and repaired to the hall to distribute gifts.

Drove Too Closely, Pays $25, Costs

For his part in the collision which wrecked Howard A. Biller's sedan in front of his home in Trux street Dec. 14, Harold A. Hurst, Mansfield, paid $25 fine and costs in the court of Acting Mayor Royal W. Eckstein Monday night. The charge was "following too closely."

Quentin Ream paid $2 fine on a charge of parking all day in a restricted zone in front of the post office.

Postmaster Claude Sourwine and all the postal employees wish to express their appreciation to the many patrons of the local office who separated and tied their Christmas cards. This greatly simplified the work in the office... and also a special thanks to Mr. Fred Blackford for the very fine box of apples which he left at the office.

Polio Shots Slated Here Again in 1955

Another six months must pass before Ohioans will be apprised of the results of the polio vaccine injections given last spring to 17,000 Ohio School children in the test program by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, according to Richard L. Kroesen of Cleveland, Ohio chairman of the March of Dimes campaign.

Mr. Kroesen reported at year's end the polio attack rate in Ohio was approximately 19 per cent higher than the rest of the nation in 1954 — during which time the number of cases reported across the country was the third highest on record.

Ohio also had a high polio attack rate in 1952, when 5333 cases were reported. That figure was higher, by nine per cent, than the national average. It is impossible, Mr. Kroesen pointed out, to predict when and where polio epidemics will strike, which underlines the need for effective control measures.

According to Mr. Kroesen, the evaluation of the Salk vaccine is now in progress, and announcement of the results of the test will not be made until spring.

Half of the 17,000 Ohio children were inoculated with the Salk vaccine, and then to provide comparison (and so no one would know who had the vaccine) half were inoculated with placebo, an innocuous substance substituted for the vaccine.

Reaction of those with the vaccine and those with placebo will be compared before the tests are complete.

Vaccine will be available next spring to all Ohio first and second graders, Mr. Kroesen reported, as well as to second, third and fourth graders in Montgomery and Richland counties who did not receive the vaccine in the field trials last spring.

Taking a calculated risk on the eve of another March of Dimes campaign, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has ordered $9,000,000 worth of Salk vaccine readied for use in the spring. This order for vaccine is one of the reasons the National Foundation will be seeking $64,000,000 next month.

During 1954 the National Foundation granted epidemic aid advances of $470,050 to 35 of the 88 chapters in Ohio, those chapters receiving the advances had exhausted their treasuries in paying for patient care.

With "it's a bigger job now" as their watchword, all Ohio chapters of the National Foundation are poised to conduct successful March of Dimes campaigns in January.

Adding impetus to the March of Dimes will be the first organized effort among teen-agers to raise funds. Miss Jeri Sauer, a senior at Wilmington High school, is Ohio chairman of TAP (Teens Against Polio). These youth groups are planning activities to raise funds which they will contribute to the local March of Dimes campaign.

STAMBAUGH SPEAKS

John F. Stambaugh, East Main street, who is Celeryville's largest potato grower and a member of the Celeryville Conservancy District board was a speaker at the convention of the Iowa State Vegetable Growers association at Mason City, Ia., last week.

His subject was water conservancy. Mr. Stambaugh also addressed the Farm Bureau convention at Columbus.

Mrs. Brown's Mother Dies After Illness

Mother of Mrs. Luther Brown, formerly of Plymouth, Mrs. Cecilia Sherbundy died in Willard Municipal Hospital Dec. 11 after an illness of several months. Mrs. Sherbundy was the wife of Homer F. Sherbundy, and lived in Willard all her life except for a residence of 10 years in Bellevue. She was 65.

A member of St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church, the Altar and Rosary society, Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Catholic Ladies club of Columbia, Euchre club, Navy Mothers club and the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Sherbundy is survived by two sons, Joseph F. of Bucyrus and Robert W. Green Bay, Wis., two brothers, Edward T. Schreiner of Willard and Henry J. Schreiner of Astuz, Cal., and a sister, Mrs. Clara Chaplik of Willard, in addition to her husband and daughter.

Funeral rites were conducted by the Rev. F. J. Mehlung at 9 a.m. Dec. 15 in St. Francis Xavier church.

Christmas Poems Left by Poets For Survivors

"The Hereafter," wrote Henry David Thoreau, "is the memory of the dead that is retained by the living. Good memories are the same as Heaven, and had memories the same as Hell."

This being the case, there is small doubt but that Carrie Elizabeth Lanius, who died Oct. 16, has passed to a Greater Reward.

Because her friends and kin-folk are receiving this Christmas a small excerpt of some poetry which she left among her effects, poetry which she composed and laboriously set to paper. It is poetry that speaks eloquently of her life-long devotion to the true spirit of Christmas and the meaning of the Christ-child's birth.

And, in another eight-line verse, she speaks of death and the Beyond, in a strong and fervent appeal for the good life. The verse was written Oct. 13, 1953, perhaps when she had a premonition of the death that was to come to her a year and three days later.

"Give not today for me, I pray, That I have gone away
My earthly house was shadow cast
And for the home beyond I longed."

My earthly house has closed its heart
To be of dust and clay apart.
At a door ajar, my soul has knocked for the good life.

For this is the way to Eternal Life.
In the Christmas poem written Dec. 26, 1940, which she titled "A Christmas Meditation," she writes:

"When Christmas trees smile forth at me
Through frosty window panes,
I see the Christ-child's face near by,
And in my soul, nae relops,
When Christmas voices reach my ear

In Christmas carols gay,
I hear the angels softly sing
"Peace on the earth today,
Oh, I have lived within a world,
Where love from hate must run,
But somewhere in another world,
I'll find that love has won."

Miss Lanius was the sister of John Lanius, retired Plymouth and New Washington undertaker, whose wife, Mrs. Mabel Lanius, is on leave of absence as principal of Plymouth High school.

Wed 40 Years

Parents of Mrs. Gerald Caywood, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Lybarger of Shelby celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with a family dinner at Bellevue Dec. 17. Their three daughters, Mrs. Chester Troxell, Mrs. John Crum, Jr. of Shelby, and Mrs. Caywood, with their husbands and children accompanied them.

Later in the evening they returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Troxell to open the remembrances received from their friends. Their daughters gave them an anniversary clock.

Kindergartners Offer Christmas Program

Kindergartners of Mrs. H. H. Fackler ended their first term Friday with a gift exchange, party, and short program. Mothers, grandmothers, and smaller brothers and sisters were the honored guests at the youngsters' celebrated Christmas. On Dec. 14, James Kleer gave a birthday party for his sixth birthday and later in the week the morning group was treated to Christmas cookies by Douglas Beeching, Carol Farnwalt and Wendy Lee Ross.

On Friday, special treats were given by Nancy Sloan and Leslie Louise Henry of the afternoon group, and the morning was treated by Bonnie Jo Lasch.

Kindergarten will probably reconvene Jan. 24, Mrs. Fackler says.

Plymouth High school band and mixed chorus will report to the elementary school at 9 a.m. today to give a Christmas concert. Robert L. Dubbert will direct.

Sawyers Like Ladina Clover

John Sawyer will observe next month his 84th birthday. Some 74 of them have been spent on the farm in Sawyer road - named for his father - near Tiro which his family has held in fee simple for nearly 125 years.

The Sawyers have been successful farmers on the 80 acre farm (it was 160 acres, but their son, Dwight, farms the other half) because they weren't afraid of change. At least, that's their explanation. "I was one of the first around here to go alfalfa," says blue-eyed, vigorous John Sawyer. "A farmer who doesn't go to alfalfa is crazy. Many of them don't like it because they have to make hay so many times. Why, goodness sakes, hay at $30 a ton is money in the bank, and it's in short supply right now."

The Sawyers made three cuttings of hay on a piece of alfalfa this past year, and that which is stored in their loft is helping to feed eight milkers this winter. But the big livestock investment on the farm is in 80 head of Shropshire sheep, a breed which Mr.

Sawyer favors because "they're a sturdy lot, feed well, and are easy to take care of."

His sheep and lamb crop this year did better than any previous one. The reason? "I figure it was some of that Ladina clover that I planted. It doesn't grow but about three or four inches high, and those sheep have been on it all year except for the past two weeks. They've certainly done well."

He's considering the sowing of some birds foot trefoil on another piece come spring. The 65th since he's been an active farmer on the place, and will watch how it turns out. "I've always been willing to try something new," modestly admits the veteran Crawford county farmer. His place shows it.

Any regrets? "I've the years?" "Yes, we some regrets. It's a shame they weren't taking pictures like yours when there were log cabins and such on these farms. Why, we had a log cabin on this farm that the folks lived in while this house was being built. The house went up in 1856."

Farm land in the area is increasing in value, Mr. Sawyer finds. "A farm just beyond us, 188 acres of it, went for $300 an acre here a few weeks ago, with possession in the spring. That's a pretty good price for farm land."

The Sawyer farm has a seven-acre woodlot, not very productive in ready cash, and about 11 acres of permanent pasture. The rest of the ground goes into grain crops in rotation. This year, about ten acres of wheat were seeded. One innovation which Mr. Sawyer didn't go for, although it wasn't because he didn't believe in it, was an electric milking machine. At 85, he still milks morning and night, but he can see how much it ties one down.

"The milking machine makes good sense, and we should have got it 20 years ago. It's a little too late now," he says. Mrs. Sawyer was baking Christmas cookies, and the reporter got two on his way out, along with a cheery "Merry Christmas" and a cheery "Merry Christmas" and a Rollo McBride, the man who meets the mail trains, is preparing to shake off the shivers that have been besetting him while waiting out along the tracks for the mail trains to appear.

He's erecting 10 by 12 portable shack on village property just north of the Quality Coal & Supply Co. The frame work and rafters are already up when completed, he can sit warm and snug inside and let the north winds whistle.

The Mansfield Asphalt Co., under the direction of village council, began Friday improving alley approaches and patching streets in the village.

The hole in Delaware street, caused by a leaking water line last spring, has been patched and asphalt approaches laid in Narrow street and the alleys between Church and Cleveland streets.

Still to be done is similar work in Walnut and High streets.

Shiloh Village council which meets regularly on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month, will hold a special meeting Wednesday night for the purpose of cleaning up the year's business. Mayor Robert Moser states that anyone with bills outstanding should present them at this meeting.

A chimney burning out in the brick home of Grayson Boor in the Richards road southwest of town resulted in a run by the Shiloh fire department at 8:30 a.m. Friday. No damage resulted.

Mrs. Carrie Shukers, who has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Kendig, at their home in West Main street for the past two weeks, returned to her home in Elvria Monday. Mrs. Kendig motored her up and also visited Lorain on the trip.

Yeoman 2nd class Ted Ernst of Washington, D. C., arrived in Shiloh Saturday night to spend a week's leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ernst, at the Shiloh Inn.

There's a free year's subscription to The Advertiser for the reader who reports a telephone call on Christmas day from the farthest distance.

How to win it? Merely call Clyde Caldwell, Shiloh correspondent, before noon, Monday, with the details. He's the sole judge.

The Shiloh Junior High basketball team came to life in the last half to pour in 28 points and blast Woodville, 44 to 33, in a game played on the latter's court Dec. 15.

Shiloh trailed at the end of the first quarter, 7-5, and at the half, 19-16.

Milford Williams of Shiloh connected for 15 points for game honors and Dick Bookwalter for 12.

Indians Scalp Locals As Cubs Claw Shiloh

After holding a vaunted Union High five to a 27 to 27 tie at half time, Plymouth's Pilgrims were unable to get their offense going here Friday night and dropped their fourth straight Richland County league contest, 63 to 48.

At that, it was Plymouth's best scoring night of the young season. John Fox dumped in 25 points to lead the scorers of both sides, but it was the more consistent shooting and the deadly passing of the Union quintet that paid off.

Tony Stipp had 17 markers and Ed Racer got 19 to lead the Indians. By winning, Union grabbed second place in the league standings.

Yellow Jackets Down North Fairfield, 62-56

New Haven's Yellow Jackets snapped out of a slump and downed North Fairfield in a Huron-Erie County league game Friday night, 62 to 56.

Wayne Robinson led the Yellow Jackets with 27 points, and Bob Newmeyer had 19. New Haven romped off to a good lead in the first eight minutes and never was headed.

The "bonus" free throw, to our way of thinking, is anathema to sound basketball from the school-boy standpoint. The Old Timer has been a licensed basketball official for a good many years, and has officiated at a good many games, independent, scholastic and collegiate, over the years, and notes that seldom has a year passed without a major change in the rules. The changes have merely served to hop up a game that was already hopped up enough, especially for schoolboys.

When they look away the center jump, they took away a lot of basketball. But the trouble is, when basketball without the center jump is played cleanly, it is a smooth and fast game, worthy of the support of every fan. Not very often, however, will you find such a game. The pressure on winning invited violation of the spirit of the game.

The result is intentional fouling to gain possession of the ball, or the sacrificing of one point to get two.

The center jump was eliminated, says Oswald Tower, the guy who's in charge of the rules, to make it easier for teams which hadn't the six-foot, six-inch goon center. Height is an advantage, no two ways about it, but nowadays practically everybody has one or more tall boys except the small schools.

Whether the rulesmakers cared to admit it or not, what they were doing was speeding up the game to increase the scores, and thus add to its sales appeal, and thus make the cash register ring.

The fact that the great body of boys to whom basketball could be a worth while extra-curricular activity are discriminated against because of their lack of height in the speeded-up game apparently didn't mean much to them.

Basketball admittedly had slowed down. Coaches had introduced the zone about 50 years ago, notably in the far west, where it was known as the fine-man defense. And the counter-action to it, the freeze, was what slowed basketball down. Once you got a lead over a team, you hung on to the ball, and that was that. The defense gathered underneath the basket, and the offense played catch with the ball at mid-floor. It was dull. The fans wanted action.

Some such change as was eventually written into the rules would have stopped the practice, but the rulesmakers would have none of it. Now look what's happened. The game has grown out of hand. A team thinks nothing of making 100 points a game. And the fouls are ridiculous. Once four forced you out of the game. No more. You get five, and in the pro game, six. When two teams all hopped over winning get to it, the last five minutes of a close contest are no more than a trading of fouls.

We wouldn't have the rules go back to the center jump. It's too late for that. But it would do no harm to write something into the rules about the right spirit of the game, and penalize the team—and the coach—which violates it. It's a sport, with some scoring in it to make it interesting, and it's useful for young lads growing up. But like now it runs some schools, like one we wouldn't have to throw a rock very far to hit, and it has developed a serious professional coach who has a patented system that he worships and forces his boys to worship without regard for the development of their personalities, their physiques or their studies.

Christmas Programs Given by Churches

Plymouth churches observed Christmas Sunday with special programs as the village marked its 139th Christmas.

Mrs. Willard Ross, organist, played the prelude at the Methodist church, following which the congregation sang "Angels From the Realms of Glory." The Rev. T. M. Sheesley read the Christmas story from St. Luke and children of the nursery and primary departments depicted the nativity scene, singing "Away in a Manger."

Primary pupils sang "A Song in the Air and a Star in the Sky" with the church lights dimmed, and juniors presented a tableau showing how Christmas is observed in other lands. They sang, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "A Joyous Christmas Song" and "Lullaby of Jesus" were sung by the church choir.

Services at First Presbyterian church Sunday evening were opened by the singing of "Joy to the World", whereupon Carol Jo Cunningham played a solo on the organ and Diane Cunningham gave a reading called "God Bless the Little Things".

David Armstrong sang "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and the primary department sang "O Little Town of Bethlehem". Kathy Willet followed with a poem, "Christmas Day".

Judy Fetters and Cheryl Faust sang a duet, "We Would See Jesus" and Jerry Willet gave "A Boy's Day Before Christmas". Alice Armstrong followed with a song, "The Friendly Beasts".

Cheryl Faust played "Silent Night" on the accordion, and Beverly Lynch gave a reading, "The Legend of the Skinniest Tree". Judy Fetters played "The Star's Light Waltz" on the piano and Sue Weaver presented a Christmas story, "The Yule Log".

Mrs. Raymond Willer sang "O Holy Night", a clear and sensitive rendition of the old French carol.

The junior department then presented a playlet of the birth of Jesus, the congregation joined in singing "O Come All Ye Faithful" and Santa Claus distributed treats to the children.

The program at First Evangelical Lutheran church was as follows: Song, Mr. Cashman's class "There's a Song in the Air".

Piano solo, "Hallelujah chorus," "Evering Star," Carol Sloan Welcome Daniel Shields

Recitation, "A Christmas Hymn," Stephen Morrison Recitation, "A Little Child Once Came to Earth"

Exercise, "We Love Him" Recitation, "Menders," Gerald Riddle

Mrs. Garrett Injured As Sedan Overturns

Mrs. Willard Garrett was painfully but not seriously injured Sunday morning when the sedan which she was driving south on Route 61 skidded at the Steuben-Fairfield crossing and overturned.

She was removed to Willard Municipal hospital with a back injury. Her son was not hurt.

Sunshiners Donate $10 to TB Fund
A donation of $10 to the Richard County Tuberculosis fund was voted by members of the Sunshine club when they met Thursday with Mrs. Gayle Cobb, Shelby route 3.

Eighteen members were in attendance for the gift exchange and covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Zeno Hurd was in charge of the business meeting.

The family Christmas party will be held Wednesday at the Hazel Grove Grange hall. Supper will be served at 7 p.m.

Hostess for the Jan. 20 meeting will be Mrs. John Adams, with Mrs. Carl Waldruff, Mrs. John Eckstein, and Mrs. Harry Dawson as assistant hostesses.

Miss Cook Fetes Girl Scout Troop
Barbara Cook entertained her Girl Scout troop at a Christmas party Saturday evening. There were 12 members and guests present with Mrs. Charles Pugh to enjoy an evening of dancing. The Cook basement had been decorated by the members of the troop following the Christmas colors and theme.

Refreshments of Christmas cookies and candies were served to the group at the end of the evening.

Miss Virginia Fenner, 88 West Broadway, is spending the Christmas holidays at 2581 Idlewood road, Cleveland, with relatives.

Library Decorations

A collection of Christmas cards with Santa Claus in all poses, which belongs to the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pitzen, is one of the highlights of the Plymouth branch library's Christmas display.

The cards have been arranged in the small show case in the children's room with small boots, sleds, and reindeer by Mrs. George Hershiser.

Mrs. Hershiser made a real Santa Claus and a reindeer for the mantle in the primary room, and over the mantle in the adult reading room is an angel set upon a dark blue background.

Christmas is for everyone!

For the young, for the old, for the timid, for the bold, Christmas is for all. Yes, all of us are as one on this happiest of happy holidays. A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to you.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

Last Santa Call Telegraphed

(Ed. Note: Santa Claus received some belated letters, which have been put on the night wire to the North Pole. A few writers omitted their names, but Santa promises to try to find them.)

Dear Santa:
Would you please bring me a doll buggy, a baby, baking set, beads, clothes.

Dear Santa:
I would like a cowboy suit for Christmas. Also a tractor and a corn picker and a plow. I like school and go every day. I have been a good boy and please bring me these things.

Dear Santa:
I would like to come to the North Pole to see you sometime. I want a cowgirl suit, a record player, a doll that walks and talks and a paint set.

I have tried to be a good girl. Please remember all little boys and girls.

Ruth Ann Patton
36 Mills Avenue

Dear Santa:
I have been a good boy! Do you think you could bring me a two-wheel bike, something nice to play with in the house, and a cowboy suit with boots if you got my size? Remember Tom and Bob too! I go to school this year. I am in the first grade.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am in the first grade and have been a good girl. Only when my brothers tease me I take my own part.

Please bring me a white rocking horse, skates, and a J. Fred Muggs monkey. Also remember all other boys and girls all over the world. I will leave you something to eat. Merry Christmas.

Dear Santa:
I am a good boy. Please bring me some stick paints, radio station, Robert the Robot, remote control fire engine and a submarine. If you do not have toys just bring me anything you do have. Thank you.
Danny Shields

Library Announces Christmas Books To Suit Taste of Every Holiday Reader

Plymouth branch library is stocked for the Christmas season with reading material to suit the needs of all of its patrons. Forty-eight new titles have been added this month.

Current best sellers top the list for adult reader. Favorite mystery story writers like Francis and Richard Lockridge, who are well known for their Mr. and Mrs. North series, are listed. In the non-fiction group, Ralph Izzard's "An Innocent on Everest" and "The American Woman's New Encyclopedia of Home Decoration" are new reading material. Izzard's book is the latest of the group written about the historic ascent of Mt. Everest.

The juvenile fiction is sprinkled with popular children's writers and illustrators. "Little Wu and the Watermelons" by Beatrice Liu was awarded the Charles W. Follett prize for juvenile fiction.

The books available are: "No Tears for Christmas," Helen Topping Miller; "A Key to Death," Frances and Richard Lockridge; "Blow the Wind Southerly," D. E. Stevenson; "The Lost General," Elsworth Thane; "The Flint Anchor," Sylvia Townsend Warner; "The Family Book of Best Loved Short Stories," Master Storytellers; "Shroud of Darkness," E. C. R. Lorac; "A Kid for Two Farthings," W. O. H. Mankowitz; "Blow All Boat," Kenneth Dodson; "Troubled Border," Peter Piper; "Roman Wall," Winifred Bryher; and "He Went for a Walk," Dorothy Evelyn Smith, all adult fiction.

Also, "The Midget Raiders," C. E. T. Warren and James Benson; "The Gentle House," Anna Per-rott Ross; "The Love Letters of Phyllis McGinley"; "The American Women's New Encyclopedia of Home Decoration"; "Your Dating Days"; "Looking Forward to Happy Marriages"; Paul H. Landis; "Rebel Rose"; Ishbell Ross; "Folk Party Fun"; Dorothy Gladys Spicer; "An Innocent on Everest"; Ralph Izzard; "Reach for the Sky"; Paul Brickhill; and "The Stars at Noon"; Jacqueline Cochran, all adult non-fiction.

If He Knows . . .

A little girl named Virginia once asked a New York newspaper, now regretably deceased, if there is a Santa Claus. She became famous because the reply echoed the four corners of the earth, an emphatic "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

We sometimes wonder, when we look at the bills coming in, why there should be a Santa Claus, but good sense prevails after a time and we realize that without Santa Claus we wouldn't be very much.

Not the fictional character who is depicted in a red suit with a flowing beard and a cherry-like nose. The Santa Claus who is the spirit of giving. Because if we couldn't give, if we didn't have that little something that prompts us to rise above the meanness and miserableness that are normal in human lives, we might just as well perish.

There is a little lady in a far-off city who taught us that Santa Claus is the spirit of giving. Even when we were roaming around in our Doctor Dentons. And the little gimmick (she called it a "trick") to it is that when you don't even think of getting a word of thanks, when you don't even give though to the custom of being thanked for what you give, then you really know Santa Claus. You see him as plain as day.

And, as that lady often said (we presume she still says it, to her brood of 35 youngsters), "God knows." Yes, God knows. He knows what we do and why we do it. Thanks are not especially important when He knows.

Juvenile Delinquents, Again

The arrest of 11 teen-age boys in Willard is surprising only in that Willard is a community which has an unusual number of facilities to amuse and interest young people. Or, at least, facilities of the type that amused us when we were young.

We suspect that is the crux of the trouble. Young people today are easily bored with what is offered to them in the way of entertainment. Not everybody can punt, pass or run with a football, or strike out a side with a dozen pitches. Outside of sports, just what is there?

Libraries - and Willard has a good library - are unpopular. Kids who read are laughed at. Social dancing seems dull unless there is liquor to make it less so. Beyond the age of 14, the Boy Scouts don't seem to have the attraction they had for us when we were young.

Extra-curricular activities in the public schools are good, when there are enough of them, and when there are enough teachers to supervise them. Not everybody, as we've said, can play on the varsity. But everybody can play. We think one answer to the juvenile delinquency problem is to keep them tired. We mind how we trained a battalion of "goof-offs" during the war. We never gave them an opportunity to "goof off." We kept them tired, and we never gave any passes to get to town to "goof off."

It seemed that the war warranted it. But the war in which we are now engaged - that against juvenile delinquency - is no less serious. Perhaps equally serious methods are required.

Of one thing we are certain. Juvenile delinquency derives from the home. It will get worse before it gets better. A small number of parents and interested people is going to have to carry the burden for the great mass of those who don't care a damn.

Intra-mural athletics in the schools, which will take up the time and energy of every boy and girl whether he likes it or not, and some form of physical activity during the summers - the same principle of keeping them tired - is the best step, we think, toward solving the juvenile delinquency problem. We must keep them tired for a period long enough to enable them to acquire the reason and good sense that we had - we mean our contemporaries had - when we were young.

Editor Sends His Special Christmas Card

At Yuletide it becomes us much
To wish a good wish, luck and such,
To friends and kin both far and near,
To make a toast of Christmas cheer.

So here's a wish to Earl McQuate,
Let's hope it won't be too late,
And one for Mr. Eckstein, Royal,
To whom the council is most loyal.

And a thought for Police Chief Bob
From him we have nothing to rob,
A wish for Miles out West Broadway
A Christian gent in every way.

To the Roots, Bill, Tom and Jim,
And Paul, John F. and him
Who next, the railway resides,
John A., and Percy H. besides

To Reverends Sheesley and R. M. Felix
Whose work for God can stand good licks,
And the Millers, Beryl, Bill and Roger
And to Bill, the Cramers' good lodger

To the Bachrach's and brother Myers
(With hopes of many cattle buyers),
To Red McPherson (and a special hey nonny-nony)
To his wife and their charming Bonnie)

A Christmas thought of peace and joy,
To Willie Moore, our special boy
And to Carl Ellis and his wife
The best holiday of their life.

A cup of nog from our kitchen
To Elmer Markley, who's just itchin'
To get to Florida where it's hot,
He's got more time than we have got.

For the Fetterses, all merry six,
And to L. R. and wife, pick up sticks,
How many of them we've got around,
This town with them certainly does abound.

For Chick and Orva and Fred, only three
Of the Dawsons who'll be on a spree
At holiday time; and for friend Harry Shutt
To Sid Myers and his friendly mutt.

A merry seasonal Christmas note,
For the tribe of BeViers we tote
A jug of cheer, and to J. Eldon Nimmons
A hope he'll continue to hit like Simmons.

For the Cunninghams, two Guys and Jim,
Who tackle their duties with much vim,

A thought for the Buckeyes and the roses,
That they won't get punched in their noses.

A hope that Christmas and our water
Will fill Roy Evans' heart like it ought'er
And he will realize we bear him no malice
But would like to be as nice as Alice.

To the man who caters, genial gent,
And toward the Indians has a bent
The hope that for Mr. Cornell
The Cleveland team will go like . . .

For our grocer friends, Koser and Caywood
And for Harold Mack we would
A ask of the best at Christmas send,
Their tired hearts and legs to mend.

To Carl Lofland and wife who bowl,
The wish their team will not be in a hole.
And for the teachers, and Fred and Coon
A joyful Christmas carol tune.

To the Board that controls the water and lights
The best of all the Christmas sights,
The tree in the Square that came from Willet
Won't hurt them any, will it?

For the Diningers, Porky and our friend Jud
A wish that spring will be free of mud,
With plenty of cars with gas to fill,
And lots of money in the till.

Not to mention Kessler, Bob,
Who on 61 raises hob
With Sunday traffic, and with a smile
Sends you on your way a mile

Or more, and to shoe man, Mr. Cashman
And brother Earl, another cash man
A special Christmas card of holly,
And to the Lashes, men most jolly.

To Wechters Bob and Bill, friends John and Wade
We wish a Christmas table laid
With all the good things, and to George Carlier
A very Happy Bright New Year.

A happy Christmas from your friend Pete
With him you're very hard to beat,
And with no attempt to make an apology
Let's close it all with this doxology

A Merry Christmas to all, and to all
Good Night

Around the Square

— By Phineas Whittleseed —

Clyde Caldwell at Shiloh tells us about 100 local hunters of foxes turned out here Dec. 12 to track the varmints down. They saw lots of tracks, but saw a fox. The first roundup was just south of Leo Swank's farm, and the second at the rear of John Heiffner's off Bowman Street road, while the third was off Route 603 near Garrett Frisbee's. The same crowd had a pre-Christmas hunt Sunday, as well.

Joe Burre figures that for a fast trip to Florida, his son, Don, and his pal, "Flower," take the cake. They hitched a ride in an Air Force thing that got them to Pensacola in a few hours and back in about the same time. Think of it: Friday night, home; Saturday night, in the Bucket of Blood at Pensacola; Sunday night, home.

The ceremony at Wilkins Air Force depot was one we nearly missed (and we could ill afford four hours out of a busy press day) but it was an enlightening experience all the same. To see that vast building, costing well over $5 million, potatoes out of your pocket and mine, was an experience we shan't soon forget. First thought: what a dandy place to have a roller skating party.

One of the points that he told us that when the Air Force gets the do-re-mi, they plan to build another warehouse more or less like this one.

Anyway, thanks to Colonel Whitaker and his staff for a good time, an educational tour, and a delicious meal.

Friends and neighbors will have their eye on Bob Thornton, the Willard boy who plays his last game in Buckeye livery in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1. His brother, lawyer Ken, tells us he leaves Dec. 26 to drive out there. Good luck, friend.

And speaking of Buckeyes, J. Cunningham razzes us that since we came to Ohio and rooted, respectively, for the Yankees, the Giants (football, that is) and the Hawkeyes, the Indians, the Browns and the Buckeyes have copped the bacon. 'Ats all right pal, we can take it. And watch us dish it out next fall when the shoe is on the other foot.

Friend of ours has just had twin kiddies. Good luck to him. He'll need it. Never heard of anybody famous who was a twin. And as long as you're raising a kid these days, why not a president, a hero, a statesman, or what-have-you?

This seems as appropriate a place as any to say how grateful is the conductor of this column for the many services performed for him, sometimes when he hadn't the nerve to ask for them, during the past seven months by P. W. and Mrs. P. W. Thomas. Anyway, this first Christmas in 30 when they haven't the responsibilities of getting a paper out hanging over their heads. Phin and all of Phin's folks wish the Thomases the best that He can bring them, at Christmas or any time.

And while we're about it, a special thank you to T. Riordan, the genial edito-publisher at Greenwich, without whose helpfulness we couldn't have made it. Finally, to Carl Stantman and his staff at the Globe in Shelby, another big thank you, and a special Christmas wish to each.

One of our Christmas wishes, that we hope S. Claus bears, is that the roadway over the bridge in T. six street will get fixed, pronto. Our springs are suffering.

Mrs. Curpen kindly trapped over in the rain the other p.m. to inform us that Mittens, our de-be-dabby, was in trouble. Seems he had climbed up under the springs of a car and was last seen heading south out of town, a captive passenger. Thanks, Mrs. C. Hope the darned one learns one lesson: miss where he likes, but NOT UNDER MY BED.

Interesting piece called to our attention by our favorite redneck from a Michigan NEWSPAPER telling what a NEWSPAPER is and what a NEWSPAPER should do. Thanks, cherie, that's what we're doing, following that advice. It's not a paper, it's a NEWSPAPER.

Seeing all those generals at Shelby the other day reminded us that we have one with us all the time, general repairs.

John Klemm, one of the more friendly fellers who comes in here, is Army bound. We wish him well.

Mrs. Phin says "thank you" to Marty Hampton, Jacques Bradford and Curly Lasch for their help in getting us moved. It was hard to quit Huron county, because it has certain advantages that cannot be matched in Richland county. But the requirements of space and the peace and comfort of a settled household necessitated the move. We are not sure that we want to move again, at least not by ourselves (it's easier to stand around with cigar and bottle and direct the movers), but when we do, it'll be like this last time: of our own accord, when we get darn good and ready, and for no other reason than that we want to try something else for a while.

Our Suzie asks if she can't have her birthday changed to some other time than just before Christmas. Claims she's being doodled out of some of the fun of a birthday. Sorry, kiddo, just can't arrange that. And, think, one day you'll be wanting to change your birthday to Feb. 29, so you'll have only one every four years. She was six Dec. 16. Ha; she should worry.

Our friend J. A. C. waggled her finger under our nose and screamed in a mild roar "Not on the front page, now!" and swept off to where she was soiled. Whereupon her wisser mama remarked that such an admonition - with us at least - is the surest way to insure that it will get on the front page.

Despite the corvy singing we'd heard from every radio and public address system for the past two weeks, we figured that dreaming wasn't necessary. Of Dec's Almanac resorted snow on the 22nd and snow on the 19th. He didn't miss it by much.

Anyway, if there'd just be a little more, the kids can go belly-buster down Beryl Miller's hill. He's generous with it, and with his woods but here's a tip: he'd appreciate if you'd be kind enough to ask first before you use.

Air Force Looking For Officers for Training At Wilkins Facility

Officials at Wilkins Air Force depot, today announced that a concerted effort is being made to recruit Air Force reserve officers for training at the local installation.

Training will be available in supply, procurement and production, comptroller and personnel. Opportunities are open for individuals who hold valid Air Force reserve commissions to apply for mobilization position enabling them to participate in training to maintain proficiency in their military specialties.

Depending upon the extent to which the reservist wishes to participate, he may be given a position as a mobilization assignee or a mobilization designee. As an assignee, the reservist must participate in at least five training periods of two to four hours during each three month period. Of the twenty periods a year the officer will be paid for twelve. In addition, each assignee is required to take one 15-day tour of active duty each year, for which he receives full pay and allowances. One point is awarded for each day of this tour.

As a designee, the reserve officer is required to earn only fifteen points a year. He may earn these points by attending training periods, participating in extension courses or being authorized a short tour of active duty. A small number of designees is authorized short tours each year depending upon the funds available. Designees are not eligible for inactive duty training pay.

Participating in the Reserve program enables reserve officers to qualify for retirement benefits. However, in order to receive credit toward retirement, the reservist must earn fifty points a year. Fifteen of these are awarded gratuitously. The other thirty-five must be earned by participating in the various point gaining activities.

The present policy permits qualified Department of Defense employees to participate in the USAF reserve program as mobilization assignees and to receive reimbursement for authorized training periods.

All interested and qualified individuals are encouraged to become affiliated with the Reserve Training Program. Interested reservists are requested to submit a letter to the Commander, Wilkins Air Force depot, attention MHATM, Shelby, Ohio, not later than Dec. 27, 1954 giving the following information: name, address, reserve grade, Air Force specialty code or position title and present position.

A meeting of eligible reservists is scheduled to be held at Wilkins Air Force Depot, at 8 p.m. Jan. 2, in the training room, Building F-100. Eligible reservists are invited to attend.

Harry V. Hills Dies In His Sleep at 67

A lifelong resident of Plymouth, 67-year-old Harry V. Hills was found dead in his quarters at 25 Plymouth street about midnight Friday by his physician. He had been under treatment at Willard Municipal hospital from Dec. 4 through Dec. 8. He would have been 68 Jan. 7.

Son of the late John and Della Hills of Plymouth, Mr. Hills is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Drew, Attica. He was a retired tinner, and belonged to Elmer-Parson Post No. 447, American Legion. Funeral services were conducted Monday at 1:30 p.m. from the McQuie Funeral home by the Rev. T. M. Sheesley, pastor of the Methodist church, with interment in Greenlawn cemetery.

Big New Warehouse Dedicated by Depot

Wilkins Air Force completely dedicated its recently formed $5 million warehouse Dec. 15.

Gen. Edwin M. Rawlings, commanding, Air Material command, accepted title to the building in a brief address.

The new warehouse is 2,000 by 400 feet with 15,200,000 gross cubic feet of interior. It consists of 10 bays, 400 by 200 feet, 23 feet and 11 inches high. Total cost of the building was $5,878,300. The entire construction is composed of reinforced concrete and is built in such a manner to prevent some movement or sway without cracking of the walls. The building contains a total of 1,372 tons of reinforced steel and 26,018 cubic yards of concrete. The roof is composed of 3 1/2 inch gypsum reinforced with wire mesh and steel I bars, two layers of roofing felt, one inch half of spun glass insulation, and three layers of felt covered with gravel on tar. It contains 3,016,000 pounds of gravel and 1-867,655 pounds of tar.

The last bay includes a mezzanine, with 8,000 square feet of office space. Indented loading docks on the south side permit freight handling in any weather. The railroad spur on the north side permits unloading of cars directly into the warehouse. The prime contract was let in 1952 to George Lathrop & Sons, Toledo. Lathrop was low bidder among the eight contractors who submitted bids. Construction began Jan. 5, 1953.

The building is heated from the installation's central plant. Peak manpower utilized during construction was a little over 300 men. A total of 32 modifications of the original work made during the construction. Approximately 49,000 tons of material will be stored in the new building which will include items of clothing as uniforms, shoes, special purpose clothing, personal flying clothing; individual equipment, such as duffel bags, and rubber materials including tires, rubber hose, etc.

The depot began moving material in the first three bays during November. The completion date for the transfer of material is March of 1955. The move is being accomplished by depot employees with the Roethlisberger Trucking Company having the contract for hauling.

It is estimated that during the first year, the new construction will realize a savings of over $3 million and approximately $700,000 annually in subsequent years. These savings take into consideration elimination of commercial storage and much of present outside storage; also included, are savings to be realized from the consolidation of material and reduced handling and operating costs. The cost of the building will be amortized in approximately five years.

It is the mission of Wilkins Air Force depot to procure, store and issue Air Force materiel in a world-wide basis. The depot, which is under the jurisdiction of the AMC, employs over 3,000 civilians, and has a military staff of approximately 33 officers. Civilian employees commute within a 50-mile radius. The depot occupies 485 acres of land, has over 6 miles of paved roads, 10 miles of railroads, 65 buildings, 3,356,000 square feet of storage space, 3 miles of powered conveyor and 22 miles of pneumatic tube. Besides clothing and rubber material, the depot handles approximately 33 other property classes, including flying field and hangar equipment, textiles, leathers, Air Force and Army publications, catalogues, text books and periodicals, blank forms, musical instruments, athletic and recreation equipment. Wilkins depot was activated in May, 1943.

Class to Be Begun

A home nursing class, which Plymouth women are invited to join, will begin in Shelby post office under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross early in January, it is announced by Mrs. Orne Foulton.

Christmas...

The magnificent promise of the Christmas story has inspired the dreams and prayers of men through the centuries. Wherever mankind kept to the spirit of brotherly love, there the meaning, the symbolic beauty of Christmas remained.

It is our fervent hope that this Christmas will bring us still closer to the fulfillment of the promise of Peace and Good Will in all lands. In this spirit we wish a Merry Christmas to all.

Bond Sales Up Over Last Year, Hand Says

Ohioans will have to invest approximately 42 million dollars in E and H Savings Bonds during December in order for the state to achieve its 1954 quota of $343,400,000 in the two bonds, Avery C. Hand, Jr. chairman, Richland county savings bond committee, said today, with announcement of November bond sales.

November investment in E and H Bonds in the state totaled $26,688,473, for a gain of 4.3 per cent over the same month last year, when purchases reached $25,567,367. Sales in November in Richland county amounted to $241,767 and compare to $266,150 sold in the same month of 1953.

Cumulative sales through November for the state were $301,659,595, or 87.8 per cent of the year's quota, Chairman Hand reported. Total sales in Richland county through November reached $2,886,105, or 75.7 per cent of its quota of $3,811,740.

If the state is to meet its responsibility to the national quota, greater effort must be expended in the new remaining days of 1954. He suggested that bond volunteers make positive that limit buyers of E and H Bonds have used their privilege for 1954, and recommend use of the two bonds as bonuses and Christmas presents. The individual limit on E Bonds is $15,000 issue price, and $20,000 on H Bonds.

Armstrongs Delight in Holiday Recipe For Delicious Raised Christmas Roll

A popular delicacy of the season at 166 Sandusky street is the Christmas roll made by the lady of the house, Mrs. John Armstrong.

The recipe:
 2 pugs-quick dry yeast
 2 cups milk (scalded and cooled to 80 degrees F.)
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 t. salt
 2 eggs
 7 cups flour (about)
 1/2 cup soft shortening (part butter)

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm milk, add sugar and salt, stir until dissolved. Add well beaten eggs. Sift flour once before measuring, and add all flour to milk mixture at once. Work it thoroughly with the hands. Then work in the soft shortening, knead gently until dough is smooth and elastic. Round up and set to rise in a well greased bowl. Cover with a damp cloth and keep warm until dough is double in bulk, at about 80 - 85 degrees F. for about two hours. Punch down, let rise again until double in bulk, about 45 minutes. Remove from bowl, knead light-

The Corporal Is Honored

Cpl. Joseph E. Haring of Mansfield, whose parents are well-known here, receives congratulations and a certificate of achievement in Germany from Maj. Gen. Richard C. Partridge, commanding general of the 8th Infantry Division. Corporal Haring, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haring, 1636 Lexington avenue, Mansfield, was commended for outstanding service as a regimental troop information and education specialist with 5th Division's 2d Regiment. A 1953 graduate of Ohio State university, he entered the Army in February, 1953, and arrived overseas in September of the same year.

Quick and Easy Shopper's Meal

Let's face it! This is the time of year the budget is apt to be pinched, and we may find that shopping takes longer than planned. But the family still has a hearty appetite and wants a good meal. A main dish that is a penny-saver, easy to fix, yet attractive and downright good eating is the answer.

| Deluxe Supper Casserole       |                    |
- 8 slices bread
 2 teaspoons butter, or margarine
 1 cup canned luncheon meat, chicken, tuna, or salmon
 1 small onion
- 1 lb. American cheese
 1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn
 3 eggs
 1 teaspoon salt
 2 cups milk
- Spread bread with butter and cut each slice into about six strips. Arrange a layer in bottom of an 8 x 12 oiled baking dish. Cut meat (or break fish) into bite size pieces. Put a layer of meat, chopped onion, grated cheese and corn over bread. Repeat layers. Beat eggs and add salt and milk. Pour over mixture in baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 to 35 minutes. Serve at once. Six servings.
- Tropical Shortcake: Mix a pound can of drained fruit cocktail with a diced banana and a cup of sweetened whipped cream. Cut a can of date nut bread into 12 thin slices. For each serving put fruit mixture between two slices and heaped on top. Six servings.
