

Speak now

Although we opposed the candidacy of John F. Kennedy as president, like all good Americans we swallowed our partisan feelings to join with him to cope with our national and international problems.

We've even been known to say nice things about him. Politically, that is, for he's always been a charming and wholesome character personally.

His proposal to organize a Department of Urban Affairs at the cabinet level drew fire from this sector some weeks ago. We opposed this action, and were happy to note a majority of the House did likewise. What we did not say, but felt strongly, was that Mr. Kennedy deliberately precipitated the discussion before its time not because he believes so much in the need for such a department as that he wished to make political hay over the fact that Robert Weaver is a Negro. Shrewd politician that he is, as all the Kennedys are, he realized that Negro voters everywhere would construe disapproval of the Urban Affairs issue as a vote against Negroes. It isn't so, and Mr. Kennedy's conduct was simply unprincipled in this matter.

The president promises to address the nation soon to carry his fight for medical care for the aged to the people.

We oppose the plan advanced by Mr. Kennedy. It's too little, doesn't meet the needs of the people it's designed to protect, it's unfair (why should the participant in social security pay for the care of persons who won't affiliate with the system?) and discriminatory and unreasonably expensive for what it purports to accomplish.

Those who oppose, as we do, socialized medicine shouldn't be duped into support of the president's program out of fear that a bad potato is better than a barrel of bad potatoes.

Now is the time to express to your Congressmen how you feel in the matter. Ohio's Senators are Frank J. Lausche and Stephen M. Young, Senate Office Bldg., Washington 25, D. C. Representatives to be addressed are Charles A. Mosher, Jackson S. Betts and John M. Ashbrook, House Office Bldg., Washington 25, D. C.

Huron county to re-appraise

Huron county has been directed to make a complete re-appraisal of all real and public utility property as soon as possible, Auditor Bernard F. Kean reports.

Law requires a re-appraisal every six years. Huron county has not been able to comply because of lack of funds, appraisal costs having been greatly increased since the last re-appraisal.

Since 1958, when the legislature passed the fee bill, one half of the county auditors' fees become a part of a real estate assessment fund for appraisal purposes.

Sufficient funds will have accumulated in this fund to finance the re-appraisal before its completion. Through this method all levels of local government help finance appraisal costs, whereas previously the county government assumed the full cost.

Heretofore, the county commissioners were required to make the appropriation for the re-appraisal. Now the complete responsibility lies with the county auditor. Since December he has been interviewing representatives of several appraisal companies, studying written proposals and bids.

The purpose of re-appraisal every six years is to equalize valuations. Homes, buildings and farms depreciate in value for several reasons - deterioration and change of use in some instances - and appreciate in value by reason of improvements. Valuation is one of the important factors in taxation. (The other factor is the tax rate, which is determined by electors.)

What is the interest of the state in county valuations and what is the authority of the State to direct counties to make a re-appraisal? In Ohio many taxes are levied by the state and paid to the lower levels of government, thus representing an assistance to local government. For example, Huron county schools through the foundation fund received $1,116,973 and other levels of local government received $224,996 in the last fiscal year from the state.

Forfeiting these funds through lack of compliance would require voting several additional mills to replace these amounts.

Six PHS grads won letter in college play

What's the history of Plymouth High school athletic competition at the interscholastic level?

When did PHS field its first team? In what sport? How many players have been awarded monograms? What're the recurus of the Pilgrim-cum-Warriors-cum Big Red aggregations?

How many PHS graduates have played organized athletics after high school?

Who are they and where'd they play?

THE QUESTIONS ARE considerably easier to pose than the answers are to give. Diligent, sometimes painful, research has thrown some light on the matter. Doubtless, some heat will be generated as well, although it's not the intention to do so.

The first and last questions are the easiest to answer.

Plymouth High school athletics were first conducted under auspices of the state athletic association or its predecessor in 1922. The sport was basketball.

Only six graduates have participated in college sports — Ray Hatch and Larry Root at Ashland college, Bob and Larry Schreck at Bowling Green State university, Jimmy Russell at Capital university and Dayton Reed at Bluffton college.

Hatch won his A on the hill at Ashland in football and baseball. He was a tackle and third baseman. Root earned his A at Ashland on the diamond, as a left-handed first baseman.

Bob and Larry Schreck were footballers under Doyt Perry at BGSU, although neither graduated. Larry played varsity ball as a freshman and won a letter as a defensive half back. Perry thought highly of him and planned big things for Larry in his next season. But he dropped out to be married and move out of the state.

Russell, a 1960 graduate, one of the top all-around athletes at PHS, played some varsity football at Capital. His high school teammate, Reed, won spurs as a sub quarterback for Bluffton's Beavers.

From time to time, The Advertiser will present feature articles about each player. Their authenticity will be checked with the subjects thereof. Fans having knowledge of other facts are invited to send them to the sports department.

WHY HAVEN'T MORE athletes participated in organized sports beyond the high school level? An estimated 645 players have been awarded letters at PHS (some of them are obviously the same boy — i. e., one boy won more than one letter) since athletics began.

Prior to 1935, the chief sport locally was baseball — at the high school level in the fall, mostly, although some spring ball was played, and at the sandlot level. Basketball was an organized winter sport, but it had less hold on boys and fans than is the case now.

And, as everybody knows, prior to 1935 not very many boys locally went on to college. Those who went weren't athletically inclined, for the most part, although some found it impossible to maintain scholastic and fiscal solvency together with an athletic activity.

Basketball took strong hold about 1935. Football — the big league type, anyway — didn't get started until after World War II. While some graduates obviously might have been capable of playing college ball, the fact remains they didn't try. Either they didn't go to college or they didn't try to play college ball.

Partisans of these players may argue they COULD have, the point is they didn't.

eight major events on the Aug. 27-30 racing program, 124 have been named for the Ohio State Trot. Last year, 445 were named for the eight major offerings with 104 listed for the two-year-old trot.

There are increased nominations for the Maturity Trot, an event inaugurated last year for four and five-year-olds named in previous years for one of the colts features. A total of 18 is listed as compared to 12 a year ago.

Features of the Fair racing program will be the Ohio State Trot and Buckeye State Pace, each for two-year-olds, and the classics for three-year-olds — the Director of Agriculture Pace and the traditional Governor's Cup

O. T. says Spartans can do it!

For a buck, you just can't hardly beat the show that Ohio high schools put on in tournament play.

You just can't hardly beat it at any price.

After watching Mansfield St. Peter's wallop Norwalk (and the feeling is that the Spartans could down the Truikers 34 times out of 35 tries) the O. T. thinks the Richland county standard bearers can make the trip to Columbus.

Whether Coach Bob Frye's outfit can win the Class AA championship is, of course, another matter. On reputation, East Tech of Cleveland ought to be favored.

For several weeks, the O. T. has been getting reports, most of which he accepted as true, that Spartan followers leave much to be desired in the field of sportsmanship. An absolutely trustworthy source (he'd better be, he eats at the O. T.'s table) said the conduct of St. Peter's fans at Crestline was so abominable that police had to be called to quell an uprising.

There was no evidence of this at Marion Friday night, but we hear there was some on Saturday.

This sort of thing is strictly bush and ill becomes any school or the town it represents. If the Spartans intend to carry on in the tournament, hoping to emerge as champions, they'll need the support that champions are entitled to have. Not, we hasten to add, the kind of support their fans have been giving them so far.

Thinking to ram this home to a Spartan follower, the

O. T. remarked he'd rather his boy be defeated with honor than win with dishonor, specifically referring to the unmerciful riding of officials and opponents which has too often characterized St. Peter's contests. The answer: "What's-a-matter with you, you nuts or somethin'? Hell, we gotta win!"

Prediction: St. Peter's will be among the fast four at Columbus, but won't be the last one. It'll serve 'em right.

Suzie sez:

Everybody in our house is happy when Mom has a "hen" party.

Pop and Chip get to go to a basketball game (or some other kind of thing, in season) and the dog gets a bath and the cats get combed. Now that I am old enough to sit with babies (male, mostly, but not more than 48 months old; I am not like the politician who said he liked to kiss girl babies of 200 months!) I can get out of the house and Mom helps her figure by running up and down stairs with wraps without anybody in the family to supervise, criticize or otherwise.

Also, she makes too many things to eat. When we all get home, we have a field day eating what's left, which is usually good, plentiful and encouraged. By Mom, that is, because she hates to see things go to waste (and to waste, too, especially Pop's).

POP KEEPS SAYING THE power of the press is a great thing. Chip didn't believe it until they went to Marion for the basketball tournament last week. They didn't have any tickets and when they got there at 6:15 the parking lot was crowded, there were long lines of people waiting to get in, and the signs in the doors said "sold out". Chip was discouraged. He was sure they wouldn't get in. They couldn't find any tickets. Finally, one man offered a student's ticket and Pop bought it for Chip. He said if worse came to worse, he would sit in the car and listen to the radio while Chip watched.

After a few minutes, a man whom Pop had never seen in his life came up to him and said, "Are you Mr. Paddock from the Plymouth newspaper?" Pop said he was. "Do you want a ticket?" Pop said he did. "Will you pay a dollar for it?" Pop handed him the dollar. They were in, as Chip says, like Flynn.

And they got dandy seats, right in the middle of the court. Chip was bug-eyed about it. But Pop said it was only more proof of the power of the press.

L. Edward Taylor weds Mansfielder

L. Edward Taylor took Miss Marilyn DeLee Jones as his bride in a double ring ceremony Friday night in Grace Brethren church, Mansfield.

They exchanged vows before the Rev. R. Paul Miller, Jr. Two candelabra on each side of a floral arbor lighted the chancel. Baskets of pink and white spring flowers decorated the altar.

Miss Janet Frank, organist, accompanied Miss Leslie McGinty, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full-skirted gown of white peau de soie fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice and a bateau neckline with long pointed sleeves. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of pearls. Her bridal bouquet of white roses cascaded from a white Bible, the gift of the bridegroom.

MISS KAY LYNN JONES, her sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Anita, and Mrs. James Brundage, Winona Lake, Ind. Cheryl Lehnhart was the flower girl.

They wore short gowns of pink nylon over taffeta with wide skirts, scooped necklines and three quarter sleeves and small pink bows across their heads. They carried bouquets of sweetheart roses with pink and white carnations. The flower girl carried a small flower basket.

James C. Root was best man. Ushers were James Lee, Lodi; Lawrence Miley, Galion, Michael Mecurio, Jr., Mansfield, and James Brundage and Robert McConkie, Belleville.

The bride's mother wore a light blue sheath with navy and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige sheath with a small-toned matching hat. Both wore corsages of white roses.

Pink and white was carried out in the church rooms, where a reception followed. A seven-tiered cake decorated in white with pink rosebuds, baked by the bride's mother, centered the table. Mrs. James Rod, Miss Phyllis Meyer, Mrs. Roger Burkhardt and Mrs. Leonard Brundage assisted the guests. Mrs. Luther Gibbs served the cake and Mrs. John Ehrmantraut registered guests.

The new Mrs. Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Jones of Mansfield. He is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Taylor. They will make their home in Mansfield.
