

'We didn't raise our boys to run a clip joint, but if it's legal--'

"Who would've thought," say the Peter Kleman, Shelby route 3, "that we raised three boys who're running 'clip joints'?"

Sixty-three years of Kleman sons are now engaged in the barbering profession. John, married and the father of a child at 23, led the parade of Kleman boys to Toledo, where he studied barbering. He began on Friday, Dec. 13, 1957. Brother Ray, 22 and a Navy veteran, followed him there on May 27, 1958. Now the baby of the family, Jim, at 18 bigger than either of his brothers, has enrolled in the same school. Barbering has changed, say the Kleman brothers. "They start you on cutting hair the first day or two," they say. "And after you've been there a week or so, you're learning how to shave — on live models!"

TIME WAS WHEN THE student barber practiced on plaster models, with wigs and contrived hairpieces to cut, and learned to shave by lathering a balloon and removing the soap without puncturing the flimsy air-filled thing.

"But not any more," says John, "because the experts say that while there are six basic kinds of haircuts, each head is different and no two haircuts are the same. So they start you out on live heads right from the beginning."

And where do they get these "live heads?" "Well," replies Ray, "first you get other students. It seems that every fellow in the full class of 48 comes there with long hair — it wouldn't be patriotic if he didn't. And then when they run out, there are volunteers, ordinary citizens who're willing to put up with a learner for a free haircut."

By this time, young Jim, who started his schooling Feb. 4, puts a word in. "The first thing they tell you is that they're shears, not scissors," he says. "And the second, perhaps to make you relax, is that everybody can do a Chinese haircut — you know, 'chop-chop.'"

After graduation from the barber college — and they DON'T learn any yells that wind up with "raw! raw! raw!" — the students submit to a state examination. "Anybody can pass it," says Ray, the self-styled most nervous of the brothers. "If he doesn't get nervous. But brother, get nervous and you strike out!"

MOSTLY, JOHN AND RAY tell Jim, the examination is to determine if the applicant has enough mechanical skill and poise to do what's asked without frightening — or wounding — the customer and without bringing disrespect upon the profession.

"They watch you for cleanliness and safety, such things as how you use the clippers and the shears and, of course, the razor. There are several different strokes to use when shaving a man, each one for a special area of his face. And there are ways to use the comb and shears when cutting hair. The examiner watches you for that."

But should these young barbers make mistakes, they're already equipped for the most satisfactory means of self-defense — they can run!

John at one time held the Northwestern conference record for the mile run, with a 4:50 mark. That was while he was a senior in Columbus Grove High school, back in 1953. Ray dabbled in track there, was a shade over five minutes in the mile. He was graduated from Plymouth High school in 1954.

Jim, played in the Pilgrim line and had a reputation for being a fast mover.

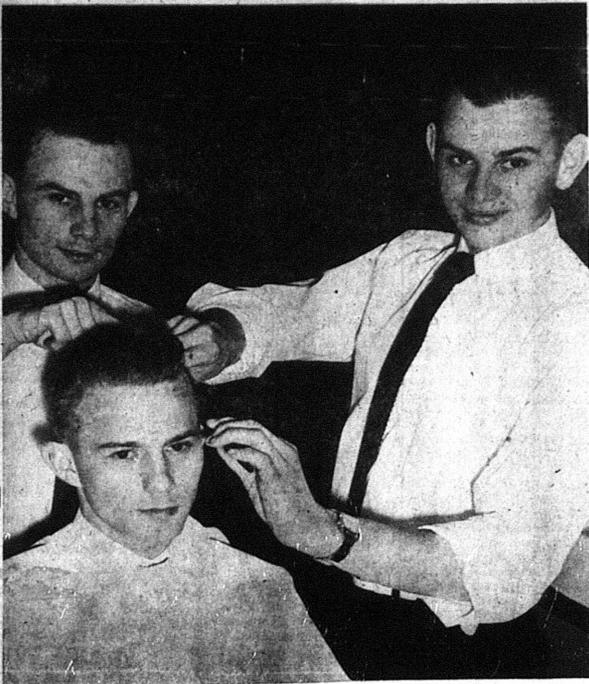

JIM ALSO SANG IN THE mixed chorus as a bass. John troubles a mean tenor and Ray says he can handle a "bathroom baritone".

"If we had another brother, we'd see to it he went to barber college and then we could organize a real barbershop quartet," laughs John.

"At the rate some of them get paid," it beats barbering!" "Anybody want to book a fledgling, real McCoy barber-shop trio?"

Look up John, second chair in Caplinger's shop at Shelby, or Ray, first chair in Lasch's shop in Plymouth.

Out-of-town inquiries: refer to Jim, chair No. 16, Andromeda Toledo Barber college, Toledo, O.

Ray, in chair, submits to Jim, while John Kleman gives directions.

School election set back to May 5

The new high school question was knocked into a cocked hat Tuesday when bonding attorneys for Plymouth Board of Education called a halt to the resolution of necessity.

Accordingly, the special meeting set for last evening,

Lutheran women . . .

Mrs. H. James Root will be hostess Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to the United Lutheran Women. Program directed by Mrs. Robert F. Hall will be on the new service books.

Rosary society . . .

Rosary and Altar society, St. Joseph's church, held its pre-Lenten dinner Feb. 10 in the rectory.

An Easter bake sale will be held Mar. 28 at Robby's. Society will meet again Mar. 17 to make final plans for the annual sale.

Five families move from Plymouth

Moves recorded by Clerk Carl V. Ellis include Clovis Sexton, 181 Nichols avenue, to Main street, Shiloh; Mary Barnhouse, 41 East Main street, to Route 598, and David Tackett, 146 Trux street, to May road, Willard rural.

The Arvel Combes moved Saturday from the Roscoe Hutchinson place in Route 598 south of Greenlaw cemetery to 364 Marvin avenue, Shelby.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Tackett moved from Beelman street to a home in Shiloh route 2 Monday.

when the fur was supposed to fly, was not held.

Reason for postponement: Squire, Sanders & Dempsey advised the local board the resolution should not be passed until the second week in Mar. This is to circumvent any conflict between the date of a special election under school laws and the regular primary election date.

Note on the bond issue will be conducted on primary election day, despite the fact Plymouth has no primary.

A strong delegation of patrons of the district had made plans to attend last night's special meeting to force an operating levy on the ballot.

LAST WEEK, AFTER HE had read "The Advertiser's" story of the meeting of Feb. 9, Richland County Supt. Dale Kinney was at pains to point out he had made no observation of any kind regarding an operating levy, since the subject was not broached during the meeting.

This is absolutely correct. No implication to the contrary was intended.

You gotta HAVE gun to be guilty of threat with gun

Husbands who abuse their wives must pay the price, Mayor Thurman R. Ford said in his court last week, but allegations they do so with a weapon must be proved.

This was his decision in the case of Mrs. Geraldine Ramsey Lindsey against her six-foot-six-inch husband, James L., which accompanied filing of a suit for divorce in Richland county domestic relations court.

Here's how it happened: After a lengthy period of marital difficulties, Mrs. Lindsey determined to leave her husband.

This he objected to. It came to a head in Mills avenue one cold morning last week. She alleged he threatened to kill her with a weapon he carried in his pocket. She fled to the milk truck of Willard Dairy, Inc., because she couldn't reach the home of the James O. Schrecks, whence she was headed.

Upon arraignment in Mayor Ford's court, Lindsey denied he had a weapon in his coat. He said it was only his hand.

In the absence of convincing proof, Mayor Ford threw out the charge of threatening with a weapon and fined Lindsey $25 and costs and sentenced him to three days in jail, which sentence was suspended pending good behavior.

Mrs. Lindsey asks custody of their son and daughter, both pupils in Shiloh Junior high school. The Lindseys were married in St. Louis, Mo., June 26, 1946.

Oldest resident, F. M. Leddick, dies.

Plymouth's oldest resident, Frank M. Leddick, who would have been 99 Apr. 15, died of a lengthy illness at his home, 89 Bell street, at 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Born at Reedtown, near Attica, Seneca county, Apr. 15, 1860, he had lived here nearly 40 years.

Mr. Leddick was a retired carpenter and farmer. Until a few months ago, he could still file a saw without eyeglasses.

His wife, Ida, and a daughter, Blanch, at home, survive. The Rev. Thomas S. Taylor conducted last rites Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the McQuate Funeral home. Burial was in Greenlaw cemetery.

Palbearers were R. L. McIntire, Lowell Keith, Fred A. Schneider, Richard Fackler, A. L. Paddock, Jr., and David Scraftield.

March of Dimes drive to end Saturday

Plymouth's March of Dimes campaign will end this week. Persons wishing to contribute may still send their donations to Mrs. Samuel C. Robertson or any member of the auxiliary of Elnet-Parsel Post, American Legion.

Townships asked for higher fire pay

New Haven township will be asked to pay $500 for the first two fires and $150 for each out thereafter if it wishes to renew the protection contract with Plymouth village council, ruled Tuesday night.

These rates will be extended to Plymouth township when the contract expires next year. In the liveliest meeting in many months, the council felt to discussing the complicated fire service problem and heard:

1. Mayor Thurman R. Ford says he favors a bond issue to raise the money to build a new firehouse and buy a new pumper (latter estimated at $20,000).

2. Mayor Ford, on advice of Councilman Donald E. Akers, name the fire committee — John T. Dick and Omer G. Burkett — and the finance committee — Akers and Whitney J. Briggs — to study the matter.

3. Edward O. Ramsey offer his theatre building at East Main and Porter streets, "lock, stock and barrel", for a firehouse. He said he "wouldn't be difficult about payment if we can arrange a satisfactory agreement to all parties."

Mayor Ford announced he has renewed for two years the contract of Henry Trauger as street supervisor at $3,600 annually.

The mayor was empowered to deal with Richland county authorities to hire a party of relief workers to clear brush from the Huron river.

Mrs. BeVier's kin dies at Willard

Mother of Mrs. Clarence BeVier, formerly of Plymouth, Mrs. Klair Leitz, 81, died at her home in Willard Monday. She was a member of the Presbyterian church and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She is also survived by two sons, John Leitz of Willard and Alfred Edwards of Eastlake; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Robert Bricker conducted the funeral service yesterday from the Fink Funeral home, with burial in Greenwood cemetery.

Recipient of the first Carl M. Lofland Memorial award as president of Fate-Root-Heath Co., chosen as the agency which contributed most to the community in 1958, was John A. Root, to whom President Franklin W. McCormick of the Chamber of Commerce presented the plaque Thursday night before 108 other diners in Plymouth Elementary school.

Eckstein tells how to reserve '59 tags

Ohio's 1959 license tags — NJ 51 through XJ 1200 — will go on sale at Eckstein's Plymouth Hardware Mar. 2 at 8 a. m.

Royal W. Eckstein, deputy registrar, announces numbers may be reserved by:

1. Presenting title and
2. Fee of $10 for tags plus 25 cents for registrar before Mar. 1.

The tags this year will be red on white, the colors of Miami university at Oxford, observing this year the 150th anniversary of its founding.

Next year, he announced, the Ohio legislature has decreed the colors of the tags will be blue on gold, colors of Kent State university, observing its anniversary.

"I'd like to thank everyone who has patronized me in the past and promise we'll be ready to serve everybody this year," Mr. Eckstein said this week.

Attention, Motorists

If, during the flood and heavy rains of the past few weeks, you have driven your car thru high water, you should have the front wheel bearings of your car checked.

The damage that the water does to wheel bearings may not be immediately detected by the driver, but having the bearings inspected and repacked now may save you considerable expense in the future.

We have already had several cases of this nature in our service department and we pass this information along as a bit of advice.

Our Service Manager will be glad to make an appointment for you to have your car inspected. Simply call him at Shelby-21261.

Plymouth captures RCL after 25-year failure

Big Red rated tourney even money

Plymouth's up-and-down Big Red defeated Bellville here Friday to win undisputed possession of the Richland county league title for the first time in 25 years.

Back in 1934, Plymouth captured the title with such as Ben Smith, Pete Cornell, Bob Bachrach, Jim Root, Charley Paine and Charley Fox in Pilgrim livery.

Not since has a local entry won undisputed championship. This season, with some uncanonical luck and no bad breaks to speak of, the Big Red sailed through the league with only one defeat, that to Union in mid-season.

AND TONIGHT, IN THE semi-final round of the lower bracket of the Richland county tourney, the Big Red tangles with Union again.

On the season's record, having played Union twice, Plymouth is two points ahead. In the first encounter, Plymouth won by 11. In the second, here on Jan. 16, Plymouth lost, by 9. The Mansfield Madison court is big. Union won here by ganging the shifting zone defense and springing the fast break.

If the Big Red comes up with one of its better games, and isn't required to pull from behind in the third quarter, the way it's been the past four contests, Plymouth will meet either Lexington or Bellville in the finals Saturday.

Coach Harold Daup's crew had a hard time of it downing Bellville and may have paid dearly for the loss. Craig Harnly, eagle-eye forward, fell on his game ankle and was carried from the floor in the third period. Whether his injury will prevent him from playing further was not immediately revealed.

Harnly's corner shot, all but indefensible, has kept the Big Red in the running all season. It would be a great loss were he unable to play.

Steve Patterson's hot hand accounted for 19 in the win over Bellville, but again it was the cohesive work of Mary Cok that led the Red out of the wilderness.

This boy is beginning to mean to Plymouth what Bill Dickey meant to the Yankees at the end of the '29 season — the bright spot of the team whose play improved as the season wore on.

Gym a commercial thing, contends The Old Timer

There appeared this week a lengthy communication from a leading insurance company. It purports to show that a nation, we are getting softer and softer. For example, the firm says, take a look at muscular skills of 100 boys of 10 years in any urban or rural school today and compare the skills with the record made by 100 other boys 20 years ago.

If the statistical data cited are correct, and we have no reason to believe that they are not, it is an appalling situation.

Come to think of it, the truth is apparent. How many boys today can vault the sidehorse, make a handstand on the parallel bars, or climb a rope against the stop watch? Yet these were required 20 years ago to pass the simple physical education course in the high school we attended.

No grades save pass, or fail were given, but the phys ed teacher was strict about compliance. Perhaps one reason why the conductor of this pillar, save for a couple of times when he failed to duck and once when he started to dig his grave with a knife and fork, has been in fairly good health, is that he was compelled to develop his muscles in a sensible way two decades ago.

And, come to think of it, also, how many Class A gymnasia have you been in where you could find a sidehorse, or parallel bars, or mats upon which to tumble?

The purpose, says the state board of education, of classrooms and schools is to educate boys and girls. We question the educational value of volley ball or touch football, though it is certainly good recreational activity.

Let's face it, friends, the gymnasium is for the purpose of entertainment, for money. And such activities as are carried on in it are, for the most part, treated as such. What can happen to school-boy sports is that John Taxpayer will draw the purse string on elaborate gymnasia for entertainment purposes that don't return enough to pay the interest, let alone settle the principal.

DISTANCE, DATE AND the purse have been set for the 1959 renewal of the Historical Ohio Derby at ThistleDown. Three-year-olds will travel the usual 6 mile and an eighth route at the suburban Cleveland racecourse Saturday, June 20, for a purse of $20,000. Though the increase in added money over 1958 is only $500, something new has been added with the ThistleDown Jockey club's guarantee of $20,000 to the winner.

Next running of the Ohio derby, which was inaugurated in 1876, will be the 25th. To mark that anniversary, the 1959 stakes will be known as "The Silver Derby". Trophies will be awarded to all starters as well as a replica of the East India cup to the victor. Terra

Some light on a dark subject

Ever wonder why some pills come in clear, transparent bottles, while others hide behind brown or dark-green glass? It's no accident, but by design. Why...? Simple daylight can reduce the potency of some medications. Consider how sunshine fades a rayon print, for instance. Thus, where needed, we use dark bottles, not to hide anything, but to preserve the medical effectiveness of the drug your physician prescribed for you. This is but one of many precautionary measures that are taken to provide you with the best in pharmaceutical service.

WHERE HIS illustrious predecessor, George Washington, did or did not sleep has diverted historians and delighted theatre-goers. But few have explored the sleeping habits of Abraham Lincoln. Perhaps it is because he gave the impression he didn't sleep well. Whatever the reason, it has been claimed Lincoln stayed over night in this building, old Fitchville inn. Records of that day are poor. Lincoln was in Huron county in 1858-9. But did he stop at Fitchville. That town was a stop on Underground railroad wouldn't have interested him then. Students of Lincolniana might do well in his sesquicentennial year to verify claim.

Suzie sez

When the Cub Scouts came to visit The Advertiser, one of them asked Pop what an editor is. "Is he the man that puts things in the paper?" he said. "No," replied Pop, "he's the guy who keeps things out of the paper!"

POP HAS BEEN RAGGING me about how to do school work. Get there a few minutes early, he says, and open your books and work like a beaver. Don't go out at recess — stay in and study. Don't talk to anybody and don't horseplay. Stay a few minutes after school and keep your books open and study a little then. Do your papers over a second time and make everything neat and in line.

Pop says this works 100 per cent. But Chip says this: "About the time I did that for a week, the teacher would send for me and say, 'Young man, I've been watching you for a week. Just what do you think you're up to?'"

WHENEVER WE GO RIDING with Pop, he tells us to be on the watch for the Iron Horesman. He means the state highway patrolman. It's not that he is a cop hater, Pop says. He just thinks some cops go too far.

But he likes to tell jokes with them and he comes home sometimes with jokes he hears them tell.

Like this one, that a state highway patrolman told him, in Columbus.

It seems two men were riding a motorcycle on a wet and cold day. The man driving the motorcycle was wearing a leather coat. Its lapels and collar and coattails were flapping in the wind and annoying the man who was riding behind the driver. So the driver stopped and put his coat on backwards, with the buttons going down the back.

Then they started out again, going like the dickens. They missed a curve and the motorcycle went through the fence and into the river.

A car stopped some minutes later and this is what the driver told the state highway patrol: "When I got there, one man was dead and the other's head was so twisted on his neck that by the time I got it turned back straight he was dead, too."

'Shep' gets big job

Brother of Neal Shepherd, Paul F. Shepherd, a San Leandro, Cal., merchant, has been elected president of the chamber of commerce there.

Last year, he organized, as chairman of the retail council and 3rd vice-president, a $200-300 trade promotion program for the chamber's use in expanding business.

The Voice of The Advertiser:

Let well enough alone, don't change now

A group of mayors of villages across the state has assembled in Columbus to apply pressure to the Ohio legislature to change the county court law.

Unless the law is changed by 1960, village mayors will have no authority to penalize traffic offenses committed on state highways within the limits of the village boundaries.

There mayors have assembled a ponderous burden of argument which tends to support their contentions. But the real argument is one they do not assert: that revenues presently accruing to villages will no longer do so.

Having, received a request to say something favorable to the mayors' position, we must, in all conscience, respectfully decline.

And for these reasons:

1. To rely upon the peccadilloes of the motorist as a means of financing the cost of civil government is unethical, indecent and unsound. It would be as wise to rely upon a mint of money in inheritance tax, as though you could plan in advance on deaths of wealthy residents.

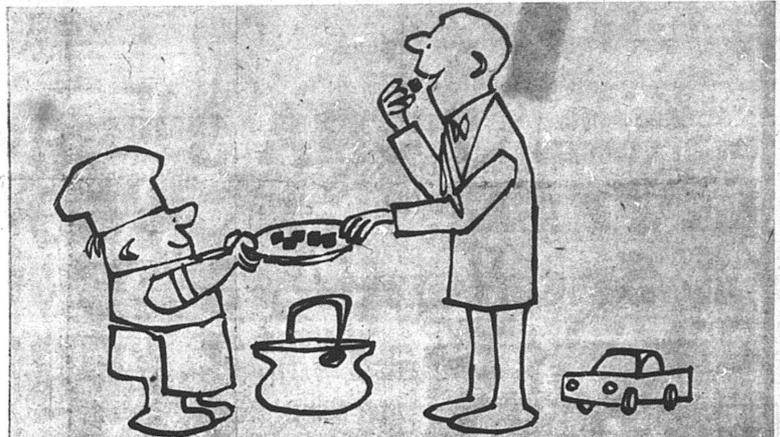

2. Traffic offenses which tend to create hazards affecting life, limb and property should be dealt with forcefully. Courts presided over by men and women trained in the law should administer punishment dispassionately in proportion to the seriousness of the offence committed. Trained jurists make enough mistakes that it would not be wise to rely upon untrained judges.

3. As the density of traffic grows, as more and more drivers crowd our highways in bigger and faster cars, there is bound to be a great increase in offenses. And these offenses become more difficult of adjudication as complication sets in. If we are going to enforce the traffic offense law — and right now it is an unfunny joke — a court of record is required. Untrained village mayors are not consistently able to discharge the obligations of the law for the equal benefit and justice of the accuser and the accused.

There are, as one of these mayors admitted the other day, "some bugs in the present system". Doubtless there will be some circumstances and situations after 1960 that will border upon the stupid, the ludicrous, the inane.

But, we contend, the present law is a step in the right direction. Whatever puts enforcement of the traffic code exclusively in the hands of persons, whether judges or policemen, trained in the law is a step toward a safer, saner Ohio.

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a man who prided himself on making the best fudge in the state. And one night a friend of his, who was a very smart automobile salesman, came over to play pinochle. When he sampled the fudge, he told his host that it was positively the finest candy he had ever tasted, and he advised his friend to wrap each piece in gold foil, to package it in a silver box with green stripes, and sell it by mail. In a few months there were more orders than candy, so his friend advised him to set up a small plant, and start distributing the candy through department stores and supermarkets as well as by mail. Before long the business was so big that a new plant had to be built, and the candy maker hired a sales manager away from another big candy manufacturer to run the business. When someone asked him why he didn't offer the job to his friend who had helped him so much, the candy maker replied, "Who, Bill? Why he doesn't know anything about candy. He sells cars."

And the moral of the story is this: There are no hard people or soft people. The same people who buy cars buy candy — and the same people who buy steel buy soft drinks. Which is why a smart businessman doesn't judge an advertising medium by the kind of products advertised in it, but by the kind of advertising it produces for its advertisers and the kind of people who read those advertisements. If you have faith, Mr. Businessman, in the people who're your neighbors, then you can have faith in the newspaper they read.

PERSONAL TAX INFORMATION

Personal Tax Forms should be in the hands of all taxpayers. Filing of returns will continue through Apr. 30 without penalty. With each return is included a sheet of instructions, which is required by law. Farm Returns include a price list of Farm Commodities as of Jan. 1, which is uniform for all counties of Ohio.

In order to save time and provide better service, it is possible to have returns processed and the tax computed at any time during the filing period, with the advance payment delayed until later, up until May 10.

Persons filing in person at the Auditor's Office are asked all questions as to all schedules on the Return; likewise, those who file by mail are directed to complete all space on the return, and if they not apply, so state. Particular attention is invited to the top line of the Farm Inventory, under "other owners" which should be completed, and if there are no other owners, write "none".

If property on which a return was filed last year has been transferred, file the return with a complete explanation, including dates.

New residents of the county and others may not receive forms in the mails, but nevertheless they are required to file returns. Additional forms are available. Any questions in regard to personal tax may be referred to the Auditor's Office with a confidence they will be answered correctly.

It is the duty of the Auditor's Office to process the returns and compute the tax only. All other details in preparation of the return; inventories, depreciation of machinery, fixtures and equipment, and the entering of these figures on the return is the responsibility of the taxpayer. On farm inventories, for instance, which should be completed on Jan. 1, only the owner knows the value, and this information should be placed on the form. However, the Auditor's Office will lend every assistance where individuals have made a fair attempt to help themselves, by having figures on the paper.

Please bring the forms that are mailed to you. Huron County Auditor's Office.

the Roscoe Hamman home were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hamman and son, Kenneth of Mansfield.

Guests at a dinner Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Huston were Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Seymour Mr. Huston, was the honoree.

Ross and Jay Moser and Proctor Steele attended a hardware show in Cleveland Feb. 11.

A son, Charles, was born Saturday in Shelby to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker of Shiloh route 2.

Rolland McBride was the honored guest when his daughter entertained relatives at dinner at her home Sunday. Guests of Mrs. Robert Moser were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lo-land and Mrs. Coletta Shafer of Shelby, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Ebinger and sons of Lorain and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ruckman and sons. Occasion marked the birthday anniversary of Mr. McBride. The Ebingers were here over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clark and son of Ashland were dinner guests Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chatfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Shafer have recently purchased the property at the corner of Rts 178 and 603, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Noble. They have been occupying the place the past several weeks.

Here's more word from 'Old Timer'

Firma and A Dragon Killer, who finished first and second at ThistleDown last year, went on to triumph in $100,000 stakes at other tracks.

ThistleDown is worth one afternoon of any sportsman's time. Take the Turnpike to Route 8, thence north to the track. Driving time: about 115 minutes.

THESE LADS WERE EN route to Cleveland on a trip sponsored by the YMCA, to see a doubleheader between Cleveland and Washington. They've grown fatter and a bit taller by now, but hardly any richer than they were then with sack lunch and no bills to pay. For an ice cream soda, who are they? Kin are ineligible. So's a phone call.

COMMUNITY CALENDAR

Jets to perform in benefit game

Junior Jets will play sixth grade boys and fourth graders will attempt to down the fifth grade boys again in a special benefit double-header in the high school tomorrow at 7 p.m.

Tickets are 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children. Proceeds will be applied to the bleacher fund.

Chip Paddock and Eric Akers were hosts at the former's home Saturday to a rock'n'roll dance for some teamates of the Jets.

BOOSTER CLUB WILL stage a benefit carnival Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Matches have been arranged between Plymouth Junior High and Ontario Junior High schools, local fifth and sixth graders, an Old Timers contest and Weber's Cafe versus Shiloh Shell as the finale.

Admission: adults, $1, children, 50 cents.

20th Centurians . . .

Mrs. Thomas F. Root will be hostess to the Twentieth Century circle at her home Monday night.

Roll call will be answered by a patriotic quotation. In keeping with the theme, Mrs. Harry Dick has selected several poems on patriotic and national subjects as her part of the program.

Kingwood Center and what it offers the surrounding area will be discussed by Mrs. J. Harold Cashman. Mrs. Edward O. Ramsey and Mrs. Francis Guthrie will join in selection of piano duets and explain types of dances for which the music was composed.

Maids of the Mist . . .

Mrs. Robert Gilger will be hostess to the Maids of the Mist for an all-day meeting Thursday. Potluck luncheon will be served at noon. Mrs. Clarence Riggle will conduct the program.

Library's offering currently labelled 'best in long time'

John Kenneth Galbraith's book "The Affluent Society", hard going but such solid reading no citizen concerned with the future of his country should fail to read it, is now in general circulation of Plymouth Branch Library.

Professor Galbraith's book has been described as "must" reading for every local government official. It deals with the economy, what's wrong with it, and what can be done, to make it work in a representative democracy.

"Lady L", novel by Roman Gary; "More Stories to Remember", edited by THE Thomas Costain and John Becroft; "Twist Twelve and Twenty", Pat Boone's literary effort which has been serialized in a score of big daily newspapers; Aldous Huxley's autobiographical "Brave New World Revisited" and "The Beloved Infidel"; Shellah Graham's story of her infatuation for F. Scott Fitzgerald, are other additions.

It is quite the most intriguing new offering the library has reported in a long time and should afford even the reluctant reader many hours of enjoyment and mental stimulation.

—A. L. P.

Playhouse role to Jackson's son

Thomas Jackson, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Jackson, former Plymouth residents who now live in Pasadena, Cal., will play the leading role in "The Informer" next month at the Pasadena Playhouse, Pasadena, Cal., considered one of the outstanding little theaters in the country.

He attends San Fernando High school, where he was a classmate of Ritchie Talens, a teen age rock'n roll artist who died in an airplane crash en route to a singing engagement in Minnesota.

BUTH FITCH is principal delegate of auxiliary, Elroy-Parsel Post, American Legion, to annual Girls' State encampment at Capital university, Columbus, in June. B. Fitch, also a junior, is also delegate.
