

Mrs. Fogal dies in hospital at 78 after long illness

A lifelong Plymouth resident, Mrs. Celia B. Fogal succumbed to a long illness Friday morning in Willard Municipal hospital, where she was a patient nearly four months.

Born here June 26, 1880, Mrs. Fogal lived at 48 Millie street. She is survived by three daughters, Teresa, at home; Mrs. Clara Frantz, Parma; Mrs. Irene McKinney, Norwalk; two sons, Casper, Parma, and Frank Easterlin, Columbus; five sisters, Sister Angelus, a nun, at Canton; Mrs. Elizabeth Easterlin, Columbus; Mrs. Rena Eickholt, Delphos; Mrs. Marie Marvin, Plymouth, and Mrs. Frances Moore, Tiro.

There are eight grandchildren. The Rev. William Conces, pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, of which Mrs. Fogal was a communicant, conducted last rites Monday at 9:30 a.m. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

The Rosary & Altar society of the church, of which Mrs. Fogal was a member, said the Rosary in the McQuate Funeral home Sunday evening.

South-Central to sue for payment of $45,000 claimed due for Shiloh

Round three in the school battle began this week when Huron County Prosecutor Bernard W. Fireman launched a suit to force Plymouth board of education to pay $46,000 to the South Central district.

Acting under instructions of the South-Central board, Fireman sought the money as payment for Shiloh's share of the cost of educating its pupils while they were a part of the now outlawed Iroquois district.

AND THE PLYMOUTH board, while it hasn't point-blank refused to pay the bill (which, incidentally, it disputes by about $5,000), is acting under the counsel of Richland County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz, who in a letter last week asked the South-Central board to specify under what section of the law it demands payment.

What Lutz is evidently trying to do, Huron county authorities said, is precipitate a suit to determine the legality of the South-Central board as successor to the Iroquois board, and to determine through the courts whether it would be legal for the Plymouth board to pay for expenses incurred by a district that was in itself illegally established.

THE QUESTION OF the legality of the South-Central district was broached first by Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Cleveland bonding attorneys, who inquired into the deposing of one South-Central board member and replacement by another.

That board member served the Iroquois board, The South-Central board, of which he had been a member, continued to meet while the Iroquois board was constituted and discharging effective control of the schools.

WHEN THE BOARD MEMBER didn't appear at the South-Central meetings, which he believed to be unlawful, the latter board deposed him and appointed another.

One question to be determined is whether this was legal. The second, perhaps broader, is whether, if the Iroquois board was illegal — which the state supreme court held it was — a payment to it for services therefore unlawfully discharged would in itself be legal.

Although it was widely understood in Plymouth that a Shiloh group intends to file a taxpayers' suit to recover the full amount if the $40,000 bill is paid without a court order, no evidence of any action on this line could be uncovered by press time.

Ex-resident dies in rest home at 70 after brief illness

A Plymouth native died Saturday morning in Rosemont Nursing home, Mansfield, where she had lived a month.

She was Mrs. Ruth I. Anderson, 70, who lived many years at 571 Fuhrer avenue in the county seat.

Born here Nov. 4, 1887, she was the daughter of Ezra Kochenderfer.

Her son, Donald, was empowered by The Advertiser about 20 years ago.

HE, NOW LIVING IN MINNEAPOLIS, Kan., two daughters, Mrs. Mearl Laterner, Mansfield, and Mrs. Lucy Scherer, Toledo; a sister, Mrs. Maymie Sykes, Detroit, Mich., and a brother, David, survive.

There are four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Last rites were conducted from the McQuate Funeral home Monday at 1:30 p.m. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Anderson was the widow of Bert Anderson, who died several months ago. The Andersons lived in East High street for many years.

Shiloh wins county cage title

The third time, they say, is a charm.

And so it was last week for Shiloh's Lions, who on successive occasions reversed the verdict in four matches with Bellville and Union to win the Richland county basketball championship.

UNDERDOGS IN BOTH games, the Lions came from behind in the first one to whip the Blue Jays, 56 to 53, and made an early lead stand up against Union in the finals, 60 to 57.

It was the first championship for the Lions, who pass out of existence this year, since 1932.

To have waited so long, the Lions were understandably hungry. In the finals, they showed it by holding the vaunted John Wolfe, who'd averaged 20.3 points game all season, to four tries from the floor, no conversions, a total of three points.

IT WAS THIS MANUEVER that whipped Union, And Milford Williams put the contest on ice for the Lions by dumping two free throws in the last seconds.

Matter of fact, six successive charity tosses by the Lions — Poffenbaugh had two, so did Bookwalter, and finally Williams — were what produced the Lion victory. The Union defense was that tight in the final few minutes.

Poffenbaugh had 18, Craig Harnly 14 and Steve Patterson 10 for Coach Harold Daup's outfit.

Poffenbaugh, who was retained on the bench in the Bellville contest for the first 11 minutes, scored 32 for the season. Steve Rhodes had 19 and Dave Wolfe 16 for the Indians, who simply had a bad night. To fail against a team so alert as the Lions is suicidal.

THAT SHILOH WON FROM the free throw line is apparent from the statistics. Each quintet had 53 chances from the floor. Union converted 22 of them, Shiloh only 17.

But Shiloh dumped 26 of 34 tried from the foul line. Union converted only 15 of 32.

It was a real cliff-hanger, right down to the last buzzer.

Tag time!

It's license tag time again, says Royal W. Eckstein, local registrar.

And the white-on-blue 1958 tags will go on sale at his place of business Saturday.

The XJ series will again be available for Plymouth residents.

"If you obtain license tags elsewhere," Mr. Eckstein said, "be sure you make clear the tax district in which you live, whether it's an incorporated village or a township. If you don't, valuable tax revenues will be deprived of your taxing district."

Tuition funds available for all on 15.3 mill levy

Funds sufficient to pay for tuition of high school pupils of Huron Valley school district would be available, the Huron Valley board of education emphatically declared Monday night.

The declaration was in response to a letter directed to the public by several initiators of the annexation-to-Willard petition.

The letter asked patrons of the district not to sign a new petition that would obstruct prompt annexation to Willard.

THE BOARD ADDED figures which showed that with an operating levy of 15.30 mills, which it said was 4.60 mills less than what the figure will be in Willard next year, the board could pay tuition for all of its tuition pupils and have $3,264 remaining.

Apparently the maneuver to place the question of annexation to Willard on the general election ballot is developing keen interest on both sides.

These developments occurred Monday.

1. A total of 172 signatures has been obtained to a petition requesting that signatures to the annexation petition be removed. More could be obtained, but the steering committee doesn't want to reduce signatures to less than 55 per cent. This would open the door for a new petition. The steering committee satisfied to have the matter decided in November.

2. A charge that Richland County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz is engaging in political maneuvering when he insists the Plymouth board of education will encounter a lawsuit if it pays $46,000 to South-Central as Shiloh's share of the outlawed Iroquois district costs. Lutz is a candidate for probate judge. By backing Shiloh interests, it was said, he thus attracts votes. Any move that tends to incite the individualistic tendencies at Shiloh defeats the intent of those who wish to reunite Huron Valley and Plymouth.

In its routine session, the board hired Mrs. W. A. Estridge, Willard rural, to teach history and arithmetic in the junior high school, at $3,360 annually. This will free Supt. Robert Pleunick for supervisory duties.

She is a graduate of Moorhead State Teachers college, Moorhead, Ky.

JOE ROSENBERY ASKED the board to erect a fence between his property and the New Haven elementary center. He was empowered to look into fencing costs.

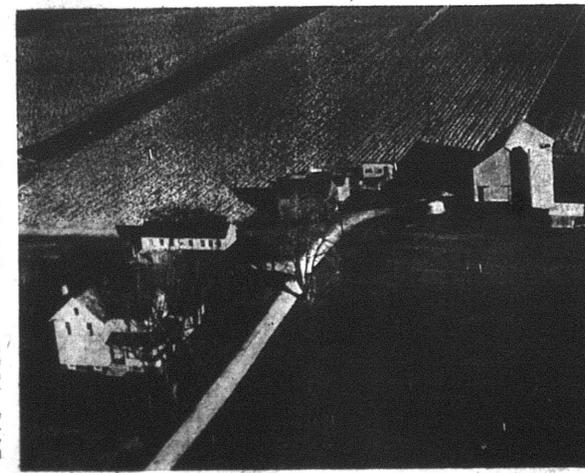

Mrs. Gaylord McCullough participated in her first meeting since her appointment as clerk, succeeding Edward Postema.

Mrs. Anderson honored

A gift to the Twentieth Century circle by her sister, Mrs. Nellie Oates, Shelby, in memory of the late Miss May Fleming has also been handed to the library board.

Whiskey lane got name from broken jug

"A hundred years ago, maybe more," the story goes, some milk and some beef cattle, and some hogs. It was a cold and freezing night. He had with him a jug of whiskey, which he dropped somewhere along the route. It fell in a recess of the wagon and the contents drained into the rut of the wheel.

"He got down to drink it up and that's how he was found, frozen to death. From that day to this, it's been called Whiskey lane."

THIS FANTASTIC STORY out of the past is only part of the remarkable history of the Franklin Swander farm in Hanville Corners road, Fairfield township, 204 acres of well-kept, highly modernized agriculture.

The Swanders have lived on the place 40 years. You'd be hard put to find a more modern, more comfortable farmstead in the county.

To stimulate growth of hay on farms, fair plans hay show

To encourage conservation is Huron county, the board of supervisors of the Huron Soil Conservation district will sponsor the first annual hay show at this year's county fair.

The event will be held in cooperation with the Huron County Fair board.

In conjunction with the hay show, the district also plans to have a conservation exhibit on display.

Plans for the hay show, developed at the recent monthly meeting of the board, tentatively call for the awarding of a total of $52, in prize money, in three separate classes of hay. In addition, a grand champion will be selected for all entries and suitably rewarded.

Lawrence Cawse, chairman of the board, commenting on the plans, noted that for the first time in several years, there is only a small backlog of applications for assistance from the district. He urged anyone with a conservation problem and is interested in help from the district, to stop in at the office in the basement of the Norwalk post office.

CLOVERLEAF SCHOOL board has appointed a 10-member citizen committee to study curricula in half a dozen high schools and in consultation with the present Cloverleaf faculty will submit recommendations for curriculum changes in the new high school.

AIR RIFLE SHOOTERS have been troublesome in Africa. So much so that E. M. Smeltz, police chief, warned that under Ohio law it's illegal for any boy or girl under 17 to shoot such a weapon unless accompanied by an adult.

PETITIONS BEARING THE signatures of 1,218 electors requesting a state board of education of schools of the state were filed with the board by three school districts in Seneca, Wood and Sandusky counties.

Jackson, Sandusky county, Jackson-Liberty, Seneca county, and Livingston, Wood county, were represented at the hearing.

If carried out, the survey would examine present districts and recommend what, if any, changes should be made.

MORE NEW FORDS WERE sold in Richland county during 1957 than any other brand. Ford's outdistanced, by 1,026 to 314, the nearest competitor.

For livestock, they've perhaps 75 head of sheep, some milk and some beef cattle, and some hogs.

IT'S DIFFICULT, SAYS Franklin Swander, but not impossible for a young fellow to get started in farming nowadays.

First essential: "he's got to be dedicated, he's got to want to be a farmer and he's got to work hard at it."

Second essential: "he's got to have some character, because at the beginning his sponsor will be banking more on his character than on his ability to farm. He's got to be a lad of his word, who works hard to keep his credit good, who'll not try to beat his creditor out of his just return."

Third essential: "some hard money, because the first year he'll have to pay money rent. And he'll have to invest in some good if second-hand equipment and machinery."

Fourth essential: "about 200 acres of good land to rent."

FIFTH ESSENTIAL: "AN education that equips him to manage for himself, that has taught him common sense and how to figure out his problems for himself."

The Swanders feel strongly on the education question and make no bones about it to anybody. They feel honestly and sincerely that an education for the modern boy and girl who lives on the farm should prepare him for farm life.

AND IF THE SCHOOL IS too large, "the interests of the farm child are slighted, submerged in the interests of the whole group which may not be of farm origin or nature."

Schools ought to teach more character, more adherence to Biblical truths.

Otherwise juvenile delinquency will increase.

For lessons in how to farm, you could do worse than ask Franklin Swander. He knows how.

DWIGHT CHERRY, practically a next door neighbor, was the first to identify the farm of Franklin Swander in Hanville Corners road, Fairfield township. He can have a quart of ice cream by calling on R. H. Mack, local grocer.

Hey, I Found A Fossil!

That's worth shouting about, young fella!

Those strange patterns in the rock are pages out of the past in Nature's notebook. They tell the story of life as it was, millions of years ago, when huge quantities of natural gas were formed and buried deep beneath the earth's surface.

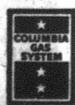

Today, fossils serve as important signposts in man's quest for more reserves of natural gas throughout the entire Appalachian area, for they often provide the clue to new supplies.

The search for this "wonder fuel" continues at an intensive rate, to keep pace with your increasing demands for modern homes and industry. Millions of dollars yearly are spent to discover new reserves, drill new wells, deliver a steady flow of dependable, economical natural gas to you.

These efforts are well repaid because natural gas is the modern, efficient fuel. And it serves you best when you use it with modern, automatic gas appliances.

Let's look into the sewer offer

The all-but-firm offer of the Water Pollution Control board to approve a federal grant-in-aid — with no strings attached — of $100,000 should be the necessary shot in the arm for the long dormant Plymouth sewer system issue.

Less than $40 a family a year for 20 years will pay for the installation and the upkeep of the system, including the sewage treatment plant.

The figures are derived from simple arithmetic. There are roughly 650 water customers. Multiply 650 by $40 for 20 years and you come up with $520,000. Deduct $8,000 — estimated cost of operation of the sewer plant a year — multiplied by 20 years and the result is $360,000 — more than enough to settle $300,000 of bonded indebtedness in 20 years.

The cost of the system is roughly $425,000, based upon estimates by Alden E. Stilson Associates, Columbus, less the recent experience of other communities taking advantage of a depressed construction market and plus the amount by which construction costs have advanced since the last estimate was made.

Deduct from that figure the $100,000 grant and the $25,000-odd already in the sewer service fund and you can see how it can be done.

Now it should be apparent to even the most reluctant that a promise cannot be expected. That is, the Water Pollution Control board figures Plymouth's priority for funds would be high. But it can't now guarantee the money will be available.

The high priority likelihood is based upon the relative high cost per capita ($425,000 divided by 1,510, or $280) to install a sewer system and the relative low ability to pay.

In other words, this is a poor area. People aren't so well off as elsewhere in Ohio.

The two factors taken together, says the WPCB, mean that Plymouth should have a high priority for funds if they become available.

Ike has asked for the funds in his budget. This is an election year. It is unlikely that Congress would rule them out for 1958-59. And in view of unemployment pressures, if the need comes to reduce federal tax revenues by easing up on burdensome taxation, it is unlikely that funds for a make-work would be denied.

But the WPCB offers to guarantee that Plymouth would be informed well in advance of the filing deadline, Aug. 6, 1958, whether the village will receive the grant.

Thus there would be no need to place the question on the ballot if the grant weren't forthcoming.

For these reasons, we urge the village council to investigate the problem thoroughly and immediately.

Since 1954, in part because of conditions beyond the village's control, the number of business houses in Plymouth has decreased. The population is less than what it was in 1954. Like all small towns everywhere, the pressure is being applied against Plymouth as a marketing center.

One sure way to reverse this trend is to install a sewage collection and treatment system. We just might attract an industry that way.

She left him after the fifth operation. "I'm heartily sick," she explained, "of other people constantly opening my male."

Dearest Corinne, Mr. M. is such a wonderful man. Last night he raved about my beauty, my blonde, goldsun hair, my swell figure. Then he invited me to his apartment, where he showed me a closet full of mink coats and let me pick one out for my very own, which I did. You may wonder what I had to do for it. Well, I'll tell you. I had to shorten the sleeves. Lucille.

DEPARTURE OF THE LAKE SHORE line bus service was anticipated. The number of passengers simply wasn't large enough to justify the expense.

And a taxicab service, essayed here several times, probably wouldn't pay either.

Now our friend Doug McQuate says when the weather picks up he'll be glad to press his weird tandem bike into service.

Rates: to Shelby, $2 if you pump, $2.75 if you don't; to Willard, $3 if you pump, $3.75 if you don't. It isn't that Willard's any farther than Shelby, it's just that Doug doesn't know many girls over there.

REF. J. HARRY MCGREGOR'S ANNUAL survey of opinion in the 17th Ohio district doesn't uncover any startling conclusions, but there is much food for thought.

Consider that most folks feel the soil bank program should be dropped, but by the same margin, or nearly so, they're in favor of retaining some form of federal control on farm products.

And nearly everybody disapproves of appropriation of funds by the Congress for the construction of schools, yet it's plain as plain can be that local districts can't cut the mustard.

State authorities have told Richland county educators that Plymouth's chances of receiving state building aid are nil.

That's a point-blank fact. Proof on request.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir: I like winter. I like snow. Do I get a chance to enjoy them? No! We have an inch of snow and WHAMMO! Here comes our ambitious(?) street department with truckloads of filthy, dusty, oily, black, muck which they dump the length of our streets. And in the process, cover everything within a hundred feet of the street with some filthy, dusty, oily, black muck.

It really makes me burn to see that filthy city truck spread that filthy mess over our town. Have you tried cleaning it off your car, your house, your floors or carpets? Well, happy scrubbing to you!

If you ask me, we could use a little less horsepower and a little more horsepower in maintaining safe driving and walking conditions in our town. All the truckloads of cinders (if that is what is being used) won't keep people from falling and breaking bones if our sidewalks aren't kept clean.

When the snow is gone, will we be rid of the mess? Not! What doesn't wash into the catch basins (making another chore for the street department) remains on the streets to be kicked up whenever the wind blows or a car passes. Did you notice our streets after the last snow? Not a pretty sight.

What is wrong with using a few shovels of cinders on the icy spots and letting us enjoy the clean white snow while it lasts?

Yours for slower driving in bad weather, sensible cindering and a cleaner town.

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

Spaniard once said, "It is the part of a wise man not to venture all his eggs in one basket". Translated into everyday kitchen language, this means, there are many ways to cook eggs.

One of our pet dishes is nourishing and easy. Beat as many eggs as needed in a small bowl, add about a spoonful of dried parsley and a small amount of thyme. Beat well with a fork. In a skillet, saute a small amount of finely cut onion. Just as the onion browns (margarine can be used, but butter is better), pour in the eggs, and scramble. Mashed-room pieces added with the onion in the beginning make it even tastier. There are supposedly, according to our favorite magazine, 1,200 ways to scramble eggs. We will try the other 1,199 some other time. I doubt if the local chickens would keep up with us, even if we used only two eggs per recipe to try them out.

the woman's side of it by aunt liz

Men always talk about the "self made man". Women usually remain silent. There aren't so many "self made" females as some of us would like, perhaps.

For years there has been one right under our noses. For years we've been using her face creams, colognes, perfumes, and bath powders. (It isn't Lizzie Arden, either, who has zoomed to fame overnight and not because of her perfumy products).

TODAY OUR LADY IS still young at 80-odd. She runs a business that equals what could be almost mistaken for the national budget. Not all in one country either. You can go almost any place on this globe and find her name among the bottles on the shelf.

Her mother gave her the start by giving her some dozen jars of home-made face cream. She began her career in Australia, where she went from her native Poland. Knowing she would have to know more than the simple ingredients in those first jars, she took up chemistry. Then she opened her first beauty parlor. From there she rose to the top. Now her headquarters is in New York. Mostlly in a 26-room apartment. Now she has earned the right to stay in bed, which she does occasionally; then it is merely an improvised desk.

The secrets of this fairy-tale story are these: keep healthy. Do the things first which you dislike the most.

No wonder we feel old at a rather early age. We don't even do the things we don't like to do. We're spoiled. We then let father do the dishes two or three times a year.

Then we have little tidbits which weigh very heavily upon our sagging shoulders. For years we could reel off the poem, "Twinkle, twinkle little star". Somehow it's a pleasing verse. Almost every child in the world seems to know it in some language or other. Then, we sadly read in a piece of mail, which we should have tossed in the waste basket in the first place, that it is all wrong.

THE STARS DO NOT TWINKLE. We do. Some unramantic scientist has come up with the explanation that we have so many uncontrollable motions of our bodies and eyes that when we look upward at Vega, Sirius, and a few of the other old standbys, their pinpoint light dances (at least that doesn't sound too scientific) over clusters of eye cells. This gives the twinkling effect.

Show House Combines Old and New

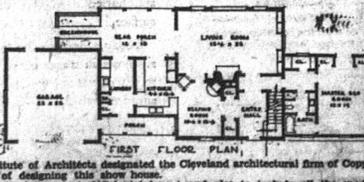

The past and the future will be combined in the design and the furnishings of a large Early American Western Reserve four-bedroom home to be featured in the Homestead section of the 16th annual Cleveland Home and Flower Show at Cleveland Public Hall March 1 through March 9.

This show house, 86-foot wide by 25-foot deep will consist of a two-story section and two one-story wings, with a large porch and a greenhouse on the rear.

The Show Committee of the Cleveland Chapter, American Institute of Architects designated the Cleveland architectural firm of Copper-Wicks and Associates the honor of designing this show house.

The plan was so arranged to simulate a typical Colonial layout and also to include all the modern comforts of today's living.

This show house, sponsored by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, will be built by The Home Builders Association of Greater Cleveland and will be furnished by the interior decorating department of the May Company.

Don't think for a minute that athletes are bereft of brains. Larry Huston, local youngster who's playing forward and center for Ohio State's Buckeyes, is a 4.0 honor student in the college of pharmacy.

This, friends, means he's a straight A scholar in a tough chemistry course.

Customarily, athletes side scholastically while the schedule is being played and rely upon late-semester work to even up the grade average. Not so Larry Huston.

He is, incidentally, president of his class, a member of Phi Delta Theta professional pharmacy fraternity, and works part-time in the state treasury (only five nights weekly, though). Note to high school seniors; kindly do not tell us it's too tough.

DESPITE THE GOOF (which, fortunately, few noticed) he made about the night of the game in last week's issue, the O. T. is receiving kudos for hitting the result of the Shiloh-Bellville game so closely. He missed by two points. Picked the winner, too, match.

The Lions do battle with North Robinson, which has a less pre-ent record, in the first round of the Mansfield sectionals.

Assuming no letdowns, Coach Harold Daup's quintet should acquit itself well enough to cop the bacon and go on to the district.

Aside from Sulphur Springs, Crawford county class A competition isn't up to the level of Richland county this year (although the O. T. has been only two Crawford games) and if Shiloh plays as it can play, we predict the Lions by nine.

SHE WORE A ROYAL BLUE velvet sheath with matching headpiece and shoes and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations with red rosebuds shaped in a heart pattern.

Thomas Rhine, Plymouth, was best man for the bridegroom, son of Don G. Echelbarger, Plymouth route 1, and the late Mrs. Echelbarger.

The bride's mother was attired in a brown wool jersey creation and hee hat and wore a pink carnation corsage.

A reception at the Echelbarger home followed the ceremony. The bridegroom's seven sisters were hostesses.

The three-tiered wedding cake cut by the bride was served by Mrs. Larry Dodd, Shelby. Mrs. Clabaugh registered guests in the bride's book.

A GRADUATE OF PLYMOUTH high school, Mrs. Echelbarger is employed at Wilkins Air Force station.

Mr. Echelbarger is associated with Jump's Clothing store, Plymouth.

He fell ill a day after the ceremony and was admitted to a hospital for treatment of a respiratory infection. This interfered with a honeymoon.

Not My will... but Time!
Christianity does not offer escape from duty. If it did, most of us would never find a seat in Church. The lazy and indifferent would be standing in line hours before we arrived.
Christianity does offer strength of purpose—the spiritual energy that transforms duty into achievement!
God's purpose and the courage to fulfill it—these the Church reveals and imparts.
In this pre-Easter season of Lent the attention of mankind is focused again on the Cross of Christ... on His strength of purpose and all that He suffered for us... on God's Victory for men.
Our churches call us to the Faith which makes difficulty a challenge—dread, a stepping-stone—despair, a memory.
THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Miss Will becomes Mr. Noble's bride

In a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. D. Bruce Young in Shelby's Methodist church Feb. 9 at 3 p.m., Kermit Dean Noble took Miss Carol Jeannette Will as his bride.

Miss Will is a daughter of the Claire F. Wills, Shelby route 2. The bridegroom is the son of William H. Noble, Shiloh route 1, and the late Mrs. Noble.

THE CHANCEL WAS DECORATED with beauty baskets of white gladiolus and pom poms and lighted by candles in seven-branched candelabra for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of crystal satin, fashioned with bodice of Chantilly lace and Empire waistline that came to a point in the back. The lace fell in a cascade from the waistline to a back overskirt.

She wore a veil of French illusion lace attached to a crown of matching lace, trimmed with pearls and rhinestones.

Miss Will carried a white Bible on which were placed white roses. Ivy sprigs were clipped with pearls to the lace and satin streamers.

She wore a necklace and earrings fashioned of onyx and rhinestones, the gift of the bride-son, Wyoming, Ill., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Carolyn Noble, Shiloh, niece of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, Mrs. Wilkinson in princess blue, Miss Noble in cloud blue. Their gowns were fashioned of faille in street length, with matching headpiece of open Juliet design. They carried cascades of pink carnations.

MRS. MERLIN WILKINSON, groom.

Gaye Ann Will, the bride's niece, was flower girl, in sky blue gown with basket of sweetheart roses. Michael Will was ring bearer.

BILLY NOBLE, FOSTORIA, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Two other brother, Kenneth, Crestline, and Howard, Shiloh, ushered. So did Duane and Walter Will, Shelby, the bride's brothers.

A graduate of Shelby High school, the bride is employed by the school principal there. Mr. Noble, recently discharged from the Army, is a graduate of Shiloh High school. He plans to engage in farming in the spring.

A reception for 150 guests followed in the church social rooms. After a brief wedding trip, the Nobles are at home in Armstrong Trailer court, Shelby.
