

Capital AFROTC drill team to march here tomorrow

Two Shilohans say 'aye' at Memphis

Charles W. Swanger, airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Swanger, Shiloh route 1 was graduated Sept. 30 from the aviation familiarization school at the Naval Air Technical Training center, Memphis, Tenn.

During the two-week course, students were instructed in aircraft familiarization, designations; types and missions, aircraft handling, first aid, aircraft fire fighting, math and physics.

Graduates are advanced to one of the many technical schools located at the center. Raymond E. Stima, airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allie B. Crager, Shiloh, route 2, is serving at the Naval Air station, Memphis, Tenn.

He reported to Memphis Sept. 12 from Great Lakes, Ill. Before entering the service in June, 1960, Stima graduated from Plymouth High school.

Five youths admit destroying boxes on rural mail route

Five Plymouth youths were arrested Thursday night and held for interrogation by federal postal authorities on a charge of malicious destruction of rural mail boxes.

The five are Cecil Mulvane, 19, Plymouth route 1; Lowell Gayheart, 18, Plymouth route 1; Ralph Frisby, 17, Shiloh; David Roberts, 17, and Harold Moore, 16, Plymouth.

The destruction is said by police to have occurred in Richland county roads south of Plymouth.

A student drafted by one of the five and signed by the others was sent by a federal postal investigator to Cleveland Tuesday. The boys are free pending action.

Election meal set

Annual election night supper will be served by Plymouth Methodist church Nov. 8 from 5 to 7 p.m.

Democrats in Cass and Bloominggrove townships and Shiloh are invited to a political rally at Church and West Main streets, Shiloh, Oct. 28 at 7 p.m.

Larry Hammar and Christ Alanantoff, chairmen, announce all county Democratic candidates will be present.

Miss Carter elected

Martha Carter was elected president of Troop 198, Girl Scouts, Monday afternoon. Cheryl Levering is secretary, Suzanne Paddock, treasurer, Mary Ann Kieffer news reporter.

Scouts plan a hike to the Carter farm in Willet road. Date has not been set. All members, old and prospective, are urged to attend the next meeting.

Four teachers get early Yule gifts

Four teachers in Plymouth school system were given an early Christmas present by the Board of Education Oct. 12.

On recommendation of the county superintendent, Dale Kinney, the fifth increment on the salary schedule was increased from $50 to $110.

Teachers who fall in this category are Mrs. Harold H. Farrar, Mrs. Kenneth D. McGinnis, Mrs. Dorothy Williams and Ronald Hooper.

With no pressing business to discuss, the board gave its attention to the easement of the Ferrell property adjoining the Shiloh buildings.

Band parents night set as Big Red meets Milan

Band Parents night will be observed in Mary Fate park tomorrow as Plymouth's Big Red meets Milan's wireless Indians in an NCC game.

Third appearance of Capital university's crack AFROTC drill team will highlight the observance, which the band hopes to make an annual one.

Milan's 26-piece band, directed by Donald Stanley, will accompany the Indians. The 48-piece Plymouth unit will join the visitors in pre-game ceremonies and present a special half-time show as well.

The Big Red is favored to win this one by 18 points.

A new trumpet trio, the Cardinals, composed of Jane Hamman, Carol Postema and Robin Root, will play a blues number.

The drill team first came here a year ago when Jack E.

McQuate was its commander. His deputy, Cadet 1st. Lieut. Richard A. Myers, New York, N. Y., will command the 24-man unit in its pre-game drill.

After the game, the team will be guests of the R. Earl McQuates for refreshments.

Scores of Big Red opponents last week:

Vernison 28, Clearview 16, N. St. Paul 14, Berlin Hts. 12, Cloverleaf 36, Black River 6, Col. Crawford 28, Mohawk 18, Western Reserve 26, Milan 6, Bellville 38, Loudonville 14

A birthday!

Sunday is The Advertiser's 107th birthday.

Vol. 1, issue No. 1, was published Oct. 23, 1853, by David Ross Locke and James Robinson.

No special celebration is planned by the publisher. But he volunteers to pay for as many cups of coffee as may be asked of him during the usual Friday morning "kaffe klatsch".

Golden Agers to meet

Plymouth Golden Agers will celebrate Halloween Thursday at a 6 p.m. pot luck supper at the Presbyterian church. Costumes are optional.

The entertainment committee of Mrs. J. Elden Nimmons, Mrs. Mark Caywood, and Mrs. Albert Marvin are planning games. A group headed by Mrs. C. O. Cramer is in charge of the meat dish and coffee which will be furnished.

Guest night set by 20th Centurians

Mrs. John F. Stambaugh will be guest speaker Monday night when the Twentieth Century circle entertains at its annual guest night.

The circle will dine at the Hotel Shelburn in Shelby. Mrs. Stacy Brown is chairman of the dinner arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. Harry Dick, Mrs. Carl V. Ellis and Mrs. Verda T. Weller.

Mrs. R. C. McBeth is head of the group who arranged the meeting. Her committee includes Mrs. J. Elden Nimmons, Mrs. Ruby Young and Mrs. Norman B. McQuown.

The hospital beat

Martin Kruger is a patient in Willard Municipal hospital. He was admitted Oct. 5.

Richard Hampton is also a patient in the same hospital, where he will undergo surgery.

Council sets parley with WPCB Nov. 3; sewer issue in grave doubt of approval

Village council made news Tuesday night less for what it did do than for what it didn't.

Clerk Carl V. Ellis reported that appointments have been made in Columbus on the morning of Nov. 3 to:

1. Discuss with Aiden E. Stilson Associates, Ltd., sanitary engineers, the termination of the contract binding the village with them.

2. Endeavor to convince the Water Pollution Control board that a lagoon oxidation type of sewage treatment system should be approved for Plymouth.

Whatever result — and the council was frank to say it has only faint hopes of a favorable one — it is virtually impossible to rescue the $150,000 general obligation bond issue on the Nov. 8 ballot.

As of now, the council has no plans, no financing worked out, no concrete proposals to disburse the $150,000 even if it were to be voted. Estimated cost of the sewage system is $636,000 with an activated sludge disposal plant.

If the WPCB refuses to consider the lagoon oxidation type of system, the council would have to go before the electorate to "sell" a plan which is not yet a plan. No average cost figures have been formalized and no rate figures have been reached.

If the WPCB does approve the plan, there wouldn't be enough time between Nov. 3 and Nov. 8 to prepare and present engineering works to support the bond issue.

APPARENTLY RESIGNED to its fate, and a little bit embarrassed, the council turned Tuesday night to administrative matters. It ruled:

1. A speed of five miles an hour will obtain in the access road to Mary Fate park, in the park itself, and adjoining the high school.

2. It will negotiate with Carl Montgomery, Plymouth route 1, for access to a dump site, but at less cost than what Montgomery proposes.

3. Each department head will submit budget estimates and major project undertakings for the next calendar year not later than Dec. 6. These will be studied and pared if needed. It is the council's intent to develop budgetary studies for a five-year forward period.

4. Non-residents will continue to pay a $25 premium for cemetery lots, even though they may be village taxpayers.

5. Halloween will be limited to one night, Oct. 29, informally — it was officially designated "beggar's night" — and one night, Oct. 31, formally, when the Community club will stage the annual Halloween parade.

'I'm not guilty', pleads Mrs. Hettinger

Mrs. William Hettinger, Shelby route 1, pleaded not guilty Monday morning to State Highway patrol charges in Shelby Municipal court.

She was charged with overtaking another car without an assured distance. Mrs. Hettinger's car struck one driven by the Rev. William Conces on Sept. 30 in Route 602 west of Shiloh.

Her case is tentatively scheduled to be heard Monday.

Fourth period passes produce 20-14 Bulldog win over Red

There was a game of football played in Mary Fete park Friday night, before the largest crowd ever assembled there.

And but for an unfortunate mistake in judgment by the player who was otherwise the most outstanding one on the field, the home forces would have won this one and scored the biggest upset of the season.

As it was, Butler's undefeated Bulldogs were hard pressed to defeat Plymouth, 20 to 14.

EVEN WITH A 15-YARD penalty for tackling by the face guard gave the visitors first down near midfield instead of fourth down and 10 deep in their own territory, Plymouth could have and probably would have won save that Dayton Reed misjudged the speed of one Dick Wharton, Bulldog flanker back.

Here's how it happened: midway in the fourth period, after Plymouth had roared back from a lackadaisical first half and tied the score at 14-14, Bob Young kicked off to Thorne on the Bulldog 25. Sargent got to the 30 and Thorne was thrown back to the 29. On third down, Plymouth was socked with the penalty. Sargent rolled to the 47, and Kline went across the 50 to the Plymouth 47.

Ken Farst, certainly not the all-state quarterback this night, sneaked to the 45. Another dive play got nothing.

All this time, Wharton was out on the left flank, going through the motions of seeking a pass from Farst. And Farst was sending his runners up the middle.

It was a perfect bit of advertising. But Reed either didn't see it or paid no mind to it.

On the next play, Farst hit

Wharton with a 20-yard toss to the Plymouth 25. It was first down. The Big Red braced and limited the Bulldogs to two yards net in two plays.

And then Farst did it again. He threw to Wharton on the same well-advertised play and the Bulldogs were in on the Plymouth goal. Kline rammed in for the touchdown. Fast failed to convert.

PLYMOUTH HAD TWO more chances to regain its equilibrium and win this contest. Neither paid off.

After Stortz kicked off to Reed, who handed off to Carter, with six minutes left, Reed's running got nine yards in three tries. But on fourth down, with the Bulldogs drawn in and thus ripe for a pitchout play, Reed sent Russell into the line. He missed the first down.

Butler was unable to advance. In four plays, the visitors got only five yards and Kline punted. He booted diagonally across the field and netted one yard. It was by far the poorest punt ever seen in Mary Fete park.

There were slightly more than three minutes left at this point. Reed's pass intended for Ken Van Loo was intercepted by Wharton on the Red 49. Butler failed to make a first down and the Red took over on its 39. Reed sought to pass but couldn't find Van Loo on two tries or Russell on a third. On fourth down, Morton intercepted a long one and the Red was dead.

The gun came seconds after BUTLER KNEW IT HAD been in a football game, despite the efforts of some of its supporters to deprecate the Plymouth performance on the grounds Butler was off its game.

It was all Butler in the first half. But it was a different Plymouth team in the second half.

Storts kicked off to start the yards on the rumbaks, to the Plymouth 35. In 14 plays, the Red was in the end zone.

Twice unable to connect by passing, because his receivers dropped the ball, Reed turned to running. He ran well, accounting for 30 of the 65 yards himself on three rollouts. His toss to Russell, over 14 yards, scored the first touchdown. Van Loo snared one at his shooteps for the PAT.

Two plays after the kickoff, Plymouth was in business again. Jim Fetters recovered Farst's fumble on the Butler 34. Reed tossed to Russell for eight, sent Carter off tackle for 14 in two plays, and rolled out himself for the tying touchdown. His pass to Russell for the PAT didn't work.

Butler jumped off to a big lead on the first play from scrimmage. After Butler had returned the opening kickoff to the Bulldog 2, Kline dashed off left tackle for 58 yards. Sargent bucked for the PAT.

Toward the end of the sec-one period, Butler scored again on a 12-yard pass from Farst to Kline.

Sargent failed to convert this time.

THIS WAS A FINE EXHIBITION of schoolboy football, well worth anybody's admission price.

And if the Big Red plays up to this standard in the remaining games of the season, its fans will see some fine football. It was no shame to lose this one.

Summary:

Score by periods:
Butler 2 6 0 6-20
Plymouth 0 0 14 0-14
Lineups: Plymouth: ends K. Van Loo, Lewis; tackles: G. Fletcher, Fetters, Root; guards: N. Sammons, Kieffer, P. Fletcher, R. Young; center: Barbour; backs: Reed, Russell, J. Hamman, Carter, Christian, B. Young.
Butler: ends: Wharton, Morton; tackles: Lawhorn, Larcomb; guards: Meeks, Teeter; center: Stortz; backs: Farst, Thorne, Kline, Sargent.

Getting ready for winter... by telephone!

It's a familiar scene around most farm homes today... getting ready for the winter by telephone! Today's modern farmer lets his telephone run those time-consuming errands as he prepares for the long cold months ahead. Keeping pace with modern farming and mechanization, the telephone grows in importance day by day. It's little...but it means a lot!
