WE HAVE BEEN SELECTED TO GIVE YOU A GREAT NEW SERVICE!

Famous company appoints us authorized agents to apply "Cravenette" water repellents

Most people, when they buy a water repellent coat or jacket try to get one that has in it a "Cravenette" label. That is because, for almost 70 years, the garments having the highest quality water repellency have been those made water repellent by the "Cravenette" process. The Carvenette Company has been very jealous of its reputation and, until recently, the "Cravenette" process could be had only in new garments.

Now a process has been developed, by means of which water repellency can be renewed in garments at the same time they are drycleaned. By reason of our own known reputation for quality work, we have been designated as authorized agents in this area to offer this service.

If you have a garment which you would like to have drycleaned, and in which you also would like to have the water repellency renewed, let us have it today. You will receive it back ready to give you the same protection from rain as when it was new. We will be happy indeed to have you take advantage of this service.

"Unless we have an injury, or somebody gets sick, that's the way we'll open the season," says Lou Petit, coach of Plymouth's Pilgrims, in designating 11 players for his starting eleven.

Ray Elmsel will run the club. Flashy Eddie Taylor and veteran Jim Hunt will be at halfbacks and Mickey Hampton at full. This quarter permit an all-veteran back-field.

"It's not fair to the other players if we allow a man to miss a few sessions and then play in the games," he said.

Larry Baker of Shelby has been assigned in the conditioning of the Pilgrims at their two-day stints. Come Tuesday, when school opens, there will be only one session daily, at 4 p.m.

Up front, a couple of changes have been made Jim Jacobs and Franklin Eckstein have swapped jobs. The rangy Eckstein is now the snapper-back. Jacobs anchors the right side of the line with his 220 pounds at tackle.

WHEREAS THE PILGRIM offense last season evolved more throwing, fans can expect more running this year. Taylor, whose poor eyesight hampered his offensive development last season, has been shifted to halfback, where he becomes a double threat both as pass receiver and runner. Jim Hunt, lost to the Pilgrims last year because of a broken leg, has grown physically and mentally and Coach Petit looks for him to be the chief yardage producer in the Pilgrim ground attack.

TED FOX HAS BEEN ASSIGNED a flank post, and Jim Fidler, who was a guard, is his running mate on the right side.

"We figure we'll be scouted a lot," Petit says, "but that doesn't worry us much. If we can keep going as we have — and I'd say we are a week ahead of ourselves — we'll give every team on the schedule a rough way to go and win more than our share of games."

The Pilgrims have 27 men out for practice, but Coach Petit said this week he'd have to cut three because of lack of faithfulness in turning out.

THE OLD TIMER CONSULTS HIS NOTEBOOK

Berlin Hts. strong, Wakeman building

Anybody hunting tigers at Berlin Heights this season had better be sure his guns are firing live rounds.

land, a Bowling Green graduate, and Dave McFadden, who played at Ohio Wesleyan. Sanders finished at Ashland college in 1951.

Because the Tiger is loaded, Coach Carroll (Snag) Sanders' Orange and Black eleven has an even dozen lettermen vying for places on a club which hasn't lost a game in two and a half years — 18 straight contests.

THE TIGERS WOULD BE favored to win the conference title save they don't play enough games. They meet only LeRoy, Townsend-Wakeman and Plymouth.

Until Sept. 7, the Tigers will have played only one 11-man contest. They defeated Maumee Valley Country Day school, two touchdowns to one, last season.

The Old Pro, Tony Aiello, who hasn't coached since 1951, frankly admits he's "rebuilding. We lost too many experienced boys and we have only five lettermen back this season."

THE CLAWS OF THE TIGER are big, strong and fast: Dewey Acord, a halfback who punts 50 yards and runs like a cavalry horse, and Paul Oslin, a rugged customer who has to fight off the field as hard as he fights on. He has no family, and since he's passed 18, Cleveland welfare officials decline to finance his education.

The Rough Riders aren't likely to be so rough this season. Ron Link, a halfback, Leroy Foster, another back; Lynn Bailey, a guard; Fred Rippon, husky center, and Glenn (Bing) Reynolds comprise the quintet.

The Tigers will operate from the winged-T, directed by Bill Werner, a blond bearcat with two years of experience at signalcalling.

"I like the attitude of this squad," Tony says. It numbers 27. Allen Cok, of the Celeryville Coks, is first assistant.

New golf club has $46,000 subscribed, now seeks $72,000

Pledges from 230 persons have swelled the fund for the proposed golf course and club house to be built near Willard to $46,000. James Langhust, member of the Willard Country club steering committee, states the group hopes to obtain 300 persons to pledge a share, to make a grand total of $75,000. Shares are priced at $200.

"We'll win our share this year, but we realize we've got to rebuild, and to do that successfully, you've got to start when they're young," says Aiello, who was assistant to Grant Walls of the Norwalk Truckers in his last assignment. For five years he has been an elementary school principal.

The proposed club would serve the entire area surrounding Willard. Residents of Plymouth and other villages are also being canvassed. Plymouth residents interested in the project may contact Walter Jump.

On form, Berlin Heights will be right up there. Prognosis for Townsend-Wakeman: weaker than usual, but don't underestimate the Old Pro.

The next meeting of the group will be Aug. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Willard Elks club.

Midget footballers slate two games on Labor day

Midget football league starts on Labor day, Fred Buzard reports. Three teams — Wildcats, Bears and Tigers — have been organized. A double header is slated for 2 p.m. Monday at Mary Fete park. Each game will consist of two 20-minute halves of touch football on a field half the size of the regulation gridiron. Each offensive team gets five downs to score.

EDST? Bah! Not without notice

If you do business with the heavily populated area to the east and north of us, you soon realize that hour of difference in the clock is a pain in the neck.

If you hanker to see a ball game at Cleveland (and you will note that we specifically do not say "big league ball game" — the Indians are not big league), it means that you have to start an hour earlier.

If you don't start an hour earlier, you miss the first few innings.

Now in a ball game, the first few innings are often just as interesting as the last three or four frames. And if you're a real fan, you want to see the first few just as much as you want to see the last ones.

So it is with us. We are fans of government. We'll go a long way at great expense to attend meetings of village bodies. We do so because we like it.

And we don't like Eastern Daylight Saving time because it means that unless we start an hour earlier, we miss the early part of the meeting.

That's when the minutes are read, and routine and, to some folks, dull events occur. But just occasionally they aren't dull. We like to hear and see 'em all, whether dull or lively.

There's no law against starting a ball game an hour early. The management can do it if it likes, and if it doesn't give notice, the penalty is

Around the Square

By Phineas Whittleseed

If our wife would really accept polygamy (she just says she would, she doesn't really mean it) there is a lady of catholic tastes and interests whom we'd invite into our menage, if her husband would be so kind.

One of the things that intrigue her is the outer filament, and she has let us see a piece by one Donald Keyhoe which is the kind of thing that makes good fishing-boat conversation.

It's about the moon. Strange things have been happening up to that orb for some time now, brother Keyhoe says, and he implies the Air Force specifically and the Defense department generally are doing what they can to put the quietus on talk about it.

Now bear with us while we expose this. Hereafter, our interest in the moon has been as a dandy light under which to make mollicious out of mountains (you know, such as, "Mother said I shouldn't"), to which the book, response is, "Aw, heck, look that moon!". And just occasionally as an omen of fair or foul weather on the morrow.

THE OCCULT AND THE MYSTIC SEEM to cling to the Hibernian blood. First it was Bidey Murphy, now it's a character named John J. O'Neill, science editor of that Republican journal, the New York Herald Tribune.

John J. amuses himself with a telescope. On the night of July 29, 1953, John J. settled himself at his telescope for an evening's observation of the sun's reflections on the cold planet.

Stretching above the Mare Crisium (Sea of Crises) appeared a gigantic bridge! ! ! (Three astrophysicists are really astonishing. These fellows who watch the moon know it like you know the Shiloh road.)

It seemed impossible, O'Neill is a trained astronomer. He doesn't stammer, says Keyhoe. He looked again. It measured in the reticle about 12 miles.

Twice he changed eyepieces, once to 125 power, again to 250 power.

When he got the stronger glass set, there it appeared. An unbelievable engineering marvel apparently erected in weeks, perhaps in days, paid at the turnstile.

But there is a law against starting a council meeting early. We thank the person who surreptitiously informed us last week of such a fact, and we express the hope that, like President Wilson, the council will adopt the principle of open covenants openly arrived at.

No other way is honest, democratic, or decent.

Toot! Toot!

Just occasionally, it's nice to have a legitimate reason to toot our own horn.

With a hole to fill on page one, the mailman brought us word that some of our technical efforts have been recognized by a real craftsman. The flag of this newspaper has been chosen as an illustration of the good way to do things in the newspaper business by Edmund C. Arnold, a distinguished typographer, in a new book.

Last year, we got lucky and won a small prize and some honorable mentions in the Osman C. Hopper Newspaper show at Columbus. We'll be in there battling for others this year.

But the point we wish to bring out is that we do these things because this is 1956, and we realize that keeping up to date is important. We try to make this newspaper readable and easy to read. We don't always succeed. It's nice to know that some of our efforts are recognized.

O'NEILL PLAYED IT COZY. HE KNEW what the professionals would say. So he carefully wrote a report for the Association of Lunar and Planetary Observers, labelling the discovery a "gigantic natural bridge."

But the sudden appearance of such a structure by an act of nature was absolutely impossible, as many privately admitted.

Some astronomers quickly attacked O'Neill, which he expected. In August, 1953, a month after O'Neill's discovery, they were confounded into silence. A distinguished British astronomer, Dr. H. P. Wilkins, fully confirmed the existence of the bridge. And in September, Patrick Moore, described as a leading member of the British Astronomical association, saw it, too.

Only scientific circles and those who read the scientific publications knew anything about this until last December, when Wilkins spoke over BBC, confirming the whole story. He said simply that the bridge was there. It had been seen many times, that it had a span of about 20 miles from one side to the other, and was probably 5,000 feet from the surface beneath. And, what's more, the bridge appeared to be entirely contrived or artificial in nature.

Now here you're supposed to become aware of what the flying saucer cult is trying to get across: there must be people on the moon.

Mebbe so. If they're there, they get excited about it? They're probably a lot happier than we are. No traffic, no kidnappings, no political conventions from edifices strongly (and the adverbs apropos) connected with the cloaca of the bovine. One was the Cow Palace, the other Stockyards Arena.

Buters return

Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Butner of Superior street returned Friday night from Asheville, N. C., accompanied by their children, Mary Ann and John. John attended Camp Sequoyah for 10 weeks and Mary Ann was a counsellor at Blooming Rock camp, where she had spent the last eight weeks.

Picnic supper set for OSU students new and returning

Students who plan to enroll in Ohio State university, Columbus, next month have been invited to a covered dish dinner Sept. 5, by Richland County chapter, Ohio State university Mothers' club, at the Girl Scout house, Seltzer park, Shelby, at 6 p.m.

Students now enrolled and their parents are also invited. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish, their own table service, and beverage.

A program is being planned for the affair by Miss Janet Miller, Shelby route 3, who will begin her junior year at the university.

Mis Artz entertains

Picnic set at depot

Employees with their families and guests will be on hand for the second annual Shelby Air Force depot picnic sponsored by the Civilian Welfare council Sept. 9. Tickets went on sale for the affair Monday. They are priced at $1.85. A fried chicken meal will be served. Games and contests are being planned with a floor show given by the dance pupils of the J & J Studio of Willard. Music will be provided for dancing by Pete Kemle and his A & P Gypsies from 3 to 6 p.m.

Members of 20th Century Farmers 4-H club held their last meeting Aug. 20 at the home of Howard Bowers.

James Vogel told of his experiences at the senior camp. It was announced that all project books were to be turned in by Monday.

Plans for the next meeting, to be held Tuesday at the home of John and Gordon Riegler, were laid.

WCSA meets Tuesday to open new season

First meeting of the season will be held by the WCSA at the Methodist church Tuesday at 8 p.m. Bringing out the quadrantal theme, "The Spirit of Christ for All of Life," this year's theme will be built around, "The Islands Await His Word." The first program will introduce the theme. It will be under the direction of the program committee Tuesday. Serving on the committee are Mrs. Thomas M. Shesley, Mrs. M. J. Coon, Mrs. Frank Pizzen, Mrs. Charles Pugh, Mrs. Ira Ross, Mrs. Aiden Willett, Mrs. George Young and Mrs. Carl R. Davis.

Hostesses for the social hour to follow the meeting will be Mrs. Robert Hampton and Mrs. Robert Hunter.

One teacher short, schools open Sept. 4

With the exception of a mathematics teacher, the teaching staff of the Shiloh schools will be complete when school opens for a half-day session Tuesday, Supt. Homer Beard states.

The teaching roster includes Miss Elizabeth Thew and Mrs. Edwin McBride, first grade; Mrs. Gladys Tucker and Mrs. Helen Myers, second grade; Mrs. Ruth Lynch and Mrs. Jesse Hamman, third grade; Mrs. Dorothy Patterson and Mrs. Betty Willett, fourth grade; Mrs. Greta Stroup, fifth grade; Mrs. Dorothy Williams, sixth grade, and Mrs. Kathryn Burling, fifth and sixth grades.

Gene Strickland replaces G. D. Seymour, resigned, as vocational agriculture teacher. Edward Kinsel will teach high school social studies and science, Harold Daup, social studies, boys' physical education and driver education; W. W. Pittinger, science, social studies and health; Joseph Mock, English; Mrs. Earl, Huston, Latin girls' physical education and English; Mrs. Ava Arnold, home economics, and Ralph Sirofchuck, commercial stricks, and Ohio history.

Mrs. Mary Forsythe, Mrs. Mary Forsythe, Mrs. Mary Myers and Mrs. Jesse Hamman will officiate in the cafeteria, and Mrs. David Rish replaces Mrs. Robert Boock, resigned, as secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie continue as school custodians, and Edwin McBride, Harry Roethlisberger, Harold Daup, Ralph Sirofchuck, W. W. Pittinger Chester Van Scoy and Jesse W. Hamman will drive the six school buses.

Work on the annex, the former Shiloh garage, is not proceeding as rapidly as anticipated, Beard contends. The sewer line has been completed and a new concrete floor poured, but just when the building will be ready for occupancy by the approximately 100 pupils of the seventh and eighth grades is indefinite.

Mrs. Caldwell visited

Charles Caldwell of Mansfield was a Saturday night caller on his mother, Mrs. Fannie Caldwell in North Delaware street.

Shaffer goes to France

Shaffer, an employee of the Shelby Air Force depot for the past six years in the salvage department, is one of several depot employees chosen for the Air Material Command's overseas civilian rotation program. He expects to be gone for at least two years.

Arnold performs second ceremony

Justice of the Peace Wood Arnold officiated at his second wedding ceremony Friday night. Miss Dora Stocum of Plymouth and William Winter of Willard were wed in a single ring ceremony at his home in Route 178.

Mrs. Arnold at the piano accompanied and Allen and Blanche Arnold sang "Oh, Promise Me" and "I Will Be True to Thee". Mrs. Marion Baker, a neighbor of the Arnolds, witnessed the ceremony.

The newlyweds will make their home at 3 1/2 Main street in Plymouth.

Weekend farmer must plan: Oswalt

"When you're a weekend farmer, the big secret is to plan your time wisely and then do what you've planned when you've planned it," says LaVaughn Oswalt, the husky, browned young husband and father who's made the news lately because of his bizarre experience with cattle choppers.

Three weeks ago, the young Air National Guard employee-farmer went to his barn to milk the cows and found three animals, one of them a registered cow, down. He suspected bloat, from eating too much alfalfa.

Dr. William R. Henson, Shelby veterinarian, was called. Not bloat, said Doc Henson. Upon closer examination, they found bullets.

QUICK WORK BY RICH-land county sheriffs deputies led to two juveniles who, when confronted with incontrovertible evidence, confessed. Upon Oswalt's signature to a warrant, a judge sentenced them to a year each in the Columbus workhouse.

"But I'm left holding the sack," says young Oswalt, whose family so far is two youngsters under three. "My insurance doesn't cover losses by shooting, and I couldn't even use the meat for beef."

The Oswalts live on the old Charley Lake farm, which measures something over 150 acres, of which about 60 is muck. A few years ago, much of it was burned off. As a result, some of it can't be worked.

"And it's hard to get at in the spring time," says Mr. Oswalt, a slim, comely mother. She is the daughter of the James Brooks, Shiloh, and was graduated from Shiloh High school in 1950.

"A weekend farmer can't handle more than two projects at a time, I've found," claims "Ozzie" Oswalt. "I tried hogs, cows and chickens. I barely made ends meet on the hogs. So now I've got two projects — cows and chickens — and if I'm careful the way I plan and carry out my planning, I can make out."

"But that having to go to the elelevator for grinding feed, man that kills me. Sometimes I have to wait a couple of hours. I have to go every other week for cattle feed and every other two weeks for chicken feed in the winter. Usually it's on Saturday. Saturday is the only day I have. If I burn up two or three hours at the elevator, particularly in the winter, when there isn't much sunshine, my day is about shot."

CROP RESTRICTIONS DON'T help much either. "You know, they only allow me 10 acres of wheat and 19 acres of corn on this place, which measures just a little over 150 acres, including woods. That's not enough to make out. So I just go along as best I can, disregard the written regulations and try to keep within the spirit of 'em and if they'll let me alone, I won't give them a hard time," "Ozzie" says.

"It's a rough go, let me tell you, browned "Ozzie" asserts. "But they tell me that everybody who's owned this farm over the past 50 years, dating way back to the Bachrachs, has made money on it. So who'm I to kick?"

Equipment necessary to work a place the size of Oswalt's costs money, he argues. How can a young fellow get started on buying that equipment if he doesn't have a large amount of inherited or low-interest money unless he works at a full-time job? If his folks don't happen to have been land barons or rich, he has to scrim and save and deprive his young family of what it wants — and has a right to want — in order to finance the equipment.

"Ozzie" Oswalt, who has a respectable collection of new farm equipment, speaks whereof he speaks. And in speaking, he has laid his finger on the American farm problem. Ike, Adlai, pay attention!
