Training not adequate, GM man tells Chamber

Schools are not helping to prepare skilled labor for industry so well as they might, Gale King, training director of Fisher Body plant at Ontario, told Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

A former university instructor, Mr. King said he is now working with "the products of the school systems."

He implied that not all are satisfactory.

King said today's pupils are not studying enough mathematics to qualify for the skilled positions which industry has to offer. With current union contracts, he said, the high school graduate must have had algebra and plane geometry courses before he can be certified to an apprenticeship.

"We give 700 hours of training on the job," he said, "but we begin where the high school ends."

Marriage of 1856 proved by paper

A 104-year-old certificate of a marriage contracted and performed in Plymouth has been uncovered by William Noble, for nearly four decades a Cass township resident.

The certificate attests to the marriage of Nathaniel D. Finch and Mary A. Noble on June 15, 1856, by George N. H. Peters, Lutheran minister, in Plymouth, Richland county, Ohio.

Although punctured at the ends of folds, and slightly torn at the bottom, the certificate is clearly legible.

Safety valve let go, firemen called

Bursting of a safety valve on a hot water heater in the home of Michael Dick, 75 West Broadway, prompted his wife to call Plymouth Volunteer Fire department Monday at 2:23 p.m.

Two apparatuses responded to the general alarm, but no action by firemen was necessary, neighbors having discovered there was no fire, only clouds of vapor.

Local man indicted

Charles Bentley, Plymouth was indicted by a Richland county grand jury on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

His case is first on the docket.

Sourwine to serve term at hard labor

A 37-year-old former Plymouthite who returned here to pass checks with insufficient funds to cover them was sentenced to one to three years in the Ohio State Penitentiary Monday.

Paul Sourwine, Nova route 1, was ordered by Richland County Common Pleas Judge James J. Meyer to perform hard labor every other month for the first year of his term.

He was brought for sentence for violation of probation, upon which he was placed July 25 last for a three-year period.

season Wednesday at 6:15 p.m. with a family night dinner. First Lenten service will follow at 7:15 p.m.

The 45-minute Lenten services, informally arranged to present the core of the Presbyterian faith, will convene at 7:15 p.m. each Wednesday until the final week of Lent, Mar. 26-Apr. 1.

The average high school graduate with shop training can now find employment in a few small shops, but 10 years from now, he warned, these will no longer exist and the unskilled worker with little training will be "out."

Large industry today seeks an area in which to relocate on the basis of "brains" or skills whereas before World War II selection was based on building site and after World War II on availability of manpower.

King said more training is essential, although he warned that science and mathematics must not be allowed to dominate. "Our skilled workers of today and tomorrow must also know how to communicate with each other and present their ideas," he said, "we want warm, generous human beings."

During the business meeting President Harold Ross appointed the following committee heads: Fred Schneider, membership; Elton Robertson, retail promotion; Orville Gullett and E. B. Miller, civic promotion; Mrs. Ross, Welcome Wagon; the Plymouth Advertiser, housing; Donald E. Akers, professional services; R. Harold Mack, Donald Willett and chamber officers, industrial development.

Church women watch playlet for anniversary

Miss Florence Danner and Mrs. Charles H. Dick were narrators of a three act playlet depicting early history of First Presbyterian church before its Women's association Tuesday night.

Christiansen asks for views of voters at Shiloh Friday

His campaign promise to conduct meetings with his constituents in each township and municipality of Richland county will be carried out in Shiloh and Cass township tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. by Richard Christiansen, representative to the General Assembly.

All residents of Cass township and of the village of Shiloh are invited to the township hall in East Main street to hear Mr. Christiansen speak of matters of which the lower house is seized now and to present their views on these and other legislative problems until 9:30 p.m.

Three see OSU win

Ronald Hostler, L. J. Root and William Flaherty, Plymouth High school athletic coaches, attended the Ohio State-Indiana basketball game at St. John Arena, Columbus, Monday night.

The Robert Schrecks of New Washington were Sunday guests of Mrs. Arline Schreck.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whatman are observing their 51st wedding anniversary today.

New Haven demurs on offer of $800 base fire contract

Renewal of a fire protection contract with New Haven township, at a base rate exactly double that presently charged, was offered by village council Tuesday night.

Township trustees emphatically said they think the offer is too high, declined to make a counter offer, and withdrew from negotiating with a promise they will return Feb. 21 to discuss it once again.

Current two-year contract expires Mar. 1. It calls for base pay of $400 annually for two fires and a rate of $150 a fire thereafter. Mayor William Fazio told trustees. Waite Noble and William Link, the village will require $800 annually for the first two fires and $150 a fire thereafter.

Link said he wishes Plymouth to "show a little community spirit" and cited the village of Loudonville having contracted with Hanover township for $100 annually.

Fazio did not close the door on further negotiation and did not insist the village will not depart from the quoted figure.

Attorney for Dr. George B. Sackel Swarthmore, Pa., farm agent for Mrs. William Bittinger, told the mayor by telephone from Georgia Tuesday that he will seek to obtain the physician's permission to survey the land in Route 61 within 10 days. His failure to obtain permission, the mayor said, will prompt the institution of condemnation proceedings, although the village would prefer to acquire the land by direct negotiation. The land is sought as a site for sewer lagoons.

EARL C. CASHMAN, PRESIDENT OF PEOPLES NATIONAL BANK, asked for approval to place a platform measuring 12 ft. 6 ins. east-and-west by 5 ft. north-and-south in the sidewalk of West Broadway as a ramp for a walk-up teller's window in the remodeling of the bank.

After consultation with his solicitor, the council seemed united that it will not approve the request, since it had turned down a similar appeal from another businessman about a year ago. The argument is that such a platform will constitute a hazard to the public. If a survey shows the land to be occupied is not outside the bank's lot lines, the council would have no jurisdiction and could prevent nothing. Cashman was promised a final answer in "a few days."

Special sessions will be called Feb. 14 and 16 for the purpose of discussing in detail the entire fiscal picture of the village with the Board of Public Affairs.

Tactical control of the sanitary sewer system has been handed to the board, which has agreed to execute purchase orders for materials and labor to repair sewers. But until the new sewers are installed, administrative and strategic control will remain with the council.

Board members attended the session Tuesday but gave no indication of how they feel on the council's recommendation that all water and sewer bills be drawn directly to property owners, bypassing renters. This is a revolutionary technique, necessitating a completely new bookkeeping procedure, and probably causing a universal raise in rents.

PURCHASE OF A TRUCK CHASSIS FOR $350 and a 1,025-gallon tank mounted upon it, for use as a water carrier in the fire department, was approved. Fire Chief Judson A. Morrison told the council and New Haven's trustees that when the equipment is placed in operation, fire insurance rates in the township will fall in Class A.

Hugh M. Washburn, restaurateur in West Broadway, complained of faulty sewer connections and said he can see no wisdom in reversing sewer flow in his basement, as suggested by the council, unless there is assurance the new connection will function. He was told a study will be made and a response to his complaint given Feb. 21.

Warned by the solicitor of pitfalls in proper notification of offenders, council approved an emergency ordinance providing for removal of cars from the Public Square in event of heavy snow. Fine of $1 to $25 plus costs was provided for.

Legislation providing for issuance of $150,000 in general obligation bonds for sewer construction was approved.

Permit to dump raw sewage into the Huron river has been renewed, to expire Dec. 15. Renewal is subject to three conditions, but the old ones have been changed. Village is required to bring its plans and specifications up to date, to organize its financing, and to undertake the project in order to qualify for renewal.

BOARD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS REPORTED loss of 100,000 gallons of water during January, but no lowering in level of the wells. A water meter froze in the Rhine armory in Sandusky street, resulting in rupture of water service and loss by leakage.

RAYMOND RIEDLINGERS will continue to occupy farmstead but big farm will be converted to sod growing operation. It's largest farm in New Haven township, was once base point for efforts to tame the muck.

Riedlingers sell 573-acre farm to sod firm

Biggest real estate transaction in New Haven township in several years was recorded this week when Raymond J. Riedlinger sold the 573-acre farm in the southwest corner of the township to Nursery Lawn Co. of Ohio.

The place, known as the old Heisler farm, lies at the intersection of Base Line road and Route 298. It was the home site of the old Pittsburgh Development Co. which sought to make from land from the muck area about 45 years ago. Only 80 acres of the farm is in muck, however.

The property will be converted to a vast sod growing enterprise, which will produce quality grass sod for sale and installation on such as golf links, athletic fields, school lawns and the like.

The Riedlingers will continue to occupy the homestead in the southwest corner of the tract. Mr. Riedlinger will manage the operation.

The Riedlingers will sell their farming equipment and machinery at public auction Feb. 25.

Win over Bulldogs clinches 3rd crown

Jerry Daron's 20-point performance led Plymouth's Big Red to a 57 to 49 victory over Butler here Friday night.

It was the 11th straight without defeat in RCL play for Plymouth, which has won 14 and lost only three.

Butler kept it close for three periods before Plymouth broke it open in the final canto. The Bulldogs outscored the winners in the first period, 13 to 7, and were down only three points at the half, 29 to 26.

It was Daron's biggest night. Ray Lynch and Jesse Hamman had 12 apiece for the Big Red. Jim Russell was held to six. Al Morton had 15 to lead the Bulldogs.

Jim Russell was socked with four personals early in the game and rode the bench for most of the last half.

Plymouth's shooting record from the floor was only 30.3 per cent. It bagged only 20 of 63 tries. Butler's record was 31.1 per cent, with 17 of 47 tries.

The Big Red's free throw record was slightly over 70 percent, with 17 of 24 converted. Butler's was less good with 15 of 23 for 53.5 per cent.

On the Sidelines

By THE OLD TIMER

A 10-game slate is in the cards for Plymouth High's 19-61 baseball squad, Coach Bill Flaherty said Monday, "but it is still indefinite until we get some word on the final two games."

Material is a bit thin, the veteran coach confesses. Dayton Reed can be a hard-throwing pitcher and may get some help from Jesse Hamman and Earl Hess, Flaherty allows.

Willie Mc Goosey, which isn't his name, is a well-knit, compact, energetic young high school lad of the 10th grade. He is heavy enough to play substitute on the varsity football team. He shoots fairly well at basketball, dribbles well, is sufficiently intelligent quite muscular coordination three times running, has adept to make the same mistake to swim, dance, play baseball, do family chores.

But since Willie is only five feet seven inches tall, he can't make the high school basketball team.

In his place Tom Whistle which isn't his name, who's split clear up to here, has long legs, big hands, doesn't pitch very well, can't dribble for sour apples, has big feet over which he stumbles more often than not.

But Tom gets a suit, and the coach's attention, because he is six feet two inches tall and likely to grow.

How demoralizing it must be for Willie, who's penalized because he happened to choose (what choice, indeed, was there?) the wrong ancestors. A coach who can keep a boy like interested is little short of a genius.

And how defeating it must be of the basic concept of American education—that those who apply themselves will win out in the long run.

What's wrong with round-ball sport that a return to the old rules won't cure? Not restoration of the center jump after scoring, certainly not that.

But restitution of the old Pat Kennedy system of refereeing, when contact of any kind was a foul, when a defensive player stood half a chance of blocking a shot because offensive charging used to be a foul, will bring basketball back to what it ought to be, so far as schoolboy athletics are concerned: a game for all boys, of all ages, sizes and shapes, if they can learn its fundamentals and put them into effect on the floor.

And if you doubt it, then explain why the biggest popular weekly has just paid a man $3,500 to write a piece about importance of rebounding and how the game has been turned over to goony birds.

Washington Report

BY REP. JOHN ASHBROOK
17th District

I have a great concern about the conciliatory tone which the new administration is taking towards Russia.

We have seen definite signs that the government is embarking on a policy of soft pedaling criticism of the Communists. We all know that the Communists are masters at intrigue and the release of the RB-47 fliers is but one step in their game to move this country into the spirit of Yalta, Teheran and Potsdam.

We all sincerely trust that our president will use the utmost judgement and discretion in dealing with these ruthless enemies. It would seem to me that he has made a questionable start by gagging the American fliers who returned.

Even more unbelievable is the expression by the White House that while they have nothing especially surprising to say, the decision to prevent their public statements is made in "the best interests" of U.S. Soviet relations. What relations? Does anybody think that the Russians will reform? Are we starting a "be-kind-to-Russians" year?

The most dangerous policy we can have, as I see it, is to think that we can peacefully coexist with the Russians and that they will change. They are intent on destroying us and their actions always betray their words. No words are strong enough to describe the oppression and tyranny they represent. They are thieves and murderers and how we can espouse conciliatory remarks about the Reds, the conclusion is that our policy must be directed at their eventual destruction is incredible.

Even more significant than the gagging of the fliers is the censoring of the esteemed career military leader, Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations. Last week the Admiral had some hard words to say about the Russians so he was censored by the White House and forced to delete critical remarks about the Reds.

The Admiral has often made known his distrust of the Russians. The public should be allowed to hear the words of wisdom of our military experts but this evidently is not consistent with the new peace offensive.

Strangely, at the same time CBS-TV announced the cancellation of a documented Soviet espionage story, "The Spy Next Door," with no overt explanation. Possibly it is wrong for us to do any truth-telling while the Communists are using lies and deceit about us. (Ed. Note: CBS announced later it will present the program next week.)

Completely unconnected with these events but one more straw on the camel's back is the drive by Rep. James Roosevelt (D., Calif.) and others to abolish the House Un-American Activities committee. It seems folly to think this would be advised at a time that Communist subversion in the United States is still going strong. I oppose very vigorously this effort on the part of a few liberals.

I have obtained a copy of the film, "Operation Abolition," which is a commentary on Un-American Activities Committee hearings. I will be glad to make arrangements for its showing to any civic or patriotic groups.

One of the Kennedy promises during the campaign was a vow that he would pierce the veil of government secrecy which he charged to the Eisenhower administration. Most members of Congress look at the plight of the fliers and Admiral Burke as a strange way to implement these promises.

However, I feel that while there may be no conscious effort to do this, the new administration has adopted a policy which may in the long run lead to more secrecy and less freedom of information. President Kennedy is a man who knows what he wants and has positive ideas about how things should be done. It was no secret that during the Eisenhower administration, on occasion, there were conflicting statements from different agencies. Mr. Kennedy wants none of this and thus the "clear it with the White House" approach.

In a way this is proper, for they are in his administration and he is embarrassed if they make a boner. However, the overall result may be that people in government who should speak will not, either because it must first be cleared or for fear it might not be what the White House wants to be said.

We may thus have far less information about our government than the President would really intend.

Suzie sez

I swear if Pop keeps at it long enough, he may convince me that snow is bad.

Every time I see it snowing, I remark to him that it's beautiful. God must be very kind to us to let us see the lovely snowflakes and the earth carpeted in white.

Pop disagrees with me. He tells me to think of the poor people who have no shoes or coats. And Sunday he showed me a piece in the paper that New York City has had to spend $15 million to remove snow so far this winter. This winter. This was $13 million more than they planned on. "Think," Pop says, "How many schools could be operated on that much money."

Old Spoilsport! But I can see that if our school had $13 million, we would have a lot better school.

So maybe he is right.

I EXPECT I AM ENTITLED to the rank of the most selfish girl in town this week. Tuesday was Mom's birthday. We all gave her a present. Mine was the money to take a course in learning how to make a suit. For whom? For me, natch.

Only she will probably make one for herself first. It's just as well: let her make the mistakes on HER material, not mine.

POP IS THE MOST EMBARRASSED man in town. Saturday he saw a lady going across the street. He went to her and put his arm around her and said something like "Hello, honey, how are you?"

He thought it was somebody he knows, because from where he stood it looked like her. Her hair, her coat, the color of her car and such made him think it was she. But it wasn't.

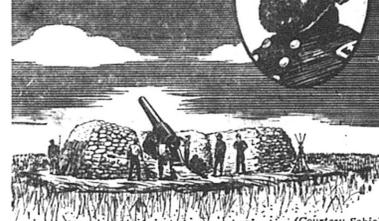

He doesn't blush much, but when he does, wowie!

And when the phone rang at five minutes before midnight Saturday night, he was scared to pick it up.

OHIO in the CIVIL WAR

Maj. Gen. Quincy A. Gilmore
Swamp Angel

(Courtesy Sohio)

Major General Quincy Gilmore of Black River, Ohio, now Lorain, is probably best known for his use of the "Swamp Angel," a big long-range gun in the siege of Charleston, S.C. in the summer of 1863.

In 1849, General Gilmore graduated at the head of his class at West Point.

As chief engineer of Gen. Sherman's expeditionary corps at Savannah, he achieved distinction as a military thinker when he boldly discarded the traditions of attack upon fortified places, and planting his breaching batteries at distances never before undertaken, in less than two days of bombardment, captured Fort Pulaski, Ga. This accomplishment is said to have revolutionized the naval gunnery of the world and extended General Gilmore's fame throughout Europe as well as America.

The "Swamp Angel" at Charleston was fired 36 times and blew up on its final discharge. This famous cannon was later salvaged and sent to Trenton, N.J. with other damaged guns to be melted. It was identified and set up on a monument in Trenton.

The U.S. Savings Bonds that send you money Twice a Year

Owners of the H Series of U.S. Savings Bonds receive interest money every six months by Treasury Check. This is why people who want to invest for regular extra income buy H Bonds (just as people saving for a specific goal buy E Bonds that pay all the interest to maturity).

More facts about H Bonds: * You buy them at full face value. * H Bonds earn at an average rate of 3 1/2% over the 10 year maturity period. * Your money is guaranteed safe by the U.S. Government. * You can get your money back if ever you need to, anytime after the first six months, on one month's notice. * If your H Bonds are lost or destroyed, they will be replaced free. * You save more than money.

(Note to owners of E Bonds: You can trade E Bonds, matured or not, for H Bonds, and postpone paying income tax on the accumulated interest. If you're retired, or about to retire, this may be for you.)

Thursday nights saved for churches, Coon says

Churches should reserve Thursday night for their functions if they wish to avoid conflict with public school activities, Supt. Maynard J. Coon announced last week.

"It is impossible to please everyone," Coon said, "but the schools are going to try to keep Thursday nights available for church work. School events will not normally be scheduled on Thursday evenings."

Attendance for Plymouth district was off during the third six-week grading period, Coon said. Overall, attendance figure was 84.4 per cent. In Shiloh, where influenza, measles and chicken pox afflicted pupils, the figure was 82.8 per cent.

Enrollment increased by nine pupils -- three in Plymouth Elementary, six in Shiloh Elementary, one each in the junior high school and the high school -- to 1,200, Coon reported.

Twenty-seven children moved into the district, 18 moved out of it. First four grades of Shiloh Elementary school may occupy the new building there about March 1, Coon said.

Greenwich seeks new industry

Efforts by Greenwich Commercial association to lure a Yellow Springs has received publicity will be launched Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

John A. Wallace, president of Willard United bank, will tell the association how Willard went about obtaining new industry.

Details of the available site in Greenwich, recently vacated by LeRoI division of Westinghouse Corp., are being prepared for study by prospective industries.

Yellow Springs has received a $125,089.33 federal government grant-in-aid for its $416,964.46 sanitary sewage project.

Willard merchants contributed $733 for Christmas decorations in 1960, as compared with $815 in 1959. Disbursements in 1960 were $886, in 1959 $652. Balance is therefore $40.

Band Mothers ask for consensus on new suit matter

Plymouth Band Mothers will meet Thursday at 7 p. m. in the high school.

All mothers are urged to attend this meeting by the president, Mrs. J. Harris Postema.

"We want to talk about the possibility of purchasing new uniforms," she said this week. "Uniforms now being worn are ten years old and some need replacing badly. It will be an expensive undertaking and we need cooperation."

White-on-green automobile and truck license tags for 1961 will go on sale here at 8 a. m. Mar. 1, Mrs. Royal W. Eckstein, Sr., deputy registrar, announces.

Fee of $10 for the tags, 35 cents for the registrar, and the title of the vehicle are required to support application for 1961 tags, she says.

Persons wishing to retain present tag numbers may file their applications after Feb. 20 together with fees and titles. All tags will be issued from Eckstein's Hardware, 14 West Broadway.

New license tags ready; sale to commence Mar. 1

Mrs. Eckstein will issue tags numbered XJ 50 through XJ 1200, a total of 1,150 sets, and thereafter issue tags whose letter prefix is XX.

Library board to meet

The 24-year-old soldier, son of Don G. Echelbarger, Plymouth route 1, is a 1954 graduate of Plymouth High school.
