

Acrimony marks alley debate, council says action must await legal advice, study

Acrimonious debate ensued for nearly two hours before the village council Tuesday night before the post office department representatives learned the council will "sit on it for a while."

Principal parties to the debate were Postmaster Raymond L. Brooks, whose investive was primarily directed at the council and at David H. Bachrach; Roy E. Ronke, an attorney, from the regional mail director's office at Cincinnati, and Bachrach, who appeared late and was drawn into the debate by Brooks.

Ronke said the federal government's concern in the alley situation develops because it has "an equitable interest" in the property of William C. and Doris Enerby, for which it paid only $1 and which it intends to assign to William Biesheimer, Toledo.

Ronke said the government "merely asks the village council to do its duty and enforce the law, which is that it is the community's obligation to keep its public ways free of nuisances."

ARTHUR BURRAS, NORTH Fairfield surveyor retained by the government to locate the alley, said he found the brick building owned by Arthur W. Heck to extend over the alley line by 2.5 feet at the front and 4.35 feet at the rear. A fence belonging to Bachrach is, he said, about five feet over the alley line.

Ronke threatened a taxpayer's suit for failing to remove a nuisance when the council showed no inclination to proceed at once to the clearing of the alley.

What councilmen advanced by explanation was summed up by Elmer E. Markley and Donald E. Akers, separately.

Markley: "What we are trying to do is live up to our oaths and not be discriminatory against any one person at the expense of any other person. If we move against one, we've got to move against everybody."

Akers: "If the post office were itself building the building, I'd say the council ought to take some action. But it's not that. It's a question of private profit."

Solicitor Joseph F. Dush didn't entirely agree with Ronke as to what is the law, but there seemed to be agreement on these points:

1. If the survey is true, the encroachments on the public way are actionable.
2. Encroachers are liable for damages deriving from the presence of encroachments in a public way. The village's liability because it fails to enforce removal is open to some question.
3. Any citizen can launch a taxpayer's suit to compel the nuisances to be removed. If it is upheld, the village would be liable for the citizen's costs.

BACHRACH ASKED SOME questions early in the debate, the line of which suggested he doesn't entirely approve of the post office's location or the suggestion that he should sacrifice status quo to a greater degree than anyone else.

He said the post office may revert to second-class status, now that the sales tax stamp business of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Mission church has been all but liquidated.

To this Brooks replied hotly "some things have come up

McCormick files bid to be mayor

Franklin W. McCormick, 45, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is the first candidate for mayor to file a nominating petition.

A resident of the village since 1942, he is married and the father of a son and a daughter. He is a member of First Presbyterian church, operates a television and radio repair service and a shopping news and addressing service and is a part-time employee of the post office.

Signs yesterday were that Mayor Thurman R. Ford may reconsider and file a nominating petition.

William Fazio is a third candidate understood to be circulating a nominating petition.

One in 13 juveniles in court in 1960

"Don't quarrel in front of your children," Miss Jane Powley, Huron county's juvenile court probation officer, told New Haven WSCS Thursday.

The admonition is the first of a series of 10, prepared by a psychologist, which Miss Powley urged upon parents to halt growth of juvenile delinquency.

Others: Treat all your children with equal affection, don't lie to a child, observe mutual tolerance between parents, develop comradeship between parents and children, treat friends of your children as welcome visitors in the home, always answer children's questions, don't punish or blame a child in the presence of the kids next door, don't over-emphasize your child's failings but concentrate on his good points, and be constant in your affections and moods.

Miss Powley says she handles from 40 to 59 new cases each month. During 1959, she said, "one in every 13 children in Huron county will become involved with juvenile court."

Stricter marriage laws, more love and care of children within the home and more cooperation with law enforcement officers are some steps the community can take to overcome the spread of juvenile delinquency, she said.

Seventeen members and seven visitors heard the speaker, Mrs. R. E. Van Wagner and Mrs. A. H. Newmyer were hostesses in the church.

Mrs. Harley Kendig conducted the business session. Alternate meetings during the new year will be staged in the evenings. They will begin with guest night Wednesday, Oct. 21.

Officers' training day will be at Savannah Sept. 22.

Debt reduced to only $62,000 by calling of water mortgage

Decision of the Board of Public Affairs to call the water mortgage 13 years in advance of its due date leaves the village debt at $62,000.

It's owed for expansion and repairs to the electric power distribution system, undertaken in 1952.

Clerk Carl V. Ellis reported two weeks ago that as of June 30 the sum of $30,084.96 has been paid into a fund to retire the mortgage.

He reported a surplus in the electric fund of $31,965.20.

Thus the village has assets earned by the electric distribution system equal to the amount of the mortgage with a balance of $49.76.

The Board has no plans to call the electric mortgage within the immediate future, the clerk said, but "the figures show we've got enough to pay our debts if we had to."

Sewer service fund now has a balance of $29,473.26.

11th annual ox roast set by Legion, Firemen here

Assistant Fire Chief Ray Bright and Legion Finance Officer Lyle Biddinger are co-chairmen of the 11th annual ox roast to be staged by the two groups in Jacobs' grove east of here Saturday and Sunday.

Other firemen on the committee: Chief J. A. Morrison, Woodrow Smith and Woodrow Utiss.

Other Legionaires: Commander Kenneth P. Fox, Salvatore J. Glorioso and Thomas Crabb.

Firebellies will organize a food tent. Committee members: Mrs. Glenn Hass, Mrs. Bright and Mrs. Harold Ross, amount of the mortgage with a balance of $49.76.

If a legal means could be found of taking title to the principal of the several trust funds established a generation ago, the village would come into $4,611,233.

But as matters stand now, the village may use only the interest which accrues annually, and for purposes stipulated in the bequests—relief of the poor.

sandwiches; Mrs. Lester Shields, Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Jerome Moore, soft drinks;

Also, Mrs. Francis Guthrie, Mrs. Utiss, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Carl McPherson and Mrs. Clayton Williams, novelties and popcorn; Mrs. William Van Wagner, Mrs. Louis Lillo and Mrs. Wallace Redden, coffee.

Roasting committee will put 1,200 pounds of beef into three pits about sundown Saturday. Serving will commence at noon Sunday.

Wayne Stride's orchestra will play Sunday afternoon.

ERIC MULLINS and Joel Van Loo are among seven Boy Scouts at Camp Avery Hand this week. Others: Nick Hunt, Chip Paddock, Delbert Hass, Ray Hankammer, Tim Redden.

15 OR MORE ACRES SEEDED ELIGIBLE TO VOTE

Wheat referendum set today

Farmers who've seeded 15 or more acres of wheat in 1959 are eligible to vote today in the referendum to determine marketing quotas for the 1960 crop.

Farmers who're participating in the feed wheat program, by which they seed more than 15 but less than 30 acres of wheat to be used wholly on the farm for feed, are not eligible to vote.

Where to vote: at Morton school, Shelby, for farmers in Plymouth and Cass townships; at Sheandoah Grange hall, for farmers in Bloominggrove and Butler townships.

When to vote: from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Forecast on the vote: more farmers opposing than favoring, locally and on a statewide basis, but overridden by acreage preponderance in wheat belt states of Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve the quotas, they will remain in effect for 1960-crop wheat. Price supports will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at at least 75 per cent of parity. Farmers who exceed the larger of the farm allotment or 15 acres will be subject to a marketing penalty of 45 per cent of the wheat parity price on their "excess" wheat.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting, the quotas and penalties will not be in effect. Price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. At current parity levels, this would be about $1.18 a bushel.

38 nominated for ASC committee

Thirty-eight local farmers have been nominated to serve as committeemen and delegates to the convention of the Richland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Ten nominees in Bloominggrove township are Roscoe

Hamman, D. C. Humbert, Jay Laser, E. C. Pennell, Enos C. Renner, Clarence Snyder, Guy Stewart, Raymond Wells, Floyd Williams and Raymond C. Wolford.

Ten nominees in Butler township: Ivan Beaty, Frank Dossan, Don Eby, Eldon Fair, Ross Hovey, Milo Huff, Raymond Landis, Jr., John Nebergl, Dudley Strimble and Vernon Wolford.

Ten nominees in Cass township: John Ballitch, Grayson Boor, Frank Dawson, Foster Fackler, Paul Kranz, Aden Loffland, Paul McGregor, Robert Pennell, Roger Pugh and Carl Sparks.

Eight nominees in Plymouth township: George Cheesman, Maurice Cooke, Kenneth Egner, Lawrence Faulkner, Frank Fenner, Chester Jones, Roland Stentz and Paul Stoodt.

An election by mail will be conducted Monday, when ballots will be sent: at noon to all known eligible voters.

Marshal to put bizarre arrest in his memoirs

Police Chief Robert L. Meiser promises to put the case of four persons arrested for drunkenness Saturday night in his memoirs, when he gets around to writing them.

The quartet — three men and a woman — picked up Leroy Hole in North Gamble street, Shelby.

It was apparent to Hole they had partaken more or less copiously of an anti-snakebite medicine.

The men invited him to behave in a manner repugnant to him he told police later. Powerless to defend himself, he foresaw a fate worse than death until he persuaded the driver to stop and let him out.

After he reported the facts to the police, the four were arrested.

The four were arrested in a Shiloh tavern by Meiser, haled into Judge W. R. Morris' court at Shelby and fined $25 and costs each.

They were Millard Stone, Clyde Reed, Glen Hicks and Mrs. Gracie Gibson.

Janet and Louise McIntire are passing the summer abroad, Janet in Plymouth England, Louise in France.

Teacher vacancies total four as board hires six

Teacher vacancies were reduced to four July 15 as the Board of Education in special session acted to submit a record high budget of $38,955.

Six teachers were hired, three for the high school, two for Shiloh Junior High school, two for Shiloh Elementary school.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS for whom contracts were authorized are:

John Stansberry, Clarksburg, Spanish;

Ronald Hostler, Polk, social studies;

Jerry Bishop, Shelby, physical science.

FOR SHILOH JUNIOR HIGH school:

Harold West, North Fairfield, mathematics.

FOR SHILOH ELEMENTARY school:

Mrs. Rose Mamula, Nova, fourth grade;

Miss Lena Faye Ritchie, Hamilton, fifth grade.

A native of Clarksburg, W. Va., Stansberry attended West Virginia university at Morgantown. He has not taught before Hostler has five years of experience at Polk. He is a graduate of Ashland college.

Bishop taught at Lexington three years. He is a graduate of Ohio university, Athens.

Mrs. Mamula is attending Ashland college on a part-time basis.

Miss Ritchie lives in LeRoy, attended Presbyterian college, Kentucky.

Clerk Evan P. LaFollette's figures showed the board can anticipate $172,000 from the state school foundation fund during 1960. A total of $160,000 is expected to be raised from the general property tax.

The obvious conclusion: Plymouth district doesn't support its own schools.

Biggest outlay in the 1960 budget is for instructors' salaries — $71,490.

Transportation costs are estimated at $27,000. This is $5,112.83 more than spent in 1959.

Operation of school plants is increased to $43,000 from $38,501.62 in 1959.

NEEDING WIN OVER BRAVES TONIGHT —

Reds ready to wrap up 2nd half flag

Barring accidents, Legion-Firemen Reds have it all locked up. With only four games left, and the crucial one tonight, the Reds could sweep the second half of Plymouth Midway league without much difficulty. Manager Fred Buzard has his ace, Nero Howard and Tim DeWitt, ready to throw at the Braves tonight. The Reds won the first one, 6 to 4.

If the Reds win this one, they can go to sleep for the rest of the season. And they can thank splendid outfield play for their lead as much as excellent pitching. Steve Ruckman is no DMaggie with the bat, but he made two outstanding catches in center Monday night, robbing the Cubs of extra base blows that might've upset the Reds.

OTHERWISE, THE COLLAPSE of the Giants is the highlight of the second half of the schedule.

The green-clad nine hasn't been able to do much this half.

Manager Ted Fox was robbed of his best pitcher, Howard Wynn, for a week. This week his best catcher is away.

Cubs came close to downing the Braves in a make-up contest Saturday afternoon. The winners needed a single score in the sixth to break a tie and win, 10, to 9.

Hard-luck Eric Akers took it on the chin again Monday night but Phil Goodyke was in the box when the Braves eked out their victory.

Now is turtle time in Ohio. Turtle hunters are using their pet method of taking the creatures. Both snapping and the soft-shelled turtle are sought.

There are several methods of taking turtles. Some hunters build traps, which must conform to Division of Wildlife specifications. Others use set lines with big hooks baited with raw beef neck. A hardy few walk the streams and feel under banks and in muskrat holes for the hard shell of the snappers. They find the tail and pull out the turtle.

A surprisingly large number of snappers are captured while crossing the highway about this time of the year and end up in turtle soup or in a frying pan. Small turtles of 10 pounds or less are usually fried. Larger ones are made into turtle soup, a traditional item among sportsmen everywhere.

The uninitiated may find turtles hard to dress. The main idea is to cut the bottom shell away from the top one. Once the shell is removed, the meat of the turtle is exposed and may be cut out. The best meat is the neck, the four legs and the tail. Skilled turtle hunters claim there are seven kinds of meat in a turtle and all are good. Farm ponds are a favored habitat of snappers.

TWO SUGGESTIONS FROM the Lake Erie area were heard at the state hearing of the Ohio Wildlife council. A committee, representing the Put-in-Bay Fishing & Hunting club, the Chamber of Commerce, village council and American Legion Post No. 542, with Nate Ladd, Put-in-Bay postmaster, as spokesman, urged that a restricted spawning area for smallmouth black bass be set aside, embracing the harbor area of South Bass island. The other was a five-point program, presented in a petition by the same club and trade chamber and endorsed by the Lake Erie Anglers league, with Ladd presenting details.

This petition urged that (1) international fishing laws apply on all of Lake Erie; (2) there be restricted spawning areas for small and large mouth black bass and walleyes in Lake Erie and adjoining

Levering asks views on labor, controls on boss in questionnaire

Views of his constituents on questions relating to labor unions are sought by Rep. Robert W. Levering, (D-Fredericktown), 17th District Congressman.

"I welcome the views of my constituents," he said. He invites electors to send their views to him at 324 House Office building, Washington 25, D. C.

Among questions he submits for opinion:

"Are you in favor of laws giving the rank and file labor union members the right to sue union leaders in civil court if the members are denied any democratic right in union affairs?"

"Do you feel the average union member exercises his personal rights (such as attending union meetings) as much as does the average member of a church, a lodge or other type of voluntary organization?"

"Do you believe organizational picketing should be restricted (picketing to influence an employer to sign a contract whether or not his employees belong to a union)?"

"Do you believe secondary boycotts should be eliminated (boycotting a third party not involved in a labor dispute)?"

"Do you believe it would injure unions if their leaders were required to give certified reports on audits of all union income to members at least once a year?"

"Do you think labor leaders should be required to make their personal finances public on a regular basis?"

"Do you believe labor union records should be immune from taxation?"

We're shocked!

It isn't often we are shocked. And seldom, if ever, by what transpires at a meeting of a church group.

But the account, published elsewhere today, of what the Huron county juvenile court probation officer told the New Haven WSCS frankly shakes us to our bootstraps.

Think of it: if present trends continue, one of every 13 youngsters in Huron county will run afoul of the juvenile court during 1960.

The solution proposed by the officer seems reasonable to us, and we subscribe to it.

But there is something more, and the blemishes fall upon the enforcement agencies themselves.

Item: a valuable ring was taken from a housewife. It was recovered almost two years later, from the finger of a girl whose sister stole it. Although the sister had by this time reached her majority, she and the younger girl were dealt with by the juvenile court.

It was an open-and-shut case. The police officer and the judge admitted they were convinced of the guilt of both girls.

Both were subjected to psychiatric tests, the results of which were never communicated to either the arresting officer or the complainant.

And so far as records available for public scrutiny show, neither girl was ever punished. Neither was placed on probation, so far as we are informed.

We could cite half a dozen similar instances of unwarranted leniency, if not dereliction of duty, by the juvenile courts. Yet court officers, whether judges or other functionaries, repeatedly approach the public with requests for more money with which

Firelands sesqui opens

After six weeks of preparation, Firelands Sesquicentennial celebration gets underway at 6 p. m. Saturday with a homecoming and queen's parade, followed by official opening ceremonies at McGuan field.

Rep. A. D. (Dave) Baumhart, Jr., 13th Congressional District representative, will be the principal speaker.

Other dignitaries on the program will be Norwalk's Mayor and Louis F. Frey, General Chairman Paul Tucker and ambassadors from the parent cities in Connecticut after which the Firelands communities of Norwalk, New London, Fairfield, Danbury, Greenwich and Norwalk and New Haven were named.

Sesquicentennial queen's ball will begin at the VFW Clubhouse at 9 p.m.

Connecticut State Sen. Abner W. Sibal, representing Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, will be the guest speaker at 8 p.m. Sunday, at the sesquicentennial heritage program, in the high school auditorium.

Homecoming day, Monday, will feature the first of a series of six nightly performances; at the Huron county fairgrounds, of the mammoth historical spectacle, "From Those Embers", depicting the high-lights of the Firelands' 150 years. The pageant-spectacle, with more than 500 volunteer actors, will be presented on a huge out-door stage, with music and unusual lighting effects. It was written and directed by Carl Hawley, from a history prepared by Norwalk teachers.

Although subsequent days of the celebration have been designated Youth, Ladies', Transportation, Industrial and Veterans and Fraternal days, the Sesquicentennial will salute Firelands communities as follows:

July 27 — Greenwich, New London and North Fairfield

July 28 — Monroeville and Vermilion

July 29 — PLYMOUTH and Willard

July 30 — Berlin Heights, Norwalk and Wakeman

In addition to being feted at all events during the celebration, the winning queen candidate will receive an all-expense paid trip to New York and Bermuda, with a companion of her choice.

The candidate receiving the second highest number of votes will be crowned either "Miss Huron" or "Miss Erie" locally, depending upon her place of residence. She and the other eight runners-up will be the recipient of special awards.

The Firelands, consisting of Huron and Erie counties, Danbury township, in Ottawa county, and Ruggles township, in Ashland county, is comprised of land originally parceled out by the State of Connecticut from 500,000 acres set aside for this purpose after the Revolutionary war, to compensate residents whose homes and properties were burned and destroyed by British raiding parties during the Revolution.

to establish diagnostic centers, counsel the root of the troubles.

Well and good, we say. But the sympathies of the public are much more likely to be extended to those courts which exercise the powers of the law so as to deter others from similar behavior.

Which brings us to another point: publication offenses involving juveniles.

Where a juvenile is involved innocently, no decent citizen would wish his name spread in the public prints. But even the main body of juveniles themselves, as polled by a Purdue university professor, indicates it would prefer to have news of juvenile offenses published.

Police officers have a nasty habit of telling reporters they can't have the names of juveniles. What gives them the right to censor the press? If a reporter discovers that a police officer is seized of a juvenile offense, and can detect the names of those involved, he is at liberty to publish the facts. Nor does a police officer have any right to withhold the names from him.

When a charge is referred to a juvenile court by a magistrate, the matter is no longer privileged. The reporter runs the risk of contempt proceedings by publishing what he finds by inquiry.

We shall continue to publish the names of juveniles who commit offenses of such nature that substantial damage is done to person or property. And we shall continue to be highly critical of law enforcement agencies which do not discharge what we conceive to be their duty: to punish the guilty, in a degree consonant with the offense; to protect the innocent, and to preserve the common morals of the community from pollution by the unpunished.

Suzie sez

This is my week to be Pop's baseball dog robber.

Chip is away at camp. Somebody has got to fetch the sandwiches and cold drinks while Pop listens to or watches the ball games. And keep his finger in the record books so he can check up on the announcers and the sports writers.

Chip says Pop really knows his baseball. If he does, then Mr. Lane of the Cleveland team does. Pop says this isn't so. He claims two people can have different ideas about baseball and still be right. They pay off, he says, with the pennant.

Since his team has won the pennant more than anybody else's team, Pop thinks he's more right than anybody.

Anyway, before he left Chip went over the duties of baseball dog robber.

A dog robber is a word they use in the Army for the man who shines his shoes and presses the suit of an officer.

These duties, Chip says are: 1. Keep a partly filled can of beer handy.

2. Keep the score card.

3. Get a sandwich every four innings.

4. Root for the Yankees.

I READ THE PAPERS OVER the weekend, so I can do my job and collect the money for it honestly.

If I couldn't do a better job of writing the story of the games than those Cleveland writers, I'd quit.

There aren't any lady sports writers, Pop says, that he knows of. The baseball writers association won't let them in the press box. They must be afraid of what a good writer can do.

And here I was going to ask Mr. Lane to let me come up there and do the job right.

P. S. I am a Cleveland fan, in spite of Pop and Chip. So I expect this week will be tough.

Sir: May I make a suggestion that space be reserved by white paint on the wide sidewalks next to the curb on, say, two sides of the square for motor scooter parking?

Because of the congested parking problem at times on the square it hardly seems fair that a scooter should occupy the full space of a car.

We do have plenty of sidewalk room and the space could be so marked so as not to interfere with walking past to get into your car.

Sincerely yours, Marle Guthrie (Mrs. F. E. Guthrie)

Ice cream social planned for today

An ice cream social will be staged today at 8 p. m. at Plymouth Grange hall by the Maid of the Mist.

Members' families will be guests for the annual affair. Each member is to bring a pie or a cake and her own table service. Ice cream will be furnished by the club.

Retired grocer, 77, Frank Seaman dies in Shelby hospital

For many years a grocer in Shelby and Shiloh, before his retirement a year ago, Frank S. Seaman, 77, died Thursday morning in Shelby Memorial hospital.

A widower, he is survived by three sons, Marion and Lester, Shiloh, and Elmer, Shelby; a daughter, Mrs. Billy Wilson, Shiloh, 12 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Walter Adams conducted last rites Saturday at 2 p.m. from the McQuate Funeral home. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

and Mrs. Frank Brinson took the latter's daughter, Myra, to the 4-H Conservation camp near Utica Monday.

Mrs. George Kirkpatrick was hostess yesterday for an all-day meeting of the B. Square club. A co-operative luncheon was served at noon. Ten members answered rollcall by naming their favorite television program. Next meeting will be a picnic in Mary Fate park.

Enroute from Texas to his home in Ludlow, Mass., Carl Gibb stopped in Shiloh to call on his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alice Gibb, and his small grandson, Robert.

Here's remainder of long, sad story of hassle over alley that you don't know anything about that might very well keep us a first class office." He didn't elaborate.

By this time, Ronke's reiteration of what he said is the government's stand — "all we want is for the council to enforce the law and clear the alley of nuisances" — brought a counter play by Markley: can't the property owners arrange a compromise?

When Ronke then said a taxpayer's suit is the alternative, implying the government's side would win, Bachrach replied in even tones "it'll be lost in the courts — don't count on anything very soon."

To this Brooks answered: "Why didn't you stay in Oklahoma?"

So lon, said Ronke, "as this one individual takes this unyielding attitude, I would have to say our position is that we will endeavor to obtain enforcement of the law by taxpayer's suit."

Ronke's partner, Robert Dyson, real estate officer, Cleveland, tried to throw oil on the waters by seeking a compromise.

By the time the council moved on to other business, Brooks and Ronke sat glowering on their end of the bench and Bachrach puffed on a calash pipe at the other, neither budging an inch.

AT THE MEETING'S close, Ronke again asked what he could report to his superiors. He couched the suggested report in what was plainly irritating to the council: "Am I going to have to report this council refuses to do its duty and enforce the solemn law of the state?"

Finally Mayor Thurman R. Ford said the council will discuss its position with its legal adviser and take such action as may seem appropriate.

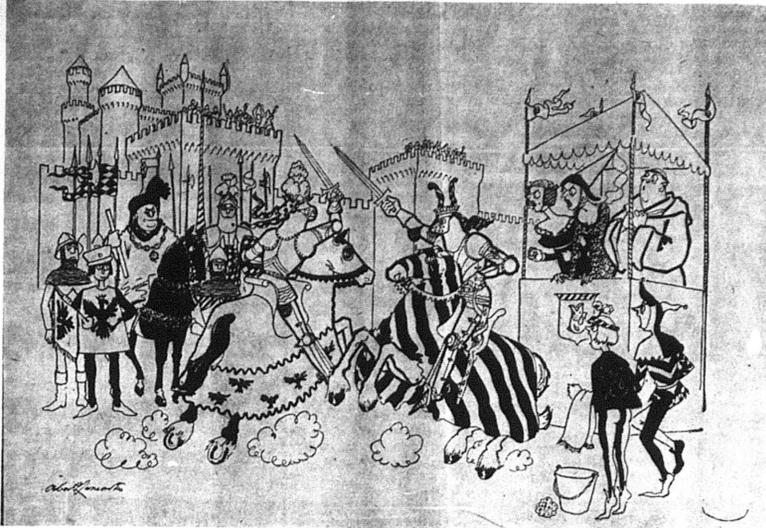

By vote of four to two, Akers and Councilman Lowell Keith dissenting, the solicitor was ordered to bring in an ordinance calling for a reduction in table rental rates in pavilions of Mary Fate park. They will now be 75 cents per table on week days and $1 on Saturday and Sundays for 15 or 20 ft. tables, $1 straight for out-of-towners.

Clarence Vogel said he will appear next week to discuss a complaint of bushes obstructing the public view in Nichols avenue.

John Ray was ordered to remove obnoxious weeds.

Robert D. Sponseller, son of the Moody R. Sponsellers, Shelby route 3, will take Miss Barbara Groff, daughter of the Madison Groff, Souderton, Pa., as his bride there Sunday.

CARD OF THANKS

With humble hearts we extend our deep gratitude to friends for every act of kindness at the time of the death of our wife and mother, Blanche Pettit. The cards, the wonderful words spoken to us by those who knew her, the visits, and the beautiful flowers all made her parting easier to bear.

Especially do we want to thank Rev. Wonder for the comforting words and Drs. K. E. Barth, F. E. Moore, and James Barth for their patient and immediate attendance.

Our thanks to all who sent in food and to the Auburn Center neighbors who served food at the family home. May God's richest blessings be with each of you.

OHIO in the CIVIL WAR

Sherman House
 Gen. W. T. Sherman

One of the few men to turn down an opportunity to be President of the United States and really mean it was an Ohioan General William Tecumseh Sherman, one of the most distinguished Union army leaders of the Civil War. Born and raised in Lancaster, Gen. Sherman, a graduate of West Point, at the start of the Civil War was superintendent of the State Seminary of Learning and Military Academy at Alexandria, Louisiana, a post he resigned to join the Union army. His was record was clinaxed by the Atlanta campaign where he led one of the most massive and lengthy military raids in history. Many Ohio soldiers followed Gen. Sherman from Chattanooga to Atlanta and on to the sea. Gen. Sherman succeeded fellow Ohioan Gen. Grant, as a commanding general of the army in 1869. He was the third American to be commissioned to the rank of General, only Grant and Washington preceded him in this rank. Sherman House, the birthplace Gen. Sherman in Lancaster, is maintained today as a museum by the Ohio Historical Society and thousands of families visit this home each year.
