35 per cent boost asked for telephone

Plymouth, Greenwich and New Washington telephone subscribers will pay a 35 per cent increase in rates if the request of the Northern Ohio Telephone Co. is approved. The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio reveals.

In a petition filed with the

PUCO Nov. 21, the telephone company asks increases as follows:

$2 a month for the private business line.

$1.50 a month for the five party business line.

$3 a month for the PBX subscriber.

$1.50 a month for the private residential line.

$1 a month for the five party residential line.

Applied to the present rates, the increases figure at 34 per cent raise for five party residential users, at 36 per cent for private business users.

Rural subscribers will pay $1.50 a month more for 10 party business telephones and $1 a month for 10 party residential service.

Under existing law, a public utility is authorized to charge rates which will return enough revenue to pay for replacement of the equipment and materials at present prices, regardless of date of installation.

Brooks endorsed for PM

Raymond L. Brooks, Plymouth town-ship clerk, has been endorsed by the Richland county Republican executive committee to succeed Claude E. Sourwine as Plymouth's postmaster.

The recommendation has been forwarded to Rep. Harry McGregor, 17th district Congressman, and will be submitted to the Postmaster General with his approval.

BROOKS HAS TWICE BEEN defeated for county office, once for county commissioner and this year for recorder, after he had filed nominating petitions for county commissioner.

The recommendation comes as a reward for long service to the party.

Sourwine, who has been postmaster since 1936, retired after 20 years of service effective Nov. 19. He has been on sick or simple leave since early in January after he fell and injured a leg.

The veteran Democrat was first appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He succeeded William Johns.

THE POST OFFICE WAS raised to first class status in 1955.

Married and the father of three daughters, Brooks lives on a farm at the west edge of Plymouth in the extreme northwest corner of Richland county. He is a graduate of Plymouth High school. For many years he has taught an adult class in the Methodist church.

The appointment must be confirmed by the Senate, which convenes Jan. 3. It will be submitted to President Eisenhower by the Postmaster General's department and forwarded over his signature to the Senate for approval.

Brooks may serve on an interim appointment until that time.

The appointment of Mrs. W. W. Pijtinger as Shiloh postmistress will be acted upon at the same time. The Advertiser was informed from Washington.

Allabacks raising 2nd crop of kids

The John Allabacks farm a 167-acre place in the south side of Marion county author-lies inquired if he could manage to raise the family.

Injured seriously five years ago, Mr. Allaback hesitated. But his wife spoke right up: "We'll take 'em for a while and see how we make out."

The problems of managing four growing girls whose emotions are so roiled by a disturbed family situation are many, and Mrs. Allaback discovered she could hardly keep up a job and four little girls. So other arrangements were made for the two elder ones and Patricia, six, and Joyce, three, came to stay with the Allabacks permanently.

That was nine months ago. They've filled out, they're adjusted, and they seem happy. "When you've not been raised with the little ones, it's not easy to catch on, but you learn after a while," Mrs. Allaback explains.

Advice? The Allabacks dispense it for what it may be worth. They claim no patent on successful child-raising, no more than on the absolutely correct way to raise cattle. But if you're interested, here're some suggestions:

1. "Don't pay any mind to the house being neat all the time. You can't raise two healthy, growing kids and keep everything neat as a pin. If you want to always be tidy, then get rid of the kids, sit down in a chair, and don't ever move except to dust."

2. "Raising only one youngster is as bad as raising none. That's why, two months before our only child was married (she's now Mrs. Richard Rieman, lives temporarily upstairs until the Rieman's new 20-acre farm is ready), we took these. And you've got to let them have a dog, one they can call their own."

3. "Look at life from their point of view until they're big enough to realize you have your point of view. Then find a happy medium between the two viewpoints."

NORTHERN OHIO TELEPHONE COMPANY

Another rate increase

Like everybody else in the utilities business, Northern Ohio Telephone Co. has petitioned the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for authority to increase rates.

A slip of the typewriter, for which we're truly sorry, gave the impression last week this raise may amount to $2.22 a telephone. This is not the case, so far as we know now.

But it may not be far from the truth. The company says it needs an additional $1,823,498.81 in revenue, which will net after taxes are paid the handsome sum of $616,272.65.

If you divide that $1.3 million figure by the number of telephones in the Northern Ohio net, it works out to about $13.20 per telephone per year, or roughly $1.15 a month increase.

However, Northern Ohio's rates are based on a peculiar system which takes into account the number of telephones which can be connected to yours without payment of a toll charge.

There are seven such "bands" or levels of exchange rates. Rates will differ with each one.

The company plans to increase toll charges from five to 10 cents, and to

◆ By Phineas Whittleseed

The things men talk about over their morning coffee are often too earthy to reproduce here. And just as often too mundane.

But there was directed toward us the other morning a sally that we feel is worth consideration: "Why can't we be in one county only?"

The advantages of such a situation are so apparent as to make enumeration of them foolhardy.

BUT AT THAT RISK, LET'S JUST CONSIDER them: the whole population could have some effect upon how it is governed above the municipal level, the municipality could obtain a better deal fiscally and financially if it were entirely within one county, the difficulties of dealing with two counties (and they are just twice those of dealing with one) would be halved, road and ditch and sewer problems would be less difficult of solution, we could be rid of the anomaly of our schools situated entirely within one county while within the jurisdiction of another.

How to correct the situation? All it takes is an act of the Ohio legislature. Which means the Ohio Senate and the General Assembly must by majority approve a bill enabling the county line to be moved and the governor must approve it (or the legislature must overwhelmingly endorse it over his veto).

It is as simple and as complicated as that. First of all, which county should we choose? If it were left to us, we'd choose Huron, for obvious reasons.

In that county we could "swing a vote". We could have relatively more influence upon the conduct of our county affairs in a county with roughly 47,000 population than in one with a population of more than twice that figure.

A small community does better financially and otherwise in its dealings with a county administration which is primarily installed and supported by other small communities. In Richland county, it's the other way around. Two cities control.

ASSUMING WE COULD GET TOGETHER (and that's a broad assumption, hereabouts) on which county, how could we obtain the acquiescence of the other county, the one which loses the tax valuation?

Would it be reasonable to assume that Richland county would lightly give up more than $2.3 million, in tax valuation? Huron county would no more give up its $700,000 tax valuation here.

The assemblymen and the senators (Neil S. Robinson, Harry V. Jump, Charles A. Mosher, Delbert Latta and Clarence M. Krueger are the men involved) would be running a serious risk to lay a heavier increase on business lines.

The rate increase proposed for telephone subscribers locally amounts to 35 per cent, on the average, per month.

A small businessman already has to turn over a substantially larger volume to pay for his utilities. His gas bill has just gone up, by 26 per cent. Now there is a request to raise his telephone bill. He has but one alternative — to pass this raise on to his customers.

There will be a lot of subscribers who will feel, for the service they get, they can do without a telephone at the new rates.

It appears we are in something of a squeeze. Just how important is the telephone is illustrated by the Portsmouth situation. In this day and age, you just can't do without a telephone.

There must be a middle course, and we think this is it: to resist the increasing of rates, whether or not they reflect income on the value of telephone property dedicated to public service, until service is improved.

Local service is excellent. Long distance service leaves much to be desired.

And that's how we stand on the matter.

their political futures to support such a move if it means that part of Plymouth lying in their districts would be redistricted.

Men like Mosher (and, so far as we know, the others, too, although the instance we have in mind concerned the Oberlin senator) haven't let a thing like that bother them much. Certainly when he bottled up the censorship of motion pictures in his committee, Mosher was running a serious risk with a strongly organized group in his district. That he believed in what was right before political expediency is what gives us hope that one day he will consent to run for governor of this state.

But that is another story. It is possible, but we submit it is hardly probable, that acquiescence of the county which would lose can be obtained. There is only one way to do it.

A UNITED FRONT MUST BE PRESENT ed. Everybody has to be for whatever is desired, whether one county or the other. Difference of opinion can and must be tolerated on other issues, but on one like this, only those to whom absolutely nobody pays any attention can be permitted to oppose the move.

It can be done. What it takes is leadership, strong leadership. It takes willingness to follow that leadership.

So far as we are able to ascertain, this sort of thing is rare in the village's history.

And that's the story.

The rotund gentleman who is a favorite coffee crop of ours has been getting the needs of late, and he has nobody to blame but himself.

Seems he likes to get away from it all now and again, to step out in the bright lights and live it up a bit.

This he chose to do in the Forest City, in the company of his Ever Loving and his P & J and friend.

After a good night of it, they turned homeward in the family bus. In the vicinity of 125th street, our friend asked his companions if they'd ever ridden the Rapid Transit.

P & J, WHOM OUR FRIEND SAYS IS always the damn dishrag of the party, declined, but Ever Loving said something about waiting until she got her shoes on, and they stopped.

Rode the thing clear out to the east side of Cleveland. Prepared to turn back. No more Raps until morning. Last bus just left.

Result: our friend blew a mint on a taxicab back to 125th street.

"For every dollar I spent on that cab," he moans, "I've caught $10 worth of razzberries. Can't eat 'em, either."

Nobody to blame but thine own self, chum.

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

The noise you hear in the background is the swish of the ball through the hoop. Roundball is the vogue these days. Why it should seize the passions of any sensible enthusiast in the face of the opportunities to discuss baseball and football is more than the Old Timer is able to say. For his part, he confesses the sport leaves him a little cold. And this after having officiated in nearly 600 schoolboy, college and semi-pro contests.

But when the roundball lady begin to jump like ballerinas it's time to lock up the football for the season.

One of the experts whose forecasts we watched with care throughout the season, wagging a bob or two on the outcome of some contests, was Dr. E. E. Litkenhous, the Toledo statistician who over many years has a record of being 85 per cent correct.

His system, which involves integral calculus, rates teams by their scoring potential. And he comes up with these facts: Plymouth is 24 points better than Willard.

Shelby is seven points better than Plymouth.

Bellevue is four points superior to Shelby.

Bucyrus is two points better than Bellevue.

Mansfield would whip Plymouth by 34 points.

We chose these figures from the latest Litkenhous list, which show Plymouth at 50.1, Shelby at 57.1, Willard at 26.3, New London at 42.2, Mansfield at 84.5, Bucyrus at 63.5 and Bellevue at 61.5.

Anybody who had backed Dr. Litkenhous' figures with money would be out of pocket. Bel-evue isn't and wasn't in the same class with Shelby. Not that the Red team played at Shelby. Nor could Bucyrus hold a candle to Shelby. And we suspect that a Shelby-Mansfield contest wouldn't produce a Tyger walk-away by any 27 points.

The marvel of it all is that Dr. Litkenhous is and has been 85 per cent correct in his forecasts, and that goes for the college and professional game more so than in high school ball.

THE ROUNDBALL SEASON which opens shortly is apt to produce a change in the balance of power in the Richland county league. The experts — whoever they may be — predict that Lexington and Ontario, and perhaps Bellevue, will be the top teams in the loop.

Shiloh, with only two lettermen back in George Poffenbaugh and Larry Barnd, isn't given a show in the forecasts. Nor are the Pilgrims.

Our experience with roundball is that on any given night, one hot player can make the dopesters look like dopes. On a handbox court, which is the rule in almost all of the schools in the league, height and elbows count for more than on a larger floor. Lexington has height. So does Ontario. What's more, with no football schedule, both the Minutemen and the Cubs have been bouncing the round ball since late September. They're bound to be advanced.

We frankly look for the Pilgrims to finish in the first division, which means in the first four. That leaves us with the awful choice of selecting four teams that'll do worse. At the risk of a scalping, here goes: Butler, Lucas, Shiloh and Bellevue.

Leaving Union and Lexington to join Ontario and the Pilgrims in the top four.

To those who'll remark with some sarcasm that it's too much to ask that a cellar team will make such a reverse in one season, we'll respond with equal sarcasm: "Lookit the Detroit Lions and the Cleveland Browns"

Northern Ohio Telephones In Service

Every day your telephone becomes more valuable. Back in 1952 we had 75,453 telephones in service. By 1954 the number had increased to 83,293. Now we have 97,098, a gain of more than 28 per cent.

We think this tremendous growth proves two things... Your telephone company is meeting the many demands which are presented by growing communities... and the value of your service has been growing by leaps and bounds. Your telephone takes you to more people, and brings more people to you than ever before.

Cost of providing you with this expanded service has risen to new heights. It has made it necessary for us to make application for an adjustment in our exchange rates. You can be assured it will only be sufficient to assure an efficient and sound operation... your telephone service will still remain the biggest bargain in your family or business budget.
