Sewer Tax Up Today

First reading of a proposed sewer usage tax ordinance will be heard today at 8 p. m. in the village hall when Solicitor Joseph F. Dush brings in a draft for consideration by the council in special meeting.

The draft is understood to call for a basic residential tax of $3 a quarter, collectible with the water bill, with payment for water to be refused unless sewer tax is included.

Business houses except for restaurants, cafes, and service stations would pay at the same rate.

Tax for cafes, restaurants, and service stations would be at the rate of $6 a quarter, and for industries such as Fate-Roth-Heath Co. the council's researches during the past week will be debated and a figure decided upon. Signs are that a rate of $9 a quarter per water meter will receive attention.

The tax would produce revenue of just over $7,500 a year, with which the village would eventually finance a sewage disposal plant. The permit to dump raw sewage in the Black Fork is not yet renewed.

Scouts to Be Guests

Plymouth troop, BSA, will be guests of the Community club at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at Cornell's restaurant in the annual Boy Scout dinner offered by the club.

James Davis, program chairman with Don Einsel, reports that an entertainment will be presented after dinner to close adjourn to the elementary school to hear the Masie lecture.

Psychiatrist to Speak To Mothers, Club

Dr. Walter A. Masie, medical officer in charge of the Mansfield Area Guidance clinic, will show "Preface to Life", a film dealing with personality development, at the Mothers' club meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the elementary school.

The film shows some of the causes underlying personality development in children and adolescents, many of which are controversial. Dr. Masie, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., is a graduate of Temple university college of medicine with the class of 1948. He served with the Atlantic Fleet as a medical officer and ashore at Camp Lejeune, N. C. He has served variously with the Veterans' administration and with the Norwich, Conn., State hospital, which is nationally known for its work in psychiatry.

Parent-Teachers' association and the community club will join with the Mothers' club in this program, which the public is invited to attend.

Office Closed

The advertiser office will be closed tomorrow and Saturday to allow the publisher to attend a newspaper convention.

Vice President Lends Hand In "Pumping for Polio" Drive

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Vice President Richard M. Nixon resumed briefly a job of service station attendant, which he had in college, when he recently went to a station of the American Oil Company here to help the March of Dimes Campaign. His customer shown here is Carol Vitiello, 5-year-old victim of polio, who needs some extra help for her motor car. Service stations participating in the "Pumping for Polio" drive donated their day's profits to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Youth Week Lead By Foreign Students

Six foreign exchange students from Oberlin college will headline the National Youth Week observance of Plymouth protestant churches Saturday and Sunday.

An international banquet will be served in Friendship hall, Methodist church, Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Guests will be required to carry their own table service and covered dish. Rolls, butter, coffee, tea and milk will be furnished by the committee. There is no charge for the banquet.

Plymouth Interchurch council, which is sponsoring the appearance of the students, announces they will appear at the morning services of the three Protestant churches at regular worship hours Sunday morning.

The students include Rufus Palmer, India; Mitsuru Donawaki, Japan; Gerhard Rambow, Germany; and Barry Shimamura, Hawaii. Two other male students have yet to be selected.

Young Palmer, a senior in the arts and sciences college at Oberlin, is a transfer from Gujarat college at Ahmedabad, India. Majoring in pre-medicine, he is a graduate of the IT Mission school there.

Donawaki is in this country as an official Japanese. He is accredited to the Japanese Embassy at Washington as a clerk, and is pursuing studies in the government curriculum at Oberlin. Born in Tokyo, he is a transfer from Tokyo university. He is a junior.

Rambow, an intending law student, is majoring in history. He is a transfer from the Cologne and Berlin Free universities in West Germany.

The one United States citizen in the group so far is young Shimamura, a Nisei who is majoring in government and law. Born in the Territory of Hawaii, he is the son of a 1929 graduate of Oberlin who has made his mark in the law profession in Honolulu, his native city.

The students will arrive in Plymouth about 2:30 p.m. Saturday and will be quartered in private homes Saturday night. They will return to the Oberlin campus Sunday night.

Robinson, Caudill Star as New Haven

After a dose of North Robinson a week ago, Plymouth High school's basketball team swallowed a stronger dose of Wayne Robinson here Tuesday night.

That it was distasteful was shown by the score, 64 to 56, as young Robinson, the whole business to an erratic and often haphazard New Haven Yellow Jacket offense, scored 26 points.

Valuable as Robinson was to the Yellow Jackets, it was young Beecher Caudill who was the floor leader for most of the evening, and who showed smart floor generalship.

Plymouth applied a press from the opening whistle and threw the Jackets off balance. For a time, it appeared the Pilgrims would walk off with the contest. They enjoyed a 15-point lead at one point in the first period, but the Jackets began to rebound better and narrowed the gap to 19 to 15 at the quarter.

By half time, Plymouth was only a point down. Coach Fred Kretzfeldt spoiled his record of never having lost to New Haven, but stuck with his younger players. Young Ted Fox and Ray Einsel, who will form the nucleus of teams to come, disported themselves with credit in the final quarter after the Pilgrims had sagged miserably in the third period.

Injuries to big Bob Newman held down his scoring activities, and he fouled out in the last quarter. For Plymouth, Howard Compton was the big gun, with 21 points.

High school girls will assist members of the Mothers' club in collecting the donations.

Procedure for the night: intending donors should light their porch lamps at 7 p.m. The evening is to end, a collector will appear to take the donation.

S. E. Nimmons Dies At Michigan Home; Former Postmaster

A former postmaster and merchant in this village, Samuel E. Nimmons died Saturday at his home in Saginaw, Mich. He would have been 88 in April.

Mr. Nimmons founded, with his cousin, Robert, the hardware firm of Nimmons & Nimmons, predecessors of Brown & Miller (now Millers) hardware on the Public Square. Later he became postmaster and it was from that post he left to live in Saginaw.

For the past 17 years he had lived in virtual retirement, spending half the year in Florida and half at his Saginaw home.

Mr. Nimmons was an enthusiast of the village's history, and recorded public and private events photographically. He was one of the first camera experts in this locality.

By custom he returned to Plymouth each Memorial day to renew old acquaintanceships, and 1954 was the first holiday since he left that he failed to return.

His wife, Mayme, survives. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday in the Case Funeral home, Saginaw, and cremation will follow. Urn interment of the ashes will be in Greenlawn cemetery here, at a date to be determined.

Mr. Mintier plans to move to Newark to be near his family and will operate the premises owned by John Holland Feb. 1.

Kidnap Suspect Held By Plymouth Police

Plymouth police have apprehended Leonard Salmons, 41, of Garrett, Ky., as a suspicious person in connection with the search by Franklin county authorities for the two abductors who took a woman from Cincinnati to Belleville in a stolen car.

Salmons told police he was accompanied by James Risner, 36, also of Garrett, and the pair were seeking work in Willard. He steadfastly denies any connection with the kidnaping.

Police describe Salmons as five feet 10 inches tall, weighing about 165 pounds, with a ruddy complexion and black hair tinged with grey.

The pair were seen in a local cafe and a description broadcast by the sheriff's radio net prompted Chief Robert L. Meiser to arrest Salmons yesterday morning.

John Fackler Buys Brother's Business

Ownership and management of Fackler's Juvenile Shop have been assumed, effective Jan. 1, by John J. Fackler, who purchased the interests of his brother, Richard.

The store was founded in 1948 by Richard Fackler. It features Nanette and Cinderella dresses for girls, both nationally advertised lines, and Boston Knitting Mills products.

Mrs. Bertha Seasholtz, who has been employed in the shop for some time, will continue her employment on a part-time basis.

Oil Firm Files Suit Against McCarty; Bettac Also Sues

A suit to recover $3,262.75 has been filed in Huron county common pleas court by the Sun Oil Co., Toledo, against J. W. (Bud) McCarty, until three weeks ago lessee of a service station owned by the plaintiffs at Myrtle avenue and Route 224, Willard.

The complaint alleges that McCarty, who is the son of Ray McCarty, Plymouth, left town suddenly. The station has been closed since. A cross petition has been filed by Ellsworth Wright, who asserts he has an interest in certain merchandise and equipment in the station. Joseph F. Dush of Willard is his attorney.

The complaint says that McCarty was in Nebraska when the action was filed. He returned to Willard for the last rites of his grandmother, Mrs. A. W. McCarty, who had been offered a job in the west.

McCarty is married and has two children. The station, company officials state, will be reopened shortly.

Theodore Bettac, Plymouth, is plaintiff in a $50,000 damage suit lodged in Crawford county common pleas court against Chester D. Lofland, Bucyrus rural.

Bettac asserts in his petition he was permanently injured while a passenger in an automobile which was struck by Lofland Jan. 8, 1953, in Crawford county road 208 near where it intersects with Route 298.

Lions Rip Union; Lucas Cops; Jackets Drop Two

Shiloh Lions avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of Union on the home floor Friday night by walloping that five, 70 to 42, as four Lion cagers broke into double figure scoring.

Fred Rader and Tom Laser dumped in 16 points a piece, and Otis Hughes had another 15, to lead the Shilohans, who jumped off to a 14-point bulge in the first period and coasted thereafter. Tony Stirp led the Union quintet with 20 markers. With the 70-point total, the Lions assumed Richland county league leadership in team scoring with 533 points.

Myerses Exceptional Farmers: They Keep Horses!

The farmer who keeps a team of horses these days is considered unique. What of the farmer who keeps two teams? And makes maple sugar to boot?

Such a farmer is F. A. Myers, who lives in Silliman road northeast of Plymouth on the old Jacob Kotz farm, which he bought 11 years ago when the war was at its height. His health has been poor of late, but his enthusiasm is undiminished, and besides, he has good helpers.

These include his wife of 41 years' standing, his son, Lawrence, who lives across the road on another piece owned by the Myerses, and his daughter-in-law, a little slip of a girl who harnessed one of the teams and plowed up some corn stubble last year when her father-in-law was unable to do it.

"Horses have been our son's main interest ever since he was a boy. He doesn't spend his money on tobacco or drink, so if he wants to blow it on those horses, who am I to tell him no?" laughs Frank Myers. The horses are Belgians, and big ones at that. One team will scale 4,000 pounds and the other easily 3,600.

"And we've got sugar bush," exclaims Mrs. Myers, "and we make maple syrup and maple sugar. Those horses come in handy for that."

Elsewhere on the 107-acre farm, which is posted against A. S. C. committee men in the pursuit of their official duties, there are machines with several hundred horses pent up under their hoods, and they are used regularly in the sowing, cultivating and harvesting of the crops. But the horses, which are lovingly groomed and cared for by young Lawrence Myers, are the principal feature of the horsepower figure on the farm.

The Myerses milk eight cows right now, and Mrs. Myers is disgusted with the egg market, which she says is so low it could reach up to touch bottom. Her Plymouth Rock hens lay a fine, big brown egg, but the market is low and at 25 cents the dozen, she can't make any profit.

The wheat quota for this year is a bit under 13 acres, Frank Myers says, and he is planning to seed that much, but he isn't happy about it. A good bit of his place will be seeded to corn, to be used principally as hog feed. There are only 20 hogs on the place now, but there will be five times that many before the summer is out.

The Myerses have lived 26 years in Ripley township, and never more than three miles from where they started out. Among the many memories over a quarter century are the fires which took neighbors' houses.

"Why one morning our son woke up and looked out the window and said, 'Mom, so-and-so's house is burning.' I just lay there and told him to stop joshing me, but he said he meant it, and I took one look and came out of there dressed and bucket in hand to help out."

Mrs. Myers relates. Ripley township obtains its fire protection from the Greenwich volunteers, and its residents seem highly pleased with what they get. A paradox of the system is that the Myerses are on the Plymouth telephone exchange, and have to make a toll call for fire protection.

"Who cares, so long as you get the fire out," reasons Frank Myers. He can remember when the little village of Delphi was a lively spot that often commanded the presence of the sheriff on a Saturday night but "times have changed - it's not so wild any more."

On a pleasanter note, he recalls also the strawberries which his wife harvests from her patch in the spring and wishes he could eat them. His diet won't allow it right now, but he's hoping his doctor will be able to clear up the situation before another spring rolls by. Meanwhile, he's ready for the sugaring season.

County Bond Sales Hit 82 Per Cent Quota

Ohioans invested more dollars in Series E and H Savings Bonds during 1954 for the third consecutive year, with total purchases reaching $329,788,863, or 96 per cent of the state's quota, Avery C. Hand, Jr., chairman, Richland county saving Bonds Committee, reported today.

Report from Columbus

BY J. K. (KEN) WEAVER
Huron County Representative

Through the courtesy of The Advertiser I will again try to give you some of the highlights of what is happening in the legislature. In some instances, you will get an answer to your correspondence through this column, especially where these questions have to do with subjects of general interest.

This is the third week of the 101st General Assembly, and we are now about of the 100th in activities. This fact is, of course, due to revising the code two years ago. Already we have 142 bills introduced in the House, and 64 bills in the Senate, with two more sessions to go this week. Committees have organized and are working on bills that have been referred to them.

During the past week I have received many cards from railroad employees, asking for the defeat of the River-lake Conveyor Belt bills that have been introduced in both the House and the Senate. Battle lines have been drawn by the railroads on one side, and by the proponents of the bill on the other side. Lobbyists very active in regard to it. I have tried to observe the feeling in regard to the bill, and if the vote were taken today, I believe that the belt legislation would be defeated. However, there will be much discussion in committee and elsewhere it will finally come up for a vote.

I am again a member of three committees: Education, Conservation and Health. There will be plenty of action in each of these committees, but the action will be especially heavy in education, because of the report of the survey commission in this field. More about this in the future.

From week to week, I will have something to say regarding the House membership, and some stories relating to a number of the individual members.

In the past, I have spoken to groups, such as service clubs, civics classes, Parent Teachers Organizations and others, and will be happy to speak to groups on subjects of their choice or in general, so long as the time does not conflict with my legislative duties.

If you have a group wishing to visit the legislature, and other points of interest in Columbus, I will help in planning your trip if you will call or see me.

If you have questions of general interest that you wish discussed in this column, please send them to me.

A Good Suggestion

A number of communities throughout the state have decided to avail themselves of a law passed two years ago permitting the combining of the offices of village clerk and treasurer.

In principle, the separation of powers was a good idea. A separate treasurer was able to provide a certain check upon the activities of the clerk. But it was only rarely that things worked out this way in practice. One officer of the state auditor's office has said, "We regard village treasurers as a fifth wheel."

This village is faced with the problem of keeping a clerk, who already has served notice upon one of his employers - the Board of Public Affairs - that unless his salary is raised he will have to seek outside employment. This will, of course, reduce the number of hours that the village office is open to the public, and will mean a definite curtailment of service.

The salary of the village treasurer is $200, and while it is not much as money goes, it would help to keep a qualified and conscientious clerk on the job. And it would make for more efficient administration, a fact which the state auditor's office has been at pains to point out.

Mr. W. P. Cummins, the examiner who filed his report of audit of our village finances June 30, 1952, wrote, "During the period of this examination, (Apr. 4, 1947-June 30, 1952) all treasurers failed to balance their books with the bank balance of the clerk, thus making it necessary for your examiner to spend considerable time to establish proper fund balances."

The significance of the remark is made plainer when we realize that we as citizens pay for the examiner's time. If because of deficiencies in either the system or the personnel administering the system an examiner needs to stay longer to do the job required by law, it costs us money. Money we could well use for something else, for examiners come high.

This year is an election year. Every village official will need to submit himself to the electorate for a vote of confidence.

It is not the incumbent with whom we quarrel, it is the system. We think it would be a good idea for the council to adopt an ordinance combining the two jobs. If this is done before July 10, the office of village treasurer will be eliminated. It would not be necessary for the council to make the appropriation for the treasurer's salary available to the clerk, but it would be a wise move.

Our Boy Scouts

All the complaining about juvenile delinquency has somehow failed to take note that we already have a fine organization designed to combat it. Trouble is, nobody thinks of the Boy Scouts unless a uniformed lad comes to the door asking for funds, and then he thinks the youngsters are always asking for money.

But it is not money they need so much as it is friendly interest and solid support. Mr. MacMichael, the excellent Scoutmaster, points out that social dancing activities at the Scout hut showed how these young men can and do behave like grown-ups when given the right conditions. The enjoyment of the Scouts in ringing the Christmas bells was appreciated by all. Activities such as these can only be carried through to the kind of conclusion that will teach our young men how to be men if there is adequate, continuous adult support. The members of the Community club should not think of the Scouts only on the one night a year when they have the lads in to dinner.

Admittedly, the Scouting program has most appeal for the younger boys and girls. But we maintain that if the head is set straight while the body is young, it is much less likely to go astray when the body is older. For these reasons, the Scouting program deserves your personal support.

Because of very rare cases persons without hands are arrested, the FBI representative American taste. The great Chinese statesman was on tour of Europe and the United States, and had been greeted by President Cleveland on the preceding day.

The cold weather and the overcast skies may have caused many to overlook the completion of the steeple of First Evangelical Lutheran church, but it did not pass without notice.

The work is done and the church is restored to what it was, structurally, before decay set in a long time ago. The church council and some beneficent parishioners made possible the work, and the steeple adds immeasurably to the architectural attractions of this community. We congratulate the church in its achievement.

What is a steeple? Why is it there? Traditionally and functionally, it was for the purpose of mounting the church bell, so that the faithful could be called to worship. Symbolically, the steeple is the reaching of man toward the heavens, where God is, and it is not just an accident that the steeple is crowned by a cross.

In this modern age of functionalism and cutting of corners, in part to make maximum use of space available, steeples are all but passe. It is good to see a steeple restored to what it was when it was built, the symbol of man's reaching to God. And make no mistake about it, man still needs to be called to worship.

But the loudest bell mounted in the highest steeple is of no avail if his ears - and his heart - be closed.

Phin hasn't seen any robins except in a picture, and what a picture! She was Robin Francine Schreck, whose old man is somewhere between Japan and God-knows-where. She was a year old Sunday, and passed the day with her mother, the former Marcine Kaple, in New Washington. Her grandma, dotting as ever with her first grandchild, was in to show us the snapshot, regrettably unsuitable for reproduction here: Robin's mom, grandma, and grandfolks, threw a small whing-ding for her at the New Washington site Sunday. Happy birthday, sis.

Thorr Woodworth says he hopes his fellow parishioner at First Lutheran who snatched his overalls were not good enough to return same. Thorr's toosties are cold. We told him the story of the African preacher who lost his umbrella, but he said he'd heard it before. Besides, he's too old for that sort of thing. If you've got Thorr's overshoes, kindly return 'em.

Did you hear the lady on teevee the other p.m., teller interviewer she worked for the gas company in Pittsburgh, whereupon she inquired if there was much business for the gas company there? She worked the place with this reply, "Oh, yes, sir, 90 cent per cubic of Pittsburgh have gas."

Aside to J. Ryan: thanks for the material, chum. It was good stuff, that about the merit in a federal service system, and only space restrictions prevented us from running it at the proper time, which was last week, when the whole nation took its hat off to federal civil servants. They deserve it, and that's why we get along with you in your desires to push it. And also why we go along with Ike on raises for postal personnel.

Phin learns from C. N. McGrew, county farm agent, there're 45,000 acres of forests and woodlots in Richland county. Sale of forest products amounts to about $35,000 a year, and the farmers use about $90,000 worth.

Healthy, Happy in Home Near Shiloh, But Remembering Past — Smiths Mark 65th Anniversary

Sixty-five years ago Jan. 16, it was a cold, wintry day and the horses' hooves broke through the crusted mud as the buggy made its way back from Greenwich, where its occupants had visited a Methodist minister.

Their object was matrimony, and in the Methodist parsonage there the Rev. J. M. McCullough united in marriage Inez Washburn and Warren Smith, who started this week on their 67th year together.

"I wore a brown satin dress, made by a dressmaker we had," Mrs. Smith recalls, "and we came home for a dinner prepared by my mother. I just don't remember what kind of a dinner it was — I was too excited, I guess."

Still sprightly and active in his 86th year, with his face burned a bright red by the winter sun as he gets around the 300 acres he manages, Warren Smith tells how he handed down the old Plymouth quarry, now the John F. Stambaugh property, to construct the foundations under the home the Smiths now occupy and which they have never definitively left.

His father and brother helped him build it, and it has stood on the south side of Base Line road, just east of Edwards road in Blooming-grove township, ever since a monument to the kind of building they did in those days.

Warren Smith attended Plymouth schools for four winters. He recalls the old edifice that stood beside the B & O tracks, before it was torn down to make way for the present elementary school. "It was a drafty old place, and the winters were cold in those days. I went to Mansfield after that to get a teaching certificate, and taught for about 10 years around here."

"Yes," smiles his white-haired helpmeet for six-and-a-half decades, "he got $35 a month to start, and eventually $2 a day."

Warren Smith taught in Paradise, Pontiac and Planktown schools but he remembers the Paradise assignment best. The schoolhouse still stands, discussed but available, in Noble road just east of Edwards road.

"We had just 19 boys in that where Billy Noble now lives. Matter of fact, there's still a fund in the Shiloh bank deposited by those ballplayers."

And truth to tell, there is such a fund. It's in the name of the Paradise Baseball team. The fund is for the purpose of paying for flowers and other remembrances from their five children, ballplayers lays down his glove for the last time. There are only three left, Boyd Hamman, Billy Noble and Martin Moser. Mrs. Flora Noble is another student who is still living near the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Eichelberger - he's 87 and she 84 - are in good health and remain active, although he has given up farming. But he plants a garden each year, and she cans the produce. They do for themselves, mostly, "but we girls come in and do the washing."

The girls are Mrs. Blanche Phillips, Plymouth; Mrs. Pearl Fink and Mrs. Ilo Atyco, New Haven, and Mrs. Lena Shirley, Willard. The son is Don, who lives in County Line road east of Plymouth.

Mr. Smith's parents were Sarah and Daniel Washburn, early settlers in Richland county. The original Smith farm, just east of the place occupied by Warren and Inez Smith, is still farmed by descendants of the family - now Mr. Smith's nephew.

"I don't do any farming any more, I just manage this place and the two on either end, I have some Plymouth chaps, the Cassels, who help me out. Right now, like anybody else, I'm limited to 15 acres of wheat on each place. I'd feed it to my hogs if I could raise it, but I can't, so that's that."

Hogs number 30 on the place right now, with four sows ready to farrow. There'll be more in the spring. And with the completely modern equipment, including three tractors, which he has to do the work, Warren Smith intends to keep active as his legs and the Almighty will permit.

He enjoys his cigar - "I wouldn't try to break him of the habit, for it's one thing he really enjoys," says Mrs. Smith - and he listens to the radio. The TV bug hasn't bitten him yet, and he figures he can do without it.

Local Couple Has Surprise as Family Recalls Wedding

Marking 61 years of marriage, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Eichelberger, 59 Partner street, were surprised by their daughters Tuesday with a potluck dinner and small remembrances from their five children, 26 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

"NOW IS THE TIME" to place your order for chicks. An unfavorable year is almost always followed by a very good year". This we quote from a letter sent out by an organization indirectly interested in egg and poultry production. This we believe—your position as an average poultryman is no different than our own—we are in business and can't quit merely because we had a rough year. Every one involved will no doubt approach this season more cautiously than last—a most healthy attitude.
If you decide to put in chicks of course we would like to have you get them from us. However, regardless of where you buy them—buy conservatively. In this space we will tell you why next week.
