

AFTER LONG EXPERIENCE, RAY GURNEY IS CERTAIN—

Lime, Tile Make Good Wheat

Ray Gurney is a 66-year-old farmer whose experience with Thorne wheat on his 40-odd acre farm in New Haven has taught him two rules: lime it strongly, and drain it well.

Only two seasons in 11 on the farm has he failed to produce 40 bushels to the acre. One year he used a new type of seed. Now he sticks to Thorne.

Plenty of lime, and good tilling, are what produce the excellent return, he says.

Mr. Gurney has a good stand of oats which he sowed in the second week in April. The seed stock is Clinton 59, and despite heavy rainstorms this week, it stands well, with filled out seed, and should do well when it comes time to harvest.

"But the wheat this year is a little short headed," the veteran New Haven township farmer reports. "I don't know how I'll turn out in the long run, whether the kernels will fill out or not, but it seems to me the heads are a bit short."

The farm is run on a four-year rotation, among wheat, oats and meadow. "It works out better that way. When my boy was in the New Haven school, we sent some samples of this soil to Columbus. They came right back with their answers and said we'd be better off with a four-year rotation, and we've followed it right along."

The farm used to belong to Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Coy, who now live across the road. Mr. Gurney until this year farmed the Coy property, owing to Mr. Coy's ill health, but because of a setback in Mrs. Gurney's health he cut down a little this season.

And, holding up a stiff finger on his right hand, "a little arthritis makes it hard for me to milk, so I keep only a couple of cows. My wife hasn't been well, so we don't have as many chickens as we used to."

On the subject of seed, Mr. Gurney is adamant: "You can't get good crops unless you start with good seed. And then the ground has to be right. And after you get it in, you've got to have good luck with the weather. Only trouble is, nowadays, after a farmer has taken his chances with everything, he has to pay too much for what he needs by comparison with what he gets for what he has to sell."

His conclusion: "The small farmer is doomed." "It takes almost as much machinery to farm 50 acres as a hundred, and the more you can use your machinery the faster you can make it pay for itself, and the less you use of your own self," he says.

Land values in New Haven township, particularly tracts south of Route 224, have increased in value since he first became interested in them 25 years ago. "Why, I could have bought that piece over there for $3,400 back in '34, and I had or could get the money. All I lacked was guts," he says.

Mr. Gurney doesn't have much use for appraisals of farm property by other than farmers, he complains that the last appraisal of Huron county was done by city appraisers who had little or no notion of true property values. It would have been better, he thinks, to get a couple of appraisers from a neighboring county, on a trade basis (two from Huron to go to Seneca and vice versa).

"I've just paid a half year's tax bill that's exactly double what it was when I came onto this place 15 years ago," Mr. Gurney says. "I wish I could say the place earns just twice what it did then."

Man Hit by Weedburner

A rural Willard farmer is recovering from injuries received June 20 when a motor-powered weedburner operated by a Plymouth man hit his tractor at the Scottwood road crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Anthony Donnamiller, 70, received multiple head and hand lacerations when his tractor stalled in the path of the weedburner, operated by Orbie H. Donathan, 53, of this place.

Last Week's Winners

Roland W. Friedley, New Washington, was the first person to identify "B and B on the Bumper" in last week's issue.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karl, Plymouth route 1. The editor seeks other photographs of a similar vintage.

The mystery farm last week was that of Ray Gurney, Route 61, south of New Haven.

Mrs. Sourwine Has 89th Birthday

A long-time Plymouth resident quietly observed her 89th birthday at her home at 8 Mill street yesterday.

Mrs. Hattie Sourwine received friends and kin for the celebration. She was born June 27, 1867, at Baltimore, Md., but moved near here when she was young.

Her husband was the late Alton Sourwine, for long an employee of Fate-Root-Health Co. He died in 1926.

There was one child, Bessie, who died 10 years ago. Grandchildren are Mrs. Kenneth Myers of this place, Mrs. Thomas Hay, Norwalk; Donald DeVoe, Bellevue, and Mrs. Frank Beebe, Ligonier, Pa.

Flash Storm Disrupts Electric Current Here

A flash storm, accompanied by high winds, struck the village Saturday about 4:15 p.m. and shortly circled electric connections in the Huron county side of the Square.

Merchants with perishables under refrigeration were required to move them to other cities. George W. Caywood, proprietor of Plymouth Cash market, had the last load of frozen items in a truck at 1:15 a.m. when power was resumed.

Trees were blown down in a number of places. The worst was a well-rotted patriarch beside the Huron river in East Main street, which toppled into the stream about 5:30 p.m.

Village street and power person, net worked around the clock Saturday night to restore electric power.

Portner street was hit hard. Trees in front of the residence of William Griffiths, formerly owned by Harriet Portner, lost several large limbs.

Today's Lesson: Don't Leave Car At In-Laws'

The George Robertses drove to Willard Sunday night for a 20-minute visit with her mother, Mrs. Carrie Waterbeck, Motson street, in their 1950 Studebaker sedan.

They left the car, ignition keys still engaged, in front of Mrs. Waterbeck's house.

When they exited 30 minutes later, it was gone.

Scott Blasing, North Fairfield, found it Monday afternoon in Penn road near that village, abandoned, and searched the vehicle for signs of ownership. He found a registration card for a trailer issued in Roberts' name, and in a matter of minutes, Police Chief Robert L. Meiser was able to notify Roberts his car had been found.

Moral: When visiting your mother-in-law, don't leave the keys in the car.

Post Office to Lose Parcel Post Truck

Mounted delivery of parcel post packages may be terminated here unless a contract to utilize a private vehicle can be concluded, it was learned this week.

Regional post office authorities at Cincinnati noted that use of the present official truck amounted to 68 hours a month, as compared with a regional average of 183 hours a month.

Instructions to solicit bids for a substitute truck were sent here Don W. Emsel, Jr., clerk in charge of the post office, will receive bids up to 2 p.m. Saturday for a suitable vehicle — it may be a panel truck, station wagon or sedan — to accomplish the purpose at an hourly rate.

Specifications require the vehicle to be delivered and called for by its owner on call of the postmaster. This is likely to be 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily, five days a week.

No driver is wanted. The vehicle will be driven by present post office personnel.

(Ed. Note: Shelby Post office now has 70 cents an hour for its vehicle. Average in larger cities is $1 an hour.)

Chamber to Ask Council For Cleaning of Square

Miss Madeleine H. Smith, secretary, was instructed to prepare the request, which will be delivered to the council by the civic committee, headed by Karl S. Lindauer.

William E. Arnold, secretary-manager of Defiance Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the group about the successful Friday the Thirtieth sales promotion in his city in April.

Heisler's Switches Sales-Service Site To Willard Airport

Carl Smith, Atca, and "Pete" Keimath, formerly with a Ford dealership at Shelby, will service new Packards and used cars. Leon Ford will service Studebaker cars and trucks. Max Martin heads the body and paint shop.

Grand opening will be announced later, Mr. Heisler says.

Water Scarcity Myth, Well Report Shows

Water shortage in Plymouth is a myth, Floyd G. Browne & Associates, Marion, imply in their report of the existing water plant to the Board of Public Affairs.

Well No. 1, which has a depth of 83 feet, has a drawdown of 16 feet, four feet more than when new, if it is pumped continuously for over 10 hours. It can be pumped at the rate of 240-245 gallons a minute.

Well No. 3, which has a depth of 73.3 feet, has drawdown of 3.4 feet when similarly pumped.

The two wells will turn out 573 gallons a minute when the treatment plant is by-passed. This figure is 825,120 gallons in a single 24-hour day, at least five times as much as Plymouth consumers require in a normal day when the temperature is at 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

Some 20,000 gallons of water are lost when the salt tank at the water plant is flushed. Board members have expressed concern about this fact, and one has suggested that treatment of the hardness of the water be curtailed.

It suggests that householders can install their own softeners. Opponents argue that to diminish the treatment of water for hardness is a saving of the value of the 20,000 gallons of water at each flushing plus the annual cost of salt, will result in corrosion of water mains and pipes at a more rapid rate. They say the saving would be lost in the long run, and customers will additionally be seriously inconvenienced.

As a private test of water from the water plant made June 17, 1956, showed 146 parts per thousand hardness in the water. Completely softened water of this hardness is recommended when the water tests at 75 parts per thousand.

The tests by Browne were made at a favorable time, the report said, when the water table was high from heavy rainfall. There is no way to tell in advance whether curtailment of water for sprinkling of lawns will be necessary later in the day watching of the level in the two wells test of water when the water table is low.

Because Wednesday, July 4, Independence Day, is a national holiday, The Advertiser will be closed all day.

This week's issue will be published Thursday morning.

Tidswell Answers Finlay's Charges: Land Was Father's

In a rebuttal to charges by Robert E. Finlay, office manager of the Huron County ASC committee, Valeris Tidswell, North Fairfield farmer cited for violations of the wheat crop regulations, says he has not individually subscribed to acreage control restrictions.

In a letter dated June 19, he says he acted as power of attorney for his father, Valeris Tidswell, and in this capacity his name may appear on documents subscribing to a crop loan. But since he has held title to the lands in his own name, he has not participated in the crop loan program, Tidswell says.

He asserts he is being deprived of his constitutional rights under Art. V of the Bill of Rights: "No person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law." Penalties against him would be assessed by an administrative procedure, Tidswell says, whereas under the constitution he is entitled to a jury trial. This he seeks in a petition to a Toledo federal court.

The constitutional right of the federal government to regulation production of an industry is open to question, Tidswell asserts, by reason of Art. 10 of the Bill of Rights, which states that "powers not delegates to the United States in her constitution, nor prohibited by the states respectively, or to the people."

Council to Consider New Police Cruiser

Whether to trade for a new police vehicle is the question confronting the village council Tuesday night.

Bids were received a month ago. Certified checks attached to the bids are still held by the clerk. Prospective sellers would be inconvenienced if the funds are held any longer, and the council will have to come up with a decision Tuesday.

Arguments in favor of trading the old vehicle that the cruiser needs overhauling and four new tires. If the repair work is done and the tires bought, the vehicle will still be traded on that it will have to be traded on a later model.

Arguments against: village is strapped for funds, can't afford much new, market for new cars is poor and apt to get poorer, particularly if steel strike doesn't come off, thus dealers are likely to shave prices to move cars if there is some delay in buying. Also, economy-minded citizens must police department can get along with what it has, with more footwork than mounted patrolling.

Huggins & Wingeat of Bucyrus, Heisler, Inc., Willard, and Keiser Chevrolet, Greenwich, are involved.

Question: What's Ethical?

The question of ethics in government has long plagued us, and the present situation is worth looking into.

Is the village council being honest with us when it places the sewer system issue on the November ballot?

We maintain that it is not, for these reasons:

1. No member of the council honestly believes the sewer system should be passed. While there is no objection to the need for a sewer system, all of the elected councilmen — and we except Mr. Vanasdale, who is new — feel that $435,000 is too much money for the village to pay for a sewer system.

2. To submit a question to a vote implies, we hold, that it is endorsed by the governing body which places it on the ballot. We refuse to accept the argument that the governing body merely wishes to give people a chance to vote. Anybody who knows and understands the principles and underlying representative government knows that argument is false.

3. Placing of a question on a ballot costs the citizenry money. Each citizen, whether he votes or doesn't vote, will be required to pay a share of the cost of putting the issue on the ballot, of counting the votes, and such. It may not be much, but every dollar saved is important these days.

4. If the council honestly believes, and we feel it does, that a sewer system is desirable for Plymouth, to place it on the ballot at a time when the council almost to a man doesn't think it ought to be approved is to jeopardize its ultimate chances for success. It was defeated once, badly, in a move which was ill-timed, ill-starred and ill-advised. The placement of the issue on the ballot at that time was as highhanded an example of bad government as has ever been seen here. But it was done on the insistence of the state water pollution control board.

5. There is no compulsion in the present case. The permit to dump raw sewage in the Huron river was renewed subject to the bringing up to date of the plans for a system, and this has been done, and the study of the financing of the proposed system, which can be done.

So far as we can see, there is no order to place it on the ballot. And unless the council is wholeheartedly for it, and is willing to work hard to sell it to electorates, we believe it is a glaring example of bad faith and poor ethics to submit the issue to a vote now.

Thinking people agree that Plymouth needs a sewer system just as they believe it needs good schools. But unless the planners are sincerely convinced the plan is feasible from both an engineering and financial standpoint, it is wrong for them to evade their responsibilities under law and custom by passing the buck to the electorate. Let the council refuse to submit the burden would be too great.

By Phineas Whittleseed

Faithful readers of this column recall three instances over the past six months when Phin said a large chain grocery was due to stop operations in a nearby town. The reward for their faithfulness is implied in the realization that Kroger did the same at Greenwich as it did here — pulled out!

Kroger representatives have been seeking space in the New Haven area. They want some builder or investor to put up a suitable structure to house a super market. To it they would draw their old Greenwich customers, North Fairfield, Steuben, New Haven, Plymouth, Celeryville and Willard customers.

Kroger doesn't buy or own its own buildings. They rent, or lease.

If a shopping center — and that's what it would be — were to go in between here and Willard, right points up all the more how consumer and retailer must cooperate to bring a more harmonious feeling between buyer and seller.

As Bill Arnold, the capable secretary-manager of Defiance Chamber of Commerce, told the local Chamber Thursday night, no merchant can go it alone. The fact he does business in a town implies that he relies upon his good will there to make a profit. He needs the town. And Arnold said the towns are beginning to learn that the merchants owe the townspeople something.

One interesting point in his discourse: state law precludes building of a factory unless there is a sewage disposal system. Conclusion: unless we have one such here, chances of getting an industry are poorer.

Tuesday night retailers sat down with Phin and laid plans for telling the world about the Friday Thirteenth sales.

Principles agree upon:

1. No more than one "dog" to a business house.
2. All "dogs" (a "dog" is a slow-mover, merchandise that doesn't sell well, must be clearly labeled.
3. Real bargain prices shall be offered.
4. Sufficient depth in items offered at bargain prices is implied unless otherwise stated.

RELIGIOUS SURVEY FIGURES SHOW TOTAL —

Population at 1,696

Population of Plymouth is 1,671, as of June 15, workers in the religious survey sponsored by the Inter-Church council have found.

The figure allows for 12 houses from which no answers were received in the three-day poll. Total households visited was 565. Of these, 235 expressed a preference or membership in the Lutheran church. Another 129 favored the Methodist church, with Presbyterians numbering 83. Other denominations amounted to 116 families or households.

J. Benjamin Smith, chairman of the committee which staged the poll, made a personal count of the individual cards Monday night found the total population of the village, within the corporate limits, of 1,671.

"We should allow for a small margin of error, say two or three per cent," Smith said. "If we do this, the adjusted or interpolated population of Plymouth would be 1,696."

The cards have been handed to the churches which staged the survey for the purpose of correcting church records. Lutheran cards will be a basis for the building fund drive, it was reported.

Norwalk Driver Pays Fine as Drunk

A Norwalk driver paid a fine of $150 and costs of $6.80 to Acting Mayor Thurman R. Ford June 16 because he hit a sign at the Sohio service station at Sandusky and Brazillia streets.

Pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving was A. J. Reagan of the Huron county seat city.

He was said by police to have been driving on the wrong side of the street. His car, a 1951 Chevrolet, was wrecked.

Ohio home economists found through research that good grade laminated plastic finishes seemed to come nearest to the "ideal" material for work counter surfaces.

The Wizard of Oz' Here

He waited until school was out because he wanted to give youngsters a chance to see it, Edward O. Ramsey, owner-manager of Plymouth Drive in theatre, said of his presentation today tomorrow and Saturday.

"It's the Wizard of Oz, and it's got Judy Garland and Ray Bolger in it," Ramsey said. "It's a grand story, and it's in gorgeous technicolor. We'll be glad to have the whole lot of Plymouth youngsters with Mom and Pop and the grandfolks out any of the three nights."

Population to Go Up To Trillions Unless Fly Breeding Halted

A pyramiding population of 191-followed-by-18-zeros (just how much bigger that the national debt is that, anyway?) is likely for Plymouth this summer — unless the breeding of a he and a she fly can be stopped before the little flies result.

The United States Department of Agriculture laboratory at Orlando, Fla., reports that a single pair of flies which marries in April will produce 191,000,000,000,000,000,000 offspring by the time frost occurs in late September.

The fly has been around for over 50 million years (man himself has inhabited this planet for only 500,000 years). Oddly, the fly kills more people per percentage of human population than the human kills flies per percentage of fly population. Reason: flies follow the old Missouri political adage, "If you can't beat 'em, outbreed 'em!"

To stop the deadly progression of flies from that one newly wed pair in April, interrupt the breeding process. Do it with the several types of bug killer available locally at Millers' Harward & Appliances, 7 East Main street.
