Lofland estate said worth $65,000

Bond of $130,000 was required by Huron county probate court in issuing letters testamentary to James C. Davis as executor of the estate of Carl M. Lofland.

(This indicates the value of the estate to be $65,000 since bond usually amounts to twice the value of the estate.)

'More and more is readin' less' cry of public library

Circulation of volumes loaned in 1958 by Plymouth branch library advanced 3.98 per cent over 1957, Mrs. Harold Shaffer reported Monday, but it is plain folks are reading less and less more and more.

Were it not for a 17 per cent increase in the circulation of the "junior easies" — light reading of a non-taxing character for the first through third graders, and a nine per cent boost in adult non-fiction, it was evident that young and old alike are relying more and more upon television for their entertainment.

TOTAL ADULT CIRCULATION in 1958 was 3,858. Juvenile circulation was 6,423, while the figure was 5,237 in the "junior easies".

A total of 2,337 volumes of adult fiction was taken out of the library in 1958, Mrs. Shaffer reported. In 1957 the figure was 2,401.

Adult non-fiction amounted in 1958 to 1,521 borrowings, as compared with 1,396 the year before.

Juvenile fiction borrowings in 1958 were 3,314, in 1957 3,443. Juvenile non-fiction circulation in 1958 was 3,109, in 1957 3,227.

BIGGEST MONTH, LIBRARY—volume wise? April, with 1,509 loans. Lowest month? December, only 877.

Rule of thumb, says Mrs. Shaffer, from her observation point at the desk: adults and juveniles read more in May, June, July and August. "Junior easies" circulation remains more or less constant throughout the year.

Except for December. Comes Christmas and the bottom, says Mrs. Shaffer, "falls out of everything, adults, juveniles" — the whole works.

New post office site changed to Enderbys'

The U. S. Post Office will be located in a new building at 27 Plymouth street, adjoining First Presbyterian church.

Postmaster Raymond L. Brooks was informed Saturday of the decision of the postal authorities to receive bids on a parcel of land measuring 46 x 175 feet and construction to the department's specifications of a brick-faced building measuring 93 x 42 feet, which will be leased for 10 years at a firm rental price, with two options to renew after five years.

WHAT ALL THIS MEANS

is: Solvent contractors of good repute will be asked to file bids until the close of business Feb. 20 by which they undertake to purchase from William C. and Doris Enderby the parcel of land in question and to erect upon it the building and appurtenances prescribed by the postal authorities.

The postal department will pay rent to the successful builder over a period of 10 years. He will be given two options to renew the rental agreement after five years.

The building will be taxed at half its cost, as any other new construction in the village, and its value becomes a part of the tax duplicate.

THE ENDERBYS WILL BE expected to remove the south wing of their house at their own expense, the price exacted for the land parcel to indemnify them for these pains.

The new post office building would come within four feet of the lot line of the Enderby property.

The Wharton property at 29 West Broadway, upon which option had been taken, was discarded after considerable debate because it was too small for the purposes intended and access from the rear could not be obtained.

The Plymouth street site as now chosen will afford access from the alley which runs between Trux street and Mills avenue south to East High street.

The Enderbys bought the property from the estate of the late Cornelia Bevier Johns.

Mrs. D. G. Cunningham is a patient in Willard Municipal hospital, where she underwent abdominal surgery Friday morning.

IMPOSED LINE shows part of old Johns house, now owned by William and Doris Enderby, that would go when new post office is erected to within four feet of dotted line.

Rules of Lincoln day contests

Here're the details of the Lincoln day contests open to public school pupils of grades 1-12, inclusive:

1. Junior high and high schoolers will prepare an essay of not more than 250 words, on "What Would Lincoln Do in Plymouth Today?" Essays must be written on one side of the paper only. They must be in the hands of the judges by 4 p. m. Feb. 6.

2. Elementary pupils will prepare a pen-and-ink or pencil drawing of some person, place or thing of the Lincoln era. The drawing may not measure larger than six by six inches on supple white paper. Primary pupils — those in the first through third grades — will be judged separately from other elementary pupils.

All entries are voluntary, but may be assigned by teachers as a classroom project. Awards will be decided on the basis of originality, depth of thought or conception in relation to the entrant's age, and adherence to the theme of the contest.

Judges will be Mrs. Harold Shaffer, librarian, the Rev. Thomas S. Taylor and Supt. M. J. Coon.

Prizes, to be announced in next week's issue of The Advertiser, go to the first three in each class.

$500 Gee report fails to excite school board

The board of education got a look Jan. 14 at the report of the Plymouth schools cost the Richland county school board $500.

Nobody was impressed. Not, at least, $500 worth.

The report, prepared by Prof. John E. Gee, dean of the college of education at Bowling Green State university, recommends:

1. No change in the present vertical organization of kindergarten, first six grades, two junior grades and four high school grades operating as separate units.

2. School plant rehabilitation and furniture replacement should be undertaken.

3. Present Plymouth High school should be converted to a junior high school for seventh and eighth grade pupils only. The industrial arts, home economics, music and fine arts facilities need to be expanded and improved. The boy's locker and shower rooms should be remodelled. A girls' locker and shower room should be installed. Teachers' rest room, administrative and clinic facilities should be improved. Flooring in several areas needs repair. Interior redecoration and exterior painting of trim are required.

4. A new senior high school center should be established on a site of 15-20 acres east of Plymouth "in the general vicinity of the center of population between Shiloh and Plymouth". Professor Gee recommends a minimum standard school containing 35,400 square feet of floor space, of which only 7,150 square feet would be given over to instructional space.

GEE ESTIMATES THE cost of such a program at $760,000, thus: high school to house 325 pupils, $675,000; cost of site and landscaping, $35,000; sewage plant and water, $25,000; rehabilitation of existing buildings, $25,000.

The district could raise, he points out, only $530,000 by bonding itself to the maximum nine per cent of indebtedness. The balance would need to come from state funds.

One school board member, who insisted upon anonymity, said, "The report doesn't have anything in it we didn't know before. We might better have used the $500 for some of our ills than to spend it for a report that doesn't tell us anything we don't already know."

ANOTHER SAID HE WONDERS if the rehabilitation envisaged in Professor Gee's report can be accomplished for as little as $25,000. His own estimate was nearer $75,000.

Richland County Supt. Dale Kinney attended the meeting and urged the board to place a special bond issue on the ballot.

There was no enthusiasm for this move. The board pointed out that a required number of steps — in the neighborhood of 35 — is necessary to bring a bond issue to a vote. It is premature to think of placing the issue on the ballot now.

If a bond issue is voted in the May primaries, it would require a 55 per cent majority to be approved.

In any case, the questions of design of the building and its location haven't been decided, the board pointed out, and in view of strained feelings in the past, it might be wise to make haste slowly.

Evon P. LaFollette was appointed clerk for one year at $1,800 annually. He was instructed to ask the state highway department to improve Route 178 between Shiloh and Plymouth, described as dangerous for school buses because it has a high crown, a reverse-slope curve and is winding.

Fackler, Ream take on Richards feed dealership

Plymouth's newest business — the marketing of prepared feed coupled with a counseling service — opens its doors formally Saturday at 10 a. m.

Richard Fackler, teller in Peoples National bank, and Quentin Ream, an employee of Wilkins AF depot, have formed a partnership to sell Richards feeds.

"This firm, with headquarters at Cortland, has been in business a good many years. It manufactures a specially mixed feed for the several forms of livestock, each one engineered to provide for that animal the necessary foods and food supplements it requires to grow fastest and strongest," the proprietors announced Tuesday.

"And the Richard people have an additional service that should make their product the more attractive: they will furnish expert counseling service to any farmer who seeks it, at no charge. For example, hens that moult overmuch, or lambs that do not grow fast enough. All the farmer need do is let us know his problem and a skilled man in that line will be Johnny-on-the-spot to consult with him and help him work it out."

The business will be headquartered in the Fackler barn, where Richard Fackler has carried on the fur business of his late father, Henry H. Fackler, in Mills avenue.

WHILE OTHERS WENT BELLIFLOP, Ronnie Combs, 12, 26 Trux street, earned a pretty penny with his snow shovel.

George Whaitman, Bertene's father, dies of long illness

Mr. Whatman, in failing health for some time was a retired farmer. He is also survived by his wife, Vernice, two sisters, Mrs. Hazel Noble of Plymouth and Mrs. Emma Lutz of Shiloh, and a brother, Charles, Plymouth route 1.

Last rites were conducted Friday afternoon by the Rev. Robert F. Hall, First Evangelical Lutheran church, at the Bender Funeral home in Greenwich. Burial was in Edwards Grove cemetery.

Social security benefits go up by 25 cents per $100 check

If you're covered by social security, it's costing you more. As of Jan. 1, an increase of 25 cents on each $100 of earnings has been applied.

For the first time, annual earnings of up to $4,800 will be subject to the social security tax and credited toward social security benefits. Until now, only the first $4,200 of earnings in a year has been taxed and counted toward the amount of benefits payable to a worker or his family.

If you are one of the 75 million Americans whose work is covered by social security, you paying from now on a social security tax of 2.5 percent on the first $4,800 of your earnings. Your employer will match this tax with an equal amount out of his own pocket.

The tax in 1958 was 2.25 per cent for the employee and for employer on wages up to $4,200. The new tax rate applies to wages paid in 1959, even if the wages are paid for work done in 1958. Increased benefit checks to the 12.5 million men, women, and children now receiving monthly old-age, survivors, or disability insurance benefits also started Jan. 1. Effective with the checks delivered early in February, retired workers will get an increase of about seven percent — some slightly more, some slightly less. Some 106 checks are mailed to Plymouth addressees each month.

RETIRED WORKERS' payments now range from $30 (except for women who retired when they were between 62 and 65) to $108.50. Beginning with benefit payments for January, the minimum retirement payment for those now on the benefit rolls will be raised from $30 to $33. The maximum will be $116. For those who become eligible for benefits in the future, payments may be as high as $127 (as a result of counting earnings of up to $4,800 in years after 1958).

Payments to those receiving benefits as dependents and survivors will also be increased by about seven percent effective with the checks mailed in February. But where several members of one family are getting payments, each person may not get a full seven percent increase in his individual benefit amount.

The maximum payment to a family group, heretofore limited to $200, may now be as high as $254.

Boating fraternity likes numbering, dislikes licensing

Will Ohio's Legislature approve a bill calling for licensing of outboard motors? Will the state enact its own version of the Bonner bill, otherwise known as the Federal Boating act?

These questions have Plymouth's growing colony of boating enthusiasts pondering the arguments for and against such legislation while the ice is a foot thick on Lake Erie and their boats are hauled up.

THE FEDERAL BOATING act, introduced by Rep. Bonner of North Carolina and rushed to passage in the last Congress, provides that all boats of 65 feet length and less, having propulsion of 10 HP or greater, shall bear a federal number.

The several states may enact similar legislation, perhaps along the lines of the uniform state act which is incorporated in the Bonner bill. If they do not, the federal government assumes jurisdiction and enforces the provisions of the act through the Coast Guard.

How much the boating fraternity has grown since the end of Korean Conflict is shown by recent figures: 6.5 million boat owners in the United States at the end of 1958, equivalent to 17 per cent of all American families. This amounts to one boat for each seven families.

New outboard motors sold in 1958: 366,000. Default on loans to buy small boats, in 1958: less than a thousandth of a per cent.

SENTIMENT LOCALLY, from Elton Robertson and his 21 foot cruiser down to Ralph Hunt and his 14-footer, is general strong for the numbering system — "anything that helps control the traffic of boats and gives the boat owner some protection" — but strongly against any system to register or license motors.

Part of the feeling derives from the peculiar status of fishing in this section. Basically, the fish sought for are food fish rather than game fish. And their seekers are fishing more for the pot than for sport, although they derive a substantial amount of fun with rod and reel. But fun is not necessarily sport.

Suzie sez

Pop has been talking to a man in Detroit about a new idea that he (Pop, that is) thinks will make money hand over fist.

It's the selling of phonograph records of nothing but silence.

"Think," says Pop, "of the advantages. A man can go in to a restaurant filled with high school kids at lunch time and for three minutes he can buy three minutes of silence. All he has to do is put the dime in the juke box and this record comes on, with nothing but pure silence on it. It will improve his digestion and help the restaurant sell more food."

Pop says he'd buy several different ones for our house, too. "Then I could sneak it in between 'My Red River Valley' and 'The Purple People Eater' and enjoy the evening paper."

And I wouldn't like that. The next question is, are they going to make these silent records in stereophonic? If they aren't, I keep telling Pop, they won't sell.

And after you've got silence, what other kind of noislessness can you get?

POP SAYS THE DOOR IS always open to the boy or girl who does something well differently from anybody else.

He told me this story about Toscanini, the orchestra leader. He was very nearsighted and it was hard for him to see the notes of his music when he played his cello. So he memorized the whole sheet of music. Then he learned by heart all the parts for the other instruments in the orchestra.

One night in Parma, Italy, the conductor of the orchestra did not come because he was ill at the last minute. No one knew that Toscanini had memorized the music for the whole thing.

But his friends suggested he lead the orchestra. So he stepped up in front of the orchestra. He was only 19 years old. In those days it was not common for a young man to be so forward.

He took up the baton, closed the conductor's book, and led the entire performance from memory.

This brought down the house. The other players in the orchestra tapped on their music stands with their instruments, which is the way they have of saying "well done!"

Toscanini never played his cello in public again. He became a conductor and spent 50 years at the job.

This story, Pop says, shows what you can do if you put your mind to it.

Cornell says 'Nuts'

A former Plymouth resident is a key figure in proceedings in an Indiana court by which the dismissed manager of a credit union seeks to force news reporters to reveal their sources.

He is Weldon M. Cornell, 48, president of the Noble-DeKalb Broadcasting Co., operators of Station WAWK, Kendallville, Ind.

Arnold G. Hobbs, deposed manager of the credit union, filed for a writ of habeas corpus in Noble Circuit court, seeking freedom on a charge that funds were missing from the credit union.

Cornell and other news reporters have repeatedly published information suggesting the shortages may be as much as $2 million. But they refuse to disclose their sources.

Indiana, like Ohio, is a state which guarantees a legitimate reporter the secrecy of his sources.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

Three Faces of Crippling—and One of Hope

THE FACE OF BIRTH DEFECTS: This is wistful Richard Farmer, 9, of New York City, who was born with an open spine. He represents some 250,000 U. S. youngsters who are annually born malformed.

THE FACE OF ARTHRITIS: Cheerful Gwen Burdick, 7, of Cleveland, Ohio, has already undergone four years of intensive therapy for rheumatoid arthritis. With her is Nurse Nancy Holland.

THE FACE OF POLIO: This is 6-year-old Andrew Lange of Compton, Calif., whose braced legs are vivid reminders that polio is still a problem to meet.

Andrew, Gwen and Richard are three bright youngsters you won't find riding bicycles in front of your house. You won't find them climbing trees or playing ball in the corner lot. More likely you will find them in hospitals.

When you look into their faces, the three faces of crippling, you know your support for the March of Dimes now is more urgent than ever. Together they symbolize why the National Foundation has undertaken a new, expanded health program. Medical care and rehabilitation can help them. But the great promise is medical scientific research.

developed stiffness of the neck. She had trouble moving her knees and hips. Diagnosis: rheumatoid arthritis. In a Cleveland hospital she was in traction for weeks, then in a plaster cast. For eight months she had to wear braces 24 hours a day, then at night only for another six months. When her mother first heard she had rheumatoid arthritis, she exclaimed: "What? in a child?"

Statistics show that about 16,000 child victims are likely to seek treatment in any given year for rheumatoid arthritis and Still's disease. The National Foundation plans to offer March of Dimes assistance to patients through 18 and will push research that will be meaningful to sufferers of all ages.

POLIO

Andrew Lange is six. He has been a patient in the March of Dimes-supported Rancho Los Amigos Respiratory Center in Downey, Calif. He symbolizes the crippling that polio holds in store for many of its victims.

During the past few years polio incidence has declined sharply, thanks to Salk vaccine. But what about Andrew? Modern rehabilitation can help restore something of his birthright to health. During 1958 about 50,000 polio victims received this kind of aid from the March of Dimes totaling $18,900,000. Such aid will continue in 1959.

Andrew needed and received the attention that special medical skills can give. These skills are now being applied to aid in the solution of other crippling diseases.

ARTHRITIS

The face of arthritis doesn't always show. The symptoms come and go for some; but when they are present the pain is great. Gwen Burdick, seven, dark-haired, has always been an independent little girl. She doesn't want anyone to do things for her. That spells courage. She's got lots of it. When Gwen was three years old she

BIRTH DEFECTS

Richard Farmer is only nine, but he has been admitted 12 times for treatment in the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation in New York City. The institute receives financial grants from the March of Dimes for various phases of its work.

Richard has birth defects that affect the spine and the head, which go by the medical terms of spina bifida and hydrocephalus. He has had four operations. Now he can walk with the aid of braces and crutches.

Statistics show that each year some 250,000 American infants with some form of birth defect (congenital malformation) come into the world. The National Foundation has pledged patient aid to victims through 18 with birth defects involving the central nervous system, such as spina bifida, hydrocephalus and encephalocoele.

Half of these cases are believed to be hereditary; half may be due to injury or infections affecting the embryo in early pregnancy. Research offers the only real hope for a solution, all-out research of the kind that produced the Salk vaccine in less than 20 years. Medical scientific research is the core of the National Foundation's new and expanded program.

THE HOPE

The research program financed by the March of Dimes covers the problems of polio, arthritis, birth defects, and basic research in various diseases and disorders of the central nervous system. As new leads are discovered, they will be pursued with vigor. The underlying aim of the new program is the improvement of man's health. The speed with which the program develops depends in large part on results of the 1959 March of Dimes.

Referee gets conducted tour to village line as Plymouth loses

How risky it is to commit undeveloped reserves, long a precept of armed warfare, was demonstrated in Plymouth High school gymnasium Friday night when Union upset County league contest that ended in a near riot.

The final score, 65 to 55, no sooner had been posted than angry spectators swarmed on to the floor to berate an official whose decisions infuriated them.

IT ALL BEGAN IN THE third period when Milford Williams, the playmaker of the Big Red, was ousted. He was adjudged to have deliberately fouled a Union player in such a manner as to indicate malice. He was sent to the bench and off the floor.

By this time the usual Union rough-house style of play by which the visitors endeavored to use their power to wear down the Plymouth quintet, had begun to assert itself.

No sooner had Williams left than Union spurted. No substitutes summoned by Coach Harold Daup could stem the tide Union in the fourth quarter, when the visitors scored 21 points, and by the final whistle these factors were evident:

1. Four Plymouth players were sent off the floor for too many fouls.
 2. Each team had 23 field goals.
 3. Union sank 10 more free throws than Plymouth, in part because it had more opportunities, in part because of better accuracy.
- The official is said to have been told he's through as a hiring of the Plymouth athletic department. Others claim he said he is through—"period, I'll never work another game!"

In any case, to prevent fans from venting their wrath outside the gymnasium, veteran Councilman Elmer E. Markley, a faithful fan of the Big Red, ordered a police escort for the accused. He said he did so because "the village council promised it would see to it that law and order are maintained, and since there was some thought it might not be, I ordered the police to furnish him an escort. That way there was sure to be no trouble."

PLYMOUTH PLAYS BUTLER, winless so far, on the Bulldogs' floor tomorrow.

This should afford Coach Daup an opportunity to develop his reserves. Marvin Cok can certainly be counted upon to come along. So can Jim Russell. It is hoped Bill Strine will find himself.

Daup has made a number of changes in the official travelling squad since one season started. Earl Lynch dropped the sport. Dick Palmer was sent to the jay-vee squad.

With tournament time only a month off, Daup needs to teach his green hands to comport themselves under fire. With five "sick sisters" on the schedule, he ought to have plenty of opportunity.

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

An old hand from South Bend, Ind., who ought to know, tells the O. T. that Notre Dame fired Terry Brennan for one reason only—pressure of New York "alumni" to win more.

Young Brennan was hired from Mt. Carmel High school in Chicago, after winning a couple of Chicago championships, at the tender age of 27. He was a star in the Irish backfield during his undergraduate days, and had done well as coach, scholar and citizen.

That Notre Dame hired him in the first place suggests, our friend points out, that the Frank Leahy clique had more influence than was proper. Leahy's tenure had fallen under some fire; his backers, and they are legion, figured that a young, inexperienced coach wouldn't do so well, therefore Leahy's work would seem superior by comparison.

Brennan did all right, save for one season when the bottom dropped out, but not enough to please the "alumni"—most of whom not only don't have an ND degree but never attended a class under the golden dome.

No, Father Hesburgh, we can't buy your malarkey. Brennan's only fault was that he didn't win 'em ALL.

And such respect as we had for ND, pitiful little, we'll confess, has dropped even lower.

FRIDAY'S CONTEST WITH Union illustrated how important is Milford Williams to the Plymouth quintet. And he won't be back next year, according to school officials.

Although he's only a junior, Williams will reach his 19th birthday on Oct. 15, which under present rules makes him
