

Council Plans Vote On Sewer

If Plymouth is to have a sewage disposal plant and sewer system this year, the village council met Tuesday night, an enabling ordinance must be passed by the first meeting in July. But, the council further noted, nobody seems to know how much it will cost, or how that present estimates are to be made.

Even the company that made them admits that fact. Plymouth has so far paid $7,300 for engineering fees to Stillson Engineering Company of Columbus for services in connection with planning of the sewage disposal system and Mayor Glenn West informed the council Tuesday that the company wants another $2,000 to supplement the surveys made to incorporate latest requirements of the State Department of Health. This prompted the board to inquire whether another company might not be able to do the job as well and for less money, and the mayor was empowered to look into this.

So the spout of the whole discussion was that Village Solicitor Joseph Dush was instructed to consult with experts on the drafting of an ordinance which will be suitable for getting the decision to buy and finance a sewage disposal plant on the ballot in November. Under Ohio law, 110 days are allowed prior to the election for the placing of the measure on the referendum. Election day this year is Nov. 2, which leaves the council a deadline of July 15. With that the requirements of law specifying that ordinances must be read at least twice, the council has until the last date on which the council could act.

West and Councilman Elmer Markley learned at Columbus Friday that it would be possible for the measure to be placed on the ballot without a complete plan as of the time of application, the bill would be worked out during the 110 days in sufficient time so the council can explain it to the voters.

It is this procedure the council apparently intends to follow in this instance. Solicitor Dush will endeavor to prepare a draft ordinance that will incorporate the sums of money to be raised on mortgage bonds, sewage bonds, and general revenue bonds, and the council will discuss this project for the voters.

Sanitary sewers were not the only subject brought up before the council. During Tuesday's downpour Mayor West and Councilman Markley were summoned by Clarence Barnes to his property in West Broadway to see what the storm sewer was doing. Apparently it was doing all it was allowed to do and a good deal more. At least West and Markley convinced the council that this was the case. All agreed that a serious situation exists, and that the way to solve it is to construct additional storm sewer lines in the area. The law provides, Solicitor Dush stated, that property holders, whether collectively or singly, may petition for the work to be done, the pro-rated cost to be added to the tax bill by the county engineer, who determines the cost and the share of each property owner in the improvement.

So Mr. Barnes will have to carry the ball himself if he wants relief. He got plenty of sympathy, but the council realized its hands were tied. Richard county commissioners will be approached for assistance. Clerk Carl V. Ellis' accounts were approved at the June 8 meeting as follows:

Mrs. Cora McIntire Dies Suddenly; Death Also Takes Mrs. Ella Smith

Death came to two long-time Plymouth residents this week. Last of a pioneer family that settled in this area about 1805, Mrs. Cora B. McIntire, 78, succumbed to a heart attack Saturday at Norwalk hospital. Mrs. McIntire's death was unexpected. She had been treated at an Elyria hospital for a fractured hip and was being removed to Wilgar hospital when the heart attack occurred. Her husband, Robert M. McIntire, directed her removal to Norwalk hospital, where she died a few minutes after arrival. Mrs. McIntire was within a few weeks of her 79th birthday. She was the widow of Jay McIntire, a dry goods merchant who operated McIntire's store on the Public Square for many years prior to his death in 1951. Her only son, Robert, survives. There are two grandchildren. Last Monday she was conducted Sunday by the Rev. L. E. Smith, pastor of the Plymouth Methodist church, to the funeral home yesterday at 2 p. m. Interment was in the Edgemoor cemetery. Floral tributes from friends and business associates of her late husband were numerous. Additionally, a group of friends, knowing Mrs. McIntire's attitude in these matters, applied the cost of flowers to a special fund from which a memorial to the deceased was purchased. Mrs. McIntire's public library, Mrs. Sam Fenner is receiving contributions. Bearers were Carl Lofland, John Gilgar, Ralph Hunt, Ben Blanchard and William Moore and part Wilford. Mrs. Ella W. Smith, widow of the late Ella Smith, was found dead in her home at 148 Sandusky street Monday. She was 88 years old and had lived in Plymouth 59 years. Mrs. Smith was born at Cleveland on Jan. 22, 1866. She is survived by a son, Charles E. Smith and a daughter, Mrs. M. M. Smith. She has 15 great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Alberta Handville of Ashland. Mrs. Smith was a member of Plymouth Methodist church, whose pastor, the Rev. L. E. Smith, conducted funeral services at the McQuate Funeral home yesterday at 2 p. m. Interment was in the Edgemoor cemetery in Ripley township.

Coon Gives Report For '53-'54, Putting Enrollment at 486

Total enrollment in Plymouth public schools at the close of the year was 486, Superintendent J. Coon states in his annual report released this week.

Of these, 57 were in the first grade, 42 in the second, 41 third, 37 fourth, 53 fifth, 53 sixth, 41 seventh, and 33 eighth. Ninth graders numbered 25, tenth 36, eleventh 23 and twelfth 24.

School sessions were held 169 days during the year. Weather forced closing of the schools five days, two days were given over to teachers' meetings, and four days were completed holidays. Thus 180 days of school credit were attained in 1953-54.

Total school attendance amounted to 76,307 days, while average attendance in grades 1 through 6 was 272. The same figure for grades 7 through 12 was 179.

In addition to 24 diplomas handed out to pupils of the twelfth grade, a diploma was authorized by the Board of Education for forwarding to Eugene Chronister, whose supervisor certified he had completed his public accountancy, before his departure from Plymouth schools.

School library facilities were expanded during the year. Some 100 books were added at an expense of about $500 to bring the total number of volumes to about 2,050.

Forty tuition pupils from the New Haven school district were in regular attendance in Plymouth schools during the school year.

Superintendent Coon's report shows balances of $214.87 in the general account and $500.26 in the elementary account, and deficits of $23.32 in the public account and $126.29 in the band account.

130 Basswoods Attend Reunion

Seven Plymouth residents went to Seltzer Park, Shelby, Saturday for the Basswood reunion, and backed up the nostalgic memories of the days when Lafayette Akers, Otis Grafmiller, Harry Morrow, E. L. Kemp, the Rev. Jefferson Adams and Burr Kahn held forth in sociable conversation.

It was the 29th reunion of the group. Those who attended included Mrs. C. C. Pugh, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross, Mrs. Lottie Scott, Mrs. Edith Thrush, Mrs. H. C. Farnold, Mrs. Peyton Siddall, associate with a former marriage to Miss Dora Fenner, cousin of Mrs. Searle, who died in 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton W. Thomas were the featured speakers at the reunion, which was held Tuesday, 1953, at the same time and place, it was announced.

How About It, Friends?

Monday was Flag Day, the one holiday during the year when all Americans should pay honor to the flag as symbol of the unity of purpose and substance that characterizes our country.

But you wouldn't have known it from a look around Plymouth. By noon Monday only six flags were shown, and one of these was the same flag that is shown every day the United States post office is open for business.

Perhaps The Advertiser is at fault, for not calling the holiday to the attention of its readers last week. We think not. Flag Day was a holiday, duly and properly observed, long before the editor was born. Woodrow Wilson made it what it is - or should be - and since his time every president, in good times and bad, in war or peace, has issued a proclamation declaring June 14 as Flag Day.

While we're about it, we might draw to the attention of every good American an incident that occurred Saturday night in the Public Square. Under the direction of Robert Dubbert, the Plymouth High school band played the National Anthem. Some citizens paid it the honor that law and custom require: they stood silently at attention, facing the music. But by far the greater number of people in the Square went about their business, talking and chatting and remaining seated on the green benches that are, we are told, specifically not to be occupied when the National Anthem is played.

The very same people that we noted to be seated on the benches when the National Anthem was played were those who complained to us recently that the younger generation is going to the dogs, that it has lost all respect for traditional rules of conduct.

Do we hear anyone rising to a point of order? If not, then, ladies and gentlemen, how about it?

Mayor Wields Law, Cracks Down on Four To Tune of $30, Costs

If you're hunting speeders, Saturday night seems the best time. At least, that's the conclusion of Police Chief Robert Meiser, who had another culprit before Mayor Glenn West last night.

This one was Paul Fry, of Shelby, apprehended Saturday traveling at 50 miles an hour in Sandusky street.

At how sternly these offenders are dealt with is illustrated by the results of Mayor West's weekly housecleaning of traffic cases on June 9.

David Miller, 152 Boughton avenue, Mansfield, paid $10 fine and costs after he admitted speeding at 50 miles an hour at 1:25 p. m. June 5 in Plymouth street.

The same case was meted out to Thomas E. Tucker, 656 West View road, Mansfield, who will have to sing for his supper or the equivalent thereof before he recovers the $10 fine and costs he paid to Mayor West.

P. Van Scoder of Loudonville had deposited $5 to cover appearance to answer charges of speeding at 50 miles an hour in Plymouth street June 5. Mr. Van Scoder apparently thought he was getting a ticket before he recovered the $10 fine and costs he paid to Mayor West.

Superintendent Coon's report shows balances of $214.87 in the general account and $500.26 in the elementary account, and deficits of $23.32 in the public account and $126.29 in the band account.

Democrats Name Plymouth Mayor

Appointment of Mayor Glenn West to the Huron County Democratic Executive Central committee brings to two the number of village officials serving their parties in the Huron County area.

Carl V. Ellis, village clerk, is a member of the Republican Executive Central committee.

M. E. Buckingham, New Haven representative here in the Democratic committee.

New Haven Board Calls on Public For School Ideas

A public meeting to ascertain if there is sufficient support for an addition to New Haven High school will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the New Haven auditorium.

The Board of Education has been investigating ways and means of financing the proposed addition for several months and has consulted architects for plans and suggestions. A meeting of minds has occurred with the general approval by the public - on the November ballot, July 10 is the deadline date, and the pattern in Huron county has been in the past that after a school district expresses itself in favor of school expenditures conservative elements opposed to additional taxation generate misgivings among the public.

The Board and the forward movement of the building program is stopped.

The Board, which consists of Claude Bauer, president, Dale Osborne, vice-president, Neil Slesman, treasurer, Roseberry and Junior Sharda, with Ed Postema as clerk, will have on display mockups and flat plans of several types of additional buildings, and means of financing them.

One of the problems to be encountered by the Board is the acquisition of land. Present land holdings barely meet the needs of the school, and it is doubtful that adjoining land can be acquired.

Poppy Sales Good, Mrs. Brown Says

Mrs. Stacy Brown, chairman of the poppy campaign committee of the Ehret-Parsell Post, American Legion auxiliary, reports sale of about 1,300 of the little red flowers during Memorial day sales on the streets of Plymouth.

The sum of $197.75 was collected, an astonishing amount, Mrs. Brown said this week. "We want to thank all those who helped us so splendidly in collecting this sum of money," Mrs. Brown said. "All of it is used exclusively for needy veterans and their families. Many times people ask me how much of it is spent for our good times, and I am glad to tell them that we pay for that ourselves. Not one penny do we collect in the poppy campaign goes for anything but to the veterans."

Plymouth Girl Scouts and ladies of the auxiliary are entitled to particular thanks, Mrs. Brown said.

House Destroyed

A vacant dwelling on the Clyde Flanagan farm in McGuffey township, now owned by Reed Noble, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon after it had been occupied for a short time.

The Shubert fire department was on the fire with no success.

Flash Rain inundates Cellars $50-65,000 Damage Attributed to Rains Of Wednesday Night

In rain as none can remember inundated Plymouth last night, causing damages variously estimated at between $50,000 and $65,000.

Inability of storm sewers to cope with surface water was said by local authorities to have been responsible for backed up drains and full cellars.

Business houses on the north side of the Public Square, in East Main street, had to be pumped out. Millers' Hardware at 8 p. m. last night had water in its basement nearly hip deep. The Advertiser had seven inches of water in its cellar.

Don Willett, who operates a shoe and harness establishment in Sandusky street, was the first to report flooding. He lost a roll of new leather valued at $350 and had damages to an electric motor. Prized dogs quartered in the basement were removed in time.

Millers' hardware stocks were damaged considerably. In addition to staple items such as nails, rope and wire were in the basement, electrical equipment was also touched by rising water.

Superintendent of Light and Water, Carl V. Ellis, turned out promptly with a pump to assist some who were hard hit, but a whole day of pumping appeared to be necessary to evacuate all water.

Water surged through the furniture store of R. Earl McQuate and swept across the floor. A party was held down by prompt action by Mrs. McQuate and their sons' Jack 16, and Douglas, 12, both of whom turned out to assist neighbors in need.

Houses in Mills avenue were awash to five feet. John Giger's washing machine was swept only down to the floor. A roll of the wringer and the house of Mrs. Ralph Hunt, 17 Mills avenue, had four feet of water in its cellar. A big elm tree in a yard on the street snapped off and crossed the fence into the next property.

Other traffic opposite the Wilco-Roof extension was necessary until late last night. Water lay in a huge lake across the lower portion of the property. The Black Forests of Plymouth were mired and at least two feet over its banks.

Police to Sponsor Circus Showing Friday, June 25

Bare of bands, toot of callipers and roar of caged animals will be heard here Friday, June 25, when Ring Bros. Circus presents its colorful show.

Lumbering elephants, colorful camels, aoudas, midget cattle from the Lost Canyon, lions, bears, monkeys, spirit horses, and the smallest performing baby elephant in America today, comical clowns, pretty girls on the flying trapeze, and all that goes to make up a circus will be seen in two performances at 2:15 and 8:15. Doors to the big show will open an hour earlier.

The circus tents will be erected opposite the Bachrach's. Among the exciting acts carried with the big show this season is the world famous Silverkates, celebrated acrobats and aerialists, Danny Misra, Delisa performs head-footed on the semi-slack wire, unaided by any balancing apparatus. Another of her accomplishments is a head-balancing act on the flying trapeze, high in the dome of the big top, without any net or safety devices. She defies death at every performance.

Other top-notch acts on the program this year are the Hodges troupe, coming here direct from the East Indies, in London, England, first time ever in America. They do a whirlwind trampoline act, featuring Miss Beryl Hazelwood in a series of backward somersaults on the trampoline. Edna Hodgins leads a large clown contingent and he promises to uncoil some of the tightest gags.

The circus feature this year is the Hodgin's Funny Fod.

The circus is sponsored by the Plymouth Police Department. Popular shows will be held at 2:15 and 8:15.

All for his Art!

Here is a fellow who gave up his all for his art.

Otis Port, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Port of the New Haven road (and printer of The Advertiser) is the youngest member of the staff of the Buckeye Boys' State newspaper, the Hettuck, at the 17th annual encampment of the young men of the Buckeye county on the Federalist ticket, as well as the post of county engineer.

The Hettuck is published daily with news exclusively from the Boys' State encampment. Port is responsible for drawing cartoons, comic strips, and lettering. He is also the editor. He must file back issues of the paper and act as reporter where necessary. The advisers claim that if a young man does all this, he can't run for political office. Little do they know!

Young Port was assigned to Hettuck City in McGuffey township. His complete address is: Otis Port, V-10, Herbert City, McGuffey county, Buckeye Boys' State, Camp Perry, Port Clinton, Ohio.

State Government: The Scene Reverts: Around the Square

By Phineas Whittleseed — THE POLICE CRUISER has a new thingumbob which holds a sawedoff shotgun, both a recent acquisition by Bob Meiser & Co. Bob won't say if the shells for the gun are loaded with rock salt...

The Water Bill Increase It was refreshing to note that the village council approved promptly the request of the Board of Public Affairs for authority to raise the minimum water rate, and equally encouraging to see that the Board has asked for a bold increase of 50 per cent of the rate.

from Washington by Jack K. Russell Under the recently-passed McGregor Highway bill, sponsored by Richard County Congressman Harry J. McGreggor, about $32,000,000 in federal aid funds for intra-state highways in Ohio.

from Columbus by Redmond Shannon One of the questions that's being bandied about the State House in this sweltering city is what's going to become of the $32 million highways and roads meldon allotted to Ohio.

from Mansfield by Rich Lovel Under Brown voted "aye" to the bill which authorizes to spend county funds to acquire voting machines to be installed as the county board of elections may direct.

from Norwalk by Henry Filmer, 2nd It's only 20 weeks to election, and while sultry weather keeps candidates' lowered crown like the rest of us, that's no sign the electioneering isn't going on. But it's slow, and so far it amounts to no more than a general blocking out of what the candidates will do when it gets cool enough to do it.

ONE OF THE GUYS at the Coffee Cak says that although he bought one of these gas-driven lawnmowers so his kids would find it easier to mow the lawn, he finds the reverse is true. "The first couple of times it was a picnic for 'em," quoth he, "but now I gotta drag 'em, only harder than ever." Which reminds us that "Digger" McQuate is holding a promissory note he can't collect on. It says something like "if you will buy me a pair of Scotty binoculars, I will mow the grass 10 times." It's signed by Douglas McQuate. "The binoculars have been delivered, of course."

That the increase was a bold one is laudable indeed. It is better to suffer the blow at one punch than it is to withstand gradual blows of increasing force.

This newspaper has heard some adverse criticism of the Board's decision, and wishes to make clear to its friends and readers that it stands four-square behind the Board's decision. To Messrs. Brown and Lovering the officials who made the decision, it offers congratulations.

Under the new highway aid law local village engineers and county commissioners will have the chance for the first time to participate directly in federal aid road funds without meeting rigid federal specifications.

Firstly, they argue, there's a built-in gimmick. The $32 million is broken down into $12 million for primary roads, $10 million for secondary roads, and $10 million for urban or city roads. The first two allocations will undoubtedly be worked out so that the county engineers will have ultimate decision over distribution of funds. It is over the third allocation that the fight will develop.

That Plymouth county commissioners have been authorized to spend county funds to acquire voting machines to be installed as the county board of elections may direct.

There are signs that the important race in Huron county this year will be between County Commissioner H. W. (Bill) Leech and his Democratic opponent, Mayor Clayton Lord of Monroeville.

TOM RIORRAN, the genial publisher at Greenwhich, tells us of an interesting human interests tale in his town. Seems a white boy, Tom thinks it was three or four years - an old gentleman was trying to make his way across Route 224 in high traffic and wasn't having much luck, since he was infirm. A young lady happened by and took him by the arm and helped him across. Grateful, he took out a notebook and wrote her name and address in it and promised to remember her.

Here's the way the new law works in a nutshell: The city or town highway engineer, or his counterpart, draws plans for needed road work and submits them to the village engineer. In the case of Plymouth, plans could go to both Huron and Richland Counties.

Because $10 million is nowhere near enough money to meet the needs of repairing city or urban streets in Ohio. That much could be spent in some of the larger cities. Cincinnati needs that much and more to take care of its problems.

THIS SPRING, the young lady took it into her head to get wedded, and she needed a tressouer. Not having the ready cash, she wondered where it might be found. She noted in that paper in Greenwhich (it's the enterprise-review, but don't say we said so) that the old gentleman she had helped across the street had died in Grafton, Wis. She wrote to learn if he had kept his promise to remember her for being so kind to him. In less than a week she received a letter from the young lady, saying she had left all his money to a nephew in Seattle.

EVER BEEN in the back of Dick Fackler's shop? There's a guy who has the antique bug but bad... OUR MAN IN Shiloh, in case you've overlooked it, is Harry Foster, who can be found at an eatery this side of the post office in Main street. Name of Chuck Wagon, where you can also buy a copy of the best weekly paper sold in Shiloh...

INTEREST in Phin's proposal to start a softball league is not all it might have been, and Phin is making one last effort to get it going. Last call, fellers! NEXT TO HANGING around fire buffs, horse talk is what delights us most. Like what you hear around the shoe emporium operated by Don Willett, when Frank BeVier is around...

THE LUTHERANS seem hepped up about their new pastor, whom they hope to induce to accept the charge here shortly. Glad to welcome the new gentlemen, and if there's anything we can do to make them happier, please let us know. (Note: this goes only up to, but not as far as, signing a check.)
