

On horses

It's every citizen's duty to apprise himself of the needs of the public school system and to support such requests of the school board as are justified.

A very considerable number of electors of the school district have expressed to us the general opinion that "the cost of the schools is getting out of hand — somewhere we've got to put a stop to it."

But these are the very same people who have at other times expressed to us their anxiety that such programs as instrumental music and band and athletics be expanded and that courses in which enrollment is relatively small, such as industrial arts and vocational agriculture, be continued.

The school administration has been at pains to spell out where — and how far — the tax money is going. It has given in detail the purposes to which the proposed additional tax will be applied.

It could hardly do less and it certainly can't very well do more. The elector must now examine the facts and choose his course.

While he is doing so, he must keep in mind some hard facts:

1. It takes more oats to feed 100 horses than to feed 50. It takes more stable space, more hostlers, more water, more pasture, more insurance, more everything. A bigger barn costs more to maintain and insure. And so it is with schools.

2. As the horse population increases, there's greater demand for trainers, who tend to accept the highest bid for their services. To remain a successful trainer, the horseman must raise his pay or accord him other benefits. And so it is with teachers.

3. Horses race for money, in many places, against many other horses, some better, some not so good. The best horses, with the soundest training, win most of the time. Good horses with sound training win much of the time. And so it is with boys and girls.

4. All of life is one big horse (we almost said rat) race. If your colt is well-trained, and he's got any stuff inside him, he'll win more often than he'll lose. Colts don't ask to be born. But they're born to race. And so it is with boys and girls.

The request of the school board must be examined in this light: are the young animals in training now getting enough oats, enough stable, enough pasture, enough water, enough trainers to win more races than they lose when they head for the Big Handicap

Decide that question and vote accordingly.

If you think the answer is "yes", vote No on the school levy. If you think the answer is "no", as we do, vote Yes.

Stilson's plan wins

The defending champion won the first round of Plymouth's sewer battle Thursday night.

After nearly three hours of sparring and some spectacular infighting, Alden E. Stilson, principal of the engineering firm bearing his name, succeeded in inducing village council to submit the soils data to the Department of Health for an advisory opinion.

The opinion will determine whether the oxidation lagoon system of treatment can be installed on the site selected, the 150-acre William Bittinger farm north of the village, in the fashion desired — two or three treatment lagoons spread over about 12 acres of land — and at the planned cost — somewhere under $125,000.

Solicitor Joseph F. Dush was instructed to forward the soils data, prepared by a separate engineering firm, to the Department of Health for the advisory opinion.

THIS MOVE CAME AFTER two members of the council left no doubt as to where they stand on the matter of continued retention of Stilson as consulting engineer. Councilman Donald E. Akers wants to fire Stilson at once. Councilman Charles Vansdale wants to keep him. The other four — Omar C. Burkett, John T. Dick, Elmer E. Markey and Donald H. Levering — will decide the matter in another session, probably Nov. 7.

Britt Young, Norwalk, attorney retained by the citizen's committee turned the session into a dramatic star chamber with a series of questions harrasing Stilson, who coolly fielded them with dignity.

Gist of Young's contention was that Stilson is not experienced in installation of sewer oxidation treatment lagoons. Such lagoons in the army but Stilson said he's installed such lagoons in the army, but never privately. He denied they are complicated, and he asked if anybody else has installed more than one.

This was a reference to the system at Deshler, installed by Carl H. Gerken, Napoleon, the engineer which the citizen's committee wants the council to engage. The Deshler system has not yet been accepted by the Department of Health.

AFTER STILSON LEFT, declaring he would not discuss the details of the system with Young because Young has no legal authority to discuss it, the council turned to the issue: to fire Stilson or to proceed with his plans.

Solicitor Dush told the council either engineer can install the system if plans are approved by the state. It is up to the council to decide which engineer to do the job.

Stilson had told the council he would probably ask for 75

Rhodes to speak at GOP banquet Monday evening

Annual banquet of Huron County McKinley Club will take place at Norwalk High school auditorium Monday at 6:30 p.m.

James A. Rhodes, auditor of Ohio, author and historian, will be principal speaker.

Banquet and membership tickets are available from the customary chairman and precinct committeemen in the county. Mrs. Arthur Herber, dinner committee, says Lutheran women who have prepared the banquet in past years will serve it again this year.

The selection of Rhodes as speaker is meeting with popular acclaim, the committee says. Some of the nation's greatest speakers have been on the McKinley club roster over its 52 years of annual observances, but Ohio speakers have always attracted the largest crowds.

Russell Antrim, Norwalk attorney currently serving as law director of Willard, is this year's president. John R. Gerken, Jr., is executive vice-president and Mrs. Helen Lippert is secretary-treasurer.

Wimmer to speak

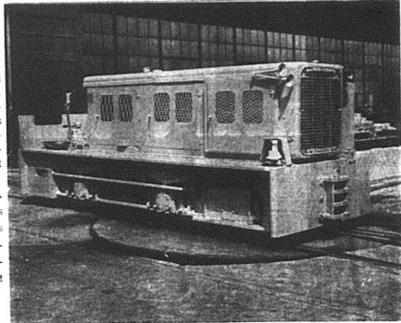

Ed Wimmer, vice-president of National Federation of Independent Business, will speak Monday at 6:15 p.m. before the Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting in First Presbyterian church.

Village scores first, aviatrix, that is!

Plymouth's first aviatrix soloed Sunday.

Mrs. R. Earl McQuate, whose husband has been a flier for a good many years, completed an instructional period and flew alone for the first time Sunday.

Optimal report situation calm, no strain for Mrs. McQuate; situation tense, sweat in palms and general discomfort, for Mr. McQuate, watching from the Willard airport.

Unit above is type going to smaller type now on rush order for contractor to Atomic Energy commission.

WCS to lay plans for election supper

Mrs. Jerome Waker and Mrs. C. R. Archer will conduct the program and worship service when WCS meets Wednesday night after church rehearsal in the Methodist church.

Final plans will be made for the election night supper, menu for which will be geese, broiled chicken, ham, escalloped potatoes, candied yams, corn, beans, salad, rolls, pie and coffee. Diners are requested to enter the south door for serving starting at 5 p.m.

Mrs. Fred Port and Mrs. James S. Clair comprise the refreshment committee for Wednesday's meeting.

Mrs. Postema head of turkey dinner

Mrs. Wilford Postema is project chairman of the Mothers' club and will supervise the annual turkey dinner at the school Nov. 18. Mrs. Kenneth Eichelberger, president, announces.

Chairmen of the committees are Mrs. Herman Goodky, cooking; Mrs. Max Fidler, clean-up; Mrs. Lowell Holdery, serving; Mrs. Richard Myers, waitresses; Mrs. Jerome Waker, desserts; Mrs. John Kleer, salads; and Mrs. William Clark, coffee.

Business improving, says F-R-H, with new orders

General economic upturn in capital goods procurement has reached Plymouth, officials of Fate-Root-Heath Co. said this week.

Plymouth Locomotive works a division of F-R-H, has received several orders for new locomotives. These include:

— Four Model CR 65-ton, 8-wheel diesel hydraulic locomotives to go to Monterrey, Mexico, on proceeds of a loan negotiated by the purchaser through the Export-Import Bank, a U. S. government agency in Washington chartered by the Congress to finance purchase of American-made capital goods. Orders for additional locomotives are pending the extension of the bank loan and the satisfactory performance of such locomotives as have been delivered.

— Eleven diesel hydraulic underground locomotives, by an independent contractor associated with the Atomic Energy commission.

— Carpenter Steel Co., a duplicate of a locomotive shipped previously.

— Armstrong Cork Co., a duplicate of a switching locomotive.

"Delivery of the units for the Atomic Energy Commission is most urgent," F-R-H officials said, "necessitating many hours of overtime in engineering and plant production. Other orders are anticipated from this contractor."

F-R-H is presently assembling one of its largest jay extrusion machines.

SIR: The board of education has found it necessary to ask for five additional mills for two years to operate our schools at Plymouth and Shiloh. Taxpayers ask, "Why do our schools cost so much?" and "What are we getting for our money?" The editor of The Advertiser has personally remarked to me that he thought people would be willing to vote additional funds when there is a corresponding improvement in instruction. Since there are many taxpayers who no longer have children in school and have become unable to take a close look at our instructional program, I would like to point to some of our improvements over the past few years.

1. We have established a guidance program in the high school to counsel with boys and girls in regard to an individualized high school education in accordance with recommendation of the State Department of Education and the James B. Conant study.

2. We have increased the amount of English composition work required in our high school English classes. Some of our graduates are qualifying for advanced English instruction when they enter college.

3. Special consideration has been made for the very slow readers in high school. One teacher has been working part time with these boys and girls for the past three years. This is in accord with the James B. Conant study.

4. The State Board of Education certificate has been offered to pupils who are academically talented and have completed the required subjects.

5. We have been offering two foreign languages and have finally reached the place where children are enrolling for three years in a single language.

6. The better students have been accelerated by the enrolling of ninth graders in biology and the enrolling of tenth graders in typing. Typing and health have also been taught in summer school.

7. Of the 21 recommendations of James B. Conant, Plymouth High school meets five of the standards in full, 10 in part and no progress has been made on six.

8. We have established our first special education class for children that don't learn as rapidly as the average.

9. A qualified physical education teacher has been employed to teach junior high and senior high girls, and a beginning has been made in teaching this subject in the elementary school. This is in accord with the recommendation of our last two presidents and the State Department of Education.

10. Art has been introduced on a voluntary basis in the junior high school.

11. Only eight of our 69 teachers have not returned to college for further training within the last five years.

12. When this district was consolidated only four faculty members had a master's degree. Today nine faculty members have a master's. A corresponding increase in college training has been made by other teachers.

We do not pretend that we have made all the progress possible, neither do we claim that we have now reached our goal. Just as medicine, engineering, theology and all systems of knowledge continue to make great strides forward, so does education experiment and improve. The board does not claim that this levy will allow us to expand our services or increase salaries, however, the voters will decide whether or not the improvements made over the past few years can be maintained or if they shall be lost for the sake of a few tax dollars. The cost of this levy will be less than the price of four cigarettes per day to the average home owner. I believe that our children are worth that much to all of us.

Sincerely,
M. J. Coon

Dismal day, dismal exhibition, dismal record --- aw, nuts!

Plymouth's Big Red put on a dismal exhibition on an equally dismal day Saturday and lost to Milan, 26 to 6, because it couldn't stop a passing game and the left end run.

Plymouth was a creditable ball club only for a portion of the second period, when it scored a touchdown after a 39-yard push climaxed by Jimmy Hamman's two-yard sneak into the end zone.

Milan opened the scoring on the very first play after the kickoff. Joe Bibb flipped a swing pass to Jim Ohlemacher, who romped 53 yards down the sideline for the score. The PAT try failed.

On the second play of the second period, on first down, John Fox swept around his left end for 65 yards and the second TD. The PAT try again failed.

A pass interference penalty giving the Big Red possession on the Milan 14 was the big gainer in the drive leading to Plymouth's only TD. (The Big Red had recovered a Milan fumble on the Indian 39. On third down, Hamman tried a heave to Hess. It was intercepted by Ohlemacher but a pass interference ruling awarded possession to Plymouth. Phil Fletcher and Roger McQuown collaborated in a push to the two, whence Hamman sneaked in.

IN THE NEXT SERIES, Milan had a score in three plays. Bob Young kicked off, to the Milan 27, whereupon on third down Bibb passed to Ohlemacher 65 yards and the third TD. Burdge bolted into paydirt for the PAT.

The fourth score came in the fourth period. Gary Utiss' punt from the end zone went out of bounds on the Plymouth 25. Milan had its TD in 11 plays, the last one a jump pass over the line that outfoxed the Red defense. It went from Bibb to Bill Dillender and was good for seven yards.

Once again it was the failure of the pass defense and the interior line to perform satisfactorily that led to the Plymouth defeat. Plymouth had as many opportunities as the opposition and the wet playing field handicapped the Red no more than the Indians.

Milan put the ball in play 51 times, Plymouth 63 times, counting kickoffs. So the Red cannot complain that it did not get its hands on the ball. Some of the trouble was that when it did so, it could not hang on to it.

At halftime there was some evidence that Milan could be beaten, and by Plymouth, this murky afternoon. Shortly after the second half started, it was clear this was not to be the case.

On the Sidelines
By THE OLD TIMER

Once a year it becomes necessary to instruct the misinformed and mis-guided soul who thinks that football may be well played in such states as Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, California, Washington, Oregon and Texas.

Friends, it simply isn't so. Football is well played in only seven states, viz., Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, and Ohio. Most especially in Michigan, Ohio and Iowa, but not necessarily in that order. More likely the reverse.

Western conference football is the best in America and the doubter need only to consult the records of last Saturday's affrays to be convinced.

Michigan State's Spartans proved the superiority of Western conference football by whipping Notre Dame, something it has done with monotonous regularity for the past decade. The record of Big Ten schools against non-conference foes this season is no worse than in previous ones; occasionally, the Big Ten club takes a beating. But only occasionally.

Which brings us to the question of which is the best team in the conference this year. Always a stupid assignment, because the several teams do not play each other, this season it's particularly asinine because of schedule arrangements. Michigan State plays a patsy state, with only Purdue of any moment in the remaining games. Ohio State must meet Iowa and Michigan, but has three sick sisters down for Saturday game parties.

Only Iowa has a schedule that's a real test. Think of it, Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota, Michigan and Notre Dame on successive Saturdays.

If the Hawkeyes get through them unscathed, who in his right mind can say they're not the best?

For the record, Iowa will whip Ohio State on Nov. 4 and will have its toughest outing with mighty Michigan on Nov. 18.

Bulldogs believed!

A quarter century ago, Miles Christian made believers of the Smithville, Tenn., High school eleven.

Playing for McMinnville's Bulldogs, Christian, "in the early part of the third quarter, after several exchanges of punts, caught a punt on Smithville's 43-yard line and twisted, turned, whirled and squirmed his way the entire distance across the goal line. This was the most beautiful run of the entire game. He had good interference, but the main reason he scored was that he kept digging until the end," reports the McMinnville journal in its "25 Years Ago" column of Oct. 16, 1936.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SIR:

As president of the Plymouth park board I would like to write an open letter pertaining to the Plymouth park. As you know, on Nov. 1 we are asking for a RENEWAL of the half mill levy that has been in effect the last two years, which is termed recreation levy on the ballot.

Believing as I do that a person's opinion on any one subject can be no better than the information that he has received, I will try to point out how the park is controlled and financed.

The park is controlled by a park board of three people, who are appointed by the mayor with the approval of the council. In the past a member of council was also a member, but by a ruling of the secretary of state they will no longer be allowed to serve on two boards at the same time. Park board members serve without any pay. Each member has given extra time and money to help the park. By giving money, I mean the expense of driving our cars after material and equipment that could not be purchased in town. All material and help are obtained in Plymouth whenever possible.

The park board meets on the second Tuesday of each month (March through October), at which time we make a personal inspection of the park before retiring to the clerk's office for our business meeting.

There are some who say that the park should be self supporting. I would like to point out how impossible that would be. If you would check the calendar, you would find that there are about 17 or 18 weeks at the most that the park is open which is suitable weather for good picnics. That means that we would have to take in about a $100 a week, as it takes from $1,700 to $1,800 a year to maintain the park, and this does not include any major improvements or repairs.

Everything in the park including the drive, which is four-tenths of a mile long, must be maintained and insured by the parkboard, except the football stadium and lights, which are kept up by the athletic association and Booster club. The Scout house is also maintained by the Scouts.

In the past, the park was financed by council out of the general fund plus the table reservation receipts. In recent years, they found it was impossible to give the park enough money to operate properly. Each year there was a steady decline in the equipment and appearance of the park. Since we are operating with the help of the tax levy, we have been able to buy better equipment and I am sure you will agree that the general appearance of the park is greatly improved. At the present, we are converting the tool shed into a modern rest room, thus doing away with the old-fashioned unsanitary and smelly toilets. We have already made the abandoned Girl Scout hut into a tool shed, which is larger than the old one.

We have been told by council that due to their ever-changing needs and especially since they are paying off the fire house with councilman bonds, they feel it will be impossible to help finance the care of the park. Without funds we would have no other alternative but to close the park. The best we can do on reservation of tables is from $400 to $500 a year, which is not adequate to operate the park. If we are forced to close the park it would mean that the local churches, Little League, Chamber of Commerce, Community Club, Masonic Lodge and Eastern Star, Golden Agers, Scouts and school would have to find some place out of town to hold their picnics.

Some people say that Plymouth is a backward community and really don't want to pay for community improvements, but I don't agree with that. I think if you can show the people that they are getting their money's worth they will support worth while projects. Yes, I think the people of Plymouth have enough personal pride about their community to support the RENEWAL of the half mill levy, thus making it possible to maintain this beautiful park.

Very truly yours,
Robert Lewis,

Silson's wishes get council approval per cent of the fees if his contract is terminated now. Gerken's offer is almost the same as Silston's contract. The difference in cost of engineering fees would come if Gerken decides that some of Silston's data needs to be prepared a second time.
