

Local Girl Gets National Notice In Magazine for Theatre Folk

Chagrined last week because her chiffon dress failed to arrive in time from Cleveland to be worn for the wedding of her cousin in Mansfield's First Presbyterian church July 26, Penny was disappointed a bit this week because copies of Theatre Arts magazine, a monthly slick publication for the theatre, didn't arrive in time for her friends and neighbors to see the spread in which she appears.

The article (we haven't seen all of it, either, but have been given a brief summary of it by the editors of Theatre Arts, together with permission to reproduce the illustrations) details the acting workshop at Dennis-on-Cape Cod, Mass., conceived and founded by Richard Aldrich, a renowned theatrical producer who was married to the late Gertrude Lawrence, who has written a book about her, and who is a recent bridegroom.

Bolt Strikes Barn, Fire Destroys, Farm Equipment

Lightning from an electrical storm which struck over Ganges at about 5:30 p.m. Thursday and set fire to the barn of Benton Guthrie in Lybarger road. The farm is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lauer.

Shiloh Fire department responded to the alarm, but found the building beyond help when the truck arrived.

A cow, two mows of hay, a corn crib filled with corn, and most of the farm machinery were consumed in the blaze including combine, corn picker and hammer mill, the loss was partially covered by insurance.

in Morocco on vacation from his duties as deputy director of the Foreign Operations Administration in Madrid, Spain. Mr. Aldrich is himself the subject of a brilliant profile in the New Yorker magazine, a two-partter which is completed with this week's issue.

Penny was a technical apprentice at the workshop for 11 weeks last summer and her photographic qualities appealed to the photographer and author of the piece. Now she is an assistant to Jo Portaro, a Cleveland impresario of coiffures (that's highbrow for fancy ladies hairdresser), and has appeared on television programs and in state and national advertising photos for the Portaro operation.

Quota Set at $1,500 For Church's Camp

Plymouth's quota for its share in the construction of a summer camp at Pleasant Dam is $1,500, to be raised in the next three years, the Rev. Ralph M. Felix, pastor of First Presbyterian church, announces.

The camp project is being undertaken by the Presbyterian Men's Fellowship of the Wooster Presbytery, of which Robert Jamison of Wooster is president.

The Rev. Mr. Felix attended a meeting of the camp committee at Pleasant Dam Aug. 3. It was announced that $24,000 of the $100,000 goal set by the Presbytery has already been reached. Plans are underway to start a well and construction of several buildings at the camp site. It is hoped that the camp will be ready to serve the area next summer.

A farm, six miles north of Willard, has been purchased by the Toledo Presbytery, where it is planned to set a summer camp in operation.

In Indignant Quarrel over Gas Connection —

He Runs from 'Wack' To Escape Axe Whack

A husband sometimes has his head taken off when he comes home, but seldom when he goes to work.

Dale McPherson, who lives in Plymouth East road, nearly experienced that fate Tuesday when a Shelby man took after him with an axe, chopped through the windshield of the truck he was driving, punched his boss on the chin, threw two rocks through the plate glass windows of his place of business, and wound up with handcuffs on his wrists that no key would open.

McPherson, an employee of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., called at the residence of Wayne Switzer, 52, at 19 West Second street, Shelby, to convert the gas system from low to high pressure. He made the adjustments promptly, but discovered leaks in the line which he determined were a plumber's work. So he shut off the gas, notified the householder, and prepared to leave.

Then Switzer swung into action. He ran after McPherson, who fled for his truck. Safely in the cab, McPherson started to leave. Switzer flung the hatchet through the windshield, causing damages of $40.26.

Then Switzer rushed to the office of Leroy Coffey, Shelby police chief, and demanded an order to the gas company to turn on the gas. Coffey referred him to Allen Harman, Shelby law director, whose office lies beyond that of Neil McCaron, manager of the Shelby office of the gas company.

Switzer stopped at McCaron's office and started an argument with him, which he culminated with a punch on the jaw. Then he said he'd be back to smash the front windows.

He was as good as his word. About 6:45 p.m., the plate glass windows, worth $180, were penetrated by two stones. One of them continued on to the front of a new stove, causing damage worth $70.

By this time, the attention of the police was drawn in spite of the heat, and Switzer was taken into custody.

McCaron refused to execute a warrant for assault and battery. McPherson had gone to his home, and the police thought it best to file a warrant for malicious destruction of property.

Switzer's attorney entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity. Whether this was intended to mean "mad with heat" was not made clear.

But when Switzer got to Richland county jail, sheriff's deputies found that the handcuffs placed on his wrists by Shelby police would not open to any key they could adduce. A garage mechanic

Kok Baby First Case Of Polio; No Signs Of Paralysis Found

A 19-month-old Plymouth boy is the season's first - and only, so far - polio victim.

Edward John Kok, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kok of 203 Riggs street, has been discharged from City hospital, Cleveland, after treatment for what was positively diagnosed as polio of a non-paralytic character.

The boy was taken to Cleveland July 29, by his parents after having manifested symptoms of mild polio. He remained in the hospital a week, and attending doctors declared the case is "cleared up."

Nevertheless, two other children, Eugene, six, and Dwayne, four, are being watched carefully for signs of the disease.

A boy born at 11:25 p. m. Aug. 3 to Mrs. Russell Kamann in Willard Municipal hospital was rushed at once in the McQuate ambulance for immediate surgery at a Columbus hospital after the attending physician, Dr. Charles O. Butner, examined the child.

Mrs. Kamann and her husband, an employee of Bachrach Company, live in Route 61, on the old Coleman farm.

Mrs. Vinson Appointed New Chief Operator

Appointment of Muriel Vinson as chief operator at Plymouth, effective Aug. 15, is announced by Northern Ohio Telephone Co.

Mrs. Vinson is no stranger to Plymouth, as she was chief operator in this village from 1940-1944. She has served Northern Ohio Telephone Company in similar positions at Pemberville and Grayton. More recently she has been assigned to the Newark office.

Mrs. Vinson and her mother will reside in the apartment on the second floor at the telephone building.

Appraisals on Jan. 1 Made on What Done

If you had a new building on your property - or one a-building - on Jan. 1, 1955, it was appraised at its then existing value on your 1955 tax bill, Huron County Auditor Bernard F. Kean says.

This follows the rule of the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals handed down to Huron county Dec. 1, 1954. Naturally, it applies to the other 87 counties in the state.

Appraisers are continuing their work with respect to all new buildings and improvements and expect to complete it in the autumn. Without the assistance of the owner or builder, or both, the appraiser can't very well determine if the construction began before or after Jan. 1. Owners are required by law to notify the auditor within 60 days after new construction starts, but many have failed to do so, Mr. Kean reports.

His advice: do so now. Just how difficult the appraisers' jobs are is suggested, Mr. Kean says, by the modern technique of pre-fabricated housebuilding. "A house goes up in two or three days, and by the time the appraiser gets there, it's almost being lived in," the veteran auditor explains.

How do the appraisers find out when a house is a-building? They get copies of building permits issued by cities and villages. They check the personal tax returns for more data. But the law says the owner or builder, or both, should notify the auditor within 60 days. In practice, it's a mixture of all three techniques, plus a good bit of keeping the eyes and ears open and giving them plenty of locales in which to see and hear.

The reward to the county administration for keeping track of all the new buildings is negligible, Mr. Kean points out. The real value falls to the tax district, to which the added revenue represented by taxation upon new property is paid.

The technique of appraising properties is a complicated - and controversial - one. On the 1955 abstract of real property, you'll find four classifications: residential, agricultural, commercial and industrial.

Agricultural classifications show farms smaller than 20 acres and larger farms. This enables the Board of Tax Appeals to follow closely the appraisal value as compared to current selling prices.

The appraisal carried out in 1954 was based upon aggregate sales from 1946 through 1954. As the selling price of properties sold goes up, future appraisals for tax purposes will go up, too.

In 1954, real, public utility and tangible personal property in Huron county was valued at $95,506,575.

That was its valuation for tax purposes. Its genuine value was probably much over that. Property for property, the appraisals were lower than in urban areas, which gives rise to the perennial kick of urban dwellers in connection with distribution of state school monies and the like in the less-crowded areas, of which Huron and Richland counties are but two examples, are appraised at less per average property than property holders there are not carrying their fair share of the tax burden, and are not entitled to more state monies.

Fox Pitches Pirates To Win Over Reds; Cards Down Cubs

Just in case there is any doubt, Coach Jim Ryan's Pirates went out Thursday night to prove they can be beaten only sometimes.

The Pirates took on the Reds and administered a sound thumping, 12 to 6, behind effective pitching by Ted Fox.

George Day, regular southpaw hurler for the Bucs, was absent for the game, but he was hardly missed as the Corsairs sailed to three scores in each of the first two frames and added six more in the fourth.

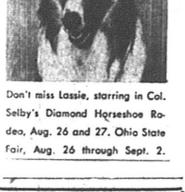

Bill Taylor, Red pitcher, was less effective than usual, giving up nine walks.

In the opener, the Cardinals got off to a six-run lead in the first frame, before Dick Akers and Dan Carter arrived from the band concert, and held off Coach Jim Davis' Cubs, 9 to 6. Akers pitched well enough after Yesterday at 4 p. m. was the deadline for filing nominating petitions for village offices to be filled in the general elections. A goodly number of citizens are running for office, a fact in which this newspaper takes particular pride.

For it is always good to have many candidates for public office. Too often the holding of a village office is regarded as a chore, to be passed around among prominent citizens as a kind of curse to be worn for one or two terms of office.

This year, there has been no reluctance of so many candidates to file. And that is so because there appears to be a difference of opinion as to how things should be run.

Just what these differences are, we do not hesitate to say, we do not know. We have certainly tried to find out, because we think the voters are entitled to know what the issues are, and to have the opportunity to vote according to how they feel those issues should be resolved, not according to the way the candidate parts his hair or ties his cravat.

These candidates who are running for reelection are obviously running on their record, and by and large, we think it is a good one. But they, too, have an obligation — we would almost term it a sacred one — to come forward with a clear-cut plan that can be considered by all.

And just in case any of them need some ideas, we offer these suggestions for platform planks:

1. Raise the required bond of the clerk to $10,000. He is handling more cash, what with the sewer fund, and the present $5,000 limit was set when $5,000 bought a lot more than it does now.
2. Establish a long-range program to insure a copious quantity of potable water, sufficient to sustain normal expansion of water requirements in present households and to meet the needs of additional households.
3. Establish an organization to entice a small industry, or maybe two, to locate here. Then provide it with funds to do the required job.

We understand some of the village officers are a little sore because we have printed the details of what goes on in the village meetings. We are sorry about his, because we did not do so to embarrass or shame them. We did it, and will continue to do it, because we believe the people have a right to know.

And if the people would do what anywhere else but in this country they would be expected to do — attend public meetings — whatever is said across the council table that was not intended for publication would still be public property, and would be all over town faster than The Advertiser could ever get it there.

So we are proud of our record over the past year, and we pledge that we will continue to report the facts as they are without fear or favor. Because we believe in the republican form of government in the American democracy, and we think the only way it will work well is to have the people informed.

The fact that this policy has succeeded is shown by the large number of candidates who filed yesterday.

Around The Square with Phineas Whittleseed

Things we never knew until now; that fast little machine in the post office that cancels postage stamps affixed to letters will accommodate stamps placed at any corner save the upper left. So if the gov't's boys in the P. O. discover a lot of perverse folks putting 'em there, they'll blame Phineas Whittleseed.

There's a post office patron who mails a cigar every week to the same address. At least, J. C. thinks it's a cigar. The letter has to be hand processed, cause it won't go through the machine. Don't mash down on the thing just to test it out, J. C. Come to think of it, noboddy sends us any see-gars through the mails, not even loaded ones.

And speaking of cigars, thanks to Doc Haver for his, in honor of the new lad at the Haver house. No fancy foreign names for this one, sez Doc. Plain John Arthur will do.

You've got to look on the wall to find it, but his real monicker is Reinhard Harold Mack. Betcha he's Milwaukee fan.

Funny story of the week: C. Ramsey obtained some bones for his pooch, which were wrapped in that nondescript pink paper used by butchers. He put 'em in the refrigerator, intending to wait until Hound got hungry.

Mrs. R. bought, from the same butcher, a chicken, also wrapped in the same kind of paper, which she also placed in the refrigerator.

C. Ramsey returned, seized the pink-wrapped package, flung it to Hound, and Hound had a ball. And when Mrs. R. went to get Sunday dinner ready, all she found was the mess of bones.

The boys are going to Toledo to see the ball game in a school bus, which has been obtained at a rock-bottom price by courtesy of its owner, a Greenwich man who believes in boys.

We certainly can't drive a dozen cars to Toledo and return for what it costs to rent the bus, and the bus has two added advantages: it's insured up to the hilt, and the boys'll be all together.

What we do need are these: some mothers who'll make lemonade, loan us their thermos jugs, with said lemonade in it; mothers to remember to furtish boys with (a) a note saying they can go, not later than the 18th and (b) a sack supper on the 25th.

The bus will leave from E. B. Miller's parking lot in Spring street at 4 p.m. promptly. Boys should be reminded to fetch a light sweater or jacket in case of chilly weather (migosh, won't it be wonderful to feel some of it, though?)

Best philosophical bit to come across our desk in a hot week: "A brick is made of clay. So is a man. A brick is square and plumb and true. So a man ought to be. A brick is useless until it has been through the fire. So is a man. A brick is not as showy as marble, but it is more useful. Man is not made for show, but for service. When a man fulfills this description, he has a right to be called a brick."

We'd like to get some good glossy black-and-white prints of homes of former Plymouth - and Shiloh - folks who've moved away, to run a regular feature. Send 'em in, friends, with full details of where the house is located, how big it is, when you moved there, and how you like living there. We'll send 'em back, but they've got to be smaller than six by four inches in sizes.

Who was the citizen who traipsed downstairs in the heat the other two ayem, completely nude, and opened the refrigerator to get a cold drink? Natch, he left the lights off, but forgot what happens when you open the refrigerator door.

Came a booming voice from next door: "Do you ALWAYS go around with no clothes on?"

Reminds us of the local character who was a bit on the stingy side and put his young son in the refrigerator while he closed the door. Wanted to make sure the light went off.

Poem.
Mary had a little lamb,
Whose fleece was black as soot,
And everywhere the little lamb went,
His sooty foot he put.

Willard Largent, two-listed columnist of the Medina County Gazette, has a feud on with the American Red Cross. Seems the business folk in Medina would like to have one charity drive a year, combining forces in one big effort to get enough funds for all charitable organizations.

The ARC won't have any of it. They, and the heart and tuberculous people, prefer to carry on separate drives. Willard pointed out that the ARC gave some moosey to Flint, Mich., when the tornado hit, and then asked for it back. Whereas GM, and the other industries in Flint, acted up like living trees to meet the needs of the hour with no strings attached.

Willard says, "Don't ever-trod on the feet of the Red Cross if you want to live peacefully." Stay in there, keel, and keep pitching. You're traveling the right road. The rest of us'll wake up some day.

Family Grown, He Wants Animals to Tromp Down Brush — Bob Miller Wants Pony, Pond

Bob Miller is a man who knows what he wants. Right now, he wants a pony and a pond. In fact, two or three ponies. But only one pond.

He lives, as he has lived for the past several years, on a 16-acre place in the south side of Route 603 about a quarter of a mile east of Planktown. The gorse and brush in the pasture defies the best efforts of a flock of about 25 sheep and lambs, and he figures a pony or two would help keep the brush down. The animals trample down the brush while trying to avoid the flies.

So if anybody has a good pony, not necessarily a blooded one, that he wants to sell, get in touch with Mr. Miller.

Further proof of the fact that Bob Miller knows his own mind is that he's going to build a pond, but he won't do it with any strings attached. Trouble with the federal agency that surveys and helps farmers construct ponds is that it requires open fishing at the site. Mr. Miller, like many another farmer who has worked hard for what he's got, thinks that's unfair. If he wants to restrict access, whether for fishing or anything else, to his private property, that's his business.

So this fall, if all goes well, he'll dam up a low spot in the swale south of his house and establish a pond held back by an earthen dam faced with clay and covering a little better than an acre of land. It'll be about nine feet deep at the spillway.

The pond's exact area will depend on an agreement between Bob and Mrs. Bob. She wants the pond a trifle to the west of the site he's picked out. He thinks it ought to be nearer the three-quarter acre of woods in the southeast portion of the property.

"That way, I'll have a little place where I can play checkers with my friends of a Saturday night, in the shade," he laughs.

The Millers used to have some cows, but lost the last one to a bolt of lightning about two years ago. The insurance company settled up for the full insured value of the animal, he says, despite the fact the cow could be replaced on the market for about half that figure.

Mr. Miller has worked for a

Mansfield outfit - Westinghouse for 12 years. Before that, he was 16½ years with Mansfield Tire & Rubber Co.

This vacation, he had intended to get a lot done on the place. "This hot weather simply doesn't make you want to work, and I didn't even go up to Michigan to fish," he laughs.

Shiloh Council Adopts $39,702 Budget, To Receive Bids for Firehouse Addition

Shiloh taxpayers will ante up $39,702 to run their village government during the next fiscal year, the village council has decided.

By the end of the year, the general fund is expected to have a $3,000 balance. Total receipts into the fund for the next fiscal year are estimated at $7,000.

Receipts from the motor vehicle tax for street maintenance and repair estimated at $1,500; gasoline tax repair fund, $2,510; water fund, $4,904; electric fund, $21,118; and bond retirement, $2,318.

The figures mean that with Shiloh's low water rate and no maximum (there are no water meters in the village) the operation of the potable water supply system will cost $4904 or less, city will amount to $21,118 or less.

Clerk H. B. Miller has been authorized to advertise for bids to construct a 38 x 20-foot addition to the fire house to house the 1,045-gallon water truck used by Cass and Bloominggrove townships for rural fires.

Heck Buys Plot For Parking Lot

Arthur Heck, who operates Heck Cleaners in both Plymouth and Willard, has purchased the building adjoining his Willard shop in Myrtle avenue.

Mr. Heck plans to tear down the two-story building which had previously belonged to H. C. Stapp, to make parking space for his customers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oberlin, deputy master, inspected the Hazel Grove Grange at its Aug. 3 meeting.

Milton Lynch, master, was in the chair. At the business meeting, Mrs. George Stroup, Mrs. Arthur Stober, and Mrs. Oliver Fairchild were chosen to select three women whose names will be placed on the ballot for a juvenile matron.

Mrs. Stroup was in charge of tea lecture hours which was followed by refreshments.

Tuesday's meeting will have Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Caplinger, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, and Mrs. Clyde Gurney as the committee in charge.

Session to Lead Church Services

In the absence of the Rev. Ralph M. Felix, Sunday services of First Presbyterian church will be under the direction of the Session, James Cunningham, an elder, will read the service.

During the summer months, the service is at 10:30 a.m.

Armstrong's Work Shown in Shelby

John Armstrong was among the area artists whose works were exhibited last week in the window of a Shelby store.

An oil painting of Beth Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, at the age of six months, and a watercolor of a snowy range of the Himalaya mountains were Mr. Armstrong's two entries.

Your child will have a big share of all the fun at the Ohio State Fair. Be there too! Aug. 26 through Sept. 2.
