

Dragnet script writer overlooks fugitives in three-hour show near New Haven

Fourteen assorted police officers spent three hours Monday night in a futile stake-out for two fugitives accused of murder and larceny in Tennessee.

Summoned by Police Chief Robert L. Meiser, who said he was asked by Sheriff Woodward, Anderson county, Clinton, Tenn., to apprehend the fugitives in three separate telephone calls Saturday and Monday, the police officers closed off Route 61 north of New Haven and encircled a house at the foot of Klein road east of the state highway.

They were looking for Robert and John Phillips, said to have fled bond at Clinton, Tenn., after indictment and arraignment on murder and larceny charges.

Robert Phillips is said to be 40 years old, five feet nine inches in height, weighing 145 pounds, having brown hair and eyes. John Phillips, his brother, is said to be 35, five feet eight inches tall, weighing 160-170 pounds, having brown hair and eyes.

The men were said by Tennessee police to be staying with a Charles Phillips. State highway patrolmen summoned from four posts joined Meiser and Willard police in combing the brush east of the Huron river and encircling the house occupied by Mrs. Margaret Phillips, who denied vigorously having seen either of the suspects. They found a sedan bearing 1959 Tennessee tags issued to a Cle-dith Patterson. Chief Meiser said he noted a few days ago the presence of Oscar Patterson, a notorious confederate of the Phillips brothers, whom he knows well, and he suspected the presence of the suspects themselves.

Traffic in Route 61 was halted at Green Bush road and searched by a police blockade manned by Patrolman Charles Lindsey, Willard police, while the search party was operating in the dense brush east of the highway.

At midnight, apparently convinced the Phillips brothers were not in the vicinity, the search party was dismissed.

ENGRAVED WATCH is token of esteem in which Walter Robertson was held by employer and associates at Fate-Root-Heath Co. He retired after 34 years as tool-maker and foreman. John A. Root made presentation before "Doty", stainless steel locomotive.

Hassle taking shape over Trux street alley

A sharp cleavage of opinion has developed with regard to establishment of a 30-foot right-of-way in the alley connecting Trux street and Mills avenue.

On one side, village council, almost to a man, thinks it has no legal or moral obligation or right to interfere in what is essentially a private matter.

On the other, postal authorities and the private contractor who has bought the prospective post office property think the village should proceed to establish the right-of-way as claimed.

WHAT'S AT THE ROOT of the problem is the general hodge-podge history of land plots in Plymouth, dating back to its earliest days.

Richland county engineer's office was solicited by Postmaster Raymond L. Brooks to set the boundaries of the alley.

It replied that it can't set the boundaries because there isn't enough land in Trux street east of the Sourwine building to match up measurements claimed in deeds and plots.

So the engineer, Walter Rusk, washed his hands of the matter. But he suggests that some means of pro-rating the shortages ought to be found.

TO THIS THE VILLAGE council suggested that property owners convene with the postmaster, with the mayor and council present only as an honest broker, to settle the matter.

Federal negotiators, including some from the regional post office headquarters in Cincinnati, have said it's the village's duty to force settlement of the question promptly, so that a 30-foot right-of-way can be established.

So far as it can ascertain from a diligent reading of the Revised Code of Ohio, the council can find no such duty devolving upon it. Even if it did, it can't off hand, find the funds with which to prosecute any action.

"It looks to us," said one councilman, "that Mr. Biebesheimer will have to file his action in the court of appropriate jurisdiction and have the contiguous property owners either agree to or contest his claims, with the costs of action to be borne as the court may direct. We can see no reason why the village must get into it at all, because it's a question of one private property owner, namely Mr. Biebesheimer of Toledo, versus half a dozen others. The federal government doesn't enter into it at all except as prospective lessee of a building Mr. Biebesheimer intends to erect. But even if it did, we can't see where we're obligated to take any action."

Sports car snaps pole, power cut off 15 hours

Power was interrupted for 15 hours in the southern section of the village early Saturday when a sports car driven by an Air Force officer struck and severed a service pole in Plymouth street.

Two of his passengers received injuries. Dexter Mead, owner of the car, 2608 Wildwood lane, Columbus, Ind., has a wrenched neck. Staff Sergt. Bertie Wager, Lockbourne Air Force base, was said by Willard Municipal hospital to have a fractured right knee-cap and severe head lacerations. After emergency treatment, he was removed to the base hospital at Lockbourne. The driver, Maj. Ivan R. Henry, base hospital, Keesler AF base, Miss., was summoned on a charge of unsafe operation. Another passenger, Airman 3rd Class Charles O. Maxwell, Hqs. Squadron, 801st Combat Support group, Lockbourne AF base, was also unhurt.

The collision occurred at 2:40 a.m., police said, when Henry rounded the curve at the water tower at great speed, lost control and snapped the service pole.

Emergency action by Board of Public Affairs personnel restored current about 5:40 p.m.

Two cars crash, five injured

Five persons were injured, one of them seriously, in a two-car collision Saturday at 2:35 p.m. at Noble road and Route 13.

Mrs. Ruth Hall, Edward F. Hall and Mrs. Walter Smoods were removed to a Mansfield hospital.

Mrs. W. B. Illig and her five-year-old, son David, were taken to Willard Municipal hospital.

Mr. Illig is a sandusky basketball coach. Mr. Hall is a school teacher.

Police said Hall turned into Route 13 in the path of Illig, north bound.

Ex-Shiloh, 63, dies suddenly

A Shiloh native, Charles Milton Caton, 63, died enroute to Mansfield General hospital Saturday afternoon of a heart seizure.

He was stricken at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Lloyd G. Harbaugh, 822 Ferndale road, Mansfield.

Born Independence day, 1896, at Shiloh, he was the son of Milton C. and Christine Pettit Caton. Four years ago he moved to Lima, having left this area six years before, to become stationary engineer at the Ohio State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. He was a member of POEagles and a veteran of World War I.

A son, Charles R. Sandusky, and a brother, Dolphus M., Mansfield, survive.

The Rev. Harold L. Konz of St. John's United Church of Christ conducted a funeral service at Mansfield Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Tackett kin dies at Willard at 78

Mother of David Tackett of this place, Mrs. Mollissa Tackett, 78, died Friday in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Bertha Lewis, 8 South Main street, Willard.

She formerly lived near Shiloh.

Four sons, Ray, Nevada; Gay, Shelby; Earman, Mansfield; and Ellis, Willard, and two other daughters, Mrs. Eliza Kilgore, Willard, and Mrs. Jacob Pine, Bloomville, survive.

The Rev. Thomas Williams conducted last rites Monday at 10 a.m. in Willard Church of God. Burial at Portsmouth ensued.

Innocence plea to be entered by Mrs. McKown

Plea of innocent to a charge of reckless operation filed by Corp. Howard Jackson, Norwalk State Highway patrol post, will be entered in Mayor Thurman R. Ford's court by Mrs. Mary R. McKown, 44-year-old driver of the sedan which collided with another in Route 61 June 5.

Mrs. McKown was to have been heard in Mayor Ford's court Thursday night. Her attorney, Robert Ross, Mansfield notified Mayor Ford his client will plead innocent.

Because witnesses to the alleged offense are still undergoing treatment in Willard Municipal hospital, and Corporal Jackson was required to take his annual leave now, the case has been postponed.

Fox quits Braves after argument

Charging improper conduct of the official scorer, Manager R. A. (Rich) Fox of the Bachrach Co.-New Haven Supply Braves in Plymouth Midget League angrily turned in his resignation Tuesday night.

The Braves had just been beaten by Plymouth Order of Mechanics Giants, 5 to 2, in a major upset that could lock up the first half flag for the Firemen-Legion Reds.

Fox said he "couldn't take the conduct of the scorekeeper," who was Fred Buzard, also manager of the Reds. He told President Duane (Bud) Young that Buzard interfered in decisions that didn't concern the official scorer and otherwise "influenced the umpire". Jim Phillips. He implied, Young said, that Buzard as manager of the Reds was "pulling for a Giant victory, and so was Phillips, whose boys are on the Reds."

Young accepted the resignation and named Vance Hoffman manager and James C. Davis coach of the Braves.

James Schreck found dead at home; W. Scrafield dies

For 35 years a Plymouth resident, James O. Schreck, 72, was found dead in the bathroom of his home at 35 Mills avenue Sunday.

Death of a heart seizure was ruled to have occurred Saturday evening.

A neighbor, Mrs. D. Karl McGinty, noted Sunday at noon that Mr. Schreck's newspaper had not been taken in from the porch. She notified Mrs. Donald E. Fetters, as a child a ward of the Schrecks, who entered the house and found him dead. His family was weekending on Lake Erie.

Mr. Schreck was born in Ashland county Feb. 4, 1887. At one time he was a new car dealer here. Lately he was a salesman of farm machinery. Plymouth Chapter 321, OES, of which he was a member, conducted a memorial service at the McQuate Funeral home Tuesday night. Richland Lodge 201, F. & A.M., conducted graveside services in Greenlawn cemetery yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Robert F. Hall, pastor of First Evangelical Lutheran church, conducted last rites in the funeral home yesterday at 2 p.m.

Mr. Schreck is survived by his wife, Josephine; a daughter, Dorothy, and a son, Robert, at home; six brothers, Arthur, Miami, Fla.; Howard, Galion; John, Bedford; Harvey, Ashland; Ralph, Bucyrus, and Robert. Canton; two sisters, Mrs. Stella Row, Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Fina Hershner, Galion, and three grandchildren.

Plymouth's oldest citizen, William Scrafield, 93, died in Norwood Chronic hospital, Fitchville, early Thursday morning.

He had been a patient there two months.

Born in Morrow county July 6, 1865, he was a retired farmer. In late years, he resided here with his son, David. Another son, Clarence, Flagstaff, Ariz., a daughter, Mrs. S. C. Stover, Shelby, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Sipes, Shelby, at 101 Richland county's oldest resident, also survive.

The Rev. Thomas S. Taylor conducted last rites Saturday at 2 p. m. from the McQuate Funeral home. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Funk's kin gets top honors

Grandson of Mrs. Velma Funk, 86 West Broadway, elementary teacher here, Larry McCullough, 17, Greenwich, won "preacher boy of Ohio" honors in the Ohio YFC 'teen-talent' contest at Dayton Thursday and Friday. His parents, the Dean McCulloughs, and his grandmother were present. His brother, Lee, 13, coached "The New London area Bible quiz team to a tie for third place with Dayton.

Whaddya gotta do to win one, asks Giant boss after clutch loss to Braves

"What" is the cry to Manager Ted Fox of the P.O.M.C. Giants, "do I have to do to win one?"

One of the things he mustn't do, he found out June 17, is insert a green pitcher when the score is tied.

Having worked his quota for the week, Freddy Buzard had to leave the box in the playoff of the postponed game with the Braves and Chip Paddock took up the hurling chores.

After a couple of disputed calls at the plate, on pitches he thought were strikes, Chip walked Randy Davis, Harold Neely and Don Phillips to force Gary Ross home with the winning score. Ross had singled.

The final, 13 to 12, was not a fair index to the P.O.M.C. game, in which the Giants got nine blows and the Braves 12.

Tim DeWitt fanned 11 Giants the next night as the Reds advanced, 11 to 3. Two big innings off Dick Lahmon put the Reds far in front. DeWitt allowed by one hit.

Fishermen caught rocking are in for a socking.

Rocking is the short name for rock fishing. Rock fishing is an illegal method of taking catfish by hand while the fish is on its spawn bed.

When catfish spawn, usually for about a two-week period this time of year, the fish clear a depression under a huge rock in the stream bottom.

Rock fishermen, also known as rockers, ease down the stream in water knee-deep or deeper. With their toes they feel around big rocks until one of the catfish beds is located. Then, the rocker reaches a hand beneath the rock and clasps the spawning catfish by his mouth or gills.

This is illegal, since catfish are regarded as a game species — not a rough fish.

A four-pound catfish taken by the rock fishing method recently cost three persons in southwestern Ohio $300. The rock fishermen, a man from Blanchester, was fined $100. Another Blanchester resident and one from Clarksville, acting as "lookouts", each were fined $100.

The case was heard in Morrow mayor's court. Vern Bare, Ohio wildlife division law enforcement specialist, arrested the three men on Todds fork, Warren county.

Ten frogs may be taken daily. Possession limit also 10 Frogs may be taken by any method, except shooting. A new provision allows hunters to use bows and arrows. Frog legs are regarded as choice food by outdoorsmen.

HOW BIG DO OHIO BLUE-GILLS GROW?

Now that fishing season is in full swing, reports of big ones are common. Milton B. Trautman, curator of the vertebrate collection, Ohio State university, says he has never seen a one-pound bluegill taken in Ohio. His book, the authoritative "Fishes of Ohio", lists a 12-inch one-pound three-ounce bluegill from Pine Lake, near Youngstown, as the biggest ever recorded in the state. Trautman accepted the record as it was identified by an Ohio division of wildlife fish management worker, but he still says he has never seen a Buckeye one-pounder.

"Many of the big 'bluegills' reported are actually hybrids or redear sunfish," Trautman says. He issues a challenge to Ohio anglers to bring in a one-pound bluegill. "It must be identified by a fish specialist," he adds, "such as a division of wildlife fish manager."

test was a travesty upon the fair name of baseball.

Before a single man was out the Braves had 19 runs, all of them off Dennis Hole, Cub righthander.

The Cubs themselves got 11 runs in the third, by which time the Braves were so far ahead they couldn't be stopped with a shotgun.

Cubs outhit the Braves, 13 to 12, but lagged at the plate, 17 to 26.

Tonight's contest between the Braves and the Reds will probably tell the story of the first half.

Manager Rich Fox of the Braves plans to start his son, Mike, a steady left-hander. Fred Buzard of the Braves plans to go with Nero Howard.

SPITTING ON A STONE?

Ever try spitting on a stone to ease pain? Sounds foolish, nowadays. But a long time ago folks actually used this "remedy." We're lucky to be living in this age of modern medicine. Medical science has given us many wonderful pain relievers and other reliable, effective drugs. However, it's still not wise to use any medication indiscriminately. When you don't feel up to par, ask your physician's advice first. Then, if he prescribes medication, come to us. We'll fill his prescription promptly and carefully.

BEGINNING WEDNES- day, I will be taller, but I can't prove it.

On July 1, the United States and Great Britain will set the official measurement for one inch so that it is the same in both countries.

The difference is .00002 inches right now, but don't ask me whose inches, theirs or ours. Theirs is the bigger. So our government talked it over with the Queen's government and we are going to give in half way and they are going the other half. So our inch will be a little bigger and theirs just a little smaller.

Mr. Miller says it won't be enough so we can notice it and he's not going to order a lot of new yardsticks.

But Pop says it's important in manufacturing and in national defense. And he thinks it's peachy that we and the British have the same ruler now.

He says it's been 183 years since that was so.

CARE OF THE EXPECTANT MOTHER

By Dr. E. M. Gildow

Whether your mother - to - be dog is a purebred show girl and her mate was carefully picked, or she's a mixture and she's done her own picking from among the local dandies, she deserves certain considerations.

There's a definite relationship between the care the mother gets and the health of her prospective brood.

For example, the puppies' chance of survival is poor if the mother is infested with worms, because worms can be transmitted via the blood stream from the mother to the pups. If she wasn't dewormed before breeding, it's wise to check with your veterinarian about treatment for worms can still be done during pregnancy.

Diet is of the utmost importance. An improperly fed mother may have trouble at the time of whelping and her babies are apt to be weak, scrawny and susceptible to disease. Conversely, puppies of a well-fed mother will have more bounce to the ounce.

Watch out for constipation, especially during the last three weeks. If there is a tendency toward it, mix milk of magnesia in the food.

Exercise during pregnancy should be about the same as other times. She should be restrained, however, from indulging in any violent activity which might result in a physical injury.

Indulgence, please . . .

(ED. NOTE: Mechanical difficulties prevented the staff from including the editorial which regularly appears on this page. This week, it was highly critical of the budget on which public hearing is set for Monday at 1 p. m. The reader's indulgence is requested.)

CHURCH NEWS

Some of the Altar Guild, First Evangelical Lutheran church, attended an altar pulpit meeting Tuesday night at Clay Memorial Lutheran church near Mansfield.

They were Mrs. Ruby Young, Mrs. H. James Root, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. J. Benjamin Smith, Mrs. John Max Fidler, Mrs. Edward O. Ramsey and Mrs. J. Bails Kennedy.

Sunday members of Luther League attended a convention at Wittenberg university in Springfield.

Representing the local church were Nancy and Marcia MacMichael, Jean Ann Smith, Shari Einsel, Dorothy Stoodt, Gregory and Girard Cashman, James Wasserman, Jean Osborn and John Bowman.

Navy "Invades" Cleveland in July

Rear Admiral Edmund B. Taylor, HSN, Commander Destroyer Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet, leads the "invasion" fleet that marks Cleveland as a world port in July. He is pictured above, with the big destroyer, FORREST ROYAL, one of the fourteen ships to tie up for visitors in Cleveland.

The greatest display of naval and marine might in Cleveland history will be shown this summer when 7,500 men and ships of the U. S. Navy's Atlantic Fleet and First Marine Force, Atlantic, come into the city.

Fourteen ships, a dozen jet fighter planes and the marines will participate in the visit as part of the celebration of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The first ship will arrive on July 16. Others will follow right behind. The visit will be completed by July 27. Ships will be open to visitors daily during their stay in Port Cleveland.

The highlight of the operation will be a simulated amphibious landing on the beach at Edgewater Park on July 18, a live preview for Clevelanders of what might happen in any trouble spot of the world where American assistance is required.

The landing will be a copy of what happened recently in Lebanon when the men who will make the landing actually did land. Cleveland was honored in being selected as the only Ohio city along the Lakes at which these landings will take place. The other cities are Chicago, Milwaukee, Erie and Rochester.

IDYLL OF SPRING is magically captured in the camera of J. R. Page, veteran Shiloh hatcherman, who snapped this photograph in New State road, south of the Akron, Canton & Youngstown tracks, on Flag day June 14.

The panoramas of sheep, barn, and stream — the traditional, if not classic, pastoral scene — turned out exceptionally well.

Photographers aren't the only folks who enjoy the bucolic scene. Mr. Page, who's been watching it for more years than he cares to admit, urges everyone to enjoy the countryside.

And, he says, if you've some ideas of what'd make a good photograph let him know.

To which the editor adds, "And let us have a print."

Prior to and during the Civil War, Ohio places and Ohio people had prominent parts in shaping the path of history.
Rankin House at Ripley, on the bank of the Ohio River in Brown County, in full sight from the Kentucky shore, stood as a "beacon of liberty" to the fugitives from slavery. This was the first station on the "Underground Railroad" and the home of the Rev. John Rankin. Here, Eliza is said to have crossed the ice to become the inspiration for Cincinnati Harriet Beecher Stowe, who wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Today Rankin House, on a 20-acre tract, is a museum maintained by the Ohio Historical Society. It attracts thousands of motorists who are interested in Civil War history.
John Brown, whose abolitionist raid on the government arsenal at Harper's Ferry in 1859 led to his being hanged at Charles Town, grew up in Ohio at Hudson, near Akron. This was one of the acts of violence that led to the Civil War.

Captain Brumbach weds Miss Helena Kent here

Capt. Dudley D. Brumbach, USAF, took Miss Helena Kent of Wilmington, Del., as his bride in a ceremony performed in the presence of his family in Plymouth Methodist church Sunday afternoon by the pastor, the Rev. Thomas S. Taylor.

Miss Kent was attired in a gown of pale blue silk organza with embroidered bows fashioned with oval neckline and flared full skirt. She wore a shoulder veil which fell from a small beaded cap. Her only jewelry was a silver cross, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried red roses on a white Bible.

Given in marriage by R. Earl McQuate, the bride was attended by Mrs. McQuate as matron of honor, Mrs. McQuate wore a red rose corsage. Douglas McQuate, nephew of the bridegroom, was best man. Orva Dawson, who sang The Lord's Prayer, was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Francis Guthrie.

Ed Brumbach, Worthington. A small reception followed at the McQuate home.

Among family kin who attended were the Misses Ina and Celia Brumbach and Alto Brumbach, all of Shiloh, and

The bridegroom is assigned to the Strategic Air Command, Forbes Air Force base, Topeka, Kan., where the Brumbachs will take up residence.

Miss Smith wed in Youngstown

A late spring wedding ceremony performed Saturday at 3 p. m. in her father's church, Grace Methodist, Youngstown, united Miss Janet Alberta Smith, formerly of this place, and Derwin Clark Iversen.

The Rev. Norman Summer-ville read the vows.

The bride's brother, Leonard, presented the organ prelude. Her father, the Rev. L. E. Smith, gave her in marriage.

She was attired in a white embroidered organza creation of floor length with fitted sleeves and short. She wore a bodice and square neckline. Her finger-tip veil was of illusion lace. She carried a white Bible set off with white orchid.

Miss Daryl Eckert was the maid-of-honor, in white embroidered organza over blue taffeta. She wore a picture hat and carried white and yellow carnations.

Bridesmaids were the Miss-

Regulations to control small boat activity during the passage of the Royal Yacht Britannia through the St. Lawrence river, Great Lakes and connecting waters have been issued by the Secretary of the Army.

Contained in Local Notice to Mariners Number 69, published by the Commander, Ninth Coast Guard District, the regulations state: "All small craft and sight-seeing vessels shall, on the approach of the Britannia and escort, clear the channel and lay to until the convoy has passed, and shall make no attempts to overtake, pass or approach closer than fifty (50) yards to the Britannia and escort vessels."

"No craft shall be maneuvered so as to affect adversely the movement of the Britannia and escort vessels and all craft shall accord the right of way to the Royal Yacht and escorts."

The anchorage and movement of all vessels on the United States side of the International Boundary will be under the control of the Coast Guard. Coast Guardsmen are empowered to enforce strict compliance with the regulations. Waters on the Canadian side of the boundary line will be similarly controlled by the Royal Canadian Mounted police.

A patrol of the perimeter around the royal yacht will be maintained by Coast Guard and Royal Canadian Mounted Police boats, with aerial assistance from Coast Guard helicopters.

CD event Sunday boasts daredevils

A 25-year-old Tennessee college student who defies death to gain his education will be one of the feature acts at the "CD Spectacular" at Willard airport Sunday.

"Dynamite" Beam chose the profession which caused the death of his predecessor in Iowa two years ago.

"Dynamite" climbs into a coffin in which is placed two sticks of 40 per cent dynamite. The dynamite is discharged, it blows the box to splinters. "Dynamite" emerges uninjured.

As an extra feature at the CD Spectacular Beam for the first time in his life will undergo this test with eight sticks of dynamite.

This quantity of explosives caused the death of Beam's predecessor, the world renowned "Captain Dynamite" who died before 35,000 people at the Iowa State fair in 1957. Beam has signed waivers absolving CD from all responsibility in the event his daring experiment at Willard is unsuccessful.

Purpose of the entire show is two fold: to educate the public regarding the national and state services available to this area in time of disaster and to raise much needed money for CD equipment for all units.

Automobiles dating back to 1901 will be exhibited Sunday.

So will a championship 800 HP drag racer, owned by the Tibboles brothers of Bellevue, a new car only recently tested in a distance of one quarter of a mile. This four wheel rocket attained a speed of 135 mph. The brothers believe the car will reach 150 mph in actual competition.

This will be the first time this speed monster will be shown to the public. This car is entered in the International Drag race at Detroit, Mich., in August.

The Tibboles brothers are recognized as world champions in drag racing and will be present at the show with their many trophies to meet the public in person.

Another special feature of the show will be display furnished by the Atomic Energy Commission, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

In recent showing at Toledo the same display drew more than 35,000 people at the museum in three days. It represents a complete thumbnail education regarding the use of nuclear power and it's atomic structure.

Erie Ordinance depot will exhibit for the first time in this area the actual nose cone of Explorer I missile.

This was the first nose cone recovered by the United States after several unsuccessful attempts to put an object in outer space.

In addition, the depot will display a 22-foot HX missile on a launching ramp, and demolition equipment.

Lieut. Elton South, Co. G, 145th Infantry, Ohio National Guard announces his entire group will bivouac at the Willard airport Saturday night and Sunday in order to show the public how this is done under actual combat conditions. According to Lieutenant South, he will demonstrate close-order-drill of his 75 men
