

Bert Hunter

The death of "Bert" Hunter deprives us of a friendly critic and, occasionally, a firm supporter.

We are thankful that he did not long suffer. He was a good stick, Bert was, blunt and frank and honest and straight-forward. We always knew where we stood with him. There was never any folderol — he came to the point quickly and he said what he thought.

When he didn't agree with us, which was most of the time, he told us, nose to nose, in his own typical way. And when he did agree, he came and said so, in the same honest fashion.

His trait of telling us what was on his mind about us was what drew us to him the very day we met him.

His family and friends and neighbors are the richer because Bert Hunter passed by.

To them we extend our own sorrows.

Thanks

We get just a little bored with bi-partisan malarkey that whoever takes a $25,000 a year job making decisions for 10 or 11 million people is entitled to their thanks.

Respect so long as he performs nobly and honestly, certainly. Deferential treatment, such as rising when he comes in othe room, or calling him "Your Excellency" on occasion, seems proper to us. But hardly thanks.

Governor DiSalle will say tomorrow in Columbus that he's running again. We respect him for the strength of his convictions, even if we don't always agree with him.

We'll give Mike — or any governor — deferential treatment any and all the time. We'll respect him for his person and for his office.

But if he expects our thanks, he'd better hunt up another boy. There's only one way to look on a politician who expects thanks — and that's down.

W-a-y out on limb, scribe says Big Red will win by just two

Five times a loser, Plymouth's Big Red will try the all-but-impossible at Milan Saturday at 2 p.m. — to scalp the Indians in an NCC contest.

Undeclared prior to Saturday, when Western Reserve's Rough Riders whipped the Tribe, 14 to 0, Coach Joe Steele's club took a physical beating also.

But it's an almost all-veteran outfit he'll field Saturday, the first time Plymouth's outfit will have played at Milan since interscholastic games with the Erie county club have been scheduled. Steele expects to send nine seniors, a junior and a sophomore against the Big Red.

SCOUTS AND OTHERS who've seen the Indians liken them to the bumble bee and the wartime B-25 — "we don't see what makes it fly, it really can't fly, but damn it all, it flies!" The Indians don't seem to have either speed or size but they've won consistently, against fair-to-middling opposition, and by big scores.

Whether Coach Bill Ramseyer's club has learned enough to win this one is questionable. Mental mistakes have cost the Big Red three straight games, against Black River, Mohawk and Butler.

By comparative scores, Milan ought to win this one by three touchdowns. It'll probably be closer than that. The forecast here is that Plymouth will win one, by no more than two points.

Reasons to support such a forecast come a bit hard but they are there:

1. Gary Utiss has started to run in the Utiss tradition.
2. Earl Hess is gathering confidence as a pass receiver. By scoring against Butler, he boosted it even more.
3. The interior line simply cannot be that bad this long. It's time for it to play as a unit just once.
4. The squad apparently wants to win one badly. It recognizes that its chances of doing so against either Western Reserve or Bellville are remote. Crestline didn't steam-roller Ridgedale as the squad anticipated. If it will eventually win a game, this has to be it.

How Red foes fared

How remaining Big Red Foes fared last week:
Milan 0, Western Reserve 14
Ridgedale 14, Crestline 28
Bellville 16, Loudonville 0

M. A. "BERT" HUNTER

'Bert' Hunter dies in Shelby hospital

Martin A. (Bert) Hunter, 71, retired machinist, died suddenly Tuesday in Shelby Memorial hospital, to which he had been admitted two days before.

He always lived in Richland county. He retired after 35 years of service as machinist in Fate-Root-Heath Co.

His wife, Grace; two daughters, Mrs. Chester Ramsey Mansfield, and Mrs. Leonard Wilson, Plymouth; five sons, Gordon, Ontario, and Robert, Duane, Claude and Richard, Plymouth, and a sister, Mrs. Mae Wolfe, Shelby, survive.

The Rev. James Hunter, pastor of Lincoln Heights Gospel Center, Mansfield, will conduct last rites today at 3:30 p.m. from McQuate Funeral home. Interment will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Denver Taylor, 210 210 Plymouth street, arrested Oct. 6 on a charge of contributing to the dependency and neglect of his minor children, pleaded not guilty when arraigned Oct. 9 in Huron county juvenile court.

Bond was set at $1,500, and he posted it before being released pending further hearing.

Council seeks jack-of-all-trades to become supervisor of streets

WANTED: Mature man, good penmanship, experience in street maintenance and repair, building inspection, some engineering, for service as street supervisor. Apply in writing to Mayor William Fazio, Plymouth. Salary: $3,750 annually.

Village council accepted the resignation of Henry Trauger as street supervisor Tuesday night.

Trauger resigned because he did not get a pay increase at the same time council handed a 10.85 per cent boost to Police Chief Robert L. Meiser.

TRAUGER'S CONTRACT with the village expires Feb. 1.

Councilman Donald E. Akers said he thinks it wise not to fill Trauger's post until after that date. Council agreed to receive written applications and to move cautiously in filling the vacancy.

To encompass the case of Lyle Biddinger, veteran cemetery sexton hospitalized at Grand Rapids, Mich., with abdominal surgery, an emergency ordinance establishing sick leave with pay was approved. It provides:

1. All regular employees may accumulate 1.25 days of sick leave per month, up to 90 days.
2. Sick leave will be computed from the first day of employment.
3. Sick leave must be approved by section chiefs and in the latter case, by the mayor.
4. Cash lump sum payment for unused sick leave will not be authorized.

Councilman Akers opposed payment of $91 to Alden E. Stilson & Associates, Ltd., Columbus, engineering consultants. But payment was authorized by five to one vote.

STILSON WILL APPEAR before the council at 7 p.m. today to discuss divergent estimates of costs of installation of sewer oxidation lagoons on the Bittering site north of the village.

Annual Hallowe'en curfew begins at 10 p.m. today and will be enforced so long as is necessary. Annual parade estimates of costs of installation of sewer oxidation lagoons on the Bittering site north of the village.

Parade will be Oct. 31, one night after official "trick-or-treat" night.

Question of closing an alley in East High street was broached by Councilman Akers, who said that since he does not yet know where sewers will be laid in that area, he cannot make up his mind whether the closing should be permitted. His colleagues felt similarly.

The village dump will remain open Thursdays from noon to 5 p.m. and Saturdays all day, the council ruled.

Charles Barrs to mark 60th wedding day here

Sixty years of marriage in the same house they occupied, after their wedding in Shelby Oct. 22, 1901, will be observed Sunday by the Charles Barrs, 57 Trux street.

She was Dora Bistline when they plighted their troth before the Rev. George S. Bright of Shelby's First Lutheran church.

They were so anxious to get started at housekeeping they took no honeymoon.

The Barrs are childless. Their nieces, Mmes. Verda T. Weller, Helen Miesel Sutton and Gladys Barr Baker, and nephews, Eben Bistline, Graf-ton, and Donald Barr, Norwalk, will assist in their observance.

For many years Mr. Barr was employed by Fate-Root Heath Co. Thereafter he was employed by the village street department.

Although her sight is faltering, Mrs. Barr does household chores without assistance save for the services of a house-cleaning one day a week.

Mr. Barr finds it somewhat difficult to hear but otherwise makes his daily constitutional up the Trux street hill to the Square and home again.

Parade

Annual Hallowe'en parade will be Oct. 31 at 7 p.m. on the Square.

Plymouth Community club will again award prizes for the best costumes.

Prizes will also be given for the best window paintings. Entrants are to reserve and make their own arrangements for their windows from merchants.

School funds pinched

A priority system under which bills will be paid by Plymouth Board of Education until sufficient funds are available was adopted Oct. 11.

After teachers and administrators are paid, available funds will be paid to utilities, local businesses, teachers' travel and other bills, in that order.

Estimated receipts for the remainder of the school year are $85,007.38, of which $43,071.38 is due from real estate payers be delinquent, the amount of the delinquency would be deducted from this figure.

Anticipated expenditures for the remainder of the year are $90,863.93 for payroll and $2,419.11 for utilities. There is no allowance for disbursements for other than light, water, sewer and gas.

WHAT TO DO IF THE proposed five-mill operating levy fails occupied the board for most of its session.

These steps were decided upon:

1. Combine elementary classes up to 45 pupils per teacher.
2. Eliminate more high school subjects. Driver training has already been suspended.

Buildings are not now completely furnished. Supt. Maynard J. Coon told the board, and if the five-mill levy isn't approved the board will not be able to engage the additional teachers necessary to instruct the expanding enrollment.

Enrollment figures for Oct. 10 were 322 in the high school, 339 in Plymouth Elementary school, 319 in Shiloh Elementary school and 231 in Shiloh Junior High school, a total of 1,211.

A citizen's committee to encourage support of the five-mill levy will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the board room to discuss methods of approaching the voters.

Unanimous approval was given a recommendation by Coon that a study of bus routes be made by a specialist engaged by the state department of education. Dual routing, by which buses make two trips over each route, carrying younger pupils first and older one later, said to have been economical in other districts, will be studied.

Coon cites arguments in support of new levy

Why Plymouth school district is asking for a supplemental operation levy of five mills was amplified this week by Supt. Maynard J. Coon.

He submitted comparative tables showing salaries paid to teachers in the seven districts of the Richland county system.

Salary range for teachers holding the baccalaureate degree follows:

Lexington	$4,300-$5,300
Clear Fork	$4,000-$5,200
Springfield	$4,400-$7,400
Madison	$4,300-$6,100
Lucas	$4,300-$5,420

Union $4,200-$5,300
Plymouth $4,000-$5,200

A comparison of transportation costs in the seven districts showed Plymouth's cost per pupil transported, amounting to $31.66, is second low in the county.

'Back-the-levy' group organized by board

A 13-member citizens committee appointed by the Board of Education to assist in promoting support of the new five-mill operating levy met with the board in the high school last night.

Members are Mmes. R. Harold Mack, Robert A. McKown, Thomas Henry and Kenneth Echeberry, Plymouth; John Reynolds, Margaret Sloan, Thomas Kuffer and Robert Sutter, Shiloh; and J. David Cashman, James C. Harris, James Root and Vance C. Hoffman, Sr., Plymouth, and Robert Moser, Shiloh.

"Our school program is approaching the places where we have a school of which we can be proud," the board said in naming the committee. "This year . . . we inaugurated industrial arts, home economics and art on the junior level. We have our first qualified girls' physical education teacher who works on the high school, junior high and one day a week at the elementary level. In addition our first special education class was established this fall."

A Civil Defence Home Food Storage Program To Guide You!

Your Pantry Should Be Ready Remember grandma's pantry, its shelves loaded with food, ready for any emergency, whether it be unexpected company or roads blocked for days by a winter's storm? Today, when we are vulnerable as always to the ravages of nature as well as the possibility of nuclear attack, every wise and thinking family will likewise prepare for emergencies with the modern equivalent of grandma's pantry.

Your Reserve Food Supply Whether you take shelter or follow your local survival plan in an emergency, one of the basic preparations recommended is an adequate food supply for your family. You should have a 2-week food supply in your home shelter area, and a 3-day survival kit in your family automobile. The precaution might mean the difference between comfort and hardship — even between survival and starvation — in case of enemy attack or a natural disaster.

An emergency food storage could be the family's only available supply of food. Check "PANTRY" at least once a month, preferably more often, and rotate regularly. Bottled water be changed every 6 weeks.

MORE NATURAL GAS FOR YOUR FUTURE THAN BEFORE

The wiggly lines you see above are recordings of sound waves on an actual seismographic map used by geologists to probe rock formations located miles under the surface of the earth. The geologists are searching for—and finding—natural gas.

Drillers, working with charts prepared by the geologists, discover huge new supplies of gas in many sections of the country. Natural gas reserves in the United States are now at an all time high. At the end of 1960, the proved recoverable gas reserves in the nation amounted to 263 trillion cubic feet—or three times the reserves on hand 20 years ago.

Every year more gas is found than is used. Despite the tremendous increase in the use of gas, reserves continue to grow.

This is important to you. It means that there is gas for today—and for generations to come—to serve you as an efficient, dependable fuel in your home, and as a versatile fuel, tool, and chemical raw material at the place where you work.

Butler rallies to down Plymouth, 14 to 6, after first Red score by passing Butler's winless Bulldogs came from behind in the rain here Friday night to whip Plymouth, 14 to 6. The Big Red had no excuse. He was patently unable to cope with a short punt formation, banker right, with which Ron Thorne rolled up huge yardage around the left end of the Plymouth line.

Plymouth took a six-point lead in the second period when Jimmy Hamman luckily connected with glue-fingered Earlles in the Butler goal line. Butler punted out of bounds in the Plymouth 43. Gary Uss got a pair on a short buck and then clipped off 25 yards around right end. Hamman passed to Phil Fletcher for 22 yards to the Bulldog eight and on second down, hemmed in by defenders, he sought to dump the ball with a wild toss in the end zone. It wobbled in the wind and Hess leaped up from a mass of Bulldogs and snared it. He strode one step into pay dirt. Hamman's short pass for the PAT was blocked.

IT WAS A DIFFERENT Butler club that came back on the field after the half. Bob Young kicked off and the Bulldogs moved 40 yards in eight plays for the equalizer. A 35-yard runback of the kickoff set it up. Gerald Meeks was the wheelhorse. He squirmed over from the four for the TD. He fumbled the ball and Dick Wharton recovered. The referee didn't bother to rule.

It was sufficient that Butler had it. Meeks shot through tackle for the PAT.

Plymouth never thereafter got into Butler territory until the Bulldogs had their second score. This came after Hamman's pass on third down from the Red 24 was intercepted by Wharton, who carried in untouched for the TD. That the shot through guard was no good mattered little. Plymouth was dead.

Only 1:40 remained on the clock and the Big Red was unable to move save for a last ditch Hess-to-Hamman heave good for 21 yards to the Bulldog 40. Hamman lost it back on the next play when he was swamped while seeking to pass.

The Big Red was seeking to connect on a last-ditch effort to tie when the final gun sounded.

PLYMOUTH PLAYED creditably in the first half, outgained Butler and generally contained the Butler offense save for one occasion, when the Bulldogs ran out of punch on the Red 10-yard line. The first period was over and the second quarter more than half gone before either offense put the ball in play in Butler territory. At the first period's end, Butler was storming the Plymouth goal a second time. A 15-yard penalty for illegal use of hands, socked against Meeks, set the Bulldogs back. Butler has installed bleacher seats on the visitors' side of the field but the Butler crowd was certainly the most unruly and unsportsmanlike that Plymouth players, coaches and fans have encountered in a long time. Butler supporters remained close to the Plymouth bench and continually harassed and verbally assaulted the coach and players, despite the fact there were plenty of seats in the stands.

Some of the talk was obscene and much of it was directed at Plymouth's fine young coach, who certainly deserved better treatment than this miserable night.

THORNE WAS EVERY inch a big league football player. He runs well and does a smacking job on defense. Meeks is in the Meeks tradition of other brothers who played well for the Bulldogs.

Plymouth's defeat can be laid entirely to failure of the interior line. The left end tried manfully to turn the interference on the end sweeps from the short punt and flanker formation and did well most of the time. The tackles notably fell down on the job. The linebacking was no better than mediocre and the pass defense not too good.

Theory important to good record, Old Timer says of Plymouth football

What's matter with Plymouth football? Five straight defeats after a tie have the uptown quarterbacks talking.

Why it's any of their business, any more than that we've never had more than one pupil to place in the National Merit scholarship tests, is more than we can see. But because some of them wouldn't be happy if a Rockie were here coaching the mighty mastodons of the Midway as schoolboys on a long undefeated streak, it's worthwhile to postulate some of the reasons.

The first and foremost is that the boys simply do not know much about the theory of football. They have learned, or been taught, some tackling and some blocking, some running and some passing and some kicking. The emphasis upon the adjective in each case depends upon what you think of the level of the skill acquired. But few if any of them really understand the theory of the game.

The military has made a fantastic record of teaching rifle marksmanship to millions of men, among whom some who can neither read nor write it made that record by teaching theory first, and practice afterward. The soldier learns the nomenclature and the purpose of each gadget of his weapon and what happens when the rifle is fired.

When he reports to the rifle pits to shoot for score, he understands more or less what he's about and can be dealt with satisfactorily when he flinches at trigger pull, or something of the sort.

Big Red footballers simply do not know the theory of the game and accordingly make mistakes that cost them victories.

It's not possible for a coach to install a system, teach fundamentals to boys who ought already to know them and coach both an offense and a defense and teach game theory, too. There isn't time.

Football is no longer the crunch-crunch-and-bang exercise that it was 25 years ago. It requires a sound knowledge of theory and practice if the practitioner intends to win very often.

SUGGESTED REMEDY: don't excuse footballers from required physical education classes, teach theory of football during these classes (it won't hurt the non-footballers, because there is much in the theory that is important in life).

It's doubtful that the Big Red will do much during the rest of the season. Milan has had a fine record so far. Ridge-dale would be a world beater if it had a passer. Western Reserve and Belville apparently are too much for the Red this year.

What of next year? The whole backfield and the two ends will be back, for better or worse. The interior line will be gone, for the most part.

The interior line has been the weakest part of the Plymouth outfit this season. The coach is an interior lineman of the cut that he has to work with here — small, not too fast, having to make up in scrap what it lacks in size. His task is ready-made for him.

The guess here is that he can do it. But it'll take time and the uptown quarterbacks should keep quiet for a while.
