BPA surveys record, concludes it's good

Board of Public Affairs dealt primarily with water matters last week and it concluded after a three-hour session that its record for 1958 was not bad.

Nevertheless, the Board discovered, there are some problems of a continuing nature. Principal among these is the pressure in the West Broadway service.

After considerable discussion, the Board voted to buy a new valve for $133 and direct its superintendent, Russell J. Moser, start looking for obstructions which have caused a drop in flow from 691 gallons a minute to 130 gallons beyond Park avenue.

The board's adviser, R. L. Simpson, said he doesn't think encrustation is alone responsible for such a deficiency.

SIMPSON TOLD THE board he has resigned his post as superintendent of water and sewer departments of the city to join a Cleveland firm as a sales promotion executive. He will retain his advisory assignments in Attica, Bucyrus, New Washington and Plymouth.

The village's water consumption during 1958 was 45,315,000 gallons, or about 125,000 gallons a day. Average raw water hardness was 642 parts per million. After treatment it was reduced to 83 parts per million.

Clerk Carl V. Ellis informed the Board that $20,000 of the electric mortgage fund No. 1 and $12,500 from the electric fund have been deposited in Peoples National bank as inactive deposits, to draw two per cent interest if left for two years.

THE BOARD SEEMED displeased that this had been done by the council, but concluded that it is better than letting the money be idle.

Phillips admits petty theft, fined

An amended plea by Donald R. Phillips, 33-year-old Plymouth route 1 man who was accused of grand larceny by Thomas Saas of New Haven, brought him a sentence of 50 days and costs in fine and a 90-day suspended jail sentence.

Phillips had pleaded innocent to grand larceny and was bound over to the Huron county grand jury. He was charged by Saas in connection with the disappearance of plumbing and other materials from New Haven Supply, of which Saas is manager. An accomplice, James E. Postema, 20-year-old New Haven youth, was earlier permitted to change his plea to guilty of petty larceny. He received the same sentence and was sworn into the U. S. Army a few days later.

Phillips agreed to plea guilty to petty larceny. Saas also agreed to the reduction of charges.

Opposition to new school issue takes form; 50 in on planning

Form and pattern of opposition to the $530,000 school bond issue took shape in the army Friday night.

Fifty patrons of Plymouth school district coalesced their thinking on the subject during a two-hour open meeting.

These developments were a fact or seemed ready to become facts by the week's end:

1 A site of 40 acres on a farm owned by Leo Barnes, abutting the east edge of the village, has been chosen by the Board of Education for the new building.

2 There is doubt the school bond issue will appear on the ballot, because of a technicality in which the Department of Taxation and the Department of Education don't agree. It's over a matter of $16,000 in accrued interest in the bond retirement fund. If only $8,000 of it should properly be credited to the overall debt of the district, as the Department of Education contends, the bond issue can go ahead to the ballot. If all $16,000 of it must be charged to the overall debt, then the bond issue can't go ahead to the ballot. State law requires that electorate in a school district must vote to indebtedness.

3 State aid in principle is wrong for the district, the objectionists say, and absolutely wrong in application. To accept $220,000 in state aid — it must be repaid at the rate of half a mill a year for 23 years — for a new high school building on a new site would rob the district of any ability to finance further construction and still not correct a generally declining situation at Shiloh.

4 State aid is slow in coming — "and that's a generous statement," says William B. Ross, chairman of the committee — and not effective soon enough. Besides, the objectionists say, the proposed construction is too small to accommodate need at the outset; by the time it is completed, it will be even smaller.

SELECTION OF THE BARNES site, which had been "overlooked" by the site committee (Miles Christian did not overlook it, but he said some of the members of the committee would not hear of the site), was by vote of 4 to 1. Gerald Stanley, lone Shilohan on the board, voted against the site, presumably because it is too close to Plymouth.

Alternative plan as enunciated by two members of the school board present, Donald P. Markley and Haldon Cheesman, is this:

1. Addition of classroom space to the present high school, costing about $287,000.

2. Construction of new elementary center at Shiloh, costing $270,000.

3. Demolishing of the old Cass township school, built in 1885.

4. Conversion of the remaining Shiloh quarters to a junior high school — for seventh and eighth grades — and assignment of all high school pupils to Plymouth.

A second alternative is this: Construction of a $445,000 wing as addition to the present high school, with remodeling of the present gymnasium, into a cafeteria and kitchen and construction of a new gymnasium, auditorium and stage. Some fear was expressed that this proposal would prove too attractive to many patrons of the district.

A third alternative is this: Construction of a $287,000 addition to the high school. No state aid would be involved in either of the alternatives.

BOSS CALLED ATTENtion to the danger of complacency. "This bond issue coming up May 5 requires only a simple majority of 50 per cent plus one," he said. "Those who don't like the proposal have got to work to defeat it."

There is a tendency, he said for many opponents of the proposal to rely upon factors over which they haven't any influence — the recent increase in tax valuation, which boosted taxes in the district by as much as 300 per cent a household, in some cases, and the choice of a site close to Plymouth, which ostensibly would incur disapproval among residents of the eastern part of the district.

Henry Bland injured in two-car collision

An 84-year-old Plymouth route 1 man was severely injured and his automobile demolished Saturday afternoon when he turned into the path of another car at Fenner and Base Line roads.

Henry Bland, who lives at the intersection, turned south into the path of Herbert Newmeyer, 26, Plymouth route 1.

These cars collided with ter-headed east in Base Line road. Bland and Newmeyer's wife, Ellen, 32, and his young son, Richard, four, were removed to Willard Memorial hospital. The Newmeyer's of treatment, but Bland remains there for treatment of broken ribs.

Mrs. Newmeyer received son facial lacerations, bruises and contusions, and her

State highway patrolmen issued a citation to Bland for failing to yield the right of way.

Mrs. Dawson dies of sudden attack

Mrs. Myrtle Dawson, 76, died unexpectedly at her home, 37 West High street, Friday morning.

The wife of Harry Dawson, she was born in Plymouth township Oct. 28, 1882. She was a member of Plymouth Chapter 231, Order of Eastern Star; Hazel Grove Grange, Sunshine club and Jolly club, and of First Evangelical Lutheran church.

Eastern Star services were conducted from the McQuate Funeral home Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Robert F. Hall conducted last rites Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. with burial in Greenlawn cemetery.

A son, Orva, Shelby route 3, also survives. There are eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Chamber uses check, Carnegie course to 'win friends and etc.'

Mrs. Frances Guthrie's suggestion to place a new fire-house adjacent to the railroad station won first place in the Chamber of Commerce "Betterment of Plymouth" contest. Chamber president Franklin W. McCormick handed her a check for $10 Monday night. Mrs. Guthrie promptly turned the check back to be included in a fund for the building. In her "thank you" to the Chamber, she said that her hope was that a "common effort by the community" would be made to obtain the needed building. Mrs. Guthrie has been an active member of the PFD auxiliary for many years. Her father, William Fetters, was local fire chief when the first siren was installed in the village. Her husband is a member of the department now, and her brother, L. R. Fetters, is a former member. "Just a fire-fighting family, we are," she said. During the business meeting which followed a dinner for Chamber members, Council member, Donald E. Akers, was asked to comment on the council's role in the proposed purchase of the Ramsey theater building. He said the price of $18,000 is firm.

James C. Davis chairman of the Chamber's committee on the fire house, said he had already received several offers of financial contributions toward a building fund. He is planning on meeting with the council this week about the matter.

At the suggestion of Edward O. Ramsey, discussion of the possibility of the Chamber sponsoring a Dale Carnegie Leadership course next fall was broached. It was agreed by the 30-old members present to do this.

The 14-week course will be open to all area residents. For its sponsorship, the Chamber will receive remuneration. A minimum class consists of 30 members pay $10 less.

The treasurer's report showed $612.18 in the chamber's bank account, a profit of $63.10 to date for the dinner served by the Chamber

Patterson hurls Red to 3-2 win

Steve Patterson pitched Plymouth's Big Red to a 3 to 2 victory over Lexington in the county tourney Monday afternoon, allowing but two hits.

Pony loop 'kaput': lack of players

A move to organize a Pony league, for boys over 13 and under 17, has apparently failed, its backers acknowledged this week.

"It was a good deal," they said, "an anonymous supporter volunteered to donate land and materials for a first-class diamond at the edge of town. Uniforms had been arranged for. All we needed was volunteers — and we got three, the Van Loo boys and Fate Christian."

"It looks to us," they said, "that boys beyond the midget league age don't care at all about pony baseball."

The anonymous supporter has now withdrawn his offer, "because I can use that land to farm on." He held the offer open until Apr. 15.

Plymouth boys wishing to play pony ball are now welcome to go to Shelby to try out for teams there.

They are required to bring glove, shoes and permission from their parents.

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

Just how much rules changes affect the placement of high school footballers on collegiate teams was illustrated last week.

The Ohio High School Athletic association, which a year ago elected to adopt the two-or-one point after touchdown option when 47 other states, Alaska and Hawaii didn't, decided it wouldn't go along with the colleges in widening the goal posts.

The extra few inches, the OHSAA said, aren't important enough to warrant adopting the rule.

A year ago, the argument was that adoption of the college rule would "open a lot of doors for our boys in college ball". Whether it did or didn't is open to argument. In any case, it's probably too soon to tell.

But the grounds crews at several hundred Ohio high schools can put aside their digging tools — they won't have to widen the goal posts. Not this season, anyway.

THE HASSLE AT BUCYRUS over whether the school's administration will be turned over to the athletic department produced the resignation of a well-respected board member and a switch in assignments.

Paul E. Keltner, 37-year-old Crestliner, was retained as football coach and assigned as athletic director.

Charles Tschanen, present athletic director, was relieved of that job and assigned as athletic business manager. He said he'd accept the demotion. Keltner had told the board he'd quit if he didn't get the athletic director's job.

So Mr. Ward, the veteran board member, turned in his suit. Said he wouldn't be a party to turning the school administration over to the athletic department.

Knowing Superintendent Ike Miller as we do, we doubt this will transpire. But we insist Mr. Ward has something when he points out that a football coach, backed by the Boosters club, can blackmail the school board into doing something it had already decided, upon ample reflection, both in private and publicly, not to do.

There's a little too much of it hereabouts. The episode at Shaker Heights is but a case in point. It was no business of the pupils who were heard on TV and radio whether the teachers were fired or not fired — they've no business interfering in the school's administration. And if the school board elected to fire the teachers, for whatever reason, there were good and sufficient ways to register disapproval without naked, obscene pressures of this sort.

That cigarette... that burning match... tossed thoughtlessly from your car window, may cause a flood.

Floods follow forest fires as surely as fires follow carelessness. When fires destroy trees and roots and undergrowth and burn away the protective leaves, there is nothing to hold the rainwaters. The resulting floods often destroy millions of dollars worth of property. They also wash away rich soil, leaving wide areas to erode into wastelands.

Ruined watersheds are just one sad commentary on someone's moment of poor citizenship. The loss of timber, recreational areas and wildlife also result. You didn't do it? Someone did. Nine out of 10 forest fires are still man-caused.

So use your ash tray. Douse your campfire. Be careful with all fires.

School board back of accused man

Charges that New Washington's school superintendent assaulted and abused a 17-year-old pupil are refuted in a public statement by the board of education there.

Walter Heydinger, father of Carlyle Heydinger, alleges the boy sustained a broken nose and other injuries Oct. 1, 1958, when Howard H. Browns, superintendent, struck the pupil. He says three days of hospitalization at Bucyrus were necessary.

The board unanimously agreed the charges are unfounded and that Browns should be exonerated. The case is before Crawford county common pleas court.

Suzie sez

There was tacked to my bedroom door, with a red ring around the note saying "Suzie, I think you ought to read this — ask me if you don't grasp it", this piece of stuff.

"In our friendly neighborhood of St. Augustine, great flocks of seagulls are carving amid plenty. Fishing is still good, but the gulls don't know how to fish. For generations they have depended on the shrimp fleet to toss them scraps from the nets. Now the fleet has moved to the West. The shrimpers had created a welfare state for the St. Augustine gulls. The big birds never bothered to learn how to fish for themselves and they never taught their children to fish. Instead they led their little ones to the shore.

"Now the seagulls, the fine free birds that almost symbolize liberty itself, are starving to death because they gave in to the 'something for nothing' lure! They sacrificed their independence for a hand-out. A lot of people are like that, too. They see nothing wrong in delectable scraps from the tax nets of the U.S. Government's 'shrimp fleet'. But what will happen when the government runs out of goods? What about our children of generations to come?"

"Let's not be gullible gulls. We Americans must reserve our talents of self-sufficiency, our genius for creating things for ourselves, our sense of thrift and our true love of independence."

This was written, Pop says, by a bank in Jacksonville, Fla. He sounded kind of sad when he said, "Honey, I believe every word in this piece, but I think they're wasting their breath."

Ge, is it true? Is America going to pot?
