Youth admits theft from restaurant

An 18-year-old youth accused of theft of money from New Haven Shell restaurant was taken into custody by Huron county sheriff's deputies last week.

Within an hour after he was accused of taking $73 from a desk drawer, Lowell Laser, a June graduate of Willard High school, confessed to taking the money. Sheriff's deputies found him at a nearby service station, quizzed him at length and obtained a confession.

They said Laser is on probation of the juvenile court of Huron county because of his implication in 1956 with a gang of youthful thieves from Willard High school.

Barring effective remonstrance, Shiloh local school district will be wiped off the map on Jan. 17.

Title to Shiloh's schools, pupils and a d. overburdened school problems will pass to Plymouth school district. The Plymouth board of education will have sole jurisdiction over the present Shiloh territory on that date.

THE RICHLAND COUNTY board of education resolves Monday night to annex the Shiloh district to Plymouth under the provisions of Section 3311.22 of the Revised Code.

This permits a county board to transfer an adjoining local district in the same county. The statute has only 12 days to run. It expires Dec. 31, 1957.

The receiving territory has no right of remonstrance. Only the transferred territory may remonstrate.

The step taken by the board was of three options available to it. These were laid down in a detailed paper prepared for the board and the 75-odd persons who attended by Dale Kinney, clerk of the board.

The board could transfer both Plymouth and Shiloh districts, in separate resolutions, to Huron county.

IT COULD COMBINE THE

Plymouth and Shiloh districts in one of two ways — the "Sec. 3311.22 method which was chosen, or the Sec. 3311.26 method, involving the creation of a new district and the organization of a new school board.

This would have allowed the Plymouth portion of the combination the right of remonstrance, a fact which was obviously distasteful to the board. It apparently wished to rely upon the magic rule of large numbers, gambling that dissidents in Shiloh would be unable to rally enough signatures on a remonstrance petition to upset the move.

The board could also have taken no action. This would have enabled the Plymouth district to undertake an initiative petition. If filed after Jan. 1, only 55 per cent of the electors who voted for governor in the last gubernatorial election are required to sign the petition. Prior to Jan. 1, the figure is 75 per cent.

Here, too, the county board should it had thought out the magic rule of large numbers.

Seventy-five per cent of the gubernatorial vote in the Plymouth district should wish to transfer to Huron county after Jan. 1, and the Richland county board should not wish to acquire, more signatures would be required to force an election.

In the face of long-standing Shiloh attachment to Richland county, and the openly expressed feeling at the meeting that Richland county authorities are disturbed lest school transfers have influence on political districting, the choice of Sec. 3311.22 enables the county board to have its cake and eat it too.

The board went through the motions of calling for a democratic expression of opinion. Save for Donald Shaver, who said he opposes the selection of a site for the Huron Valley High school and therefore wishes to have the whole matter put off until the people can vote, all Huron Valley residents spoke favorably of the present organization.

These spokesmen included David E. Cook, Paul Stoodt, Donald P. Markley, J. Harris Postema and Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr.

Shilohans called upon from the floor, including Leland D. Wolfersberger, James Russell, John Swartz and Ray Kirkendall, plumped for "the vote of the people". Mrs. Helen Willson, president of the board, reminded these spokesmen that in each instance in the past, the vote of the people had been on the side of status quo.

Homer V. Beard, former superintendent of the Shiloh schools, spoke as a private citizen.

He appealed to the board to give Shiloh pupils the same opportunity for a good education as it guarantees Plymouth pupils.

THIS WAS THE FIRST

admission, albeit tacit, that Shiloh's school situation would be all but desperate if Shiloh were not combined with Plymouth or with some other district.

Earl Huston seconded Beard's position.

Wolfersberger held forth for some time on his fundamental contentions, unaltered by time and the acquisition of new knowledge; that Shiloh's schools are eminently satisfactory, that referendum is a basic right of the people and should be accorded now through submission of the question to ballot, that time will heal all wounds.

James Ryan dies of lymphosarcoma at Willard hospital

James J. Ryan, 42, 223 Sandusky street, died at 5:35 p.m. Tuesday in Willard Municipal hospital, a victim of cancer.

He had been ill two years with lymphosarcoma, a malignancy which affects the blood and lymphatic system. But it was only in the past four months that he was immobilized.

A native of Liverpool, Eng. he was a naturalized citizen and intensely proud of it. He served in the U. S. Navy in World War II and was recalled to train recruits in the Korean police action.

A MEMBER OF FIRST

Evangelical Lutheran church, he was a retired member of the church board. Mr. Ryan belonged to Richland lodge No. 201, F. & A. M., and to Eret-Parsel Post, American Legion.

Until his final illness, he was employed as a master welder in the maintenance division of Wilkins Air Force station, Shelby.

His wife, Katherine, two daughters, Gertrude and Dorothy, and a son, Gregory, all at home; two sisters, Mrs. Paul Fritz, Tonic, Mass., and a brother, William, Bremerhaven, Germany, survive.

His pastor, the Rev. Robert F. Hall, will conduct last rites from the McQuate Funeral home tomorrow at 2 p.m. Burial will be in New Haven cemetery.

Council pays for streets

Payment for street repairs — $1,182.99 worth — to settle all obligations to Huron and Richland counties by the end of the year was the move of lame-duck Councilman Charles Vanasdale Tuesday night.

Church services set to open Xmas week

Presbyterian Sunday schoolers will stage their Christmas party at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The senior and junior choirs and youth groups of the church will sing carols throughout the village after the program.

Shut-ins who may wish to be serenaded are invited to telephone the pastor, the Rev. Moss Ruttan.

NEW MEMBERS, BY TRANSFER

will be received into the church at the 11 a.m. service Sunday.

A Christmas eve candlelight service will be presented at 11 p.m. Tuesday.

The choir celebrated Christmas with a party last night at the home of Miss Carol Jo Cunningham.

METHODIST WILL OBSERVE

the Christmas season with usual services both here and at lighting Monday night.

Christmas house decorations will be judged Monday night.

Judges this year are the Rev. Robert F. Hall, chairman; the Rev. Thomas S. Taylor and the Rev. Moss Ruttan.

Cash prizes, the same as last year, will be awarded for first, second, and third place winners.

C. M. Brown dies at New London

Former manager of Northern Ohio Telephone Co. here, Charles M. Brown, 83, died Saturday at his home in New London.

Born in Ashland, he was in charge of the New London office after he left here. He retired in 1938.

His wife Viola, survives.

Last rites were conducted Tuesday at 2 p.m. in New London. Burial was in Grove street cemetery there.

another "Guess Who", with these clues:

Once he had a lot of hair,
Now there's lefty any there
And she to him was never wed,
But her hair's a flaming red,
William (Wee Bill) Phillips,
Plymouth East road, can nominate any new subscriber to The Advertiser.

Try this puzzler!

Despite the fact the clues were obscure, 17 persons formally identified R. Earl McQuate and family as last week's guess who.

Since the first — and youngest — identifier didn't understand the clues at all, it must be true that "it's easy to recognize the people."

To confound this opinion, The Advertiser presents this week

Something to think on---

An historical truth can be seen plainly through these thousand years of written history. It is this: no change can be a good change if it comes too quickly.

The amount of time for a change in ideas depends on how many it affects, what customs it will change, and what ideas. Each change must be weighed accordingly.

The combining of the Plymouth and Shiloh school systems has been 10 years in the making. Monday night it was made. It affects only a handful of persons in an extremely small geographical area, if you compare it with the rest of the world.

Ten years is certainly an adequate amount of time for persons to adjust to a change which had to come. There may, of course, be some political hopes dashed to the ground, a local school building next door gone, the name of the school which identifies the community vanished.

The arguing back and forth as to where a school building will stand is pure foolishness in this day and age. Give the students a good curriculum, good teachers, and they will go to school.

Our country became great in spite of itself. When the need arose, we have stood shoulder to shoulder sharing a burden, and there was no bickering.

That need exists today in this small community.

Warriors stumble at Berlin Heights, 68-40

The roof fell in at Berlin Heights Friday night, exactly as predicted.

Bowled by a regulation-size floor, Huron Valley's Warriors threw everything but the kitchen sink onto the backboards but couldn't hit a lick.

THEY CAME HOME WITH a thorough 68 to 40 thumping by the Tigers, whose attack moved smoothly and without much hindrance after assuming a 15 to 3 lead in the first period.

Neil Leimbach dumped 21 points into the bin for the Tigers to lead all scorers. Dick Palmer had 13 for the losers.

Laughter on Stroud's Creek —

They make progress and fun on SC & M

(In line with established and accepted corporate practice, the community and public relations department of the Stroud's Creek and Muddlety Railroad has prepared, for the first time, a year-end report reviewing the status of the railroad for the benefit of the press. It has not been an easy task, but it has been immensely rewarding and most clean sport.)

Broadly speaking, 1957 may be described as a year of progress and achievement for the Stroud's Creek and Muddlety railroad, despite a general leveling off of business and industry, notably in the area of fence post production.

The fence post factory which constitutes Muddlety's principal industry and which manufactures a high grade of wooden, slotted fence post, has decreased production. This has led some observers and analysts to presuppose an adverse effect on SC&M carloadings.

The plan fact is that the SC&M never did haul many fence posts, even in the great bull market of 1923. The way most fence posts get into fences in the Muddlety marketing area is that farmers bring their wagons right to the factory and haul the fence posts away. The export market has always been extremely limited, and in the present era of do-it-yourself, many farmers are making their own fence posts. In any event, the SC&M's freight position has not been affected. But that's the way the ball bounces.

COAL TRAFFIC. ON THE other hand, held up better than most things throughout the 12-month period under survey. It is just about impossible to prepare do-it-yourself coal, and the export market is still making things hum. This is something people who are contemplating the fence post business as a career field might do well to ponder.

In keeping with its tradition of staying more or less away from developments in modern railroading, the SC&M became a 100 per cent diesel operation during 1957, having concluded that the diesel locomotive was here to stay, along with the migraine headache and motivation research in depth. Diesel locomotives now in service on the 21 miles of SC&M main-line trackage are not, perhaps, as romantic as the steam locomotives they displaced, but there is a time and a place for romance, and today in Muddlety, W. Va., is not it. Efficiency is the watchword along Stroud's Creek.

Dieselization of motive power has, of course, resulted in some changes in the SC&M's shops at Tioga, W. Va. They are not so warm as they used to be and getting a good hot cup of coffee fast is not the child's play it once was. The smoke problem has been completely eliminated, which figures.

THE YEAR ALSO SAW completion of a series of studies undertaken to determine whether or not to repaint station signs between Muddlety and Allingdale, the SC&M's junction with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. In consequence, it was decided to do nothing at all. Maybe next year. (In point of fact, there really isn't much need for station signs. Everybody on the SC&M knows where he is, and that's what matters.)

Otherwise, not much else happened. As to the future, the SC&M views 1958, if not with unalloyed delight, with interest and a certain wariness. These are tense times and the railroad which goes around viewing things with unalloyed delight has its head in the clouds.

◆ By Phineas Whittleseed

Our p. and j. (and don't ask us which one, 'cause it's hard for a father to decide - one day it's one, the next it's the other, often it's both) asked us the question that sent us to the reference shelf a other night.

The query was, "What's a calico cat?" So Phin had to explain that it was a cat made of calico cloth. Then we had to explain what calico cloth is, and why it's called that.

TO DO SO, WE HAD TO REFER TO SHIPLEY'S "Dictionary of Word Origins", a remarkable volume that's useful to all. We learned there that calico originally came from Calicut, India. Moreover, that most of our cloths and costumings have similarly fascinating foreign backgrounds.

Words tend to shed their original meanings. We tend to forget — if we ever knew, that is — the original meanings, and one of them that always sticks in our craw is "cute". Especially the way our female acquaintances use it.

BUT NEVERTHELESS, TO GET TO THIS cloth business, cambric muslin came from Cambrai, in Flanders. Cashmere is from Kashmir, in India, from which place we got the last rug shipped out before the Pakistanis and Indians got to scrapping.

Cheviot derives from the Cheviot hills. Cretonne comes from Creton in Normand. Damask was born in the oldest city known to mankind — Damascus. Denim, from which our kids' jeans are made, is cloth de Nimes, in France. Duffel is a region close to Antwerp, in Belgium, where a bag which we call the duffel bag was commonly made from a kind of cloth fabricated there.

Gauze, for instance, originated in Gaza, now part of Israel. Jersey came from the United Kingdom. Lawn we imported from Laon, a delightful provincial city in France (where we spent a make-shift Christmas, once). Lisle is another French import, from the city of the same name. Madras comes from India, named for a dreadfully hot city on the southeast coast. Muslin derives from Mesopotamia, worsted from a parish in England. Poplin comes from Avignon, also in France, which was a papal seat for a while (the pope used the cloth). Tulle is a direct steal from Tulle, France.

BY THIS TIME WE WERE IMMERSSED IN Mr. Shipley and p. and j. had turned to scratching cat fur and the sweet nothings that all in our family save Phin can babble, endlessly to our two beasts.

We learned that gingham is from Malaya, meaning "striped" in the Malay tongue. Tweed is from the River Tweed, where it was washed. Pongee is Chinese (doesn't anybody wear pongee peccays any more?) and taffeta is Persian. So is seersucker. The etymology of this word isn't stated, but we've got a good suggestion. Gabardine is archaic French, originally meaning "cloak of a pilgrim".

THE FOLKS WHO WORKED WITH TEXTILES over the years add to their names to the permanent vocabulary of the trade. John Mercer, an English calico printer, gave his name to "mercerized" cloth, a process patented in 1860.

The cardigan was devised by the Earl of Cardigan in the Crimean war. The raglan was an invention of Lord Raglan, a British commander.

Wouldn't this be a dandy theme for the Halle windows at Cleveland?

Miss Markley becomes bride of Ishmel Hale in church here

Miss Patricia Ann Markley became the Christmas bride of Ishmel Hale Saturday at 4 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed in the Methodist church by his pastor, the Rev. Thomas S. Taylor.

The bride is the elder child of the Donald P. Markleys. The bridegroom is the younger son of the Bon Hales.

THE BRIDE, GIVEN IN marriage by her father, was attired in an original creation of imported rose point lace designed by Miss Eva of Elegance. Lace medallions trimmed with sequins enhanced the Sabrina neckline of the lace Dior bodice and the full waltz-length skirt was worn over a layer of tulle. Miss Lillian designed the queen's crown of pearls which held her waltz-length veil of imported illusion and she carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white carnations and red roses.

Mrs. Forrest Strohm, New Washington, was her cousin's only attendant. She was attired in a French blue organzine taffeta of witz length, fashioned with a portrait neckline, short sleeves, a Dior bodice and a bouffant skirt. A queen's crown of French and powder blue sequins trimmed with a circular veil set off the costume. So did an arrangement of red and white carnations.

JOHN HALE WAS HIS brother's best man. Ushers were Sol Tackett, the bridegroom's cousin, and Forrest Strohm. Nuptial music was by Mrs. William Ross, organist and Mrs. Lewis Petit, soprano.

The bride's grandfather, Councilman-elect Elmer E. Markley, entertained at a reception for 175 guests in the church rooms immediately after the ceremony.

The young couple is now on a wedding trip to Florida. The Hales will occupy the Suttles apartment at 912 Portner street. He is employed by Shelby Sales Book Co.

Her fiancé, a 1950 graduate of Fostoria High school, served in the Air Force and is now enrolled at Bowling Green State university.

CANDLE IN THE NIGHT

Simplest, humblest gleam of light... yet it rolls back the shadows. And striking the new-fallen snow, it casts a dazzling halo upon boughs of pine and holly.

Like a candle in the night Christmas rolls back the shadows of time, and touching the life of man, gives an aura of peace and good will to every day and deed.

It was truly the simplest and humblest event in history, this birth of a child in a stable. But from it shines "the true Light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." And to live in that Light, to reflect it upon the world around us; this is peace and good will.

Like a candle in the night the Church beckons us to the gleam of its ageless Truth. And as we come to live by the Church's teaching, our faith will roll back the shadows for those around us.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Reads Just Like A History Book!

To the experienced eye, the history of the world is locked in rock-That's why these core samples, drilled from deep down in the earth, provide essential clues in the never-ending search for more natural gas.

Science plays a key role in the task of satisfying your ever-increasing requirements for natural gas. Micro-geology and electronics assist in the drilling operation... chemistry helps improve the purity of the product... automation speeds its distribution.

Today, no effort is spared to make certain that a constant supply of dependable, economical natural gas is always available... where you need it, when you need it for better living.

No wonder then that natural gas is the "wonder fuel"... modern and efficient. And it serves you best when you use it with modern, automatic gas appliances.
