Mrs. Fortney's forte shows clever, oh-so-steady hand

A unique hobby which pays off in pocket money for a lovely Plymouth housewife has a special Christmas reference.

Mrs. Robert Fortney, 108 Sandusky street, makes attractive earrings from rickrack cloth. They make unusual Christmas presents, as a number of casual customers here and as far as Florida can testify.

MRS. FORTNEY, THE former Ruth Van Buskirk, can make these thingamabobs while she's watching television, but so far hasn't explained how she avoids double vision.

Because the needwork is so painstaking, so careful, the wonder is she can watch what's on television at all.

The rickrack is sewn first. When the basic design is made, it then has to be glued to ear clasps, which Mrs. Fortney obtains in wholesale lots from — you guessed it — a Florida firm.

"IT'S THE GLUING PART of it," says Mrs. Fortney, "that often causes me trouble. But that's because I happen to have a family. My husband will ask for the screwdriver or Dixie, my daughter, wants to know where the new shoelaces are. I jump up and spoil the glue job."

A market? Summer season seems best for retail sales. Mrs. Fortney avers. "The waitresses in such places as Mansfield and larger cities go for the white ones. I haven't had the time or opportunity to develop the Christmas market."

DON'T TRY TO RUSH TO Mrs. Fortney's spic-and-span kitchen to get that last minute Christmas gift. The Fortneys are in Avon Park, Fla., for the holidays.

But don't conclude the sale of the rickrack thingamabobs profited so much that a trip to Florida could be paid for.

"It could grow that big if I could find a wholesale outlet," Mrs. Fortney insists, "but it's pin money — not Florida money."

A HOBBY THAT PAYS IS a better hobby than one that doesn't, the occupational therapists contend.

Mrs. Robert Fortney is one who will agree.

Survey shows dissatisfaction with action of county school board; sell-out charged

Annexation of Shiloh schools to Plymouth district pleased just about nobody, a survey conducted by The Advertiser showed this week.

Popularity of the Richland county board of education descended to a new low as a result of its latest action.

HOW THE ENLARGED Plymouth district will cope with the expressed sentiment of a majority of its patrons — in the Plymouth district proper: that is — to consolidate with Greenfield, Richmond and New Haven as Huron Valley district was not clear by Saturday. But an informal survey showed that is the sentiment — "and we'll take Shiloh along whether they like it or not," as one outspoken patron put it.

The four districts which comprised the now outlived Huron Valley district met Tuesday night at New Haven and unanimously condemned the action of the Richland county board.

"We were getting along so well, so smoothly, in our consolidation. I can't see," said one veteran board member, "why they didn't go along with what we had already set up."

THE ANSWER TO THIS came, in part, from some Shiloh patrons. There is a fear, they assert, "at higher levels" that Plymouth village, and possibly adjoining territory, may seize upon a school transfer to lay the groundwork for a political realignment into Huron county.

(This move, long a policy of The Advertiser, has often been contemplated. Problem always has been how to obtain a definitive and binding expression of sentiment in favor of annexation to Huron county.)

That some truth can be attached to this observation tends to be borne out by a recent informal negotiation to move a federal office from one county to another. Groundwork to do so, to the benefit of the village because it would secure needed revenue with which to build a village hall, had been laid. When political patronage seemed to be endangered, the beneficiaries thereof saw schemed.

Plymouth school board members took issue with an editorial published Thursday by a Mansfield newspaper.

"Whether it is good or bad for Richland county for this district to remain within its jurisdiction is not the issue," they said. "What we object to is the observation that a new district has been formed with an adequate tax base and revenues with which to go ahead with a building program. We do not believe this is true and we have always so held. There simply is not enough available, uncommitted taxation revenue to sell bonds to pay for a new school."

TAX VALUATION OF THE annexed district would be about $7.5 million. Debt against both systems is such that less than $340,000 would be available for new building, should the electorate vote to bond itself for that much.

It would not be possible to build the space we need for that kind of money," a local board member said.

After the expiration of the remonstrance period, electors in the Plymouth district could undertake an initiative petition to obtain transfer to the Huron county system. Fifty-five per cent of the vote for governor in 1955 could sign the petition to validate it.

If the county board should reject the state board would be seized of it.

Dr. C. O. Butner showed his protest of the move by resigning from the Shiloh board. "Let the opposition run it now," he said.

Huron County Supt. R. W. Brown denounced Richland county's action in the most emphatic terms, declaring that it demonstrated a complete disregard for the best interests of the people in the Shiloh and Plymouth districts as well as those in this county.

"The very method that they employed, annexing Shiloh to Plymouth, instead of merging the two districts into a new unit, means that Richland county has used the same method of achieving its purpose that the Supreme Court criticized in last week's decision," he declared.

"This annexation means that only the citizens of Shiloh will be able to exercise the right of remonstrance while those of Plymouth will have no voice in the matter."

Superintendent Brown condemned Richland county's failure to fulfill its obligation to restore the consolidations as a betrayal of the trust which had been reposed in it.

"I am confident," Supt. M. J. Coon said Saturday, "that Plymouth school district will go into Huron county at the November election. We welcome the Shiloh people to join us in the reestablishment of the Huron Valley district. It will become even stronger than it was before. The procedure will be discussed at the board meeting today. We invite the public to attend."

Vanderpool set to answer charge

Marion Vanderpool, Plymouth route 1, is charged with unsafe operation of his motor vehicle after he struck a utility pole in Route 298 near New Pittsburgh Dec. 15.

Schools lose help as Huron county withdraws teachers

First harvest of seeds sown last week by Richland county school board was reaped Friday in Huron Valley elementary schools.

Supt. M. J. Coon reported Friday that a speech therapist, furnished by the Huron county system to help a double handful of pupils with speech deficiencies, has been withdrawn. These pupils are without trained help. Reason: Richland county system doesn't have any.

Elementary schools also lost a supervisor of instruction. For fewer elementary schools than Richland county, Huron county has two supervisors or inspectors. Richland county has only one.

Warriors lose

Milan's Indians thumped Huron Valley Warriors, 71 to 38, in a Huron-Erie league contest here Friday night.

The Indians jumped off to an early lead, sank 24 of 68 tries from the field, and thoroughly outclassed the local entry. Huron Valley bucketed 16 of 67 shots.

Jerry Colahan scored 27 for the Indians, only 11 less than the entire Warrior quintet. Ray Einsel with 10 was high for the losers.

Ted Fox was held scoreless for the first time in two seasons, as much by a bad eye as by Milan.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

This is about the Shiloh-Plymouth school consolidation.

I am going to ask you to keep my name off this letter, if you print it, because my in-laws live in Shiloh, always have, and I do not want to get into any trouble with them. But I will sign my name so you can see I mean what I say.

Consolidation was in the air and I suppose we had to have it, though why we can't have our own school right here in Plymouth is beyond me. Why can't I send my girl to school in my own town, instead of to New Haven?

She doesn't like the New Haven set-up and I don't blame her. It would have lasted only a little while, though, and then she would be in high school. To get the high school we would have to consolidate, so I did not do anything to turn it down.

But let me tell you something about Shiloh: they are not any good over there. The town owes money, more than it can ever pay. The place is full of Kentuckians and old dyed-in-the-wool people who, don't do anything except squawk and not pay their bills. Greenwich is better off without Shiloh than with it. Shiloh kids drag the schools down. They are nothing but poor relations who have bought their TV, their car, their house and everything else on time, have trouble meeting their payments and are looking for us to help them out.

I never gave the county board a thought before now. But now I will give it a thought and it will not be a good one. They have crammed it down our throat like castor oil. Hitler got started this way. He had it all legal when he started, then crammed it down everybody's throat.

They are thinking only of Shiloh, not of our children. Our children will be worse off for having Shiloh kids in their school. It is bad enough with New Haven (and you can ask the teachers if the New Haven kids don't drag the class level down because their school was no good before.)

Please do not print my name. I can fight the Shiloh and New Haven people but not my in-laws.

Yours truly,
Disgusted

Sir:

I still favor a small school and would consider trying to pay my share but I do not think this would pass if it only took a 10 per cent note.

I would hope that a door-to-door poll would show that 80 per cent of the people are close to agreement.

This would be too big for one person to do. As nothing has been done to follow the instructions given by our Richland County School Board in November 1956, I will make a small attempt.

If enough of the people respond and agree maybe even I will go along with a smile.

Information I receive will be made public.

Very truly yours,

Air Force academy seeks candidates for new plebe class

Applications are now being accepted for nomination to the cadet class that will enter the United States Air Force academy in June. Master Sgt. Jesse T. Richardson of the Air Force recruiting office at Mansfield said today.

Young men who desire to compete for an appointment to this class should apply for a nomination as soon as possible. Since nominating quotas are limited and time is required to process the nominations and schedule testing, the prospective candidate should not delay.

TO MEET THE ELIGIBILITY requirements, applicants must be at least 17 and must not have passed their 22nd birthday by July 1, 1958; be male citizens of the United States; morally and physically fit; between 5 feet 4 inches and 6 feet 4 inches in height, and never have been married.

Each individual who meets the eligibility requirements may apply for a nomination by writing to a U. S. Senator from his state or to the U. S. Representative of his Congressional district. In such a letter the applicant should state briefly his qualifications, place of residence, educational background and reason for wanting to enter the academy.

Each member of Congress may nominate 10 candidates. All the Congressional nominees in each state will then compete for the vacancies allotted to that state. Each of the 48 states is allocated a number of vacancies proportional to its total representation in the Congress.

Members of the regular or reserve components of the Army and Air Force, including the National Guard, who meet the eligibility criteria, may apply for vacancies allotted to the services. They should contact their organization commanders who will require them to complete DD Form 786 and forward it to the Air Force Academy. Information pertaining to the Academy application is contained in Air Force Regulation 53-10 and Army Regulation 350-58.

Vacancies are also allotted to the following: sons of deceased veterans, and sons of members of regular components of all branches of the armed services. Sons of Medal of Honor winners, if otherwise qualified, are admitted without regard to total vacancies. Requests for nomination in those categories should be sent to the Director of Admissions, U. S. Air Force Academy, Denver 8, Colo.

A candidate improves his chances by entering all the categories in which he is eligible. Since selections are made on an order of merit basis from each category, it is not unlikely for a candidate entered in more than one category to rank high enough for selection in one, yet be too low for selection on another. Factors considered in the competitions include the results of a series of aptitude and achievement tests, combined with a survey of preparatory or high school records, and personal evaluations to determine academic achievement and leadership potential.

When he stops being cute

This is his very first New Year. He's celebrating it in his own talented fashion, just being cute.

Last year thousands of boys and girls were arrested as juvenile delinquents. They had all been cute—once!

But did they have the priceless example of active Christian parents? Were they given moral and spiritual training in the Church? Did they grow up in a Christian atmosphere?

This young fellow can't be absolutely sure that the New Year is worth celebrating. His future is in the hands of his parents. But he's smiling because of his confidence in them.

During this New Year their faith in God, and the sincerity of their relationship with the Church will begin to determine just what their son is going to be when he stops being cute.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
