

School board 'hopes to get along' on $349,000 for next year

Plymouth Board of Education Tuesday night heard Clerk Evan P. LaFollette tick off sums needed to run the school system for the coming year.

It fell down to what it would like $349,000 for 1958-59. What is doled out from county taxes what the board will actually run the school on and hope's enough. In anticipation of coming needs, the board moved a three mill operating levy on the ballot in November. This will bring in an estimated additional $24,000.

THE BUDGET FIGURES INCLUDE this amount in hope the voters will approve the levy. If the levy should fail, steps then will be taken to curb certain extra school activities to keep within monies which are available.

During Thursday's meeting, Supt. M. J. Coon was given a $200 yearly salary raise. In the same motion, his travel allowance was cut from $500 to $400, because of the nearness of the school buildings. He actually collects the exact amounts which he uses for school expense.

Salaries of Wayne Strine, principal, and Harold Daup, Shiloh principal, will remain as they are: $6,630 for Mr. Strine, and $6,515 for Mr. Daup.

DURING THE DISCUSSION of salaries the clerk pointed out teachers in the system received on the average of $150 each in raises, which brought them into line with the salary schedule.

George W. Chesman was appointed head bus driver and a list of his duties as approved. Mr. Coon announced there are openings for two bus drivers. Application may be made to him.

Resignations were read from seven teachers, all of who resigned to accept better paying positions with the exception of Mrs. Norman B. McQuown, who wished to give up full time teaching. She stated in her letter she will be available for substitution work.

A number of vacancies still remain, but Mr. Coon is confident that they will be filled.

Council debates parking issue with same old result: leave as is

A routine session of the village council Tuesday night produced lengthy discussion of condition of streets and enforcement of parking regulations thereon.

When the heat had risen, the council agreed to table such argument as had been advanced.

Ben Root tapped for Order of Arrow

First Plymouth Boy Scout to be tapped for Order of the Arrow, national Scout honorary, Ben Root received that honor at Camp Avery Hang near Mansfield last week.

Young Root, second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. James Root, is serving as a counselor-leader on the camp staff.

Next month, accompanied by Richard Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis, young Root expects to go to Philmont ranch, New Mexico, national Scout reservation, for a two-week party of Scouts drawn from the entire nation.

Severe burns fatal to Mrs. Davis, 36

Thirty-six-year-old Mrs. Dennis Davis, Celeryville, succumbed Thursday at Cleveland clinic to burns which she received in a fire at her home June 26.

Mrs. Davis received the fatal burns, which covered 75 per cent of her body, when gasoline vapors apparently were ignited by a hot water heater while she was doing the family laundry. She was taken immediately to Willard Municipal hospital, and later transferred to the Cleveland hospital in an effort to save her life.

Born and raised in this area, she is survived by her husband, two small sons, Paul and Jeffrey; two daughters, Brenda and Denise; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Postema of Celeryville; two sisters, Mrs. John Danhoff, also of Celeryville, and Mrs. Tom DeVries of Cleveland; and three brothers, Edward, New Haven; John and Henry Postema, also of Celeryville.

Mrs. Fitch, 70, dies in Willard hospital

Ill only three weeks, Mrs. Viola E. Fitch, 70, died in Willard Municipal hospital Saturday at 7:15 p.m.

Born in Granville June 12, 1888, Mrs. Fitch had done practical nursing here. She cared for the late Miss Harriet Poyner.

A daughter, Mrs. Thomas Stephenson, New York City, N. Y., and two sons, Madison, this place, and James, Willard, survive.

There are six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Altar and Rosary society recited the Rosary at the McQuate Funeral home Monday at 8 p.m. The Rev. William Conces, pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic mission, was celebrant of the funeral mass Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. with burial in Greenlawn cemetery.

VILLAGE'S TALLEST TREE — all 94 feet of it — was felled this week at 233 West Broadway by Sarp Kousma, Willard. That's Harry Kilgore in it.

Fun and games department — Search and ye find, say victims of jokes

The laugh, last week, was on Police Chief Robert L. Meiser, who says that an oversight is often the first step to embarrassment.

He was called to New Haven because a "disturbance" was reported in Route 224, east of the school.

When he got there, he found a drunk sitting on his suitcase, astride the center line of the highway.

"I'm just cooling off," the inebriate said. Chief Meiser brought him to the village cooler for this purpose.

HE SEARCHED THE MAN for concealed weapons and finding none threw him into a cell to sober up.

Next day, when Huron County Sheriff Harry Broom called to take the man to county jail at Norwalk, the prisoner still hadn't sobered up.

He bade the officers to wait upon him outside the jail. Meiser's suspicions thus aroused, he went into the cell and turned the cot upside down.

The clank was a bottle of vodka, nearly full.

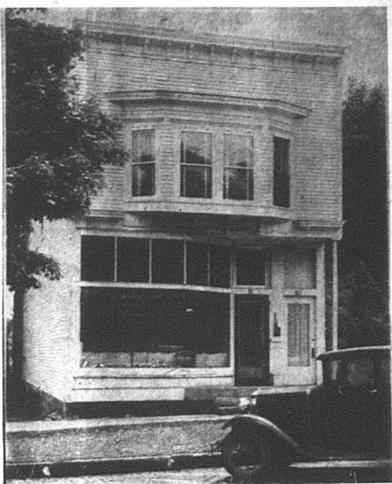

Moral of the story, says Chief Meiser: "Look inside everything a prisoner's got. There might be vodka in it!"

New park table policy set

After Jan. 1, Mary Fite park table reservations may not be made in advance, the park board ruled Monday night.

Reservations which have been made and paid for as of now will be honored, the board said, but the custodian will not accept further reservations.

Whether the table use fee will be raised for next season, the board said, will depend on whether the half-mill levy is approved in November. If it isn't, we will not have table rates.

Wharton site selected for new post office here

First firm step toward a new U. S. Post Office building here was taken last week when the Postmaster General's department announced an option has been taken on the Wharton premises at 29 West Broadway.

By the terms of the option, the owner agrees to sell the property to a bidder approved by the Postmaster General. The structure will then be dismantled and an approved structure erected at the expense of the buyer.

600 pounds of beef to be roasted

Over 600 pounds of beef will be roasted in pits for the 10th annual O. R. Ross, sponsored by Ebert-Parsell Post 437, American Legion, and Plymouth Volunteer Fire department.

Firemen and Legionnaires will begin cooking the meat the night of July 26 at Jacobs' Grove. The pits will be open at noon on July 27.

The Postmaster General agrees to lease space in the building from the buyer.

The structure occupied by Wharton's Sheet Metal shop, lies on a site 148 by 45 feet in size on the Richland county side of the village.

It has no lateral egress. When bids will be advertised and let the Postmaster General's department at Washington, by telephone, said is uncertain as yet. But the work should, it said, be completed by the spring of 1959.

For the all-day family affair, there will be concessions and games, along with special children's rides.

Roy Bright of the PFD, along with Sam Robertson, Kenneth Fox, and Robert Meiser of the Legion will be in charge of the affair. Members of both organizations will be on hand along with the PFD auxiliary to help.

State rushing to complete Route 224 job

Highway construction activity around Lodi is at its greatest peak this summer as the State Highway department races to complete the relocation of Route 224 and the portion of Route 42 which bypass the village.

Final completion date for the entire relocation is August, 1959, according to officials of Division 3 at Ashland. But, they say, effort is being made by the department, and by the contractor, to have the road in service ahead of that date.

Portions of the high-type highway could be in use well ahead of the scheduled finish date. As sections between interchanges are completed, the highway department plans to let local traffic use the new facilities.

WHEN COMPLETED, the new Route 224 will extend to Wadsworth, where it will tie in with the relocation of Route 21. A public hearing this month will determine the line further east through Barberton and plans are in the talking stage for a further extension around Akron, where heavy truck and car traffic from Route 224 is jamming already overcrowded city streets.

The Route 224 relocation is by-passing all cities and larger villages along its entire route. Convenient interchanges are being built to provide access from those cities and villages.

Cost of the nearly 22 miles of new road already under construction is $14,113,283. State and federal governments are sharing expenses. This figure represents less than half the total money being spent on new highways in Medina county as part of the statewide program.

"A large share of this money," Division 3 officials point out, "has stayed in the area as wages paid to workers and as new equipment and material purchases from local industries and businesses."

When the entire Ohio road program is completed, it will be possible for Ludians and other motorists to drive into the new Route 224 and from there to almost any part of the nation without having to stop once for a traffic light, stop sign or other delaying device.

This entire system of freeways will be toll free, saving motorists many dollars on their annual vacation and business trips.

As Gov. C. William O'Neill pointed out when the road building program got under way — "Ohio has never seen anything like this before."

Group to study teacher shortage starts on salaries

To cope with loss of school teachers who are resigning in increasing number to take jobs outside the county at more pay, Huron county board of education has organized a special study committee.

Two members named by the Huron county board, Lyle Smith and Mrs. Helen Woodruff, are in the general pattern of a board member and a private citizen appointed by each board.

Huron Valley has chosen Edward Postema and Ben Van Zoest. South Central appointed Phillip Lewis and William Gilford.

Revision of the county salary schedule is the first field activity for the committee.

Goodbye, Shermey, old pal

Governor Clement, the Tennessee firebrand, submitted to questioning on a nation-wide radio network Sunday night and said a lot of things with which we don't agree.

But there was one statement he made with which we are in complete accord. It is that Sherman Adams has outlived his usefulness to the administration.

Without judging the innocence or guilt of the former New Hampshire chief executive, it occurs to us that

We gotta paint the bathroom

Little Billy O'Neill has sent us a formal invitation to break bread with him in the gubernatorial mansion at Bexley tomorrow night.

Much as we appreciate the gesture, we are compelled to decline.

For one thing, we've got to paint the bathroom. Grandma will be here shortly, and the Little Woman says the bathroom must be painted.

But for another, we're a little chary of what might be said of us if we were to take the governor's handouts. A solid Republican caught hell because he took a vicuna coat. A less-than-solid Republican, which we confess we are, sometimes, might catch it because he took a free meal. Particularly if the Democrats win in November.

And the way things are going, there is every chance that might just happen.

If the "right-to-work" amendment (the quotes are ours, because we think it's a misnomer) is placed on the ballot, there will be a slew of labor votes at the polls that wouldn't ordinarily be there in an off-year that, we feel certain, will be cast for the Democrat.

the suspicion of scandal which attaches to Mr. Adams is sufficient to make him a burden to the president.

He is certainly a burden to the Republican party, which is hard put to hold its own as it is.

Here's one prediction that we'll stand by: Adams will be out of the White House by September.

The howl from the hustings is too loud — and, in our small view, too valid — to permit him to remain on the payroll.

The hassle at Apple Creek state hospital, which the GOP administration now intends to convert into a 100-per cent place for the mentally undeveloped, as distinguished from the deranged, will, we think, cost the Governor valuable support in popular counties.

Here's how it works. In Ohio, the citizenry elects its judges, from the lowest court to the highest. These judges have a substantial political following. When the judges are displeased — and they certainly are in the case of Apple Creek, because they won't have a close-at-hand place to refer mentally deranged customers of the courts — their displeasure tends to rub off on their political coteries.

So, playing it cozy, we're going to paint the bathroom tomorrow.

Besides, it occurs to us as somewhat strange that the governor feels he can't hold an audience unless he feeds it first. If he's got something to say, and it's worth saying, let him say it, loud and clear.

We'll hear it.

The Square

By Phineas Whittleseed

Some newspaper friends of ours have compiled a list of the advice, criticism and complaints that plague the life of the average weekly newspaper publisher. Here are just a few of them.

"My name was spelled wrong in last week's paper. If you can't do better than that, you ran stop sending it."

"If you're going to keep filling up your newspaper with stuff about Jones (usually the fellow running a competing grocery store down the street), you're going to lose my advertising."

"When you print this story about my daughter's wedding, use it just like it's written. It's exactly right, so don't change a word."

"Say, Bill, how about keeping that item about me getting arrested for speeding out of the paper? It's not much news to anyone." (This usually from a leading merchant in town).

"I hate farm news. Why clutter up a paper with that stuff?"

"I think your farm page is good, but there's not enough of it."

"If I couldn't write an editorial any better than you do, I wouldn't have any at all."

"Why don't you ever publish poetry?"

(To operator running the Linotype) "Where does the newspaper come out?"

Specialists are of many types, but specialists who deal in columns for newspapers fall in several categories.

You have the "hot off the wire" type like Walter. He can get away with it, because he has a huge city in which to hide. In a smaller community, that type of a column would not be so newsworthy, because by the time the paper is published everyone knows it.

From that form, you progress to the type that Dorothy turns out. In principle, it is the same, but on a little higher level. My candid opinion is that she likes to keep her friends, so her news flashes are slightly tamer.

THE LARGEST BULK OF columns which appear in the daily papers deal with politics. Starting at the top, you have Walter Lippman, who I think is the best of the bunch. He has been around a long time, and has an uncanny faculty of sitting back, analyzing the problem, and hitting it right smack in the middle. Then come the Alsops. Give them another 10 years and they will be as good as Lippman. From there, we go to Drew Pearson. He is another hot flash news type, but so far he seems to be more on the right side than the wrong.

That's just about where my reading stops when it comes to such things. There are many others, and they are interesting. They sit on this side of the fence or that, so you can take your choice of a side.

Using all of these as little guide posts, where does the poor local columnist begin? A column should divert, I have been told. So we can tell a joke which we think is hilariously funny. It is about a teacher who slowly and painfully described Noah and his ark to a class of very young ones. At the end she asked the children what they thought Noah did all those days of the flood. No all those days of the flood. So, patiently, she said he might have fished a little since there was so much water around. That brought forth a response from the fourth seat in the second row in a tone of contempt, "With only two worms!"

A COLUMN SHOULD ALSO inform its readers. So, did you know that the queer looking sack is on the way out? More shirt-wasts are being shown for fall wear. In a way this is a tribute to Maurice Rentner, the American dress designer, who is credited with the modern version of the shirtwaist. He died last week.

A column should also suggest. Be sure to read the article by Stewart Alsop on Richard Nixon in last week's Saturday Evening Post. It should be read by everyone, even if you belong to the Prohibitionist party.

Last, and best of all, the thing all columnists strive for is the privilege of preaching. Unfortunately, not many like it, but it must be done at times. The time has come. Our country and the whole damned world is in a very sorry state of affairs at this minute. We can't do too much as individuals to recoup what we have lost in the last year. It was bad enough to have the sputniks and then sit back and say we still lead the world. Now the world is laughing at us and at the fracas in Washington. It is embarrassing and horrible. Little countries like Cuba and East Germany can kidnap Americans as they wish. They wouldn't have done that two years ago. They would not have dared.

AND WHAT CAN WE DO? It is simple. Get off our dead duffs and get things done as we have in the past. Start teaching our children what this country means. If it's not too late, maybe we can educate a generation who can do better than this one has.

LET'S EXPLORE OHIO "Crossroad of History"

Many thousands of Ohio's young men passed through Camp Dennison, east of Cincinnati, on the way to the various battlefields of the Civil War. Camp Dennison was established in 1861, sixteen miles out from Cincinnati on the Little Miami Railroad, and became the great rendezvous for Ohio in the war.

This stone house, built by Christian Waldschmidt in 1864, was the headquarters for General Joshua Slocum, commanding officer of Camp Dennison during the Civil War.

Today it is a point of historic interest, maintained by the Ohio Society Daughters of the American Revolution. This area is visited by many motorists each year who travel a S. Route 80 by-pass north of the city of Millford. The country today looks much as it did at the time when the valley was covered by barracks, parade grounds and rail sidings for housing, training and transporting Union troops.

MOTOR TRIPS WITH DOGS

By Bob Bartos
Prominent Dog Authority

If your vacation this year takes the form of a motor trip, why not take the dog along? He'll probably enjoy every minute of it — and think of all he'll have to brag about to his pooch pals when he gets home.

If you do take him, be prepared to provide for his comfort, health and safety. Be sure he's wearing an identification tag with your name, address and phone number; also his license, in case he strays. See that he doesn't hang his head out the car window. It irritates his eyes. In very hot weather, wet a large bath towel when you stop for gas and spread it out on the back seat. You may have to force him down at first. But once he learns how nice and cool it is, he'll happily stay put. The cold water and evaporation lower the temperature and help keep him cool, thus preventing heat prostration. Keep a large-mouthed jar filled with water, from which he can drink directly.

Never leave your dog in a closed or partially closed car in warm weather. When the sun beats down on the roof of a standing car, the interior heats up rapidly even though windows may be open an inch or so. Fresh oxygen-laden air cannot enter, and the dog suffocates. It has been known to happen on humid days when the sun is hidden by clouds.

You should have your dog's pillow or blanket along for sleeping. If he's a youngster or not too well trained, you should have a traveling case or crate in which he can be confined at stopovers.

Feeding Tip: When motoring with a dog, it's simpler to feed a quality-prepared dog food such as Friskies in canned, biscuit or cube form.

The first several units to be constructed, the new building is located in Cleveland's University Circle area which now represents a higher concentration of a city's medical and cultural resources than in any other city of the world. The museum formerly occupied two mansions in Euclid avenue. Six large paintings at lower left show the geological evolution of the earth. Millie the mammoth at the right is one of the attractions at the new museum and a favorite of the children.

Carters entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kitchin of Lakewood visited with Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Carter family on Sunday.

Suzie sez

If you want to go on a picnic, look on the new highway map and find a nice roadside park. Village parks are nice, too, but a change is often good for you. Sunday we went to a roadside park near Upper Sandusky that had nice tables, fireplaces and shade. Also there was a little brown house which is necessary after a long car ride. For me, anyway. Clean, too.

I HAVE A NEW JOKE BOOK from the library. One thing I found in it is so cute:

Sugar is sweet,
Coal is black,
Do me a favor,
Go sit on a tack.

I ALSO LEARNED THE words to "Clementine". It is an old funny song which Mom and Pop know other words to. They say I am too young to hear them.

At Scout day camp, we learned another song which is not in the Brownie song book. It starts out "The worms crawl in, the worms crawl out." My friend Dougie McQuate will sing it all for you, but it will cost you a coke.

THE DUMB GINK GOT A new badminton set for his birthday, a whole month early. Mom said she gave it to him for "diplomatic reasons". Our neighbors have one, and he was using theirs so much they couldn't play with it.

Pop says a badminton bird is kind of like a community problem — you bat the heck out of it but it doesn't go anywhere.

Here...
you'll find a Faith
to live by...

It's quiet inside. Quiet with the peace of centuries, for this is God's House.

Within these walls, the worries which loomed so large outside become less fearsome... for the first time perhaps you see them in their true perspective. If this alone were the reward of Faith, it would be enough. But there is more.

Faith is a source of strength, a reservoir of power that helps you meet the needs of every day. By worshipping with your family each week at your church or synagogue, you're giving them a measure of security no amount of money could buy. The Faith to hope... to grow... to live by.

Give them a Faith to live by

Worship with them this week

THIS PEACEFUL, mid-seventeenth century scene lives again in Greenfield Village, the 200-acre outdoor museum of Americana in Dearborn, Mich., created by the late Henry Ford. This windmill, once a landmark in Cape Cod, Mass., generally is believed to be the oldest existing one in the United States. Coming to America with the Pilgrims, windmills were used chiefly to grind grain. Nearly a million persons annually visit the Village and its indoor counterpart, Henry Ford Museum.
