

Mrs. Rogers buried, died in Long Beach

The body of Mrs. Josephine Rogers, 83, was interred in Greenlawn cemetery Saturday morning. Mrs. Rogers died Dec. 31 in Long Beach, Cal., where she had resided many years.

The widow of Elmer Rogers, a rural mail carrier, she left Plymouth after his death about 30 years ago. Their home was at 166 West Broadway. She was a member of the First Evangelical Lutheran church.

She is survived by a stepson, Frank Rogers, who lives north of the village.

Jean Ann Livingston

Funeral services were conducted Friday for Jean Ann Livingston, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Livingston of Shelby, former Plymouth residents. Born Jan. 1 in Shelby Memorial hospital, the child succumbed two days later. She also survived by two sisters.

Presbyterians await second refugee family

Sponsored by First Presbyterian church, a beleaguered family of three which fled Hungary during the anti-Communist uprisings awaits transportation from Camp Kiffin, N. J., to settle here.

Mr. and Mrs. Imre Zsomboki and their daughter, Rosie, 14, were flown from Austria to Camp Kiffin and now as processing is completed and employment arranged will come to live with Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sebok, Hungarians sponsored by the church previously.

Mr. Zsomboki, whose trade is that of metalworker-foundryman, was assigned to the church through Church World Service, a refugee-assistance agency, on the basis of his trade skill.

Softener still works, board asserts

When you rush to the office of the clerk of the Board of Public Affairs to complain about mistakes in your electric billing, don't yack about hard water.

It simply isn't. Supt. of Light & Power Russell J. Moser told the Board Monday night. The village is using the same amount of salt now as formerly.

BUT, HE SAID, HERE'S THE CATCH: the average daily consumption of water here is 120,000 gallons. The water plant can accommodate only 90,000 gallons of water with each softening operation.

Some 20,000 gallons are used in the recharging process, so only 70,000 gallons can be softened. Conclusion: some 50,000 gallons of water which is unsoftened is pumped through the plant each day.

The antiquated billing machine has about had it, Clerk Carl V. Ellis told the Board. A routine check-up by the factory representative showed functional disorders that are likely to produce errors in billing. With his usual concern over the possibility of error, Ellis told the Board it should be fixed.

A new motor and governor should be affixed to the machine, he said. This will be done free of charge by the company, he said, but the machine needs overhauling. Estimated cost: $350 to 400.

IT WAS PLAIN THAT PRESIDENT Robert L. McIntire is regarded by his colleagues as the fiscal expert of the Board. In his absence, they declined to authorize such an expenditure.

Only 14 houses are without water meters. Superintendent Moser told the Board. Because houses without meters are low users, paying the minimum, it was agreed that cost of installation would exceed potential revenue. Exceptions to the rule that every house must have a meter were authorized.

Two seek divorce

Robert Clark has charged neglect of duty in a suit for divorce from his wife, the former Shirley Goldsmith, filed in Richland county common pleas court.

K. Lanny Gooding has filed a petition in the court of common pleas, Richland county, for a divorce from his wife, Fern. He charges neglect of duty and asks custody of their daughter, Melodie, temporarily living with her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Crane here.

Services were held in the Henry Dress Funeral home, Lakewood, and burial was in Riverside cemetery, Cleveland.

Linden Bradrick, 44

Brother of Mrs. Paul Cook of Shiloh, Linden Bradrick, 44, died in a mercy hospital, Mt. Vernon, Jan. 1.

He is also survived by his father, Frank Bradrick, Fredericktown; five other sisters; and three brothers.

Last rites were conducted Thursday in First Baptist church, Fredericktown, and burial was in Forest cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Shepherd

Mrs. Sarah Jane Shepherd, 86, of Shiloh died Dec. 31 in Crestline Emergency hospital.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Lu Ann Bailey, Hippo, Ky.; Miss Isabelle Shepherd of Aftica; Mrs. Marie Waggoner of Ypsilanti, Mich.; and Mrs. Lani Howard of Lamborie, Ky.; five sons, Jacob and Daniel of Shiloh, Gold of David, Ky.; Henderson of Crestline; and Gabriel of Ashmabel, Ky.; three sisters; 40 great grandchildren; and 20 great-grandchildren. Her husband, Harrison, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Jacob Shepherd home in Shiloh. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

P-TA postpones meeting to Jan. 24

Regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association has been postponed until Jan. 24. A special program is being planned by the committee.

Members of the project committee will serve the Chamber of Commerce dinner Thursday in the elementary school. P-TA members will be solicited to work and to contribute to the dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Barbour are the chairmen for the affair. Other members of the committee are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacMichael and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sloan.

Condition 'better'

Condition of Miss Betty Ann Hutchinson, home economist with Team America aid mission in Iraq, is substantially improved, her parents, the Roscoe Hutchinsons, Plymouth route 1, have been informed.

Miss Hutchinson has been ill with typhoid fever about three weeks.

The unit be addressed in care of Mrs. G. D. Harmon, Jr., I. V. S. team, United States Overseas Mission, American Embassy, Baghdad, Iraq.

State orders bond issue on next ballot, renews sewer permit

An order — and a direct one — to place another sewer bond issue on the ballot has been given the village council by the state's water pollution control board.

The village's permit to continue, to dump raw sewage into the Huron river has been renewed, subject to conditions which are plain set forth in the letter of authorization.

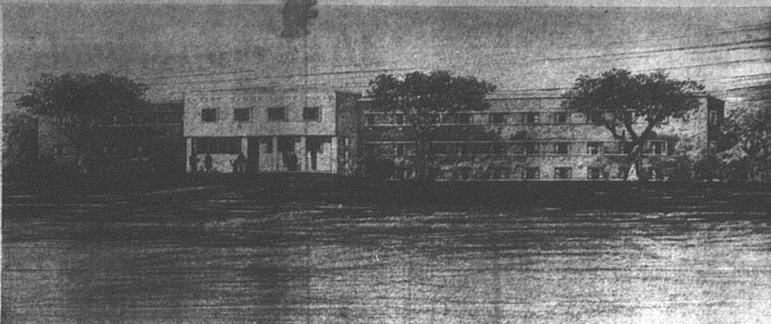

The council voted to table the matter for the time being.

FRED BARNES, TRUX street, has resigned from the fire department "for reasons best known to myself." His resignation was effective at noon Dec. 31. The council approved the recommendation of Samuel Robertson as his replacement.

Robert Lewis' term on the village park board expired on Dec. 31. He was completing the unexpired term of James C. Davis. He was reappointed by Mayor Thurman R. Ford to a full four-year term.

Police Chief Robert L. Meiser informed the council that Fred Ramsey, Sandusky resident, is serving a sentence in Huron county jail in lieu of $250 fine and costs on two charges, drunken driving preferred by Chief Meiser and assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Ramsey.

Solicitor Joseph F. Dush told the council he hopes to submit a draft revision of the village code of ordinances at the next code meeting. Where the village is likely to find the money to print it is a question

Cashman reelected as board studies new construction need

J. Harold Cashman was reelected president of Plymouth Board of Education at the annual organization meeting Tuesday as cafeteria employees received a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase.

Mrs. Russell Barbour, cafeteria manager, got a boost of $20 a month.

Haldon Chesman was elected vice-president of the board. Salary of Earl C. Cashman, new clerk succeeding David Cook, resigned, was set at $125 a month.

JUDSON A. MORRISON AND Donald P. Markey were assigned to the transportation committee, Chesman and Morrison to the finance committee and Cook and Markey to the building and ground committee.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the superintendent's office each month on the second Tuesday.

Supt. M. J. Coon laid a 2,500-word report of building needs before the board and a short discussion of these needs ensued.

These needs, he said, comprise four new classrooms, a music hall, small gymnasium lockers for 140 boys and girls, rest room facilities for the same number of pupils and a superintendent's office and waiting room.

"A VITAL MUSIC PROGRAM," Mr. Coon wrote, his fundamental to the school and to the school and to the community's cultural life. The activities of the school's music department have been extremely handicapped by a lack of adequate facilities. Only in the past few years has the school been able to have any worth while instrumental program. There are no community instrumental or vocal organizations. Church choirs are generally unresponsive and shorthanded. Attendance at musical affairs is generally limited to the participants and their immediate families. The private tutors of the community and the school are the only ones working toward further development of this cultural aspect. A music room designed for school and public use is needed to develop the community's awareness of the values of good music."

Mr. Coon cited other shortcomings of the school program. "Thirteen-year-old boys and girls are being thrown into the same environment with 18- and 19-year-olds. The age span of the high school is no greater than the elementary school; however, there is the social difficulty of mixing pre-adolescent, adolescent and mature teenagers. Dating has occurred across these natural divisions of normal growth. This should be discouraged."

Elementary school pupils are subjected to close supervision by one teacher throughout the school day. Mr. Coon pointed out a de-parmentalized program, which allows for efficient instruction of highly specialized subjects. Teachers of these subjects tend to treat immature seventh graders much the same as they treat older pupils. Result: many seventh and eighth grade pupils do not succeed in the eyes of subject-centered teachers, grades are low and failures often excessively high. Recommendation: a teacher directly in charge of seventh and eighth grade pupils from the moment they enter the building at 8:30 a.m. until they depart.

THE BUILDING PROGRAM, the educator wrote, should take these factors into account. Seventh and eighth grade classrooms should be isolated from rooms of older pupils. There should be provision for separate rest rooms and a dining center.

"It is common practice today," he wrote, "to locate the superintendent's office out of the center of activity and in a place where parents, salesmen, visitors and other persons have as good an opportunity to discuss their problems as do the pupils with their principal."

What should be done with the present superintendent's rooms? Turn them over to the high school principal. Plymouth schools are so large that the executive cannot be expected to handle all of the duties of the high school principal. The local superintendency and the high school principalship must be divorced and the principalship delegated to a qualified person who has time allotted for the administration of the high school."

Chamber to stage dinner Thursday

To observe the first anniversary of its founding, Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will stage a banquet and social evening for members and their guests in the elementary school Jan. 17 at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Madeline H. Smith, secretary of the Chamber, is general chairman for the affair.

Hugh Washburn will be toastmaster. John G. Routzon, former executive secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, and Russell W. Frey, publisher of the Rittman Press, who assisted in organizing the local chamber, will be special guests.

Luther R. Fetters has been appointed ticket chairman. He will call upon members personally to obtain reservations prior to Jan. 14.

Working as chairmen in the Plymouth drive are Mrs. Robert MacMichael, Mrs. Miles S. Christian, Mrs. Donald E. Fetters, Mrs. Harold Sloan, Mrs. D. B. Shaver and Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr.

Last night the chairmen and solicitors attended a special meeting in Plymouth High school to receive information needed for the drive. Donors may contribute or sign pledges for contributions.

Present plans call for the erection of a new building which will give adequate space for all hospital facilities and needed beds. For a number of years the hospital has operated under crowded, inadequate conditions. The major part of the hospital is not fireproof. The wing added in 1942 is fireproof.

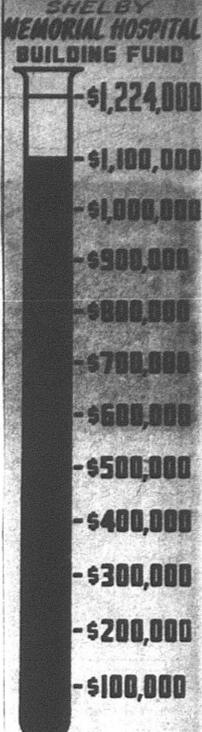

Plans called for it to be moved against the new structure when completed. Persons who are employed in Shelby will not be solicited at their homes. If any person in the house to house drive fails to be approached, he is asked to call one of the chairmen.

Tag day set, goal $150 for jackets

Student council, Plymouth High school, will sponsor a tag day Saturday. Proceeds will be used for warm-up jackets for the varsity basketball squad.

Tags will be sold on the Square. A house-to-house canvass is being organized by Nida Stroup, president of the council.

It is hoped that $150 will be realized from the sale. When the money is available, Coach Lewis Pettit will order the jackets.

Fund drive for hospital starts here

Solicitation will begin today in Plymouth for the Shelby Memorial hospital building fund. A goal of $1,224,000 has been set for the drive. Only $174,000 remains to be raised.

Working as chairmen in the Plymouth drive are Mrs. Robert MacMichael, Mrs. Miles S. Christian, Mrs. Donald E. Fetters, Mrs. Harold Sloan, Mrs. D. B. Shaver and Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr.

Jilled salads liked by men are those with the natural flavors of foods predominating. Tomato aspic continues among the masculine favorites because of its clear and direct tomato tang. This salad is a natural too with such menu leaders as steak and potatoes. See recipe below.

Tomato aspic rates as a classic of gel-cookery, and the simple formula only calls for combining tomato juice, unflavored gelatine and seasonings. The plain gelatine, softened in cold juice and thoroughly dissolved in hot tomato juice, introduces no flavor of its own. Its magic property is to gel the tomato juice at refrigerator temperature. Then at taste-time, each bite is a firmly cool yet melting to create a very special appetite appeal.

To unmold, quickly dip the salad mold to its depth in hot water; loosen around edge of container with tip of knife; hold serving plate over mold; invert, and salad will slip onto the plate.

- Quick Tomato Aspic
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
 - 3/4 cup cold tomato juice
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon celery salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon onion salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Soften gelatine in 1 cup of the cold tomato juice. Place over boiling water; stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add to remaining 3/4 cup tomato juice; stir in remaining ingredients. Pour into a 4-cup loaf pan; chill until firm. Unmold on platter; garnish with sliced tomatoes, serve, cut into 8 portions. Serve with Roquefort cheese dressing. YIELD: 8 servings.
- NOTE: For 4 servings, cut recipe in half and pour into individual molds.

Fido needs tag, auditor insists, before Jan. 21st

Since Jan. 20 falls on Sunday this year, final date to secure dogs tags will be Jan. 19, Huron County Auditor Bernard F. Able since Dec 1 to provide a Keen says. Tags have been available longer registration period, but few have taken advantage. Now with only two more days available, the county auditor's office will be required to register about 2,500 additional dogs. The 1956 dog population in Huron county was 6,997.

Animal claims that may occur between Jan. 1 and 20 cannot be approved unless the claimants' dogs are registered. Tags should be secured by Jan. 1. The Jan. 20 deadline applies only to penalty. Walls Completed Fast DECORATED walls for a new attic room or other addition to the home can be achieved in short order by applying prefabricated hardboard panels over the simple backing of furring strips on open studs.
 For Marlite planks, sufficient support is provided by 1" x 4" furring strips nailed horizontally on 16" centers — a backing that is easier and quicker to fit and install than many other types. The planks are secured with special metal clips that are nailed into the furring and hidden inside tongue-and-groove joints.

 When the paneling is applied over a masonry wall or over an old wall that is not solid, it is advisable to use such furring strips as a base.
 For a furred base for a companion product, 16" square tongue-and-groove blocks, on walls, horizontal strips of 1" x 2" stock on 8" centers are recommended.

Because this paneling comes decorated in plain colors and wood grains, no finishing is necessary. With baked plastic finish fused to a Masonite tempered hardboard base, the panels are durable and easily damaged clean.

Dun & Bradstreet lists 47 local firms

Forty-seven Plymouth business houses have been asked to file annual financial statements by Dun & Bradstreet.

The Plymouth section of the current issue of the Dun & Bradstreet reference book, contains listings of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

Since over 95 per cent of all commercial transactions in the United States are on credit terms, the key to a smooth flow of business is mutual confidence between buyer and seller. This confidence is based on information - credit information.

During 1957 Dun & Bradstreet estimates it will be required to make about 24 changes in listings of business enterprises in Plymouth. Such changes will result from adding the names of new businesses, deleting the names of those who have discontinued, as well as accounting for changes in ownership, trade names, and credit ratings. Each day there are over 6,000 such changes throughout the United States.

A rating based on a credit search is assigned each business and is listed in the Dun & Bradstreet reference book, the largest regularly published book in the world.

Thus a manufacturer or wholesaler receiving an order for merchandise from a merchant in Plymouth can review the listing and rating of the merchant in the Reference Book. This is possible regardless of the location of either the buyer or seller. A listing of the Plymouth businessmen appears in every nationwide issue of the Reference Book.

A Reference Book listing contains the name of the business and the rating. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or capital. It is the difference between what the business owns and what it owes. The second symbol, a numeral, reflects a composite of financial stability and payment record.

The need is there

Solicitors for the Shelby Memorial hospital building fund drive are, quite frankly, a bit hard to come by.

There are some reasons for it that do not immediately greet the eye. One of them is that some folks feel they pay the freight when they use hospital services and the hospital administration should save enough from regular fees to finance hospital expansion, new building, remodeling and fireproofing.

Another is that it's income tax time for a good many of us, and since solicitors don't like to take no for an answer, they can hardly be expected to be enthusiastic about undertaking solicitation for substantial funds at a time when everybody has other obligations, which admittedly come first, to meet.

A third is that the solicitation is for one hospital only, whereas residents of Plymouth and its trading area sometimes use the services of another hospital, which they may prefer, and therefore will reserve their support to it.

A fourth is that special solicitation of businesses which seem most able to contribute substantial sums has already been conducted, thus robbing much of the bloom of any group effort locally.

A fifth — one which we wish we did not have to set down — is that many folks, most of them completely misinformed, consider that religious and practical obstacles lie in the way of generosity at this time. It is wrong for them to think so, especially as regards religious obstacles, utterly wrong. But they do think so, and that is another reason why solicitors don't like to tackle the job of seeking funds for the hospital.

The practical obstacle is that garbled and misunderstood reports of compulsion, of arm-twisting, have been received. Prospective donors were told, they say, that they are expected to give so much.

If this is true, it is a difficult obstacle to overcome. Nobody likes to be told how generous he should be. Generosity springs from delicate sensitivities, easily offended.

But the need is there. There is no sense in complaining about bad practices in the past. The need is apparent. For our part, we intend to make a donation, and we call upon all decent and honest citizens to do likewise.

It's only your money

Any thought that a Republican administration won't be so expensive as the other kind must certainly be dispelled by this time. Ike's program is certainly going to cost us plenty, and the little man down at Columbus has already asked for more money, even before he's sworn in. Moral: you will find it difficult to have your cake and eat it, too.

The conclusion, which again may not be valid, is that marriages made in haste are repented for at leisure. The waiting period decreed by law for those of tender age has its purpose. It's better not to make the mistake than to have to use the eraser.

And the blood test mandatory in most states, while designed primarily to insure the public safety, health and welfare, also has a desirable affect upon hasty marriage.

Nothing is quite so ridiculous, we hold, than that we have here in these United States 48 different codes of law applicable to marriage. In some states, marriages between persons of different races are legal, in others they are not. With consent of parents, some girls of 14 can legally marry in some states. In Indiana, you can get married, legally, in a few minutes. In Minnesota, you have to wait three days.

And by the same token, a universal divorce code is equally necessary, and its absence is equally ridiculous.

In New York, you can get a divorce for one reason only — adultery. In South Carolina, you can't get a divorce for any reason whatsoever. In Nevada, Florida, and Arkansas, divorce comes easy. It is a commercial enterprise, in which the state is the business partner of hotelkeepers, restaurateurs, tavernkeepers, garagemen, service station operators and a whole long line of other entrepreneurs.

If the present Congress wants to do something worthwhile, it can find a way to standardize requirements for marriage and for divorce.

EVERYBODY AGREES THAT MARRIAGE is here to stay, and should be dignified and legalized, despite what George Bernard Shaw said about it being a public announcement of a private intention. And, regardless of what you may personally think about it, divorce is here to stay, too. Where divorce is not possible, citizens resort to the even more sinister practice of living apart yet together, with another spouse, sometimes, but always in greater sin than if the marriage is legally dissolved.

It is high time that as a front-rank republic of grown-up citizens with enormous personal and group responsibilities domestically and abroad, we should do something about this ludicrous state of affairs.

But of one thing you can be sure: no legislator would touch it with a 40-foot pole.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON AT THE DRUG STORE.

Quality of curriculum said more important by university

(Ed. Note: With one and possibly two local boys off to private boarding schools, the following news story, used by permission of John Gore, editor, Geauga Record, Chardon, O., is published for the general information of parents and citizens interested in public schools.)

A group of 10 Geauga High school graduates attending or preparing to enter college provided fire works at the Burton-Middlefield Rotary meeting held Wednesday, Dec. 26 at Homer's restaurant in Burton. Participating in a panel discussion arranged by Lee Schulz, chairman, Rotary youth committee, the high school graduates answered the question posed, "What I missed most in high school." Ralph Temple, Chardon High school graduate now a senior at Hiram college, blasted the English teaching he received, stating that the grammar and literature courses in Geauga High school are completely inadequate for college work. "At my boarding house, when students from private or other public schools discuss Homer, Cicero and Euripides, I didn't know what they were talking about." Keith Minick of Hiram college said, "Our grammar and vocabulary preparation makes it impossible for us to compete on an equal basis with other students. Although only 10 per cent of the Geauga graduates attend college, many students would go if the schools showed us how many scholarships are available." Carol Champion, graduate of Newbury and now attending Kent State said, "I planned to study journalism but had to change to an education course because of the difficulty I had with English. We need more psychology and sociology courses in high school." Dan Bender, now attending Kent State, said, "We should come out of high school with the proper tools to compete in college. Our vocabularies are poor and we are not taught how to take college examinations. True and false tests generally used in Geauga High schools should be replaced by essay examinations. We were never taught how to write a term paper or theme properly. Geauga high schools teach us how to run the 100-yard dash, while in college we are called on for the mile run. Proper speech training in high school is essential as you can see by my poor effort tonight."

The Rotarians, fathers of many students attending the Geauga High schools, were shocked into stumped silence. Several Rotarians who are members of county and local school boards made copious notes. One West Geauga school board member said, "I have been telling the people in West Geauga school district the same thing for many years. Perhaps they would listen if they heard it from the kids." Ed Fruehauf, Burton High school graduate attending Kent State university, said "that grammar, English composition and American literature courses are completely inadequate. There is a need for guidance and guidance testing. We never received an aptitude test to enable us to plan for the future."

Rotarian Arthur Dade posed the $64 question, "I have two youngsters who I hope to send to college. Will the members of the panel tell me frankly whether I should send my boys to a private school in preference to the Geauga High schools?"

The panel agreed unanimously that the graduates of private schools for a number of reasons were better equipped to handle college courses. The teachers in private schools are superior and more interested in their jobs and frequently at less pay. The classes in private schools are smaller and the students receive more education. The curriculum does not waste time with courses that are designed to comply with the legal age requirements of the public school laws. The public school is geared to the inferior student and the student with his eyes fixed on college training is penalized.

By Phineas Whittleseed

There appeared at the foot of this column last week a satirical illustration of a wispie picnic and something about the Bloodmobile. Phin's purpose: why not? Any decision which the community can't combine its efforts to give 125 pints of blood to this worthy cause?

Wanted: some public-spirited group of folks to work hard to line up donors, see that they get there, oversubscribe the quota. Nothing puts a town on the map quite so much as the kind of giving that costs so little and means so much.

An announcement by Huron County Probate Court Judge Don J. Young, Jr., that he will not issue a license to marry to any person under 21 years of age until after the five-day waiting period, plus the written consent of parent or guardian, is long overdue.

But how futile it all is suggested by his colleague, Ashland County Probate Judge Mildred I. Myers, who says she habitually refuses to issue licenses to marry to young people, only to read in the public prints they've skipped to Indiana to marry.

Judge Young's decision came after a young Army lieutenant, Allyn C. McKinney, 20, 1325 Inglewood road, Cleveland, obtained a license to marry Lona M. Weight, 15, 170 Meado Hill lanes, Chagrin Falls. His suspicions were aroused after both swore they were of legal age. By the time he had verified they were not, a minister at Milan had married them.

QUITE APART FROM THE OBVIOUS fraudulent statement by an officer of the United States Army, actionable in the civil courts and certainly actionable in the military courts, is the unfortunate truth that the laws of Ohio — and simultaneously the people of Ohio, for they make the laws — are being made monkeys by loopholes over which those very people have little or no control.

It may not be a valid argument, but have you noticed the divorce records of late? The major part of the dissolved marriages is comprised of those solemnized, if that is the word, outside the state.

U.S. School in Cairo Is Middle East Focus

In Egypt, the most important American institution is the American University of Cairo, located on three acres of land on Liberation, near the famous Egyptian Museum of Antiquities. Incorporated in 1919 in Washington, D. C., the University attracts young people from all over the Middle East. It has five schools, arts and sciences, Oriental studies, the extension division, education and the social research center. While the University is Christian, and teaches religion as well as ethics and philosophy, it does not require attendance at its "international assemblies" of students who have conscientious objections.

Pilgrims lose fourth to Lexington, 65-55

Lexington's Minutemen out-roughed and outshot the Plymouth Pilgrims at home Friday night and withstood a fourth quarter Plymouth drive to win a Richland county league game, 65 to 55.

Shiloh needed an overtime period to whip Butler's Bulldogs, 72 to 67.

Lexington, led by Tom Volz's 22 markers, had an easy time of it in the first 24 minutes. The Minutemen led at the start of the fourth period, 56 to 36, and let down substantially in the final eight minutes.

Ted Fox garnered 22 markers for Plymouth to bring his season's total to 127.

George Poffenbaugh dumped in 28 points to bring Shiloh's Lions home with a narrow victory after both sides had scored 63 points in regulation time.

Buzzie Wareham scored 23 points to bring his cumulative total 167, but Butler couldn't keep up the pressure. The Bulldogs have now won only two. Shiloh seems to have snapped out of a losing streak of six with two straight wins and is now five won, seven lost.

Cornell's cops 3, record now 19-2

Jim Nowakowski scored 30 points Saturday as Cornell's quint defeated Mohawk A. C., Mansfield, 102 to 82. Willie Mack, Clarksburg grid star, had 29 points for the losers.

It was the 19th win of the season for the restaurant outfit. In a curtain-raiser, the black and gold-clad club defeated Willard United bank five, 103 to 97.

Thursday night the local five tackled Attica and struck a cold streak. The Cornell aggregation scored only 19 points in three quarters and despite a 25-point final period were unable to overcome the Seneca county quintet, losing its second contest of the season, 57 to 44.

what is this rate increase all about?

Since we asked for an adjustment of telephone rates, folks have been asking us these questions:

Why?

Because, like everyone else, our cost of doing business has gone up during the past few years. For example, our annual wage costs have increased in the amount of $650,905.44 since 1952.

When?

This will be determined by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission after they have made a complete check of our property and books.

Doesn't revenue from new customers help to meet higher expenses?

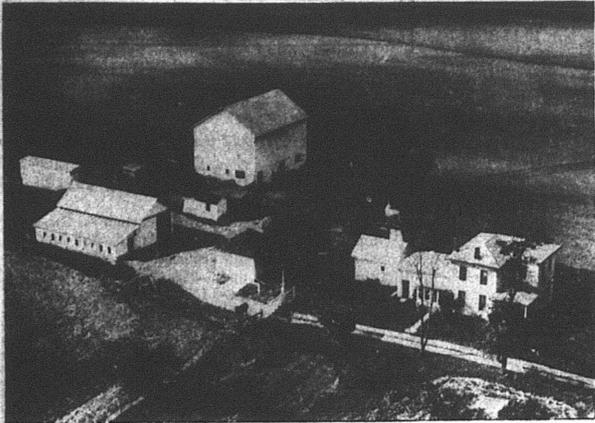

It is true that our income is higher because of the larger number of telephones, but it falls short of the increased cost of providing you with good telephone service. Only a sound financial company can provide you with the kind of service you want.

Darkness falls on village, gas fails arousing householders

How much a community is dependent on electric power and gas was demonstrated in Shiloh last week by the failure of both utilities for a brief period on succeeding days — electricity on Wednesday and gas on Thursday.

Electricity, which had been off and on intermittently Wednesday afternoon, starting at about 3:30, failed completely as darkness fell. Street lights went out all over the village. Houses were dark except for the pale flickering of candles and the dull yellow glow of kerosene lamps showing through some windows. Dwellings heated by furnaces equipped with electric blowers cooled while householders made frantic calls to their servicemen for help.

At 6:35 p.m. the tension relaxed.

Streets and houses were brightly lit once again and furnaces started to function. The failure is reported to have been caused when a pole of the Ohio Power Co. in Willard was accidentally knocked down by construction workers on a building project there.

At about 10:45 a.m. Thursday, however, tension returned once again to the village, this time caused by the failure of another utility — gas. Pressure in the lines of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., which services the village, dropped so low that burners on many gas operated appliances — furnaces, heaters and refrigerators — went out with a pft-t-t. Employees of the gas company made hurried calls on all customers throughout the area to ask them to check all appliances. When no one could be found at home, the gas was shut off. Storekeepers and others away from home temporarily sped homeward when apprised of the news, and a general feeling of unrest prevailed everywhere throughout the remainder of the forenoon.

Happily the crisis passed with no more serious after effects reported than the defrosting of a gas-operated refrigerator which the owner overlooked in his check.

Get-Togethers to meet

Mrs. Moser grieves

A. P. Coleman, 71, father of Mrs. Russell J. Moser of South Delaware street, Shiloh, died Dec. 28 in a Toledo hospital after a three-month illness.

Funeral services were conducted in Findlay at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 31 and interment was in the cemetery there.

Garrett out of hospital

Hobart Kid Garrett of West Main street returned home Dec. 31 from Cyle Veterans' hospital, Cleveland, which he entered on Dec. 13 for observation and a general checkup.

THE PAT DOG

by Dr. E. M. Glidow
Director, Friskies Research Kennels

Overweight in a dog has the same general effects as in a human. It's an almost sure guarantee that his life span will be shortened.

The best solution to the problem of overweight in a growing dog is the preventive approach.

Dog of the Week:
KERRY BLUE TERRIER

Average weight: 35 pounds; height at shoulder: 18 inches; coat: soft, dense and wavy; color: any shade of blue-gray or gray-blue, with darker to black shades on muzzle, head, ears, tail and feet.

Check his weight regularly. Feed him just enough to keep him in good condition—making sure his diet is not only sufficient in quantity, but also that it contains all the minerals, vitamins and other essentials for his health.

Practical experience will be your best guide in determining how much to feed him. Just remember that dogs, like people, tend to eat more than they need. If your dog continues to gain or doesn't lose weight when you reduce his diet, you can be sure that someone is feeding him on the side, either members of the family, a neighbor, or he is visiting garbage cans.

If he's fat, cut down the amount of food and give him regular exercise — easy at first, then gradually increasing in amount.

Brumbachs return home

The condition of Mrs. Caldwell, who has been confined to her bed for the past six months, remains unchanged.
