

Heat Fires Pilgrims As Coach Grooms 23

Twenty-three hopefuls - and only three of them seniors - turned out Monday afternoon to greet Coach Fred Kretzfeld for Plymouth High school's 1954 grid exercises.

Uniforms had been issued Friday and Coach Kretzfeld in a twilight meeting Friday outlined his plans for the year. So far, these are not trade secrets, they include:

1. Emphasis upon speed to offset lack of height.
2. Varied attack.
3. More attention to fundamentals.

After the scorching heat of Monday, which showed the athletes down materially, practice sessions were changed to 8 a.m. Monday's session was given over mainly to calisthenics and getting the feel of new shoes and uniforms.

Coach Kretzfeld applies psychology to his players, and did so with success Monday. Just when they were ready to toss in the towel, he taught them one play, lighting the routine and taking their minds off tiring drills and exercises and ever more tiring muscles.

Tuesday the Pilgrims learned another play, and spent the session ripping up and down the field. However, the official work day of the play, charging the hill near the field in Mary Fata park, and engaging in sprint sessions.

Seeking to develop more speed, Coach Kretzfeld called for some 100-yard sprints after the customary loosening-up lap around the field Wednesday morning. Larry Taylor, an end candidate, was checked at 12.6 seconds, indicating he can do much better later and certainly beat 11.5 seconds in a track uniform. Ota Port, who has worked out as signal caller, was a few strides behind at 12.9 seconds. Other backs were caught in 13.5 seconds, more or less.

The rains of Tuesday softened the playing field just enough to put a strain upon leg muscles, and Coach Kretzfeld is letting up on the pressure slightly until his charges round into trim.

When school opens Sept. 7, sections will revert to 4 p.m. Candidates who have turned out include: arbitrary divisions of players, which Kretzfeld calls "A" and "B" teams, as follows: Larry Taylor and John Fox, ends; Franklin Egan and John Egan, fullbacks; Mickv Hampton and Tom Marvin, guards; Jim Jacobs, center; Ota Port, Marty Hampton, Ray Ehsel, and John Fetters, backs, all team "A."

Team "B" includes: Dick Gledhill, Bud Berberick and Don Barthous, ends; Jim Roof and Claude Jones, tackles; Don Fidler and Ted Fox, guards; Jim Kinnear, center; Jim Fidler, tail back; Jerry Ream, and Herman Baldrige, wing backs, and Jim Hunt quarter back.

A change in working hours at Wilkins Air Force depot, Shelby, yesterday by depot officials.

Beginning Sunday the first shift will work from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the second shift from 4:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Hours for the first shift now are 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and the second shift 3:30 p.m. to midnight.

Departments operating with three shifts will be permitted to deviate from the new hours for periods of not more than 30 minutes at the beginning or end of each shift, or both, to insure all employees a full eight-hour work day. However, the official work day will begin at 8 a.m.

Lunch period and other break periods will be moved to a later hour to fit the new schedule. Mansfield and Williams bus schedules for morning and afternoon runs also will be adjusted one hour to meet the requirements of depot employees.

Officials said the change in hours is being made to provide better coordination with Headquarters Air Material Command in Dayton and with communities surrounding the depot which did not change time in the spring.

They added the new hours also will be more convenient for depot employees whose children soon will return to school and will eliminate hazards, which would be created by depot traffic during dismissal periods at Shelby during.

Board Sits Tight, Seeks Legal Advice In Water Situation

The refusal of Farmer Roy Evans to allow the Board of Public Affairs to pump water from a well located on his property is generating a warm exchange of opinions. The warmest opinion seems to be that of the Evanses, who claim they were misquoted and misrepresented by the Board and this newspaper.

Meanwhile, the Board is sitting tight, looking for water where it can find it and afford to pump it to the village watershed, and at the same time examining its legal position to ascertain if there are further steps it can take.

The Board learned this week that state law provides for condemnation proceedings over water-bearing land if an emergency in a populated neighborhood is deemed to exist.

These proceedings would involve filing of a petition to condemn by the Board through the village council, scheduling of a hearing by a special judge in referee's court, with a jury sitting to hear testimony from the firemen's group. He is assisted by Judson Morrison, 77 Porter street, and Woodrow Ulys, 182 Trux street.

Proceeds from the roast will be for the mutual benefit of the two sponsors.

Chester Garrett, Trux street, is chairman of the American Legion delegating planning the roast. Assisting among the Legionnaires are Billy Vanderpool, Riggs avenue, and Sam Robertson, 308 W. Alert Police Arrest Young Drunk Driver; Loses License, $200

Alert police work early Sunday morning nabbed a drunken driver before he had gone 400 yards.

He was 22-year-old Hulbert A. ... of Railroad street, apprehended by Plymouth police at Sandusky and North streets after he had driven recklessly through Porter street from the Public Square.

Insolent replies to inquiries as to the whereabouts of his driver's license prompted the police to take the driver to police headquarters, where his belligerent attitude continued. He was taken to Mansfield police to submit to a balloon test, and at 2:15 a.m. Police Capt. R. Hout, who administered the test, reported that clearance of the test in 29.5 seconds established the man was "extremely drunk."

Metcalf was held overnight in the village lockup and released Sunday morning on bond to appear before Mayor Glenn West.

Mayor West continued the case and bound Metcalf over to Huron County Court, Pleas court for trial, which took place Wednesday. Presiding Judge Robert Eyer accepted a plea of guilty, fined Metcalf $200 and costs, suspended his driver's license for one year, and added three additional days in jail at Norwalk.

Make Haste to Live

Ol' Sylvester Follows Formula, Stable Wins, Whiteys, Bettors Have It Good

The Whiteys are having a good season, after a considerable dry spell. It's the C. V. Whiteys of Old Westbury, L. I. N. Y., to whom the railbirds refer when they say that Mr. and Mrs. Whitey — she is the former Eleanor Searle of Plymouth — have had a sensational run of good racing luck at the annual Saratoga race meeting at the historic old track at Saratoga, N. Y.

After he had only passing-fair winnings throughout the spring, including seventh place in the Kentucky Derby, little Fisherman, a three-year-old brown colt, banded home down in front in the Travers Stakes, which is 85 years old this year.

He returned in the American Jockey and eked out a win in it. His stable mate, Cold Command, has been going well, and won two races at Saratoga.

Then, too, the two-year-old branch of the Whitney stable has been cutting the mustard. Pyrenes, a good-looking stayer, has won two important two-year-old stakes and was edged out Saturday by Nashville in fast time. Sylvester Vetch, who has been training for the Whiteys since 1946, tells a reporter for Sports Illustrated that four elements make up the Whitney success at Saratoga this year (14 wins in 26 races): time, patience, money and luck. Three of those elements, it may be pointed, are not for sale, and no matter how much money you put up, you can't buy 'em.

Saturday Fisherman was nosed out by Social Outcast in a big stake—the Whitney Handicap, oddly enough.

But if you've got an extra two bucks, get it down on a Whitney horse. The Whitney luck is good, and when it's good, it's very, very good.

And when it is bad, to make up a parody on an old saw, it's simply horrid. The horrid season, says Sylvester, is over — for now.

The Voting Machine Fiasco

So now Richland county has voting machines, purchased from the Automatic Voting Machine Co. of Jamestown, N. Y. Insofar as the Republicans supported this product against the Shoup product from Canton, which was backed by the Democrats, it can be regarded as a Republican victory.

We are disappointed that this is so. In spending money for voting machines, politics ought not to enter into consideration. For, after all, a voting machine serves a Republican or a Democrat with equal contribution to the discharge of its civil rights.

So far—as we are concerned, which machine was chosen was not so important as the issue which was suggested by our colleagues in Mansfield: did money change hands? There is no evidence that it did, save the circumstantial evidence that there was a good deal of backing and filling, too much indecision, and a general conduct among the county commissioners that made them look more like high school sophomores than grown, mature men.

Our neighbor, Mr. Fred Dawson, announced he would abstain from voting. He said he was going to be neutral in the matter, the issue was too controversial.

Mr. Dawson would do well to realize that this attitude is not the kind that will tend to endear him to the thinking voter. He is running for reelection this fall, and his opponent is a vigorous fellow who is not backward about standing up and being counted on real issues.

The voting machine question was a real issue. We had a right to expect our representatives to stand up and be counted, particularly with so much of our money at stake. We trust it will not happen again.

The Water Situation

The matter of access to suitable water is such a serious one that we feel our readers are entitled to the facts.

Some years ago, as provided by law, the property owner in question, together with neighbors similarly afflicted, petitioned the Huron county commissioners for relief of a drainage situation. The relief was voted, and in accordance with law, a surveyor was appointed and the cost of effecting the relief work was apportioned among the property owners.

But the work that was done was incomplete. To this day, the property owner in question has a drainage problem. It is not his fault. He petitioned for relief, indicated willingness to pay for it, and expected the situation would be cleared up. The commissioners didn't do their job well, the work was inadequate.

Now, to do the job right, the property owner has recourse to the law. That is, he can petition the present commissioners, submit to a survey, and pay the apportioned cost. The commissioners are legally estopped from spending county funds for the purpose without a petition.

This puts the property owner in the position of paying at two rates for the same work. That is, the work would have cost him less years ago than it will now, and if the county commissioners had done what was right, he wouldn't be in this predicament today.

We feel the need to comment on two things: the question of whether the county commissioners of that time are guilty of misfeasance, and the question of whether the property owner is justified in his present attitude.

First, it seems to us that no brief can be held for the county commissioners' acts. It is said in their behalf they made an honest mistake. This we consider to be hokum, pure and simple. We do not pay commissioners for honest mistakes. A mistake is a mistake, whether or not honest. The defenders of government bureaucracy insist that the principle of honest mistakes must be admitted. We insist that it must not be admitted, and we do not admit it.

Second, the property owner is engaged in what amounts to highway robbery. He is selfish enough to want his drainage situation cleared up, and he doesn't want to pay dearly for it. We can't blame him for that. He gets nowhere with the commissioners at Norwalk, and his advisers now think that if he refuses to cooperate with the village of Plymouth, the commissioners will take care of the drainage situation as the price of cooperation. The implication is that the village administration will start the ball rolling.

We would rather trust to death than pay that price. Mr. Evans has his problems with the commissioners to fight out himself; he has no right to foist his problems off on the community.

The Board of Public Affairs didn't go onto his property without his permission or cooperation. That's established. Substantial investment was made upon his promise to cooperate. That's actionable in the law, and we believe he should be given one more chance to play ball before action is taken.

Around the Square

By Phineas Whittleseed

Rog Miller is back, none the worse for his experience with the California Law. Nice to have you back, Rog.

The Lions club at Tiro is sponsoring a homecoming tomorrow, with raffles on the program. Our colleague, the genial Carl Baker, who is editor of the Tiro World, announced the Mayor to boot, is pushing the event. It's a worthy cause, and the entertainment appears to be first-rate. Give 'em a whirl.

Oy, did the roof fall in at Greenwich Thursday night! After we had scored three runs and looked good doing it - playing inside baseball and making two hits do the work of six - the Greenwich lads tore into and romped away with an unimpaired 14 to 3. They had 17 hits. Neither Plymouth pitcher could do much with the Greenwich bats.

We've got another one scheduled under the lights here, when we'll try to do better. We certainly can't do much worse. Biggest threat for Phin in an otherwise dreary game was the success of Bud Forker and Our Chip in working the opposing pitcher for walks.

So we're putting Tom Riordan and Co. on notice: next time we'll knock your ears in.

There were some helpful souls at the elementary school Thursday to set the posts for the dandy new fence. Supt. M. J. Coon allowed as how he might be thirsty, but he couldn't go George Cheeman's brand of chewing tobacco, which Phin sampled and found bitter. J. H. Cashman makes a pretty good post-hole digger, and Link Sprowles and Bob MacMichael were around to carry concrete and plumb the posts. It'll be a dandy fence when it's finished. Today, the final work is to be undertaken. Help can be used. Volunteers are requested.

Heard our first katydid of the season last week. Reminds us that autumn will soon be here. As if seeing three young blades come up to kick a football around isn't reminder enough. Coach Kretzfeld has some dandy exercises for those who'd like to shed a little blubber. You can reach him on the practice field any day now.

The features on Ganges (appearing today), Rome (next week) and Shiloh, not to mention other towns in the neighborhood, are prepared by Richard Tullis, who lives between here and Shelby. Richard is a student at Miami U.

A low punch directed at his religion prompted Editor Tom Riordan at Greenwich to speak up. Tom happens to be a Jew, and a good one, and while we do not adhere to that faith, we respect his right to do so, and more than that, insist upon his right to follow that religion free of scurrilous comment of a false nature. There has been some comment of a similar character, and we directed at religion in our hearing within the past few weeks. It's helpful to remember that a person who'll raise the religious issue is a mental and moral cripple, but the thing that counts is this: tell him so when you hear it.

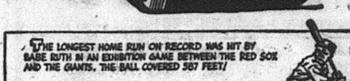

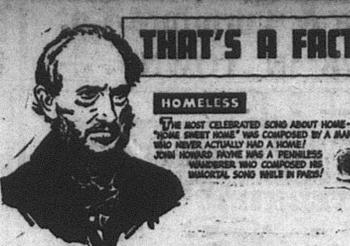

Watch The Advertiser for the dandiest series of pictures of places you know commemorating Labor day week. Brought to you by that popular eating place on the Square.

If there're any two fans who've had more fun than Weldon Johnson truly on baseball bets, Phin has yet to meet 'em. We have a ten-ginger gear as a game riding on the Indians vs. Yankees. Phin is one up, which is still uncollected. At one time, it was four up, and Weldon suggested we collect at least a part of it before we acquired a part interest in his establishment. Then those danged Indians whittled it down. Well done, Weldon!

Hearing the morning coffee people quote famous sayings reminds us of the story of the radio announcer who attended the Men's Society meeting of the Baptist church. When asked to give the blessing, he rose and with bowed head said: "The food we are about to receive comes to us through the courtesy of Jesus Christ."

From Phoenix, a gladstone note on this otherwise dreary morning (sun is shining, but our eyes burn like coal) cause we stayed up till the wee hours talking politics with the Mayor) which says "We're very glad to do not want to miss a single copy of The Advertiser. We especially enjoy the News of Yesterday." Keep it up. Honest, it's notes like that keep us going. It's signed, Mrs. J. J. Hoffman. Aside to those of us who read with admiration, m'am, but we could not resist the part of it, despite your postscript about the Indians. Pfiui on the Indians!

When you consider the good lady had not one but three prizes in a horse picture, it's a wonder she retained her composure all these years. And what composure! It's Tommy's mother, Mrs. Frank Thomas, we're talking about. "The skull is a bone which sometimes keeps the fat from showing."

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, the right to a free and secret ballot is a basic freedom which the citizens of our state and nation cherish, and whereas, the fact of those living in registration areas of the State of Ohio to become properly registered, if they are not already registered, will fortify their opportunity to vote at the General Election, November 2, and

Whereas, it is equally vital that the importance of voting be called to the attention of our citizens in both registration and non-registration areas, and

Whereas, through a constant education program, Ohio's percentage of eligible voters going to the polls has been improved, and

Whereas, a great many Ohio organizations have expressed a willingness to join in a Register and Vote Campaign in 1954, thereby exemplifying the liberty-loving and public-spirited citizenship of their members toward the preservation of our freedoms.

Now, Therefore, I, Ted W. Brown, Secretary of State of Ohio, as Chief Election Officer of the State, in order to bring special attention to the fact that the deadline for registration in Ohio is September 22 and to urge all eligible citizens to vote on November 2, do hereby proclaim the period from September 1 to September 22 as REGISTRATION DAYS and the LIBERTY DAYS.

In Witness Whereof, I have set my hand and affixed the Seal of the Secretary of State of Ohio, to be in the City of Columbus, this 26th day of August in the Year One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Fifty-Four, A. D.

Library Notes

"Thorvald Junction"-John Masters
A tumultuous story of modern India in the ferment of independence. Few readers will forget the beautiful, tragic Anglo-Indian, Victoria Jones, daughter of two heritages and two bloods, or the three men who loved her - Patrick Taylor, whose mixed blood matched her own; Cal Rodney, a Hindu whose love offered one solution; and the Sikh Ranjit, who offered a different answer altogether. It is a full-bodied novel of a nation and its people at the point of crisis.

"The Desert Watches"-Wilson MacArthur

This is the story of a hazardous crossing of the great Sahara desert. It is of adventure, excitement and courage, told with tenderness, humor and feeling for the vast and bewildering wasteland of sand. It is filled with the legends of its legends, its strange nomadic people, and the majestic beauty of its dunes, peaks and gorges. MacArthur and his wife start from Algiers, bound for their home in Rhodesia, in a highly unreliable car.

"Fleeting Stations"-Margaret Scoggin

True stories of men in the late war, recording a time of great courage and sacrifice in the armed forces. Paratroopers, pilots, aviators, mariners, infantrymen and the rest who fought the enemy in the Pacific and in Europe. This anthology will achieve the popularity of Margaret Scoggin's previous books, "Edge of Danger," and "Lure of Danger."

"Born on Snowshoes"-Evelyn Berglund Steen

The extraordinary story of three sisters who grew up in the remote Arctic wilderness. Ernie Pele called it the "freshest in spirit" of any women I had ever seen. This is the true story of a family who met danger and privation at their cabin north of the Arctic Circle. At age seven when most girls are they were helping their mother run thinking about boys and dances, a 200 miles trip. Every June they piled their boats high with winter's furs and started downriver to Fort Yukon. Truly an amazing story.

"Bliss the Harvest"-Edna St. Vincent Millay

A new collection of poems by Miss Millay, who before she was 20 wrote one of the most astounding poems of the century, "Ransom." At the time of her death in 1950, she was assembling material for a new book which her sister, Norma, completed. This is a harvest of the last work of one of America's best and most widely read poets. Those who love poetry will not soon forget the "cold light of May," the "yellow-green lot, the white, the high sweet clover, close of the dust, fragrant, hot roadside" of a New England landscape.

"The Generous Heart"-Kenneth Fearing

The Generous Heart Society had every intention of growing big, and as for giving what they collected in their philanthropic plan, they intended to see that others did the giving! This band of outcast philanthropists finally aroused suspicion. Then the accident occurred. Or was it his accident. Fearing completes the plot for you satisfactorily.

"The Ujib Pilgrim"-Eugene Walter

The J. B. Lippincott company prize winning novel. Says the author, "I had to write some time before I had the idea of the night press school of Southern writing." This is the result of his rebellion. The plot and characters are intriguing, and that is why Mr. Walter won the prize money.

Ganges Story

By Richard Tullis

Ganges is a small hamlet located on the Blackfork of the Mohican river to the southeast of Plymouth, was once an important place on the stage line between Mansfield and Lake Erie.

It was first called Truckville, after the founder, a William Trucks who built the first cabin at the settlement. Mr. Trucks and a certain Daniel Arves were the first settlers, locating there in 1815.

They built a mill on the Blackfork and soon there were several cabins making up a rather large village.

Daniel Arves became the first justice of the peace, a position he held for a number of years. His brother, James, built a hotel, which did such a thriving business that it had to be expanded.

The first postoffice in the township was established there and the first that there was much talk of making Ganges the county seat.

Nearly all traffic from the interior of Ohio to the lake and back passed through Ganges. The station was a constant bustling feeding passengers and serving them drinks. It was not unusual to have over 100 transient teams and their drivers staying the night.

Had not the coming of age of the factory passed over the village of Ganges, the entire history of this area might need to be rewritten.

Let's Explore Ohio

Visitors from all over the world have journeyed to Ohio to inspect the Mound near Locust Grove, recognized as the largest prehistoric effigy mound by the Indian inhabitants of the Ohio Country. Built of earth, this snake-like mound curls along a hill-top. In 1839 the Ohio Historical Society acquired the mound and has since maintained it as a memorial park. This mound seems to have served some religious purpose for the "Moundbuilders." Ohio has approximately 10,000 mounds, mounds, and mounds. Indians who populated all of the river valleys in the Ohio River watershed.

New Face on Old Dresser
JUST about any decrepit, old-style dresser can be modernized, even for a teen-age girl's room. It'll be mighty smart finished in black and black and white, or black and Chinese red.

First, tighten the joints. Take off the door handles and then remove the old finish or cover it with a clear sealer in which color in oil has been added. Instead of just painting the top black and thereby failing to cover up any scratches or surface gouges, use a piece of Masonite black Tempered Presswood, 1/4" thick, cut to size and beveled around the front and side edges. Fasten it securely with wallboard cement and weight it heavily with books until it has set firmly.

This extremely smooth black hardboard, dyed during its manufacture, won't show cigarette burns. To give it an attractive gloss, use a black penetrating sealer. This all-wood hardboard is virtually indestructible.

To further modernize the piece, remove the mirror and hang it, or its successor, on the wall. Also remove the legs and build a recessed base of lumber, covered with some of the black Tempered Presswood. Replace the old-fashioned drawer pulls with square blocks of wood to which some of the black hardboard is fastened with screws. Leave a small overhang to permit a fingerhold.

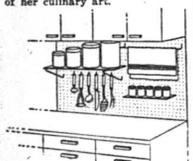

Kitchen Work-Saver
TO SAVE the homemaker's energy, time and happy disposition, have kitchen tools, utensils and ingredients within easy reach. Just install some Masonite "Pie-Board" panels in convenient locations. These Presswood panels with numerous perforations are fitted with hooks and hangers on which the homemaker can suspend the tools of her culinary art.

Decorative as well as functional, the panels may be painted to harmonize with the colors of the kitchen. Some of their favorite locations are over the range, between the base and wall cabinets, in the back of cabinets, over or under the sink, and over a working counter or desk.

A variety of metal fixtures, which may be obtained at the same lumber yards handling the perforated panels, will carry shelves for canisters and similar items; plates, platters, cups, all types of utensils, pots and pans, dish towels, a thermometer, memo notes, pencil and the like.

Handyman husbands called on to install the panels find they go up with a minimum of effort over spacers, which are used to allow room for insertion of the hooks and hangers. The metal attachments are used interchangeably, thus giving the homemaker an opportunity to change her arrangements whenever she likes. Moving them is a matter of seconds, and no tools are needed.

The United States was the first nation to provide free, universal and compulsory education on a large scale.

England and Wales have a total of 12 universities of which Oxford and Cambridge are the best known.

Average school life of children in Massachusetts is 9 years, while in Alabama it is only 4.

It is estimated that this country spent only $6,375,840,000 on its public schools last year. This is approximately $128.48 per pupil.

No need for guesswork when you buy lime . . .

UVU

A new rule-of-thumb method for comparing liming material values is the UVU (Use Value Unit). To determine the UVU in a given material: Multiply the guaranteed neutralizing power (106 in Basic) by the percentage guaranteed to pass 100 mesh sieve (55 in Basic) — both guarantees are shown on your delivery slip. The result is the number of Use Value Units for any liming material. In this case 5830 UVU. Another material with fewer UVU is worth proportionately less and should be so priced.

This is plain speaking. We think it's time to stop buying lime on a hit-and-miss basis. You don't have to guess. Pay for what you get. Figure the UVU from the guarantees and know the relative values of different liming materials.

DON'T GUESS — KNOW WHAT YOU ARE BUYING. This guarantee goes with every delivery of Basic Standard Agricultural Ground Limestone:

GUARANTEED ANALYSIS

Minimum Calcium . . . 21.5%	Minimum Passing 100 Mesh 55%
Minimum Magnesian . . 12.5%	Minimum Passing 60 Mesh 80%
Total Neutralizing Power in Terms of Calcium Carbonate 106	Minimum Passing 20 Mesh 98%
	Minimum Passing 8 Mesh 100%

ON THE SQUARE PLYMOUTH, OHIO

POLICE DEPARTMENT Plymouth, Ohio

Dear Kids:

School opens on Sept. 7. Because we in the police department feel very strongly that safety rules need to be obeyed if our children are going to grow up to be men and women, we've taken the trouble to have this series of pictures made to illustrate a few of the simple ones.

I can't emphasize enough the trouble that can be caused by a good bike and a bad rider. Don't ride no hands. Don't ride on the wrong side of the street. Don't ride somebody else on the handlebars or the fender. Look both ways before you turn into a street. Don't ride a bike after dark unless it is properly lighted, with a headlamp and a cat's eye-type tail light. Don't, please don't, hook onto the back of a car.

Safety patrol members will be on duty at important crossings. Some of them are your friends and neighbors, some bigger and some smaller than you are. But when they wear those armbands, it's the same as through they were wearing my badge of office. Listen to their orders and do what they say. Next week you'll have a chance to be a safety patrolman.

Cross only at crosswalks. Leave your pets at home. Many kids have been hurt because they ran into the street after a cat or dog.

Don't play catch in the street. We have a dandy park with two big fields on which to play ball.

When snow flies, leave it on the ground. Don't throw snowballs. Many an eye has been put out because it got hit with a hard one. Don't hook your sleds behind cars or trucks.

Be careful crossing the railroad tracks. The sign says "Stop, Look and Listen". Do that, and do more: dismount from your bike and walk it across.

We have three policemen in this town - Fred Lewis, Bill Moore, and myself. All of us were kids once, and we have kids of our own. If you've got a problem, speak to us about it. We're on your side.

Yours for Safety,
Bob Meiser

One sure way of keeping an issue before the people who can do something about it is to repeat it as often as you can. This is not the only reason we are alluding once more to the proposed increase of telephone rates by the Mansfield Telephone Company. But it is as good as the other reasons.

The table below shows just how much of an increase is wanted in Shiloh:

Five-business	9.60	4.50	100
Five-party residential	6.50	none
Private residential	6.00	2.75	118
Five-party residential	3.75	none
Eight-party residential	3.25	1.75	85

A Mansfield newspaper has kept this issue before the public in the highest traditions of American journalism. The response from its readership is perhaps less vigorous than it might be. This newspaper sees its duty clearly. Although we have offices in another village, we know that an increase in telephone rates in Shiloh will hurt us, not only as a business house but as ordinary citizens.

What can be done about it? First, you can tell your township trustee who dislike the proposal, and that you want him to take steps to prevent its enactment. Second, you can express yourself privately to the chairman of the Ohio Public Utilities commission, Robert L. Mouton, State Office Building, Columbus.

And these failing, you can always take the danged thing out.

85 Growers Attend Muckland Field Day; Chemicals Discussed

Approximately 85 muck crop growers in Ohio and surrounding states attended the annual field day at the Celeryville Muck Crops Experiment sub-station Thursday. After a short welcome by Guy Hummon and Tom Wonderling, of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station, a tour was conducted to the various plots on the farm.

Chemical weed control, under the direction of Dr. E. K. Alban, proved interesting to the group since onions were the major crop used in the experiments. Nine different chemicals were used with applications being made three times throughout the summer. Chloro IPC proved to be the most valuable of the standard herbicides in controlling weeds in onions. Alban stated that others are showing excellent results and, undoubtedly, will be recommended in the near future.

Dr. J. D. Wilson and Dr. J. P. Slesman, who have been working on fungicide and insecticide materials, discussed the various results on celery, onions, potatoes and carrots. One outstanding experiment showed the use of soil fumigants in controlling nematodes. Results are not yet available. However, crop indications at present are that it will be practical to use chemicals to control this insect.

As a result of last year's experiments many of the celery growers planted a new variety this spring. Dr. Walter Brown cautioned growers on the extensive use of any of the new varieties since seed companies, at present, could sell several strains of the variety under the same name. All varieties, however, did not give the same results. Dr. Brown stated that complete results of the variety tests would not be available until later and could possibly be presented at the muck crops school in January.

Many other experiments were discussed by W. R. Henderson, of the horticulture department, and Dr. Garth Volk, chairman of the agronomy department at Ohio State university.

The field day was concluded with a tour of the extensive experiments being conducted on the John Stambaugh farm by E. K. Alban and J. P. Slesman. Several acres of onions were being given various treatments for weed control and other plots were being used to test hybrid onion varieties. John Stambaugh and Charles Hand-line discussed the results and gave their opinions on the practical use of the various new chemicals. They were enthusiastic about the hybrid onion varieties since yields could be expected to increase on an average of twenty-five percent over standard varieties.

Wallace Cawse Adds Very Profitable Pond Of One-Quarter Acre to Fitchville Farmstead

A profitable addition to the farm of Wallace Cawse of near Fitchville, was a one-quarter acre pond built with the assistance of William Addison and Howard Stone, technicians with the Soil Conservation Service.

Built in the spring of 1953, the pond offers Cawse and his family a square foot of water for livestock and fire protection, as well as a means of relaxation. At the time the pond was built, Mr. Cawse had a square foot of pipe and a small pump. He pumps the water to the house and across the road to the barn. In the past, Mr. Cawse has been short of water because his wells would go dry in times of drought. Cawse states that he would have been completely out of water during most of 1953 if he hadn't had his pond. The cost of constructing the pond was less than $200, and the total cost including the plastic pipe, pump, and concrete block spillway was less than $600.

Many hours of relaxation are gained through use of the pond. It is stocked with bass and bluegills. Young people of the neighborhood use it in the summer for swimming and in the winter for skating.

Mr. Cawse's pond is one of 18 built in the county on farms of cooperators of the Huron Soil Conservation District during 1953.

Other ponds in the County with water systems similar to Mr. Cawse are Floyd Bliton, Collins route 1; Kay Ring, Greenview route 2; Dalton, Wakeman route 3; and Martin Myers, Bellevue route 1.

to bring you your newspaper

It takes paper and ink and courage. It takes presses and type and imagination. It takes a crusading seal and a lot of midnight oil. And it takes a good bit of electricity, too.

The newswire services that put Main Street within minutes of Broadway, Hollywood, and Pakistan... these are electrical. So is the power that makes the presses turn. So are many of the processes in the making of engraving, motos, stereos, electros...

In all these ways and more, your favorite newspaper is another striking example of how the daily lives of all of us are made more pleasant and profitable through the diverse, ingenious—but taken-for-granted—uses that industry is making of versatile electric power.

Rome in A. D. 1880: We've Got a Crystal Ball!
Dancing Hotspot; Now Just a Town

By Richard Tullis

Rome, a dot on the map just a few miles east of Plymouth, was founded in 1832 and was a favorite dancing resort of this area in years gone by.

Alfred Foukls erected the first house and started the first store, while his son-in-law, Jesse Davidson, opened the first of the many taverns that were to be built in the short-lived boom town.

The town grew until it reached a full half mile in length, then began the retrogression which has left Rome an isolated hamlet so small that many road maps do not mention its existence.

One of the taverns had a large ball room and it was a popular thing to "go to Rome" to dance. Story pioneers and their women-folk came from as far as Mansfield to enjoy a gala night of dancing and singing.

Early in the 70's a temperance movement began in Rome and a newspaper was published there called "Clear Grit". The editor was James Pollock, one of the founders of the movement. This paper soon became one of the most widely read sheets in the area.

The Foukls family figures quite prominently in pioneer history. Mr. Foukls was captured by Indians at the age of 11 and lived with them until he reached manhood. The northern part of Richland county was once occupied by the Huron and the Ottawa tribes. These tribes and a hunting camp were near Rome on what was called Snipp's Creek.

Exactly why Rome slowly died away has yet to be explained. Perhaps someday there may be a history of this area written and many such mysteries will be answered.

Results in Change To Present Shiloh

By Richard Tullis

The village of Shiloh was named after the Battle of Shiloh, or Pittsburg Landing as it was often called, in 1862.

Prior to this time the village had been called Salem. The change in name occurred at a mass meeting of patriotic citizens of the village shortly after the battle. Because there had been increasing confusion as there were other Salems in Ohio, the villagers decided on the change.

The town was laid out in 1852, although there had been several other attempts to found towns in Cass township. The first attempt on record goes back as far as 1825. In that year a man known only as Powers laid out a town in the township, but he never bothered to record it.

The second attempt came in 1832. This town, platted by John Snyder and Abraham Fox, was called London. A store and a blacksmith shop were erected and later a church, but the town never really materialized.

The third attempt was in 1837, when John Long operated a tan yard and a hotel at a place called Plymouth. Later this town became known as Plankton after John Plank.

At one time 200 people lived there and it was the wheat center of the area. As many as 200 teams passed through the village in a single day.

In 1850, with the building of the Big Four railroad, a town was laid out on Aaron Pettit's farm a mile north of the present town of to be marshy and had to be abandoned.

The town was then moved to its

Theft of $500 Silver From Trunk Revealed

Sheriff Elwood Jacobs continued his investigation of the theft of $500 in silver from the residence of W. Lavern Holmes, who lives two miles east of Bucyrus on State Route 98.

The sheriff said Holmes told him he believed the money was stolen Friday night while he was at work at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber Co. Entrance apparently was gained from a window on the north side of the house. The money was taken from a trunk in a bedroom. It was in half dollar and one dollar coins, Holmes told the sheriff.

— The Tiro World Aug. 20, 1954

Mr. Holmes would have been better off if he had put his silver in our vault. Burglars don't get in there.

The maintaining of safety deposit vaults is only one of the many services of the banking business, a service we've been proud to provide for many, many years.

But vaults are hard to come by. Until one is free for your use, why not open a savings account and keep your money where it belongs? Not in a trunk that can easily be broken into, but safe and guarded so it'll be there when you want it.

Speaking of PUBLIC SAFETY

"Get tough!"
 That's the advice of increasing numbers of persons who are working to reduce traffic accidents.
 "Get tough on driver licensing procedures..." "Get tough on law enforcement..." "Get tough on penalties for violations..." "Get tough on drunken drivers..."
 "Get tough on teen-age speed demons..." "Get tough on defective vehicles..." "Get tough on traffic safety engineering," are typical comments of citizens reported by Edmund C. Powers of Cleveland.

Powers' summary of growing public opinion is as follows:
 "If we are determined to reduce traffic slaughter, we should be as tough in dealing with the situation as we would be in resisting an invasion by any other agent of destruction."
 "Over 58,000 deaths, more than a million injured people, and an economic loss of nearly $4 billion every year is a crime of the worst order."
 "Mealy-mouthed measures never won a war and in terms of death and destruction, traffic accidents are the costliest conflict in our history."
 "Driver education in our schools, group meetings and discussions,
 traffic safety organizations, public appeals through press, radio and television, all serve useful purpose."
 "But until we drive home the real seriousness of the accident problem by direct disciplinary measures, we have little hope of reducing accidents to any great extent."
 "These disciplinary measures should include revocation of licenses by habitually thoughtless and incompetent drivers, ridding our streets and thoroughfares of unsafe vehicles, refusal to issue licenses to the mentally and physically unfit, and application of our best thought to the engineering of safety into our existing and new thoroughfares."
 "If all balls down to a tough policy on the part of authorities at all levels of traffic administration are regulated."
 "If this tough policy goes into action, we are just begging the question of how to reduce accidents."
