

To Sewer For Less, Expert

He came from Columbus, representing Alden E. Silton Associates, Ltd. and his name was Lovelless. After he was through, that name exactly characterized the facts he gave Plymouth's village council meeting in special session Thursday night.

Summoned by Mayor Glenn West to give facts and figures in an effort to pinpoint the cost of the proposed sewage disposal system upon which the people will vote in November, Mr. Lovelless said he didn't think costs could be pared very much.

He said he thought that a few manholes could be eliminated here and there, and that certain other changes in the plans would probably save a few thousand dollars. But when he had ticked off the changes, it was apparent the economies he would thus realize would not amount to more than five per cent of the gross, which Silton figures in the neighborhood of $425,000.

The council instructed Mr. Lovelless to prepare an estimate for an activated sludge type of sewage disposal plant, which he agreed would probably be cheaper. The estimate was directed to be ready for the council meeting of Aug. 17.

Meanwhile, the council has tentatively blocked out its plan of action to lay the program before the people in ample time for consideration before election. It entails:

1. Immediate consideration of type of plant and sewer trunks to be installed, and
2. Reconciliation of work desired with approximate costs.

3. Then, general plan of financing.

4. Presentation of engineering, health and financing aspects of plan to an informal meeting of businessmen and householders.

5. Organization of a citizens' committee to explain the program to the electorate.

The council will hear from other citizens on a plan being now under way to ascertain its position on items 1 and 2 promptly.

Shiloh Bank Takes New Ownership After 53 Years

The Shiloh Savings Bank Company will become the Shiloh Branch Office of First National Bank of Mansfield at the close of business July 31, 1954.

The change was approved by the stockholders of the Shiloh Bank at a meeting held June 28, 1954. A. W. Firestone, formerly chairman of the board of the Shiloh Savings Bank Company, has been appointed vice president of First National Bank of Mansfield in connection with the Shiloh office. Mr. E. D. Wolfersberger and Dr. C. O. Butler, formerly members of the Board of Directors, have been added to the advisory board of First National Bank. The personnel of the Shiloh office will remain unchanged.

During a meeting of the new Board of Directors a resolution was passed paying tribute to the Board of Directors of Shiloh Savings Bank and Mr. Firestone for their efforts and many years of faithful service, and in recognition to the splendid contribution they have made and the heritage they have left, as an inspiration and incentive for the new office to go forward with the hope that the bank will continue to be of service and help to the citizens of the community.

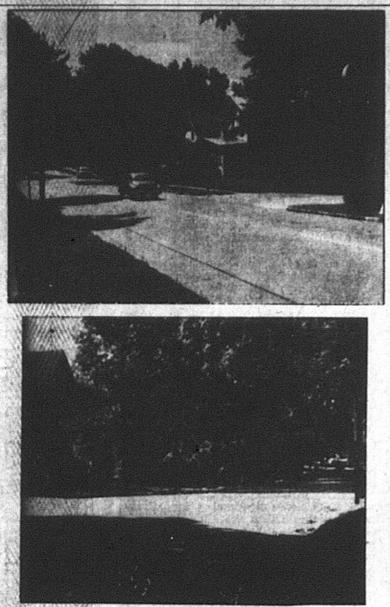

The Shiloh Savings Bank was founded in 1901. Formerly members of the bank were Jerry Wolf, Vice President; Frank Preme, Vice President; Silas Ferrell, Vice President; A. W. Firestone, Secretary and Treasurer. In 1901 the bank had a deposit of $32,723.78 and on December 31, 1953 total assets had grown to $1,909,173.50.

All the banking services which the Shiloh Savings Bank previously offered to its customers will be continued and in addition the expanded facilities of Richland County's largest bank will be available to this office.

Plymouthite Fined By Galion Mayor

Because he allowed a 16-year-old girl to drive his automobile in the hours of the morning, John J. Noble, 19, Plymouth, was fined $15 and costs, with five days in jail suspended, by the Galion mayor last week.

Noble pleaded guilty to the charge of permitting an unlicensed minor to operate his vehicle. She was Miss Shirley Smith, of 505 South Ribbes street, Galion. The car left the road and struck a state highway road sign at Harding Way West and South State road, Galion, early July 24.

Plymouthite's Father To Be Interred Today

Dwight Kluge, 68, father of William Kluge, Plymouth, was buried Monday in the New Haven cemetery after funeral services conducted by Clyde Reed from the Seor Funeral home at Willard. He died Friday in Willard Municipal hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Kluge had been a truck farmer in this area for 25 years. He was born at Sayersville, Ky. July 23, 1886. Surviving, in addition to his son, are two daughters, Mrs. Clay Lacy of Willard and Mrs. Ella Hoover of Petersburg, Mich., and another son, Kelly, at home. There are also 47 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren, and four sisters and two brothers living in Kentucky.

Services To Be Held For Mrs. McElfish

Mrs. Loa McElfish, sister of the late Mrs. Lotta Brown of Plymouth, will be interred in the New Haven cemetery today after funeral services are conducted by the Rev. John Herion, pastor of Grace Methodist church, Willard. Mrs. McElfish died Friday night at her home, 32 Myrtle Avenue, Willard, after a lingering illness.

Services were delayed by the family pending the arrival of Mrs. McElfish's daughter from an Atlantic cruise. Mrs. McElfish was born in Richmond township. She was a member of Grace Methodist church, a charter member of Research club, a member of Fireland chapter, DAR, 20th Century club, Belvedere club, B. O. Veterans assn., Order of Eastern Star, and for many years a trustee of Willard Public library.

Her husband, Glenn W., and two sons, Walter, of Lancaster, Pa., and Arthur R., of Willard, survive, as well as the daughter, Mrs. Myra Snyder, also of Lancaster. There are two grandchildren.

Soldier Summoned After Hitting Pole

Two soldiers on leave from Camp Carson, Colo., were involved in an altercation with a telephone pole in Route 61 opposite the Bachrach farm Monday night.

Pvt. Billy Armstrong, 23, of Shiloh, was the driver. His vehicle wove in and out of the south lane of the highway, according to witnesses, and finally rose upon the east bank of the road and severed into a telephone pole. It was demolished.

His companion, Pvt. Raymond Connelly, Holland, was removed to Willard Municipal in the McQuate ambulance with lacerations of the face and chin. He was placed under resting police said, when received in the hospital.

Pvt. Armstrong was summoned by Plymouth police for reckless driving.

Traffic Flow Said High Enough To Warrant Two Traffic Lights

One fellow says that when the Turnpike opens, truck traffic in Route 61 will slacken off. Another says that it will increase. Both say that trucks make too much noise and travel too fast in that part of Route 61 that lies within the corporation limits of Plymouth.

It's a safety problem and a comfort problem. The safety problem is paramount, chiefly because more than half of Plymouth's 500-odd school children cross Route 61 at half a dozen crosswalks four times a day during the school year.

A solution? Not easy, say the experts. Plymouth has a warning sign for trucks at each end of the village in Route 61: "Stay in line and keep trucks muffed." But there is no ordinance on the books by which a truck could be fined for violation of the noise ordinance. Any effort to fine one of them stiffly to teach the group a lesson would probably be met by a concerted defense led by the truckers' association. Truckers have too much tied up in diesel investments to have it go by the boards because the diesels are hard to run adequately.

Part of the noise solution, and almost all of the safety problem, can be achieved by slowing down the traffic within the village corporation limits. How? By installing traffic lights at the intersections of North and Sandusky streets and High and Plymouth streets. Stagger the light-change pattern so that it would not be possible for vehicles to sail through all three of the lights after dark.

When the noise is most bothersome and traffic in the street is lower than during the daylight hours. This would cause southbound vehicles to commence slowing down when they reach the northern edge of the high school property, and northbound vehicles to begin to slow down when they cross the Akron, Canton & Youngstown railroad tracks in Plymouth street.

If the lights are staggered so that two of them are green when one is red, traffic flow will be retarded, and the need to apply power in low gear - which causes most exhaust noise - will be averted for northbound trucks by causing the light at North and Sandusky streets to be red when the other two are green.

During school hours, or hours when large groups of pupils are leaving either the elementary or high school buildings, the lights could be controlled by hand signals apparatus.

With a light at North street, school pupils could be required to request a public under oath on file. It would make for safety. Tractors and other drivers would soon learn that, except for the possibility of a head-on collision with the street after a ball or the like, which could happen anywhere and is a constant possibility - there would be no likelihood of school children being encountered between the village corporation line and North street, or south beyond High street.

Who's responsible for installing lights? The State Highway Commission issues permits to install traffic lights. Installation of a light without permit is a dangerous procedure, as the city of Mansfield soon learned last fall, when a goody number so installed had to be removed.

What are the criteria for installing lights? Traffic flow is the chief answer, according to Director of the State Highway Commission.

What is the traffic flow at North and Sandusky streets and High and Plymouth streets? The advertiser would like to know. The appointed two responsible persons to keep an accurate traffic count over a period of 24 hours. Their certificates executed before a notary public under oath are on file. They show a 24-hour traffic flow at North and Sandusky of 2,953 vehicles, and at High and Plymouth of 1,616 vehicles.

More effective police protection cannot be obtained by personal patrolling, law enforcement experts say. What would be required is installation of a traffic speed detecting device operated on the radar principle. It is expensive to install and maintain, but the only device whose data are acceptable to the courts.

Police patrolling obtains satisfaction and strict observance of the law for a while, but a policeman cannot pass all of his working span on the one stretch of road. When he is gone, the drivers speed.

Is whatever the two traffic lights would cost - say $1,500 - too high a price to pay for live, healthy children and undisturbed sleep at night?

Mothers Set Today For Band Festival

To benefit the uniform fund of the Plymouth High school band, the Band Mothers club will take the bid off its 1954 old fashioned county auction and festival today at 3 p.m.

Richard Fox, New Washington, will call buyers with the familiar chant of the auctioneer at that hour. Under the supervision of their director, bandmen have been collecting items throughout the area for sale to the highest bidder. Antiques, odds and ends, and souvenir items are offered.

Cook in Hospital, Kitchen Varnished

Mrs. R. Earl McQuate couldn't have picked a better time to be absent from her home at 35 Railroad street.

She underwent abdominal surgery at Shelby Memorial hospital Tuesday morning while her kitchen was being treated by a doctor of varnish. Mrs. McQuate expects to return home at about the time the varnish is dry.

Her husband's aunt, Mrs. Wald Pittenger, of Shiloh, is a surgical patient in the same hospital. Mrs. Pittenger is a sister of Ivan McQuate, Shiloh funeral director.

In other action, the Board voted to obtain the services of a Fremont contractor to repair the leak in the village water tower.

The notice of all subscribers to the village water services is drawn to the fact that on Monday, Aug. 9, pressure will be dropped in order to drain the tower. Pressure will be lowered for the time required to make the repairs, estimated to be not over 48 hours.

A Willard firm was asked to prepare an estimate for the removal and trimming of trees interfering

Board Sifts Car Wash

In a routine business session, Plymouth Board of Public Affairs dealt with the water shortage problem Monday night by voting to request a public under oath on file. It would make for safety. Tractors and other drivers would soon learn that, except for the possibility of a head-on collision with the street after a ball or the like, which could happen anywhere and is a constant possibility - there would be no likelihood of school children being encountered between the village corporation line and North street, or south beyond High street.

Barneses Set 50th Anniversary

The formula for 50 years of happiness in marriage is M plus W equals U, where M equals man and W equals wife. And S equals plus of humor.

Take it from Harry and Daisy Barneses, the formula is fool proof. And they have no patent on it. Sunday the Barneses' sons, William, who lives at Greenville, and Paul, of Greenwich, will hold an open house in the Barneses residence at 10 West Main street, Greenwich, Friday. Friends are invited to call from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Among the friends who are expected to call is Millie Ward, who now lives in Shelby. She started in Shiloh with the former Daisy Sheldon when they were fifth graders.

There are other important factors in a marriage, the Barneses insist. Thrift is one of them, and so is careful planning. And also teamwork. But these ingredients don't make a marriage that is all pie and cake for 50 years of wedded happiness, they can testify that it has its ups and downs. As, for example, when the barn on their farm at Ripley burned down, and the year they had three funerals in the family.

The Barneses were married by the Rev. D. A. Parks in the parsonage of the Shelby Reformed church. They lived in Shelby, Shiloh and Ripley before they moved to Greenwich in 1942. Mr. Barneses has been a farmer most of his life, and they had three sons. Doyle died when he was three.

Besides the boys, the Barneses took a niece and a nephew and raised them as their own. They are Mrs. Margery Hersher Cook, now of Hollywood, Fla., and Glenn Hersher, Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Lookabaugh was aided by Mrs. C.M. Lofland, Mrs. Kenny Myers, Mrs. Harry Vandervort, Mrs. Grace Brown, Mrs. Robert MacBride, Mrs. Edna Beuchamp, Mrs. Hester Brewer and Mrs. Harold Russel who served as registrars, the latter two coming from Shiloh. Margery Ehret of Shelby and Doris Helle of New Haven were nurses aides.

Those serving on the canteen committee were Mrs. Don Akers, Mrs. Beryl Miller, Mrs. Charles Hannum, Mrs. P.W. Thomas, Mrs. Frank Pittzen, Mrs. Glen Hass, Mrs. Ernie Rooks, and Mrs. Pauline Hester.

The recruiting committee consisted of Mrs. William Wechter, Miss Pearl Darling, Mrs. Frank Hoffman, Mrs. James Jacobs, and James Cook, Jimmy Jacobs, John Fetters, Ted Ross, and Jerry Lillo helped to unload and load the equipment.

Presbyterians List Laymen's Sermons

A series of sermons by laymen will be presented from the pulpit from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. during the Rev. Ralph Hester's sermons, while he is on vacation.

Robert Spensler and Richard Goldsmith will report on the World Christian Endeavor conference at Washington, D.C., during the morning service Aug. 8. Harold Sams will take the Aug. 8 service. This as well all services in August, will be at 10 a.m. minutes duration.

Francis Miller will lead the services and Franklyn McCormick will read a sermon on "The Answer to Communism" on Aug. 15. On Aug. 22, the same theme will be conducted by the men "Our Reformation Faith", and on Aug. 29, Harry Vandervort will lead the services.

67 Pints Collected By Bloodmobile

Sixty-seven pints of blood were collected Tuesday at Plymouth High school by the American Red Cross blood mobile, representing donations by volunteers organized by the auxiliary of Ehret-Parsels Post, American Legion.

Charles Loo, a b a g h chairman of the auxiliary blood mobile committee, expressed gratitude to those who donated blood. At the end of the day, Daniel Vanderpool, in cooperation with Fate-Roth-Health Co., rushed the blood to Mansfield for storage.

Those serving on the canteen committee were Mrs. Don Akers, Mrs. Beryl Miller, Mrs. Charles Hannum, Mrs. P.W. Thomas, Mrs. Frank Pittzen, Mrs. Glen Hass, Mrs. Ernie Rooks, and Mrs. Pauline Hester.

The recruiting committee consisted of Mrs. William Wechter, Miss Pearl Darling, Mrs. Frank Hoffman, Mrs. James Jacobs, and James Cook, Jimmy Jacobs, John Fetters, Ted Ross, and Jerry Lillo helped to unload and load the equipment.

The highlight of the gathering will be the Founational Festival of Faith at Soldiers field, Chicago, Aug. 25, with a coming of over 3,000 Christians enacting roles in a worship pageant. The theme of the meeting is "Christ, the Hope of the World", and delegates will attend 11 planetary sessions of the World Council. The Rev. Mr. Felix will himself attend two sessions, as well as the Festival.

A summary of the Rev. Mr. Felix's credo for the World Council meeting appears in the editorial page of The Advertiser today.

Local Cooks Win Recipe Prizes

By Nancy Bancroft

The sweet-tooth detective didn't have to go very far this week to find where the good cooks are. They're right here in Plymouth.

One of them is Mrs. Thorr Woodworth, Portner street, whose recipe for date nut bread was their offer for distinction by a Mansfield newspaper. Mrs. Woodworth, according to reports, can be prevailed upon to demonstrate the recipe by appointment.

Another first line cook is Mrs. Ray Enzor, Willard route 2, who received an award for her salad dressing, cake and another for pecan balls.

Judy Garver, Shiloh route 2, got a prize for waffle syrup, and Mrs. John Hass, Willard route 1, sported a prize for orange cupcakes as well as another for French dressing.

Mrs. Floyd Champion, Shelby recipe for date nut bread was their offer for distinction by a Mansfield newspaper. Mrs. Woodworth, according to reports, can be prevailed upon to demonstrate the recipe by appointment.

Next time our red demon decides to have a breakdown, we're going to make sure it happens in front of the Champions' place on the Tiro road.

APPLIES FOR DIVORCE
Mrs. Ruth Y. Stamper has petitioned Richland County Common Pleas court for a divorce from Dallas R. Stamper, Shelby, on grounds of cruelty and neglect. She asks restoration of her maiden name, Ruth Hale. The couple was married at Moorehead, Ky., Aug. 18, 1951.

Willard Man Gets Jail, $50 Fine Here
A drunken driver paid $50 fine and was sentenced to three days in jail by Mayor Glenn West Monday morning. He was apprehended by Police Chief Robert Meiser at 10 a.m. Sunday, so sodden he didn't even know in which town he was.

He soon learned Monday, after Mayor West identified himself. The driver was Charles Miller, Willard. His cousin, Adam Miller, paid $10 and costs for drunkenness.

Entered at the Post Office at Plymouth, Ohio, as second class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The budget for Plymouth local school district's operations in 1956 seems to us to be an eminently fair one. It is soundly conceived and, so far as we can see, is properly administered.

We are fortunate to have such interested individuals as the Cashman brothers and the other members of the school board who will take the time and the effort to plan and execute a sound budget. We note that a preponderance of the expenditures will go for personal services and textbooks. That is as it should be.

There are, however, some considerations that all of us, as citizens and parents, should keep in the front of our minds. The first is that the mind of a young child is our richest jewel, our most important asset. We should not let it be touched except by experts. It follows that the best experts do not come cheaply. From this we can only observe that as our children deserve the best, we must pay more to get the best.

Our teachers draw little enough. A teacher with five years experience in the Plymouth schools draws less than a waitress in a restaurant. Now this is all right, unless you consider that the teacher has by far greater investment in his or her preparation for the work.

A teacher works not only five or six hours a day in the school, but also many outside - if the teacher is a good one, that is - to prepare the work so that every child will derive maximum benefit from it.

The total hourly input-computed from actual classroom hours, time spent on preparation, on cooperation with parent groups after school, on supervision of extra-curricular activities and the like - is high, and when it is divided into the gen- hood of $3,000, it follows that the teacher erally low annual salary in the neighbor- hood of $1.10 an hour for the work he or she does with our children.

There have been enough substantiated reports of teachers having to work at two jobs to keep alive: teacher in the day and waiter in the night, teacher in the morning and gas station attendant in the afternoon, and the like. We don't need to belabor the point. We merely need to point out that it is not right, not when we are running the risk of inadequately educated children and improperly prepared youngsters.

The only answer is to get better performance from our good teachers and to fire the bad ones. We can't do either unless we hold out a reward big enough to make the job worth while. That is why, whenever the opportunity offers, The Advertiser will stand on the side of higher salaries for teachers.

The passing of the Shiloh Savings Bank as such is both a sad and a glad occasion. It is sad because the bank has served its community since 1901 in a highly commendable fashion, always worthy of faith and trust, always courteous and sensitive to the needs of its customers.

The occasion is a glad one for all of us living in this area because it is made plain that Mr. A. W. Firestone will continue to be associated with the bank as vice president in charge of the Shiloh office.

A Plymouth businessman told us the other day, "My father gave me good advice many years ago: 'Mr. Firestone is a fine man to do business with, but remember this, don't ever lie to him.' Now that advice is good counsel to anyone wanting to do business in this world. All too few of us follow it, and even fewer of us enforce it. That Mr. Firestone has enforced it over four score years of his life is a tribute to his upbringing, to his good sense, and to his good citizenship. Over the years, the time between good salesmanship and all right misrepresentation has been all too thin. Mr. Firestone is a man who knows where one stops and the other begins, and he draws the line carefully. But he does not hesitate to draw that line, when it needs to be drawn, and we should all be glad of that fact.

How fine it is that after 50 years in the banking business in Shiloh it can be said of Mr. Firestone that he kept his standards high all through the years, and in doing so was an example to his neighbors.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Working Together From Our Files of Yesterday

Five Years Ago
The new grade school building opening was set for Sept. 12 when the school year was to be resumed. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heck of Willard and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pittinger of Shiloh led the Willard airport in a Bonanza for California. They planned to stop en route for sightseeing. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers of New Haven were parents of a daughter, Lynn, born Aug. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dickson of New Haven and the A.V. Snively family of Denver, Colo., spent a day at Lake Erie. A new book added to the Plymouth library was "The Western Reserve" by Harlan Hatcher, an Ohioan, in which the Celeryville area was described as "the most hideous place" by a Revolutionary War period writer. Wayne Gats of Shiloh was a patient in a hospital in Elyria. The Bill Millers moved to their newly remodeled apartment above Miller Hardware store. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntire and daughters were visiting in Wellsville, N. Y. Hazel Metcalf of Shiloh was motoring along the Sky line drive. Mr. and Mrs. John Lanning of New Washington opened their home to the Plymouth Garden club for their August meeting. Susan Blackburn returned to Lakewood after a month's visit with her grandmother, Mrs. W. C. Gleason. Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Carter took their children to visit the Toledo Zoo. The Wallace Harlly's purchased the laundry formerly belonging to Mr. Wisler of Shiloh. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Evans purchased the farm of Dan Grabach west of Plymouth.

Ten Years Ago
Lt. Robert Oates of Annapolis was visiting his mother, Mrs. Nellie Oates of Shelby. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Erwin, and son their and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vanover, and son, their and the Misses Lillian and Berchard Ervin of Akron were in Plymouth for the Ervin family reunion. Wayne Hough left for service with the Marines. Dan Henry was raising a victory garden in New Guinea, and the records showed that his home grown tomatoes were better than those of Plymouth. E.E. Markley, B.R. Scott, Toby Whitmore, and Joe Lasch attended a checker tournament at Cedar Point. Marilyn Sue Rosenberg of New Haven was hostess to 16 guests in honor of her second birthday. Clyde Foraker died suddenly at the age of 63. E. E. Eckstein was baptized at the First Lutheran church by Pastor Lambert. Iva Jean Semant of Ruggles was visited by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaman of Shiloh. Dr. and Mrs. C.L. Hannum and family were expected back from Boston where the doctor completed a special two-month course. George Shaffer, who was stationed in Chicago, spent the week- end would tend toward the lower level as surpluses increased.

A comprehensive plan for disposing of surpluses on land, while maintaining production at or near 100 percent of parity, as can be seen, will play a big role in the farmer's income, regardless of which system—flexible or rigid—is finally adopted.

'One Under God' Around the Square

The inspiring testimony which appears below was prepared by the Rev. Ralph M. Felix, pastor of the Presbyterian church, as his credo prior to departing for Chicago for the World Council of Churches meeting. It is worth noting, Ed. Note.)
CHRIST - THE HOPE OF THE WORLD
The world is full of false hopes, of fears, and of despair. Religious indifference is widespread. The presence of secularism within the church is deeply marked. In the churches spiritual power and triumph hope are not clearly manifest. Now as always man's greatest need is God's opportunity. Jesus Christ is the only hope of both the church and the world.

The Christian does have hope for a sad world like ours. Humanity in our day desperately needs to enlarge its horizons of cooperation. It needs a sturdier faith in man himself, it needs an unshakable conviction about eternal moral values. It needs a renewed dedication to the possibilities of peace. It needs spiritual cleansing from sin of hate and greed. It needs confidence in the future based on the continuing Providence of God, and the dignity of race of men. It needs leadership in freedom and denunciation of tyranny. These needs and more than these needs the gospel of Christ can satisfy. Christ is the Hope of the World. May God grant that the second assembly of the World Council of Churches which meets these somber days of August, 1954, will give hope to say: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ."

By His great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope "A Prayer for the Assembly: God, our Father, who has given to Thy Church a living hope through Jesus Christ, make us worthy our common calling to witness to that hope. Son of the Father, our Savior Jesus Christ, confirm in us the assurance that Thou art present with Thy people and that Thy victory will be fully manifested. Holy Spirit, the Comforter, by the power of Thy Spirit unite the scattered children of God together in the joyful service of Thy Kingdom, and so guide the Assembly of the Churches that all may be done according to Thy will and to the O God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, be the Kingdom, the Power and the Glory now and for ever more. Amen."

When our Boss complains about what we do to the end of a boss, we're going to suggest she take a look at what C. Lookabaugh does to the end of his. Wot he heck, Charley, it tastes good, doesn't it?
Had a wonderful chin fest the other eve at the cemetery board meeting. Reminiscing was a part of the order of the day. Some day we're gonna do a dandy feature on Doc "Two Bottles" Holtz, said bottles being a white one, or a red one, 50 cents each apiece.

Since we moved the phone in this establishment, more folks have inquired whether we've disconnected entirely. Sometimes we get so mad at the damage thing we could wrench it off the wall and fling it into John Stambaugh's quarry pond, but when you come right down to it, you can't get along without it. Especially when, at a time that a nice ear covered hat and things are all balled up, it rings insistently and we're not answer it, ready to tear somebody's head off for calling us at that hour, and a sweet voice says, "Daddy, this is Suzie. Mommy says you're not ready. Bye Daddy, I love you." Makes us feel like a hecl.

For the 142nd time: the address of Ron Mumea is 170th Co., 1st Battalion, 4th Regiment, U. S. Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. His serial number is SR 572-46-34.

Speaking of younger folks, the elementary school addition is a great credit to the community and the planners who conceived and executed it. The planners who conceived and executed it, although the Mothers' club has given some $55, and other private individuals a bit more, contributions are still welcome. Our suggestions (by the way, did you see the picture of Jud's place last week?) that folks interested in making a donation for the purpose of paying for the fence might be willing to trust Phin with it, and would therefore drop it off at The Advertiser office.

July Weather
July was a month of many hot days and cool nights. The thermometer hit 90 and above on eight days and 80 and above on 14 days. The maximum was 97 on the 14th. Despite these many warm days, the mercury dropped into the 50's on 12 nights with a minimum of 47 on the 8th. This brought the average temperature for the month down to 71.8, or one degree below normal. While July seemed hot, and WAS hot on many days, it was nothing as compared to July, 1936, when there were seven straight days of 100 and above, with a high of 105 on the 14th. Since then we have had a high of 100 only twice, both in the same year, July 27-28th, 1941. Rainfall was light, occurring on only six days, for a total of 2.03 inches, a deficit of 1.33 inches. The greatest in 24 hours was 1.10 inches on July 6-7th. At the end of the month, corn and soy beans in this area looked good although a good soaking rain is badly needed. J. A. R.

Wanted: some news to put under this standing head. We're with the Boy Scouts here! Long time no see news. Cub Scouts live wire. Boy Scouts no field no hit.

If you see our Boss kneeling booties, don't jump to conclusions. They're for a friend (at least, we hope he or she will be our friend) who'll be here in the fall.

What titan-haired feller was ripping it off down Sandusky street at over 60 per the other eve? We saw ya, pal!

Went with Cur Bob down to John Kleer's place the other night to shoot some starlings. Danged birds must've known we were coming. They flew the coop, er, rather they did. Didn't make John mad, but his wife was a bit disappointed. She figured the odds of the shotgun would get John up from his chair. Ain't wives the limit, John?

Memo to Jean Ann: Not your fault, honey, we should make up our mind what segar to smoke and stick to it. Note to others: we sent our Chip with a quarter and an order to C-5, and J. A. said, "No, Chippy, your Daddy smokes these." And Chippy came running home saying, "Dad, she gave me these. I told her you wanted those, but she gave me these. What's wrong with girls, Dad? Son, you've got the $64 question. If your Dad could figure that one out, he'd never have to work a day in his life."

That personable feller you see around the Square is Harold Davis, Jr., out of Ironton, who's pounding our linotype these days. Right nice boy, Harold is. Stays at Mrs. Weaver's. Give him a smile.

The Rev. Ralph M. Felix called at breakfast the other day to give us some dope about the world Council of Churches meeting at Evanston, Ill. It's a big thing, first one in history when all the world - from both sides of the Iron Curtain - is represented. Always glad to give publicity to such a deserving cause.

The Advertiser's Shiloh Correspondent: Mrs. Maude Ruckman Old Timer Congratulates Jim Culler From Retirement Solitude at Akron

James Culler received a letter from an old friend last week, a former pastor of both Plymouth and Shiloh Methodist churches. "Who would have thought," he wrote, "long years ago when I said goodbye to the fine people then living on the hills of Copus, Mohawk and Mt. Zion, that 50 years later I would be writing a few lines to Jim Culler, congratulating him on being the owner of a beautiful set of whiskers, and recently becoming a great-grand father. Have a pretty good looking set of whiskers myself, only I manage to keep my razor well stropped, but think sometimes I will soon be old enough to let them grow. (92 next March). Am in good health; if I was much better, would have to go and see a doctor.

Have not missed a meal in three years of my residence in this monastery. When I meet people I know long years ago, they invariably tell me I have not changed much. Am at Arthur's frequently for dinner, when some of their children and grand children are present also. He lives only four blocks away. He and his wife and son-in-law have a fine Dental office here together. He was president of the State Dental Convention last year. Fred is also a dentist, and lives in Lancaster. Say hello to Mrs. Maud. Looks good to see her name as the Shiloh correspondent. She has lived in Shiloh long enough to know where all the people hide. She knows too, that in my day, the burg was full up with many of the finest people, young and old. It was then a real pleasure to be a pastor of Mt Hope. Congratulating you both again and wishing you the best of every thing. I remain your old Mt Zion friend - Dr. F.B. Hebert. 209 Merriman Road, Akron"

Pigeon Fancier Says Racing Sport 'Greatest There Is'

Here's a guy who plays around with pigeons, with his wife's approval.

Harold Dietrich, who owns and operates a dairy, lives at 323 West Broadway, where in the rear of his attractive white block home there is a small pigeon cote copied after the style developed by the Army Signal Corps. In it are perhaps 30 pigeons, young and old, homers trained to return to their loft after they are liberated up to 500 miles from home.

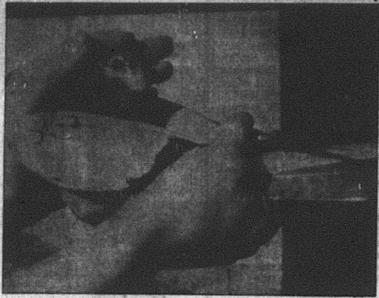

How they do it is a mystery even to scientists, but Mr. Dietrich, who has been breeding pigeons since he was nine, when World War I broke out, says there's a suspicion that some mechanism in the bird's eye causes that unerring instinct to fly home.

"Watch that small ring around the bird's eye," Mr. Dietrich explains. "The sharper it is, the more you can see it, the better the pigeon will home."

What's the secret to making them come in when you want them? "Keep 'em hungry, just like any pigeon," the veteran bird fancier says with a sly grin. "We feed them one day, in the morning. When the bird is hungry, he'll stay around his loft. When you're racing pigeons, the thing that counts is how fast it'll go inside the loft when it arrives after a race."

And what happens then? Here unfolds an interesting story of how pigeon fanciers have harnessed science to make a sport that has its devotees as high as the ruling heads of England. When the bird is young, it is banded. The number of the band—such as CL 123, representative of the Crestline club to which Mr. Dietrich belongs—is filed with the club, together with a description of the bird, and never removed. The racer takes the birds progressively longer distances away from loft and turns them loose, whereupon they circle once or twice and light out for home. Naturally, he can travel faster than they do—they average 650 or 700 yards a minute on long races—and he watches which birds get home quickest. These are the birds he selects for races and uses for breeding stock.

"You see, pigeons have blood lines just like race horses, and we breed to build up those qualities such as stamina and speed," the dairyman explains. Coming time for a race, and the club notifies its members of the racing rules. A group of birds is assembled in a clean crate and shipped by express to a distant point, such as St. Louis, about 500 miles by air from Plymouth. Generally a pigeon club member there acts as starter, although a railway express agent has often done so. All of the pigeons are turned loose at once, and a record of the time of departure taken.

It's all a matter of waiting after that. When the first pigeon returns to his loft, he enters the nest. The owner removes a capsule from his leg and inserts it in a specially built time clock, which records the exact day, hour and minute of insertion of the capsule. The clock is, of course, sealed, so that no tampering is possible.

When all the birds are home, the recording tape from the clock is taken to the racing headquarters, and average yardage speed is computed. To the fastest bird goes first prize.

Mr. Dietrich has several scores of certificates attesting to the speed of birds he has bred and trained. Some of them have won him prizes of up to $300 at a clip, especially when he lived in Cleveland.

"Pigeon breeders serve a useful purpose in other ways. Mr. Dietrich points out. "During World War I, when I was a youngster, my uncles sent a batch of birds to the Signal Corps. They weren't used to fly messages, but they did help the Signal Corps build up the right kind of breeding stocks—birds that were in fact used in combat operations. All but one or two of our birds were returned to us by the Army when it was all over."

Radio and radar tended to out-mode pigeons except in key instances during World War II. But in those instances, they were worth their weight in uranium. These occurred when radio silence was necessary to preserve secrecy. The pigeons flew unerringly home with the important messages.

Every schoolchild knows the story of Cher, Ami, the French pigeon that crossed the German lines with a vital message in World War I after losing a leg to a Kraut shell and was decorated by six governments for its efforts.

"It's stretching it a bit to say that pigeon actually dropped bullets," Mr. Dietrich allows, "but it's no joke that he flew straight as a die to his loft."

His own birds have often returned with serious injuries, such as one blue hen that arrived with its breast slashed, and another that fell to the floor when it dropped home, because its leg was broken, the result of an encounter with a high tension wire.

"The most usual question," the veteran fancier says, "is whether a pigeon actually gives milk. The answer is yes, but we call it 'soft feed'. A hen pigeon goes on 'soft feed' to nurse its young for about nine days after they're born."

Here's a wonderful opportunity for youngsters to get interested in a fascinating and interesting sport. Mr. Dietrich will assist any interested boy or girl in setting up a racing pigeon loft.

"I'd sketch out a plan for an inexpensive loft, breed the pigeons, and give them to any boy or girl who's interested. It's a lot of fun, the greatest sport alive, I think, and I get a big kick out of it," claims Mr. Dietrich.

And, another point, you're never too old to start, and age is no handicap. Nor do the birds roost on any house but their own.

The racing season starts next month. Harold Dietrich's birds will be ready.

'Getting Better', Polio Patient Says

The condition of young Cornelius Vanderbilt, the Plymouthite who was stricken with poliomyelitis at Sioux Falls, S. D., is improving, he informs his parents.

He states he does not think he will be paralyzed, although he still feels a bit of stiffness and pain. These, he is confident, will soon pass away.

Cornelius is able to move around and be out of bed, his family has been told.
