Established 1853

★ P. W. Thomas, Editor

Published Every Thursday Morning and Entered in the Post Office at Plymouth, Ohio, as Second Class Mail Matter Under the Act of Congress, March 3, 1879

Our Postal Service Needs Your Cooperation

Did you get a letter along with your Plymouth Advertiser this morning? If you did, just hold up looking at the front page a minute or two, and give that letter a serious thought, especially if it was matted in some distant point like Texas or in the West Coast. Or, let us say for example that the letter you hold bears a postmark on it "Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, Feb. 25, 5 P. M." Columbus isn't too far away, about 90 miles, but when you stop to think that your letter was placed in a mail box at Columbus along with hundreds of thousands of other pieces of mail, then you no doubt wonder how anyone could sort out one single piece, put it in a bag, and have it delivered to your door the next morning. This meticulous method of dispatching mail goes on every day in the week, twelve months a year, and year after year.

Few of us in Plymouth give serious thought to the huge job our post office department is doing. We even sometime make a complaint because the mail man may be late or because we thought he didn't receive the letter we expected. Yet, if you could get the figures on how many pieces of mail that are moved in the United States daily, and the miles it travels, we'd have our heads in the clouds. Instead of throwing out criticism at the post office, but instead you'd wonder how it is done, and feel like giving them a little praise.

Much praise can be directed at Postmaster General Summerfield and his fellow-workers in the department at Washington, and this goes also to every postmaster in the country and all employees. They have all joined to give us a better and more efficient service at lower cost. There is a "revolution going on" within our postal service, not the shooting kind, but one that carries with it a progressive and better service to the people. Not only the patrons will benefit, but also the post office operating budget.

We can point out incidents involving the weekly mailing of The Advertiser, where the post office department has revised age-old rules which required that all copies of The Advertiser be taken to the local office, "weighed" and then delivered to the post office to be transported to nearby towns for distribution. In recent years we have worked into the wee hours of early morning to get the paper ready for the mail, and then we'd go home for a couple hours sleep only to get up around 6:30 to take the papers over to the post office and have them weighed, delivering them to nearby towns.

Then last Fall the Post Office Department issued a revised ruling allowing publishers to make direct deliveries to out-of-town post offices without having to "weigh in" the papers. So you see, if we finish the mail at 9:00 o'clock in the evening, we can jump in the car, make our deliveries, and then go home and get a good night's rest. This is just one of the many new things that have been instituted by postal authorities to save time and money not only for the publishers, but also for the post office department.

And yet, with all the effort put forth by postal employees, there is still much to be done, and there is much, too, the public can do to increase the efficiency of the postal service. One great habit we all have is that of holding back outgoing mail until around 5:00 P. M. Not Plymouth, so much, is guilty of this, but in most communities, especially in towns from 5,000 to 50,000 population, it has been a regular habit for years. There is a tendency in almost every large office or factory to hold up the mail until all the letters are in, and as a result this causes a grand rush. It would facilitate the handling of mail in all post offices if these letters were mailed two or three times a day, thus avoiding the last minute rush and taxing the skill and knowledge of postal clerks.

Plymouth can be well proud of its postmaster, Claude Soarwine, and his efficient staff of postal employees, including Don Einsel, Kenny Myers, Don Ford, Harry Postema, Don Akers, and Mr. Fredrick. Always courteous and helpful, they will patch your mail with great accuracy, and deliver your letters promptly. How the system works will never be fully understood by the public, but you are assured that the boys who print the little round black ring with the name of the town, date and hour, plus the cancellation mark on the stamp, know just what bag to toss it in, whether it's bound for the town next door or Yazoo, Miss. . . . they get the Plymouth Advertiser, which goes into the post office here on Wednesday nights, to a distant point like Anchorage, Alaska, on Saturday morning!

Yes, the postal employees and the department deserve a lot of praise—not only for their never-ending service, but for the many money-saving rulings they have brought into effect.

SOCIETY CLUB NEWS

Friendship Class Meets At Church, Feb. 16th
Despite the rainy night, twenty members and guests were present at the Friendship Class party held at the Methodist church on Tuesday evening Feb. 16th, with Mrs. Robert Mintier and Miss Jessie Cole hostesses.

Substituting for this wife, the Rev. Mr. C. R. Moskauer gave an impressive devotion and offered prayer. Jessie Cole presided at the business session. Bernice Morrow read the secretary's report and Alta McGiffin the treasurer's report. Routine business was cared for and money taken in from sale of products. Orders were taken for brooms, pine needles, and a cleaner and cards and everyone was asked to save coupons from Gold Medal flour.

Arrangements were made for a group of people to go to noon on Wednesday to see "The Robe". Iva Gleason was appointed to see that coat racks were secured for use in the Sunday School and social rooms.

Although the church addition is paid for, members of the Friendship class continue to be interested in church projects, both at home and abroad. In order to add an incentive to work, and also to have a good time, the class was divided into two groups, and each group much it can make by the June meeting. A pot luck dinner will then be given at the park with the losers furnishing dessert. Leaders for the contest are Ruth Shurt and Mabel McFadden.

A generous offering was received, after which Iva Gleason had charge of an interesting social time. Refreshments were served at a long table in the dining room with decorations suggesting St. Patrick's Day. A visiting period was enjoyed around the table as the members left to meet again on March 16th with Elizabeth Brooks, Hazel Anderson and Grace St. Clair as hostesses.

Visit In Plymouth And Shelby
On Saturday, Feb. 20th, Mrs. Correl Scott of Lodi and her mother, Mrs. Josephine Cole of North Fairfield, visited in the home of Miss Jessie Cole. At noon, Mrs. Scott entertained the group for dinner at Cornell's after which they drove to Shelby to the home of Mr. and Mrs. . . . daughter Sandra, who is convalescing satisfactorily from a recent appendectomy.

Mrs. Leottie Lynch Entertains Sunshine Club, Thursday
Mrs. Leottie Lynch was hostess Thursday when the Sunshine club met at her home south of town with Mrs. Milton Lynch, Jr., and Mrs. George Stroup as assistant hostesses.

A covered dish dinner was served at noon followed by the business meeting presided over by Mrs. John Eckstein.

The members voted to donate $5 to the March of Dimes and also sent cards to members who are in the hospital.

An interesting program planned by the two assistant hostesses was presented. Mrs. Milton Lynch, Jr., conducted a quiz on State government. Mrs. Gayle Cobb presented a poem "Valentine Gardens"; Mrs. George Stroup read from Lumm and Abner's Almanac for February. Mrs. Eckstein read an article on "Housecleaning"; Mr. Harry Stroup presented a poem, "Shopping List"; a game "Animal or Mineral" was played; a contest on "Angry Nations" was presented with the program closing with a contest on scrambled words from Washington, Lincoln and Valentine's Day.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Floyd Steele with Mrs. Veri Malone, Mrs. Fern Adams as assistant hostesses.

Attended Wedding On February 22nd
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pugh were guests at the wedding of Mr. Pugh's cousin, Miss Eva Jean Hopson, and Mr. James Hickman, both of Shelby. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hopson, of Shelby.

The wedding was in the Nazareth church of Shelby, Monday evening, Feb. 22. Another member of the wedding party known here was Miss Marjorie Pugh, who was one of the three bridesmaids, all of whom were cousins of the bride.

A reception was held in the Union Grange following the marriage ceremony. A beautiful wedding cake centered the buffet table. Mrs. Charles Pugh, of Plymouth, and Mrs. Sylvester Kemp, of Shelby, were bridesmaids.

The young couple received many lovely gifts. They will reside in Shelby after a wedding trip.

Mrs. Russell Robinson and children and Miss Evelyn Newmeyer of New Haven spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Berna Newmeyer and family.

Saturday evening, they attended the Lincoln Party sponsored by the organization of overworked conditions. Another number on the program was the history of the tent given in dialogue by Mrs. Thelma Fredericks and Mrs. Nana Malkus. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Catherine Taylor Class "The Greatest Faith" At Meeting
Mrs. Alta Briggs, who resides just south of town, entertained members of the Catherine Taylor Class of the Presbyterian Church at their February meeting, Tuesday last. She was assisted by Mrs. Gladys Vandervort.

In the absence of the devotional leader, an extensive devotional period in charge of Mrs. Norma Burkert was presented which included portions of scripture, and a hymn read by Mrs. Dick and song and concluded with prayer by Mrs. Felix.

This was followed by roll call, answered by a quotation from either Lincoln or Washington which proved very interesting and enlightening and then Mrs. Harold Sans read Edwin Markham's poem on Lincoln.

The second portion of the book "The Greatest Faith" by Fulton Oursler was given by Mrs. Gladys. The business session which took care of routine matters was followed by a recreation period and the serving of very nice refreshments by the hostesses.

Korean veterans who are interested in securing the benefits of the Institutional-on-the-farm training program under Public Law 550, should obtain application blanks from Mr. John Wells, County Agricultural Agent, at Norwalk and return the completed forms to Mr. Wells as soon as possible.

Copper Necessary In Good Plant Growth

Copper is one of the mysterious minor elements in plant nutrition — mysterious because it keeps its function in plant growth secret.

When copper is deficient, plants react with characteristic hunger signs, as is true of nitrogen, phosphorus or potassium. Its essentiality in plant growth was established in 1927. A pesticide dust including bordeaux mixture was applied to corn and cow peas growing in Fla. post. After two weeks the plants were growing well where the dust was applied, but those on untreated plots were dead. As a result, extensive experiments were conducted with 59 species of plants with various soil treatments including copper sulphate. Tremendous responses resulted from copper applications.

Copper deficiency symptoms vary with different plants, but might be generally described by the word "dieback." Tips of the plants are affected most seriously. They become distorted, shrivel and die. Copper deficiency was once very prevalent on citrus trees, small grains, vegetable crop growing in rock or peat soils; yield increases following copper applications in sweet corn have been reported in Wisconsin.

Within the plant, copper probably functions, at least in part, as a component of some of the complex growth-regulating substances called enzymes. It has been found that if copper is removed from these enzymes, they become inactive. Copper also seems to have a function in chlorophyll formation.

Very, very small amounts of copper are required by plants, and in home gardens readily recognized. Copper deficiency occurs, but is not common. It occurs in sweet corn, where 10 to 20 pounds of copper sulphate per acre is all that is necessary. Copper deficiencies are unlikely to occur in home gardens. MT. RANIER INSPIRING TO VISITORS FROM OHIO

We'd be willing to bet that when Lura Webber gets back to the old Square after her trip to the North-west, that she will have plenty of adventures to tell us about. Not the least would be the scenic beauty of Mt. Ranier, which she sends to us on a postal. "This mountain is visible on a clear day from our front door."

ible on a clear day from our front door."

Mrs. Webber is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. M. Ringer, at Seattle, Washington, and found the weather very fine. Primroses and camellias are in bloom. She also writes that a 45 minute ferry trip across Puget Sound takes them to the home of her niece, Mrs. Helen Trotten from whose front yard is a beautiful view of the snowcapped Olympic mountains.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Snow makes a fine setting for gay color pictures of your favorite people.

There's Color in the Snow

When the view from your window looks like a winter wonderland, with the snow-covered landscape sparkling under a clear, blue sky—that's your cue to get out with your camera and be sure that you have color film in it. Whether you encounter such scenes regularly on home ground, or see them when vacationing in colder climes, they offer wonderful picture-taking opportunities.

Why the emphasis on color, when snow is so white? For the very good reason that it offers such a very fine background for the people and things you'll be picturing. Can't you just see a group of children playing with their sleds on a snow-covered hill? They'll be wearing snowsuits of brilliant reds, blues, greens, yellows that'll be so outstanding against the glistening white of the snow. They'll make a really pretty picture, of the kind you'll want to keep for a long time and look at again and again.

This glistening surface offers you another advantage in addition to being a good background. It reflects the light from the sun, so that your subject is well lit from all directions. This will do away with the shadows that you'd get if the ground were bare.

However, speaking of the reflected light brings me to warning you about an effect that the light may have on your picture. It is quite likely that your snow will have a blue cast, especially if you are making color snapshots with a simple camera. It is easy to see why this happens. We just talked about the reflected light. Well, the light from the bright blue sky that is illuminating the snow is blue. And that is the color of the light, which bouncing off the snow, reaches the film in your camera. This bluishness often adds charm to the picture because the blueness of the sky in the same picture explains it. And the presence of other strong colors, like the red of the snowsuits we mentioned earlier, makes the blue stand out any blueness in the snow.

Be sure to do your snow shooting—either in black-and-white or color when the sun is bright. On grey days the snow looks drab and dull. Of course, if you're striving for mood pictures, that's all right. But for everyday picture taking, we're sure most of you will prefer the bright-day snow scenes when everything is sparkling and lively.

LET'S GO SOUTH WITH THE FOXES . . . (NOT THE BIRDS)

The Proctor Foxes left Plymouth a week or so ago to travel by rail to the southland, where their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hatfield, reside on Key West, Florida. They wrote this letter home that we decided it would be nice to go South with the Foxes, instead of the Birds, this time.

"Dear Mrs. Thomas: As we left Willard on the B. & O. it was very cold and the train windows were frozen over so we didn't get to see much of the scenery. In the mountains in Cumberland; Maryland, it was 8 above zero! It was still cold when we arrived in Washington, D. C., in the morning. We didn't stay there very long and it was a little warmer when we got to Richmond, Virginia.

"Into Miami, Florida at noon Sunday and then we had to wait until 3 p. m. for the bus to Key West. We visited several gift shops. Out of Miami the traffic was bumper to bumper and took us almost an hour to get out of the city.

"We are now on Highway No. 1, which begins somewhere in Maine. As we leave Miami we will go through Homestead, Florida, then we will come to Key Largo which is the largest of the Keys.

"By the way, Key West is the English version of the name given the island by a Spanish explorer who saw scattered bones that told of a battle between Carib and Calusa Indians for possession of choice fishing grounds. He named it "Cayo Hueso" of Island of Bones. In 1815 a Spanish governor gave the entire island to a Spanish lieutenant who in 1822 sold it for $2000.

"This drive over the Keys is the most beautiful and interesting experience. You hop from one Key to another, mostly by long bridges. About halfway there is a Greyhound Post House where we can stretch our legs and get some good food at a reasonable price. One of these Keys is where Arthur Godfrey used to visit.

"As we approach Bahia Honda Key we get to the toll gate and the highest bridge, 65 ft. over the water. We arrived on Key West at 7:30 the same evening.

"Just off Poincianna Place, where Mary and Jerry live, is a man-made island called Zaxbe Park. They use bulldozers and large shovels which bring coral out of the ocean, then dump it where the water is shallow. Soon they have an island and it really is solid, harder than rock. On this island are built beautiful hurricane proof apartments for the Navy officers and families. These are "shrubbed" with beautiful poinsettias and cactus plants.

"Yesterday we took a tour of the Navy Base in a Navy bus. Saw lots of interesting things; submarine tenders, destroyer escorts. Here is where the Sonar School is located where Tom Meiser is stationed. We are going to try and see him Sunday. He sure is in a beautiful building. Looks very modern.

"If we go to a pier in the morning we can see the boats pull out for foreign waters. All kinds of ships which protect us are here. In the evening when the ships come in, all the personnel is on deck to salute our flag. It's truly a thrilling sight, as we are so close to them.

"This island is growing by leaps and bounds. Since our first trip here we can see many new buildings which have been part of the cause. Many old buildings have been torn down, new ones spring up in their place. Lots of folks who come here for a vacation, like it so well they just stay, and you can't blame them; no coal to shovel, no heavy clothes to buy.

"As for instance, this morning (February 19) when we got up at 7 o'clock, it was about 71 degrees. We sleep with doors and windows open. The temperature will get to about 82 today. With the wonderful climate and beautiful homes and flowers, it is no wonder people love this place. You can fish and swim all you want and doesn't cost anything. As Godfrey said, "Who misses this beautiful drive over the Highway that goes out to Sea, sure misses one of the most beautiful experiences of his life!"

After reading this enthusiastic letter about sunshine and water, we would like to start to Key West right now. We wouldn't wonder if the Chamber of Commerce down there hired Mrs. Fox to work for them. We hope she finds time to write again before coming back North.

20th Century Club Reviews Schweitzer

The semi-monthly meeting of the 20th Century Club was held at the home of Mrs. Edna Dick on Monday evening, Feb. 22nd.

Mrs. Lois Ramsey gave a most interesting talk on English Music, covering its development from the time of the early barbs who sang the praises of their heroes and legends of war and adventure.

Most of the musical forms of early England came from other countries, but English folk songs are distinctly original and rank favorably with the best of other nations. These folk songs are familiar melodies and lullabies and — best of all — their Christmas carols.

In spite of the English love of the best in music and their wealth of worthy folk songs, they have failed to encourage their own creative musicians and have never produced any truly great composers who did not produce any enduring operas. In the light opera field, however, the works of Gilbert and Sullivan are probably best known and loved. Such comic operas as "The Mikado," H.M.S. Pinafore and "The Pirates of Penzance," with their sparkling wit and tuneful melodies are as welcome today as when written.

Mrs. Ruth Nimmons followed with the interesting biography of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, winner of the 1952 Nobel peace prize.

Dr. Schweitzer, now a medical missionary in French Equatorial Africa, was the son of a banker and minister. At the age of 30 he was well-known in the field of music, philosophy, and theology. He was an accomplished organist, as well as a builder of organs; was a professor of theology at the University of Strasbourg, and was the author of books which had brought him worldwide attention. At this point in his career he decided to devote his life to "the direct service of humanity" and at the age of 31 began the study of a six-year course in medicine. In 1911 he received his medical degree and two years later he and his wife sailed for French Equatorial Africa. There they built their first hospital with their own hands and little help. A good part of the money for the hospital had been derived from Dr. Schweitzer's European concert tours and from books which he has published.

Following the award of the Nobel prize, Dr. Schweitzer, now 79 years old, said that he "cannot" retire because there is so much work he still must do for the African tribesmen among whom he has lived as a medical missionary for the past 40 years. For such devotion to humanity he has been called "The Great Heart of the Century" and "The Man of the Century" and "The No. 1 Man of the and contests were also entertaining. Entertainment for the children had been arranged for separately.

Others who had a part in plans and preparations for the evening were Mrs. Lillian Vosard and Mrs. Irene Hines, of the Alpha Class, Mrs. Harvey Pregel and Mrs. Royal Eckstein of the Lutheran Ladies Aid, Mrs. Ivan Bowman and Mrs. Nellie Bevier of the Missionary Society.

A very nice lunch of ice cream, cake and coffee was served at the close of the evening.

Lock's Printing Press A Historical Relic, Writes J. W. Hardinger

Oldtimers around the Square and those who have read the Advertiser for a long, long time, may remember J. W. Hardinger, who many years ago worked at the old electric light plant at Plymouth with Will H. Fetters. Mr. Hardinger sent Mr. Fetters' daughter, Mrs. Fred Guthrie, an unusual and interesting newspaper feature story from the Findlay Republican-Courier, with a picture of the old printing press at one time used by David K. Locke, who established the Advertiser in Plymouth about 1852.

It was upon this old press that Locke printed the Findlay Jeffersonian which contained the famous Petroleum V. Nabby letters which had much to do with the success of the northern cause in the Civil War.

David Locke came to Plymouth after learning the printing trade, and later moved to Findlay. President Lincoln is said to have once remarked, about the Nabby letters, "for the genius to write these things I would gladly give up my office." Locke bought the Toledo Blade after leaving Findlay.

Another interesting sidelight on the new story is that Mr. Hardinger who sent the clipping, was superintendent of the electric light plant at Sycamore after leaving Plymouth, and the man who followed him is John Lora, son-in-law of Ned Earnest.

We Hear From Our Subscribers

"TIME MARCHES ON" says Mrs. Mary Lerch Fenton, out in Hollywood, California, and although she sent along her renewal fee for the Advertiser she says it seems only yesterday that she sent the 1953 renewal! You may like to read what she says about her neck of the woods —

"In this rapidly growing populated part of our America, 'speed consciousness' is more pronounced, thus we hold our breath for what the future holds. Since coming to California I have witnessed the miraculous growth of the San Fernando Valley from Jap gardens to the metropolis it is today, and still growing. Of course Plymouth had a share in this growth, meaning the Jackson family, who within the past year have bought and installed themselves in a new home in this valley, a credit to their community.

"Much building is going on in Hollywood and Los Angeles; cannot go higher, but spreading more to the south and the Ocean. In order to speed up and take care of this terrific traffic problem, a monorail system is being considered by Los Angeles council. When I say terrific traffic I mean just that — even on this street. I witness daily for three to four hours at a stretch, during the morning and evening hours, a bumper to bumper congestion of cars in both directions, and this is a four lane north and south traffic, from the Valley to Los Angeles.

"The Advertiser reaches me each Monday at 9:30 a. m. From that time on I am buried deep in its pages till all news has been devoured. So many changes have taken place, since I came away, but many names have a familiar ring, which stirs my interest. Each week I look forward to the next issue of the Home Town paper. I hope you had a most prosperous 1953 and that 1954 will follow suit and more so — Sincerely, Mrs. Fenton."

LINES FROM FLORIDA TO CHEER US UP!

"Dear Advertiser Friends: A few lines from the Sunny Southland to say that we are all well, and enjoying the weekly visits with the Plymouth folks via the Advertiser. Also, enclosed find check for the renewal of our subscription.

"We are enjoying the nice weather, and the fishing, as well as the fresh ripe oranges, grapefruit and an occasional dip in the Gulf."

"We have had several visits from

Plymouth folks. We were surprised one morning at the garage where we are employed, by John Dick and his brother, who stopped for an oil change. The Lester Shields and Jerry Moores stopped on their return trip. Last week we had a nice visit with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn West. Foster Smith is of course one of our nearest neighbors, and we see him nearly every day. Recently we were entertained by a wonderful day on the water with Clyde Crawford of Ft. Myers Beach.

"Both myself and Mrs. Hudson were fortunate in being employed at the same place, the Chevrolet Garage at Punta Gorda, just across the Bay from Charlotte Harbor; won as Parts Manager, myself as Service Manager, which makes it very nice as both jobs are closely related. Best wishes from Darrell and Mabel Hudson."

Just over in Shelby, Mrs. Luther Brown took time out to write a note and say "Hi! Look for your paper over here as much as we did in Plymouth. Say hello to all. We are all fine and like Shelby very much, although we will never forget Plymouth."

Dr. Arch E. Cole from our old Kentucky Home state has renewed his subscription to the Advertiser for another year so that he can keep up with the activities of his relatives and former friends in Plymouth. His address down in Louisville sounds so interesting that we swear we're going to call there someday.

The Advertiser is a welcome visitor at the home of Mrs. Black and her mother, Mrs. Hattie Willet, in Cleveland every Friday morning. Mrs. Willet used to live in Shiloh, and keeps up with happenings in the town through the Advertiser columns. Mrs. Black tells us "Thanks again for a good paper and its prompt arrival —"

Alvin Holtz on our subscription list renews again and says "We can't get along without it. We enjoy reading it." If all of our subscribers would feel that way, we could stay in business for a long, long time.

E.

Mark H. Zettlemeyer, sr., and Norman F. McDonough, co-owners, are opening the branch at 1957

Both Mr. Zettlemeyer and Mr. McDonough are known in Plymouth, having visited here many times in the past. Mr. McDonough is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDonough and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Nimmons of Plymouth. Mr. Fred Nimmons of Plymouth is an uncle.

Know Your Election Law

The Ohio Legislature, in making changes in Ohio's election laws, has effected an alteration we were glad to recommend, one which will eliminate confusion that has existed for years regarding "write-in" voting.

For instance, in a primary election where two candidates have filed for one office, their names are printed on the ballot, followed by one blank space where the voter may write in a name if he chooses. Under the former law, the section instructing the voter said that the voter SHALL write the name in the blank space and then place an "X" before it. However, the section instructing the election officials as to how the ballots should be counted, read, in effect, that if the voter's intention could be ascertained, the ballot should be counted.

It was obvious that by writing in a name on a ballot the voter had displayed his intent to vote for such person and that the mere writing in of an "X" in the accustomed place was a directory requirement and not a mandatory one. But it can readily be seen, there was room for confusion and argument.

One of the many clarifying changes made by the 100th General Assembly, now in effect omits mention of the writing in of an "X" before the name of a write-in candidate, thus making it easier for the voter and clear to the election officials, since all the voter has to do is write in the name of the person he prefers.

Plans For County Music Festival

Plymouth School will participate in the third annual all-county Music Festival this Spring, which leader says will be the largest one yet held for the rural and village schools of Richland county.

The Festival will be held in Shelby high school auditorium on Saturday, April 3. This year the program will have two divisions, vocal and instrumental. The massed chorus of 650 voices will be directed by A. LeMoine Derr, vocal supervisor of Mansfield schools. The massed bands will be directed by Ted Tegenhorst, who is instrumental supervisor of the Mansfield schools.

Nine Richland county schools plan to participate. Mr. Robert

Dubbert, Plymouth school music supervisor, says there will be 43 local students to participate in the vocal group, and 19 will play with massed bands.

Tickets for the evening recital will be on sale through the schools.
CARNIVAL IS MARCH 6
The Carnival planned by the Senior class at Plymouth will be on March 6, at the High School. All kinds of booths, games, and a dance from 9 to 11 p. m.

For years the office has been a dark, dingy, in fact a terrible looking place to do any kind of business in, especially paying bills. But today, there's new light in the place. All the old paper has been removed, wall cracks have been sealed, and a bright cheerful color has been brushed in on the ceiling and walls; new wiring installed, and at

In the office looks presentable. Most of the work was done by Supt. Lincoln Sprohles and his assistant, "Red" Reeder, Mr. Lillo did the necessary plastering and we know that our new clerk, Carl Ellis feels better, especially since the place is cleaned up, and things are back in their respective places. The Mayor's office is next on the list for improvement.

ETHEL REED, manager of our local Kroger Store, says that some one is going to be mighty happy Saturday night. Kroger is giving away a new Gasator, the gadget that burns paper and garbage. So you better stop in Saturday and see how lucky you can be.

MAN IS A WORM of the dust. He appears on the earth for his brief moment, wiggles around awhile and then some chick gets him.

TREASURER OF STATE Roger W. Tracy, who occasionally gets a contribution from people who want to relieve guilty consciences, recently received a letter from Cincinnati addressed to the "Ohio Department of Revenue."

"On my way here to God's Bible School from where I live in Pennsylvania I broke the Ohio speed limit. The Lord knows I am sorry and want to make it right. I am saved and sanctified and determined to mind the Lord no matter what the cost."

Since the repentant speeder neglected to enclose money in payment of his self-imposed fine, Tracy mailed the letter with the remark "Verily, a guileless person doth make T-Men of them all."

SIGNS OF SPRING - The first robin reported to the Advertiser Sunday afternoon in the Frank Pitzer yard by their daughter Jean... children roller skating around the Square... girls wearing no hose... friends standing on the corners talking... Dick Fackler wearing a pair of ventilated spring trousers (he tore the seat out Monday).
