Jimmy Hoffa wins right to bargain in Willard industry

What may be a break in the heretofore all but impregnable front against national unions occurred at Willard last week.

International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the union run by Jimmy Hoffa, won an NLRB-conducted election and the right to represent hourly employees of Midwest Industries, Inc.

The vote was 105 to 85. It's the first organizing of any industry in Willard, although railroad employees have been unionized for many years.

Midwest is a subsidiary of Modern Tool & Die Co., Cleveland, and manufactures children's bicycles, metal furniture and toys.

Mosher wins GOP support

State Senator Charles A. Mosher (R-Oberlin) has the endorsement of his party in his candidacy for nomination and election to succeed Rep. A. David Baumhart, Jr. (R-Vermilion) as 13th district Congressman.

The 53-year-old Oberlin publisher, whose grandfather served in the Illinois legislature with Abraham Lincoln, is completing his fifth two-year term in the upper house at Columbus. He was first elected 10 years ago when the freak two-year term last fell to the 20-2nd district.

The GOP central committee met in Sandusky Dec. 16 and unanimously accorded its support to Mosher, who briefly addressed the group after its decision was announced.

WHAT IT MEANS: Although other Republicans may enter the primary race, endorsement of Mosher by the central committee means he'll have the support of the party professionals and access to party funds to support his campaign.

Married, the father of a son and a daughter, Mosher has been a newspaperman 31 years, since 1940 as publisher of the Oberlin News-Tribune.

He is a graduate of Oberlin college and the winner of more legislative accolades than any senator of his tenure. He is widely acclaimed for his support and steering of the Ohio "open meetings" law, by which no public body may take action on any piece of business unless the public — and the press — are permitted to attend.

Judge Elizabeth Bell Winter, wife of Ralph Winter, formerly a member of the Ohio Public Utilities commission, says she'll contest the GOP nomination for Ohio Supreme Court with former Governor C. William O'Neil of Marietta. Both seek the unexpired term of the late J. Garfield Stewart. Mrs. Winter, who lives in LeRoy and practiced law in Lord, is now judge of the Medina court, the first woman elected to that office.

Some professional pride

The Republican central committee in the 13th district couldn't possibly have made a better choice than our colleague in the newspaper business, State Senator Charles Mosher, to carry the party banner in the race for Congress.

We've been for Senator Mosher in each of his campaigns and see no reason to desist now.

He has a tough road ahead of him. For one thing, he has served with greatest distinction a district comprised of Lorain, Medina, Ashland and Richland counties, but now seeks on reputation for high merit, which is well deserved, to serve a district of four counties among which only Lorain is familiar territory. He is almost a complete newcomer to Huron, Erie and Sandusky counties. And he was beaten in Lorain county, where he is domiciled, by his Democratic opponent in 1958.

With a few notable exceptions, we haven't been impressed by the kind of statesmanship exhibited by Ohio members of the House of Representatives. If Mosher is elected, and we believe that he will be, Ohio can be a little prouder of the kind of man and the kind of statesmanship it has sent to the Congress.

Neighbors who may not be eligible to vote in the 13th district for this outstanding newspaperman — statesman are not without good fortune. A highly capable man of the same calling, albeit with less age and experience, seeks the GOP nomination in the 17th district. He is John M. Ashbrook of Johnstown.

This is one newspaper that's just as proud as can be that the profession has produced two such excellent candidates.

Bellevue quintet faces big field On the defending Booster tourney title Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

Second annual Plymouth Boosters club independent basketball tournament is under way on the Sandusky street hardwood with 11 clubs; playing for the winning trophy.

Monday night, Shiloh Shell, with Milford Williams and Jobey Hughes in the lineup, played Weithman Construction of Bucyrus; Northwestern A. C., West Salem, comprised of some players formerly on the Huskie quintet that won the state Class A title, including Dean Chance, met Fergies of Mansfield, whose lineup boasted Wilmer Fowler, Northwestern university grid and track star, and A. C. Jenkins; and Purcell's Hardwares, Birmingham, tackled 3rd Street Church of the Brethren, Ashland.

Last night, Medina Standards, with Lou Tapis and Pat Gallagher, Black River High school coaches; Jim Nowakowski, former Willard, Tullane and Kent cager who now lives in Wadsworth; Gary Praht, Wolverine end of two seasons back, and Jimmy Johnston, celebrated Akron university player, met Crestline Whippets; and Myers Pumpers, Ashland, having ex-Ashland Eagle luminaries suited up, played the winner of Monday's Shiloh - Bucyrus scrap.

Saturday, the defending champs, Strayer's, tackles the survivor of Fergies vs. Northwestern A. C. and Weber's Cafe, which has loaded up with Joe Lapchick, assistant coach at St. Peter's Mansfield, former John Carroll star, meets the winner of Purcell's vs. 3rd Street Brethren.

Semi-finals are set for Monday night and finals and consolation for Wednesday night. Admission is 50 cents.

The roundball season is 45 per cent over and some facts are increasingly apparent. One is that come New Year's day, Plymouth's Big Red should have but a single defeat against seven wins. Crestline hasn't the power on the hardwood that it showed on the grid last fall.

Another is that on another night, the Big Red would have walloped Madison's Rams. But when, as Coach Daup has pointed out, "you have all your players turning cold on the same night", it's pretty hard to pull it out. Madison shot only 25 per cent, but Plymouth's slightly-under-20 figure was worse.

A third is that the hometown fan won't see so much of his favorite quintet in 1960 as he did in 1959 unless he wants to risk life, limb and property on what may well be icy roads to follow the team on the road. Plymouth has 10 regularly scheduled contests remaining to play. Six of them are road games.

TWO OF THEM ARE APT to tell a good deal about where this edition of the Big Red may go during tournament play. Norwalk, a Class AA outfit which'll play its tourney ball at Sandusky, is the foe at the beginning of the 1960 slate. Grant Walls has a better club than in past years; the Elementary precautions

The spate of breaking and entering offenses recorded hereabouts suggests the need for oome elementary precautions. It also suggests that booming business conditions reported elsewhere certainly do not obtain locally.

The whys and wherefores of this fact are too sordid to consider during Christmas week and we shall delay doing it until after the New Year.

But it is pertinent that we should set down the precautionary measures suggested by law enforcement agencies to prevent burglaries,

First, habitually, lock your doors and windows. Don't make it easy for the footpad to gain entrance.

Second, don't advertise the presence of valuables.

Third, leave a night light burning.

Fourth, report the sight or hearing of suspicious persons or sounds. Notify the police when you plan to be away for more than a day.

Fifth, don't leave valuables in the automobile, even with doors and windows locked. Put them in the trunk.

mas charity". It should not be given to shiftless people. Mom is the chairman of a committee to give help from money which is given by people to the Community chest. It is supposed to be given only to people who live where the Community chest money was collected.

WELL, A LADY CAME TO our house and said her husband was out of work and they needed some help. Mom took down the information and the lady lighted a cigarette.

If she can afford cigarettes, she can afford shoes-for her kids.

I heard Mom and Pop talking about sending something to a family that seems to need it. But I always see the man drinking. If he can afford to drink, he can afford to look after his family. Pop says I am wrong, maybe the man is an alcoholic, which he says is a disease like measles and pneumonia. Well, if he's got a disease, why doesn't he get it taken care of?

Pop says since I am 11 this week, I am old enough to think about grown-up things. And he says I should think about the children of these poor families. These kids, Pop says, didn't ask to come here and they can't help it if their parents smoke and drink and waste their money when there isn't enough to go around as it is.

Pop is awful tricky. He says one thing and when he gets me to agree to it, then he pounces on me and shows me how foolish it was for me to say what he said.

He claims that when kids are being neglected by their parents, the right thing to do is not help the parents with food and clothing until the situation gets so bad the county will step in.

Pop says it is better for a child to live with foster parents who will look after him and give him a chance than to live with his own parents who don't look after him.

WELL, I DON'T AGREE with him. You should never take a child away from its parents.

(Ed. Note: And now, young lady, kindly tell us how you would go about making the parents of the child do what's right. Put 'em in jail, maybe? Then how would the kids eat? You've got some thinking to do on this matter. And when you've got the answer, let me know promptly. Because the whole world — and we mean this seriously — is waiting for it.)

Harnly, Bookwalter lead 83-58 win over Lexington

Plymouth's Big Red swept to its fourth straight Richland County league win and sixth victory of the season against a single loss here Friday night.

The victim was Lexington and the count was 83 to 58.

The winners jumped off to a lead early in the contest and never relinquished it, speeding to an easy 20-point bulge after three periods. Jim Russell fouled out for Plymouth, long after the issue was in doubt.

Craig Harnly scored 23 and Dick Bookwalter 22 for the Big Red.

Truckers trounced Dover after a 100-mile jaunt.

And Bellville is, so far at least, the class of opposition in the Richland County league.

A FINAL FACT IS THAT as these old cars become more sensitive to racket and less inclined to the higher decible of the juvenile voice, attendance at these schoolboy contests becomes more and more of a chore.

Time was when during the schoolboy season, just for the kicks of it we'd see four or five games a week. Now, we make about half of the required contests and come home with aching head and sore seat.

The cheerleaders, friends, are simply carrying it too far. A yell every four minutes is ample, we think, for the purpose of stimulating the team. A yell every 15 seconds is forcing some otherwise generous supporters away from the gymnasium.

Come around to the O. T.'s hearth any Saturday and join him in front of the idiot box watching regional basketball. One week it's Illinois and Western Kentucky, another Michigan and somebody else. But it's a pure delight because we're seeing basketball, not a hoked up variety show of sincere but only slightly talented yell leaders with material that, let's face it, verges on the ridiculous.
