Sidewalk sale said 'success', 3,000 drawn by two-day plan

"Biggest crowd of a Saturday night in 15 years" is how one merchant described the weekend's successful sidewalk sales program, which attracted an estimated 3,000 persons-counting repeats-over a two-day period.

Public Square was choked Saturday night as an estimated 400 persons gathered to hear the first formal performance of Plymouth Community band seated in front of Peoples National bank.

Legion, Firemen set 12th ox roast at Jacobs' grove

Ehret-Parsel Post, American Legion and Plymouth Volunteer Firemen will stage their 12th annual oxroast Aug. 20 and 21 in Jacobs' grove.

Six hundred pounds of bonded beef will be buried in pits Aug. 20 and served the next day afternoon.

Commander Vance Hoffman, Lyle Biddinger, Charles Ehret and Richard Fackler compose the Legion committee. Firemen's committee are Fire Chief Judson A. Morrison, Woodrow Smith, Jerome Moore and Woodrow Utiss.

Music will be by Baker's orchestra with Marty singing on Aug. 21.

The Firebelles will again have a booth on the grounds. Their committees are Mrs. William Van Wagner and Mrs. Lee Williamson, coffee; Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Lester Shicks, soft beverages; Mrs. R. Harold Mack, Mrs. F. E. Guthrie, Mrs. Howard Biller, Mrs. Percy Dean, novelties; Mrs. Harold Ross, Mrs. George Lesko, Mrs. Quentin Ream and Mrs. Wallace Redden, sandwiches.

Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney was guest soloist. Accompanied by the band, she sang the National Anthem.

Reception of the sales program was said by most merchants "to be" very good, although dollar volume wasn't what it was last year.

Number of sales was said to be higher than in 1959, the discrepancy deriving from what another merchant said was "lower dollar value of purchases...we moved more goods than in 1959, but our sales specials went for less than last year."

Another said "you can't compare pigs' feet with canned soup" obviously referring to difference in dollar cost of packaged specials.

Barnhouse kin dies in neighbor's pond

Grandson of Paul Barnthouse, seven-year-old Burbank boy drowned in a farm pond in Wayne county Aug. 3 while his parents were attending the funeral of a grandmother.

William P. Cowhick, Jr., fell into the pond at the home of the Russells Kaufs.

His parents were attending the funeral of Mrs. Ella Clark at Parker Funeral home, Lodi. Born at Camp Lejeune, N. C., the boy came to Burbank with his parents when he was 18 months old. He would have been a second grader in Burbank school in September.

A sister, Peggy Ann, five, and a brother, Sammy, one; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Walter J. Walters, Savannah; his maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Barnthouse, Plymouth; and his paternal grandparents, the

It was apparent the sidewalk sales program was popular from a traffic count.

West Broadway was crammed with parked cars Friday night. Sandusky street was filled as far as Dix street and Plymouth street as far as Mills avenue on Saturday night.

Not all of the 423 silver dollars were given away. One merchant reported he posted 20 cards, had 16 left on Monday. Another posted 20, had 15 left on Monday. Yet a third said he had only one of 15 left by Monday morning.

At least one winner thought of charity. Omer G. Burkett told the donor of his lucky dollar he wanted it sent to Girl Scouts. This was done Monday morning.

Two small fires occupy company

Two small fires drew the curious in pursuit of Plymouth Fire department this week.

Garage of Mrs. Fred Ross at 45 Bell street was afire Friday at about 10:15 p.m. Blaze was all but extinguished when firemen arrived.

A grass fire at Frank Rogers' place northeast of here summoned firemen Monday at 4:25 p.m.

Cole mere et fils sweep honors at fair

An Auburn township housewife who learned how at her mother's apron strings and in Plymouth High school has just swept homemaking competition at the annual Crawford county fair.

Mrs. Vern Cole won first place in stiff competition, in baking with ginger and peanut butter cookies, coffee cake, peanut butter fudge, plum jelly and red cherries. It wasn't even close, say the judges, who selected the winners from numbered entries.

And what Mother Cole did in homemaking, young Gary Cole, who'll be a sophomore in Buckeye Central High school at New Washington next year, did with grains and livestock.

All he did was win with Seneca wheat and Bonham oats, take second place with Clintland oats and alfalfa hay.

cop first place and second as well in market pigs class, win first place with pen-of-three market pigs, and take down second in the senior gilt class.

His Spotted Poland China hogs were graded "A" in the junior fair division. Not content with these honors, he entered the barrow show and won second for a pen-of-three class and third in single barrows.

WHO ARE THESE PEOPLE? Well, sir and Bob, Mom Cole is the former Violet Van Buskirk, a 1937 graduate of Plymouth High school, who was raised by her parents, the Ross Van Buskirks, north of Plymouth. With her husband and her family of a daughter and a son (the daughter is now studying beauty culture at Toledo), she lives on a 96-acre farm.

"Now that my children are grown, I can do what I've wanted to do all my life—and they're fun! Look at these white cherries. They came from a tree in mother's yard that's stood there as long as I can remember." The cherries took a red ribbon. Her green-and-yellow beans combination with kidney beans won second prize in the mixed vegetables competition.

Nor was this all: she entered some marigolds in the "Birds of a Feather" class in the flower show and won second prize.

Make no mistake about it, Violet Van Buskirk Cole isn't going to make the mistake of telling you how to make her recipes.

"Mmmh-unnh," she says, shaking her head. "That's how I win. I won't tell anybody."

But she confesses to a penchant for the Grange cookbook, if that's any help.

PHS band to rehearse

Marching band will rehearse Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the high school, says Director H. R. Davenport from his vacation spot in Madison, Conn.

He expects to return to return to Plymouth Sunday.

Additional rehearsals are set for Aug. 24 and Aug. 31, Davenport says.

"This rehearsal is for all returning band members and new members, including those going into the seventh grade this year," he adds.

Financing of sewers WITHOUT vote would cost $86 yearly for 40 years

How to finance a $636,000 sanitary sewer system without issuance of general obligation bonds was laid before village council by its fiscal consultants, Walter Woody & Heimerdinger and Fox, Reusch & Co., Cincinnati, this week.

Its gist: $4.50 per user per month in sewer charges, over 40 years, plus $280,000 in special assessments, or about $5 a linear foot.

Village council will wrestle with the recommendation in regular session Tuesday night.

The study prepared by the fiscal consultants analyzes costs of the system as of 1958 thus:

Treatment plant	$124,050
Interceptors	$132,500
Laterals and trunks	$229,539
	$486,249
Contingency	$33,751
	$520,000
Preliminary exp.	3,000
Land and right-of-way	7,500
Plans and specs	33,000
Resident inspection	25,000
Restaking, etc.	7,500
Miscellaneous	10,000
GRAND TOTAL	$606,000

Cost increase since 1958 amounts to an estimated $30,000 bringing adjusted grand total to $636,000.

By issuing mortgage revenue bonds for 40-year term and by issuing special assessment bonds, the village could finance the project without relying upon a general obligation bond issue, which requires a majority vote of the electorate.

A federal grant of $90,000 is anticipated.

Mortgage revenue bonds amounting to $313,000 are recommended. Discount and other costs deducted from their face value would reduce proceeds to $226,050. Interest payments on the mortgage revenue bonds over the 40-year period

Dawson given FHA assignment

Orva E. Dawson, Shelby route 3, a successful farmer in Hazel Brush road, was named member of the Richland county Farmers Home Administration committee last week by New E. Junk, supervisor in Richland, Ashland, Huron and Erie counties.

He joins two incumbents, Mrs. Dorothy E. Mowry, Bellville route 2, and Lee A. Fair, Ashland route 1, on the committee, whose duty is to insure best possible use of credits made available to it consistent with needs of qualified farmers.

Dawson succeeds Lee E. Oswalt, Mansfield route 1, whose term expired.

First grid call set for Tuesday

Twelve lettermen are expected to report in room 10 of the high school Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. when Coach Lew Pettit will issue uniforms and discuss rules and regulations for his 1960 Big Red eleven.

"Any boy interested in playing football is certainly welcome to attend," Pettit said Monday. "And any parent or any person interested in the team is invited to attend."

First full-dress practice will be called at 8 a.m. Aug. 19. Sessions will be on a two-a-day basis, with a single session Saturday mornings, until the opening of school.

Lettermen who will answer the first call include Fate Christian, Dayton Reed, Phil

Another dozen with some varsity experience will also be among the first group to report.

Fish are like humans: outsmart 'em by angling in the dark!

Having trouble catching fish these hot, humid days? Don't feel too badly. Chances are you have plenty of company, say Division of Wildlife fisheries men. Fish are like humans in many ways, they say. For example, they usually eat less during hot weather and are much less active, especially during daylight hours. In other words, they're lethargic - have that tired feeling.

If, however, you really want to catch fish, and are willing to take a few tips, listed in the following paragraphs are a few ideas you may want to try:

Next time you go fishing, try getting up "before breakfast." Not only is this a fine time of the day to get out, but fish of many species feed then. Bass, especially, are often found feeding early in the morning.

If you're strictly a lake fisherman early morning hours are a good time to fish the small bays. You may find fish feeding in the shallows in such areas. Around stumps and brushpiles is another good bet. During the middle of the day fish the deep parts of the lake.

If you're a bait caster use deep running lures fished very slowly.

Trolling with either live bait or artificials will often bring surprising results. For most folks, though, the middle of a hot day is a good time to be under a shade tree, fast asleep, and dreaming perhaps of that big bass they're going to catch that night.

And speaking of night fishing, especially bass fishing, if you have never tried it, there's a real thrill in store for you.

Most experienced bass fisherman will tell you the darkest night the better. To be sure, some bass are taken on moonlit nights. The water should be calm, in either case.

Nighttime plugging for bass is an art in itself. The fact that you can't see your hand in front of you means your reflexes must be fast and your sense of touch doubly so. If you are a beginner in the bait-casting game, and still get backlashes, birds-nests, or overruns, better stick to daytime fishing.

Your equipment should consist of a bait-casting rod, level winding reel, two or three topwater plugs, a landing net, flashlight and, by all means, a supply of mosquito repellent.

To "get the feel" of your outfit start fishing at dusk. Locate the likely-looking spots, keeping within easy casting distance of lily pad beds, underwater vegetation, and other such areas.

Other than the fact he can't see where he is casting, the nighttime plug fisherman will find his regular techniques helpful. The fisherman who thinks the more casts he can make, the more fish he will catch, however, is in for some disappointment. Fishing slowly, ever so slowly, is the secret at night.

If you can imagine a bass (of undetermined size) re-then spending half his time out of the water trying to shake the plug loose, you have some idea of what's in store for you.

When a fisherman catches that first bass at night, he'll probably say, "why didn't I try this sooner."

LAKE ERIE ANGLING IS fair now, according to Nelson Thomas, Wildlife District 1 assistant fish management supervisor.

"The catfish run is finished in the bay and perch fishing has slowed up some but is expected to pick up in August, depending on the weather," says Thomas. "Some good catches of white bass are being made near the rock piles, and some walleyes are being taken on the reefs. The smallmouth bass are in deep water and more difficult to take than earlier, although some are being taken."

FISHING PRESSURE ON Lake Erie is light east of Cleveland and extremely heavy west of this point, according to an aerial survey of sport fishing made by Wildlife District 1 fish management personnel.

The survey, which was done

July 22-23, revealed there were only 42 sport fishing boats in the area east of Cleveland. Between Cleveland and Toledo, the western portion of Lake Erie, nearly 1,000 boats of sport anglers were counted. The heaviest concentration of fishermen was found in the island area.

BOWMEN TO MEET

An emergency meeting has been called for 7:30 p.m. Monday night at the club house of Huron Valley Bowmen. All members are asked to attend.

Sunday local bowmen have been invited to shoot in the regional meet at Tiffin. Registration is from 7 until 9 a.m.

Reds sweep PML season

BULLETIN

Norman Howard fanned David Moore with the tying run at second base Monday night as the Reds completed a sweep of the 1960 ML season. A playoff of a two-team tie Monday night was to determine the winner of second half play in Plymouth Midget league.

Lowly Giants turned on the Braves Saturday and eliminated Vance Hoffman's outfit from a share of the lead.

Giants wound up in last place, Braves were to play Monday to determine the second half winner. A victory by the Reds would close out the season, since the Legion-Firemen outfit won the first half.

If the Cubs could win, a best two-of-three playoff would determine the 1960 champion. Board of directors, Plymouth Midget league, will meet today at 7 p.m. in Plymouth Elementary school.

A complete treasurer's report will be heard and plans made for a picnic for the teams.

Coming up in the world.

For the first time in several years, the faculty of Plymouth public schools is complete by the second week of July.

It is a healthy sign and we applaud those responsible. It means that Plymouth's reputation as a good town in which to teach and as a school district where teachers are treated fairly is beginning to spread farther. It means also that the salary schedule is reasonably competitive and that conditions other than salary are regarded as favorable by experienced teachers.

We have often said there are some teachers of great skill who would not come here for salaries of $50,000 a year. But there are many others who are anxious to teach in small towns if they feel they can contribute to the learning process and if they are otherwise well rewarded.

Among teachers with full academic training, Plymouth has in the past been a stopping point, to some extent. We are happy to see that this is less true now than previously. Accreditation of schools by the important North Central Association of Secondary Schools will be withheld after 1965 where high school faculties are less than 100 per cent staffed by holders of master's degrees.

It is right that school administrators should encourage all teachers to acquire additional academic training. And it is also right that some form of monetary encouragement should be extended by the patrons of the district.

We hope it may be possible in years to come that some form of financial aid can be extended by the school board to deserving teachers wishing to improve themselves by undertaking additional study in fields which will enrich the system. It is done in such districts as Vermillion, where — we assume — patrons and teachers alike pull their pants on one leg at a time, even as we do.

Being a periodic, but irregular, presentation of human interest stories that come to the staff's attention yet seem for one reason or another not suitable for treatment elsewhere in the paper.

The forward look in council's chambers got a black eye this week.

Report of the council's fiscal advisers, inexplicably, completely ignored the fact a $150,000 general obligation bond issue was intended by the governing body and in fact will appear on the ballot.

The report instead dealt only with mortgage revenue and special assessment bonds, by which those informed in matters of municipal finance may read "how to do it by avoiding the ballot."

Under Ohio law, a village council may by emergency ordinance decree capital improvements financed by general obligation and mortgage revenue bonds. Only way to upset such an ordinance is to obtain an injunction in the court of appropriate jurisdiction. The gamble would be that no judge would grant an injunction, on grounds the public safety and welfare are at stake.

But it's not the council's intention to proceed thus. Re-computation of the probable costs will take place, departing from the $150,000 general obligation bond proposal and relying upon the likelihood of $90,000 federal grant.

This would leave $390,000 to be raised from sale of mortgage revenue and special assessments bonds. Assuming the split would be 60-40, cost per family of financing the proposed system costing $630,000 would amount to $177.50 a year proposed by the fiscal advisers. (Noting, of course, that advisers suggest a 40-year amortization for mortgage revenue bonds and 10 years for special assessment bonds, in which latter case interest payments 32 per cent of the amount due.)

Big question facing the council: can it "sell" voters on an additional expense of about $5 a month, to install a sewer system?

William Fazio became this week an official agent for the Treasurer of Ohio concerned with issue of sales tax stamps. Addenda from last week's council meeting:

Henry Trauger obtained permission to purchase a socket wrench for repairing village equipment. Approval was given to monthly bills which included $200 for labor in reconditioning the jail. A sum of $12.21 will be deducted from the labor charge for equipment purchased for the work, which will be retained by the men who did it. The jail repairs included painting the outside of the building, repairing eaves-spouts, plastering and replacement of part of the concrete floor.

Examination for the position of superintendent, Richland County home, was announced today by James T. Welsh, director of the department of state personnel, Columbus.

Examination will be conducted Sept. 8, in the Court house, Mansfield. Bulletin, together with application blanks, may be obtained by writing the department state personnel at Columbus, or may be obtained at the office of the county Auditor, and the office of the clerk of county commissioners. Applications must be filed in the office of the department of state personnel not later than 5 p.m., Sept. 7. Former executive head of New Haven schools, 40-year-old Robert Pleunik has been appointed to a similar post in the Savannah-Clear Creek-Butler district, Ashland county. His salary will be $7,000 annually.

Service in the controversy-torn New Haven district will stand Pleunik in good stead in his new post, where controversy and difference of opinion has raged over appointment of an executive head, a petition to transfer to Union district in Richland county, and opposition to consolidation within Ashland county.

Sewer financing without vote costs about $86 yearly (average life of each bond would be 27 years six months) would amount to $462,400, or 147.7 per cent of the principal. Average true interest rate is computed at 5.36 per cent.

The fiscal consultants estimate that $36,000 annual system revenue is required to support cost of operation and cost of financing. Spread among an estimated 500 users, average annual sewer bill would be $62, or $5.17 monthly, per household.

The consultants recommend a monthly minimum of $4.50 with excess to be derived from commercial, industrial and school accounts.

What this plan, if adopted by the council, would cost the average householder is set forth below: (assume average household of two adults and two children)

One-time special assessment (based on 60 ft. lot @ $5.00 Connection charge (based on average of 50 ft. @ $5 - $250 $300 $1,800 special assessment is a one-time charge. So is the connection charge. Based on a 40 year amortization basis, similarly as the mortgage revenue bonds, the cost per year for 40 years is thus:

Average annual sewer billing $62.00 Annual special assessment share $17.77 Annual connection share $6.24 Annual total for 40 years $86.02 Total over 40 years $3,440.80 The plan has no chance of approval by the council, survey showed Monday. "Obligating the village for 40 years which is probably longer than the life of the system, doesn't make sense to me," one councilman told The Advertiser.

Present sewer costs amount to an average of $13.76 a year (based on average annual sewer tax revenue divided by 550 users). The new plan would involve an increase of $72.23 annually per family, or slightly over $6 each family.

Mrs. Myers dies at 78 after fall in Toledo home (held over from last week) Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, 78, died in Toledo July 30 after falling in her home there the previous Thursday. She spent her childhood in New Haven as Eliza (beth) Tuttle. Easter Rebebek lodge conducted a funeral service in Maple Grove cemetery, where the Rev. Irving M. Farnsworth of Plymouth conducted last rites Aug. 1. Mrs. Myers lived with Mrs. Harry Brooks at Plymouth until about two years ago. Mrs. Willi Duffy underwent surgery in Willard Municipal hospital July 28 and is progressing satisfactorily. New Haven church school picnic was in Mary Fats park, Plymouth, Sunday at 5:30 p.m. Lester Crowl, Alliance, father of Mrs. Dan Van Wagner, died July 24. Interment took place there July 28. The Dan Van Wagners spent most of that week in Alliance while their children remained with their paternal grandparents, the R. E. Van Wagners. The Clifford Finks, Norwalk, spent July 31 with his parents, the Walton Finks. The Jay Stigamers, Willard, visited Mrs. Alton Snyder July 31. The R. E. Van Wagners were July 30 dinner guests of their son-in-law and daughter, the G. Lyle Grabcbs, Plymouth.

made ice cream, was sold out before 10 p.m.

Orchestra music was furnished for the affair and young people danced on the black-top which covered the grounds.

Proceeds will be used for the fire department.

Childs Town and Country Garden club staged its annual flower show in the basement of the Methodist church Saturday, with 69 entries in the arrangement class.

Cladibus and zinnias seemed to dominate in the specimen class. Mrs. W. A. Aussenheimer of Bucyrus was judge.

Shiloh Pals 4-H club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Forsythe. Demonstrations were given by Joyce Fulk, Donna Frisby, Nancy Johnson and Gloria Owens. Miss Owens also gave a safety talk. Preparations were made for the county fair.

Robert Judd, son of Henry Judd, Shiloh route 2 recently was promoted to specialist-four in Heilbronn, Germany, where he is a member of the 237th Engineer battalion. Judd, a combat construction specialist in the battalion's Co. D, entered basic training in March, 1959, and completed basic combat training at Ft. Knox, Ky. He is a 1958 graduate of Mansfield High school.

(Held over from last week.) Enroute from Cleveland to their home in La Mesa, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Cox were over night guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Firestone, Mr. and Mrs. Cox, in Cleveland. Mrs. Cox is a niece of Mrs. Firestone.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Seymour were at Wooster Saturday to attend the observance of "Sheep day" at the experiment station.

The Misses Janet Baker, Beverly Steele, Sarah, Margaret and Charlotte Shepherd, and Terry Sheppard accompanied the Harry Seaman family to Chipewa lake Sunday where they attended a picnic sponsored by Teamsters' Union, local No. 40 of Mansfield.

Suzie sez

A member of a large family whose official name is Sciurus carolinensis is raising next door to us.

And the man who lives there is at his wits' end trying to defeat him. Or maybe it's her. I haven't got close enough to look. And I am sure I would know if I did get close enough to look.

A Sciurus carolinensis is a common grey squirrel. The dictionary says a squirrel is a rodent, and since a rodent is a rat (Ed. Note: Nay, child, not so. All French rodents are Europeans, but all Europeans are not Frenchmen.) I suppose it is all right to be nasty to squirrels.

Especially when they steal the food put out for the birds.

The man next door puts out corn and other food for birds and he has a large number of birds, including two cardinals, coming there regularly. Mr. (or Mrs.) Squirrel keeps climbing up on the pedestal where the man puts the food. But he fixed it, all right. He rubbed grease on the pole and now the squirrel skids when he is almost within reach of the food.

Pop says this is more than anything else an example of a very wry sense of humor. He says it is subtle humor, which is the best kind. It may be subtle, but when that squirrel falls flat on his backside, there isn't anything subtle about it — it is plain funny.

FUNNIEST THING IN THE news this week is a story in the Toledo Blade. The story says Mr. Tom Billard of Fair Rock is associated with Mr. Jake Ball in the building of a bowling alley at Rts. 4 and 20. Too bad his name couldn't be Mr. Tom Bowling.

These Church Messages Published by These Reputable Firm:

What is the true key to happiness? For hundreds of years, men have pondered the answer.

Long ago, in Greece, a kindly man named Socrates was certain that the answer lay in two words:—Know thyself.

Socrates believed that knowledge was the key to happiness. Yet even the most educated men and women do not have the complete peace of mind that happiness should bring.

Amidst the decay of the Roman Empire, the great Marcus Aurelius wrote this answer:—Master Thyself.

Self-discipline—a valuable quality, but not the complete key.

Millions of us were involved in a mighty war, because another man, Friedrich Nietzsche, gave the German people this formula:—Elevate thyself. Of the methods of that formula, democratic peoples want no part.

The fourth and final key is here in your own community. Every Sunday, your church tells you how it may be used. Those who have turned that key have found that it opens a new world of soul-satisfying, real, abiding happiness.

Two short words. Perhaps you have guessed them by now. They constitute the real key to happiness.

Two words:—Give thyself.

... and whose trusteth in the Lord, happy is he. Ps. 16-20
