Telephone company installs 751st phone here

Plymouth's telephone exchange has grown to 751 numbers, Northern Ohio Telephone Co. announced this week.

Connection No. 751 was established in Plymouth-Shiloh Furniture, a new establishment at East Main and Plymouth streets, in the building formerly occupied by Shutt's grocery. The number is 19.

G. Robert Sager, local manager for the telephone company, reports the firm's plans to establish dial connections here are unchanged. "It's all part of a master plan," he says, "and we hope to announce that dial service will soon be available in Plymouth before very long."

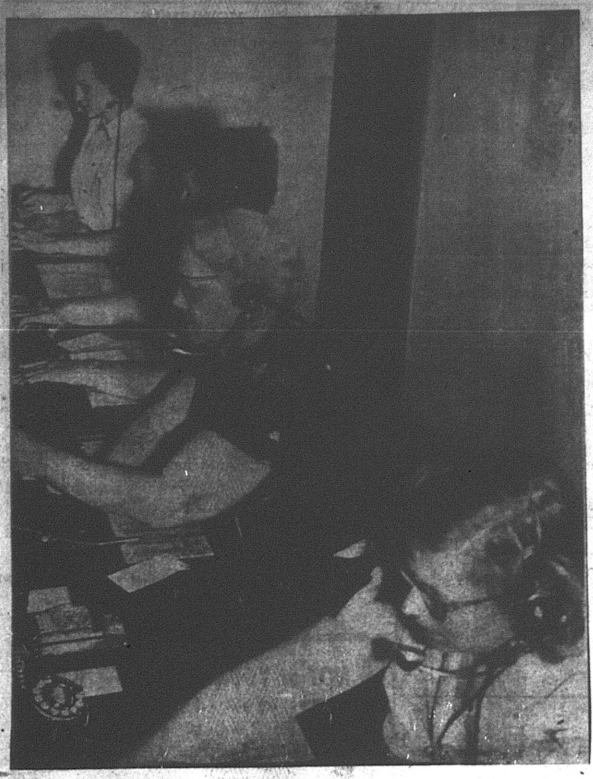
Meanwhile, Plymouth's manual board, under the supervision of Mrs. Muriel Vinson, serves the 751 numbers with both local and long distance connections.

Operators on the staff are Mrs. Max Smith, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Francis J. Burrer, Mrs. Minerve P. Colbert, Mrs. Kathryn M. Ferguson, Mrs. Burton Forquer, Mrs. Martha I. Geiger, Mrs. Eunice M. Kruger, Mrs. Wanda Lawrence, Mrs. Cleland Marvin, Mrs. Ingeba Scott, Mrs. Florence Alexander, Mrs. Laura Gleason, night operator, and Mrs. Vinson.

Their bible is the little grey-covered booklet headed Willard — Attica — Greenwich — New Washington — Plymouth telephone directory, issued in April, 1956.

At last count, the book has 2,952 entries, not counting those in the yellow pages.

Of these, 68, or two per cent, are Smiths. But nary a one named John, at least not in the telephone book. Former councilman J. Benjamin Smith sneaks into the volume under his middle name, although his first name is John.



A SELDOM-SEEN SIGHT IN PLYMOUTH telephone exchange (by federal law, the public is prohibited from entering communications centrals) is this one of four operators at work at the manual switchboard. From bottom to top, they are Mrs. Max Smith, Mrs. Florence Alexander, Mrs. Martha Geiger and Mrs. James Allen. The scene was photographed at 9 a.m. Monday.

Harry Briggs loses brother at Ashland

Brother of Harry A. Briggs, Plymouth route 1, and Mrs. Millie Weaver, Charles A. Briggs died of a heart attack Sunday while attending the Goodell reunion at Brookside Municipal park with his family.

He was born in Blooming Grove Sept. 9, 1881, the son of Jacob and Malinda Whitney Briggs. For the last 42 years, he had resided in Ashland, where he worked as a furniture salesman, a carpenter, and a cabinet maker.

A member of the First Methodist church of Ashland, he had served as a member of the official church board and headed a Sunday school class. He was also a member of the Modern Woodman lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Lotze; a daughter, Mrs. Walter Stoufer of Ashland; three grandchildren; two other sisters besides Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Nettie Black of Lexington and Mrs. Pearl Van Wagner of Shelby, and two other brothers, John of Ganges and Orra of Mount Vernon.

Funeral services were conducted at the Ashland church by its pastor, the Rev. Russell Linton, at 2:30 p.m. yesterday. Burial was in Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

Cubs see Indians lose

Plymouth Cub Scouters were in Cleveland Saturday to see the Cleveland Indians play the Baltimore team at Cleveland.

Leaving here in the Cubs took sack lunches, and returned that evening.

Accompanying the 22 boys were Cubmaster Warren Hollenbaugh, John T. Dick, Evan P. LaFollette, and Norman B. McQuown.

One too too many!

A hot afternoon, a backyard swimming pool, and a little horseplay ended a happy day for Lee LaFollette, son of the Evan P. LaFollettes, on Friday. It was Lee's turn to be tossed into the pool. Two young friends tossed, and Lee landed with a thump, breaking his collarbone.

In a cast and bandaged up to his neck, he will be completely recovered, he hopes, by the time school starts.

Band festival plans ready for Aug. 16

Plymouth's annual band festival will begin at 5 p.m. Aug. 16 on the lawn of the high school. Supper will be served by members of the Band Mothers' club and a concert by the band will follow.

Shiloh woman sues for divorce

Evelyn A. Sanzenvacher, Shiloh, has applied for a divorce in the Common Pleas court, Richland county, from her husband, Joseph E. Sanzenvacher, Holland. She charges neglect and cruelty and asks that her name be restored to Evelyn A. Mowery.

The couple was married in Angola, Ind., Mar. 1955

Letters of amdministration have been issued to Gerry Buurma by the Probate court of Huron County in the estate of the late Mrs. Charlotte Buurma.

The court has also appointed Nick Mol, Edd Weirs, and Ben Van Zoest, all of Celeryville, appraisers of the estate.

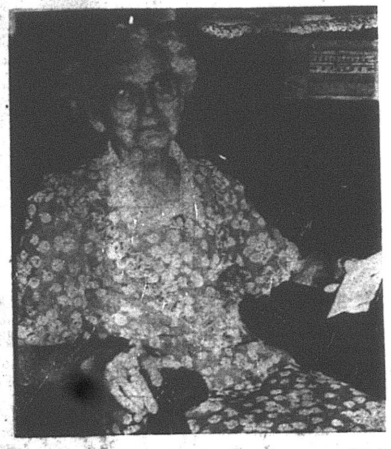
Wayne Ethel sent to state reformatory

A 16-year-old youth went to the Ohio State reformatory at Mansfield Friday to serve an indeterminate sentence for delinquency by reason of forging and passing a worthless $10 check.

He was Wayne Ethel, Jr., Shelby route 3, one of two youths who passed forged checks to merchants in Plymouth, Shelby, Ashland and Mansfield.

His confederate, a first offender, was placed on probation.

Aides of Richland County Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer said Ethel was specifically charged by Fred Spangler, Shelby, with forgoing a check for $10, payable to Bill Ruffaner and signed with the name Argyll Shop, and passed at Spangler's bar, Shelby.



Mayor has no plans for resigning now

Mayor Alfred Parkinson told the vilage council in special session Saturday night he "has no intention of resiging." He said he had been "elected for a full term and I intend to serve it out."

He asked for, and received, another 30-day leave of absence so that he can continue work with the Federal Electric Corp., Lodi, N. J., in connection with the DEW- line project in Canada and Alaska.

The council reviewed for Parkinson the legislation it had promulgated during his absence.

The straitened financial circumstances of the village came under stiff scrutiny.

"If we don't get approval of the parking meter installation," Parkinson observed, "we'll simply have to call a special election and ask for a special two-mill levy. We've got to have funds to run the town."

Neither the mayor nor the council apparently intends to electioneer for either the parking meter or the sewer bond issue.

"We've stated the facts and we will state them again in the newspapers before the election. If the people are too blind to see them and to take action on them, then they'll have to take the consequences," Parkinson said.

Parkinson had asked the council to change its meeting night to Saturday, to which request the council refused to accede. It was thought his would precipitate his his resignation, and the council had already sought likely replacements.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, a welcome wagon has been established in the village. Its purpose is to acquaint newcomers with retail shopping and banking facilities, with church, fraternal and partriotic affiliations, and with other information relating to Plymouth.

Mrs. Carl M. Lofland has been appointed hostess. A committee headed by James C. Davis, assistant cashier of Peopels National bank, has drafted a welcome wagon publication, listing village oficials, retail businesses, churches, fraternal and patriotic societies and organizations.

Retail merchants will on an ad hoc basis furnish the wagon with merchandise or certificates therefor, good for exchange by the newcomer or his family at the store.

A free month's subscription to The Advertiser will go with the wagon on each trip.

"Residents who may know of newcomers are asked to notify Mrs. Lofland at 0865," Davis announces.

Mrs. Hostler dies; New Havenite passes

Mrs. Emma A. Hostler, 90, died at her home at 104 Sandusky street July 25 of the results of a fractured hip.

Mrs. Hostler had been hospitalized at Willard after falling a second time at her home. She was returned to her home only a few days befor her death.

The widow of Ira Hostler, she had recently observed her 90th birthday. President Eisenhower sent her an anniversary remembrance from Washington.

Mrs. Hostler was born near Gettysburg, Adams county, Pa., Feb. 27, 1866.

Her daughter, Mrs. Ross Buskirk; two granddaughters, Mrs. Robert Fortney and Mrs. Verne Cole, and three great-grandchildren, Nancy and Gary Cole and Dixie Fortney, survive, as does a sister, Mrs. Alyce Godman, Waynesboro, Pa.

The McQuate Funeral home was in charge of arrangements Saturday at 2 p.m. The Rev Robert F. Hall conducted services, with interment in Greenlawn cemetery.

Pallbearers were Robert Fortney, Verne Cole, J. Elden Nimmons, Robert L. McIntire, Charles Lookabaugh and Judson A. Morrison.

Elmer H. Stein, 58, dies

Brother of Mrs. Helen Clark and Mrs. Alma McKenzie of New Haven, 58-year-old Elmer H. Stein of Willard died in Tiffin State hospital Thursday.

A veteran of World War I, he was before his illness a salesman for Landefeld garage, Willard, for 20 years. He was a member of the American Legion and the Willard Conservation league.

The Rev. Clarence Wright, pastor of the Willard Evangelical United Brethren church, conducted funeral services Sunday at 2 p.m. from the Fink Funeral home there. Burial in Maple Grove cemetery, New Haven, followed.

In addition to his sisters, Mr. Stein is survived by his wife, Vernice, and two brothers, Carl, Steuben, and Clarence, Peru township.

Picnic to precede 61st Richland fair

Preceding the 61st Richland county fair will be a family picnic Sunday. All resiedtns of the county are cordially invited to attend the affair at the old fairgrounds. Each family is asked to bring their own table service and a covered dish. Coffee will be served.

Fair Manager Russell Bell has announced that exhibitors will not be able to set up their equipment until they have signed a contract and made a down payment for space. Tents were scheduled to be erected Tuesday. The fair will begin this Tuesday. Admission at the gate will be fifty cents with children under 12 years admitted free. A small charge will be made for parking at the fairgrounds.

This year a basket of froceries will be given to the largest family attending the fair. Families wishing to try their luck are asked to go the manager's office for a head count.

Friendly class plans sale of baked goods, rummage

A rummage and bake sale — intended to be one of the largest as to variety and volume ever staged in Plymouth — will be held Aug. 10 and 11 by Friendship class of the Methodist church in the church rooms.

Donations to both the rummage and bake sale are solicited by membership.

Sales will get under way at 10 a.m. each day, the committee announces.

Men's, Women's and Children's clothing, dishes, crockery, woven rugs, a hunting suit said to be in first class condition, and some antiques are already turned in to be sold.

"We hope for strong support of these sales," the committee says, "and we assure our friends they'll get their money's worth, whether they buy things to eat or to wear."

Veteran potato grower in the Celeryville muck area, John F. Stambaugh lives at the old quarry site in East Main street here. He has recently been installed as president of Willard Rotary club. Long active in civic affairs at Ada before moving to Willard, Mr. Stambaugh was president of the school board 12 years.

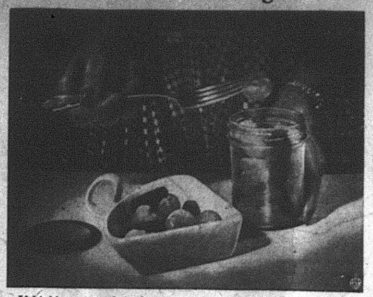
Pickles Mild or Pungent



If highly seasoned food or a combination of the piquant and the bland is your dish, MUSTARD is the pickle for you. Mustard too pungent? Then, why not settle for a milder, sweeter pickle such as a QUICK MIX? Use the new tapered Half Pint Jars. They're just right for pickles.

Mustard Pickles

36, 1½ to 2½-inch cucumbers

1 cauliflower	1 cup salt
6 green tomatoes	5 tablespoons flour
2 cups pickling onions	½ cup prepared mustard
3 green sweet peppers	1 tablespoon turmeric
3 red sweet peppers	1 to 2 cups sugar
5 cups vinegar

Wash and drain vegetables. Cut half of the cucumbers into ½-inch slices and make deep, length-wise slits in the others, cauliflower into small pieces, tomatoes into wedges. Scald and peel onions. Remove seed and cut peppers into small pieces. Dissolve salt in 1 gallon water. Pour over vegetables. Let stand about 12 hours. Rinse. Drain 1 hour. Mix flour, mustard and turmeric; add ½ cup water, a little at a time. Stir until smooth. Add sugar and vinegar. Cook until sauce coats spoon. Add vegetables. Simmer 15 minutes, then bring to a good boil. Pack, hot, into hot Half Pint Jars; seal at once.

Quick Pickle Mix

2 cauliflowers	2 cups sugar
1 cup pickling onions	2 tablespoons mustard seed
1 cup tiny cucumbers	1 tablespoon celery seed
1 cup salt	3 cups white vinegar

Wash, drain and cut cauliflower into 1 inch pieces. Scald, cool and peel onions. Cut deep, length-wise slits in cucumbers. Mix salt and vegetables. Add cool water to cover. Let stand about 12 hours. Rinse. Drain. (Taste; if too salty, soak 1 hour in cold water to remove some of the salt.) Add sugar and seed to vinegar. Boil until sugar dissolves. Add vegetables. Boil 10 minutes, or until barely tender. Pack, hot, into hot Half Pint Jars. Heat liquid to boiling. Pour, boiling hot, over pickles; seal at once with regular home canning caps.

A son, John Douglas, weighing 8 lbs., 13 oz., was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. I. Hunt at Springfield. Mrs. Hunt is the former Sue Hoffman, daughter of Mrs. Helen Hoffman of Shelby.

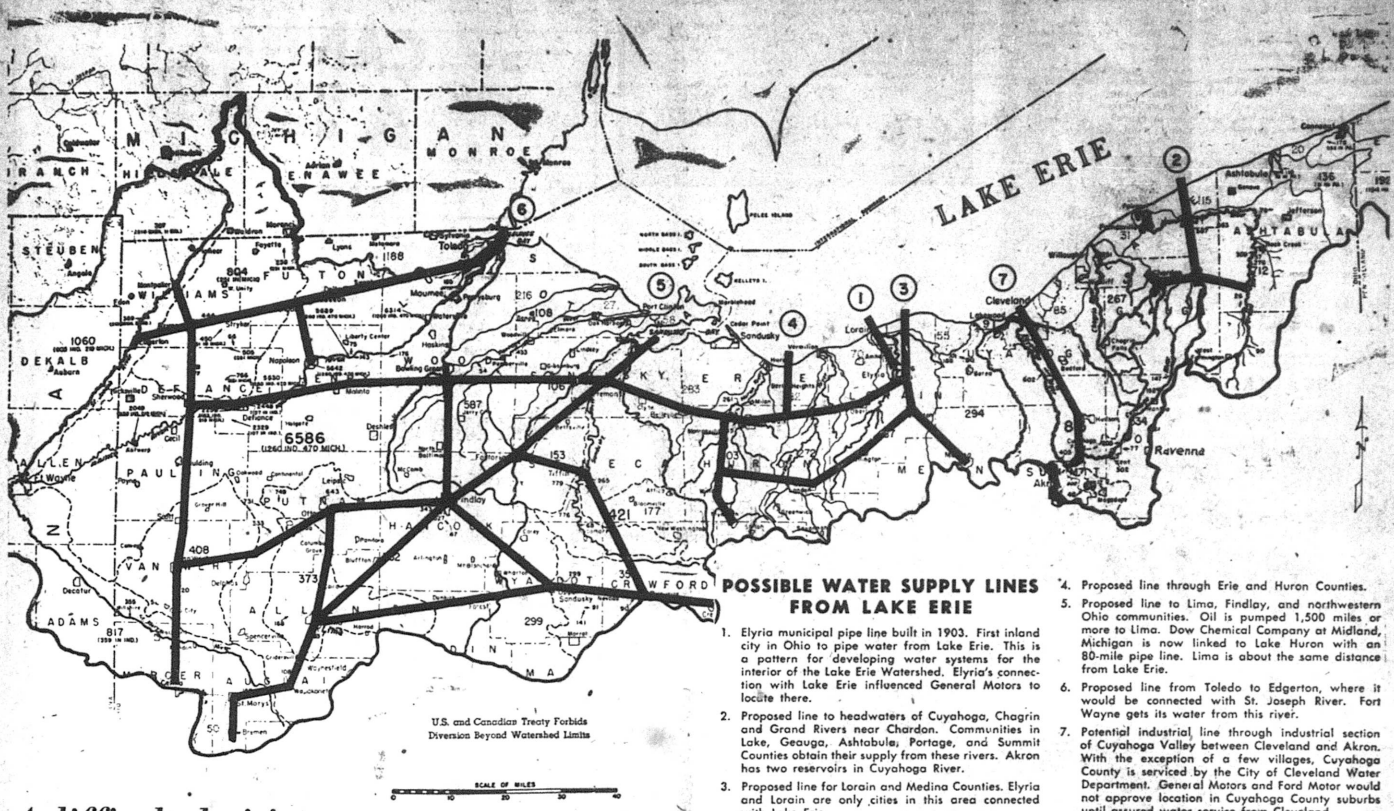
PLAN WATER LINES FROM GREAT LAKES IN FABULOUS LAKE ERIE WATERSHED



POSSIBLE WATER SUPPLY LINES FROM LAKE ERIE

1. Elyria municipal pipe line built in 1903. First inland city in Ohio to pipe water from Lake Erie. This is a pattern for developing water systems for the interior of the Lake Erie Watershed. Elyria's connection with Lake Erie influenced General Motors to locate there.
2. Proposed line to headwaters of Cuyahoga, Chagrin and Grand Rivers near Chardon. Communities in Lake, Geauga, Ashtabula, Portage, and Summit Counties obtain their supply from these rivers. Akron has two reservoirs in Cuyahoga River.
3. Proposed line for Lorain and Medina Counties. Elyria and Lorain are only cities in this area connected with Lake Erie.
4. Proposed line through Erie and Huron Counties.
5. Proposed line to Lima, Findlay, and northwestern Ohio communities. Oil is pumped 1,500 miles or more to Lima. Dow Chemical Company at Midland, Michigan is now linked to Lake Huron with an 80-mile pipe line. Lima is about the same distance from Lake Erie.
6. Proposed line from Toledo to Edgerton, where it would be connected with St. Joseph River. Fort Wayne gets its water from this river.
7. Potential industrial line through industrial section of Cuyahoga Valley between Cleveland and Akron. With the exception of a few villages, Cuyahoga County is serviced by the City of Cleveland Water Department. General Motors and Ford Motor would not approve location in Cuyahoga County suburbs until assured water service from Cleveland.

A difficult decision

There are few editors whose pronouncements command more respect and attention in this shop than Ernst L. Henes, of the Wellington Enterprise. Over three decades, he has developed the deserved reputation of sound thinking and measured critical comment on issues of the day. So it is not easy for us to take issue with him.

Mr. Henes supports George Hogwash Bender for United States Senator on the grounds that Bender is a party man, whereas his opponent, Gov. Frank J. Lausche, has drawn upon his nominal party ties only when the going has been rough.

Bender strikes us as a man who puts party above principle, what little he has. Lausche impresses us as a man who puts principle, what little he has, above party.

We are Republicans, most of the time. Occasionally, we will support the Democrats, sometimes a candidate, more often an issue.

The fight going on in the Republican party right now is one reason why we think Lausche would make a better Senator than Bender.

Bender latched on to Ike's coattails because it seemed propitious to do so. Before Ike, he was a solid supporter of Bob Taft and the Taft wing of the party.

With no intentions of casting aspersions upon Taft, we cannot but feel that Taft's wing of the party is passe. The conservative wing, which Taft headed and spoke for, and which Dickie Boy Nixon adheres to, has contributed less to the welfare of America than even the radical wing of the Democratic party.

No progress was ever made save by turning left. The international wing of the GOP, represented by Mr. Eisenhower, Tom Dewey, Wendell Willkie, Christian Herter, Foster Dulles and a host of other statesman-like individuals, has enabled a sensible Republican to feel at home in his party and to grow with the times. It did so by turning left from Taft.

George Hogwash Bender is not of this stripe. He is a rabble rouser of the worst order, a mere bubble in the dreadful stew of party politics that seems to be a necessary evil in America.

Frankie Boy Lausche is no angel. He regards a political party as a means to an end — his end. But there is just a chance that he thinks that people count more than party, and for our part we are willing to take that chance and vote for him.

We urge our friends to do likewise.

◆ By Phineas Whittleseed

Our ever-loving (?) was a BAM, er, lady Marine. It is something we have pointed out before, in this column, and which she never ceases to point out to us, although we keep telling her that for the life of us we can't see how one can be both a lady and a Marine at the same time. The current fracas at Parris Island, in which the unlucky sergeant is being tried for manslaughter and drinking before a recruit, as well as other crimes and misdeameanors, is a subject of conversation at our dinner table, now our kids are away. What's on trial is the Marine Corps, and we hope McKeon gets off, because that will indict a system of training and a concept of pounding in obedience by force that we have long abhorred. Not that the Marine brass will allow McKeon to get off. Isn't it absurd to try a non-commissioned officer for drinking in front of a recruit? It happens a hundred times a day in PX's and canteens on every base in the country.

It wasn't us who defaced the sign in front of the post office, the one that reads "Join the Marines — where they make men!", by scratching out "make" and pencilling in "drown". We wish we had been that smart.

D Kilgallen, the beautiful TV star and columist, has some nice things to say about newspapers as reading matter. "You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane at 17,000 feet above the ocean — no static, no fading, no blips. You can read in a bathtub, or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, as fast or slowly as you want. And if you read something you like, you can tear it out and save it, to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever try to clip a television program and paste it in your notebook?" Which is why the newspaper holds its dominant place in the homes and hearts of Americans. And which is why — to touch on the world of commerce from which all of us draw our livings — the newspaper remains an unsurpassed means of advertising goods and services.

Ever hear the story about the lady who liked goldfish? She kept her bathtub filled with them.

"What happens," asked a friend, "when you take a bath?"

"Oh," said she, "I just blindfold them." Silly, isn't it?

The photograph of the Rooks clan was taken by Mrs. May Rooks in 1911. The figures are, from left, Ervin, Levi and Ezekiel. And the bashful boy with cheek, whose picture grazed these columns last week, is Arthur Nordyke. But nobody identified him, nor have the two ladies been identified.

The result of a typographical boo boo last week omitted reference to neighbors and relatives who generously and thoughtfully sent remembrances to the family of the late Frank B. Lofland. It was on the copy, just an unfortunate mistake in the composing room. For this, and for the spelling of Mr. Vanderpool's name with a "b", we're sorry.

Those of us who foot the bill for education in state-owned or directer institutions seldon see any results of a group character execpt a hotshot football team.

The Huron Playhouse is an exception. We watched and listened Saturday evening with a packed house (it had been sold out since Tuesday) while "Oklahoma", the celebrated musical, was staged by Bowling Green State university players.

Some of them are professionals, or at least they're there on hire. Others are students, learning.

And it is apparent they learn much. To the youthful director and his staff of the playhouse, which this year completes its eighth season, Phin's hat in lofty salute for a fine job well done.

'Tis only a short spin to Huron, and the high school building — built in 1943 — shows what determined folks can obtain if they'll but put their minds to it.

A man whom we've always held up to our kids as one to emulate blotted his copy book this week. He showed us that his feet, too, are made of clay. Not to mention his head.

A grudge carrier is one of the lowest forms of human being, especially when his imagined complaint derives from the option of another citizen for his God-given right, to think as he chooses.

Sorry, kids, we'll pick out somebody else. We in our family can do without fellows like this chap.

Somebody sent us a recipe for roast raccoon. Since it's a commodity you won't find in any of the meat dispensaries around town, we'll put it on the hook and save it for reference by anybody who may happen to have a coon to roast later on.

Shenanigans with athletes seems to have become routine in Ohio.

First Woody Hayes, guiltier than they cared to have known for unsportsmanlike and unethical conduct, and now the management of the Indians, in the cover up of Sam Mele while they are trying to dispose of Dale Mitchell.

Mitchell should have been sacked long ago. When a ball player, regardless of how good he is, doesn't have the confidence of his manager, he'd better be on another team.

The Indians, peerless, engaged in very shady tactics in releasing Mele, selling Mitchell, and hiring Mele again.

It'll all come out in the wash, we suppose. Even Hayes is now 'fessing up.

Weavers building beef herd

After nearly 10 years on the 80-odd acre farm in Noble road northeast of Shiloh, the D. M. Weavers have learned that:

1. Putting the buildings in order takes a lot of time, work and money.

2 It's never smart to skimp on materials.

3. You can't do it all over night.

4. A farm just isn't home without a dog.

This small spread on which the Weavers have lived since 1946 is intended to support 20 head of whiteface Herefords, when the program is brought up to maximum capacity, and those 20 head of whiteface are expected to support the farm.

The ground, which is well drained and slopes gently toward the southwest, is managed on a three-year croup rotation. Mr. Weaver, who works in Mansfield during the day, says he switched to a three-year rotation from four because he needed more pasture. So one part of the farm lies in grass, another in corn and a third in oats.

One of the oddities about this attractive place is the guinea fowl — and white ones, at that.

"I found these white ones, but they were both hens," reports Mr. Weaver. "So I looked all over the place for a rooster. A lady had one that she sold to me for a dollar, and we began to raise small broods. I've got maybe a dozen of 'em around here right now, if I can keep them out of the road, where they get killed easily."

The barns and outbuildings needed repair, a task which the Weavers have attacked methodically but mercilessly. The barn has been shored up and a new foundation laid under it. A sheep shed has been rebuilt and a new roof put on it.

"Now there's an example of how you can be penny wise and pound foolish. It cost me something over a dollar a square more to put aluminum roofing on that shed, instead of sheet iron, but the aluminum lasts longer, I've never got to paint it, and I've taken about a ton of weight off the roof. What's more, the aluminum makes it cooler in the summer."

Next project for the Weavers: enclosing a back porch. By erecting a stone wall along the south side of the house and raising screened-in sections from it, they'll have a comfortable, fly-proof, mosquito-proof place to "sit and rock a spell in the evening."

Dog of the household and king of the roost is a Springer spaniel pup, Brownie, latest in a long line of animals of similar breed and identical name owned by the Weavers. "He's friendly with kids, and that's why we like the breed. Our old dog was nearly 13 when he died, and we tried to get along without one, but my wife soon recognized we had to have another dog."

Man is a creature of habit, and a hardy rosebush which entwines itself over and around the back porch is a testimony to this observation, so far as the Weavers are concerned.

"We've always had a rosebush over the back porch wherever we've lived, and this one is no exception," says D. M. Weaver, gentleman farmer and shrewd business head.

Post office obtains remodelled quarters

Shiloh postoffice, under the management of Acting Postmaster Glenn Swanger, has been completely modernized and rearranged with new desks, lock boxes, and a greatly enlarged lobby with glass enclosed inset entranceway.

The walls and ceiling have been repainted with a pleasing combination of cream and soft green, with which the new light oak wickets and boxes blend harmoniously. New lighting fixtures have been installed and the old coal stove has been replaced with an overhead gas heater.

In the enclosed space behind the boxes, desks, sorting racks and safe have been so arranged that employees can go about their work with the least waste of effort.

Stricklands move here

Mr. and Mrs. G. Strickland of Mississippi have rented the upstairs apartment in the home of Harry Roethlisberger in West Main street.

Mr. Strickland is a carpenter.

Pvt. Cole graduates; Lambert promoted

Pvt. Ollie W. Cole son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cole, Shiloh route 1, recently was graduated from the crane-shovel operators course at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Cole was trained to operate 20-ton truck-mounted cranes anr had practical exercises in beam conversion and pile loading and driving.

Cole entered the Army in February and received basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood.

He attended Shiloh High school. Cole was a farmer in civilian life.

Ronald L. Lambert, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lambert, Shiloh route 1, recently was promoted to specialist third class. He is assigned to the 10th Infantry division in Germany.

Specialist Lambert, an assistant squad leader in Company C of the division's 87th Regiment, enterer the Army in February, 1955, and arrived overseas in September.

He was employed by the Faultless Rubber Co., Ashland.

Storm cuts power for eight hours

The violent electrical storm which struck Shiloh shortly after midnight Saturday knocked out all electric service here for eight hours. Power went off at 12:53 a.m. and was not restored until 8:45 a m.

The heavy rains which accompanied the storm flooded basements in many parts of the village and overflowed streets in the low sections. No wind damage has been reported, however.

The power failure was caused by a wire burning off the Ohio Power Co. line near New Haven, Joe Cihla, village electrician, reports.

25 fete Diane Gibson

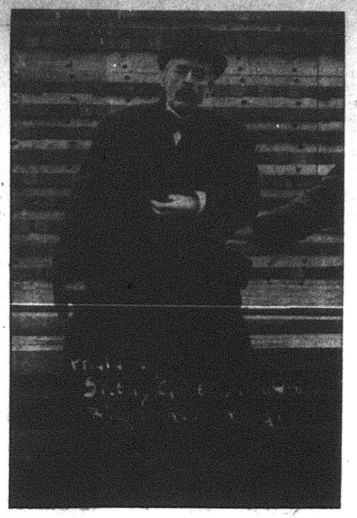
Twenty-five relatives and friends of Diane Gibson, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Gibson of North Delaware street, assembled with her in Mary Fate park, Plymouth. July 18 to celebrate her fifth birthday with a picnic dinner.

Charles Caldwell of Mansfield was a Saturday afternoon caller on his mother, Mrs. Fannie Caldwell, who remains bedfast in her home in North Delaware street.

Clem Light and son, Roland, of North Fairfield also called on Mrs. Caldwell in the afternoon. Mr. Light made his home with Mrs. Caldwell and her husband, the late John Caldwell, in Crawford county about 50 years ago.

Look what they did!

This gruesome character is Eddie Quinn, shortly after he was shot by the then marshal, F. C. Wood, after robbing the bank at Greenwich on Dec. 16, 1908. 'Twas a Wednesday morning at 1:30 when Eddie met his Maker. Photo was loaned by a long-time reader of The Advertiser, Thorr Woodworth. Plymouth insurance man. Bystanders carried Eddie to a lumber yard, stacked him against 2 x 4's for this photograph.



Millers go to New Mexico
