Mrs. Grace Caywood, of Whitney avenue, greets her half-sister, Mrs. Charles Beeler, of Versailles, Mo., after the two had been separated for 54 years by the death of their father in a train accident.

Half-Sisters Finish 43 Years of Search

After 54 years, a Plymouth woman has made the acquaintance of her half-sister from whom she was separated by the death of their father in a train accident at Berea in 1900.

Mrs. Grace Caywood of Whitney avenue, Plymouth, this week saw, for the first time in her memory an older daughter of her father, the late Joseph Nichols. How it happened is a fascinating tale of detective work that would astonish Mr. Keene, the tracer of lost persons.

The skein of mystery first began to unravel a number of years ago—the chief detective can't exactly remember when—as Elizabeth Nichols, child of the late Joseph Nichols by a previous marriage, learned through her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cogswell of Parma, that her father had left her another child in his second wife.

But she married in 1909, and with her husband, Charles, she settled in Cleveland. In due course the Beeler's adopted her sister's child and raised her as their own. They prospered in business in Cleveland and after living there 21 years, sold out and went to Chicago to invest in another foundry.

Meanwhile, Grace Nichols, who was only two when her father, a railroad brakeman, lost his life, accompanied her mother to Shiloh to live with her maternal grandparents. She was raised in the New Haven vicinity until she married Mark Caywood in 1917. Mrs. Nichols recalls that her mother told her a few times that others carrying her surname lived somewhere in Ohio, but had no way to trace them. She was too young when she was separated from them to recall any of the details.

But two years ago the man in the blue suit called Mrs. Caywood's door with a registered letter. The return address read "Mrs. Charles Beeler, Versailles, Mo." Its contents proved to be the culmination of a search of at least a quarter of a century by Mrs. Beeler.

How, Mrs. Beeler was asked, did she learn that Grace Nichols married name was Caywood, and where she lived? "Well, sir," she replied, in her soft voice that is accented ever so slightly with the Missouri drawl, "I made it my business to look up friends of my own mother's and of the family I made a real pest of myself. Fortunately, I ran across one who had a good memory. She recalled she had seen something in the paper that a Grace Nichols had married a Caywood at Plymouth, but this was years ago. I was ready to try any lead at all, so I wrote and told you, here I am."

Like any two sisters, Mrs. Caywood and Mrs. Beeler have a slight difference of opinion as to the exact age of the young girl. The elder led the family, but Mrs. Beeler says, "I'm older, and as I was nine I have a better chance to remember the facts. Grace went with her mother and I went with the Cogswells, whose own daughter had just died. That was why they agreed to take me and raise me as their own."

Mrs. Caywood is the mother of two children, Jerry, proprietor of a grocery and meat market in Sandusky street, Plymouth, and Thelma, now Mrs. Donald Shaver, 155 Maple street, Plymouth. Her husband, Mr. W. E. Smith, died in 1953. "I waited two years to meet my sister—she really is a sister, or at least I feel that way—and it was after two years to have her come."

Mrs. Caywood says, "I'm glad to see you."

This week The Advertiser presents a full double page spread of advertisements by Plymouth merchants especially designed to interest shoppers in Plymouth during the June concert nights Saturday, June 19 and 26.

The publisher has seen to it that every mail address in the Plymouth rural routes will receive a copy of the newspaper in an effort to give as wide coverage as possible to advertising by Plymouth merchants. It is hoped that recipients of this complimentary copy will subscribe to the paper.

Kids Hear Story By Mrs. Armstrong

Mrs. John T. Armstrong, of 166 Grandview street, read to small children enrolled in the Children's Story Hour yesterday in the second program of the summer session.

Her talk was of an instructive nature, featuring the explanation of different ways of telling a story, and how an artist helps to make a story more interesting. She explained the difference between the various artistic media, as charcoal drawings, watercolors, pen and ink, and oil. Then she told a story, just for the group.

Mrs. Belle Bachrach was in charge of the first meeting a week ago. She read three stories to the children after telling them what would be expected of them during the program.

Lutherans Name New Supply Pastor

The Rev. Nathan F. R. Harter of Ashland, candidate for the doctorate in divinity at Hama Divinity school, Springfield, has accepted the invitation of the Lutheran church council to be permanent supply pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Harter was formerly preacher of the Lutheran church in Ashland and resigned that post to take up residence requirements for his advanced degree, which will be conferred upon filing of his dissertation in September.

Mr. Harter is married and has two small children, both girls. Members of the council who chose the Rev. Mr. Harter after he had preached three times here, were Royal W. Eckstein, president; Thor Woodworth, Philip Moore, Quentin Reen, Samuel Fenner, Robert Fortney, Donald Ford, and a unit of clothing he donated to a Methodist pastor in Korea.

'Digger' Receives Dominic's Thanks

This is a big week for R. Earl McQuate, Plymouth funeral director and furniture merchant. Sunday, while leaving morning services at the Methodist church, he was given a verbal "thank you" by the Rev. L. E. Smith, pastor, a suit of clothing he donated to a Methodist pastor in Korea.

The Oriental dominie had forwarded through Mr. Smith his appreciation for the suit. It was received by Mr. McQuate's name.

Yesterday was Mr. McQuate's 17th wedding anniversary. He was married to the former Jane Brumbach of Cleveland on June 9, 1937, at the church of St. Christopher-by-the-River, Gates Mills, by Rev. John McDowell. The couple has two sons, Jack, 16, and Douglas, 12.

Council Votes to Get Engineer's Estimates For Street Repairs

Plymouth village council voted Tuesday night to obtain the services of a licensed civil engineer to prepare official estimates of costs and specifications for road repair in the village.

The council directed that the engineer be obtained and assigned to the work so that it can be completed by July 1.

From these specifications and estimates, the council will develop plans for approaching county, state and federal agencies for the purpose of obtaining funds with which to pay for the repair work.

The council meeting was of a special nature inasmuch as illness of Mayor Glenn West and Councilman Ben Smith and the absence of Councilman John Dick prevented presence of a quorum at the regular meeting scheduled for June 1.

In other action, with a minimum of discussion, the council endorsed by unanimous vote the decision of the Board of Public Affairs to raise minimum water rates to $6 a quarter effective from July 1.

The request of the Board for the passage of an emergency ordinance to provide for the raise in rates was approved, although for a time the council debated the merits of the new quarterly system of billing which the board wishes to inaugurate. Under present rules, water bills are prepared on quarterly periods ending April 30, July 31, October 31 and January 31. On the new system, they will be rendered as of June 30, September 30, December 31 and March 31.

Councilman Royal Eckstein pointed out that the fourth quarter account would thus become payable before January 20 and questioned whether subscribers to water service would be able to pay a water bill so soon after Christmas. Joseph Burre, president of the Board, replied that the Board felt strongly that it would be worth to lose the additional revenue that would accrue to it because July is a month of high water usage, and additionally that since water is an essential commodity, household users would have to pay water bills despite the demands of Christmas holidays on paymasters.

Mr. Eckstein agreed to go along with the Board upon this explanation.

Solicitor Joseph Dash was instructed to prepare an ordinance encompassing the Board's views for consideration by the council at the next regular meeting Tuesday night.

The Board formally presented to the council its request for approval of its plan to dispose of the property on which is located the old electric plant in Birtsfield street. After Solicitor Dash had informed the council that the plan was ready, he so far failed to turn up a suitable description of the land upon which to base a sound deed. Approval of the plan was tabled. Meanwhile Councilmen Elmer Markley and Lawrence Cornell were instructed to investigate the possibilities of sale of the land to private buyers without a good description of the tract.

Sun, Surgery Work On Plymouthites As Sick List Grows

The saying about "green Christmas, fat graveyard" may have its parody in Plymouth: "fair weather, full hospital." For with the appearance of the sun last week, there appeared also a spate of medical and surgical cases.

James A. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown, of West Broadway, submitted to surgery at the Cleveland Clinic Thursday. His spleen was removed, James recuperating in Room 7610 in the hospital.

Dan Henry, of 59 North street, underwent surgery for relief of a slipped disc in his spine at Grant Hospital, Columbus. This morning his wife, the former Mary Ellen Thomas, deposited her two girls, Leslie Louise and Terry Ellen, with friends and is staying with him during the ordeal.

Ralph Hatch fell May 31 while exercising his hunting dogs and fracturing his right leg and tendons in the left. The fracture has been reduced at Shelby Memorial hospital, but owing to the damaged tendons he is denied the pleasure of using crutches.

Jack Hampton entered Grant hospital at Columbus Saturday for further treatment of his left arm. He expects to return there for outpatient treatment.

Mrs. Della Cashbaugh was returned to her home Saturday by the McQuate ambulance from Willard hospital. She may require further treatment.

Robert McIntire reports that the condition of his mother, Mrs. Carl McIntire, who broke her hip in a fall in her home a week ago, has improved. She was released to the Elyria hospital from Willard to undergo surgery not available at Willard.

Board of Education Considers Plumbing Needs in New School

An additional $1,762 is needed to complete plumbing in the new elementary school, the Board of Education learned Tuesday night, but there are no funds available.

To get the job right, the work ought to be done, the Board agreed, and there are signs that the plumbing may be done on open account.

A new fence around the elementary school playground will be of the chain-link type, the Board agreed. Superintendent M. J. Casan reported that fence of this variety costs about $1.60 a foot. Some 350 feet will be needed. Funds collected by the Mothers' Club will be used to defray the expenses in part.

Mrs. Ralph Hunt will be second cook and Mrs. Glenn Haas will be third cook in the new cafeteria, which expects to serve 200 children at noon each school day.

Mrs. Bonnie Holson, who had been offered a contract to teach the second grade, notified the board she would be unable to perform, owing to reasons of health. No replacement has yet been engaged.

The school system will resume its five-day week on Sept. 7 and will close May 25, 1955. The number of school days will be the same as last year except that Good Friday will be a holiday.

Repairs to the plumbing in the high school building occupied the Board's attention. Repairs to the heating system are now being carried out, but there are on a minimum stand-by costs. A new water meter system was required. The day after school closed leaks in the under-the-floor pipes, sprang open, and a new vent system is being installed, at an estimated cost of $500.

Two Mansfielders Chased, Caught; Result: 30 Days

Speed merchants who think they can zip through Plymouth streets in excess of the speed limit have another thing coming, and two Mansfielders will see time in the County jail learning that lesson.

Police Chief Robert Meiser and Patrolman Fred Lewis chased the pair in a 1951 Ford sedan to one-quarter mile west of Route 39 on the Springmill road Saturday night before they captured Kenneth K. King, who is—or was—a driver of a bakery truck, clocked at times at over 100 miles an hour.

King and his companion denied to the officers they had seen their red blinker light during the chase, and these denials were so profane and insolent that King's companion, Clifford Lowe, also a driver of a bakery truck, was summoned on charges of disorderly conduct.

Mayor Glenn West heard the cases in morning's court Sunday morning. He found both men guilty. In lieu of a fine of $50 for speeding at a rate of 40 miles over the village limit and passing two stop signs, and costs of $16.80, King was sentenced to jail, where he will serve out the fine at $3 a day. Lowe was in the same boat, but his fine amounted to $10 and costs of $6.80.

Other speeders summoned by Chief Meiser to appear before Mayor West last night were David Miller, 152 Boughton avenue, Mansfield, who was clocked at 50 miles an hour in Plymouth street at 11:25 p. m. Saturday; Thomas E. Tucker, of 656 West View road, Mansfield, apprehended at a speed of 50 miles an hour in Sandusky street at 8:40 p. m. Saturday; and P. P. Van Scooder, of Loudounville, who left a bond of $5 to insure appearance on charges of speeding at 50 miles an hour in Plymouth street Saturday.

Water Rates Go Up On July 1; Bills Now Payable Fiscally

In a major policy decision, the Board of Public Affairs voted Monday night to raise minimum water rates to $6 a quarter, effective from July 1.

At the same time, the Board inaugurated a new quarterly accounting system which will require the reading of water meters within 10 days so that bills for a short quarter ending June 30 can be prepared. Under the new plan, water bills will become due June 30, September 30, December 31 and March 31.

Charles Van Asdale and Robert McKown appeared before the Board to seek assistance in obtaining water supply for their properties. After considerable discussion which terminated well after midnight the Board agreed on a policy to take effect September 1. Any mains extended by the village thereafter will be of a minimum of four inches in diameter. Property owners may tap in with these mains at their property boundaries at their own expense with such size of pipe as may be convenient.

Meanwhile, with funds in the water construction fund now on hand amounting to $4,474.42 as of May 30, the Board will commence at once to lay a main from West Broadway north, to where Walnut street would intersect and thence east to the Park avenue line. While a four-inch line would be required, the Board voted to pay the difference between a four and six-inch line and install the latter.

McKown's property will be accommodated by laying a four-inch line some 150 feet to the edge of his property. Then he can connect to it with his own service.

NEW BOWMAN STREET BRIDGE

Motorists who do not already know it will be faced with a detour should they be traveling the Bowman street road to Shelby or Mansfield. The detour will switch you over to either Springmill road or Fackler road. The reason for the detour is that there has always been called the Bowman street bridge.

This old towering steel structure with its noisy, clattering heavy plank flooring on its way out and in its place will be a new concrete, steel-encored bridge.

According to the steel plate attached to the top of the old steel bridge, it was originally erected in 1889.

In time of high waters the Black-fork river has always overflowed the banks in the vicinity of the old bridge and covered the surrounding lowlands and the highway as well, making an extremely hazardous condition.

With all this in view, the Richard County commissioners and all others concerned decided to erect a new bridge, alter the course of the Black-fork river, and straighten out the dangerous highway curves at this point.

The job was advertised and was bid by Contractor Garb of Gallon for the sum of $74,000.

This new construction is located four miles southwest of Shiloh.

According to Commissioner Fred Dauton, the new structure, roadbed and altered river course will consist of some 2,100 feet.

The roadway is to be moved 60 feet east of the old one, and the new bridge is to be constructed of concrete and steel side rails, with a 24-foot roadbed and a three foot curb on either side of the roadway.

The new road will be altered, starting at the top of the hill where the curve starts, and will end at the Miller road, if traveling southwest from either Plymouth or Shiloh.

There is quite a crew of men on this job, considering that in use are five earthmovers, two bulldozers, three heavy maintainers, and one large shovel, plus the many trucks and other numerous pieces of equipment necessary on this type of construction work.

The work was started about May 15, and the contract calls for its completion by September 30.

Judy Vance, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Jane Vance, also a sister; Manoka Riddle, Nova, and Dolores Mitchell, Shiloh, as the prospective bridegroom. Mary Hartman, of Wellington, and Betsy Hartman, of Columbus, cousins of the bride-elect, will be flower girls. Andrew Vance, brother of the bride-elect, will be ring bearer.

Best man will be James Mitchell, brother of the prospective bridegroom. Ernest Hartman, Wellington, uncle of the bride-elect, and Walter Swind, brother of the prospective bridegroom, will usher.

WILLARD ROSS, JR. TO RECEIVE PH. D. DEGREE

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ross Jr. of Shelby, have gone to Iowa City, Ia., to witness the conferment tomorrow of the doctorate philosophy degree on their son, Willard Clare Ross, Jr. Exercises will be at 9:30 a. m.

On May 12th, the Iowa chapter of Sigma Xi, professional honorary science society initiated 72 full and 84 associate members in a special ceremony, among them Dr. Ross, whose major is mathematics.

The 156 new members include students, staff members and alumni of SU who have been named for demonstrated research ability in various fields of science.

Following his graduation Mr. Ross will leave on the 14th for Galesburg, Ill., where he has accepted a position in the mathematics department in Knox college. After he and his family are settled, they expect to come to Shelby to enjoy the summer months with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ross, Sr., and Mrs. Ross's parents in Cleveland.

Commencements are not a novelty in the Ross family, this being their ninth. The parents of three sons, they attended high school commencements for Willard, Jr. from Plymouth High school in 1942, Robert in 1943 and Dick in 1945.

All three boys served in the armed forces and upon their discharge entered colleges which made three more commencements. Willard received his B. S. at Case School of Science in 1941 and earned his M. A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1951. During his stay in Iowa City, he had an assistantship in instructing in the university.

These commencements add up to eight and to make the ninth, Mrs. Ross received her degree from Ashland College several years ago. She returned to her studies after her family was raised and is now teaching in the Shelby schools.

ATTEND COMMENCEMENT

The Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Smith and daughter, Janet, have returned from Princeton, N. J., where they visited their son, Leonard, a student at Westminster Choir college.

On May 27 they attended the play "One Foot in Heaven" at the college in which Leonard had the leading part, that of a minister. Over the week end, the Rev. Mr. Smith and wife motored to West Hartford Conn., where they visited with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Foster.

On Sunday afternoon they attended the commencement exercises of the college at Princeton University chapel, when 50 students received their Bachelor of Music degree and 35 received their Master's degree.

The Smith family, accompanied by Leonard, returned home May 31.

Hooked Rugs Shown At Shelby Church

The Shelby Hooking club is presenting a hooked rug show in the Presbyterian church at Shelby. The show opened yesterday and will continue through tonight. The hours are from 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. There are 75 hand hooked rugs on display, all hand done by the ladies of Shelby.

The Hooking club meets twice a month during the fall and winter months for hooking and companionship, and the members find great satisfaction in this creative hobby.

Mrs. Frank Hurby of Cleveland gave an interesting talk on the art of the hooked rug Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Hurby is a well-known instructor of this craft. This afternoon Mrs. H. C. Sander of Columbus will speak at 2 p. m. about two Eastern exhibits of hooked rugs she attended. The public has been cordially invited to see the rugs and take tea.

Every ton of bituminous coal mined in the U. S. includes a cost of between 14 and 17 cents spent on safety.

New Books At Public Library

Plymouth Public Library announces receipt a gift of books from Calvin J. Beamer of Willard. The following new books have been added to the shelves last week.

New Books at Public Library
"The Dollmaker" by Harriette Arnow — Gertrude Nevels, big ugly, capable and efficient wife and mother in the hills of Kentucky. But when she is uprooted from her familiar surroundings and thrust into the confusion of wartime Detroit, her efficiency, her authority, her very way of life are swept away. In "The Dollmaker" the author has given us a sensitive and imaginative woman's portrait so masterful, so touching, that it strikes the heart as few stories have done before.

"Bless this House" by Norah Lofts — This is the story of Merravay, — "a stately house, a beautiful house, a poem built not with words, but with timber and glass and stone and brick." Good Queen Bess was on England's throne in 1557 when Merravay was built, and the history of this house spans the generations between her reign and the coronation of Elizabeth II, four centuries later.

"The Swift Seasons" by Helen Train Hiller — The Swift Seasons is a New York novel, a nostalgic period of the early years of this century and a story of character development. It is a novel of quiet power, written with perceptive intelligence, with a creative talent that brings to life the characters it makes and involves the reader in their fate.

"Far, Far from Home" by Ruth McKenney — Since the appearance of her classic, Sister Eileen, marriage and motherhood have done nothing to impair Ruth McKenney's flair for golly, her penchant for faux pas or her zest for adventure — allating that her husband, Richard Brantzen, forfeited his shares. Not long ago, the Brantzen's picked up their three children and an English-French dictionary, and forsaking their native country went to live in Brussels as permanent domiciles abroad. Far, Far from Home is an account of how they came face to face with French civilization or vice-versa, a report on the strley Bravellois, face to face with them.

DIES IN TOLEDO

Funeral rites for Robert Bruce Meek, 63, brother of Mrs. Anita Trimble of Plymouth, were conducted June 2 at 11 a. m. in the Abele Funeral home, Toledo. Burial was in Ottawa Hills Memorial park. The Veterans of Foreign Wars and Pond Post, American Legion, conducted military services. Mr. Meek suffered a heart attack May 29 and died in Riverside hospital, Toledo.

Born in Plymouth, Mr. Meek lived in Toledo 34 years. He had been employed as a machinist 29 years by the Electric Auto-Lite Co. Surviving are his widow, Myrtle; Mrs. Trimble, a stepson, Harold Ordway, Toledo, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Edson Hayes, Defiance.

FRIENDSHIP CLASS TO MEET

The Friendship class will meet at the Methodist church next Thursday. This is a group of interested Members are asked to bring material for making hospital pads. Instead of the regular program, members will turn in contributions and tell how they earned it. All members are requested to be present to help their side win in the contest.

FROM NORWALK
 by Henry Filmer
 To this the response of Norwalk and other newsmen is somewhat as follows: "Why didn't we get the Republican policy story?" The implication is that the county officials are quick to send out items such as tax sales, tax collections, transfers of title, deeds, court cases, and the like, which are generally dull, dry reading and subject to the audit of state functionaries anyway, but don't put out any of the interesting, controversial stuff that readers want and have a right to have.

 Other papers have been involved in innocent arguments which have ruffled the feathers of county officials from time to time, and the county officers admittedly have been magnanimous about them, for the most part. But the feeling is there that newspapermen generally are an evil perhaps a necessary one, and those in Huron county are no better or worse than what the general average would suggest.

 The Locomotive Development Committee of Bituminous Coal Research, Inc., the coal industry's research arm, has spent more than $4 million on development of a coal-fired gas turbine locomotive scheduled for extended tests of turbine components early this year.

It requires the energy equivalent of one billion tons of bituminous coal annually to fuel all industry, commerce and private dwellings in the U. S. Of this total, coal comprises 42%, petroleum products 25%, natural gas 27%, and hydroelectric power 6%.

A kilowatt-hour of electricity now is obtained from less than one pound of coal as compared with almost 3 pounds a generation ago.
 During World War II many members of the German Army ate butter made from coal in a process first discovered and used in 1931.

Seniors Enjoy Trip
 Time: 4:00 A.M. Sunday Morning, May 16.
 Place: Willard Depot.
 Occasion: 21 excited Seniors are starting on the first jog of their journey.
 Now, wait, I thought, there were 22 seniors, ages on the trip? But maybe that's the reason for the tense, anxious expressions on some of the faces. It's time to leave and Virginia Bevier is not here.
 Oh, here she's coming. It was nice of the engineer to hold up his train for her. Why was she late? Two alarm clocks were set for 3:00 and neither had the courtesy to ring.
 It was 12 long hours on the train with nothing to do but sleep, read, eat, sing and think about the exciting week before us.
 We arrived in Washington, D. C., at 4:30 p.m. and registered at the Ebbitt hotel.
 After getting settled and ready for the evening ahead, we had dinner and a tour of the city. Some of the sites we took in were: the White House, Capitol, Thomas Jefferson Memorial, Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, U. S. Supreme Court, Pentagon and National Airport, where the Presidents private plane is kept.
 The movie "River of No Return" starring Marilyn Monroe and Robert Mitchum, was the next stop, and the Lotus Club last, ending with very tired seniors tumbling into bed after a day of fun.
 Bright and early Monday morning we ate breakfast and left for a tour of the public buildings. The morning included the mint, Smithsonian Institution, National Archives Pan-American building and George Washington Masonic Memorial. After viewing these we hurried to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier to watch the change of guards. In the afternoon, those included were the FBI, Capitol and Franciscan Monastery.
 After supper we boarded the S. S. Mount Vernon for a moonlight cruise down the Potomac.
 At the end of the cruise, Mr. Feil of Mr. Padock's acquaintance, treated us to a midnight snack compliments of The Advertiser.
 Tuesday found us going to Virginia. There we saw Alexandria, Arlington Cemetery and Mount Vernon, home of George Washington.
 Lunch, free time for cat'n and packing took up our time until we boarded a train for New York.
 We registered at the Piccadilly hotel 45th Street off Broadway. Then we took a walk down famous Broadway to see if the lights were still bright to window shop and have a snack before ending the day.
 Some of the interesting places we saw on Wednesday were Times Square, Manhattan, Columbus Circle, Grants Tomb, Central Park, City. Others we toured were St. John's Cathedral, largest Gothic Cathedral in the World and in New York, a house of prayer for all people, house of Henry Clay Frick, partner of Andrew Carnegie, NBC Studio, China town, Trinity Church and the Empire State building. We also made the acquaintance of the Statue of Liberty.
 In the evening there was a subway ride to Coney Island and free time to see all the sights.
 Part of Thursday was spent on international territory as we had a very interesting tour of the United Nations.
 Two hours in the afternoon was ours at free time, but we had to be ready then to see "Cinerama" at a theatre.
 While getting ready for the big evening ahead of us, the boys get the autograph of Red Buttons while in the lobby of the Piccadilly.
 Next on the itinerary was the Broadway play, "Sabrina Fair," starring Margaret Sullivan and Joseph Cotton, followed by dinner and a floor show at the "Latin Quarters".
 The weatherman didn't co-operate as we would have liked. There were only two days the sun shone, the rest being cloudy and overcast.
 As Friday was one of the over-cast days, the Circle tour around Staten Island was postponed.
 But that didn't stop us from going to the showplace, Radio City Music Hall. We saw "Executive Suite," starring June Allison and William Holden, among others, and the famous Rockettes.
 Free time was then ours for shopping and packing until train time.
 Leaving around 6: p.m. we arrived home Saturday Morning, 9:45 a.m., exhausted and our heads still whirling from seeing and doing so much in that one week in which we took our senior trip.
 Yours truly, . . .

Two Wins for Jerry

Two firsts and two seconds were the lot of Jerry Caywood and his trainer, Bob Martin, took away from the County Fairgrounds show at the Huron County fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday.

Mexicali Rose, a seven-year-old mare, copped second place Saturday night in the 48-56 inch yearling class. On Sunday morning Buckshot, a 12-year-old gelding, took first in the model class and second in the 48-inch-and-under Western class.

Then little Kimberly Caywood, five, and her we Tuffy, a four-year-old mare who measures just under 33 inches, took first prize in the lead-in class.

Owner Caywood, who operates a pony farm on Route 61 south of Plymouth, says that with the prize money of $40 he only lost $8 net cash outlay on the deal, which doesn't account for his feed and care of the animals.

Forfeit Land Sale

First sale of forfeited lands will be conducted at Huron county courthouse on June 17th at 10 a. m. Only 43 parcels are involved in the sale, all that qualify at this time, under the provisions of the County Auditor's sale of lands forfeited to the State of Ohio. County Commissioner Harry Van Buskirk will conduct the sale, which is in addition to his other duties.

Huron county's overall estate tax delinquencies amount to slightly over two per cent of the total tax liability. Few hardship cases are involved, and most of the delinquencies are of the half-year type, which are caught up with on the following payment.

In the case of this forfeited land sale, many of the parcels were lessors' from estates, long since settled, or owned by former residents now living at a distance, who cannot transfer title without considerable difficulty.

Memorial Monday services at Greenlawn cemetery.

Week end holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Earnest were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snider of Akron, Mr. and Mrs. John Lorah and daughter of Sycamore Mrs. Stacy Brown and Wm. Hatch of Plymouth.

Memorial Day callers of Fred Nimmo were his daughters, Mrs. Harriet Nimmo with her daughter and granddaughter of Lorain, and Mrs. Frank Twaddle of Norwalk.

A bride of last week, Mrs. Robert Clark, the former Shirley Goldsmith of Plymouth, will be honored tonight at a shower given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bud Clawson of Shiloh. The guests this evening will include the Rome County club, members of the family, and wedding party.

THE ANSWERS:

Jimmy Jones, Age 14. "If you ask me, they ought to make Father's Day a whole month. One day isn't enough to honor a guy as important as Dad... at least, my Dad."

Mrs. Malone, Age 24. "Holy Smoke! If Father's Day June 20th? Excuse me, Mrs. I've got shopping to do!"

Snookums Malone, Age 6 months. "Dad!... Dad!... I like Father's Day is real cool!"

Drandum from the Editor:

... Hollywood production since "Gone With the Wind" to win eight Academy awards, "From Eternity" will appear at the Plymouth Drive-In and Monday nights, June 13 and 14. Jones, a dissatisfied soldier and a bitter writer wrote the novel from which the picture is made. The scene is laid in Hawaii during the time prior to Pearl Harbor. The plot revolves around a young soldier whose skill at boxing has put him in the eyes of a friend, whereupon he forsakes a military career with his fists. This does not set him apart from his regimental or company commander, but rather with the weirdest collection of non-combatants assembled in one unit, they give him the most important secondary roles are played by DeBerra, as the wife of the company commander whose fidelities derive from his boorish treatment and Frank Sinatra, as a sensitive but unhesitant soldier whose difficulties with military justice are played out in the guardhouse, where he is beaten...

... novel won plaudits on newstands and in magazines from Bangor to San Diego. The U. S. Government thought the film lambasted army authority so that it was banned from exhibition in Navy canteens. Jones is now at work on his second novel, but he says he will go some to better "From Here to Eternity" playing at the Plymouth Drive-In Sunday.

Housewife Dictates Hog Size

Burr Knaus Thinks Good Manager Can Profit in 1954

Mrs. American Housewife has as much to do with the hog business as anybody. She dictates what sort of hog will be raised on Richland and Huron county farms.

Which explains why hog farmers in those areas are specializing in a well-built animal with a minimum of viscera, big hefty shoulders and hind quarters and a 30 inch measure from hip to shoulder.

It also explains, in part, why 1954 is apt to be a year of decision for hog farmers. Costs have risen so much, and prices tend to drop so far, that efficiency in growing and marketing hogs is the difference between staying in business with a profit, or being shoved to the wall.

In the first place, the hog market is generally down. Some farmers think hogs are apt to go to $18 or $20 this summer and fall. There are those who are alarmed. They say those prices won't bring the farmer sufficient return on his investment.

One expert who doesn't agree is the veteran Burr Knaus, manager of the Hoffman Farm of Hampshire hogs west of Plymouth. "I think," he says, "that hogs may get down to $18 or $20 this year, but if a man thinks right and plans right, and cuts all the corners, he can make out okay."

Burr Knaus intends to market $100,000 value in hogs this year, roughly about 2,000 head. On that volume and value, he ought to know what he's talking about.

The 1,200-acre Hoffman establishment operates like a big maternity hospital. In fact, maternity is the principal business of the farm.

Take for example, the farrowing house. Some 30 newly arrived sows with their piglets are penned in the building, which is equipped with patented automatic feeders and waterers and hot air heat. As the piglets grow, they are inoculated and wormed, vaccinated and weaned, and turned out with their mothers to range. Some of them are put on special feed, where their net average gain in weight is carefully measured against the weight and value of the special feed put into them.

Others are kept in pens on the establishment and they grow to maturity. Some gilts are selected for breeding. Gilts that fail to produce an average litter of from seven to nine piglets are shipped to the slaughtering market. It costs too much to "mess around" with a poor producing gilt.

The Hoffman Farm sells hogs the year around. This week, there are about 1,100 head of hogs, piglets and newborns on the place. About 125 of these are brood sows. Another 25 are blooded boars. Each boar has about six sows or gilts in his harem.

The Hoffman establishment uses two different strains of Hampshire hogs. One of them, perfected at the U. S. Department of Agriculture breeding station at Beltsville, Md., was specially bred to meet Mrs. A. Housewife's needs: a lean hog with plenty of loin, chop, and ham, and practically no fatback. Mrs. H's taste in pork Wilard Dairy's new tank truck, which is now serving farmers with 48-hour bulk milk pickups in the Huron county dairy area. Left to right, Ralph Parker, Robert Hamilton, owner of the dairy, and Louis Kilper, plant manager. The driver is Walter Kelly.

An insulated steel tank that keeps milk at least 10 degrees cooler than when carried in cans features the bulk milk transport unit of the Wilard Dairy. It entered service May 24.

The tank has capacity of 1,500 gallons and is 13 feet long, four feet deep, and six feet wide. Its fabrication and design make it easy to clean and keep clean.

The interior is made of the highest grade stainless steel and is perfectly smooth. Near the bottom at the rear of the tank, an agitator or propeller keeps milk circulating when the truck is at a standstill.

Two compartments at the rear of the truck enclose two motors, a pump, drawers for milk samples, and the tank's electrical system. The two-way pump either loads or unloads milk from the farmer's tank in the milk barn or into the vats of the plant. Clear plastic 1 1/2-inch hose is used between tanks or from the tank truck into the vats.

The tank, made by the Dammrow Company at Fond Du Lac, Wis., meets state and national health standards and is mounted on a 1954 Chevrolet chassis.

The dome on the tank covers a manhole, through which the tank is cleaned, and a safety feature which equalizes air pressure on the inside with that on the outside. The dome is raised when loading or unloading milk.

What the new system means in economy of time is indicated by the amount needed to unload the tank: 40 minutes, as against three men working two hours to unload 1,500 gallons of milk in cans of 110 pounds each.

It is too soon for farmers cooperating in the system to show book profits convincing to the skeptical, but Robert Hamilton, owner of the dairy, is sure that after a few months those who have not yet joined up will see that the new method is superior not only for reasons of greater profits but for economy of time as well.

Dry Summer Likely, Experts Declare; Water Shortage Acute in Some Spots

Farmers may be protesting wet weather right now, but the signs are they'll be wailing the blues.

For once, the kitchen forecasters are in agreement with the technical experts. The guess is that water will be in shorter supply by the end of July than at any time in recent memory.

Water expert Paul Kaser, of the Natural Resource department, Ohio State Department of Agriculture, reports that rainfall during May in five major Ohio cities was from one-half to two-and-three-quarters inches below normal for that time of year.

The deficiency in rainfall means that the water table, which is the principal supply of streams and wells, will be lower in September than what is needed to meet requirements.

What this means to Plymouth is illustrated by Superintendent of Light and Water Lincoln Sprowles. "The water level in our well No. 1 this morning," Sprowles said Tuesday, "is at 25 feet. The normal level for this time of year should be 45 feet. This means, of course, that the water table is about at 50 per cent of the required needs at this time."

Water was rationed to a limited extent last summer, Sprowles pointed out. The washing of automobiles was banned and farmers were restricted on water demands. It may again be necessary to ration water in the village this season.

"You'll notice from our records," Sprowles told The Advertiser, "that July and August are big months for water users. Demand in those two months amounts to about 115 to 120 thousand gallons of water a day, whereas in other months of the year, except November and December, it runs around 100,000."

"Our pumps operate at 225 gallons an hour. We seldom operate them more than 10 hours a day. That means that we can throw out about 135,000 gallons of water in one normal day of operating the pumps. This will meet the demand of the village users and a 10 per cent cushion provided we have enough water in the wells to pump. "Last year we were pumping down to levels of three feet depth, and that was mighty low. When it gets that low, we have to stop pumping. That means that we can't put 135,000 gallons of water a day into the mains. If there isn't that much there, we have to tell customers that we can't supply them. That means rationing water."

To farmers it may mean a slowing down of the growing season of second crops that will be sown after first crops are harvested. Many believe there is enough water in the soil now to serve germination until the middle of July. Once seed has germinated and pushed up, or once stems or stalks are and standing, farther rainfall means a hardening of the stock

Eclipse to Be Seen Here Early June 30

That once in a lifetime opportunity to see a total eclipse of the sun—the next one is calculated to occur in 1979—will take place Wednesday, June 30. Residents of Huron and Richland counties have a first class opportunity to witness this wonder of the planetary system.

Those living along a line lying roughly through Finlay, Marion, Newark and Marietta will see the eclipse at sunrise. West of this line the eclipse will already be in progress when the sun comes up. East of the line, the eclipse will begin after sunrise.

Astronomers recommend the setting of alarm clocks at an early rising.

The first eclipse, scientists say, was "so far gone in drink and excess" that they neglected to warn the people of the coming eclipse and were not present to lead the tremendous outburst of noise which, in those days, was the accepted method of dealing with such an event, as noise was supposed to drive away the dragons whose attempts to swallow the sun produced eclipses. For this omission the gentlemen were beheaded.

In Ohio, the eclipse will be partial, since about 80 percent of the sun will be covered by the moon. To see the total eclipse would require a jaunt to the upper peninsula of Michigan, where the belt of totality extends about 35 miles south of the shores of Lake Superior. The total eclipse lasts only 82 seconds.

Cunningham's Marathon Service will announce in next week's issue occurred in 2137 B. C., when two Chinese astronomers, Hsi and Ho,

Fees of $1,556.46

Clerk's fees amounting to $1,556.46 were received during May by Dana W. Call, clerk of the Court of Common Pleas of Huron county. Other fees collected were $434.35; and $4 for the Division of Wildlife.

A total of 47 cases was filed with the clerk, of which 14 were divorce actions, 20 civil cases, and 13 criminal.

The clerk issued 1,275 certificates of title, 479 notations of liens, 456 cancellations of liens, and eight duplicate certificates of title.

Drought Threat Thought Unharmful To Prospects, Business Survey Shows

Plymouth retail business is good and shows sign of holding steady for the summer, according to local merchant bankers and farmers. Despite reports of a sensational character that a drought is likely to cause difficulties for farmers in the middle of the summer, a business report that trade is at or better than the volume of this time last year. And 1953 was, for many of the merchants around the Square, the best ever.

"I would say business is good," says J. E. Nimmons, president of Peoples National Bank. "At least we think it is. Loan money is moving all right, deposits are holding up, people don't seem to be withdrawing their savings."

"Farmers can get money if they need it, but there aren't very many who've come to ask for it. Oh, a few are buying machinery and are looking for a six or seven month loan until their crops come in, but not many."

"No, sir, we think business is good, at least as good as last year, and shows signs of getting better."

The veteran banker's analysis of the current situation agrees with independent thoughts on the matter by individual business men. Although there has been some layoff of labor in such as Willard and Shelby, retail sales are holding up. This is particularly true in staples such as groceries.

"I haven't seen any sign of a bad spot," says Jerry Caywood, proprietor of Plymouth Cash Market. "We've been doing a good business, about as much as last year, which was a good one for us. I look for it to hold up well through the summer and maybe even pick up a bit in the fall."

Hardware stores throughout the state report a certain sliding off of business volume in the year ended April 30, according to a survey conducted by the Ohio State Department of Commerce. This may be true in larger communities but is certainly not applicable to Plymouth, reports Beryl Miller, partner with his son Bill and nephew Roger in Miller's Hardware on the Square. The veteran hardware merchant says "We've done better in the first quarter than we did in 1953, which was our biggest year ever. I'm certainly not crying the blues. No reason for it. Although some hardware dealers are in bad shape, we've had a good season and we don't look for any worsening. May this year was ahead of May last year, and in fact was the best May we ever had."

Retailers elsewhere, notably in semi-durable and soft consumer goods, have encountered some difficulty in marketing because of incursions made by large chains and by discount houses, which latter have caused serious difficulties for many old-line business firms in other places. There are no discount houses doing business around Plymouth, and except for one or possibly two firms, competitive price shaving has drawn in "good" business.

Even seasonal enterprise reports it has not suffered. Consider the case of Edward Ramsey, builder and proprietor of the Plymouth Drive-In. "Theaters are affected by a lot of things, including television and the size of the pay check, but we seem to be getting good business. Theaters are better off, as it has been for a few nights, we don't do much business, but when the stars are out, oh, man, how they come in," Mr. Ramsey says.

He states that theatregoers spend about 60 cents at the snack bar, for every dollar they spend at the gate. On Sunday night, he was all but sold out. An Advertiser reporter who called at the Drive-In was forced to park his car in the very last stall in order to watch the show.

Sale of automobiles is indicative of the level of business activity in any community, and Plymouth is no exception. Huron county clerk of the court of common pleas reports that 21 certificates of title for Plymouth village and Plymouth route residents have been registered since the turn of the year, and notations and cancellations of liens are about even. The same figures at Mansfield, where the Richland county clerk of the court of common pleas keeps the records, show 34 certificates since January 1.

Certainly not all of the sales are new cars. Indeed, most of them are used vehicles. Nevertheless, turnover has been good. One used car salesman states "I haven't had a dead week since I took this job almost a year ago." Most of his sales are in Plymouth.

New building is an index of business activity, but the special situation in Plymouth mitigates against its generally low figure. Mayor Glenn West reports that new building in Plymouth village since January 1 amounts to about $50,000. He is readying a report on the amount of total new assessed valuation accumulated in the village over the past year. It will be ready about June 30.

That promotional activities can lure more consumer spending has been proved elsewhere, and the annual band concerts in the Square may well be utilized by retail establishments in Plymouth to draw customers to town. Sound merchandising by advertising in the public prints and by suitable window displays are recommended by the Advertising Council as proper procedure for taking up the slack that normally occurs after school is out and before it resumes again in September.

Plymouth weathered the 1933-38 storm satisfactorily, and if there are, indeed, storm signals now, it seems prepared to weather another.

PROFIT BEFORE CONSCIENCE

Town Girls to Stop Fireworks Menace

Plymouth civic and law enforcement officials called on parents this week to help enforce Ohio's state prohibition against fireworks.

Postmaster Claude E. Sourwine said, "Transmission of fireworks and other explosives through the United States mails is forbidden and I have instructed personnel of the Plymouth office to refuse to accept for transmission any package containing fireworks. Packages which can be detected as containers of fireworks will be handed to the postal inspectors for action under the law."

Railway Express Agency officials announced that packages containing fireworks will be effected only against a written order of the county sheriff of local fire chief.

"I will not issue any permits to receive fireworks in contravention of Ohio state law, and a certainty not where I know or suspect that children will handle them," Fire Chief D. E. McDougall announced.

Police Chief Robert Meiser pointed out that penalties have been established for selling fireworks ($100 and costs maximum fine) and shooting fireworks ($50 and costs). "Any children detected shooting fireworks will be held and we will deal with their parents," Chief Meiser said today.

A THANK YOU NOTE

I would like to express my gratefulness to Fr. Dowds, Dr. Ellery, and the nurses of Shelby Memorial hospital for their kindness. Mark Louie and I also want to thank our friends for their kind remembrances.

and a stifling of seed pods. Grain farmers in particular will be hurt. To stockers, shortage of water means hauling purchased water for daily stock needs. Last year the rate for hauled water was 70 cents a thousand gallons, and the village made no money at that figure.

When water is short, it takes on the value of blood. And, like blood, you can pump only so much out. After that, we stand in the need of prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gangliss, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Fife and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pauley, arrangements committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buchanan of Plymouth were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Buchanan and family. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Doyle, her daughter and her sister, of Deshler, were Sunday evening callers in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wilcox accompanied the teachers of the Shelby schools to a dinner at the Smorgasbord at Bellville Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lottie Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Babcock and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller attended commencement exercises Thursday evening at St. Paul's school, Newark. Miss Shirley Neston was a member of the graduating class. She is a granddaughter and niece of those attending.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry and children spent Sunday at Cleveland with her sister, Mrs. Bill Keeper and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Palmer, Jr. and son, Tommy and Mrs. Henry Chapman spent Friday and Saturday at Pleasant Camp, Pa., with the Rev. Charles Kendig and the M.Y.F. group, who spent last week there. They furnished transportation for some of the members back home.

The High Road Sunday school class held a business meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ruth Chapman.

The Official Church Board meeting was held Wednesday evening at the Church.
