

AFTER TWO BRUTAL STORMS IN WEEK, WONDER IS

What hath God wrought?

Hard on the heels of last week's wind and rain storm, a 20-minute flash hailstorm caused damages estimated at 1 million dollars in the area southwest of Plymouth Monday afternoon.

Principal damage was sustained by Celeryville truck crop growers. Edwad Postema, manager of the Ohio Agricultural field station at Celeryville, said his "figured 2,000 acres with an investment of $200 an acre and a likely gross of $500 an acre are a total loss."

John F. Stambaugh, Celeryville's largest grower, reported his onion crop all but completely lost.

AN ONION SMELL COULD be detected in the Public Square Monday toward 4 p.m., attesting to the ferocity of the storm.

Burr Knaus, who lives at Baseline road and Route 598, reported seeing hailstones "as big as a hen's egg."

Corn particularly was damaged, probably beyond recovery. It was estimated that 2,000 acres of corn in Plymouth and Auburn townships showed visibly their concern for the situation.

A quick tour of the muck area showed heavy if not irrecoverable damage to onions, potatoes, corn and some beans.

Trees felled, wind destroyed barn

A freak wind and rain storm at 2:15 p.m. July 1 wrought substantial damages here, resulting in loss of electric power for seven hours before combined efforts of local, Shiloh and Willard utilities personnel could restore it.

Celeryville growers, traditionally closemouthed about their losses because they believe it's nobody's business showed visibly their concern for the situation.

A quick tour of the muck area showed heavy if not irrecoverable damage to onions, potatoes, corn and some beans.

Frank Fenner, a neighbor, suffered equally.

Willford Postema, also living in Route 98, said hail damaged tomatoes and potatoes.

BUT THE MOST OF THE damage was wrought in the Celeryville area, where truck crops — particularly suspectible to damage from hail — are the chief vegetation.

Celeryville growers, traditionally closemouthed about their losses because they believe it's nobody's business showed visibly their concern for the situation.

A quick tour of the muck area showed heavy if not irrecoverable damage to onions, potatoes, corn and some beans.

Most serious damage was to a barn on the property of Mrs. Harry Brooks, 357 West Broadway. It was halved by the high wind, said to have a velocity of 75 miles an hour at times, and pieces of the studding were found 375 feet to the east of the structure.

The roof of the seed house of Bachrach Co., 66 Walnut street, was torn off.

TREES WERE BLOWN OVER in Greenlawn cemetery, causing the sexton, Lyle Bidinger, and his assistant unnumbered hours of additional labor.

Damage to the local power establishment will probably be counted in "four figures," George W. Cheeseman, a trustee of the Board of Public Affairs, said.

It derives from a damaged transformer, "which will cost about $500 to replace," and in extra-time payments to local and Willard and Shiloh personnel.

Supt. of Light & Power Russell J. Moser was unable to restore current to the Square on a continuing basis until 9 p.m., although it resumed on a spasmodic basis at 8:30 p.m.

Stores on the Square, commencing at the alley east of Millers' Hardware & Appliance and continuing to Spring street, were completely without current from 2:15 p.m.

Others east of this zone were without current after 4:10 p.m.

THE FOLLOWING IS A partial list of major damage:

Miles Christian, 150 West Broadway, large tree uprooted power disconnected;

George A. Carlier, 75 West Broadway, large tree blown over, power interrupted, B&O railroad bridge damaged;

Mrs. Clyde Lasch, 57 Sandusky street, large tree blown over;

George Ellis, 35 Railroad street, large tree uprooted;

Miss Anna Sheely, 214 West Broadway, large tree uprooted;

Plymouth Elementary school three large trees blown down;

Mary Fate park, two large trees blown across access road;

Fate-Roost-Heath Co. Plant No. 4, large tree uprooted.

A large tree in front of the Paul Colyer residence in Plymouth street blew across Rt. 61 and was removed by the street department.

The northeast and eastern sectors of the village were without street lights until well after 9:15 p.m.

By daybreak Thursday, save for removing of downed limbs and trees, order and service had been restored.

TYPICAL OF CORN destroyed in Monday's hail storm was this lot in north field of Frank Fenner, in

NEW HAVENITES INJURED

DWI charge costs local man dearly

Cars operated by Thomas Rhine, 24, Plymouth, and Arnold Kimberlin, 26, Willard, received moderate damage Friday night when they collided opposite the residence of Mrs. Ervin Coy in Route 61.

Rhine had been visiting a friend, A. Dean Grabach, who lives in the rear of the premises.

He was summoned on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way. State highway patrolmen said his car was leaving the driveway to the west.

Rhine was also sentenced to three days in the county jail and fined $200 and costs on a charge of drunken driving.

Jess Cornell, 26, Plymouth route 1, received a summons from the state highway patrol on a charge of speeding. Earl Barker, 54, Plymouth route 1, was charged with violation of a stop sign.

Two New Havenites, brother and sister-in-law, complained of injuries July 1 after the car she was driving in Route 224 near Route 61 was struck from the rear by a New Londoner.

Mrs. Joe Roseberry, 46, and Donald J. Chapman, 38, were treated by a Willard doctor after the collision, which occurred at 5:15 p.m.

Mrs. Roseberry told state highway patrolmen she was Lawrence Wagers, 19, Shiloh received an injury to an elbow. Ernest Brobers, 32, Lakewood, Martin's passenger, received bruised knees.

Stima was summoned to a hearing in Huron county juvenile court on a charge of failing to signal a left turn.

A second freak collision in Route 61, almost identical with one which took place a week previously, derived from low clearance of the B&O railroad bridge north of Route 162.

A tractor-trailer rig driven by Leroy Bramham, 46, Lakeland, Fla., was being backed up toward the Route 162 intersection because it wouldn't clear the underpass when Virgil Garrison, 42, Flint, Mich., collided with him.

Willard Marsh area is one of two public hunting areas being improved for fall hunting, according to a report from Robert Schueneman and Al Cannon, game managers in northeastern Ohio.

Some 10,000 feet of level ditching creating waterfowl habitat is finished and more is to be dug. An attempt to start a nesting colony of ducks on the area was made last spring, with the release of 100 wing-clipped mallards. Young pheasants will be placed in pens on the marsh in mid-July, and will be allowed to fly out at will. This is called the "gentle release" method of stocking pheasants.

The 1,500-acre marsh is primarily a rabbit-pheasant area," reports Schueneman, "but the ditching should begin to pay off in waterfowl hunting. Last year was a good year for deer hunting on the area."

Mercury reading of 80 and above notwithstanding, some fans are beginning to take up football and hunting.

Item: OHSAA uses prevent drills for fall football from starting before Aug. 20.

Item: pheasant and rabbit season dates will be extended this year.

THESE DATES HAVE been approved by the Wildlife council:

Pheasant season: opens Nov. 16, closes Dec. 9. Daily bag limit: two; possession limit, four; shooting hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Squirrel season: opens Sept. 15, closes Nov. 2, in zone 2, which is hereabouts. Daily bag limit: four; possession limit, eight; shooting hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Rabbit season: opens Nov. 15, closes Jan. 4, 1960. Daily bag limit: four; possession limit, eight; shooting hours, daylight to dark.

On public hunting grounds, such as Willard Marsh area, rabbit and pheasant seasons will be extended to Jan. 16, 1960.

Deer season: for bow hunters, opens Oct. 15, closes Dec. 31. Season bag limit: one; hunting hours, daylight to dark; for gun hunters, opens Dec. 10, closes Dec. 12; bag limit same as bow hunters.

Raccoon season: opens Nov. 2, closes Feb. 29, 1960, no bag limit.

Quail having been authorized as legitimate game, this year, quail season opens Nov. 16, closes Dec. 9. Daily bag limit is six, possession limit 12; hunting hours: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

'BUZZY' SAYS 'NUTS' TO SCHEDULE

Reds trounce Giants, 24-7

Schedule or no schedule, Manager Fred Buzard implied forcefully Monday night, his high-flying Reds can more than hold their own against anybody.

The crafty chief of the Legion-Firemen Reds started second-line pitching against the POOM Giants in the first game of second half PML play Monday night and stuck with it as the Reds rallied to swamp the green-suited outfit, 24 to 7.

After the second inning, it was no contest.

Norman Howard hurled the first three frames and save for a shaky first inning, when he got precious little support, did well.

After the Reds jumped off to five scores in their half of the first, the Giants took advantage of some sloppy infield play and applied three hits to it to forge ahead by one.

The Reds came back in the second with two runs and the Giants tie it up in their half, and then broke it wide open with five in the third, five in the fourth, one in the fifth and six in the final frame.

After the second, the Giants could do nothing with the front-line Red pitcher, Nero Howard, Norman Howard and southpaw Tommy Young.

Firelands scrolls to be delivered

Scrolls containing official resolutions of greetings from Firelands communities were delivered this week to namesake cities in Connecticut by Mayor and Mrs. Burt Meyers of Milan.

Greetings mark the sesquicentennial celebration of the Firelands, which originally consisted of 500,000 acres and today comprises all of Huron and Erie counties and small parts of Ottawa and Ashland counties.

The acreage was parcelled out by the State of Connecticut after the Revolutionary war to its residents who were pillaged by British forces.

The sesquicentennial celebration set for the week of July 26, will be highlighted by the nightly presentation of a historical pageant with a cast of 500 persons on a 300-foot wide stage.

Mayor and Mrs. Meyers delivered the scrolls to the mayors of parent towns in Connecticut in behalf of Norwalk, Greenwich, New London, Monroeville, Celererville, New Haven, North Fairfield, Wakefield, and Milan.

Scrolls from Monroeville went to Ridgefield, from Willard to Norwich, Berlin Heights to Berlin, Wakeman to Bridgeport.

Documents from Celeryville and Milan, representing Huron and Erie counties, will be delivered to Governor Abraham Ribicoff.

Mayor and Mrs. Meyers planned to be in Norwalk, Conn., yesterday and at the Governor's mansion in Hartford tomorrow.

Special messages have gone to other Connecticut communities announcing the itinerary of Mayor and Mrs. Meyers.

The scrolls were collected by citizens who toured the Firelands by ox team and traditional costume.

The senator stands on ethics, OFTZ Inc. bill overcomes jam

(Ed note: The following was prepared prior to Tuesday's joint resolution breaking the log jam on the bill. It was introduced by Sen. Charles Carnegie (D-Youngstown), was referred to the rules committee, will probably be reported out today, voted on tomorrow.)

Possibilities that Wilkins Air Force station at Shelby may be converted to an inland foreign trade center seemed clouded this week when Governor DiSalle said he wouldn't push the legislation.

His first Lieutenant, State Sen. Frank King (D-Toledo), Senate majority leader, all but washed his own hands of the bill.

Unfavorable sentiment among Sheliens — almost all of them Republicans — began to develop June 24 against Senator Charles A. Mosher, Oberlin Republican who represents the 27th and 29th senatorial districts.

They said he showed no enthusiasm for the legislation, which calls for establishment of an inland foreign trade zone at Shelby, the first such zone in United States history, and suggested he is reluctant to support the measure because:

1. It's introduced by Democrats.

2. It would destroy the "monopoly of a leading Republican colleague," J. K. Simpson, senator from Forest, who obtained legislation from the Republican majority two years ago that would allow him to have an inland foreign trade zone at Bellfontaine.

AFTER A MEETING IN A Shelby church June 29, Mosher's constituents began to bombar him with telegrams and letters urging him to support the legislation. This was necessary, the meeting was told by Roy Stroup, former mayor of Shelby, because Cleveland Democrat had defected from Senator King's leadership and Republican support would be required to pass the bill.

To this Mosher replied — he said it was for seasons of economy of time and space — mimeographed letter, each of which he signed. It said:

"... I doubt that you realize what you are asking me to do, in terms of legislative procedure, precedent and propriety. On the surface at least, the vote you ask of me can be considered very improper. There are possibilities that this deal might explode into a major legislative and political scandal. It is unheard of for a special interest group to ask this special favor, the introduction of extremely important private legislation many weeks after the deadline, in the confused closing hours of the session and seemingly (as it has been put to us in the Senate) as a special political favor... with the strong suggestion that individual politicians stand to benefit personally."

Mosher said he had been approached by backers of the project to convert Wilkins into an inland foreign trade zone for the first time June 29, long after plans to introduce legislation had been announced.

He implied this was an error of procedure, perhaps of ethics, since the zone would be established in the district he represents.

By Friday night, Mosher and Governor DiSalle had parleyed long and frankly. Mosher said Monday he found some discrepancies between representations made to him by backers of the project and information given him by the governor.

He implied Sheliens would be less angry with his position when they know all the facts.

A REVIEW OF THE plans, in simple language, seems called for.

Two years ago, when development of the St. Lawrence seaway became a fact, public notice began to be taken of the possibilities of foreign trade in the Lake Erie basin. Entrepreneurs realized that possibilities of industrial development of the hinterland of the port of Toledo became imminent if traffic in imports at Toledo should increase.

Some of them approached Senator Simpson, himself an important land owner near Bellfontaine. The plan was to obtain enabling legislation allowing a 3,000-acre site near that city to be declared an inland foreign trade zone, into which goods could be imported free of duty, processed or fabricated, their values added to, and held in federal control until sale to wholesalers or retailers, whereupon duty would be collected.

It would have been the first such inland zone in the country although four coastal zones are operating.

Simpson's legislation commanded the support of Republican majorities in both houses of the Ohio legislature and the bill was passed. Inlandia, Inc., became a fact.

But I didn't need to wonder. He had another minister there to do the job.

Pop says that baptism is so easy, that anybody can do it, that you don't have to be a minister to baptize a person, he wonders why everybody isn't baptized.

My uncle was a grown man before he got baptized.

He wasn't satisfied with his name, but he took it anyway, after 20 years or so.

Pop says there's a difference between christening and baptizing, and I will try to put it down.

Baptizing is removing the original sin. Christening is giving the child its name.

In some churches, Pop says, baptism is done by putting the person's whole body under water.

George the Compositor can tell you about how he was baptized a second time in a creek, in cold weather, while hog.

I'll take the way they do it with only a few drops, thank you.

Bank to be open on Friday evenings

Farmers & Citizens bank, Monroeville, announcing an increase in rate of interest paid on savings deposits to three per cent, also said it will remain open Fridays until 8:30 p.m.

But commencing July 15, it will remain closed all day Wednesdays.

PAY INCREASES FOR SIX village employees, amounting to $15 a month, were turned down by Monroeville village council. Vote was four favoring, two opposed. A three-fourths vote is required.

Although Chief Jerold Henery used improper language when arresting Mrs. Evelyn Mundy on a traffic charge, he should not be discharged, a police committee at Monroeville reported July 1.

ATLANTIC & PACIFIC Tea Co. is erecting a $75,000 supermarket in New London, first super market in that community of 2,500.

Lexington Local School district will ask for $600,000 in bonds at the November election to finance a new school.

... so now it's question of $

But its resources were small, mostly on paper, and it had no buildings in which to operate. Its intention was to encourage the erecting of buildings in the enclave by private businesses anxious to operate under favorable terms of trade. It has never applied for federal authority to establish the trade zone.

Two months ago, a Youngstown-Akron real estate developer Edward de Bartolo, described as a well-heeled individual with close connections with DiSalle, became interested in the Shelby proposition. His "front man" is a Bruce Dodd.

The plan is to acquire the Wilkins Air Force station site, enlarge it in time, encourage industry to build within its confines and participate similarly as the plaza at Bellfontaine granted Inlandia.

It would be a $25-$100 million proposition in the long run.

SHELIENS SAID THEY've no doubt de Bartolo has that kind of money, whether himself or with "associates."

Because the plan is, for reasons that are not entirely clear, more closely attached to the port of Toledo than to Cleveland, Senator King's support was sought and obtained.

Deadline for introducing bills in the Senate is long past. Special motion to allow a new bill to be introduced would require emergency support.

An intra-party scrap between DiSalle and King, on the one side, and Cuyahoga county Democrats responsive to the leadership of Ray Miller on the other, deprives the Democratic majority of absolute control of the Senate.

Republican support would also be required to bring Ohio Foreign Trade Zone, Inc., to discussion and ballot by the Senate.

Mosher was said by Sheliens to be the "tap from which all blessings flow" — his O. K. is necessary, because there are half a dozen senators who vote with him.

By week's end, it was clear King doesn't intend to force the issue. Whether this was because he feels he can't swing the vote (once earlier in the session he thought he could swing a vote, found at the last minute he couldn't resort to vulgar, extra-legal tactics such as extinguishing the lights in the senate chamber to stop voting) or because he has lost enthusiasm for the project, he didn't say.

Governor DiSalle's refusal to govern the bill is introduced

"for the common weal" leaves it squarely up to de Bartolo and Miller, quarterback of the Cuyahoga county Democratic organization.

If the Youngstown and Miller crew "make a deal, perhaps even get Cuyahoga county to join the Ohio Democratic party again," Ohio Foreign Trade Zone, Inc., stands a chance in this session. But chances of such an arrangement seem remote. This is what may have been done by arrangement for a joint resolution, although neither points out the resolution doesn't mention Shelby at all, hence is not on its face, "special interest" legislation. — ENO Note

Miss Mary Ann Butner, only daughter of Shiloh's only physician, became the bride of an Indiana university school chum in a formal double-ring ceremony in Mt. Hope Lutheran church Saturday afternoon.

The bridegroom, John Richard Pieratt, is the son of the Lloyd H. Pieratts, South Bend, Ind.

Her father led Miss Butner to the altar, attired in a white silk organza creation of flower length, designed with scoop neckline and cap sleeves, both edged with Alencon lace.

The altar vases were filled with white carnations. Beautiful vases of white gladioli and carnations set off by palms were in the chancel as the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Cassel met the bride.

The front of her skirt was embroidered with cut-outs of Alencon lace. Her gown was buttoned to the waist in back and the skirt fell into a chapel-length train.

Her finger-tip veil was suspended from a cap of Alencon lace. She carried white orchids, stephanotis and ivy on a white Bible.

MISS ELIZABETH PFLIEGER, Ind., was maid of honor.

Miss Judi Miller, Merchantville, N. J., was bridesmaid.

They were attired alike in blue silk organza, cut with squared necklines, puffed sleeves and embroidered bodices. They carried colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds and blue net and wore small velvet head-pieces.

Ronald Snyder, South Bend,

Ind., was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Lakes, Brookville, Ind.; Dean H. Staack, Park Ridge, Ill., and John C. Butner, the bride's brother.

A reception for 150 followed in a Mansfield hotel.

Miss Patricia Stull, a college classmate of the bride, served refreshments.

A graduate of Shiloh High school, the bride attended Sullins Junior college, Bristol, Va., and Indiana University at Bloomington before graduating from Elkhart University, Elkhart, Ind. She is a member of Omega Mu sorority.
