

Bastille day recalls civil unrest in Italy involving local couple

Today is Bastille day, the 171st anniversary of the storming of the Parisian prison by indignant Frenchmen seeking to establish liberty.

It is also the 12th anniversary of civil unrest in Italy that deeply involved a Plymouth couple.

Shortly after noon on July 14, 1949, a pro-Monarchist student in Rome fired a shot at Palmiro Togliatti, the Genoese who is leader of the Italian Communist party.

In less than an hour, Red elements in Genoa, Italy's biggest port, demonstrated forcibly against the government.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Paddock, Jr., were right in the middle of it.

He was the American vice consul in charge of shipping in the Northern Mediterranean area. Shortly after 11 a.m. he had gone to Ponte dei Mille, the big Genoese landing dock, to greet the Motorship Saturnia, on which there was an important U. S. government traveler bound for Austria, carrying photographic equipment.

The young vice consul had just boarded the vessel when baggage handlers and longshoremen walked off the gangway.

He and the VIP manhandled the baggage — 24 pieces of it — to the young officer's station wagon and tried to reach the safety of the Consulate General, on a downtown piazza.

They had no such luck. They were stopped four times along a round-about route through the hilly city before they reached the Paddocks' fifth-floor apartment, where Mrs. Paddock already had heard and seen an exchange of gunfire.

Twice the men were stoned by indignant Communist supporters.

By nightfall the city was in siege. Streetcars had been overturned and principal thoroughfares blocked by tearing up paving blocks and erecting barricades.

Paddock was the only officer of the Consulate General living in the city. Although Reds had occupied the telephone central and cut off long distance communication, local dial telephone service remained. When he could, he telephoned his chief, the consul general.

With his Airedale terrier, he stood off a horde of angry Communists who sought to storm the U. S. government office.

On July 15, hostilities ceased. Mrs. Paddock recalls, "while the Italians went out to shop. Few homes had refrigeration in those days and they needed to shop for perishables every morning, including Sunday."

By nightfall on the 15th, Togliatti's condition had worsened. And the temper of the Reds in his home town deteriorated equally so.

Communication with the American Embassy at Rome was impossible by commercial service, Paddock soon found. Under orders to inform the ambassador that no Americans — and the city was full of them — were known to be injured, Paddock sought a way to do so.

He assumed the perfect of Genoa, the official Italian governor of the province, had a private wire. This proved correct. Relations between the young officer and the prefecture were cordial but he was required to employ his most skillful diplomacy to obtain use of the wire. It had never been done before.

"The prefect must have been tired," Paddock observes today. "Anyway, he let me use the wire but he made me speak in Italian. I reached Homer M. Byington, Jr., counselor of the embassy, who was born in Naples and speaks Italian like a native. After telling him all was well, he asked me if the prefect could handle the situation. I asked him if he thought Babe Ruth could play shortstop. He then inquired if I'd had too much wine, whereupon I told him I was talking from the prefect's desk and he'd have to take that for an answer. In 24 hours the prefect was relieved and a hard, tough replacement, a Genoese who knew his home town, was sent in."

The government moved on the morning of the 16th, after a night in which wounded were carried in to the Questura, or central police station, by the hundreds.

By the morning of the 17th, the situation was all but normal.

"It wasn't very pleasant," Mrs. Paddock recalls. "We had one baby and were expecting another and the snipers on the rooftops in the rear of our apartment were shooting through our windows. My son and I lay on the floor and the photographer hid in the bathroom."

Unrest in the Naples and Rome areas reported last week follows the same pattern as that 12 years ago. Togliatti, recovered from his wound and treated in Moscow for nearly two years, has returned to Italy and his post as head of the Communist party.

The Paddocks think Reds have stirred up the present difficulties in an effort to embarrass the government's pro-Western policy on the eve of the first Olympic games to be held in a combatant nation which lost the war.

Meanest thief cuts saplings of shrubs in Sandusky street

Meanest thief in town is the unknown intruder who's stealing cuttings from arbor vitae and other shrubs set out by Sandusky street residents.

Robert Lewis, 173 Sandusky, first noticed the thefts after his wife accused him of cropping spirea bushes. He denied he had cut them, but she was unconvinced.

Then Nathan H. Thompson 167 Sandusky, discovered some new trees he had planted had been cut almost to the stem.

Each of the cuts is on a diagonal bias, as though made for the purpose of grafting or budding.

Lewis, for a quarter of a century a barber, vows he will become a "tattoo artist the first chance I get — with my shotgun."

Camp season starts for Boy, Girl Scouts

Plymouth Boy and Girl Scouts will begin a week of camping Sunday at Camp Avery Hand near Mansfield and Lone Star camp near Galion.

Girls going to camp this year are Stephanie Morrison, Judith Burrer, Martha Carter and Suzanne Paddock.

Boys who will go to Avery Hand include Delbert and Carl Hass, Gregory and Girard Cashman, Chip Paddock, David Haver, David Moore, Donald Pyers, Timothy Redden, Mike Bauer, Arden Kessler, Lee LaFollette and Raymond Hankammer.

James Fetters, Plymouth's Eagle Scout, has been a member of the camp staff this summer.

Shooting of hen pheasants authorized; seasons for all game announced formally Ohio hunters will be given another first — the second in two years.

This year it will be an opportunity to shoot hen pheasants on certain designated public wildlife areas. Last year it was the first quail season in 46 years.

The Ohio Wildlife council in its annual fish and game state hearings legalized the taking of hen pheasants because a number of public hunting areas are located in sections of the state where pheasants will not propagate themselves.

"This action will make it possible to provide pheasant shooting more economically on the in-season stocking basis for those hunters more distantly removed from those areas of natural pheasant production." This statement was made by Hayden Olds, chief of the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

The ringnecked pheasant season on private lands will be from Nov. 15 to Dec. 10, inclusive, with a daily bag limit of two and four for possession limit after the first day. The public land season will be from Nov. 15 to Jan. 14, 1961, inclusive, with the same bag limits as for private land. Hunting hours in both categories will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

More than 400,000 acres of state-owned or controlled land again will be available to quail hunters. The season opens Nov. 15 and closes Dec. 10. Daily bag limit will be six with 12 after the first day. Hunting hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Additional regulation makes it possible for individual landowners, or groups of owners, to request that their land be made available for quail hunting through agreement with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. These areas must be at least 500 acres in size, just half of the 1959 requirement.

There will be a statewide season for squirrels, the first in several years. The dates are Sep. 12 to Oct. 31, from daylight to dark, with a daily bag limit of four and eight after the first day. Previously the state was divided into two areas, with gray squirrels for Zone 1 and fox squirrels for Zone 2.

The following are other hunting or trapping seasons approved by the Wildlife Council, the time limits 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., unless otherwise noted: RUFFED GROUSE — Oct. 15 to Feb. 25, 1961, daily bag limit three, possession limit six, daylight to dark except Dec. 15 and 16 (deer gun season), when hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

RABBIT — private land — Nov. 15 to Jan. 2, 1961, daily bag limit four, possession limit eight.

HUNGARIAN PARTRIDGE — private land — Nov. 15 to Dec. 10, daily bag limit two, possession limit four.

HUNGARIAN PARTRIDGE — public land — Nov. 15 to Jan. 14, 1961, daily bag limit two, possession limit four.

WOODCHUCK (GROUNDHOG) AND WEASEL — No closed season or bag limit.

DEER — gun — Dec. 15 and 16, one deer any age or sex, daylight to dark except Dec. 15 and 16, when it is 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

RACCOON, OPOSSUM and SKUNK (Hunting) — Nov. 1 to February 14, 1961, four raccoon a day, no limit on opossum or skunk, day or night.

RACCOON, OPOSSUM and SKUNK (Trapping) — Nov. 15 to Feb. 28, 1961, no limits, day or night.

MINK AND MUSKRAT (Hunting and Trapping) Nov. 15 to Feb. 28 1961, no limits, day or night.

BEAVER (Hunting or Trapping) — Jan. 18, to Jan. 21, 1961, in Ashtabula, Columbiana and Mahoning counties only two a season, day or night, with provision county game protector must seal pelts before they can be legally sold. Hunters must have written permission of land owner.

DUCK and GEESSE — Regulations for migratory birds are set by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service usually after Aug. 1. When received the Wildlife Council will make them public. Seasons for other migratory game birds open as follows, the length of the season depending on the U. S. regulations: RAIL and GALLINULE — Sept. 1.

WOODCHUCK — Oct. 1. SNIPPE — Opening day of duck season.

An open telephone line is as important to you as an open door

No matter what your business, the telephone serves as a front door to many of your customers. When your line is busy, it's the same as locking your front door. A continued busy signal keeps your customers out and sends them elsewhere to buy.

If your present telephone is always busy, perhaps you need one or two additional lines. A call to our business office is all it takes to find out.

Fish experiments

helping Erie catch

Out-of-state fish tags are continuing to be sent to the Division of Wildlife office. They show more clearly that fish in Lake Erie do move around. Michigan is conducting an experiment by which hatchery-raised rainbow trout are released in tributaries of the lake. The idea is that the trout will go to Lake Erie, where their growth-rate is rapid, and then perhaps return to the streams to spawn as "steelheads". To date seven of these trout captured in Ohio waters ranged 17 to 26 inches in length. They were found from 210 to 425 miles from tagging locations.

Pennsylvania is conducting a similar experiment. Two of these trout were caught at Middle Bass island. Their travels were at least 100 miles. Several tags have been recovered from year-old walleyes that were tagged last October at Kingsville, Ont. Length ranges from 10 to 12 inches.

Mary Robertson, daughter of the Elton Robertsons, will join Procter & Gamble, Cincinnati, as a field researcher.

A graduate last month of Ashland college with a degree in home economics, she will travel over the United States testing new products and reactions to them.

Depot moves set

The handwriting writ upon the wall over two years ago began to be increasingly clear last week when Wilkins Air Force station announced additional plans to close its doors.

First, one of its top brass, Col. Richard F. Ezzard, was reassigned, to Wright-Patterson AF base, Dayton, to serve as comptroller there. Then, an inspection team representing Mobile Air Material area called at Shelby to, examine stocks belonging to that command.

Plans for their movement were agreed upon in a two-day parley.

Reason for the visit now: to avoid a crash program in the spring of 1961 to meet the June 30, 1961, closing date.

What it means: those on the payroll at Shelby depot now will be engaged full force for the next several months, perhaps until after Christmas, moving supplies to another location, where they'll doubtless sit for another lengthy period.

Mrs. Karl Bauer, reporter Tel. Willard 5-1911

The Eldon G. Burketts are the parents of a second son, their third child, weighing seven pounds, born in Willard Municipal hospital July 5 at 8:30 a.m.
Boy will be named William.

Suzie sez
Mom did a dumbhead thing last week.
She picked up two young hitch-hikers, and she didn't know either of them.
She knew she had done a dumbhead thing the minute after she did it, but it was too late then.
The story that she tells is scary.
She asked them where they were going. It was the middle of the day. They were about 18. They said they were going to the next town, smaller than the one they live in.
She asked them what they were going to do. Oh, just hang around, they said.
Then she asked if they are in school. Nope, they quit before they graduated. They were looking for jobs, they said. She asked how hard. They didn't say they were looking very hard.
She asked if they wanted to join the Army. One of them said he didn't want to join the Army because it is hard work, and besides it looks like we might get into a war and they didn't want to go to war.
Then the other one knocked her for a loop: "It looks like we might lose a war."
Mom was half-boiling mad over what they said and half ashamed that she did what Pop told her not to do, which is pick up hitch-hikers that she doesn't know.
Chip says he knows one of them. He says this kid sometimes carries a switch-blade knife.
I LEARNED BY HEADING a book that hitch hiking came about when two men with one horse started on a trip. The horse wasn't big enough to carry the two men.
One of the men rode the horse for a day, then got down and hitched the horse to a tree. Then he started to walk. When the second man by walking got to the horse, he got on it and rode until he caught up with the first man. Then they changed around.
You hear about luck hitch-hikers and you hear about unlucky drivers.
Pop says this: unless you know the hitch-hiker, don't pick him up.

Average tax rate set for Buckeye

Buckeye Central school district — the Tiro, New Washington and Chatfield consolidation — adopted a $354,315 budget for the next school year and set the tax rate at 15 mills July 5.
Former tax rates were 19.10 in Tiro, 20.40 in New Washington and 17.60 in Chatfield.
Valuation of the new district is $12,413,688.

Social planned

Ganges Grange will stage an ice cream social Saturday, to begin at 5:30 p.m.
Grange hall is east of the marten house in Ganges.

MRS. JAMES BRODERICK and Mrs. William Clark conducted handicraft exercise for, from left, Terry Henry, Vicki Gilger, Kay Baker, Vicki Redden, Janet Broderick, Kyle Clark and Alice Laughman.

Mrs. Searle returns to home

Mrs. George Searle returned here July 6 after passing the winter at Bradenton, Fla., and visiting her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor S. Whitney, on Long Island, N.Y.
Mr. and Mrs. William Garrett and their daughter left Friday for their home in Clearwater, Fla., after visiting for several weeks with the Willard Garretts.

Guests of the E. B. and the William R. Millers Sunday at the Miller farm were the Paul Godares, Robert Toals and William Hoards of Cleveland, the Kieth Thorntons of Wellington, the Charles Westers of Sandusky and the Charles Priors of Vermilion.
Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Berberick arrived Sunday from Rapid City, S. D. to visit with their fathers, Frank Pitzen and Albert Berberick.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Entler entertained their grandchildren, Cynthia Kaye, Russell and Terry Barnes last week.
The Robert Swartzes, Warner-Robins, Ga., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Roscoe Swatz.

Being a periodic, but irregular, presentation of human interest stories that come to the staff's attention yet seem for one reason or another not suitable for treatment elsewhere in the paper.

Municipal problems are of concern to Plymouthites both past and present, wherever they may be.
John Fetters, eldest son of the Donald E. Fetterses, is studying radio electronics at Great Lakes Naval Training center, Ill. But he tore out a piece in current Reader's Digest, titled "Nature's Wondrous Way With Waste", describing a revolutionary method of treating raw sewage, and sent it to the editor with this remark: "This may be Plymouth's answer to the sewage disposal problem."
CARL DANINE HADN'T seen his home town for seven years until he arrived from Groves, Tex., this week. Change, he observes, is less dramatic to the infrequent homcomer than to one whose touch with his home town is on a regular, and recurring, basis.
HOW MANY KNOW NO. 2 in rank in Plymouth Post of-ice is James D. Cunningham.

PLAY IN CLEVELAND stadium next week, providing it doesn't rain, will go far toward settling some important wagers. Supporters of the Tribe in its annual 22-game series with New York are hoping for a clean sweep, which the Indians threw up on the Yankees with two more games to play at Cleveland. These include R. Earl McQuate Albert Marvin and the Rev. Moss Rutan, each of whom placed a modest bet with the editor that Gordon & Co would win at least 12 of the 22 from Stengel and associates.
DECISION OF THE POPULAR J. E. Pages to return to Oklahoma and dispose of other interests in Shiloh certainly means the motor vehicle license agency is up for grabs. Deserving Democrats can apply to the county chairman. If the Pages don't sell the business as such, it'll mean one more enterprise leaving that community, the fifth (counting the New York Central railroad) in six years.

THE C. C. MOORES LEAVE their farm home reluctantly. Their vegetable patch is doing well: corn, beans and other comestibles well advanced, cabbage already splitting heads. From a 30 by 30-foot patch of strawberries, the Moores picked over 230 quarts of the spring berry.
THE EGG HIT THE FAN for James D. Wasserman this week. The plucky youngster had arranged summer employment with Plymouth Electric, Inc., Oscar J. Gowitzka's nom de commerce. But grain dust aggravated an asthmatic condition and young Wasserman had to give it up. Now he's looking for other work until September, hoping to make enough to sustain his second year in Western Reserve university.

"DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING is one of the wonders of Modern Communications, and - it requires a large amount of complicated equipment", says Paul H. Kaufman, director of public information, Northern Ohio Telephone Co.
This picture was taken in Norwalk telephone building and shows some of the ticket-ers which are the heart of direct distance dialing. To provide dial telephone service there must be equipment which will perform every step formerly done by an operator. The ticketers store up the details concerning calls which have been dialed directly by subscribers and after the call has been completed turns over that information to the tabulator for recording.

At the left a factory engineer makes final inspection of a ticketer. At right the equipment is being mounted on a shelf ready for use.
Direct distance dialing will become effective here Aug. 7.

Now is the time to study the record of your Presidential Candidate. The only way to judge a candidate is by his record — NOT what he promises.

Loaded for trouble?

To the youngsters, a drive with the gang is great fun. But driving is serious business, too. Last year, nearly 40,000 people died in traffic accidents — many of them killed by drivers whose minds weren't wholly on their job. So stay alert every minute when you drive. Keep driving fun—and safe!

Help stop senseless killing on our highways. Drive safely yourself. Insist on strict law enforcement for your own protection. Work actively with others to support your local Safety Council. Remember—where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go down.

Huron Playhouse sets 'Pajama Game' next week

Sprightly character songs like "Small Talk" and "Hermando's Hideaway" along with the wistful "Hey There" fill a colorful Cedar Rapids, Iowa, pajama factory with musical magic in "The Pajama Game," opening at the Huron Playhouse Tuesday for a five-night run.

With songs and lyrics by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross, this Broadway song and dance hit has been said to have "all the pace, vitality and brilliance that only superbly professional craftsmen in the theater can provide."

Based on Richard Bissell's best selling novel, "7½ Cents", and adapted for the stage by George Abbott, "The Pajama Game" combines rich humor with youthful gaiety when a new superintendent, trying to keep production at its peak, suddenly falls in love with a member of the union's grievance committee.

In the roles made famous by John Raitt, Janis Page, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Carol Haney are Barry Cobb, Findlay, as the upright, ambitious Sid; Dana Liebenthal, Toledo, as the sparkling, energetic Babe; Ronald O'Leary, Mansfield, as the comely efficiency expert, Hines; and Bunnie Byrum, Dayton, as the uninhibited Gladys. All four of the leads appeared in the season opener, "Visit to a Small Planet." George Wilson, Burlington, W. Va., will portray rable-rousing Prez; Jonie Kiess, Bucyrus, the hard-headed but sweet Mabel; Audeen Maticcik, Youngstown, lady weight-lifter Mae; and Bill Franklin, Green Springs, the crooked factory president, Hasler. Huron area residents involved in the production include musical director and chorus member Norma Noe, the music supervisor for the Huron public school system, and Huron pianist David Rhodes, accompanist for last year's "Carousel," as well as cast member Carla Widdowsin, Vermilion.

Reservations for "The Pajama Game" are now being taken. Regular admission price is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. Curtain for the musical, running July 19-23, is

8 p.m. The Playhouse is located in the Ohio Street school Huron, Ohio.

"If there were only something we could do about the children's schools!"

Something? There are lots of things we all can do about our local schools! First of all, we can attend school board meetings and discuss problems with the board members we've elected. We can go to Parent-Teacher Association meetings and work directly with the teachers we've hired. And we can form other community groups to aid in solving specific situations —new bond issues for building or repairing, for example.

In short, we can have the schools we want—if we're willing to work personally for them! The way to start is by writing—today—for a free booklet and other helpful information. Send your card or letter to Better Schools, 9 East 40th Street, New York 16, New York.
