

Budget rigging won't obscure painful tax facts

Lawyers of experience in divorce, separate maintenance and separation litigation are well aware that husbands are not always wholly at fault, indeed in some instances are blameless. Yet they more often than not lose any sympathy for husbands when they ascend, if that is the right verb, to the bench.

This mystery of life is no more puzzlesome to us than the legislator of experience at the lower levels, bred and weaned upon the doctrine of fiscal responsibility, who forsakes fiscal responsibility at the federal level.

The 88th Congress will be asked by the administration to do just this, in spades.

Mr. Kennedy and his advisers in Washington have been making a pitch for what they call a "capital" budget. This is supposed to make a distinction between current outlay and "investment" for long-term purposes, such as dams and post offices.

As it stands now, we have a sort of "cash" budget, save that Mr. Kennedy and his advisers key the theories of John Maynard Keynes, the British economist, and call it an "administrative" budget. The present budget understates federal spending by about 30 per cent. It does not include social security and other trust funds.

Look at the budget now and you'll see that funds which are supposed to be held in trust are called "revenues". It's implied they are available to be spent for any purpose.

Were we to adopt Mr. Kennedy's "capital" budget, we'd soon see some arbitrary decisions on what is to be called a productive investment. Some outrageous boondoggles, such as some so-called "flood control programs" we're thinking of, have been described thus.

Mr. Keynes first advanced the theory that deficit spending should be the rule during a business recession. In practice, this is a fraud. The Keynesians never produce in good times the surpluses that they promise to offset these deficits.

So what Mr. Kennedy really wants is a means of minimizing the deficit he will court by his proposal for a tax cut.

Mr. Kennedy is under heavy pressure to attack unemployment and "get America moving again" by leaving some extra billions in the pockets of consumers. But there isn't any parallel pressure to cut the spending in the "public sector" by the government. Why not?

The Democrats — or the Republicans, for that matter — can juggle the figures any way they like, and they probably will, despite this admonition. But the effect of deficit financing on our balance of payments problem, and the effect of deficit financing on inflationary trends, won't be changed thereby.

What the president ought to do, in our book, is to learn quickly to live with the criticism of those who don't like prudent financing. He should limit his tax reductions to a cut in the corporate rate until he is ready to make expenditures equal revenues.

A five per cent decrease in corporate taxes will make available the kind of money that is invested in job-producing enterprise. Some parlor-pinks and labor leaders will squawk to beat the devil, but Mr. Kennedy has enough ability and experience to cool them off.

Because — and mark this well — another colossal deficit on top of the $7.8 billion now projected for 1963, and the country could be in serious difficulties.

Junior high Bible study dropped

Bible classes will continue in the two elementary schools in Plymouth local district, the Board of Education ruled Nov. 21.

Over 50 per cent of parents approved their children attending classes. The approvals are Plymouth Elementary and Shiloh Elementary, first grade, 80 and 79 per cent; second grade, 62 and 88 per cent; third grade, 77 and 82 per cent; fourth grade, 73 and 88 per cent; fifth grade, 67 and 73 per cent; sixth grade, 55 and 75 per cent.

Only 40 per cent of parents approved the classes for the seventh grade and four per cent for the eighth grade.

The board immediately granted the request of the Northern Richland County council for Religious Education to conduct special classes for junior high pupils after school in both Plymouth and Shiloh buildings. These classes will be conducted in Plymouth on Fridays and in Shiloh on Mondays or Tuesdays.

Money troubles again plagued the board. Another loan may have to be negotiated to cover December payrolls. Bills have already been tabled from October and the clerk is only paying the necessary November bills.

Proceeds of the 3.1 mill levy will not be received until next summer, Mrs. Kenneth Myers, clerk, reported to the board. Huron county property taxes usually arrive in April, but Richland county money's come in June. An advance may be requested after the tax books are closed.

The new bus has arrived and is already in use. Board member Donald Dawson pointed out the bus does not have power steering and is very difficult to handle. The cost to install power steering will be about $200 plus labor. No decision was taken with the hope that steering will become easier as the bus is used.

Supt. C. Fred Ströminger told the board there are policies he thinks should be instituted.

"If these things are written down in black and white, it will be easier to run our schools," he said.

These include policies on purchases and salaries for school employees. "It will give you more time at your meetings to discuss education," he said.

The board agreed the policies are essential and he was given authority to prepare a policy on purchasing for its approval.

A teacher committee has been formed to propose a new schedule of teacher salaries. The last raise in teachers' salary schedule was in 1960-1. This put the district below the whole state average of $5,706 and below the average of local school districts of $5,160. The average salary here is $4,507. Only three teachers in the district are receiving the state average, which includes increments for extra-curricular activities.

Yule trees, lights mark Xmas push

There're only 26 days until Christmas.

The Public Square got on the band wagon Monday when two trees donated by Carl Jacobs, 57 Mill street, were erected by village employees at either side of Route 61.

The east tree measures 31 feet, the west tree only 27 feet.

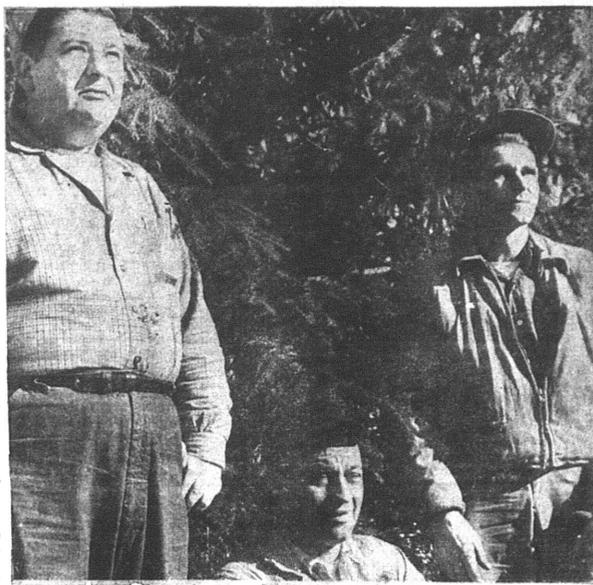

Lights on these trees and clusters decorating each municipal service pole were bought and paid for by business houses around the Square and a few others off the Square.

They'll remain there until Jan. 3.

Christmas shopping hours for the majority of business, as around the Square will begin Dec. 17.

From that date through Dec. 22, most stores will be open daily until 9 p.m.

All stores will close at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 24, to permit employees to observe Christmas eve with their families.

Mrs. Biddinger escapes injury in one-car wreck

The wife of Plymouth's cemetery sexton narrowly escaped death shortly before 8 a.m. Nov. 21 when she lost control of her sedan in Bowman Street road about four miles south of here and overturned in a field.

Mrs. Marie Biddinger sought to overtake a cattle truck driven by Albert L. Chandler, Plymouth, when she lost control. The car was all but demolished. It came to rest on its top in a field.

Airman injured on hunting trip; shot in left foot

An 18-year-old airman home on leave for Thanksgiving was seriously injured in a hunting accident here Nov. 21.

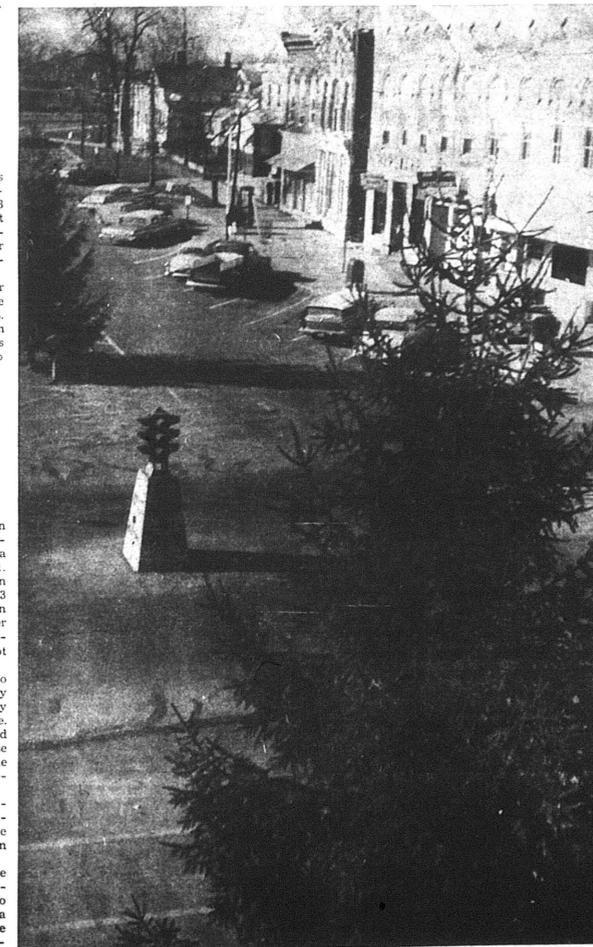

Airman Richard Lewis, son of the Robert Lewises, 173 Sandusky street, slid down an embankment near the water works and accidentally discharged his weapon. Shot penetrated his left foot.

He was rushed at once to Shelby Memorial hospital by ambulance, where surgery sought to save the great toe. After surgery he was removed to Lockbourne Air Force base hospital, Columbus, where he will be treated until he recovers.

Young Lewis was accompanied by a high school classmate, Steven Miller, on the hunting expedition. Miller ran for help.

The victim was to have driven in the family car to Alliance during the afternoon to call for his sister, Nancy, a student in Mt. Union college also coming home for the holidays. He was to have departed by air from Cleveland Friday for his new assignment in Montana, having completed basic training in Texas.

Loudonville rebuilding, underdog tomorrow

Loudonville's Redbirds open the 1962-63 cage season here tomorrow night, a six-point underdog.

Coach Jack Augenstein is in a rebuilding year, having only two lettermen back from his 1960-61 squad which won nine and lost six.

They are Les Steele and Jim Arnholt, both crack footballers. Steele, at 5-11, got 148 points last season.

The Redbirds have some height. Three players on the travelling roster are over six feet — Darrell Moherman, a senior, at 6-1; Conway Dudge, a junior, at 6-1, and Larry Kline, also a junior, at 6-2. Phil Kegg, a senior, measures an even six feet.

COACH RON HOSTLER will start the same five who showed so well at New Washington Tuesday night — four seniors and a junior. They are Jim Hamman, Dave Myers, Allen Arnold, Tommy Bard and Phil Fletcher.

If the Big Red can open up the score somewhat by the middle of the third period, look for Hostler to send some second line players to the floor to build confidence and experience. Bob Young, Girard Cashman and Earl Hess are the first three likely to get the call.

This is a Johnny Appleseed conference contest. Reserve game begins at 7 p.m., varsity game at 8 p.m.

Union improving, Lucas wins pair in early play

Union began to show last week the form that experts predicted in advance of the season and won two ball games.

Lucas continued to show more skill than the experts were willing to allow in pre-season guessing and won two.

Union downed Lexington, 61 to 52, after trailing at half-time, 27 to 17, with a 44-point second half.

The next night Union evened its 1962 record by two wins and two losses by wallopping Mapleton, 67 to 46. Mapleton holds a one-point decision over Lucas.

Dave Groff scored 19 against Lexington and 17 against Mapleton. Dennis Stima is beginning to play better ball for Union and his ability to keep the Warriors from becoming nettled is credited by the coach for the better record.

Mapleton downed Lucas, 71 to 70, mostly because the Cubs had their youngsters and most inexperienced bears on the floor in the second half. Reason? Too many fouls. Bill Hardin of Lucas dumped in 29 points, matched by Terry Kiplinger of Mapleton.

The next night Lucas walloped Butler, 62 to 43, winning handily and outscoring the Bulldogs save in the second period. Joe Huffman came into his own as a point-scorer with 18. Sheidler had 17. Dave Meeks canned 12 and Ken Swank 11 for the Bulldogs, who were playing their first game.

O. T. wins support to give game back

The observation here a couple of weeks ago that college and schoolboy football ought to be given back to the players has been endorsed by a good many fans.

Consensus of their views: eliminate the wild card substitution rule.

For what? Wholesale substitution by unit each time possession is obtained and single substitution when, in the judgment of the referee, an injury warrants.

What will this do? Make amateur football more ethical, place more emphasis upon sound coaching and drill on the practice field, give the intelligent player a better break, give just as many players an opportunity to play, put the game back where it belongs — with the players. And just incidentally tend to develop responsibility under pressure among players, which is the whole reason for the game, anyway.

But don't look for it to happen. The coaching fraternity wants no part of a rule change which will diminish the likelihood of victory by sideline coaching.

OHIO IS WIDELY REGARDED, and properly so, as the best schoolboy football state in the nation.

But Iowa has some claim to fame this season. Both Iowa schools licked Ohio entries this season. Iowa walloped Ohio State, 28 to 14, with no Ohio players on its squad save for a second-stringer who did little play out of the state. They should understand that many players living in Illinois are closer to the Hawkeye campus at Iowa City than to the state university at Champaign. Boys will be boys. They like to play close to home. Also, Iowa has for 40 years, ever since the immortal Fred (Duke) Slater player tackle for Howard Jones' undefeated champions at Iowa City, been a special place for Negro lettermen among whom through the years have been Ozzie Simmons, Jim Walker, Homer Harris, Calvin Jones, Eddie Vincent, Wilburn Hollis and Larry Ferguson, all of them out-of-staters.

H. Brad Miller succumbs at 84; Wilson sisters in poor health

H. Brad Miller, 84, for many years village clerk and clerk of the board of public affairs at Shiloh, died in Shelby Memorial hospital Thursday.

He was in failing health for some time.

A plumber by trade, he is survived by his wife, Bessie; a daughter, Mrs. J. J. Cihla, Shiloh, and two sisters, Mrs. Earl White and Miss Grace Miller, both of Shiloh.

Last rites were conducted Saturday afternoon from McQuate Funeral home, Shiloh. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery there.

Mrs. Margaret Quinn, nee "Peg" Wilson, Mansfield, is a patient in People's hospital there after two strokes.

Her sister, nee Mae Wilson, is Mrs. Lloyd Cleland, Shelby. She recently underwent major surgery. Her husband, a bed patient for about seven years, had to be taken to the hospital for care during her confinement there.

Two members of the American Legion auxiliary directed the junior auxiliary's remembrance of the shut-ins at Thanksgiving, a continuation of a program launched by the former leader, Mrs. H. R. Nesbitt.

They purchased, prepared and sent out 20 boxes of fruit to shut-ins and older citizens.

Paul Kranz and George Miller are delegates to represent Richland county lamb and wool producers who are members of the Ohio Wool Growers association at the state organization's 46th annual meeting in Columbus Saturday.

At their Nov. 20 meeting American Legion Auxiliary voted to have a $1 gift exchange at the meeting Dec. 18. The Christmas will again help Garrett-First Post with its annual Christmas treat for children.

The unit welcomed two new members, Miss Caroline Noble and Mrs. Guy Dunn, Plymouth route 1, who is now residing in the Chatfield house west of Shiloh.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Kirby Nesbitt, who presented the Misses Nancy Dawson and Janice Porter in several vocal duets.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Doris Garrett at the piano. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard Harnly.

Village council voted to join the Richland County civil defense program.

Alvin Garrett was named chief defense director for the village.

Village in financial squeeze

Two fresh demands on moneys in the general fund occupied village council Nov. 27.

Village Clerk Carl V. Ellis was authorized to disburse from the general fund sufficient moneys to meet redemption of some councilman's bonds falling due on Dec. 1 and interest for six months on the entire issue due on the same date. He reported a balance of $2,959.89 in the bond retirement fund, whereas about $4,680 will be needed. Ellis will draw upon the general fund only if these moneys should be needed and he was instructed to approach the Richland county auditor to ascertain if a belated tax payment will not be due to the village before Dec. 1.

Red loses opener to Buckeye Central

The third period sent Buckeye Central into the lead at New Washington Tuesday night and the Bucks never relinquished it, despite a fire engine finish.

Plymouth's Big Red was defeated, 58 to 56.

Handicapped somewhat by injuries to two key players, Plymouth started off slowly and never really reached a satisfactory level of achievement. In the first period, the Big Red scored 58 points each time it advanced the ball (10 points in 17 advances) and improved this figure to 106 (17 points in 16 advances) in the second period.

But the Bucks put up a terrific — at this stage of the season, anyway — performance of 21 points in 16 advances for 1.31 in the third period and this was enough, despite a strong Plymouth effort in the final quarter.

Plymouth was outreached about 60 per cent of the time, although Dave Myers did a masterful job of the boards. The ragged passing and faulty floor play usual in a season's opener were manifest in this one.

The Bucks have two crack-erjack outside shooters and a racehorse floor game. It's no wonder they've won four.

eight per cent deduction for retirement.

Councilman Donald E. Akers inquired if there are not "hidden costs," such as supplemental police help to cover regular officers are off duty or unable to perform duty.

The police department will present at the next meeting, Dec. 4, a table showing average annual expenditures for supplemental police help over a period of two years and average annual revenue from fines and court costs over a period of five years.

Consensus of the council during this session was that present fiscal situation of the village prohibits engaging a second full-time officer.

Mayor William Fazio admitted he desires to improve his public image and asked for the council's opinions of a Christmas pay increase for village employees and resumption of the practice of giving a free Christmas electric bill to all paid-up consumers.

All employees of the village received raises in pay or were allowed fringe benefits such as sick leave or vacation pay during 1962, the council ruled, and no Christmas increase is in order. A Christmas "bonus" is, as such, illegal under Ohio law, it was pointed out.

"If the electric department is making too much money, it should reduce the rates," was how Councilman Willard W. White expressed the consensus of the council on the proposal to give free electric billings to paid-up consumers.

Specifications for a new backhoe-scoop rig must not be drawn so that only one bidder can qualify, Mayor Fazio warned. The clerk was instructed to warn the board of public affairs.

How he voted in the 87th Congress, the longest session of the national legislature in peacetime history, is reported this week by Rep. Charles A. Mosher, Oberlin Republican recently elected to a second term from the 13th district.

Of 124 roll call votes, Mosher was present and voted on 123 of them. Of the 169 calls for a quorum, he was present on 160.

Assigned to the Committee on Science and Astronautics, he was the junior GOP member. Reelection improves his seniority and he will step up two places on this committee.

HE VOTED FOR THE Manpower Development and Training act, by which the federal government provides funds to re-educate persons thrown out of work by automation or regional economic stress; the bill to establish a satellite communications system by private investment under government supervision, to expand the Peace Corps, the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, the Foreign Assistance Act of 1962, the Federal Air Highway Act of 1962, the new postage rates and new wage levels for civil service employees, the Sugar Act amendments, the Export Control Act of 1962, tax credit for self-employed persons who establish personal pension plans, and the resolution calling upon the president to take a strong stand on the Cuban situation.

MOSHER VOTED AGAINST increasing the limit of the national debt, withholding tax from interest earned on savings accounts and dividends, the president's order creating an Urban Affairs department at cabinet level, the Freeman farm programs, appropriation of $1.6 million for a peanut research laboratory, an against bills which would allow discharge of government and some industrial employees security reasons without their having an opportunity to face their accusers, know the evidence against them.

Martha Curren wed to Garald Wright

Miss Martha Louise Curren became the bride of Garald Edward Wright, Willard in an afternoon ceremony in the Church of God there Nov. 17.

The Rev. T. L. Williams, pastor of the church, read the double ring service. Before the ceremony, Judy Williams sang several solos, accompanied by organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a white satin gown of ballerina-length with bell-shaped skirt fashioned with motifs of lace appliques. The bodice was cut with a boat neckline and appliqued with tiny seed pearls. Three-quarter-length sleeves extended to points midway down the arms. A fingertip velvied edged with patterned lace fell from a small pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white caryleas and lillies-of-the-valley with trailing ivy on a white Bible.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Carol Wright, was her maid of honor. She wore a short emerald green gown fashioned with bell-shaped skirt of satin and simple bodice of matching velvet, cut with boat neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. She wore a green velvet rose with a short circular veil. Her bouquet was an arrangement of yellow and bronze pom poms.

Arthur Kennard was best man. Ushers were Norman Stephens, Willard, and William Swartz, Shelby.

The bride's mother chose an afternoon dress of white and gold with black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations with gold. The bridegroom's mother wore navy and white. She also wore a corsage of white carnations with pink ribbon.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in Willard Grange hall. The bride's three sisters, Mrs. Richard Bastien, Milan; Mrs. William Swartz, Shelby, an Mrs. Raymond Jansinski, Mansfield, assisted the guests. The latter registered guests.

The new Mrs. Wright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Curren, Shelby route 3. She is a 1962 grauate of Plymouth High school employed by the Pioneer Rubber Co.

Mr. Wright is the son of Mrs. Mary Wright, Willard. He is employed by Midwest Industries there.

The young couple will live at 9 1/2 Hayes street, Willard.
