

Seven Plymouthites escape quake injury in Yellowstone

Seven Plymouthites — a college junior, a family of four and a married couple — experienced the violent earth tremors in Yellowstone park near Ennis, Mont., that took the lives of 16.

The college boy was reported to his family that he's all right. The family of four hasn't been heard from, but there's no reason for alarm for their safety.

Bill Howard, an Ashland college student, is the son of the Raymond Howards, Willott road, Plymouth route 1. He works during the summer at Canyon Village in Yellowstone park, to earn money to pay his way through Ashland college in the winter. He's studying to be a high school teacher-coach.

The shocks of Aug. 18 found young Howard lying in bed, talking with his roommate, Walter Paulsen, 19, Detroit, Mich.

Walter told the story to the Detroit Times:

"We were lying in bed talking 10 minutes to 12. The whole place started shaking. Bill and I ran outside because we thought the buildings were going to fall.

"The other employes and most of the 1,500 guests of the resort were all running around too. It was a pretty confusing mess for a while.

"We finally went back to bed. Had a rough time sleeping. The whole place seemed to shake all night."

"Roads leading west from Canyon Village have been closed by park officials.

The Evan P. LaFollettes were reported by friends to have been in the area. A regular barrage of postal cards from the mws interrupted about Aug. 19, giving rise to the suspicion they may have been inconvenienced by the earth slides.

The LeRoy Loflands escaped the earth slide by two hours.

Constable in middle of trustees vs. sheriff police service fight

Ohio's overlapping law enforcement agencies lose one facet effective Nov. 6 and may gain another.

The story is what's stirring New Haven township these days, it indeed any issues are being debated.

The constable as an elected functionary of the township goes out of business Nov. 6, by law. Constables serve processes, subpoenas, can make criminal arrests, may enforce laws covering misdemeanors. Their pay, for the most part, derives from fees paid by the defendant in civil actions.

Incumbent in New Haven township is A. W. Penrose, who filed a nominating petition for reelection. Now he finds he won't be on the ballot because there's no job. The Ohio legislature ruled it out.

When this was done, the new law provided for the appointment by township trustees of a police constable, having the authorities, duties and perquisites of a village marshal, more or less.

BUT SO FAR AS CAN BE determined, it didn't make such appointment mandatory. And New Haven township trustees think they should get their police protection from the county sheriff.

The problem has been the subject of debate between the trustees — Walter (Jack) Noble, Glenn Evans and William Link — and the sheriff for a long time.

New Haven township differs from essentially rural townships in at least one important respect: it has a substantially built-up, non-incorporated area with considerable residential population and business places along a major state thoroughfare.

And it has three alcoholic beverage dispensing establishments.

For a time, some months ago, offenses against civil and criminal law were common in the township and some places were believed to be gathering points for delinquents.

The trustees asked for a "stronger show of force" by the sheriff's department. They were told the sheriff answered and would continue to answer calls for enforcement of the law in the township, but that on many calls they were making what amounted to "wild goose chases". Complainants declined to execute warrants, merely wanted the sheriff to "quiet 'em down."

Incumbent Sheriff Harry Broome argued the purpose of his department is to enforce the law and preserve order, but that facilities and personnel were not so strong that he could "show force" everywhere all the time.

HE IMPLIED THE TRUSTEES could engage their own police constable, and said he knew there was more than enough money in the township's general fund to pay him.

The trustees retorted that the money in the fund had been entrusted to them by the taxpayers of the township, that the balance was high because they had planned wisely and well, and that the law requires the sheriff to enforce law and order. They said they would continue to press for stronger police protection.

Now Penrose is running hard for appointment as police constable.

The trustees have no axe to grind against him personally, they say. They contend it's a matter of principle.

Two local men win $1,150 in awards for job suggestions

Two Plymouth men have received awards totaling $1,150 for outstanding job performance.

Donald E. Smith, a bombing-navigational system analyst, radio-radar equipment repairer at Harlingen Air Force base, Harlingen, Tex., has received $150 incentive award and a sustained superior efficiency rating for the past year.

He is the son of the D. L. Smiths, 33 West High street, and the son-in-law of the Dalton F. McDougals.

Son of the Walter Hatches, Ralph Hatch, Tire route 1, a die maker at Fisher Body plant, Mansfield, has been awarded $1,000 for a work improvement suggestion.

The biggest single prize since the plant was opened in February, the award came for suggesting elimination of a die in the production process. The money brings to $2,149 earnings made by Hatch for such suggestions. He intends to pay for the education of his five sons with it.

Summerfield surrenders

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield had surrendered; it was learned this week.

The new Plymouth post office will be erected on the property owned by William C. and Dris Enderby with only 20 feet of alley in the rear.

Christian Weber, veteran

Democrat, was informed in answer to an appeal to Rep. Robert W. Levering, 17th district Congressman, the post office has agreed to the 20-foot accessway.

An effort by The Advertiser to obtain comment from the post office department func-tionaries who threatened court action to enforce the nuisance law proved fruitless.

The decision to proceed on asis basis is a clear victory for David Bachrach, Arthur W. Heck and Percy H. Root, prime movers in opposition to the proposed 30-foot access principle.

Earl Roberts loses mother at Shiloh; Arch C. Weiser succumbs at 83

Mother of Earl Roberts, Mrs. Maudie Rose Roberts, 60, died at her home in Shiloh Saturday.

Last rites were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Free Pentecostal Church of God in Shiloh by Mrs. Kathleen Pugh. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

She is also survived by her husband, Claud; three daughters, Mrs. Virginia Pugh, Willard; Mrs. Gladys Stumbo, in California, and Mrs. Marie Butler, Willard; three sons, Carl and Roy, Shiloh, and Corby, in West Virginia; one sister, three brothers; 46 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

McQuate's in Shiloh was in charge of the arrangements.

A. C. Weiser . . .

A retired Plymouth township farmer, Arch C. Weiser, 83, died at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in Mansfield General hospital after an illness of six months. A granddaughter, Mrs. Larry Horn, Ashland, and two great-granddaughters survive.

Mr. Weiser was a member of Shelby's First Lutheran church and of Hazel Grove Grange. He was formerly Richland county's sealer of weights and measures.

The Rev. D. Bruce Young, his pastor, conducted last rites Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. Burial was in Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

Chief clarifies reason for quitting

Fire Chief Judson A. Morrison this week clarified his reasons for resigning.

"I have a business which I work at in my family if I work at it," he said, "and I am a member of the school board. The demands on my time by the school board and by my growing family are such that I simply can't attend all the meeting and do all the jobs that're cut out for me. So I have to drop one, and reluctantly it was the fire department."

Assistant Chief Ray Bright said he quit because he had promised Morrison when the arrangement was made in the beginning he would resign when the chief resigned.

Bright also said he felt he had served the fire department long and faithfully and it is now the duty of others to carry on "whether in the present fire house or a new one, though I doubt very much we get a new one."

Pupils to report to same buildings as last school year

Pupils of Plymouth school district are assigned for 1959-60 to the same buildings last year, except sixth graders riding Buses No. 6 and 9, Supt. M. J. Con announcements.

Paul Kranz drives No. 6, Reed Noble No. 9.

Sixth graders on these two routes will attend Plymouth Elementary school.

It may be necessary, he said, to assign other sixth grade pupils in the Shiloh area to Plymouth Elementary school.

All pupils in grades one through six residing in the Plymouth area will attend Plymouth Elementary school. Pupils in grades one through six living in the Shiloh area will attend Shiloh Elementary school. All seventh, eighth and ninth graders will attend Shiloh Junior High school. Pupils of grades 10,11,12 are assigned to Plymouth High school.

A made-in-Plymouth violin, reputed to be in mint condition, with two bows, case and rack, was offered Aug. 16 for $30. The seller was Floyd B. Carter, veteran chief of the engineering department of Fate-Roed-Heath Co. The maker was Samuel Parker, who used to live at Plymouth and West High streets and whose workshop was in the barn now owned by James Horn. The buyer was young John T. Dick.

But the date was Aug. 16, 1926.

And Mr. Dick still has the violin.

Mr. Carter had a substantial collection of musical instruments for sale then. Plymouth was a musically-minded community. The Ganges band, in which Harry Dawson booted for nearly four decades, was a regular feature of Saturday night concerts in the old bandstand in East Main street until a disagreement with a merchants' committee supplanted it with the Mansfield Reformatory aggregation.

But Mr. Carter was selling. He offered a pair of clarinets, both by Kolert, one a B and the other A, low pitch, the B having four rings and rollers, and glass mouthpiece, both newly padded and in fine condition, with one double case and a single case — the whole ball of wax for $35. He's still got 'em.

He put up a York metropolitan trumpet with built-in low pitch, B and A, like new, with two mutes, and a new case, for $25. It sold.

And finally, he had a Conn alto saxophone, low pitch, silver plated, with gold bell, and a new case, for $60. It was sold, too.

In 1926, a man worked three or four weeks for $60 cash money.

"It just goes to show you what progress is," observes Mr. Carter, "now a man only has to work a third that long to buy the same instrument, which is probably a better one than what they sold then."

Floyd Carter comes by his music naturally. His is father and grandfather before him were musicians and teachers of music in Colum- bus. Young Floyd was apprenticed to the violin at the age of four and grew up with that instrument. Later, with only a few lessons, he began to play wind instruments.

FOR SOME YEARS HE played in Shelby, Willard and Plymouth bands.

"When John Root got tired of playing piccolo in the Plymouth band," he said this week, "I sat in for him and stayed with it for, two or three years."

Why he never sold the Kolerts isn't a slur against the selling power of classified advertising in The Advertiser, Mr. Carter says.

"I just didn't get the money I wanted for them right off and I hung on to them. They'll still play, although they're made for the Albert system, whereas nowadays they use the Behm system. The only difference is on 3 notes, so that in Albert you play sharp and in the modern system you play natural. I can play both but I think I like the Albert best."

SAMUEL PARKER was locally renowned as a violin maker. There are some who retain examples of his handiwork. Raymond Wilkinson, Shelby historian, philatelist and antiquarian, remembers having to ride the Sandusky, Norwalk and Mansfield "street car" from Shelby to Plymouth with his elder brother's "fiddle to get it turned, and God help me if I didn't take care of it."

Parker died of the labors of his fruitful life, with no one to carry on. In time, Mr. Carter thinks, his violins will become treasure pieces of Ohioana.

It took 15 years for Plymouth's enthusiasm for music to die out after the beginning of World War II.

"After 1914," Floyd Carter recalls, "theatres didn't keep the five and six-man orchestras like they used to. And by 1926 or 1927, hardly anybody had a town band any more."

His son, Roy, became a pianist of considerable talents, played in college orchestras at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa., and "still has a fine Hammond organ at home," his father says. "But to play an organ you've got to work at it, keep the hands limber, and Roy doesn't have the time."

More's the pity, one concludes.

Red eleven making progress

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

It's got a new name and new squad, but you can count on the same tough offense from Coach Anthony S. (Tony) Aiello at Wakeman.

It's Western Reserve High school now, not Townsend-Wakeman, and with eight lettermen having graduated Aiello has to patch up some holes.

He's got 12 monogram winners returning, headed by the doughty Dave Eungard, a light but fast senior whose backfield play was outstanding last season. Eungard is slated for the important quarterbacking job.

Larry Nosack, a 166-pound junior, may get the nod at fullback. Roger Kuhn, another senior, weighs only 135 but has experience and may serve at halfback.

UP FRONT THE ROUGHRIDERS are fairly well set, so far as first line players go.

Line Coach Ike Ferris has two big sops, Robert Larson and Duane Sheldon, at 175 and 163 pounds, respectively, at tackle on one side, joining 187-pound Lynn Walton on the other.

Jim Smith, 175, and Paul Adams, 135-pound senior, are available for guard. So is Spencer Klucas, 160-pound junior.

Larry Bruker, a junior, weighs only 132 but has experience at center.

Dick Habernigg, 150 pounds, is another junior with line experience.

Forty-five players have reported for pre-season drills. Aiello hopes to improve on last season's record of two wins and six losses. This is the Roughriders' schedule: Sept. 11 NCC preview - 18 South Amherst away

26 Milan home
Oct. 3 Westfield home
10 Black River away
17 Berlin Heights home
24 Seville home
30 Lodi away
Nov. 6 Plymouth away

The Big Red's 1959 football season is a week old today. Although complete returns aren't in, Coach Lew Petit says he detects some trends that'll stand up when all votes are counted:

1. The starting eleven will have spirit this year.
2. There won't be many seniors on it.
3. Laggards and those reporting late will have a heap of catching up to do before they can break into the starting lineup.

4. Performance of some of the new comers has been more than satisfactory.

Steve Patterson and Jim Russell, both monogram winners and counted on for offensive service as breakaway runners, have not yet reported for practice. This displeases the Plymouth mentor. He says it isn't fair to the candidates who've sweated through uncommon summer heat for the post-veg.

DOUG McQUATE HAS A starting berth at end nailed

Piloting classes set

Elementary piloting classes are offered by Mansfield Power squadron in Senior High school there Sept. 15 and 16.

The classes, free to all who wish to enroll, both boat owners and non-boaters, will begin at 7 p.m. on the second floor of the building. The sessions are conducted over two hours and will be offered at Ashland High school Sept. 14 on the same basis.

They will return to Mansfield Jan. 5, 1960.

Phil Sloane will probably be the starting center. Phil Ramsey and Jay Baker, both experienced hands, are learning both tackle and guard assignments. So is Dick Bookwalter, who appears to have clinched a starting tackle job.

Gary Fletcher is looked upon with favor by the coaching staff for a tackle post.

The Big Red scrimmaged New London yesterday, goes to Sandusky tomorrow.

Adios Butler's stock goes up for Little Brown Jug

Adios Butler, who some thought "lucky" to cop the first major 500 preview to the Little Brown Jug, has made his rivals choke on their words by winning an encore to his initial victory and topping it off by capturing his last start last week.

He won in 2:01.1, only a tick from the winning mark (2:01) of 1958. Clint Hodgins, Canadian-born driver who pilots Adios Butler, is at 52 apparently riding a crest of victories. He not only accounted for Butler's fast win when several Jug rivals were walloped, but he also drove Circo to that trotting colt's first 1959 win to make him a strong threat in the Hambletonian. They're now calling Clint a double-threat man — and with cause.

Adios Butler has beaten Meadow Al, driven by Joe O'Brien. Joe was 1958 Jug winner and like Hodgins, Canadian-born. Butler has also trounced Adios Day, who earlier this season shared favored status with Meadow Al. All three crack pacers are by Adios, with Al and Day sharing records of 2:00.3 of '58 the sale. He dropped to second money in his last start several days ago. Caton, who despite his early years in Russia, has lived mostly in Ohio, believes he may have his first Jug winner in the Florida-owned colt.

The widest open field of pacers in Jug history appears certain as at least half a dozen horses, driven by top-ranked sulky veterans, are today closely matched. This should also mean heavy entries of those on the semi-confident fringe, who figure hopefully that the ever-present "breaks" in a major race may spell good fortune for them.

AT NEW LONDON PARK FOR LABOR DAY—

Top Golden Glover to box Toledo boy

Eight bouts of boxing will be one of the attractions at this year's Labor day celebration in New London. "Chuck" Burns, former grizzer and boxer, is in the main event, a five-rounder, against Roger Bell, of Toledo.

Burns, weighing 160 pounds, is a three-time Lorain Golden Gloves champion, twice a Cleveland Golden Gloves champion, semi-finalist National runner-up in the eastern tournament at New York this year. Burns' opponent, Bell, is a Golden Gloves runner-up.

Other matches lined up to date include another five-rounder James McQueen, (160) Lorain Golden Gloves champion, Lake Erie champ this year, an exercise man, who holds several division championships, is matched with Leotus F. Martin, a Toledo Golden Gloves champion.

A number of three rounders will fill out the bill.

These bouts will be staged Saturday, Sept. 5. The ring will be set up inside the ball diamond. In event of a rainout, the bouts will be held Sept. 12th.

Thurman J. Peabody, Norwalk architect, said he would move promptly to prepare a sketch of what is proposed and submit cost estimates.

Meanwhile, opposition to any plan to buy the theatre site was laid on the argument the property is not worth the asking price of $12,000.

On TV and in the movies, they try to make things seem like real. But I wonder who they think they're fooling?

When Indians ride horses on TV or in the movies, they are using bits in the horses' mouths. The encyclopedia says they never did in old times.

When the Indians and the cowboys or the cavalry have fights, you never see the horses get shot or hurt. The encyclopedia says that the first target of the Indian or the cavalry soldier was his enemy's horse. If you could get them on the ground, you could pick them off like cherries.

But what gets me the most is that the private detective always has a place to park his great big car and it is always right smack in front of the place he is going. Besides, this happens two or three times in a half hour program.

GRANDMA LEFT HER home right after supper Friday night and didn't get here until very early Sunday morning.

She said the train got a hot journal on the way to Trenton and at North Philadelphia they had to lay over. Also at Baltimore this happened.

By the time the train got to Washington, her connecting train had already left. So she had to wait from 1 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. in that hot city before she could get the next train.

Pop says when a major railroad can only offer two trains a day out of the national capital, things have come to a pretty pass. He says that's a heck of a way to run a railroad.

NOW THAT WE HAVE got the 50th state in the union, and we have a new flag, I think it is high time we recognized the 51st state, which is always here but has no boundaries, no capital, no principal industry or agricultural crop but is important all the same. It is the State of Confusion. Pop says if you want to find it you have to go to Washington. I say you can find it in our kitchen when he is cooking.

They imply that to appoint a police constable will tend to develop a snowball that will involve an office, transportation and equipment and a telephone that will cost the township money it shouldn't need to spend.

Penrose says he doesn't want such a job, but that his neighbors in built-up New Haven want a police constable around to "show a badge when it's necessary and put a little fear in folks who otherwise might break the law."

Signs are the trustees will let Nov. 6 come and go without availing themselves of the right to appoint a police constable.

Miss Phaenon Guthrie wed to H. J. Sloan

A ballerina length bridal gown of lace over taffeta and net featuring long sleeves descending to points over the wrists was the costume chosen by Miss Phaenon Ann Guthrie of Shiloh for her marriage to Harmon James Sloan Aug. 16.

The Rev. Stanley Shoemaker read the double ring ceremony in Shiloh Methodist church before an altar decorated with two beauty baskets of white gladioli and snapdragons and lighted by candelabras.

Miss Carole Hunter was organist, Mrs. Glen Strong vocalist.

Miss Guthrie's gown had a stand-up collar. The gown itself was fashioned and sewn by the maid-of-honor's sister-in-law, Mrs. Dal Perry, Ontario.

A CROWN OF SEQUINS and pearls held her finger-tip veil. She carried a white Bible, on which was a white orchid from which fell streamers tied with lilies-of-the-valley.

She wore a pearl pendant and earrings, the gifts of the bridegroom.

The bride is the daughter of the Charles Guthries, the bridegroom the son of the Judd Sloans, Shiloh route 2.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Alice Perry, Ontario, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Ruth Pittenger and Miss Judy Hamman, both of Shiloh.

Mrs. Perry wore a ballerina length dress in an orchid hue, fashioned of flocked nylon organza over taffeta. The bridesmaids were in pink flocked nylon organza over taffeta. Their dresses: were cut with scooped necklines over fitted bodices, full skirts set off with large bustle bows in the back, and set off with pink nylon mitts. The dresses were cut and sewn by the maid of honor.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were pearl necklaces and earrings, which they wore during the wedding.

Richard Pennell, Plymouth route 1, was best man. Howard Cuddy and Jack Hall, both of Shiloh, ushered.

Mrs. Guthrie wore a dress of rose lace with white accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Sloan was attired in navy blue with white carnation corsage.

A reception followed in the church rooms. Mrs. Edgar Kempf and Mrs. John Hedeon, the bride's sisters, and Mrs. Dean Hamman and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, the bridegroom's sisters, were hostesses. Miss Jeannette Sloan registered guests in the bridal book.

Mrs. Fred Mellick, Ganges, made the four-tiered cake, which was served amid pink and white streamers and bells from a bank of fern on the center table.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Shiloh High school employed by Shelby Salesbook Co.

Molasses is the syrup separated in the production of raw can sugar. When used as a food ingredient, soda is generally included in the recipe.

Miss Vredenburg becomes bride of R. D. Mumea at New Washington

Ronald D. Mumea took Miss Rita M. Vredenburg of New Washington as his bride in a candlelight ceremony in St. John's Lutheran church there Aug. 16.

The Rev. Lewis G. Nicol read the double ring ceremony which united the son of the Adam L. Mumeas of this place with the daughter of the Walden Vredenburgs.

Blue and white carnations set off the chancel during the ceremony. White bows marked the pews.

Miss Vaughn D'Lee Faust presented an organ prelude and played the Lohengrin march as the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

SHE WAS ATTIRE IN net and lace over white satin, fashioned with Peter Pan collar and long sleeves fitted at the waist. A tulle veil was attached to her gown. A gold pendant, gift of the bridegroom, was her only jewelry and she carried a white Bible, to which was attached a corsage of blue and white carnations.

Mrs. Joseph Clabaugh, Shelby, the bridegroom's sister, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Baker, Plymouth, a friend of the bride, and Mrs. Gary Smith, Canfield, her cousin.

They were similarly attired in blue lace over blue satin, fashioned in ballerina length, with bandeaux of blue and silver on their heads. They carried blue and white carnations.

Larry Vredenburg, the bride's brother, was best man. Raymond and Gary Smith, Can-field, the bride's cousins, ushered.

Deborah Moorman, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl, in light blue. Randall Smith, Canfield, son of the Ramon Smiths, was ring bearer.

ALL OF THE BRIDAL ATTENDANTS wore single strand pearls, the gift of the bride. Groomsmen received matching cuff links from Mr. Mumea.

Mrs. Vredenburg wore navy blue with blue accessories and a blue and white corsage. Mrs. Mumea was attired in turquoise set off with white accessories and a blue and white corsage.

A wedding reception in the church basement followed the 7 p.m. ceremony. Mrs. Dean Moorman of this place assisted with the serving.

The bride, a graduate of New Washington High school, is employed by R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Willard. Mr. Mumea, a graduate of Plymouth High school and a veteran of three years of Navy service, is employed by Fisher Body plant, Mansfield.

The Mumeas are living at 66 Mill street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McBeth attended the funeral service of a cousin, Mrs. Ralph Stearns, in Bluffton Sunday afternoon.

Mary Robertson and John Fetters were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Shasteen in Akron.

A family picnic of the E. B. Millers and Mrs. P. W. Thomas and her family was held at Millers' farm Sunday.

The Robert Echeberrys spent last week at East Harbor.

An international goodwill gesture has been reciprocated by the Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England, in a letter to Mayor Thurman R. Ford.

At the beginning of the summer, Janet, elder daughter of the Robert L. McIntires, having completed the freshman year at Ohio university, Athens, went to England with 10 other American girls for a month of living with British families.

By her hand, Mayor Ford sent a scroll hand lettered by John T. Armstrong, expressing appropriate sentiments between the two top functionaries of their respective communities.

Miss McIntire writes: "We went to the Lord Mayor's Parlor at 12 noon Aug. 6. He and the Lady Mayoress greeted us very warmly and informally. They served us a lovely tea, showed us their chains with emblems of office around their necks, and had us sign several guest books.

I presented my greetings with a few . . . words. He read it aloud and proclaimed how wonderful it was."

The Lord Mayor's reply, sent to Mayor Ford, is reproduced above.

Miss McIntire's visit to Plymouth, England, is not the first time a citizen of the Ohio village bearing that name has visited the famous port city of about 74,000 whence the Pilgrims sailed for the New World.

The late Dr. George J. Searle visited Plymouth, England, during a European tour several years ago.

But Miss McIntire is surely the youngest citizen of Plymouth to have visited the mother city and the only one to have produced the exchange of formal greetings in permanent fashion.

She is due home soon to enjoy the hospitality, Evanston, Ill. in Northwestern univer-

THE LORD MAYOR'S PARLOUR
 16, PORTLAND VILLAGE
 PLYMOUTH.
 4th August, 1959.

Dear Mr. Mayor,

It was with very great pleasure that I recently welcomed the group of young people from America who were visiting Plymouth under the auspices of the Experiment in International Living. The Lady Mayoress and I enjoyed meeting all the members and especially Miss Janet McIntire of Plymouth, Ohio.

The Scroll of Greeting was formally presented to me and I would like you to know how much the City of Plymouth appreciates your kind thought and friendly message. Our association with your country has been long and cordial and the opportunity of meeting your people is of value not only for our young people, but for all who have been privileged to meet these students. I am convinced that visits of this kind are of great value in achieving understanding between nations and so establishing peace and good-will throughout the World.

With every good wish to you and to the people of Plymouth, Ohio, from the citizens of Plymouth, England.

Yours sincerely,
John Washbourn
 Councillor P. N. Washbourn
 Lord Mayor.
