250 Call on Searles On 50th Anniversary

They poured in at Doc Searle's Sunday, friends and neighbors and kin from far and near, to wish Doc and his bride of 50 years ago happy anniversary.

Mrs. Searle, the former Bertha Fenner, wore the same gown, of white batiste with ruffles and a handsome yellow sash, that she wore when she was a bride. The doctor knew it was her show, and he beamed as she showed her handsome golden anniversary gift to her old chums. It was a pair of dainty diamond and gold ear clips.

The guests looked upon some of the memorabilia that Mrs. Searle has treasured all these years, specially exhibited in places of honor about the gracious old house in West Broadway where Doc practiced medicine for half a century. There was a pair of delicate Howard Bristol vases, not very high, obviously quality work, that had been brought to the Reserve country by Mrs. Searle's grandmother, Mrs. Felix Fenner, in a covered wagon more years ago than anyone cares to remember. The vases were wrapped in a feather comforter then, and it was apparent Mrs. Fenner's granddaughter has kept them just as precisely.

There were other treasures that Bertha Searle has kept through the years. One of them was a gold brooch belonging to her mother, that she wore when she and the doctor were married. Another was the ring that sealed the bargain, the same ring her mother wore and the same ring her daughter, Eleanor, carried when she married Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Mrs. Searle carried 50 tiny yellow roses, arranged in a tight bridal bouquet, and there were also 50 yellow roses surrounding the three-tiered cake.

Friends came from far and near to the open house, which lasted well beyond the six o'clock closing hour. They were greeted by the hostesses rounded up by Mrs. Whitney to assist with the affair.

Including among them were Miss Jessie Trauger, Mrs. Miles Christian, Miss Madeline Smith, Miss Florence Danner of Shelby, Mrs. Sam Fenner, Mrs. Peyton W. Thomas, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Ward Martin, Mrs. George Swank, Mrs. Frances Guthrie, and Mrs. George J. Searle, Jr., the doctor's daughter-in-law. They were chosen because they've been old family friends since 'way back when.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ward Martin and daughter, Audrey, of Cleveland and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Fenner of Cleveland. Also, there were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Whiting, Guy Shawk, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Underhill, Mrs. Ida Fenner, and the George Swanks from Mansfield. Upper Sandusky sent Miss Clair Gibson. From Oberlin came Mr. and Mrs. James Sims and sons, Mrs. Sims is the former Peggy Himes. The Rev. and Mrs. M. F. Patznick and sons from Bucyrus were among the guests.

Young Searle Whitney wore in and about the crowd taking pictures with the new camera presented him by his grandfather and grandmother. He queried the official photographer with the question of the day: "If you have a small camera and make an enlargement, will I have to take my large camera and make an enlargement?"

Mr. Johnny Root was there, congratulating his old friend. Young Doc Searle was there, too, backing up his dad like a proud lieutenant honoring the point of his brace-mate. And young Doc's daughter, Katherine Eleanor, who is ready to head for the American Academy or the Theatre in New York to study.

It was an occasion the Searles won't soon forget, if ever. Neither will Plymouth, from the looks of things.

New Clerk Named

Miss Betty Reed, 17, daughter of Mrs. Donna Reed of the Shelby road, has joined the staff of Packler's Juvenile shop on the Public Square. She is a senior in Plymouth High school.

Miss Reed, who started to work on June 16, joins Mrs. Gordon Sealoffs on the staff.

A July 4 Reminder:

We are willing to wager money, marbles or chocolate that come the morning of July 6th, there will be the grisly news that 300-odd Americans have lost their lives in highway mishaps over the weekend. We wish this would not be true, for it is a wager we would cheerfully lose. But as sure as He made little green apples, we will have that many dead or dying because folks were careless.

We have a prescription for this ailment, a sure-fire preventative for killing so many good citizens so foolishly. It's orange juice. You don't take it while you're riding at 50 miles an hour in a 30 mile zone, or while you're failing to give the right of way to another car. You take it instead of—instead of going out in your car over the week end, stay home, and drink orange juice, or some suitable substitute.

It is a pity that no organized festivities in Plymouth this year will lure our fellow citizens to its gates and keep them off the roads. Mansfield and Shelby have such jamborees scheduled, and while the patriotic motivation is unquestionable, it is no secret that the main reason for them is to keep folks at home.

Next year, perhaps, Plymouth will have some sort of organized observance of Independence Day, the day we celebrate because we reared up on our hind legs and declared we would wear no man's yoke. In these times, confronted as we are by threats of an alien culture both within and without our hemisphere, it is particularly fitting that we should reflect upon the origins and motives of our independence.

In the past, and in the days to come, The Advertiser will urge its readers to act in one way or another, in favor of or opposed to some idea or other. If its readers ignore all of its suggestions except this one, The Advertiser will feel its job well done. And that suggestion is this: stay home over the Fourth. Stay healthy. Take orange juice. Take it instead of driving.

And if you've got to go out, perhaps to get more orange juice, remember the stableman's advice: "Whip light and drive slow."

Near Catastrophe

There was a near catastrophe public on Saturday. A culture .32 pistol which had been loaned by dozens of curious buyers proved to be fully loaded, and when auctioneer Richard Fox broke it open and ejected the shells he thought he had disarmed the weapon.

An unidentified fool took it up and fortuitously inspected it. There was one round left in the chamber. By this time, worried bystanders realized the potential of the situation and destroyed the ammunition.

Silver King Line Sold By Fate-Root-Heath To West Virginia Firm

Sale of the Silver King tractor division to the Mountain State Fabricating Company of Clarksville, W. Va. was announced Tuesday by the Fate-Root-Heath Co.

Production and sales of Silver King will be resumed as soon as jigs, fixtures, inventory and work-in-progress can be moved to the Clarksville factory. Future manufacturing operations and sales policy will be controlled by Mountain State Fabricating Company. However, many former dealers of the Fate-Root-Heath Company will continue to sell Silver King tractors. The Silver King is the most recent acquisition of post-war products by Mountain State Fabricating Company in its shift from defense to civilian production. During 1952 and 1953 total manufacturing effort was devoted to producing hydraulically operated tractor cranes in the 2 1/2 to 5 ton lift capacity for the armed services.

While Mountain State Fabricating Company is a relatively new organization, it has enjoyed tremendous growth in recent years. Principal products during the early years of business were several types which provided the technical and production background for additional products in the company's expansion program.

The management of Mountain State Fabricating company feels that tractor sales and production will become one of its prime endeavors in future years. Immediate steps are being taken to expand the legal organization.

Lewis H. Helm has been named manager of Silver King tractor sales for Mountain State Fabricating Company. Information regarding Silver King tractors should be addressed in care of Mr. Helm, Mountain State Fabricating Company, P. O. Box 1146, Clarksville.

Council Shops For Cheaper Sewers

With time rapidly running out, Plymouth's village council came to grips with the sewage disposal problem Tuesday night, seeking to establish exactly where it stands now.

What it found out is still lacking for details, which will be supplied Tuesday night, but it seemed clear council had established some time ago are valid. These include:

1. The estimates furnished by Stillson Engineering Co. of Columbus are too high.
2. The vote of disposal plant recommended is not required to serve the community's needs, and a different type might save the village money.
3. The additional $2,000 in charges which the engineering firm thinks ought to be paid by the village for some additional surveys is probably high.
4. The village can "fire" Stillson by writing a letter of termination.

The expert summoned by the council was frank in stating that he from the sketchy information at hand he could not state accurately how much a different type of system might cost. But he promised to return Tuesday night to give additional details. And he won't charge the village anything for his preliminary study of the plans and sketches.

If the council decides to go ahead with the new plans that will be outlined by expert Tuesday night, it will have to file a letter of termination with Stillson. The new engineering firm, if it is in fact engaged, will of course be entitled to 100 per cent of the gross value of the contract commission for supervising the work. From this figure will, of course, be deducted any fees which the firm may collect for engineering studies prior to undertaking the work.

Solicitor Joseph Dush was absent from the meeting because he was in Cleveland consulting with legal experts for the purpose of drafting an ordinance which the council will consider Tuesday. The ordinance will encourage the village to state authorities to put the bond issue for the sewerage disposal plant on the November ballot.

While the legal deadline has now been set for Aug. 4 at 4 p.m. for this kind of action, the council will need a period of about three weeks to prepare the necessary paperwork and clear the proposal with state officials.

Councilman Elmer E. Markley could not attend as he is on leave. Councilman John Dick is still in South America on business. Councilman Ben Smith returned after an absence necessitated by illness.

DETAINER ISSUED

Virgil Stevens, Willard driver who was fined $30 and costs by the court last week because he drove recklessly on the Shiloh road and overturned, failed to appear Tuesday night to pay the balance of his fine. Police Chief Robert Meiser issued a detainer against Stevens' appearance to pay his fine or go to jail.

1955 Budget of $1.7 Million Drafted By Richland County Auditor Wolfe

Richland county commissioners will be asked to approve a budget amounting to $1,685,426 for the next fiscal year, Auditor Norman Wolfe says. The budget and the budget will allow for about a five per cent increase in operating funds for almost all major county offices.

Wolfe says the budget, which he will submit to the commissioners on July 10, calls for outlays amounting to some $300,000 less than last year.

Richland county's revenue deriving this year from auto license and gasoline tax funds will total about $7,100,000, Wolfe says, and next year will amount to $6,600,000. The difference is due to certain legislative changes made recently.

Some $32,000 has been lopped off the county's jail and agricultural funds by the auditor in his draft budget. One reason why it could be done is that the courthouse has been all but completely repaired. Expenses in the next year are estimated to total $57,200.

Fourth Well Bone Dry As Rationing Looms, Board Announces

The fourth of a series of test wells to prove up a water supply of 100,000 additional gallons a day was a dry hole, the Board of Public Affairs announced Tuesday night.

Unless another hole which will be drilled in two weeks taps into water-bearing sand, the Board will frankly be forced to consider the piping of water from a well near New Haven, over a distance of 1.5 miles. With pipe at $5.50 a foot to install and hook up, the Board has had dreams of an outlay of $45,000.

The next question is where to find the money, but the Board is keeping its attention to the finding of water first.

The water expert, File of Greenwich, who has drilled almost every well put down in the area over the past 15 to 20 years, thinks that water can be found further north and east of the sites investigated last week. If an artesian water, the cost will be less than the $45,000 that scares the Board now.

For this well would represent a good source not over 1,500 feet from the pumping station, it would belong to Evans. Even so, the Board will need to lay out about $5,000 to install pipes and equipment to draw upon the well.

The Board is reluctant to broach the question of the expense of obtaining more water at a time when the village is considering a bond issue to finance a sewage disposal plant.

It has sought the guidance and advice of the village council in this regard, and the answer has been encouraging so far as the need to find water is concerned. Nobody seems to have any answer to the question of cost.

The water well which interests the Board and the Board members investigated Tuesday, was drilled about 20 years ago by Mr. File. He drilled it on speculation, in hopes he could sell the water to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. (Continued on Page Six)

Teachers Shower Robert Dubberts

Ten teachers of the Plymouth schools joined last night to give a baby shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dubberts.

The shower was at the home of Mrs. Harold Farrar in Mulberry street. The baby has been named Robert Allen. But he wasn't there. Seems he was delayed for nourishment.

The teachers cradled the gifts in a small wooden cot. Refreshments were served, but no milk. Robert Allen had that.

They also approved Upper Sandusky as the site for the next convention. Officers were elected, to include Jack Riddle, Port Clinton, president; Fire Chief Paul Soles, Ashland, vice president; Earl Campbell, Napoleon, re-elected secretary for the ninth year; and Frank Ottney, re-elected treasurer for the 14th year.

Free Polio Shots To Be Given Kids Who Got Only SALT

Free polio vaccinations will be given to those children who received a harmless salt injection in the recent polio vaccine field trials held in Richland county, it is announced by Dr. Russell H. Barnes, president of the Richland Medical society.

He said that he and City-County Health commissioner Dr. Harry Wain started making arrangements last fall to have Richland county used as a test area. Richland county had the second highest polio rate in the state last year. Of the 42 cases reported last year 15 of them were in the six-to-nine age group and that is why that group was chosen for the test. Some 2,472 children participated in the group. Every station used in the test was in top hygienic condition, Dr. Barnes said. A blood test was taken of 147 children to be used in studies to determine the lasting effect of the vaccine. Additional test will be made on these children in September and a year later.

Dr. Barnes announced that all county polio cases will be sent to a Cleveland hospital where better facilities and a statistical check for purpose of the trials can be made. The doctor recommended rest in bed in the early days of any suspected polio symptoms. "A person will not be so violently attacked if he remains quiet," he said.

Because the manufacturing of the serum is so difficult and expensive, it will not be available to the general public until 1956, it is estimated.

Entler Prohibits Swimming in Pond

"Sorry, kids, no more swimming or fishing in Entler's pond."

L. H. Entler announces that uninvited guests - to whom he had no objections subject to good behavior, were abusing their welcome. He says valuable items have disappeared from the site, and as he knows who the wrong doers are, he hopes they will tremen what they took.

Until the property is recovered, Mr. Entler declines to permit swimming or fishing.

From a weight standpoint, it takes more coal (231,000 lbs.) than steel (208,000 lbs.) to make a 5,000-hp electric motor.

Hazel Grove Ladies Aid met yesterday instead of today, which would have been their regular day. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lowell Strauss, Mrs. Jack Stotts, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Russell Barbour, and Mrs. Kenneth Baker assisted the hostess.

Sunday the group held its annual picnic along with the Hazel Grove Jolly club at the Pleasant Hill dam. About 50 guests attended. The committee in charge of the arrangements included Mrs. George Stroup, Emmet Egner, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Morse.

Dear Depositor:

It seems like it was only yesterday, but just 20 years ago we commenced to insure each and every one of our deposits for $5,000. In two decades, we've doubled that figure. All deposits are now insured at $10,000, under the provisions of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

We at Peoples National think that insured deposits are one way of keeping America free. Those patriots who signed the Declaration of Independence at Philadelphia were attached to the principles that the whole world knows, from reading it, are ours, and ours alone . . .

Insured deposits, sound management, and friendly service in our air conditioned building are what make Peoples National a bulwark of our republican system.

Stop in, or drop us a note by mail, for we also do banking by mail, and strike a blow for American independence, because when you make a deposit in a substantial and reliable bank, you're doing just what Tom Jefferson was thinking of when he wrote . . .

"to promote the general welfare"

Yours faithfully,

Phillips Family Gathers at Fremont For Clyde's Marriage to Mary Markley

A wedding at Fremont was the occasion for a gathering of the Phillips family recently. Miss Mary Markley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Markley of Fremont, became the bride of Clyde Anthony Phillips, son of Mrs. Albin O. Kohler, Plymouth rural, and the late Edward Phillips, on June 1. The couple was married at St. Ann's Catholic church at Fremont by the Rev. Harold Chidole.

Mr. Markley gave the bride in marriage. She was gowned in Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. Her head dress was a Juliet cap covered with pearls and sequins to which a fingertip veil was attached. She carried a white Bible covered with lilies of valley and gardenias, and wore a single strand of pearls which was a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Helen Welch, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She was gowned in light blue lace and nylon tulle and carried pink carnations. Mrs. Robert Markley, a sister-in-law, was the matron of honor and her dress was similar to the maid of honor's.

Mary Kay Phillips, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Bobby Phillips, a nephew, was the ring bearer. Thomas Phillips was his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert Markley, David Baker, and Gerald McKoy.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served in the Jackson hotel dining room. A reception was held later in the day. The young couple left for a two-week honeymoon to Colorado, and are now at home at New Haven.

2.5% Earnings Paid By Mansfield Bank

The board of directors of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan association, with offices at 127 Park Avenue west, Mansfield, has just declared semi-annual earnings on all savings accounts for the first half of 1954 at the annual rate of 2 1/2 per cent.

In announcing the 2 1/2 per cent rate, John C. Rautzon, vice president and sales manager, stated that the first half of 1954 has been an outstanding period in the 62-year history of Peoples Federal. Since January 1, 1954, new funds on savings accounts have approximated $6,000,000, with total assets now aggregating more than $27,000,000. This, Mr. Rautzon stated, is indicative of the continuing increased popularity on the part of the public in investing savings in insured savings and loans at a good rate of return. The semi-annual financial statement will reflect a strong reserve and liquidity position with an unusually high ratio of cash and U. S. Government bond holdings.

Mrs. Rhine Wins

Mrs. James Rhine, 58 Dick street, is the owner of a Sealy Posturepedic mattress which she won through a contest held at McQuate's Furniture store. All Ohio Sealy dealers were part of the contest, and Mrs. Rhine won over the other 150 who entered here. The contest was to name the "Sealy Girl" which Mrs. Rhine did very well, and now it is a well guarded secret as to the two names she entered. The next step will be the grand winner for the state. The prizes for this are three weeks in Paris or two weeks in Puerto Rico with all expenses paid or an MG Sportscar.

The contest is being judged by the Lloyd Harold Co. of Cleveland.

Band Mothers Plan Annual Festival

The Band Mothers made plans for the August 5 concert which will be given on the high school lawn at their meeting at the high school Monday night. A supper will be served starting at 5 p.m. with the concert later.

Plans are now being made to gather together old furniture, lamps shades, bric a brac, vases, old letters, toys, dishes, glassware, pictures, and buttons to be auctioned off before the serving starts. The band members are being assigned streets to solicit the various things, and the group is hoping that everyone will cooperate to make this an "old fashioned auction".

30 Tons of Water Weekly Required to Provide One Person With Life's Needs

(Editor's Note: The American Watershed Council is a national non-profit organization which believes that the nation is in a desperate job for long-range and that the nation's economy can best be strengthened by encouraging broader community interest in development of water resources.

By Edwin R. Cotton, President American Watershed Council, Inc.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special)—If a sign inscribed: "It requires 30 tons of water of this precious water to maintain my standard of living," were hung on every faucet in America, people taking an active part in preservation of the nation's water resources would be numbered in millions, not thousands.

When this 30 tons of water is compared with the one-third of a ton of all other materials, such as food, timber, metals and fuel, required to support a person for a week, its value to the people is readily seen. Yet its share of the family and industrial budget is infinitesimal in our $365 billion economy. However, conservationists Of this amount, the annual water bill is only about $2 billion.

Water is the lifeblood of a nation. In abundance and properly managed, it spells prosperity and strength. But in most of America water is so commonplace that people rarely think of it as a natural resource to be carefully guarded.

$40 Billion in Water Projects Its importance to the overall economy is demonstrated by the fact that industries, municipalities, states and the federal government have invested about $40 billion in water projects. No one here feels that with our scientific know-how we face a serious water shortage in the foreseeable future. However, conservationists recognize that no matter what is done there will be periodic local shortages that some sections that are visited by costly floods and, under certain conditions, erosion will continue to blight our soil. They are aware too that in spite of major efforts by industries and local governments, many urban areas still have serious water contamination problems.

Water is the lifeblood of a nation. In abundance and properly managed, it spells prosperity and strength. But in most of America water is so commonplace that people rarely think of it as a natural resource to be carefully guarded.

Ohio's Farmer of Today Uses 4900 KWH of Electricity Yearly

Today's modern Ohio farmer works 25 per cent less than his father did and produces 40 per cent more. He uses an average of 4900 kilowatt hours of electricity a year, which is about twice the national average, according to John Hilt of Ohio Edison Company, Springfield, chairman of the rural sales committee of The Ohio Electric Utility Institute.

It has only been 28 years since the first rural experimental line in Ohio was built southwest of Maysville by investor-owned electric utilities and Ohio State University to serve 13 farms. Today, practically all of the more than 200,000 farms in the state have electricity. Use of electrical equipment in the farm home and in farm operations is increasing rapidly. Thus farm farming has become more attractive to rural youth.

Many of Ohio's investor-owned electric utilities help rural youth understand electricity. These include almost a complete course in basic electricity from plans for teaching fundamentals to showing the students how to make his own farm wiring layout. Some companies provide workshops for the teachers. Others provide facilities for conferences directly with such youth organizations as the 4-H club and Future Farmers of America.

Some companies also help rural youth to develop individual initiative by sponsoring public speaking contests and offering facilities for display of handicraft at county fairs.

"Although companies have had farm educational programs on electricity for years, never before has there been such a thing as 'Hilt said. Today the farmer has become so dependent upon electricity that he must at least know something of its fundamentals and its application."

Aim of the power companies is to help the Ohio farmer continue to shorten and lighten the number of working hours, reduce production costs and improve the quality of the produce he produces, Hilt said.

The investor-owned utilities have made available numerous services to help the farmer understand electricity, he said. Agricultural engineers from the utilities assist the farmer in planning his wiring needs and estimating energy requirements for certain jobs. Technical advice is given on the use of electrical equipment so that it can provide the greatest efficiency at the lowest cost. In addition, many of the utilities mail bulletins to farmers explaining the latest technical information on labor-saving equipment. Ohio's electric utilities also help county agents plan and carry out farm electrification tours so that farmers can observe the latest equipment in action on neighboring farms.

Safety is a very important factor in the use of electricity on the farm, Hilt said. Farm electrification engineers always incorporate this item when explaining the function of electricity.

"Farmers wouldn't think of storing a leaky can of gasoline in a barn, but often they do nothing about repairing electrical circuits when wires are frayed or fixtures become loosened or detached from outlet boxes," he said.

Ohio's nine electric power companies are making an all-out effort to help farmers understand their electrical service so that they can make more profitable use of it to increase food production.

Area Looks Forward To Safe, Sane Fourth

Plymouth area residents who are looking for any of the old-fashioned variety of Fourth of July will look in vain.

The village itself has no formal Independence day celebration planned, and nearby towns have ox roasts, carnivals, swimming meets and the like on tap. Wholesome fun in abundance to keep drivers off the roads is the motto of most planners.

Swimmers and divers of high school age will be drawn to Willard municipal pool Monday, July 5, at 7 p. m. Any youngster enrolled in high school or about to enter the surrounding land carefully, in an effort to detect the ring of ground from the Hoffman farms west of the village northeastward to New Haven so the edge of the water bearing sand can be tapped.

Just how serious the situation is going to be was indicated by the Board's latest figures, showing seven feet of water in the wells under pumping. That water rationing will be necessary during August and September unless more water is found seems a certainty, the Board said.

high school may enter the events, for which prizes will be given. Entry blanks may be obtained at the pool prior to the events.

Games will be the scene of an ox roast sponsored by the Lions club at 11 a. m. Fireworks at 10 p. m. will climax the day. Baseball at the Little League level will headline afternoon attractions, and wrestling matches - at which an entry fee will be charged - will be offered at 8 p. m.

An ox roast and carnival will be at the Huron county fairgrounds at Norwalk Monday, commencing at 11 a. m.

The same strict traffic law enforcement which was carried out over the Memorial day weekend will prevail for this weekend. This announcement was made by Col. George Mingle, state highway patrol superintendent. The state wide traffic control program will go into effect Friday noon and will remain in effect until noon Tuesday. The traffic control equipment includes 400 patrol cars, two airplanes, radar detectors, and five mobile trailers with loud speakers.

The coal refinery of the future is projected as a highly integrated processing plant for manufacturing high-grade gasoline, fuel oil, heating gas and many chemicals.

A Jim Dandy, too, right into the hole behind the runner advancing to second.

This fellow's a big leaguer because he gets his hits when they count, because he works best under pressure, because his eyes and ears are open to the signs from his manager and the coaches.

Our eyes and ears are open, too. That's why The Plymouth Advertiser is such a big hit in over 1,700 homes every week. We know it's a hit because readers come beating on the door on Wednesday to get it before the official-publication date, and seem displeased when they can't get it.

Because we keep our eyes and ears open, you keep informed on affairs in your home town and in Huron and Richland counties. Only The Advertiser does this completely and effectively.

For the month of July only, the circulation department (confidentially, it and the advertising department and the editorial department and the composing room foreman are all one and the same guy) is offering one quart of ice cream - any flavor - for a new subscription to this newspaper. It's a real bargain, and if you are one of the many who've been buying The Advertiser over the counter, bear in mind that next week its price will be eight cents. By subscribing to The Advertiser, you save $1.16. Plus, of course, the quart of ice cream.

That subscription will cost you only $3.00, in advance. There's another quart of ice cream for the man, woman or child who can show us a better bargain for less money.

The telephone number is Plymouth 59. Ring us up.

Two Students Come Back Enthusiastic Over 'States'

Nancy Barbour Reports Girls' Staters Worked, Saw Sights, 'Won't Forget'

By Nancy Barbour
It was a big June 19 for 550 girls from all over Ohio, the first day of Buckeye Girls' State. Upon arriving at Capital University, the girls went to Lehmann Hall to register. There was a long line for the girls to go through. After registering they stood under a certain tree until a counselor came to take them to the city in which they belonged.

Buckeye Girls' State was divided into 12 different cities, with six cities forming a county. The city in which this writer lived was Gage, Beckley county. Each city had a Legion Auxiliary member for a house mother. My "mom" was Mrs. H. Denton Stieg of Bellefontaine. As we went in to our cities we were given a large envelope by our house mothers. These envelopes contained important information that we would need for the week. The envelopes also told us what political party we belonged to, Nationalist or Federalist.

Saturday evening there was a circus; the performers were Girls' Staters. After the circus we were served refreshments. The purpose of the circus was to have the girls to become acquainted. Sunday was a very full day. In fact, by Sunday evening it seemed like we had been there for two days instead of one. Even though it was a long day everyone enjoyed it. There were meetings that were meetings. There was at least one woman speaker from government. The biggest day in the week was election day. The girls did real campaigning. There were parades with drums and trumpets. Some girls beat wastepaper baskets and carried brooms.

Wednesday evening was inauguration night. We wore evening dresses for this occasion. The Honorable Carl V. Weygandt, Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, swore the state officers into office. After we heard the speakers of the evening, we had a tea in the Student union in honor of the State officers.

Another highlight of the week was the bus tour of Columbus. We saw the city, county, and state buildings in Columbus. We spent two hours in the capital building. It is beautiful inside and everyone should see it. We toured the city of Columbus in sixteen buses with a police escort.

After the bus tour we had a picnic at Jeffery mansion. Jeffery mansion was and is a large estate that was given to the city of Beley for recreational purposes.

Of course, Buckeye Girls' State wasn't all seriousness—there was a lot of hilarity—the governor was assassinated with a squirt gun, there was a mock wedding in which they asked, "Do you take this silly girl for your unlawful wedded wife?" The answer was no. Also there was a forest fire in which everyone had to beat the fire out with a broom and throw a glass of water on it. Girls' Staters were well protected. At all times we had a State patrolman with us. He went with us wherever we went. We also had two nurses with us at all times. At night men of the Legion stayed on the campus and guarded us.

Buckeye Girls' State is one of the most outstanding weeks a girl could ever have. It is an opportunity that one can never forget.

Both Boys' and Girls' State are sponsored by Ohio posts of the American Legion as an experiment in democracy and a means of teaching younger people the requirements of good citizenship. All expenses incident to the trips to, and from Camp Perry, which is near Port Clinton, and Columbus were paid by Ekert-Parsons Post, American Legion.

Otis Port Impressed by One Platform, But 'Other Man Was Personality Kid'

By C. Otis Port
"Hey, George, is this the place?" "Yeah, Joe, you know it." "You mean we have to live in those tar paper shack?" "Yeah, Joe, you know it." "I'll bet they look like stoves. I was a fool to ever come here." "Yeah, Joe, you know it."

No except from an Abbott-Costello scenario, the foregoing very well have been a verbatim account of a conversation between two delegates to Ohio's annual Boys' State at Camp Perry.

The cabin to which I was assigned was numbered 10 in row 5. The rows of cabins, 12 in each, were in alphabetical order: A - Z, then AA - ZZ, Rows U and V were Herbert city in McQuig county. Our counselor was Gordon Patterson.

The three who shared cabin V-10 with me were Richard Knasus, Wayne Hartman and Ernest Thurnam of Eastlake. The first complaint was the terrible food. It was touched off at dinner the first day. Very few could stomach, or had the courage to eat, the stuff. But they improved. Breakfast and lunch always were fairly good. During the 10 day stay, we had chicken twice, steak twice, ham once, and hot dogs once. A Toledo catering service prepared the food which was shipped to Boy's State.

Both parties had planks in their platforms for the improvement of the food, but as Ward Potts, the managing editor of the Hetuck, said in an editorial, "We surely have more important matters of business to worry about than the food situation, and hardly believe it merits mention in a party platform."

A rigid schedule was established and strictly adhered to. Recreation was confined to 3:30 to 6 p. m. But the Hetuck staff went swimming only once because work always had to be done. Saturday the staff was dismissed at 1 p. m. for a swim. As a matter of curiosity, the staff computed the number of hours spent in composing the paper. An estimated 13 hours were spent at work each day. We worked longer than any other office. Nevertheless, it had its compensations. Our press cards could get us into or out of any meeting or assembly that was forbidden or compulsory to the mass, and also permitted us to eat early, before the rush hour.

City meetings were held the second day and delegates to the state and county conventions were elected. After the conventions had met and selected nominees, the campaigning began in earnest. It was obvious from the start that Triplett would probably be governor, for his campaign was by far more vigorous and extensive. Rallies were held at an evening assembly during which the parties presented their platforms. Though the Federalists took four of the top six offices, it seemed that the Nationalists had the superior platform. Both parties agreed in every detail in their platforms except a few. Both advocated the importing of girls for a dance Saturday night, mirrors for the shower rooms, light plugs for the cabins, cleaner cities, efficient government, good law enforcement, better food, transportation to the beach, later curfew, and other run-of-the-mill things. However, the Nats also emphasized civil defense, and other important national issues. But when Triplett was elected, he announced in his program a section devoted to highway safety. This was carried out in many ways: by the showing of two movie films on car safety, by driving safely, by a safety slogan contest, and by asking that each of us carry this message home to the teen-age drivers.

Numerous laws were passed to make the streets of Boys' State safer, and the highways of Ohio more conscious of the need for intelligent drivers. Governor Triplett's safety campaign was to be state-wide. By making the boys at Boys' State aware of the facts, he hoped they would in turn spread the statistics when they returned to their respective towns and cities.

Platner didn't make much difference at Boy's State, since we did not vote strict party ballots, and this is why Triplett won. He had more personality. And after the election returns were in and counted, the officials elected, Boys' State settled down to the serious job of governing itself.

A state patrol, sheriffs, and police forces were established for the enforcement of laws which the legislatures passed. A judicial system was erected. Lawyers were licensed if they passed a bar exam. After salary was paid, the tax collector got his. Boys bought drivers' licenses and whatever else was needed.

Draft registration for the national guard compulsory. Among the many notables that spoke to us at Boy's State were: Governor Lausche, Lieutenant Governor Brown, the chief justice of the Supreme Court of Ohio, coaches Floyd Stahl and Fred Taylor of Ohio State, and last year's governor, Jerry Messerman. All gave fine speeches, especially Lieutenant Governor Brown.

Nancy Barbour, Plymouth delegate to Girls' State, has been a leading student in her class at Plymouth High school. She is active in 4-H and sports, and received exceptionally high grades last year.

She played one of the important roles in the junior class play and has helped pace the class in all its drives to make money.

Otis Port, who went to Boy's State, was junior president of the class of 1955. He has participated in most sports, including various noon games since beginning high school.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Barbour of Shelby route 3, and Otis is the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Port, of New Haven road.

Good News for Homemakers
Anne Marshall

"What's for lunch, Mom?" That's a familiar question this season when outdoor activities sharpen appetites. A good way to make sure lunches at your house reach expectations is to keep a supply of lunch-box-building foods on the kitchen shelf. Give top priority to condensed soups, for they are star performers in summer meals. They are quickly and easily prepared. They provide variety. And they give cool sandwich-salad meals a warm touch. Soups are well-liked and nourishing.

... a good luncheon plan with soup is:

Soup	Sandwich
Dessert	Beverage

Imagination and "know-how" are needed to turn this plan into appealing and nutritious meals. With cream soup have a meat or seafood salad and fruit for dessert. A vegetable soup tastes good with egg salad and pie or cake. With a meat soup select fruit salad and a cheese sandwich; then pudding for dessert. The beverage could be milk, or a particularly sweltering day—iced tea or lemonade.

"SOUPER" LUNCHEONS FOR SUMMER

Cream of Chicken Soup
Strawberry-crowned Fruit Salad
Raisin Bread Sandwiches
Iced Tea

Beef Soup
Sausage Cheese Sandwich
Grapefruit Half

Farmer Ed Blake Solves Problem of Water Shortage

Soil Conservation Service Cooperates In Building of Artificial Storage Pond

Here's a Richland county farmer who has coped with the water shortage problem like a banker: he's saving his water.

With the cooperation of the Soil Conservation service, Edward J. Blake, of Greenwich route 2, has constructed a pond covering about an acre and a quarter in area, with an average depth of eight feet, to furnish water for his stock - he's running about 35 head of dairy cattle - and provide a place of farm recreation and possible additional money crop in the form of fish.

Mr. Blake farms 206 acres of rolling land just east of Shenandoah on route 603. The pond lies in a section of ground north of the road and lying generally in low parts of terrain. The pond, Mr. Blake estimates, will drain about 45 acres of land. It will stretch back from the earthwork dam which has been pushed up by a bulldozer for a distance of about 400 yards up to the line with the next farm.

Robert Hilliard, Soil Conservation service expert with headquarters at Mansfield, is the consultant in the experiment. He recommended the scraping off of a good layer of topsoil, first because the topsoil would wash away under the heavy water weight and second because the sale of topsoil to Mansfield and Ashland gardeners and landscapers would help to defray the expense of the 'dozer'.

When this was done, it was necessary to pack the dam line with a good layer of clay, that would tamp down, hold firm, and not prove to be porous. A ten-inch corrugated pipe was laid under the earthwork dam, and also a half-inch and a half galvanized pipe with a valve.

The ten inch corrugated pipe will conduct away overflow in the pond. When the water level rises to beyond a - milk by hand - take out the stable cleaner, feed carts, ect., so you can spend more time taking care of rower cows.

McGrew Lists Tips For Dairy Farmers

1. Cull out 2 or 3 of your best cows. This will get rid of surpluses quicker than by culling low producers.
2. Sav eheifers only from known boarders. Use your production records to locate these families.
3. Eliminate labor saving devices
4. Make sure cows are uncomfortable - remove water cups, crowd them in smaller stalls, etc., be irregular in care.
5. Provide only unimproved pasture - guaranteed to bring on a hot weather slump.
6. Cut hay late - "cordwood" cures easy - then, too, it won't take as many tons next winter.
7. Quit liming. Seed clover-timothy mixtures - and hope teh clover fails.
8. Breed to a stockyard bull, preferably one of known poor ancestry.

point that the engineers deem within the capacity of the dam to hold water, it will flow down a 26-inch tile into a trap and thence down the 10-inch pipe to relieve the pressure. Through the inch-and-a-half pipe flows the water supply for the stock. The total fall of the pipe is perhaps 600 yards.

Water enters the pipe a few feet from the broach of the earthwork dam by means of an elbow of pipe sticking up from a farm-rigged filter. The filter is constructed of a discarded 55-gallon oil drum in which a number of half-inch holes have been pierced. Inside the filter is a collection of quarter-inch gravel and finer sand, through which the water will need to pass before it reaches the pipe elbow. The elbow itself has a number of staggered quarter-inch holes drilled in it to allow water to enter freely. The top of the elbow goes to within a foot or so of the average mean surface of the pond, which provides a good water head with plenty of pressure to carry the water down through the pipe some 600 yards to the barns.

The spillway of the dam is rigged at the extreme western end of the earthworks, near an old hickory tree. By doing this, Mr. Blake keeps the water level at its computed mean level and allows for relief of pressure in case of heavy rains during spring or fall. Additionally, when snowfall in winter is heavy, he can open the spillway and let melting snows from his 45-acre watershed wash on down to the road.

The cost of the dam, Mr. Blake reports, was not much so far as materials are concerned. "About $125 would cover what I've spent on materials, which includes valves, tiles and such," he says. "What is expensive is that 'dozer'. You've got to pay for it and for the operator, and if he has a breakdown or the weather isn't just right, it can run into money."

It is the present plan to stock the pond with bluegills and bass. The latter feed on the former. The Soil Conservation service is cooperating with Mr. Blake in this enterprise.

The pond is not designed to furnish irrigation water. Mr. Blake points out. Rather, it is for controlling erosion and wash to the south of the present dam site.

And, Mr. Blake points out with a wry grin, "I figure to do a little fishing from time to time." It appears that at least one answer to the old question of "How Ya Gonna Keep 'em Down on the Farm" is "Build 'em a pond, Mac, build 'em a pond."

McGrew Lists Some Helpful Hints For Storing Anticipated Wheat Crop

Some tips on wheat storage are listed by C. N. McGrew, Richland county farm agent. "From all reports," he says, "1954 will be a heavy yielding grain year, and the time to start harvesting is within the next couple of weeks."

Mr. McGrew suggests the following steps to insure readiness to cope with the big crop:

1. Store grain in a well-constructed, isolated granary.
2. Store the grain in as dry a condition as possible.
3. Remove all old grain from bins and any grain and feed accumulations from other buildings on the farmstead to prevent a build-store new grain on top of old grain.

4. Apply residual spray to the ceilings, walls and floors of the granary or crib and other buildings at least three weeks before grain of feed is to be stored. Use five per cent DDT or methoxychlor.

5. Fumigate all old grain which cannot be removed from the granary before new grain is binned.

6. Fumigate unprotected small grain within six weeks after harvest.

7. Inspect grain at frequent intervals to discover insect infestations or heating.

8. Fumigate the binned grain a second time if infestations develop.

JUNE WEATHER

The heaviest rain in 24 hours (22 years) occurred on Wednesday night, June 16, measuring 5.25 inches. It began at 5 P.M. and ended at about midnight.

Cellars of some houses had several feet of water; basements of several stores suffered a heavy loss on merchandise; fields were flooded with considerable damage to corn.

This "big rain" followed a downpour of 1.26 inches on Tuesday, the 16th, from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Total rainfall for the month was 8.06 inches, or 3.12 inches above normal.

Average temperature for the month 73.8 degrees, or 4.4 degrees above normal. The highest was 93 degrees on the 12th; the lowest 42 on the 5th and 6th.

Despite the heavy rain, haying was well under way at the end of the month, and wheat indicates a bumper crop. J. A. R.

Is House Number Legible?
IS YOUR house number doing its work? If it isn't visible, day or night, you're due for a change!

You can make a distinctive set of house numbers easily. The only materials needed are some Masonite Tempered Presswood and a key-hole saw, which cuts curves.

First, design the letters so they are of the correct size in proportion to the house and entrance - but large enough to be visible from the street. Transfer the design to the tempered hardboard, 3/4" thick, and start cutting.

Stand down any rough edges. The numerals may be mounted directly on the siding, using waterproof glue or finishing nails, or placed on a piece of shapard wood.

Paint the Tempered Presswood on both sides, for weatherproofing reasons, before putting the numbers up. For a reflective surface, obtain from your hardware dealer thin glass beads or a special tape.

Some families, particularly in outlying areas, like to identify their homes with nameplates. These may be similarly made and mounted on a board, which is fastened to a tree out in front or hung from a post. An even easier method, suitable for the summer cottage, is painting the name directly on a piece of primed Tempered Presswood, either free-hand or with stencils.

Still another method is to mount decalcomanias on hardboard, using individual letters or numerals. Two or three coats of waterproof varnish or shellac will safeguard the nameplate and number for years.

Use scrap lumber to form the framework of the two sections. For the top and bottom, use Masonite Presswood. Dividers may be the same material. A hook and eye keep the business portion of the book fastened to the wall section when folded.

A piece of 1/4" Presswood inserted between the two sections will provide a convenient writing surface and serve also to keep the contents of the lower half from spilling when the desk is in its closed position.

Let's Explore Ohio

American history was made on the site of the George Rogers Clark Memorial west of Springfield, Here, General Clark's forces, in 1780, destroyed the Shawnee village where the Indian war parties started their raids on Kentucky. Tecumseh, then twelve years old, watched this engagement and escaped to become the most famous of the Indian war chieftains. Last year 22,000 people visited the site.
